REPUBLICAN PROSPECTS.

Morally Degraded and Unworthy [illegible] Support.

There are still some republicans living who remember the great days of their party—the days when hosts of public-spirited and sincere men left the ranks of the whigs and of the democrats to found a new organization devoted to high moral and political aims, under the leadership of statesmen of eminent character, commanding ability, and the courage of sincere convictions. The contrast between the spirit and condition of the republican party in those days and its present plight calls forth melancholy reflections. The time for its national convention is approaching. The original anti-slavery mission of the republican party has long been fulfilled, and new problems of great importance are pressing for solution. The republican party still pretends that it contains in its ranks the best of popular intelligence and virtue. It claims public confidence and support on the ground that by this superior intelligence and virtue it is best fitted to solve the great problems before us. What these problems are every candid observer knows. The business community of the country admits that the tariff is no longer one of them. While some selfish interests still clamor for higher protection, the business world at large is known to be on the whole satisfied, for the time being at least, with the tariff as it stands, and wishes it substantially to be let alone. This is so true that even many of the old protectionists hesitate to touch it. They are well aware that what prevents the revival of prosperity is not the low tariff, but the currency disorder. The questions really and urgently demanding the attention of the country are those of the currency, and of administrative reform by the abolition of the spoils system.

If the republican party were still what it once was, its leading men would recognize it as their obvious duty to come forward and boldly to express their sincere convictions on these subjects. They would seek by every legitimate means to summon to action and to organize the supporters of these opinions within their party, to the end of securing from the national convention a clear and strong approval of them, and the nomination of candidates known to be in accord with them. The convention would thus become, as the early republican conventions were, a truly representative body of honest citizens intent upon serving the public interest by making certain policies prevail through party effort. What do we behold? A large number of the leading men of the republican party, among them some of the most powerful, are open advocates of the spoils system with all its demoralizing effects, and even of those who occasionally express their disapproval of it, and have a good word for reform, but few are courageous enough to advocate reform with aggressive emphasis. In fact, in most states the regular organization of the republican party is resting upon the spoils principle and held together by spoils methods. And there is no prominent republican leader, at least no prospective candidate for the presidency, who openly demands that fidelity to civil service reform be made one of the cardinal tests of republicanism. Almost all of them are willing to let the "boys" understand that if the republicans win, the loaves and fishes of party spoil will go to them as much as possible in the old fashion.

Never since the close of the civil war has the republican party had a finer opportunity to render great service to the American people by taking in hand the problems of the day honestly and fearlessly. Never has it had a better chance to win the support of those citizens whose political action is determined rather by their sense of public duty than by party spirit. But never has it appeared in so repulsive a state of moral degradation and so unworthy of that support. Some time ago it seemed impossible that the republican party should be defeated in the coming presidential election. It seems impossible no longer.—Leslie's Weekly.

The Country Is Safe.

The Wilson law in its first calendar year therefore yielded a customs revenue only $8,829,410.26 less than the McKinley law in its last calendar year (1893). As, however, in 1893 the McKinley customs tariff depleted the treasury $9,735,130.83 for bounties to the sugar planters, the net revenue from it was not quite as large as that from the Wilson law in 1895. But, apart from this lost consideration, it seems well nigh certain that if there had been no tariff change and the McKinley law had been in force during the period when the great agricultural and commercial depression was most pronounced, it would have yielded less customs revenue than the Wilson law did. The country need not grieve over the defeat of the Dingley bill, designed to revive in part the McKinley tariff duties. With industry, patience and the blessing of better harvests this year the revenue of the people will increase, and, proportionately, the revenue of the government.—N. Y. Herald.

Backbones in Demand.

Just how much backbone a president ought to have is a timely subject for discussion. The chief objection urged against Cleveland is that his backbone is too stiff and that he has too much of it. Cullom says Allison would make a good president if he had more backbone. Perhaps Cullom is preparing to spring an X-ray surprise. If the Cullom photograph shows a backbone as well developed as the envy in his interview, the Illinois candidate will be a palpable availability.—St. Louis Republic.

——Senator Cullom has given notice that he is the poor man's candidate for president. He says that he has no property except his residence and no income except that which he receives as senator. On the other hand, McKinley has all the money that he can use, obtained by "frying the fat" out of the protected manufacturers, and is buying delegates in Illinois. From the stories told by the republican politicians about each other it is evident that this is the most corrupt and scandalous campaign of that party since it had an existence.—Chicago Chronicle.

——It must cost a great deal of money to conduct the campaign the McKinleyites are making for the Ohio Napoleon. Who is furnishing it? It is a well-known fact that McKinley is a [illegible]. The men or interests that [illegible] the cash must expect to [illegible] success of McKinley. [illegible] State [illegible]

THE DEFICIENCY.

[illegible] According to Republican Campaign Methods.

It is an excellent indication of how nearly the republicans are out of campaign material that they harp daily on the deficiency of revenue caused by the Wilson tariff act. They never mention the fact that $30,000,000 of the revenue which that law was expected to produce was cut off in consequence of a sudden change of opinion by a republican judge of the supreme court, causing that tribunal to decide, in effect, that Chief Justices Marshall, Taney, Chase, Waite and their associates did not understand the constitution of the United States.

But the republicans are guilty of another instance of suppressing the truth that is equally reprehensible. They overstate the deficit for eight months, and say that at that rate the deficiency for the year will be $30,000,000. They might as well say it will be $50,000,000, for nearly the whole deficit occurred in the first four months of the fiscal year. In November, December, January and February receipts fell below expenditures only a little more than $1,000,000. The situation is thus set forth in the New York Journal of Commerce, one of the highest authorities in financial matters:

"The fact that there was an excess in the receipts over the expenditures of the government of $127,846 for the month of February is merely another proof of what has been frequently pointed out in these columns, that under existing law the treasury can get revenue enough to meet all its current expenses. The deficit on the eight months of the current year ending February 29 was $18,558,537; on the 31st of January it was $18,853,367; on November 30 it was $17,612,540, and on October 31 $17,199,089. In point of fact, for the last four months, or the second half of the current fiscal year, the government has been paying its way. For, it must be remembered that the increase of the deficit in January was due solely to the heavy interest payments at the beginning of the year—a charge which will not recur in any such amount till July, and which, therefore, should be distributed, in its relation to the deficit, over the six months of the fiscal year. The fact that the deficit was reduced in the 24 business days of February affords a very fair guarantee that it will be further reduced during the 26 business days of March."

As to the surplus in the treasury, the debt statement issued by the treasury puts the net cash balance on the last day of February at $162,707,006.65. Of the money in the treasury on that day $106,222,443 were in United States notes (greenbacks), and $30,664,730 were in treasury notes of 1890—both legal tenders. The present surplus in the treasury would cover the deficiency of revenue on the average of the last three months for something like 175 years. In other words, if the deficit should continue at the same rate that it went on during the winter of 1895-6, we should need new taxes about the year 2041.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

M'KINLEY AND THE BOSSES.

Platt, Quay and Reed Plotting Against the Ohio Man.

The indications are unmistakable that a large majority of the republicans of the west and south strongly favor the nomination of McKinley. Even in this state it will require all the power of the Platt machine and of the governor's patronage to prevent the election of McKinley delegates in some of the strongest republican districts. An attempt by Platt to throw the New York delegation as a unit against McKinley, with Gov. Morton out of the race, would surely be futile. The Ohio leader represents as nobody else does the policy of high protection, which is the republican party's pivotal principle for the coming campaign.

Yet it is equally obvious that the most powerful bosses in the party are against McKinley. They dislike him only less than they did Harrison. Platt in New York, Quay in Pennsylvania, Reed and his managers in New England and other of the most skillful politicians will defeat him if they can. It is for this purpose that they have instigated or encouraged the candidacy of various "favorite sons," hoping to make the field against McKinley so large that it can be combined to beat him.

It is not likely that they will succeed. The bosses very rarely control national conventions. They were against Cleveland in 1884 and in 1892, and yet he was nominated. They were against Harrison four years ago, and yet he prevailed. The republican sentiment in favor of McKinley bids fair to be irresistible.—N. Y. World.

POINTS AND OPINIONS.

——This favorite son-shine business may turn out to be only moonshine.—Chicago Times-Herald.

——The republican booms are all beginning to show signs of weariness, Tom Reed's isn't as big as a scab potato.—Atlanta Constitution.

——The Tom Reed presidential boom has finally reached the lithographic stage. This will doubtless spur the McKinley boom on to the poster fad.—N. Y. Journal.

——If Mr. Cullom's boom does not get off the Illinois track the managers of the McKinley boom are not going to be responsible for any collisions that may take place.—Chicago Record.

——If a man takes half your property, that's robbery; but if he takes only a third of your property, that's legitimate. Strange doctrine, but it is the republican doctrine as declared by a formally called senate caucus.—Albany Argus.

——Republican jingoes are in a bad plight. A war scare will make Cleveland president again, and to stop blustering would be to crucify what has become second nature to them. Verily, they are between the devil and the deep sea.—Troy Press.

——Harrisonians are trying to sidetrack the McKinley boom in Indiana. There is in this a slight hint that the ex-president would rush to the rescue of the country should a bugle blast come from St. Louis at the critical moment.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

——The republican silver senators are making extensive preparations for [illegible] ing placated at St. Louis. The [illegible] tion they are now performing [illegible] end in view is technically known [illegible] western politics as "[illegible]ting their hind legs out of the traces."—N. Y. W[illegible]

——McKinley's [illegible] concentra[illegible] forces so long before the decisive [illegible] is to be fought places [illegible] at a disadvantage, for all his rivals in the field have a chance [illegible] strength, decide u[illegible] and arrange to [illegible] and if such tactics [illegible] his defeat.—[illegible]

Notice is hereby given that their will be a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of Boone County, at 2 o'clock, p. m., on the 1st Monday in April, 1896. This meeting is called for the purpose of determining whether or not a primary for the nomination of Democratic candidates for county offices, shall be held on the day of the Presidential election in November, 1896.

D. E. CASTLEMAN Chairman.
B. L. Rice, Secretary.

WATCH the RECORDER next week.

THE Legislature passed a compulsory educational law.

MAJOR MCKINLEY'S monometallism speeches and the Ohio platform have a very discordant ring.

THE river men fear a flood along the upper Ohio. The conditions are decidedly favorable for a big river.

REPRESENTATIVE POOR has kept both parties guessing whose cellar door he would slide down next time.

TEXAS will have an exposition at Dallas in 1897 to celebrate the semi centennial of its annexation by the United States.

MR. WHITNEY is one of the few prominent politicians in this country, who does not care to be nominated for President.

A GREAT many big drunks were destroyed by the burning of a large whisky house and its contents in Cincinnati, one day last week.

FORAKER, Bushnell, Grosvenor and Hanna were selected delegates-at-large to the St. Louis convention by the Ohio Republican convention.

IN so far as legislation is concerned the General Assembly that adjourned yesterday is entitled to more credit for what it did not do than for what it accomplished.

THE Ohio Republicans have declared in favor of a double standard, with an attempt to so word the declaration as to satisfy all shades of opinion on the money question.

SENATOR QUAY'S managers claim that McKinley has already begun the fat frying, and that they have invaded Quay's State for the purpose of squeezing the large manufacturers.

THE Cuban matter was given a black eye in the Senate Wednesday. Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, is making a hard fight against the resolution to recognize the Cubans as belligerants.

THE finance plank in the Ohio platform is proving a source of much amusement for Mr. Reed's friends. They claim that their candidate is not afraid to define his position on the money question so it can be understood.

THE Republicans are beginning to wrangle over the financial question, and the single gold standard members of the party are displeased with the Ohio expression on that subject. The Ohio idea is not popular outside of Ohio.

DR. HUNTER is attending to his business in Washington just as though he had never been a candidate for United States Senator. He says he left the field without any heart-burnings, a statement that is taken with many grains of doubt.

SENATOR BRONSTON, of Lexington, is acquainted with all the parliamentary short-cuts, and was the superior of any parliamentarian among his opponents. The only objection that can be urged against him as a leader, is his temper, which he is some times unable to control.

IT is claimed that Major McKinley wrote the financial plank in the Ohio platform adopted last week. If this claim be true it is evident he considers the money question one that would better be evaded as long as possible by both platforms and candidates.

CONGRESS and the Kentucky legislature have each distinguished itself by the very small amount of business dispatched this winter; and it is very questionable if the people have any cause of complaint against either. This country has been the victim of too much legislation in the past.

EX-GOVERNOR KELLOGG, of Louisiana, is indignant over the charge that those opposed to McKinley in that State, had used money in promoting the opposition. He says he holds himself ready to prove that money had been used to push the McKinley boom along in Louisiana.

OF all the legislatures that ever meet in Kentucky, the one that adjourned yesterday was the most sensational. Those in session during the civil war were not a circumstance to the 1896 body of lawmakers, and had not the sixty day limit compelled it to put up its shutters, it might have proven the germ out of which an internicine war may have grown.

IN the event that McKinley controls the St. Louis convention, and everything points that way now, the platform adopted by the Ohio Republican State convention, last week, will differ very little from that which will be adopted at St. Louis, and it is clear only [illegible]. It was the tariff law that [illegible] prohibited. On the money question you [illegible] not interpret [illegible]

[illegible] that Gov. [illegible] was [illegible] selling out [illegible]

[illegible] question. It is the same old straddle dressed in a little different phraseology that party has been palming off on the people for some time. But is there any certainty that the Democrats will do any better. Some of the leaders in both parties declare in favor of a single gold standard, but when it comes to making a platform their language become ambiguous and it is impossible to give it an intelligent interpretation.

THE Louisville Commercial, a Republican paper that is so strong in its advocacy of a single gold standard as to make it cranky on the subject, is not pleased with the Ohio platform. It says:

"The Ohio platform on the currency question is not satisfactory to the friends of sound money. It can be interpreted by sound money men to mean free silver. That is not the kind of a platform on which the Republican candidate for the Presidency should go before the people and we are sure that the Ohio politicians made a great mistake in regard to the temper of the people, and the trend of public opinion when they adopted such a platform on the money question as they did."

THE Ohio Republicans, in State convention assembled, gave Major McKinley an enthusiastic endorsement for the Presidency, and then made a very skillful straddle on the money question. Here is the platform on that: "We contend for honest money; for a currency of gold, silver and paper with which to measure our exchanges that shall be as sound as the Government and as untarnished as its honor; and to that end we favor bimetallism, and demand the use of both gold and silver as standard money, either in accordance with a ratio to be fixed by an international agreement, if that can be obtained, or under such restrictions and such provisions to be determined by legislation as will secure the maintenance of the parity of values of the two metals, so that the purchasing and debt-paying power of the dollar, whether of silver, gold or paper, shall be at all times equal."

The above platform is, if anything more of a cut-and-cover declaration than that of the last Republican state convention held in Kentucky. The Kentucky Republicans declared as follows: "We are opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver, believing that it would involve the country in financial ruin. We believe in sound currency, and in the use of both gold and silver for coinage, provided always, that a dollar in one is precisely as valuable as a dollar in the other."

STATE NEWS.

Henderson will have an electric light plant at a cost of $31,000.

Elmer Smith, aged 71, and his grand daughter, aged 9 years, were baptized in Greenup county last week.

J. H. Hawkins, of Flemings, died from wounds inflicted by a burglar who attempted to enter his store, while he was guarding it.

At Lexington, Mrs. Mary Roth has sued her husband, Fred Roth, for $5,000 and a divorce because he charged her with being insane.

In Christian county J. A. Kent's house and $500 in money was destroyed by fire. He was afraid to trust the banks with his money.

Corn in farmers' hands amounts to 49.8 per cent. of total crop or 1,072,000,000 bushels. Wheat in farmers hands 26.8 per cent., or 123,000,000 bushels.

In Ohio county the barn of E. R. Williams together with 6 horses 2 mules, 13 sheep, 800 bushels of corn, lot of hay and farming implements, was burnt.

At Harrodsburg saloon license was raised from $500 to $1,000. It is made a $20 fine for any person to eat anything or pick his teeth in any restaurant connected with a saloon on Sunday.

Lexington parties who lost about $100,000 by the failure of a bank in Kansas City in which they had stock, have received a call to pay up 16 per cent. of their stock to meet the claims of depositors.

Elder L. H. Stine, pastor of the Christian church at Georgetown, and one of the best-known ministers in the State, is having trouble with his congregation. Last Sunday he preached a sermon that made some of his members open their eyes very wide. The Georgetown Times tells about it as follows: "Thursday the official board of the church served notice on Mr. Stine that they desired him to discontinue his services as pastor. Sunday morning Mr. Stine, having previously announced by handbills that business of supreme importance would come up made his morning sermon one of self-defense. He struck squarely out from the shoulder and did not mind words. He said in the beginning that he stood before his congregation, 450 strong, his foemen. He claims to have been misrepresented. Said he was accused of calling Prof. Lovewell (the organist) on his own responsibility, when he was called simply on his recommendation; it was said that he had appointed the committee to purchase the carpet, when he had known nothing about it. It had been said he preached over people's heads. He wished to say a few things and see if they could understand [illegible]. He said in substance that many [illegible] he had stood before them [illegible] under their scourges, his soul tortured, lips pallid with [illegible] head to foot [illegible]. He did not propose [illegible] back [illegible] but will [illegible] out the [illegible]. He said that during the building of the new church he had [illegible] burd[illegible] ed [illegible] and [illegible] congregation was [illegible] and his wife. [illegible] was a [illegible] ny [illegible] rs [illegible] two [illegible] congregation [illegible] would then [illegible] to [illegible] new business [illegible] the congregation, and the last [illegible] would doubtless be the best.' The News says that Mr. Stine also took occasion to say that before leaving he would like to collect the $550 the church owed him for past services.

Later—Peace has been patched up, temporarily at least, between Elder L. H. Stine and the congregation. Both sides have materially calmed down and it is possible that Mr. Stine may not be called on to give up his pastorate.

OUR NEIGHBORS

OWEN COUNTY
[News]

The grand jury returned 49 indictments during their sitting, three of which were for perjury.

Quite a number of our farmer friends say their peaches are safe, and if no colder freezes come peaches will be plentiful.

The speaking in the Massie case consumed two days. The attorneys on both side making good arguments. The speech of Commonwealth Attorney Gray, being especially a strong one. His conduct of the case was masterly, and deserving, and it may be said of him justly, that he is one of the strongest prosecutors in the State of Kentucky, barring no one.

After the result of the verdict in the Massie case last Saturday the defendant's attorneys went to Frankfort, as many conjectured for the purpose of trying to obtain a pardon for Massie. Mr. Settle is quoted by one of the Louisville papers as saying while there that they have sufficient grounds to reverse the present verdict.

CARROLL COUNTY
[News]

Carrollton's spring boom has already commenced.

The total receipts from Commissioner Harrison's sale of the Bond Bros' stable and property was $2,885,40.

Jo. B. Ash and George W. Jett are discussing the practicability of building a nice gasoline ferryboat for the Carrollton and Indiana ferry.

Dr. Massie was brought here from Owenton Saturday night and placed in jail, where he still remans. It is probable that he will be kept here until the Court of Appeals decides his case.

When the imposing Jett block and opera house is completed Carrollton will put on airs sure enough. It will be the handsomest in every particular of any in town, not only in size but in architectural beauty and finish.

The Massie trial in Owen county is over for the present, and the verdict of the jury sending him to the penitentiary for life meets with general approval. It was a very foolish thing on the part of the court, it seems to us, to send him to the jail of this county every night during the trial for safe keeping. If the security of the prisoner from mob violence was the moving cause or incentive for doing this, it is a strange thing that it did not appear to the court that a mob, contemplating violence to the prisoner, could with all ease have intercepted him coming or going, taken him from the officer and strung him up to a tree, or have shot him from ambush. This sixty miles travel each day, however, prolonged the trial, and greatly increased its costs to the state, and made more taxes for the taxpayers to pay.

OF course each party is accusing the other of bringing about the disgraceful scenes enacted in the Kentucky State House, last week; but from the apologies members of each party made to their opponents it seems that both are tinged with blame to some extent.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

TAYLORSPORT—Ed and Doc Webb have moved to Home City, O. We lose two good neighbors.

Capt. Pickleheimer is having a wheel put on his steamboat.

Gabe Black, of Ludlow, moved to the Pickleheimer farm.

The latest we have is a tramp begging a patch for his pants.

Mrs. Mace Riggs is very sick at this writing.

BEAVER—M. C. Carroll, of Big Bone, had three horses haltered in his stable, one night last week, and two of them, by some means, got loose and kicked the other one to death.

Miss Lula Franks, of Grant county, is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. L. Noel, at Beaver. Mr. Harry Adams, of Hamilton, is also visiting at the same place.

Mrs. Henry Underhill is very sick with pneumonia at this writing.

The Beaver and Big Bone string bands met at Sam Noel's, last Thursday night and had a festival of good music.

Dr. S. M. Adams and his mother are visiting relatives in Illinois.

Lets have the primary election this fall.

FLORENCE—A quiet but charming wedding took place at the residence of Father Kolb, on Wednesday, March 11, at two o'clock. The contracting parties were Mr. Conrad Schuybold and Miss Josie Orcott, of Erlanger. Their many friends join in wishing them a long and prosperous life.

Mrs. Wm. Hedges is visiting her parents at Bullittsville.

Miss Ethel Conner has returned home, after a pleasant visit with friends at Covington.

Mrs. Cloud will build an addition to her new home, opposit the fair ground

Mr. Cecil Finch has the sympathy of the entire community for the loss of his two fine hunting hounds.

Some of our brilliant young men are contemplating giving a ball Easter Monday.

Miss Katie G[illegible] has been suffering from a cold [illegible] her face.

Little Anna and John Dulaney are fast recovering from the mumps.

The many friends of Mr. Kyle will [illegible] to learn that he is able to be [illegible]

Mrs. [illegible] Kroger has been on the [illegible] the last few days.

[illegible] very ill with the [illegible]

The [illegible] Euchre Club met at [illegible] Wednesday evening.

[illegible] to announce that Irving [illegible] euchre player, as [illegible]

[illegible] Florence proudly [illegible] being in possession [illegible] gentlemen [illegible] young ladies [illegible] unac[illegible]

[illegible] Walton, [illegible] Thursday.

Miss Mary Thompson has gone to Crescent to teach a spring school.

Mrs. D. E. Castleman has a handsome piano, and is teaching a class in music.

C. L. Crisler left for Indiana last Sunday, to look after his farm in Decatur county.

Mr. Arthur Blyth has moved out to the farm and is living with his son George.

J. B. Berkshire and W. C. Brown made a business trip to the city last Thursday.

Mrs. Vest's brother and two sisters, of Kenton county, were visiting her last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ossman, of Beaver, were guests of B. W. Adams and wife Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. Thomas Tupman and Miss Lizzie Dulaney, of Erlanger, were visiting in Burlington, Monday and Tuesday.

C. C. Roberts and family spent several days last week visiting relatives in the Walton and Verona neighborhoods.

Dr. Roseboom, of Ohio, and Miss Maud Berkshire, of Petersburg, were guests of J. B. Berkshire and wife, last Saturday.

Joe Reed showed up in Burlington, last Saturday, the first time for many moons. He is looking well and is in fine spirits.

Toney Beutler left for Decatur county, Indiana, last Sunday to attend the funeral of his uncle, Conrad Bentler, who died a few days before.

Robt. Carver has moved to the farm he purchased of William Clore. The land was originally a portion of the farm of the late Robert Huey.

R. A. Brady, J. O. Huey and Joe Riddell passed through town Thursday morning, enroute to the Kelly land, to begin a division among the heirs.

J. C. Robinson, of Richwood, was at the County Clerk's office, last Saturday, looking up the property that is subject to school tax in his school district.

J. C. Mack, who, several years ago, taught school in the Morgan Academy at this place, has embarked in the newspaper business at Newton, Kansas.

Rev. Hoover came over on his wheel from Erlanger, last Saturday, but the change in the weather made the road too wretched for him to get back to the railroad on his bike.

M. C. Carroll, of Big Bone, was in town Friday. It is said that Mr Carroll is just now paying considerable attention to his political fences, and when the proper times comes he will enter the race for the Sheriffaltry.

Leslie Clutterbuck is carrying one eye in a sling. He and some other young people were snow balling out at Mr. G. T. Gaines', last Sunday, and when on a retreat a wire clothesline caught him under one eye, leaving an ugly gash.

Major L. C. Norman and Mr. John Meagher have formed a partnership and organized the McBrayer Distilling Company, with headquarters in Frankfort. The many friends of both gentlemen wish them success.—Western Argus.

John Sebree, of Petersburg, has for sale, about 100 young peach trees, not budded but from seed of very fine budded fruit, at 5 cents a piece.

Jackson and Walling will be brought to Kentucky.

UNTOLD MISERY
FROM RHEUMATISM
C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by
Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur, in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months, my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith."

AYER'S
The Only World's Fair Sarsaparilla.
AYER'S PILLS cure Headache.

Public Sale!

We will offer for sale at the residence of the late J. H. Walton, deceased, on the East Bend and Burlington road, 2 miles east of Bellevue, Boone County, Ky., on Thursday, April 2nd, 1896,

The following property, towit: 3 Horses, 1 Mule, 2 Colts, 11 two year old Calves, 7 Calves, 3 Milch Cows, 3 dry Cows, 1 Bull, 44 Sheep, Sow and 5 pigs, 4 Shoats, an interest in three crops of Tobacco, 7 tons Hay, 150 bus. Corn, 15 bus. Potatoes, 2 Mowing Machines, Sulky Hayrake, Road Wagon, Slod, Buggy, Corn Drill, Haybed, Plows, Harrows, 2 Saddles, 4 sets work Harness, set Buggy Harness, lot of tobacco Sticks, 5 barrels Flour, Meat, Lard, Household and Kitchen Furniture, and many other articles.

TERMS OF SALE:

On all sums over $10 a credit of 9 months will be given, purchaser to give note with approved security, without interest. Sums of $10 and under, cash.

R. L. HUEY,
ERNEST WALTON, Adm'rs.
Sale to begin at 9 a. m.

[illegible] must [illegible] proven according to law.

O. P. CONNER, Adm'r.
Lassing & Riddell, Attys.

Administrators Notice.

Those indebted to the estate of Lubinda Kelly, dec'd., must come forward and settle at once, and those having claims against said estate must present the same at once proven according to law.

L. H. & WALTER KELLY,
Administrators.

Administrator's Notice.

All persons indebted to the estate of America Frazier, dec'd., must come forward and settle same, and those having claims against same must present them to the undersigned proven according to law.

J. L. FRAIZER, Adm'r.
Lassing & Riddell, Attys.

Administrator's Notice.

All those indebted to the estate of Jas. L. Henderson, deced., must come forward and settle, and any one having claims against said estate must present them to me proven according to law.

J. O. HUEY, Adm'r.
Lassing & Riddell, Attys.

Buggies! Buggies!! Buggies!!!

I will be in Burlington on the first Monday in next month (April) with several nice, first-class Buggies, which I will sell at prices that will surprise you. If you want a Buggy come to Burlington on that day and examine my vehicles and learn the very low prices at which I will sell.

G. H. HACKSTADT,
Bromley, Ky.

Corn For Sale.

For Sale—About 100 bushels of Forsyth's Early Mammoth white corn, selected last fall. It has the deepest grains and is the most productive of any other corn; has from sixteen to twenty-six rows on the ear, stands the drouths and yields from two to five barrels more per acre than any other variety. It originated in Johnson county Ind in 1891. Price $1 50 per bushel.

JOHN J. CLEEK.
Beaver Lick, Boone county, Ky.

Notice to Delinquent Tax-PAYERS.

The lists of Delinquents for 1895 have been placed in the hands of Collecting Officers in the different magisterial districts for the convenience of the taxpayers. See your collector and pay your tax, or you will be reported to the Road Supervisor in your district and proceeded against according to law.

FISCAL COURT BOONE CO.,
By J. M. Lassing, Co. Atty.

Attention! Ladies! Notice!

To the first 100 ladies of Aurora and vicinity sending me their names before March 4, I will give to of all such who buy their materials of me ONE FREE class lesson in Art Embroidery on March 10th, or as soon thereafter as their class number admits. Instructions in Delft, Napolitian, Jewel, Bulgarian, Swiss, Royal and South Kensington (with Italian effect) and Japanese Embroideries; also Honiton Lace Work. Address

EMMA J. M. COULTER,
107 Second St, AURORA, IND.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Sallie A. Botts, Plff.
vs.
N. W. Botts, Deft.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he will begin his sittings on the 12th day of March, 1896, at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington, Ky., to hear proof in the aboved styled cause and will adjourn from day to day (Sunday excepted) to the 31st day of March, 1896. All persons having claims against N. W. Bott's estate will present them to me properly proven as by law required.

J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C. C

John Allison,

Undertaker
—AND—
Embalmer,
COR. PIKE & RUSSELL STS.,
COVINGTON, - KENTUCKY
Independent of Undertakers' Union.

NO :: LONGER
—AT ERLANGER.—
DR. WALLACE GILLHAM.
—THE DENTIST,—
who has been coming to Erlanger on Tuesdays of each week, has discontinued his office there, but will continue to do
First Class Dental Work of
All kinds at his
COVINGTON - OFFICE,
1421 Madison Ave. (next door to the Children's Home),
He also has all the latest and best facilities for administering
Gas, Vitalized Air, or Local Anæsthetics for Extracting Teeth.
You are refered to the following reliable references of your own community:
Dr. C. R. Slater, Dr. C. W. McCullum, Mrs. Cal Riggs, Mrs. Mattie Hoover, Mrs. Rev. M. M. Hiner, Mrs. Rev. O. M. Huey, Mr. Ira Aylor, Erlanger; Miss Sallie Snyder, Miss Sallie Stephens, Florence.

LAND FOR SALE.

240 acres known as the Gaines farm on the Covington and Lexington pike and on the L. & N. and Cincinnati Southern Railroads, two miles north of Walton, Ky. This is one of the best farms in Northern Ky., suitable for stock, grain, grass and tobacco. Improved with a modern 8-room dwelling, large stock and hay barn, tobacco barn, tenement houses and all necessary outbuildings.

For further information call on H. C. BEDINGER, on the farm or address me.

Also 115 acres, known as the Platt farm, lying on the Walton and Beaver graded road. This is a good, strong piece of land with a large portion of it tobacco land. I will sell the above lands worth the money.

For further information call on or address H. C. BEDINGER,

[illegible]

When your purchases amount to $[illegible] you are entitled to a Solid Gold Plated Lady's or Gents' Watch, [illegible] finished in the latest and most modern style and an accurate timekeeper, by paying $3.[illegible] only. We give a written guarantee for five years. Drop in and see one of them and ask for information.

O. A. STOCKMAN,
—DEALER IN—
FANCY & STAPLE GROCERIES,
NO. 56 and 59 HIGH STREET,
LAWRENCEBURG, INDIANA.
WATCHES sent C. O. D., with privilege of examination. If not as represented you need not take it.

HARBICK & ROSE,
Undertakers AND Embalmers,
OFFICE AND STABLE, 637 and 639 SCOTT STREET,
COVINGTON, KY.
CARRIAGES FOR WEDDINGS AND PRIVATE HIRE.
Telephone, 4146. OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

GEO. G. RUSSELL,
WHOLESALE AND
RETAIL GROCER,
GRASS SEED,
Corner Pike & Washington Sts. Covington, Ky.
Tom Wilson, Salesman.

SEEDS. SEEDS. SEEDS.
BUY YOUR
GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS
From W. J. RAMSEY & CO.,
We are the only House in Covington, handling a full Line of
GARDEN SEEDS.
708 Madison Avenue,
COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.
Opposite Seventh Street Market House.

A. H. BRYANT. J. L. V. McDONALD.
REMOVED AND READY FOR BUSINESS.
31 Pike Street,
THE OLD RELIABLE STOVE COMPANY,
Successor to J. M. CLARKSON.
Stoves, Grates, Fine Tin and
HOLLOW-WARE.
Our friends of Boone County will be Welcome to Make OUR STORE Their Headquarters when in Town.
J. L V McDONALD, - - - - Manager.
COVINGTON, KY.
MR. J. M. CLARKSON has his office with us.

STEPHENS & SCALES,
—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN—
Hardware, Cutlery, and Agricultural Implements,
Genuine Oliver Chilled & Steel Plows,
Bissell Chilled & Steel Hillside Plows,
Walking & Riding Cultivators,
Steel & Wood Gear Farm Wagons,
Champion Mower and Binders,
Ball Bearing Disk Harrows,
BARBED AND SMOOTH WIRE
AT THE LOWEST MARKET PRICE.
No. 26 Pike Street, - - - Covington, Ky.

BOEHMER, ROLF & CO.,
—DEALERS IN—
PAINTS, OILS AND GLASS,
—63 and 65 Pike Street,—
Covington, Telephone, 4212. Ky.

GEO. W. HILL & CO.,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
Flour, Tea, Tobacco AND FINE Cigars.
ALSO DEALERS IN WOOL AND COUNTRY PRODUCTS.
CALL SPECIAL ATTENTION TO OUR RETAIL DEPARTMENT.
27 and 29 PIKE ST. 26 and 28 W. SEVENTH ST.
Covington, - - Kentucky.

A. C. HECKMAN,
Florist, Plants, Bulbs, Seeds, & Metal Designs.
Fresh Cut Flowers Daily. Artistic Floral Designs a Specialty.
734 Madison Avenue,
Covington, - - Kentucky.
25 Per Cent. Less than any Cincinnati House.

METROPOLITAN COUPE AND LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,
E. H. BAKER, Proprietor
Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.
Telephone [illegible]0.

[illegible]
INSURANCE COMPANY,
[illegible]

Its Rates are Lower Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County [illegible] ADVANTAGE In keeping their property insured.

EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.

J. S. HUEY, President, Grant, Ky.
OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL.
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
—o—
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given to Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by mail promptly attended to.

G. G. HUGHES. D. E. CASTLEMAN.
HUGHES & CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEYS - AT - LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to them.

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY,
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

H. S. STEVENSON,
DENTIST,
Anesthetics used for painless operating. Plates $8 and $10; other work accordingly. Satisfaction guaranteed in all cases.
MAIN OFFICE—South side Main St. Rising Sun, Indiana.

P. T FALL,
PAINTER AND—
—PAPERHANGER
Union, Kentucky.
Paper Hanging a Specialty.
Will visit all parts of the Co. with samples. Give me a call,

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL, ... $80,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 17,000
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN.................. $50,000
SURPLUS,........................ $ 2,600
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

TABLER'S BUCK EYE PILE OINTMENT
CURES NOTHING BUT PILES,
A SURE and CERTAIN CURE known for 15 years as the BEST REMEDY for PILES.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS,
Prepared by RICHARDSON MED CO., ST. LOUIS.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Call at once for work, as I leave Walton April 1st.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

KENTUCKY MIDLAND RAILROAD.
[Via Georgetown.]

P. M.	A.M.			A.M.	P. M.
d 5:21	z9:31	Ar Walton	Lv	7:54	z4:48
4:40	8:55	Ar Williamstown	Lv	8:32	5:25
4:17	8:31	Ar Corinth	Lv	8:56	5:47
3:59	8:15	Ar Sadieville	Lv	9:16	6:03
3:33	7:50	Ar Georgetown	Lv	10:07	6:37
1:00	6:55	Lv Frankfort	Ar	11:00	7:30

z Daily. d Except Sunday.

C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.

GENERAL
REPAIR SHOP,
At Hathaway, Ky.
WAGONS AND BUGGIES
A Specialty.
Plows and Harrows Made to Order. Satisfaction Guaranteed.
J. M. RICE.

Subscribe for the RECORDER.

[illegible] HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS,

Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.

Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

Considerable ground-hog winter last week.

The equinoctial storms are due next Sunday.

Some of the farmers have been losing a good many lambs.

Go to the Burlington Mercantile Co., for all kinds of plow gear.

Business was very quiet about the temple of justice all last week.

The infant child of Richard Utz was very sick several days last week.

Uncle Johnnie Beall and his son, of Hebron, were in town Thursday.

Jeff Eddins is now a citizen of the town, having moved in last week.

Burlington people are certainly large meat eaters. It takes two butchers to supply them with that class of food.

Among the few laws passed by the legislature, was one providing a way by which counties can have free turnpikes.

A bad day and nine months' credit will insure a big crowd and long prices at a sale, as has been proven on several occasions this winter.

Hiram Long, of Florence, is buying tobacco on the breaks in Cincinnati, and hauling it out to his tobacco house where he rehandles it.

Some of the farmers are done breaking corn ground. Early plowing followed by good freezes leaves the soil in fine condition to cultivate.

Those who have been operating sugar camps say this has been an uncommonly good season. There has been a good flow of very sweet water.

Gov. Bradley will have to call an extra session of the legislature if he wants any special work done, and then it may be that he will be disappointed.

Atty. Tolin has put two nice lamps in his sanctum and is now prepared to advise the distressed at the dead hour [illegible] as well as during the day.

Circuit Court began in Gallatin county last Monday. D. E. Castleman went down to Warsaw last Sunday to look after his business in that tribunal.

A Georgia farmer while plowing, turned over a rock under which was hidden $18,000 in gold and silver. It pays to turn over such rocks as that.

The members of the local bar are busy preparing their cases for the approaching term of Circuit Court. Several big contests are docketed for the next term.

Have heard it said that the pool-room proprietors may conclude to try their luck at Constance, this county, if they are ousted at Elmwood, back of Cincinnati.

Gardens have begun receiving some attention, and that branch of agriculture will be disposed of as soon as the weather permits, and the moon gives the signal.

Two of Burlington's ardent disciples of Isaac Walton were down on the creek with hook and line, one day last week, but they did not succeed in landing any of the finny creatures.

William Slayback killed two large wild ducks on a small pond near town one day last week. He had better luck than Grover did the same day, for William killed all he saw, while Grover did not.

The News is carrying the announcements of twenty of the good citizens of Owen county, who are candidates for county offices, and several of the back precincts remain to be heard from. Owen county offices must be worth holding.

The crowd got the laugh on Hubert Gaines one afternoon, last week, when exhibiting his educated mare on the street. She executed several commands, but, at last, rebelled and Hubert had to confess that he could not hypnotize the animal very long at a time.

You are too young, no matter what your age, to lose your hair. Save it by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. It removes dandruff, prevents baldness, restores gray and faded hair to its original color, and makes it soft, glossy, and abundant. No toilet is complete without it.

The light blanket of snow on the ground last week was great protection to the wheat which had survived the winter to that time. The prospects of a crop of wheat is as poor as seen in this part of the country for many years. The wheat will not be so rank this spring as to require pasturing to keep it back.

Go from home to hear the news. We get the following item in regard to our friend Baker and his enterprise from last Friday's Courier-Journal: "Col. Harry Baker, the wealthy banker of Erlanger, who is a resident of Florence, has purchased a large tract of land near Florence and is putting in machinery for the purpose of boring for gas."

BARGAINS: CLOSING OUT.

For the purpose of engaging in other business I am now selling my stock of goods below cost. If you want Bargains call early. The sales will continue from Saturday to Saturday until all the goods are sold. Having to go to the city every week I will continue to take orders for goods not in stock.

A. M. ACRA, Burlington, Ky.

An old fashioned soup was the attraction at Tony Bentler's sugar camp one night last week. Several of the Burlington soup annihilators were on hand with first-class appetites, and about 25 gallons of the consomme was dispatched in a remarkably short time. The night was dark, and on their way home the boys came in contact with all the briar patches and thorn bushes along the route, and they are somewhat sore over their trip.

Thomas Nevers, of Lawrenceburg, was walking along the street, last Wednesday with his six year-old nephew, when he became suddenly, violently insane and attempted the life of the child. Parties interfered to protect the boy from harm and it required half a dozen persons to overcome the lunatic. He was bound with ropes and taken to [illegible]me, where physicians succeeded [illegible] him. The af[illegible] created [illegible] excitement.

[illegible]—Dr. W. B. Belknap, dentist, of Cincinnati, has discontinued his office at Burlington, but can be found at 908 Vine St., (new number) Cincinnati, Ohio, where he is permanently located and is prepared to do all kinds of dental work, including the latest dentistry in the most skillful and painless manner, and at prices to suit the times. Also local and general anaesthetics used for the painless extraction of teeth. Office and residence, 908 Vine street, bet. Ninth and Court.

A dispatch from Lexington, last week, says: "A damage suit of importance to the managers of telegraph companies as well as their patrons, is on trial in the Circuit Court. J. J. Graddy, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., was attending school here and alleges that a telegram announcing the death of his mother came here on Sunday morning, but was not delivered until Monday afternoon, making it impossible to reach home before the burial of his mother. The suit is for $1,800 damages."

LATER—Since the above was put in type the case has been decided, and Graddy given a judgment for $100.

The Baptist Church at this place has put in a Frink Chandelier at a cost of $85 10. The chandelier contains twelve lamps, the aggregate illuminating power of which is said to be equal to 600 candles. To Miss Alice Revill, of Washington, D. C., is due much of the credit for the church purchasing this excellent chandelier. She contributed $20 for the purpos of purchasing lamps, and the members increased the amount until sufficient to purchase the Frink Chandelier. It is a handsome piece of church furniture, and affords abundant light in every part of the church. The members are well pleased with their purchase, and acknowledge their obligations to Miss Alice Revill for the financial assistance she rendered.

At Owenton, last Thursday, a shooting affray occurred in the hall of the courthouse, which resulted in Bud McDorman, a well-known character being shot by Sheriff Juno Gayle, one ball striking him in the face, passing through his jaw bone and dropping into his mouth. The second shot penetrated the breast bone and passed through the chest, and, strange to say, McDorman walked around quite a little while after the affair before being compelled to lie down.

Mr. Gayle was engaged in transacting the routine affairs of his office, when McDorman met him in the hall and called him into the law office of J. W. Cammack, and locked the door. McDorman said to him: "You had the drop on me yesterday. I have got it to-day."

They parleyed a little while, Gayle being unarmed. A gentleman in the office unlocked the door. When he did so Gayle stepped out, as did also McDorman, who seemed to hand John W. Neal, a companion, a pistol. Bige Moor, a deputy sheriff, hearing of the wrangle, ran up to Gayle with a pistol. Gayle snatched it from him, and immediately shot McDorman. Two pistols belonging to McDorman were picked up in the hall immediately after the shooting. McDorman has quite a reputation as a fighter and an all-round dangerous man.

Neal, the man with him, has also killed his man. McDorman and Neal, after the shooting, followed Gayle to his office, but were met by Deputy Sheriff Alexander, who prevented them from entering. McDorman is now at the Woods House, and while his wounds are dangerous they are not considered necessarily fatal.

Neighborhood News.

RABBIT HASH—The Grangers, or we should say the had been Grangers, sold the remnants of their lodge furniture here, and 1 acre of ground in town. The lot was bought by the Masons to erect a lodge room at some distant date. The Grangers decided to divide the proceeds of sales equally between those in good standing at their last meeting, provided the "East Bend Library" does not force them to pay a just debt that they owe it. Years ago the people in this neighborhood started a library, which cost about $150. When the Grange was in its prime it removed the library from the Maple Hill schoolhouse to its lodge on Lick Creek, where no one had access to it but the Grangers. When their hall burnt the library was destroyed with it. Now the question arises, ought not the defunct Grange pay for the library? Nine-tenths of the people say yes.

Although rather early, talking politics has commenced in our town. Rabbit Hash wants to present several men to be voted for at the next election, and she wants to be in time and pick out her best material for the desired places, so she will come out winner.

UTZINGER—Going to have a big river.

A strange lot of dogs were running a fox here last Sunday.

The comet missed us, but the snow storm struck us broad side.

W. A. Gaines is very sick with some throat trouble. Dr. Crisler, of Ludlow, is his physician.

James White, who has pneumonia, is able to set up.

Nick Oberding and Gus Kotmeyer, of Lawrenceburg, and Michael Giegold, of Aurora, attended Chas. Stephens' sale.

Slater brothers, Carroll Moore and Misses Edna Craig, Annie McGrannahan and Alba Dorm, of Lawrenceburg, were visiting Andy Grasser and family last Sunday.

Whit Jarrell, who started to New Orleans on a produce boat, left it at Cairo and came home.

Dr. Hays gave the young folks a big dance at his house last Wednesday night. Three Italians from the city made the music.

Dr. J. H. Walton, assistant superintendent of the Hopkinsville insane asylum, is visiting his parents here.

An alarm of fire called the department to the corner of Cemetery road and Cooper street in Petersburg, last Friday night about nine o'clock, where a fierce fire was raging in Mr. Kettle's fodder, which he had stacked in his yard. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The revenue boys at Petersburg all got a change of base Monday.

Ezra Aylor, of the Gunpowder neighborhood, has moved to W. H. Grant's farm near here.

Chas. Colvin, who moved from here to Ozark county, Missouri, is holding a very important county office there.

Mrs. A. Stephens will move to Hebron, and Charles will go to Missouri on a prospecting tour, with a view to locating there.

Edson Riddell and Jack Sandford, of Burlington, were here one day last week. While here Jack entertained the crowd with some slight-of-hand tricks that were marvelous.

Turn on the cathode rays and see how many Democrats want a primary in November.

Mr. L. A. Loder says he has lived in Petersburg for 42 years, and that he never knew of so much sickness there as there has been this winter.

When there is 18 feet of water on the guage at Cincinnati the backwater is over the Woolper crossing of the Petersburg and Belleyue road.

Elijah Parker, member of the Democratic Committee for this precinct, is opposed to the calling of a primary [illegible] and Mrs. Mary [illegible] went to Cincinnati to have her teeth fixed at the Ohio Dental College, where young Walling, one of the suspects in the Ft. Thomas murder, did the work for her.

One of Will Boff's horses went mad the other day and kicked and bit every thing that came in its way. It had one spasm after another for nearly 10 hours, when death relieved it.

ERLANGER—The Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church gave a coffee reception at the residence of the pastor, Rev. Davis.

Mrs. Dr. C. R. Slater had for her guest, Sunday, Miss Sallie Suyder, of Boone county.

Mrs. B. L. Stevens, of near Dixon, is visiting her mother, Mrs. R H. Ingram, of Commonwealth Ave.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist Church will give a social at the residence of Mrs. Hy Myers on Saturday evening.

J. A. Wyss, Hy Meyers and Louis Morrell all celebrated their birthday within one week—March 4th, 9th and 11th. It was a week of jollification. We congratulate them and hope they will have several more to celebrate.

H. G. Buckner and family left, last Saturday, for New Orleans, to make their future home.

The young men of this place are contemplating the organization of a company of State Guards.

Rev. O. M. Huey informed the writer that he has not decided about the call at Carrollton, although several of the papers have stated he has declined.

Miss Mattie Talbott, of Covington, was visiting here Sunday.

The Misses Dulaney gave a party to their young friends, last week.

Hon. W. H. Baker is in Oklahoma.

A number of young people from our town attended a party given by Dr. Arthur Rouse and sister, Miss Ora, of Limaburg neighborhood.

WALTON, March 15.—Quite a number of prominent Democrats, subscribers to your paper, have requested that it should make a suggestion that the Executive Committee of the county should endeavor to have the primary election for nomination of candidates for district and county officers, for the year 1897, held at the same time that the presidential election is held in 1896. It is urged that the voters will come out to a man at the presidential election and that it will give Boone county a larger vote in the next State Convention and insure more favorable consideration to the county's favorite candidates. There can be no doubt about the convenience of the arrangement, and it should commend itself to the candidates, as it would save them a heavy expense which they could in this manner avoid.

The well known law office of C. Y. Dyas will be occupied by the firm of Diers & Hance—H. C. Diers and A. R Hance—who will open out as real estate agents. They should do a heavy business as both are lively, [illegible] heavy weights.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Cleek gave a Crokonole party in honor of their son Jacob, on last Friday evening. It was a hearty, delightful jollification in which all the youthful masters and misses enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent of their capacity. Some lads, and lassies, too, have much more capacity for enjoyment than others, but at this particular social gathering all seemed to be happily in the mood of making the most of a very pleasant event, the sweet memories of which will be with them on all the ups and downs of life. Seven boards, all I believe our little town can muster, afforded all a chance to participate in the merry, innocent game. Jacob gave not the names of any champions, and in response to a query as to "who was the belle of the party?" he was equally uncommunicative, agreeing, no doubt, with the writer's own opinion on that subject that all school girls are the special belles of some one of the rollicking, fun-loving school boys. They had a grand old time and lastly they did most ample justice to the substantial and delightful things so gratifying to youthful appetites.

The following young Misses were in this maze of delight, Carrie and Sallie Herndon, Mabel Bagby, Hattie Edwards, Edna Ransler, Mary Rouse, Effie Lermond, Lora Diers, Madge Holder, Eva Vanlandingham, Myrtle Jones and Ethel Waltz. The laddies were, Johnnie Kipp, Waller Herndon, Robert Beyland, Johnnie Crow, Ernest McElroy, Walter Rouse, Leon Prior, Elza Vanlandingham, Chas. Chambers, James McGee, Herman Arnold and the host, Jacob Cleek. Mr. and Mrs. Tomlin and Dr. Adams were also there.

The Brittenhelm Bros., are erecting a wind-mill on their barn near the Short Line, and will be grinding corn to feed their hogs by the last of this week.

It is highly probable that the post-office will be moved up to the hardware store in the near future.

Miss Mollie Ransom, of Grant, is delighting her sister, Mrs. B. L. Northcutt, and more particularly Byron's children, a visit.

Mr. Wm. Buckner Northcutt, of Covington, afforded his friends a pleasant surprise by dropping down among them on last Saturday evening.

J. Ricketts Johnson is taking a relaxation from business by visiting his mother, at the farm.

PETERSBURG—"Pilgrims Progress" illustrated by the stereopticon, was given at the Christian Church last Thursday evening. It was under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor.

Bernard Berkshire has malarial fever.

There will be another wedding here soon. The bride-to be lives in the northeast corner of town.

Richard Wickman, wharfmaster at Patriot, Indiana, was the guest of M. S. Hardin for a short time, Wednesday.

Ed Kelm, besides being annoyed cutting a wisdom tooth, is experiencing Job's affliction, to which must be added the inconvenience resulting from splitting his hand open with a Cooper's adz.

Mr. Meuch, of Cincinnati, is putting in the electric plant for the distillery.

Mr. Griffith and son, Hubert, of Erlanger, have finished their part of the mechanical work on Capt. Alden's boat.

The Christian Endeavor Social, at Mr. Evans' Monday night, was not a flattering success because of the non-attendance of several who were on the program. However, all present had a very pleasant time.

The carpenters and builders, Botts and Bowman, are doing a good business. They are now engaged on Frank Laws' new residence.

Miss Jones, of Hamilton, Ohio, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Evans.

I am glad to report all the sick as better.

Prof. Voshell was shaking hands with his friends here, last Friday.

Hurd and Passons give a dance next Thursday night, to be followed by one given by the H. T. on Friday night.

EVERETT.

Died, a little after 11 o'clock p. m., Saturday, March 14th, 1896, of cancer, Phillip Hoffman, aged 42 years. He was a son of Mr. Adam Hoffman, an old citizen of our town, and was an honest, lawabiding man. He was fireman on the Workum and also on the old Minnie, and was a first-class yeastmaker. About a year ago he went to Paris, Ky., and placed himself under the treatment of Dr. W. R. Smith, a noted cancer doctor and seemed to be getting along all right, as the doctor's remedy acted like a charm. But the [illegible] came to his relief. He was insured in the Metropolitan for $100. His remains were placed in the vault at 3 o'clock p. m., on the Tuesday following his death.

Mr. Henry Rinehart and his uncle, of Milan, Ind., came over last Saturday to get a load of malt sprouts at the distillery.

Howard Fenton has returned to his Memphis boat as his father is able to go on duty again.

VERONA—Dr. B. K. Menefee has been quite sick for several days.

The Baptist Sunday school at the hall, has purchased an organ, which adds greatly to the singing.

There is complaint of chicken thieves in this vicinity.

Our friend, George Anderson, was seen going in the direction of Walton, on Wednesday, very early, and the mystery was all solved when we learned later that Mr. A. had been married to Miss Lizzie Florence on March 11th. He was one of our clever young widowers.

John Bentler has moved to Florence, where he will engage in blacksmithing.

There is talk of a general merchandise stock company being organized at this place, which will include the entire stock of J. W. Kennedy.

The Methodist, with Rev. Horney and Mathews, are conducting a revival meeting here Let all of the good christian people come out and encourage the good work.

The Mildale Pickle Factory, at Mildale, will make a shipping point here, provided 200 acres are planted in cucumbers. Those interested in the growing of pickles can call on Edward Fry and learn particulars.

Father Priest's house was entered, one day last week, and some wine and a few eggs were taken. It is supposed the party that took the wine was not dry but only thirsty.

Some of the wheat land will be sowed to oats.

Lewis Martin died Saturday night, after a short attack of peritonitis. He had always been a good friend and neighbor and his death will be greatly deplored by all who knew him. He leaves a wife and three children to mourn his death. Funeral services were held at the Baptist Church Monday. after which his remains were laid to rest in the New Bethel cemetery.

RABBIT HASH—Our merchants are replenishing their stock to meet the spring trade.

The ferry-boat is high and dry, awaiting a rise in the river.

Miss Maud Ryle is conducting a very interesting school at East Bend.

Bessie VanNess will open a spring school at Maple Hill.

Wm Parson (nee Shiner) has departed for Beaver Lick to post up Ad Riddell and get him acquainted with the people of Boone preparatory to running for sheriff. Shiner knows more people in Boone, than J. J. Childress, of Union who has ever been known and acknowledged to be an encyclopedia on the names of people of Boone and adjoining counties.

We were not aware that there were so many valuable dwelling houses in the county as is being shown up by some of the recent losses. Surely some of these appraisements were made when property of one class was above par. We think now it would be better to conform more closely to the gold basis.

A change in the public road leading down the river to East Bend is contemplated. A change up the river or improvement of some kind is equally necessary.

Fannie Christina (nee Craig) of Indianapolis, after a pleasant visit with her sisters here, has returned to her home, she having transfered her interest in the home place to Mrs. Katie, who now owns and occupies the homestead.

UNION—The sleigh bells were heard in our little town Sunday.

Mrs. Dora Bannister has been quite sick for the last week.

A pretty event last Tuesday evening was a surprise tendered Miss Mattie Talbot, at the residence of Mr. Conner. A host of good things were brought by the revelers, who took complete possession of the parlor and made Mr. and Mrs. Conner happy guests at their own home.

Miss Mattie Talbot left, Wednesday for her home in Covington.

Bro. Johnson filled Dr. Adams appointment here Sunday.

Mr. Aylor has his new store beautifully papered.

Charles Cleek moved to Covington last week.

A number of young friends of Miss Mattie Cleek tendered her a dancing reception at her home on Friday evening. The affair was a very pleasant one, and was attended by the following: Misses Mattie Talbot, Sallie Kennedy, Lillie Corbin, Maud Norman, Mary and Opha Riley, Lulu Williams, Effa and Fannie Cleek, Stella Myers, Annie Rice, Mrs. Garrison, Mrs. Whitson, Mrs. Voshell, Messrs Sam Hicks, Hedges, Norman, Rachal, Terrell, Whitson, Aylor, Riley, Tanner, Rice and many others.

LIMABURG—The young folks spent a very pleasant evening on the 14th at the residence of A. F. Crigler, playing "tiddle winks" with Miss Allie Hoffman, who is visiting her grand father.

Good many peaches killed.

A great many lambs have died this season.

Miss Lizzie Gordon will commence a spring school here on the 16th.

About 40 persons attended the wood-sawing and quilting at John Poston's last Thursday.

Geo. E. Rouse is done breaking land for corn.

Mrs. Absalom Aylor has 40 young chickens.

Mrs. Harriet Shafer, of Cincinnati, died on the 13th, and was buried at Hopeful on the 16th. She lived with her nephew, S J. Roues, of this place, for about five years. She had a great many friends in this county. She leaves two brothers, A. F. Crigler and P. M. Crigler and a great many relatives to mourn her death. She was 77 years old.

RICHWOOD—Born, to Willie Glackin and wife, on the 13th inst., a ten pound boy.

John Soden has moved to a house on H. R. Hearn's farm and will rent a part of Mr. Hearn's land.

Miss Stella Myers gave a party to her many young friends last Friday night.

Wm. Lancaster has moved from Crescent to his old home at this place.

Uncle Cum Wilson has returned, after an extensive visit to his daughter, Mrs. Charley Allen, of Big Bone.

Ed and Charlie Stephens have moved on the Joe Myers farm.

Miss Hattie Youell is teaching a spring school at this place.

HEBRON—This is good March weather.

Jas. Conner, of Missouri, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Quick, of this place.

J. E. and Hubert Conner were out sleighriding last Sunday.

There will be preaching here next Sunday at 3 p. m., and Sunday week at 11:30 a. m.

Henry Quick is the champion tiddledy-winks player at this place.

Parties are all the go. One at Perry Aylor's last Tuesday night; one at Tom Hafer's Thursday night, and a surprise on Miss Grace Cooner, Saturday night.

Better Times.

To the People of Boone County

I will say that on or about the 23d inst., I will open Business in UNION, KENTUCKY.

My goods are First-class and Prices shall meet the approbation of the public. Your patronage is kindly solicited, and when in town please call and let us quote prices. Very Respectfully,

Ira Aylor.

J. J. GEISEN,
Best and Cheapest HAT STORE in the City.
Agency for WHITE STAR LAUNDRY.
615 Madison Ave.,
COVINGTON, KENTUCKY.

Until His
Spring Opening
BLASE WILL SELL

$5 Men's Suits for	$3.50
$6 and $7 Men's Suits for	$5.00
$8 and $10 Men's Suits for	$6.00
$12 and $14 Men's Suits for	$8.00
$15 and $18 Men's Suits for	$10.00
$5 Boys' Suits for	$3.50
$6 and $7 Boys' Suits for	$5.00
$10 Boys' Suits for	$6.00
$12 and $15 Boys' Suits for	$8.00
Children's Suits for $1.50, $2.00 and	$2.50
All-Wool Assorted Pants for	$1.50
Mackintoshes	$3.00

The greatest values ever offered in Clothing in order to make room for Spring Goods.

H. F. Blase,
534 Madison Ave., Covington, Ky.

HEADQUARTERS FOR
SWEET PEAS.
Mixed Varieties { Per pound . . . 40c. Half pound . . . 25c. Quarter pound . . 15c.
THE ONLY
DOUBLE SWEET PEA,
BRIDE OF NIAGARA.
True to Name.
Price—Packet 25c. Half packet 15c.
THE WONDERFUL
CRIMSON RAMBLER ROSE,
Only 15 Cents.
VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE, 1896,
The Pioneer Seed Catalogue.
Tried and True Novelties,—[illegible] Vegetables, Small Fruits, etc., with description and prices. Mailed on receipt of 10 cts., which may be deducted from first order—really Free,—or free with an order for any of the above.
ROCHESTER, N. Y.
JAMES VICK'S SONS

MILLINERY!

We are ready to show you all the latest effects in
FALL AND WINTER
MILLINERY,
TRIMMED HATS & BONNETS
Of Parisian Designs and from our own work rooms. Children's Hats, Baby Caps and Tamoshanters. A full line of Mourning Goods constantly on hand.
Ice-Wool, Zephyr & Saxony Yarns.
Repairing and Hats trimmed to order, a specialty. We are better prepared than ever to serve our customers. Our large and varied assortment of goods will enable you to be pleased. Give us a call before purchasing elsewhere. Respectfully,
Mrs. A. J. SWALLOW.
Main Street, Rising Sun, Ind.

For Sale or Rent.

96 acres of river bottom land, opposite Lawrenceburg, Ind., in good state of cultivation.
J. C. REVILL,
Burlington, Ky.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
—DRUGGIST,—
Rising Sun, - Indiana.

Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

FARM FOR SALE.

A good farm of 76 acres, between Bellevue and Petersburg, near Woolper ford—good house, good barn and necessary outbuildings. The sale will be on easy terms.
OWEN ALLEN.

Election Notice.

The stockholders of the Burlington & Florence turnpike are hereby notified that an election will be held in the town of Burlington, Ky., Saturday, April 4th, 1896, for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year.
W. R. ROUSE, President.

Miss Helen Merci Schuster
DRAMATIC READER
AND TEACHER OF
Elocution, Physical Culture
and Delsarte,
811 Scott St. - - - COVINGTON, KY.

Class for young Ladies and Gentlemen at UNION, KY., every Saturday—10 to 11 a. m. SEND FOR TERMS.

Andy Scheben,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
WINES, LIQUORS
AND BRANDY,
Old Bourbon, $2.00 Per Gallon.
LEXINGTON PIKE,
ERLANGER, - - - KY,
Near Town Hall.

MOST IN QUANTITY. BEST IN QUALITY.
WORMS!
WHITE'S CREAM
VERMIFUGE
FOR 20 YEARS
Has led all WORM Remedies.
EVERY BOTTLE GUARANTEED.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by
RICHARDSON MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS.

FERTILIZER.

Farmers, I would be pleased to have your orders for Fertilizer this year. Our goods are graded up considerably for 1896, and we have the following goods at last year's prices:

Raw Bone Meal.
Fine Ground Bone.
Tobacco and Potatoes.
Acidulated Bone.
Ammoniated Bone.
Special Tobacco.
Miami Valley Phosphate.
Jones Reliable Phosphate.
Jewell Phosphate.

When you buy our goods you get the worth of your money, and you know I placed good goods on the Boone and Kenton county market in 1894 and 1895 for less money than any other firm.

B. F. ZIMMER, Gen. Agt.,
for The Jones Fertilizer Co.,
Constance, Ky.

NOTICE.

All those indebted to me for taxes are hereby notified that I am compelled to close up my tax accounts and will proceed to enforce thier collection by law if not paid by March 1st, 1896. My books are in the hands of Lassing & Riddell, attorneys, Burlington, Ky. Call and settle with them and save costs.
D. BEALL, Ex.-Sheriff
Boone County.

FOR RENT—Neat cottage of [illegible] garden and coal house in [illegible]
HA[illegible]

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
[illegible] Sold or Exchanged, [illegible] Loan on Real Estate, [illegible]ght, sold & Negotiated, [illegible] communications addressed to [illegible] VEST, Burlington, Ky.

Clothing AND GENTS Furnishin

Specialties—Stylish Suits, Hats, Caps, Collars, Cuffs, ties, Handkerchiefs, Socks, Suspenders, Um las, Trunks and Valises.
WHITE SHIRTS, COLORED SHIRTS.
Masonic Building, - - Lawrenceburg, Ind.

BEST GOODS! LIVING PRICES!

Hardware,
Farm Machinery,
Fine Vehicles,
Harness.

HARRIS FITCH, Corner HIGH AND SHORT STREETS,
LAWRENCEBURG, INDIANA.

PURE BRED CHESTER WHITE HOGS.
La : Belle : Herd
—OF UP TO DATE—
CHESTER WHITE HOGS.

Stock Eligible to any Record.
Correspondence or personal inspection Solicited. Send for my new Catalogue and Book of General and Useful Information.
FREE FOR EVERYBODY.
T. J. HUGHES, - - - BEAVER LICK, KY.

ALSO AGENT FOR
AEROMETER
EVERY FARMER NEEDS ONE.
Best and Cheapest Wind-Mill Made.
COME AND SEE IT.

HANKINS, DAVIS & CO.,
GENERAL MERCHANTS,
HEBRON AND CONSTANCE, KY.

A good supply of Campbell's Creek Coal on hand at Constance at all times. A good supply of feed always in stock. Garden and Field Seeds.

UNDERTAKING
is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance.

Do Not Read This.

Four Pound Schofield Blankets	$3.00
Four and half pounds Schofield Blankets	3.25
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 36 inches	.80
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 38 inches	.90
Schofield's all-wool Ready-Made Skirts	1.15

Schofield Flannels at cost.
All Schofield Yarns 10 per cent. discount. Schofield Jeans at cost.
All Boots and Heavy Shoes at cost.
We have a few Suits of Mens' Underwear which we will sell at cost.

Also a full line of DRY GOODS
And a neat line of GROCERIES,
AT THE STORE OF THE
Burlington Mercantile Co.,
Burlington, Kentucky.

FOR SALE-THE LATEST IMPROVED
"ACME" HARROW and
Troy Pivot Axel Farm Wagons.

In calling attention to "ACME" HARROW, we will say that while some points of the it is not our custom to criticise harrows of other kinds, it is only fair to point out the difference we find in using this harrow along with other harrows. The arrangement of the Coulters on the "Acme" is such that the entire surface of the ground is practically cut over, while the Disk Harrow cuts but little more than half the surface—following one of the Disk Harrows the ground may appear to have been cut over, but if a portion of the surface be removed, uncut ridges will be found just underneath. The Disk Harrows are good for certain purposes, but they certainly can not be called general purpose harrows as they have no crushing or leveling device, whereas the "ACME" is a complete Harrow Clod Crusher and Leveler. The "Acme" is very simple and easily adjusted; does not undo the work of the plow; being entirely of cast and wrought iron it is practically indestructible, nothing can wear but the coulters, and these can be replaced at trifling cost. We are selling the "Acme" this season for but little more than the spike tooth harrow. It is the cheapest riding harrow made. We guarrantee them to give perfect satisfaction.

If you want a wagon made of carefully selected stock, well constructed, well proportioned, handsomely finished, lighter draught, greater carrying capacity than any other, and one that will give you perfect satisfaction, give us your order for the

TROY PIVOT AXEL WAGON,

as they are no experiment—they have been tried for several years and we [illegible] they have several good features that the ordinary axel wagon haven't. [illegible] prices and information call on or address

GEO. E. ROUSE & S[illegible]
LIMABURG, Boone [illegible]

[illegible] given that their will be a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of Boone County, at 2 o'clock, p. m., on the 1st Monday in April, 1896. This meeting is called for the purpose of determining whether or not a primary for the nomination of Democratic candidates for county offices, shall be held on the day of the Presidential election in November, 1896.

D. E. Castleman Chairman.
B. L. Rice, Secretary.

Watch the Recorder next week.

The Legislature passed a compulsory educational law.

Major McKinley's monometallism speeches and the Ohio platform have a very discordant ring.

The river men fear a flood along the upper Ohio. The conditions are decidedly favorable for a big river.

Representative Poor has kept both parties guessing whose cellar door he would slide down next time.

Texas will have an exposition at Dallas in 1897 to celebrate the semi centennial of its annexation by the United States.

Mr. Whitney is one of the few prominent politicians in this country, who does not care to be nominated for President.

A great many big drunks were destroyed by the burning of a large whisky house and its contents in Cincinnati, one day last week.

Foraker, Bushnell, Grosvenor and Hanna were selected delegates-at-large to the St. Louis convention by the Ohio Republican convention.

In so far as legislation is concerned the General Assembly that adjourned yesterday is entitled to more credit for what it did not do than for what it accomplished.

The Ohio Republicans have declared in favor of a double standard, with an attempt to so word the declaration as to satisfy all shades of opinion on the money question.

Senator Quay's managers claim that McKinley has already begun the fat frying, and that they have invaded Quay's State for the purpose of squeezing the large manufacturers.

The Cuban matter was given a black eye in the Senate Wednesday. Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, is making a hard fight against the resolution to recognize the Cubans as belligerants.

The finance plank in the Ohio platform is proving a source of much amusement for Mr. Reed's friends. They claim that their candidate is not afraid to define his position on the money question so it can be understood.

The Republicans are beginning to wrangle over the financial question, and the single gold standard members of the party are displeased with the Ohio expression on that subject. The Ohio idea is not popular outside of Ohio.

Dr. Hunter is attending to his business in Washington just as though he had never been a candidate for United States Senator. He says he left the field without any heart-burnings, a statement that is taken with many grains of doubt.

Senator Bronston, of Lexington, is acquainted with all the parliamentary short-cuts, and was the superior of any parliamentarian among his opponents. The only objection that can be urged against him as a leader, is his temper, which he is some times unable to control.

It is claimed that Major McKinley wrote the financial plank in the Ohio platform adopted last week. If this claim be true it is evident he considers the money question one that would better be evaded as long as possible by both platforms and candidates.

Congress and the Kentucky legislature have each distinguished itself by the very small amount of business dispatched this winter; and it is very questionable if the people have any cause of complaint against either. This country has been the victim of too much legislation in the past.

Ex-Governor Kellogg, of Louisiana, is indignant over the charge that those opposed to McKinley in that State, had used money in promoting the opposition. He says he holds himself ready to prove that money had been used to push the McKinley boom along in Louisiana.

Of all the legislatures that ever meet in Kentucky, the one that adjourned yesterday was the most sensational. Those in session during the civil war were not a circumstance to the 1896 body of lawmakers, and had not the sixty day limit compelled it to put up its shutters, it might have proven the germ out of which an internicine war may have grown.

In the event that McKinley controls the St. Louis convention, and everything points that way now, the platform adopted by the Ohio Republican State convention last week, will differ very little from that which will be adopted at St. Louis, and it is clear only [illegible]. It [illegible] tariff law [illegible] protection. On the [illegible] question [illegible] not interpret [illegible]

[illegible] that Gov. [illegible] was [illegible]

[illegible] dle dressed in [illegible] ology that part, [illegible] been palm ing off on the people for some time. But is there any certainty that the Democrats will do any better. Some of the leaders in both parties declare in favor of a single gold standard, but when it comes to making a platform their language become ambiguous and it is impossible to give it an intelligent interpretation.

The Louisville Commercial, a Republican paper that is so strong in its advocacy of a single gold standard as to make it cranky on the subject, is not pleased with the Ohio platform. It says:

"The Ohio platform on the currency question is not satisfactory to the friends of sound money. It can be interpreted by sound money men to mean free silver. That is not the kind of a platform on which the Republican candidate for the Presidency should go before the people and we are sure that the Ohio politicians made a great mistake in regard to the temper of the people, and the trend of public opinion when they adopted such a platform on the money question as they did."

The Ohio Republicans, in State convention assembled, gave Major McKinley an enthusiastic endorsement for the Presidency, and then made a very skillful straddle on the money question. Here is the platform on that: "We contend for honest money; for a currency of gold, silver and paper with which to measure our exchanges that shall be as sound as the Government and as untarnished as its honor; and to that end we favor bimetallism, and demand the use of both gold and silver as standard money, either in accordance with a ratio to be fixed by an international agreement, if that can be obtained, or under such restrictions and such provisions to be determined by legislation as will secure the maintenance of the parity of values of the two metals, so that the purchasing and debt-paying power of the dollar, whether of silver, gold or paper, shall be at all times equal."

The above platform is, if anything more of a cut-and-cover declaration than that of the last Republican state convention held in Kentucky. The Kentucky Republicans declared as follows: "We are opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver, believing that it would involve the country in financial ruin. We believe in sound currency, and in the use of both gold and silver for coinage, provided always, that a dollar in one is precisely as valuable as a dollar in the other."

STATE NEWS.

Henderson will have an electric light plant at a cost of $31,000.

Elmer Smith, aged 71, and his grand daughter, aged 9 years, were baptized in Greenup county last week.

J. H. Hawkins, of Flemingsburg, died from wounds inflicted by a burglar who attempted to enter his store, while he was guarding it.

At Lexington, Mrs. Mary Roth has sued her husband, Fred Roth, for $5,000 and a divorce because he charged her with being insane.

In Christian county J. A. Kent's house and $500 in money was destroyed by fire. He was afraid to trust the banks with his money.

Corn in farmers' hands amounts to 49.8 per cent of total crop or 1,072,000,000 bushels. Wheat in farmers hands 26.8 per cent., or 123,000,000 bushels.

In Ohio county the barn of E. R. Williams together with 8 horses 2 mules, 13 sheep, 800 bushels of corn, lot of hay and farming implements, was burnt.

At Harrodsburg saloon license was raised from $500 to $1,000. It is made a $20 fine for any person to eat anything or pick his teeth in any restaurant connected with a saloon on Sunday.

Lexington parties who lost about $100,000 by the failure of a bank in Kansas City in which they had stock, have received a call to pay up 16 per cent. of their stock to meet the claims of depositors.

Elder L. H. Stine, pastor of the Christian church at Georgetown, and one of the best-known ministers in the State, is having trouble with his congregation. Last Sunday he preached a sermon that made some of his members open their eyes very wide. The Georgetown Times tells about it as follows: "Thursday the official board of the church served notice on Mr. Stine that they desired him to discontinue his services as pastor. Sunday morning Mr. Stine, having previously announced by handbills that business of supreme importance would come up made his morning sermon one of self-defense. He struck squarely out from the shoulder and did not mind words. He said in the beginning that he stood before his congregation, 450 strong, his foemen. He claims to have been misrepresented. Said he was accused of calling Prof. Lovewell (the organist) on his own responsibility, when he was called simply on his recommendation; it was said that he had appointed the committee to purchase the carpet, when he had known nothing about it. It had been said he preached over people's heads. He wished to say a few things and if they could understand them [illegible] said in substance that many [illegible] he had stood before them [illegible] under their [illegible], his soul tortured, lips [illegible] with [illegible] trembling [illegible] led to foo [illegible] He [illegible] proposed [illegible] the back door but will [illegible] out the [illegible] He said that during the building of the new church he had carried great burd[illegible] had [illegible] [illegible] time [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] was [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] rs p[illegible] two [illegible] the congregation, and the [illegible] would doubtless be the best. The News says that Mr. Stine also took occasion to say that before leaving he would like to collect the $550 the church owed him for past services.

Later—Peace has been patched up, temporarily, at least, between Elder L. H. Stine and his congregation. Both sides have materially calmed down and it is possible that Mr. Stine may not be called on to give up his pastorate.

OUR NEIGHBORS

OWEN COUNTY

[News]

The grand jury returned 49 indictments dnring their sitting, three of which were for perjury.

Quite a number of our farmer friends say their peaches are safe, and if no colder freezes come peaches will be plentiful.

The speaking in the Massie case consumed two days. The attorneys on both side making good arguments. The speech of Commonwealth Attorney Gray, being especially a strong one. His conduct of the case was masterly, and deserving, and it may be said of him justly, that he is one of the strongest prosecutors in the State of Kentucky, barring no one.

After the result of the verdict in the Massie case last Saturday the defendant's attorneys went to Frankfort, as many conjectured for the purpose of trying to obtain a pardon for Massie. Mr. Settle is quoted by one of the Louisville papers as saying while there that they have sufficient grounds to reverse the present verdict.

§§

CARROLL COUNTY

[News]

Carrollton's spring boom has already commenced.

The total receipts from Commissioner Harrison's sale of the Bond Bros' stable and property was $2,885,40.

Jo. B. Ash and George W. Jett are discussing the practicability of building a nice gasoline ferryboat for the Carrollton and Indiana ferry.

Dr. Massie was brought here from Owenton Saturday night and placed in jail, where he still remans. It is probable that he will be kept here until the Court of Appeals decides his case.

When the imposing Jett block and opera house is completed Carrollton will put on airs sure enough. It will be the handsomest in every particular of any in town, not only in size but in architectural beauty and finish.

The Massie trial in Owen county is over for the present, and the verdict of the jury sending him to the penitentiary for life meets with general approval. It was a very foolish thing on the part of the court, it seems to us, to send him to the jail of this county every night during the trial for safe keeping. If the security of the prisoner from mob violence was the moving cause or incentive for doing this, it is a strange thing that it did not appear to the court that a mob, contemplating violence to the prisoner, could with all ease have intercepted him coming or going, taken him from the officer and strung him up to a tree, or have shot him from ambush. This sixty miles travel each day, however, prolonged the trial, and greatly increased its costs to the state, and made more taxes for the taxpayers to pay.

Of course each party is accusing the other of bringing about the disgraceful scenes enacted in the Kentucky State House, last week; but from the apologies members of each party made to their opponents it seems that both are tinged with blame to some extent.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

TAYLORSPORT—Ed and Doc Webb have moved to Home City, O. We lose two good neighbors.

Capt. Pickleheimer is having a wheel put on his steamboat.

Gabe Black, of Ludlow, moved to the Pickleheimer farm.

The latest we have is a tramp begging a patch for his pants.

Mrs. Mace Riggs is very sick at this writing.

BEAVER—M. C. Carroll, of Big Bone, had three horses haltered in his stable, one night last week, and two of them, by some means, got loose and kicked the other one to death.

Miss Lula Franks, of Grant county, is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. L. Noel, at Beaver. Mr. Harry Adams, of Hamilton, is also visiting at the same place.

Mrs. Henry Underhill is very sick with pneumonia at this writing.

The Beaver and Big Bone string bands met at Sam Noel's, last Thursday night and had a festival of good music.

Dr. S. M. Adams and his mother are visiting relatives in Illinois.

Lets have the primary election this fall.

FLORENCE—A quiet but charming wedding took place at the residence of Father Kolb, on Wednesday, March 11, at two o'clock. The contracting parties were Mr. Conrad Schuybold and Miss Josie Orcott, of Erlanger. Their many friends join in wishing them a long and prosperous life.

Mrs. Wm. Hedges is visiting her parents at Bullittsville.

Miss Ethel Conner has returned home, after a pleasant visit with friends at Covington.

Mrs. Cloud will build an addition to her new home, opposit the fair ground.

Mr. Cecil Finch has the sympathy of the entire community for the loss of his two fine hunting hounds.

Some of our brilliant young men are contemplating giving a ball Easter Monday.

Miss Katie Grogan has been suffering from a cold abscess on her face.

Little A[illegible] and John Dulaney are [illegible] recovering from the mumps.

The many friends of Mr. Kyle will be glad to learn that he is able to be out.

[illegible] Henry Kroger has been on the [illegible] for the last few days.

Hal Snyder is very ill with the [illegible]

[illegible] Euchre Club met at Mrs. [illegible] Wednesday evening.

[illegible] that Irving [illegible] euchre player, as [illegible]

[illegible] Florence proudly [illegible] being in possession [illegible] gentlemen [illegible] ladies [illegible] unac-

[illegible] J. [illegible] to Walton, last Thursday.

Miss Mary Thompson has gone to Crescent to teach a spring school.

Mrs. D. E. Castleman has a handsome piano, and is teaching a class in music.

C. L. Crisler left for Indiana last Sunday, to look after his farm in Decatur county.

Mrs. Arthur Blyth has moved out to the farm and is living with his son George.

J. B. Berkshire and W. C. Brown made a business trip to the city last Thursday.

Mrs. Vest's brother and two sisters, of Kenton county, were visiting her last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ossman, of Beaver, were guests of B. W. Adams and wife Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. Thomas Tupman and Miss Lizzie Dulaney, of Erlanger, were visiting in Burlington, Monday and Tuesday.

C. C. Roberts and family spent several days last week visiting relatives in the Walton and Verona neighborhoods.

Dr. Roseboom, of Ohio, and Miss Maud Berkshire, of Petersburg, were guests of J. B. Berkshire and wife, last Saturday.

Joe Reed showed up in Burlington, last Saturday, the first time for many moons. He is looking well and is in fine spirits.

Toney Bentler left for Decatur county, Indiana, last Sunday to attend the funeral of his uncle, Conrad Bentler, who died a few days before.

Robt. Carver has moved to the farm he purchased of William Clore. The land was originally a portion of the farm of the late Robert Huey.

R. A. Brady, J. O. Huey and Joe Riddell passed through town Thursday morning, enroute to the Kelly land, to begin a division among the heirs.

J. C. Robinson, of Richwood, was at the County Clerk's office, last Saturday, looking up the property that is subject to school tax in his school district.

J. C. Mack, who, several years ago, taught school in the Morgan Academy at this place, has embarked in the newspaper business at Newton, Kansas.

Rev. Hoover came over on his wheel from Erlanger, last Saturday, but the change in the weather made the road too wretched for him to get back to the railroad on his bike.

M. C. Carroll, of Big Bone, was in town Friday. It is said that Mr Carroll is just now paying considerable attention to his political fences, and when the proper times comes he will enter the race for the Sheriffaltry.

Leslie Clutterbuck is carrying one eye in a sling. He and some other young people were snow balling out at Mr. G. T. Gaines', last Sunday, and when on a retreat a wire clothesline caught him under one eye, leaving an ugly gash.

Major L. C. Norman and Mr. John Meagher have formed a partnership [illegible] Company, with headquarters in Frankfort. The many friends of both gentlemen wish them success.—Western Argus.

John Sebree, of Petersburg, has for sale, about 100 young peach trees, not budded but from seed of very fine budded fruit, at 5 cents a piece.

Jackson and Walling will be brought to Kentucky.

UNTOLD MISERY
FROM RHEUMATISM
C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by
Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur, in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months, my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith."

AYER'S
The Only World's Fair Sarsaparilla.
AYER'S PILLS cure Headache.

Public Sale!

We will offer for sale at the residence of the late J. H. Walton, deceased, on the East Bend and Burlington road, 2 miles east of Bellevue, Boone County, Ky., on Thursday, April 2nd, 1896,

The following property, towit; 3 Horses, 1 Mule, 2 Colts, 11 two year old Calves, 7 Calves, 3 Milch Cows, 3 dry Cows, 1 Bull, 44 Sheep, Sow and 5 pigs, 4 Shoats, an interest in three crops of Tobacco, 7 tons Hay, 150 bus. Corn, 15 bus. Potatoes, 2 Mowing Machines, Sulky Hayrake, Road Wagon, Sled, Buggy, Corn Drill, Haybed, Plows, Harrows, 2 Saddles, 4 sets work Harness, set Buggy Harness, lot of tobacco Sticks, 5 barrels Flour, Meat, Lard, Household and Kitchen Furniture, and many other articles.

TERMS OF SALE:

On all sums over $10 a credit of 9 months will be given, purchaser to give note with approved security, without interest. Sums of $10 and under, cash.

R. L. HUEY,
ERNEST WALTON, Adm'rs.
Sale to begin at 9 a. m.

[illegible]
O. P. Conner, Adm'r.
Lassing & Riddell, Attys.

Administrators Notice.

Those indebted to the estate of Malinda Kelly, dec'd., must come forward and settle at once, and those having claims against said estate must present the same at once proven according to law.

L. H. & WALTER KELLY,
Administrators.

Administrator's Notice.

All persons indebted to the estate of America Frazier, dec'd., must come forward and settle same, and those having claims against same must present them to the undersigned proven according to law.

J. L. FRAIZER, Adm'r.
Lassing & Riddell, Attys.

Administrator's Notice.

All those indebted to the estate of Jas. L. Henderson, deced., must come forward and settle, and any one having claims against said estate must present them to me proven according to law.

J. O. Huey, Adm'r.
Lassing & Riddell, Attys.

Buggies! Buggies!! Buggies!!!

I will be in Burlington on the first Monday in next month (April) with several nice, first-class Buggies, which I will sell at prices that will surprise you. If you want a Buggy come to Burlington on that day and examine my vehicles and learn the very low prices at which I will sell.

G. H. HACKSTADT,
Bromley, Ky.

Corn For Sale.

For Sale—About 100 bushels of Forsyth's Early Mammoth white corn, selected last fall. It has the deepest grains and is the most productive of any other corn; has from sixteen to twenty-six rows on the ear, stands the drouths and yields from two to five barrels more per acre than any other variety. It originated in Johnson county Ind in 1891. Price $1 50 per bushel.

JOHN J. CLEEK.
Beaver Lick, Boone county, Ky.

Notice to Delinquent Tax-PAYERS.

The lists of Delinquents for 1895 have been placed in the hands of Collecting Officers in the different magisterial districts for the convenience of the tax-payers. See your collector and pay your tax, or you will be reported to the Road Supervisor in your district and proceeded against according to law.

FISCAL COURT BOONE CO.,
By J. M. Lassing, Co. Atty.

Attention! Ladies! Notice!

To the first 100 ladies of Aurora and vicinity sending me their names before March 4, I will give to all such [illegible] buy their materials of me ONE FREE class lesson in Art Embroidery on March 10th, or as soon thereafter as their class number admits. Instructions in Delft, Napolitian, Jewel, Bulgarian, Swiss, Royal and South Kensington (with Italian effect) and Japanese Embroideries; also Honiton Lace Work. Address

EMMA J. M. COULTER,
107 Second St, Aurora, Ind.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.
Sallie A. Botts, Plff.
vs.
N. W. Botts, Deft.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he will begin his sittings on the 12th day of March, 1896, at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington, Ky, to hear proof in the aboved styled cause and will adjourn from day to day (Sunday excepted) to the 31st day of March, 1896. All persons having claims against N. W. Bott's estate will present them to me properly proven as by law required.

J. B. Berkshire, M. C. B. C. C

John Allison,
Undertaker
—AND—
Embalmer,
Cor. Pike & Russell Sts.,
COVINGTON, - KENTUCKY
Independent of Undertakers' Union.

NO :: LONGER
—AT ERLANGER.—
DR. WALLACE GILLHAM,
—THE DENTIST,—

who has been coming to Erlanger on Tuesdays of each week, has discontinued his office there, but will continue to do

First Class Dental Work of

All kinds at his
COVINGTON - OFFICE,
1421 Madison Ave. (next door to the Children's Home),

He also has all the latest and best facilities for administering

Gas, Vitalized Air, or Local Anæsthetics for Extracting Teeth.

You are refered to the following reliable references of your own community: Dr. C. R. Slater, Dr. C. W. McCullum, Mrs. Cal Riggs, Mrs. Mattie Hoover, Mrs. Rev. M. M. Hiner, Mrs. Rev. O. M. Huey, Mr. Ira Aylor, Erlanger; Miss Sallie Snyder, Miss Sallie Stephens, Florence.

LAND FOR SALE.

240 acres known as the Gaines farm on the Covington and Lexington pike and on the L. & N. and Cincinnati Southern Railroads, two miles north of Walton, Ky. This is one of the best farms in Northern Ky., suitable for stock, grain, grass and tobacco. Improved with a modern 8-room dwelling, large stock and hay barn, tobacco barn, tenement houses and all necessary out buildings.

For further information call on H. C. Bedinger, on the farm or address me.

Also 115 acres, known as the Platt farm, lying on the Walton and Beaver graded road. This is a good, strong piece of land with a large portion of it tobacco land. I will sell the above lands worth the money.

For further information call on or address H. C. Bedinger,

When you purchase [illegible] Gold Plated Lady's or Gents Watch, [illegible] finished in the latest and most [illegible] or, by paying $3.95 only. We give a written guarantee for five years.
Drop in and see one of them and ask for [illegible]

O. A. STOCKMAN,
—DEALER IN—
FANCY & STAPLE GROCERIES,
NO. 56 and 59 HIGH STREET,
LAWRENCEBURG, INDIANA.
Watches sent C. O. D., with privilege of examination. If not as represented you need not take it.

HARBICK & ROSE,
Undertakers and Embalmers,
OFFICE AND STABLE, 637 and 639 SCOTT STREET,
COVINGTON, KY.
CARRIAGES FOR WEDDINGS AND PRIVATE HIRE.
Telephone, 4146. OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

GEO. G. RUSSELL,
WHOLESALE AND
RETAIL GROCER,
GRASS SEED,
Corner Pike & Washington Sts. Covington, Ky.
Tom Wilson, Salesman.

SEEDS. SEEDS. SEEDS.
BUY YOUR
GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS
From W. J. RAMSEY & CO.,
We are the only House in Covington, handling a full Line of
GARDEN SEEDS.
708 Madison Avenue,
COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.
Opposite Seventh Street Market House.

A. H. Bryant. J. L. V. McDonald.
REMOVED AND READY FOR BUSINESS.
31 Pike Street,
THE OLD RELIABLE STOVE COMPANY,
Successor to J. M. CLARKSON.
Stoves, Grates, Fine Tin and HOLLOW-WARE.
Our friends of Boone County will be Welcome to Make OUR STORE Their Headquarters when in Town.
J. L. V. McDONALD, - - - Manager.
COVINGTON, KY.
Mr. J. M. Clarkson has his office with us.

STEPHENS & SCALES,
—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN—
Hardware, Cutlery; and Agricultural Implements,
Genuine Oliver Chilled & Steel Plows,
Bissell Chilled & Steel Hillside Plows,
Walking & Riding Cultivators,
Steel & Wood Gear Farm Wagons,
Champion Mower and Binders,
Ball Bearing Disk Harrows,
BARBED AND SMOOTH WIRE
AT THE LOWEST MARKET PRICE.
No. 26 Pike Street, - - - Covington, Ky.

BOEHMER, ROLF & CO.,
—DEALERS IN—
PAINTS, OILS AND GLASS,
—63 and 65 Pike Street,—
Covington, Telephone, 4212. Ky.

GEO. W. HILL & CO.,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
Flour, Tea, Tobacco AND FINE Cigars.
ALSO DEALERS IN WOOL AND COUNTRY PRODUCTS.
CALL SPECIAL ATTENTION TO OUR RETAIL DEPARTMENT.
27 and 29 PIKE ST. 26 and 28 W. SEVENTH ST.
Covington, - - Kentucky.

A. C. HECKMAN,
Florist, Plants, Bulbs, Seeds, & Metal Designs.
Fresh Cut Flowers Daily. Artistic Floral Designs a Specialty.
734 Madison Avenue,
Covington, - - Kentucky.
25 Per Cent. Less than any Cincinnati House.

METROPOLITAN COUPE AND LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,
E. H. BAKER, Proprietor
(o)
Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.
Telephone [illegible]0.

The Farmers' [illegible]
INSURANCE COMPANY,
[illegible]
[illegible] ing applications [illegible].
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
J. S. HUEY, President, Grant, Ky. | OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
Executive Board—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. Cowen, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. Rogers, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL.
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
—o—
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given to Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by mail promptly attended to.

G. G. Hughes. D. E. Castleman.
HUGHES & CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW
Burlington, Ky.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to them.

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY,
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

H. S. STEVENSON,
DENTIST,
Anæsthetics used for painless operating. Plates $8 and $10; other work accordingly. Satisfaction guaranteed in all cases.
Main Office—South side Main St. Rising Sun, Indiana.

P. T FALL,
PAINTER AND——PAPERHANGER
Union, Kentucky.
Paper Hanging a Specialty.
Will visit all parts of the Co. with samples. Give me a call.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
Capital, ... $80,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 17,000
—)o(—
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates.

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK
(Incorporated 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
Capital paid in.......... $50,000
Surplus,.......... $ 2.600
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

TABLER'S BUCK EYE PILE OINTMENT
CURES NOTHING BUT PILES.
A SURE and CERTAIN CURE known for 15 years as the BEST REMEDY for PILES.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by RICHARDSON MED CO., ST. LOUIS.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession. Call at once for work, as I leave Walton April 1st.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

KENTUCKY MIDLAND RAILROAD.

[Via Georgetown.]

P. M.	A. M.		A. M.	P. M.
d 5:21	z9:31	Ar Walton Lv	7:54	z4:48
4:40	8:55	Ar Williamstown Lv	8:32	5:25
4:17	8:31	Ar Corinth Lv	8:56	5:47
3:59	8:15	Ar Sadieville Lv	9:16	6:03
3:33	7:50	Ar Georgetown Lv	10:07	6:37
1:00	6:55	Lv Frankfort Ar	11:00	7:30

z Daily. d Except Sunday.

C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.

GENERAL
REPAIR SHOP,
At Hathaway, Ky.
WAGONS AND BUGGIES
A Specialty.
Plows and Harrows Made to Order. Satisfaction Guaranteed.
J. M. RICE.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS,
Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.
Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

Considerable ground-hog winter last week.

The equinoctial storms are due next Sunday.

Some of the farmers have been losing a good many lambs.

Go to the Burlington Mercantile Co., for all kinds of plow gear.

Business was very quiet about the temple of justice all last week.

The infant child of Richard Utz was very sick several days last week.

Uncle Johnnie Beall and his son, of Hebron, were in town Thursday.

Jeff Eddins is now a citizen of the town, having moved in last week.

Burlington people are certainly large meat eaters. It takes two butchers to supply them with that class of food.

Among the few laws passed by the legislature, was one providing a way by which counties can have free turnpikes.

A bad day and nine months' credit will insure a big crowd and long prices at a sale, as has been proven on several occasions this winter.

Hiram Long, of Florence, is buying tobacco on the breaks in Cincinnati, and hauling it out to his tobacco house where he rehandles it.

Some of the farmers are done breaking corn ground. Early plowing followed by good freezes leaves the soil in fine condition to cultivate.

Those who have been operating sugar camps say this has been an uncommonly good season. There has been a good flow of very sweet water.

Gov. Bradley will have to call an extra session of the legislature if he wants any special work done, and then it may be that he will be disappointed.

Atty. Tolin has put two nice lamps in his sanctum and is now prepared to advise the distressed at the dead hour of night as well as during the day.

Circuit Court began in Gallatin county last Monday. D. E. Castleman went down to Warsaw last Sunday to look after his business in that tribunal.

A Georgia farmer while plowing, turned over a rock under which was hidden $18,000 in gold and silver. It pays to turn over such rocks as that.

The members of the local bar are busy preparing their cases for the approaching term of Circuit Court. Several big contests are docketed for the next term.

Have heard it said that the pool-room proprietors may conclude to try their luck at Constance, this county, if they are ousted at Elmwood, back of Cincinnati.

Gardens have begun receiving some attention, and that branch of agriculture will be disposed of as soon as the weather permits, and the moon gives the signal.

Two of Burlington's ardent disciples of Isaac Walton were down on the creek with hook and line, one day last week, but they did not succeed in landing any of the finny creatures.

William Slayback killed two large wild ducks on a small pond near town one day last week. He had better luck than Grover did the same day, for William killed all he saw, while Grover did not.

The News is carrying the announcements of twenty of the good citizens of Owen county, who are candidates for county offices, and several of the back precincts remain to be heard from. Owen county offices must be worth holding.

The crowd got the laugh on Hubert Gaines one afternoon, last week, when exhibiting his educated mare on the street. She executed several commands, but, at last, rebelled and Hubert had to confess that he could not hypnotize the animal very long at a time.

You are too young, no matter what your age, to lose your hair. Save it by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. It removes dandruff, prevents baldness, restores gray and faded hair to its original color, and makes it soft, glossy, and abundant. No toilet is complete without it.

The light blanket of snow on the ground last week was great protection to the wheat which had survived the winter to that time. The prospects of a crop of wheat is as poor as seen in this part of the country for many years. The wheat will not be so rank this spring as to require pasturing to keep it back.

Go from home to hear the news. We get the following item in regard to our friend Baker and his enterprise from last Friday's Courier-Journal: "Col. Harry Baker, the wealthy banker of Erlanger, who is a resident of Florence, has purchased a large tract of land near Florence and is putting in machinery for the purpose of boring for gas."

BARGAINS: CLOSING OUT.

For the purpose of engaging in other business I am now selling my stock of goods below cost. If you want Bargains call early. The sales will continue from Saturday to Saturday until all the goods are sold. Having to go to the city every week I will continue to take orders for goods not in stock.

A. M. ACRA, Burlington, Ky.

An old fashioned soup was the attraction at Tony Bentler's sugar camp one night last week. Several of the Burlington soup annihiliators were on hand with first-class appetites, and about 25 gallons of the consomme was dispatched in a remarkably short time. The night was dark, and on their way home the boys came in contact with all the briar patches and thorn bushes along the route, and they are somewhat sore over their trip.

Thomas Nevers, of Lawrenceburg, was walking along the street, last Wednesday with his six year-old nephew, when he became suddenly, violently insane and attempted the life of the child. Parties interfered to protect the boy from harm and it required half a dozen persons to overcome the lunatic. He was bound with ropes and taken to [illegible] home, where physicians succeeded [illegible] him. The a[illegible] created [illegible] excitement.

[illegible]—Dr. W. H. Belknap, dentist, of Cincinnati, has discontinued his office at Burlington, but can be found at 908 Vine St., (new number) Cincinnati, Ohio, where he is permanently located and is prepared to do all kinds of dental work, including the latest dentistry in the most skillful and painless manner, and at prices to suit the times. Also local and general anaesthetics used for the painless extraction of teeth. Office and residence, 908 Vine street, bet. Ninth and Court.

A dispatch from Lexington, last week, says: "A damage suit of importance to the managers of telegraph companies as well as their patrons, is on trial in the Circuit Court. J. J. Graddy, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., was attending school here and alleges that a telegram announcing the death of his mother came here on Sunday morning, but was not delivered until Monday afternoon, making it impossible to reach home before the burial of his mother. The suit is for $1,800 damages."

LATER—Since the above was put in type the case has been decided, and Graddy given a judgment for $100.

The Baptist Church at this place has put in a Frink Chandelier at a cost of $85 10. The chandelier contains twelve lamps, the aggregate illuminating power of which is said to be equal to 600 candles. To Miss Alice Revill, of Washington, D. C., is due much of the credit for the church purchising this excellent chandelier. She contributed $20 for the purpos of purchasing lamps, and the members increased the amount until sufficient to purchase the Frink Chandelier. It is a handsome piece of church furniture, and affords abundant light in every part of the church. The members are well pleased with their purchase, and acknowledge their obligations to Miss Alice Revill for the financial assistance she rendered.

At Owenton, last Thursday, a shooting affray occurred in the hall of the courthouse, which resulted in Bud McDorman, a well-known character being shot by Sheriff Juno Gayle, one ball striking him in the face, passing through his jaw bone and dropping into his mouth. The second shot penetrated the breast bone and passed through the chest, and, strange to say, McDorman walked around quite a little while after the affair before being compelled to lie down.

Mr. Gayle was engaged in transacting the routine affairs of his office, when McDorman met him in the hall and called him into the law office of J. W. Cammack, and locked the door. McDorman said to him: "You had the drop on me yesterday. I have got it to-day."

They parleyed a little while, Gayle being unarmed. A gentleman in the office unlocked the door. When he did so Gayle stepped out, as did also McDorman, who seemed to hand John W. Neal, a companion, a pistol. Rige Moor, a deputy sheriff, hearing of the wrangle, ran up to Gayle with a pistol. Gayle snatched it from him, and immediately shot McDorman. Two pistols belonging to McDorman were picked up in the hall immediately after the shooting. McDorman has quite a reputation as a fighter and an all-round dangerous man.

Neal, the man with him, has also killed his man. McDorman and Neal, after the shooting, followed Gayle to his office, but were met by Deputy Sheriff Alexander, who prevented them from entering. McDorman is now at the Woods House, and while his wounds are dangerous they are not considered necessarily fatal.

Neighborhood News.

RABBIT HASH—The Grangers, or we should say the had been Grangers, sold the remnants of their lodge furniture here, and 1 acre of ground in town. The lot was bought by the Masons to erect a lodge room at some distant date. The Grangers decided to divide the proceeds of sales equally between those in good standing at their last meeting, provided the "East Bend Library" does not force them to pay a just debt that they owe it. Years ago the people in this neighborhood started a library, which cost about $150. When the Grange was in its prime it removed the library from the Maple Hill schoolhouse to its lodge on Lick Creek, where no one had access to it but the Grangers. When their hall burnt the library was destroyed with it. Now the question arises, ought not the defunct Grange pay for the library? Nine-tenths of the people say yes.

Although rather early, talking politics has commenced in our town. Rabbit Hash wants to present several men to be voted for at the next election, and she wants to be in time and pick out her best material for the desired places, so she will come out winner.

UTZINGER—Going to have a big river.

A strange lot of dogs were running a fox here last Sunday.

The comet missed us, but the snow storm struck us broad side.

W. A. Gaines is very sick with some throat trouble. Dr. Crisler, of Ludlow, is his physician.

James White, who has pneumonia, is able to set up.

Nick Oberding and Gus Kotmeyer, of Lawrenceburg, and Michael Giegold, of Aurora, attended Chas. Stephens' sale.

Slater brothers, Carroll Moore and Misses Edna Craig, Annie McGrannahan and Alba Dorm, of Lawrenceburg, were visiting Andy Grasser and family last Sunday.

Whit Jarrell, who started to New Orleans on a produce boat, left it at Cairo and came home.

Dr. Hays gave the young folks a big dance at his house last Wednesday night. Three Italians from the city made the music.

Dr. J. H. Walton, assistant superintendent of the Hopkinsville insane asylum, is visiting his parents here.

An alarm of fire called the department to the corner of Cemetery road and Cooper street in Petersburg, last Friday night about nine o'clock, where a fierce fire was raging in Mr. Kettle's fodder, which he had stacked in his yard. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The revenue boys at Petersburg all got a change of base Monday.

Ezra Aylor, of the Gunpowder neighborhood, has moved to W. H. Grant's farm near here.

Chas. Colvin, who moved from here to Ozark county, Missouri, is holding a very important county office there.

Mrs. A. Stephens will move to Hebron, and Charles will go to Missouri on a prospecting tour, with a view to locating there.

Edson Riddell and Jack Sandford, of Burlington, were here one day last week. While here Jack entertained the crowd with some slight-of-hand tricks that were marvelous.

Turn on the cathode rays and see how many Democrats want a primary in November.

Mr. L. A. Loder says he has lived in Petersburg for 42 years, and that he never knew of so much sickness there as there has been this winter.

When there is 18 feet of water on the guage at Cincinnati the backwater is over the Wool[illegible]r crossing of the Petersburg and Bel[illegible]ue road.

Elijah Parker, m[illegible]mber of the Democratic Committee for this precinct, is opposed to the [illegible]ing of a primary [illegible] are convalescing.

[illegible] Miss Mary Smith went to [illegible] to have her teeth fixed at the Ohio Dental College, where young Walling, one of the suspects in the Ft. Thomas murder, did the work for her.

[illegible] of Will Bott's horses went mad the other day and kicked and bit every thing that came in its way. It had one spasm after another for nearly 10 hours, when death relieved it.

ERLANGER—The Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church gave a coffee reception at the residence of the pastor, Rev. Davis.

Mrs. Dr. C. R. Slater had for her guest, Sunday, Miss Sallie Snyder, of Boone county.

Mrs. B. L. Stevens, of near Dixon, is visiting her mother, Mrs. R. H. Ingram, of Commonwealth Ave.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist Church will give a social at the residence of Mrs. Hy Myers on Saturday evening.

J. A. Wyss, Hy Meyers and Louis Morrelli all celebrated their birthday within one week—March 4th, 9th and 11th. It was a week of jollification. We congratulate them and hope they will have several more to celebrate.

H. G. Buckner and family left, last Saturday, for New Orleans, to make their future home.

The young men of this place are contemplating the organization of a company of State Guards.

Rev. O. M. Huey informed the writer that he has not decided about the call at Carrollton, although several of the papers have stated he has declined.

Miss Mattie Talbott, of Covington, was visiting here Sunday.

The Misses Dulaney gave a party to their young friends, last week.

Hon. W. H. Baker is in Oklahoma.

A number of young people from our town attended a party given by Dr. Arthur Rouse and sister, Miss Ora, of Limaburg neighborhood.

WALTON, March 15.—Quite a number of prominent Democrats, subscribers to your paper, have requested that it should make a suggestion that the Executive Committee of the county should endeavor to have the primary election for nomination of candidates for district and county officers, for the year 1897, held at the same time that the presidential election is held in 1896. It is urged that the voters will come out to a man at the presidential election and that it will give Boone county a larger vote in the next State Convention and insure more favorable consideration to the county's favorite candidates. There can be no doubt about the convenience of the arrangement, and it should commend itself to the candidates, as it would save them a heavy expense which they could in this manner avoid.

The well known law office of C. Y. Dyas will be occupied by the firm of Diers & Ha[illegible]—H. C. D[illegible] A. R Hance—who will open out as real estate agents. They should do a heavy bu[illegible] lively, energetic heavy weights.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Cleek gave a Crokonole p[illegible] of their son Jacob, on last Friday evening. It was a hearty, delightful jollification in which all the youthful masters and misses enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent of their capacity. Some lads, and lassies, too, have much more capacity for enjoyment than others, but at this particular social gathering all seemed to be happily in the mood of making the most of a very pleasant event, the sweet memories of which will be with them on all the ups and downs of life. Seven boards, all I believe our little town can muster, afforded all a chance to participate in the merry, innocent game. Jacob gave not the names of any champions, and in response to a query as to "who was the belle of the party?" he was equally uncommunicative, agreeing, no doubt, with the writer's own opinion on that subject that all school girls are the special bells of some one of the rollicking, fun-loving school boys. They had a grand old time and lastly they did most ample justice to the substantial and delightful things so gratifying to youthful appetites.

The following young Misses were in this maze of delight, Carrie and Sallie Herndon, Mabel Bagby, Hattie Edwards, Edna Ransier, Mary Rouse, Effie Lormond, Lora Diers, Madge Holder, Eva Vanlandingham, Myrtle Jones and Ethel Waltz. The laddies were, Johnnie Kipp, Waller Herndon, Robert Beyland, Johnnie Crow, Ernest McElroy, Walter Rouse, Leon Prior, Elza Vanlandingham, Chas. Chambers, James McGee, Herman Arnold and the host, Jacob Cleek. Mr. and Mrs. Tomlin and Dr. Adams were also there.

The Brittenhelm Bros., are erecting a wind-mill on their barn near the Short Line, and will be grinding corn to feed their hogs by the last of this week.

It is highly probable that the post-office will be moved up to the hardware store in the near future.

Miss Mollie Ransom, of Grant, is delighting her sister, Mrs. B. L. Northcutt, and more particularly Byron's children, a visit.

Mr. Wm. Buckner Northcutt, of Covington, afforded his friends a pleasant surprise by dropping down among them on last Saturday evening.

J. Ricketts Johnson is taking a relaxation from business by visiting his mother, at the farm.

PETERSBURG—"Pilgrims Progress" illustrated by the stereopticon, was given at the Christian Church last Thursday evening. It was under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor.

Bernard Berkshire has malarial fever.

There will be another wedding here soon. The bride-to be lives in the northeast corner of town.

Richard Wickman, wharfmaster at Patriot, Indiana, was the guest of M. S. Hardin for a short time, Wednesday.

Ed Kelm, besides being annoyed cutting a wisdom tooth, is experiencing Job's affliction, to which must be added the inconvenience resulting from splitting his hand open with a Cooper's adz.

Mr. Meuch, of Cincinnati, is putting in the electric plant for the distillery.

Mr. Griffith and son, Hubert, of Erlanger, have finished their part of the mechanical work on Capt. Alden's boat.

The Christian Endeavor Social, at Mr. Evans' Monday night, was not a flattering success because of the non-attendance of several who were on the program. However, all present had a very pleasant time

The carpenters and builders, Botts and Bowman, are doing a good business. They are now engaged on Frank Laws' new residence.

Miss Jones, of Hamilton, Ohio, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Evans.

I am glad to report all the sick as better.

Prof. Voshell was shaking hands with his friends here, last Friday.

Hurd and Passons give a dance next Thursday night, to be followed by one given by the H. T. on Friday night.

EVERETT.

Died, a little after 11 o'clock p. m., Saturday, March 14th, 1896, of cancer, Phillip Hoffman, aged 42 years. He was a son of Mr. Adam Hoffman, an old citizen of our town, and was an honest, lawabiding man. He was fireman on the Workum and also on the old Minnie, and was a first-class yeast-maker. About a year ago he went to Paris, Ky., and placed himself under the treatment of Dr. W. R. Smith, a noted cancer doctor and seemed to be getting along all right, as the doctor's remedy acted like a charm. But the [illegible] kindred and friends, [illegible] patiently till death came to his relief. He was insured in the Metropolitan for $100. His remains were placed in the vault at 3 o'clock p. m., on the Tuesday following his death.

Mr. Henry Rinehart and his uncle, of Milan, Ind., came over la[illegible]turday to get a load of malt sprouts at the distillery.

Howard Fenton has returned to his Memphis boat as his father is able to go on duty again.

VERONA—Dr. B. K. Menefee has been quite sick for several days.

The Baptist Sunday school at the hall, has purchased an organ, which adds greatly to the singing.

There is complaint of chicken thieves in this vicinity.

Our friend, George Anderson, was seen going in the direction of Walton, on Wednesday, very early, and the mystery was all solved when we learned later that Mr. A. had been married to Miss Lizzie Florence on March 11th. He was one of our clever young widowers.

John Bentler has moved to Florence, where he will engage in blacksmithing.

There is talk of a general merchandise stock company being organized at this place, which will include the entire stock of J. W. Kennedy.

The Methodist, with Rev. Horney and Mathews, are conducting a revival meeting here Let all of the good christian people come out and encourage the good work.

The Mildale Pickle Factory, at Mildale, will make a shipping point here, provided 200 acres are planted in cucumbers. Those interested in the growing of pickles can call on Edward Fry and learn particulars.

Father Priest's house was entered, one day last week, and some wine and a few eggs were taken. It is supposed the party that took the wine was not dry but only thirsty.

Some of the wheat land will be sowed to oats.

Lewis Martin died Saturday night, after a short attack of peritonitis. He had always been a good friend and neighbor and his death will be greatly deplored by all who knew him. He leaves a wife and three children to mourn his death. Funeral services were held at the Baptist Church Monday, after which his remains were laid to rest in the New Bethel cemetery.

RABBIT HASH—Our merchants are replenishing their stock to meet the spring trade.

The ferry-boat is high and dry, awaiting a rise in the river.

Miss Maud Ryle is conducting a very interesting school at East Bend.

Bessie VanNess will open a spring school at Maple Hill.

Wm Parson (nee Shiner) has departed for Beaver Lick to post up Ad Riddell and get him acquainted with the people of Boone preparatory to running for sheriff. Shiner knows more peop[illegible] in Boone, than J. J. Childress, of Union who has ever been known and acknowledged to be an encyclopedia on the names of people of Boone and adjoining [illegible].

We were not aware that there were so many valuable dwelling houses in the county as is being shown up by some of the recent losses. Surely some of these appraisements were made when property of that class was above par. We think now it would be better to conf[illegible] more closely to the gold basis.

A change in the public road leading down the river to East Bend is contemplated. A change up the river or improvement of some kind is equally necessary.

Fannie Carnstina (nee Craig) of Indianapolis, after a pleasant visit with her sisters here, has returned to her home, she having transfered her interest in the home place to Mrs. Katie, who now owns and occupies the homestead.

UNION—The sleigh bells were heard in our little town Sunday.

Mrs. Dora Bannister has been quite sick for the last week.

A pretty event last Tuesday evening was a surprise tendered Miss Mattie Talbot, at the residence of Mr. Conner. A host of good things were brought by the revelers, who took complete possession of the parlor and made Mr. and Mrs. Conner happy guests at their own home.

Miss Mattie Talbot left, Wednesday for her home in Covington.

Bro. Johnson filled Dr. Adams appointment here Sunday.

Mr. Aylor has his new store beautifully papered.

Charles Cleek moved to Covington last week.

A number of young friends of Miss Mattie Cleek tendered her a dancing reception at her home on Friday evening. The affair was a very pleasant one, and was attended by the following: Misses Mattie Talbot, Sallie Kennedy, Lillie Corbin, Maud Norman, Mary and Opha Riley, Lulu Williams, Effa and Fannie Cleek, Stella Myers, Annie Rice, Mrs Garrison, Mrs. Whitson, Mrs. Voshell, Messrs Sam Hicks, Hedges, Norman, Rachal, Terrell, Whitson, Aylor, Riley, Tanner, Rice and many others.

LIMABURG—The young folks spent a very pleasant evening on the 14th at the residence of A. F. Crigler, playing "tiddle winks" with Miss Allie Hoffman, who is visiting her grand father.

Good many peaches killed.

A great many lambs have died this season.

Miss Lizzie Gordon will commence a spring school here on the 16th.

About 40 persons attended the wood-sawing and quilting at John Poston's last Thursday.

Geo. E. Rouse is done breaking land for corn.

Mrs. Absalom Aylor has 40 young chickens.

Mrs. Harriet Shafer, of Cincinnati, died on the 13th, and was buried at Hopeful on the 16th. She lived with her nephew, S J. Rouse, of this place, for about five years. She had a great many friends in this county. She leaves two brothers, A. F. Crigler and P. M. Crigler and a great many relatives to mourn her death. She was 77 years old.

RICHWOOD—Born, to Willie Glackin and wife, on the 13th inst., a ten pound boy.

John Soden has moved to a house on H. R. Hearn's farm and will rent a part of Mr. Hearn's land.

Miss Stella Myers gave a party to her many young friends last Friday night.

Wm. Laucaster has moved from Crescent to his old home at this place.

Uncle Cum Wilson has returned, after an extensive visit to his daughter, Mrs. Charley Allen, of Big Bone.

Ed and Charlie Stephens have moved on the Joe Myers farm.

Miss Hattie Youell is teaching a spring school at this place.

HEBRON—This is good March weather.

Jas. Conner, of Missouri, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Quick, of this place.

J. E. and Hubert Conner were out sleighriding last Sunday.

There will be preaching here next Sunday at 3 p. m., and Sunday week at 11:30 a. m.

Henry Quick is the champion tiddledy-winks player at this place.

Parties are all the go. One at Perry Aylor's last Tuesday night; one at Tom Hafer's Thursday night, and a surprise on Miss Grace Conner, Saturday night.

Better Times.

To the People of Boone County.

I will say that on or about the 23d inst., I will open

Business in UNION, KENTUCKY.

My goods are First-class and Prices shall meet the approbation of the public. Your patronage is kindly solicited, and when in town please call and let us quote prices. Very Respectfully,

Ira Aylor.

J. J. GEISEN,
Best and Cheapest HAT STORE In the City.
Agency for WHITE STAR LAUNDRY.
615 MADISON AVE.,
COVINGTON, KENTUCKY.

Until His
Spring Opening
BLASE WILL SELL

$5 Men's Suits for	$3.50
$6 and $7 Men's Suits for	$5.00
$8 and $10 Men's Suits for	$6.00
$12 and $14 Men's Suits for	$8.00
$15 and $18 Men's Suits for	$10.00
$5 Boys' Suits for	$3.50
$6 and $7 Boys' Suits for	$5.00
$10 Boys' Suits for	$6.00
$12 and $15 Boys' Suits for	$8.00
Children's Suits for	$1.50, $2.00 and $2.50
All-Wool Assorted Pants for	$1.50
Mackintoshes	$3.00

The greatest values ever offered in Clothing in order to make room for Spring Goods.

H. F. Blase,
534 Madison Ave., Covington, Ky.

HEADQUARTERS FOR
SWEET PEAS.
Mixed Varieties { Per pound . . . 40c. Half pound . . 25c. Quarter pound . . 15c.
THE ONLY
DOUBLE SWEET PEA,
BRIDE OF NIAGARA.
(True to Name.)
Price—Packet 25c. Half packet 15c.
THE WONDERFUL
CRIMSON RAMBLER ROSE,
Only 15 Cents.
VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE, 1896,
The Pioneer Seed Catalogue.
Tried and True Novelties.—Fuchsias, Roses, Blackberry, The Pearl Gooseberry, Potatoes, Earliest Tomato Known, etc. Lithographs of Double Sweet Pea, Roses, Fuchsias, Blackberries, Raspberries, New Leader Tomato, Vegetables. Filled with good things, old and new. Full list of Flowers, Vegetables, Small Fruits, etc., with description and prices. Mailed on receipt of 10 cts., which may be deducted from first order—really Free,—or free with an order for any of the above.
ROCHESTER, N. Y.
JAMES VICK'S SONS

For Sale or Rent.

96 acres of river bottom land, opposite Lawrenceburg, Ind., in good state of cultivation. J. C. REVILL, Burlington, Ky.

FARM FOR SALE.

A good farm of 76 acres, between Bellevue and Petersburg, near Woolper ford—good house, good barn and necessary outbuildings. The sale will be on easy terms. OWEN ALLEN.

Election Notice.

The stockholders of the Burlington & Florence turnpike are hereby notified that an election will be held in the town of Burlington, Ky., Saturday, April 4th, 1896, for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year. W. R. ROUSE, President.

Andy Scheben,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
WINES, LIQUORS
AND BRANDY,
Old Bourbon, $2.00 Per Gallon.
LEXINGTON PIKE,
ERLANGER, - - - KY.
Near Town Hall.

FERTILIZER.

Farmers, I would be pleased to have your orders for Fertilizer this year. Our goods are graded up considerably for 1896, and we have the following goods at last year's prices:

Raw Bone Meal.
Fine Ground Bone.
Tobacco and Potatoes.
Acidulated Bone.
Ammoniated Bone.
Special Tobacco.
Miami Valley Phosphate.
Jones Reliable Phosphate.
Jewell Phosphate.

When you buy our goods you get the worth of your money, and you know I placed good goods on the Boone and Kenton county market in 1894 and 1895 for less money than any other firm.

B. F. ZIMMER, Gen. Agt., for The Jones Fertilizer Co., Constance, Ky.

FOR RENT—Neat cottage of [illegible] garden and coal house in [illegible] Ky. [illegible]

MILLINERY!

We are ready to show you all the latest effects in
FALL AND WINTER
MILLINERY,
TRIMMED HATS & BONNETS
Of Parsian Designs and from our own work rooms. Children's Hats, Baby Caps and Tamoshanters. A full line of Mourning Goods constantly on hand.

Ice-Wool, Zepher & Saxony Yarns.

Repairing and Hats trimed to order, a specialty. We are better prepared than ever to serve our customers: Our large and varied assortment of goods will enable you to be pleased.

Give us a call before purchasing elsewhere. Respectfully,

Mrs. A. J. SWALLOW.
Main Street, Rising Sun, Ind.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
—DRUGGIST,—
Rising Sun, - Indiana.

Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the

✠Corner Drug Store.✠

Miss Helen Merci Schuster
DRAMATIC READER
AND TEACHER OF
Elocution, Physical Culture and Delsarte,
811 Scott St. - - COVINGTON, KY.

Class for young Ladies and Gentlemen at UNION, KY., every Saturday—10 to 11 a. m. SEND FOR TERMS.

MOST IN QUANTITY. BEST IN QUALITY.
WORMS!
WHITE'S CREAM
VERMIFUGE
FOR 20 YEARS
Has led all WORM Remedies.
EVERY BOTTLE GUARANTEED.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by
RICHARDSON MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS.

NOTICE.

All those indebted to me for taxes are hereby notified that I am compelled to close up my tax accounts and will proceed to enforce their collection by law if not paid by March 1st, 1896. My books are in the hands of Lassing & Riddell, attorneys, Burlington, Ky. Call and settle with them and save costs.

D. BEALL, Ex-Sheriff
Boone County.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

Clothing AND GENTS' Furnishi

Specialties—Stylish Suits, Hats, Caps, Collars, Cuffs, ties, Handkerchiefs, Socks, Suspenders, Um las, Trunks and Valises.
WHITE SHIRTS, COLORED SHIRTS.
Masonic Building, - - - Lawrenceburg, Ind.

BEST GOODS! LIVING PRICES!

Hardware,
Farm Machinery,
Fine Vehicles,
Harness.

HARRIS FITCH, Corner HIGH AND SHORT STREETS,
LAWRENCEBURG, INDIANA.

PURE BRED CHESTER WHITE HOGS.
La : Belle : Herd
—OF UP TO DATE—
CHESTER WHITE HOGS.
Stock Eligible to any Record.

Correspondence or personal inspection Solicited. Send for my new Catalogue and Book of Gentral and Useful Information.

ALSO AGENT FOR
AEROMETER
EVERY FARMER NEEDS ONE.
Best and Cheapest Wind-Mill Made.
COME AND SEE IT.

FREE FOR EVERYBODY.

T. J. HUGHES, - - - BEAVER LICK, KY.

HANKINS, DAVIS & CO.,
GENERAL MERCHANTS,
HEBRON AND CONSTANCE, KY.

A good supply of Campbell's Creek Coal on hand at Constance at all times. A good supply of feed always in stock. Garden and Field Seeds.

UNDERTAKING.

is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance.

Do Not Read This.

Four Pound Schofield Blankets,	$3.00
Four and half pounds Schofield Blankets.	3.25
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 36 inches,	.80
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 38 inches,	.90
Schofield's all-wool Ready-Made Skirts,	1.15

Schofield Flannels at cost.
All Schofield Yarns 10 per cent. discount. Schofield Jeans at cost.
All Boots and Heavy Shoes at cost.
We have a few Suits of Mens' Underwear which we will sell at cost.

Also a full line of DRY GOODS ...... And a neat line of GROCERIES,
AT THE STORE OF THE
Burlington Mercantile Co.,
Burlington, Kentucky.

FOR SALE-THE LATEST IMPROVED "ACME" HARROW and Troy Pivot Axel Farm Wagons.

In calling attention to some points of the "ACME" HARROW, we will say that while it is not our custom to criticise harrows of other kinds, it is only fair to point out the difference we find in using this harrow along with other harrows. The arrangement of the Coulters on the "Acme" is such that the entire surface of the ground is practically cut over, while the Disk Harrow cuts but little more than half the surface—following one of the Disk Harrows the ground may appear to have been cut over, but if a portion of the surface be removed, uncut ridges will be found just underneath. The Disk Harrows are good for certain purposes, but they certainly can not be called general purpose harrows as they have no crushing or leveling device, whereas the "ACME" is a complete Harrow Clod Crusher and Leveler. The "Acme" is very simple and easily adjusted; does not undo the work of the plow; being entirely of cast and wrought iron it is practically indestructible, nothing can wear but the coulters, and these can be replaced at trifling cost. We are selling the "Acme" this season for but little more than the spike tooth harrow. It is the cheapest riding harrow made. We guarantee them to give perfect satisfaction.

If you want a wagon made of carefully selected stock, well constructed, well proportioned, handsomely finished, lighter draught, greater carrying capacity than any other, and one that will give you perfect satisfaction, give us your order for the

TROY PIVOT AXEL WAGON,

as they are no experiment—they have been tried for several years and we [illegible] they have several good features that the ordinary axel wagon haven't. prices and information call on or address

GEO. E. ROUSE & S
LIMABURG, Boone

[illegible] studded with diamonds and other precious stones. Egypt, by the way, has a debt of about $625,000,000, besides the interest on this has to pay annual tribute to the sultan of Turkey amounting to nearly $3,500,000. [illegible] the present khedive has [illegible] following in the footsteps of his predecessors, whose extravagances brought about the present almost bankrupt condition of the country.

Each piece of the khedive's golden toilet set bears his monogram in diamonds. Upward of 3,000 diamonds and over 1,200 rubies were used in decorating these gorgeous adjuncts to the Egyptian ruler's dressing-table. The body of each of the 28 pieces is of 18-karat gold, and all are inclosed in a diamond-incrusted ebony case.

The Chambermaid's Tips.

A pleasing story is told by the crown prince of Germany, who, with his brother, was recently with their tutor at the hotel of the Chutes du Rhin. When the tutor paid the bill he offered a money present to the chambermaid, who, however, refused the gift, pointing to a notice that tips were forbidden. The tutor explained the situation to the eldest pupil, who thereupon went out with his brother and bought a very pretty brooch. This he gave to the maid, saying that, "as it was not money, she could not refuse it." As the young princes were staying at the hotel incognito the maid did not know that the donor of the brooch will probably be emperor of Germany some day.

Home Seekers Excursions.

In order to give everyone an opportunity to see the Western Country and enable the home seekers to secure a home in time to commence work for the season of 1896, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R'y has arranged to run a series of four home seekers excursions to various points in the West, North-West and South-West on the following dates: March 10, April 7 and 21 and May 5, at the low rate of two dollars more than ONE FARE for the round trip. Tickets will be good for return on any Tuesday or Friday within twenty-one days from date of sale. For rates, time of trains and further details apply to any coupon ticket agent in the East or South, or address GEO. H. HEAFFORD, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Chicago, Ill.

AS THE mind must govern the hands, so in every society the men of intelligence must direct the man of labor.—Johnson.

The Unkindest Cut of All,

As Shakespeare says, is to poke fun or sneer at people who are nervous, under the half-belief that their complaint is imaginary or an affectation. It is neither, but a serious reality. Imperfect digestion and assimilation of the food is a very common cause of nervousness, especially that distressing form of it which manifests itself in want of sleep. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters speedily remedies nervousness, as it also does malarial, kidney, bilious and rheumatic ailments. The weak gain vigor speedily through its use.

NATURE, through all her works, in great degree, borrows a blessing from variety.—Churchill.

To California in Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars.

The Burlington Route (C., B. & Q. R. R.) runs personally conducted excursions to California, leaving Chicago every Wednesday. Through cars to California destination, fitted with carpets, upholstered seats, bedding, toilet rooms, etc.; every convenience. Special agent in charge. Route via Denver and Salt Lake. Sunshine all the way. Write for descriptive pamphlet to T. A. Grady, Excursion Manager, 211 Clark St., Chicago.

THE Master—"Is it raining very hard, Thomas?" The Servant—"No, sir; only hailstones, sir."—Roxbury Gazette.

All About Western Farm Lands.

The "Corn Belt" is the name of an illustrated monthly newspaper published by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy R. R. It aims to give information in an interesting way about the farm lands of the west. Send 25 cents in postage stamps to the Corn Belt, 209 Adams St., Chicago, and the paper will be sent to your address for one year.

HE—"Do you find your typewriter a help?" She—"Yes, indeed! Why, I have been signing checks with it."—Life.

Free to "Comrades"

The latest photograph of Honorable I. N. Walker, Commander-in-Chief of the G. A. R. Write to F. H. Lonn, Quincy Building, Chicago, and you will receive one free.

WHAT you keep by you, you may change and mend; but words once spoken can never be recalled.—Roscommon.

Spring

Is the season for purifying, cleansing, and renewing. The accumulations of waste everywhere are being removed. Winter's icy grasp is broken and on all sides are indications of nature's returning life, renewed force, and awakening power.

Spring

Is the time for purifying the blood, cleansing the system and renewing the physical powers. Owing to close confinement, diminished perspiration and other causes, in the winter, impurities have not passed out of the system as they should but have accumulated in the blood

Spring

Is therefore the best time to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, because the system is now most in need of medicine. That Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier and Spring medicine is proved by its wonderful cures. A course of Hood's Sarsaparilla now may prevent great suffering later on.

Hood's

Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

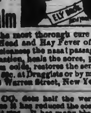
CATARRH

is a

LOCAL DISEASE

and is the result of colds and sudden climatic changes.

It can be cured by a pleasant remedy which is applied directly into the nostrils. Being quickly absorbed it gives relief at once.



Ely's Cream Balm

is acknowledged to be the most thorough cure for Nasal Catarrh, Cold in Head and Hay Fever of all remedies. It opens and cleanses the nasal passages, allays pain and inflammation, heals the sores, protects the membrane from colds, restores the senses of taste and smell. Price 50c. at Druggists or by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

THE AERMOTOR CO. does half the world's windmill business, because it has reduced the cost of wind power to 1/6 what it was. It has many branch houses, and supplies its goods and repairs at your door. It can and does furnish a better article for less money than others. It makes Pumping and Geared, Steel, Galvanized-after-Completion Windmills, Tilting and Fixed Steel Towers, Steel Buzz Saw Frames, Steel Feed Cutters and Feed Grinders. On application it will name one of these articles that it will furnish until [illegible] at 1/3 the usual price. It also makes [illegible] Pumps of all kinds. Send for catalogue. [illegible] Chicago.

[illegible]

[illegible] Gospel to Empty Stomachs—Christ Fed the Multitude Before Preaching on the Mount—Rev. Dr. Talmage's Sermon.

Dr. Talmage's text Sunday was Psalm cxlvii. 17: "Who can stand before His cold?"

The almanac says that winter is ended and spring has come, but the winds, and the frosts, and the thermometer, in some places down to zero, deny it. The Psalmist lived in a more genial climate than this, and yet he must sometimes have been cut by the sharp weather. In this chapter he speaks of the snow like wool, the frost like ashes, the hailstones like marbles, and describes the congealment of lowest temperature. We have all studied the power of the heat. How few of us have studied the power of the frost? "Who can stand before His cold?" This challenge of the text has many times been accepted. October 19, 1812, Napoleon's great army began its retreat from Moscow. One hundred and fifty thousand men, 50,000 horses, 600 pieces of cannon, 40,000 stragglers. It was bright weather when they started from Moscow, but soon something wrathier than the Cossacks swooped upon their flanks. An army of Arctic blasts, with icicles for bayonets, and hailstones for shot, and commanded by voice of tempest, marched after them, the flying artillery of the heavens in pursuit. The troops at nightfall would gather into circles and huddle themselves together for warmth; but when the day broke they rose not, for they were dead, and the ravens came for their morning meal of corpses. The way was strewn with the rich stuffs of the east, brought as booty from the Russian capital. An invisible power seized 100,000 men and hurled them dead into the snow-drifts, and on the hard surfaces of the chill rivers, and into the maws of the dogs that had followed them from Moscow. The freezing horror which has appalled history was proof to all ages that it is a vain thing for any earthly power to accept the challenge of my text: "Who could stand before His cold?" In the middle of December, 1777, at Valley Forge, 11,000 troops were, with frosted ears and frosted hands and frosted feet, without shoes, without blankets, lying on the white pillow of the snow bank. As during our civil war the cry was "On to Richmond!" when the troops were not ready to march, so in the revolutionary war there was a demand for wintry campaign until Washington lost his equilibrium and wrote emphatically: "I assure those gentlemen it is easy enough, seated by good firesides and in comfortable homes, to draw out campaigns for the American army; but I tell them it is not so easy to lie on a bleak hill-side, without blankets and without shoes." Oh, the frigid horrors that gathered around the American army in the winter of 1777! Valley Forge was one of the tragedies of the century. Benumbed, senseless dead. "Who can stand before His cold?" "Not we," say the frozen [illegible] of Sir John Franklin and his men, dying [illegible] exploration. "Not we," [illegible] Schwatka and his crew, falling back from the fortresses of ice which they had tried in vain to capture. "Not we," say the abandoned and crushed decks of the Intrepid, the Resistance and the Jeannette. "Not we," say the procession of American martyrs returned home for American sepulture, De Long and his men. The highest pillars of the earth are pillars of ice—Mount Blanc, Jungfrau, the Matterhorn. The largest galleries of the world are galleries of ice. Some of the mighty rivers much of the year are in captivity of ice. The greatest sculptors of the ages are the glaciers, with arm and hand and chisel and hammer of ice. The cold is imperial and has a crown of glittering crystal and is seated on a throne of ice, with footstool of ice and scepter of ice. Who can tell the sufferings of the winter of 1433, when all the birds of Germany perished? or the winter of 1658 in England, when the stages rolled on the Thames and temporary houses of merchandise were built on the ice? or the winter of 1821 in America, when New York harbor was frozen over and the heaviest teams crossed on the ice to Staten Island? Then come down to our own winters, when there have been so many wrapping themselves in furs, or thrashing their arms about them to revive circulation—the millions of the Temperate and the Arctic zones who are compelled to confess, "None of us can stand before this cold?"

One half of the industries of our day are employed in battling inclemency of the weather. The furs of the north, the cotton of the south, the flax of our own fields, the wool of our own flocks, the coal from our own mines, the wood from our forests, all employed in battling these inclemencies, and still every winter, with blue lips and chattering teeth, answers: "None of us can stand before this cold." Now, this being such a cold world, God sends out influences to warm it. I am glad that the God of the frost is the God of the heat; that the God of the snow is the God of the white blossoms; that the God of January is the God of June. The question as to how we shall warm this world up is a question of immediate and all encompassing practicality. In this zone and weather there are so many fireless hearths, so many broken window panes, so many defective roofs that sift the snow. Coal and wood and flannels and thick coats are better for warming up such a place than tracts and Bibles and creeds. Kindle that fire where it has gone out. Wrap something around those shivering limbs. Shoe those bare feet. Hat that bare head. Coat that bare back. Sleeve that bare arm. Nearly all the pictures of Martha Washington represent her in courtly dress as bowed to by foreign ambassadors, but Mrs. Kirkland, in her interesting book, gives a more inspiring portrait of Martha Washington. She comes forth from her husband's hut in the encampment, the hut 16 feet long by 14 feet wide—she comes forth from that hut to nurse the sick, to sew the patched garments, to console the soldiers dying of the cold. That is a better picture of Martha Washington. Hundreds of garments, hundreds of tons of coal, hundreds of glasiers at broken window sashes, hundreds of whole-souled men and women, are necessary to warm the wintry weather. What are we doing to alleviate the condition of those not so fortunate as we? Know ye not, my friends, there are hundreds of thousands of people who can not stand before this cold? It is useless to preach to bare feet, and to empty stomachs, and to gaunt visages. Christ gave the world a lesson in common sense when, before preaching the Gospel to the multitude in the wilderness, He gave them a good dinner. When I was a lad I remember seeing two rough wood cuts, but they made more impression upon me than any pictures I have ever seen. They were on opposite pages. The one wood cut represented the coming of the snow in winter, and a lad looking out at the door of a great mansion, and he was all wrapped [illegible] and his cheeks were ruddy [illegible] glowing countenance [illegible] the door was opened [illegible] wan and sick, and [illegible] and wretched, was looking [illegible] and he said: "O[illegible] it snows!" The window [illegible] or of grief, according to one's circumstances. But, my friends, there is more than one way of warming up this cold world, for it is a cold world in more respects than one, and I am here to consult with you as to the best way of warming up this cold world. I want to have a great heater introduced into all of your churches and all your homes throughout the world. It is a heater of divine patent. It has many pipes with which to conduct heat; and it has a door in which to throw the fuel. Once get this heater introduced and it will turn the arctic zone into the temperate; and the temperate into the tropics. It is the powerful heater, it is the glorious furnace of Christian sympathy. The question ought to be, instead of how much heat can we absorb? how much heat can we throw out? There are men who go through the world like floating icebergs. They freeze everything with their forbidding look. The hand with which they shake yours is as cold as the paw of a polar bear. If they float into a religious meeting the temperature drops from 80 above to ten degrees below zero. There are icicles hanging from their eyebrows. They float into a religious meeting, and they chill everything with their jeremaids. Cold prayers, cold songs, cold greetings, cold sermons. Christianity on ice! The church a great refrigerator. Christians gone into winter quarters. Hibernation! On the other hand, there are people who go through the world like the breath of a spring morning. Warm greetings, warm prayers, warm smiles, warm Christian influence. There are such persons. We bless God for them. We rejoice in their companionship.

A general in the English army, the army having halted for the night, having lost his baggage, lay down tired and sick without any blanket. An officer came up and said: "Why, you have no blanket. I'll go and get you a blanket. He departed for a few moments and then came back and covered the general up with a very warm blanket. The general said: "Whose blanket is this?" The officer replied: "I got that from a private soldier in the Scotch regiment—Ralph McDonald." "Now," said the general, "you take this blanket right back to that soldier. He can no more do without it than I can do without it. Never bring to me the blanket of a private soldier." How many men like that general would take it to warm the world up? The vast majority of us are anxious to get more blankets, whether anybody else is blanketed or not. Look at the fellow feeling displayed in the rocky defile between Jerusalem and Jericho in Scripture times. Here is a man who has been set upon by bandits, and in the struggle to keep his property he got wounded and mauled and stabbed, and he lies there half dead. A priest rides along. He sees him and says. "Why, what's that [illegible] that man? Why, he must be hurt. lying on the flat of his back. Isn't it strange that he should lie there? But I can't stop. I am on my way to temple services. Go along, you beast. Carry me up to my temple duties." After awhile a Levite came up. He looks over and says: "Why that man must be very much hurt. Gashed on the forehead. What a pity! stabbed under the arm. What a pity! Tut, tut! What a pity! Why they have taken his clothes nearly all away from him. But I haven't time to stop. I lead the choir up in the temple service. Go along, you beast. Carry me up to my temple duties." After awhile a Samaritan comes along—one whom you might suppose, through a national grudge, might have rejected this poor, wounded Israelite, but he is a man and he is a brother. "Whoa!" says the Samaritan, and he gets down off the beast and comes up to the wounded man, gets down on one knee, listens to see whether the heart of the unfortunate man is still beating, makes up his mind there is a chance for resuscitation, goes to work at him, takes out of his sack a bottle of oil and a bottle of wine, cleanses the wound with some wine, then pours some of the restorative into the wounded man's lips, then takes some oil and with it soothes the wound. After awhile he takes off a part of his garments for a bandage. Now the sick and wounded man sits up, pale and exhausted, but very thankfully. Now the good Samaritan says: "You must get on my saddle, and I will walk." The Samaritan helps and tenderly steadies this wounded man until he gets him on toward the tavern, the wounded man holding on with the little strength he has left, ever and anon looking down at the good Samaritan and saying: "You are very kind. I had no right to expect this thing of a Samaritan, when I am an Israelite. You are very kind to walk and let me ride."

Now they have come up to the tavern. The Samaritan, with the help of the landlord, assists the sick and wounded man to dismount and puts him to bed. The Bible says the Samaritan stayed all night. In the morning, I suppose, the Samaritan went in to look how his patient was, and ask him how he passed the night. Then he comes out—the Samaritan comes out and says to the landlord: "Here is money to pay that man's board, and if his convalescence is not as rapid as I hope for, charge the whole thing to me. Good morning, all." He gets on the beast and says: "Go long, you beast, but go slowly, for those bandits sweeping through the land may have left somebody else wounded and half dead." Sympathy!

How many such men as that would it take to warm the cold world up? Famine in Zarephath. Everything dried up. There is a widow with a son and no food except a handful of meal. She is gathering sticks to kindle a fire to cook the handful of meal. Then she is going to wrap her arms around her boy and die. Here comes Elijah. His two black servants the ravens, have got tired waiting on him. He asks that woman for food. Now that handful of meal is to be divided into three parts. Before it was to be divided in two parts. Now she says to Elijah: "Come in and sit down at this solemn table and take a third of the last morsel." How many women like that would it take to warm the cold world up?

Recently an engineer in the southwest, on a locomotive, saw a train coming with which he must collide. He resolved to stand at his post and slow up the train until the last minute, for there were passengers behind. The engineer said to the fireman: "Jump! One is enough on this engine. Jump!" The fireman jumped and was saved. The crash came. The engineer died at his post. How many men like that engineer would it take to warm this cold world up? A vessel struck on a rocky island. The passengers and the crew were without food and a sailor had a shellfish under his coat. He was saving it for his last morsel. He heard a little child cry to her mother: "Oh, mother, I am so hungry; give me something to eat—I am so hungry." The sailor took the shellfish from under his coat and said: "Here, take that." How many men like that sailor would take to warm this cold world up? [illegible] not willing to [illegible] king?" and the majority of those who were in the boat leaped overboard and drowned to save their king. How many men like that would it take to warm up this cold world? Elizabeth Fry went into the horrors of Newgate prison, and she turned the imprecation and the obscenity and the filth into prayer and repentance and a reformed life. The Sisters of Charity, in 1863, on northern and southern battle fields, came to boys in blue and gray while they were bleeding to death. The black bonnet, with the sides pinned back, and the white bandage on the brow, may not have answered all the demands of elegant taste, but you could not persuade that soldier, dying a thousand miles from home, that it was anything but an angel that looked him in the face. Oh, with cheery look, with helpful word, with kind action, try to make the world warm!

Count that day lost whose low descending sun
Views from thy hand no generous action done.

It was his strong sympathy that brought Christ from a warm Heaven to a cold world. The land where he dwelt had a serene sky, balsamic atmosphere, tropical luxuriance. No storm-blasts in Heaven. No chill fountains. On a cold December night Christ stepped out of a warm Heaven into the world's frigidity. The thermometer in Palestine never drops below zero, but December is a cheerless month, and the pasturage is very poor on the hilltops. Christ stepped out of a warm Heaven into the cold world that cold December night. The world's reception was cold. The surf of bestormed Gallilee was cold. Joseph's sepulchre was cold. Christ came, the great warmer, to warm the earth, and all Christendom feels the glow.

He will keep on warming the earth until the tropic will drive away the Arctic and the Antarctic. He gave an intimation of what He was going to do when He broke up the funeral at the gate of Nain and turned it into a reunion festival, and when, with His warm lips, He melted the Gallilean hurricane and stood on the deck and stamped His foot, crying, "Silence!" and the waves crouched and the tempests folded their wings.

Oh, it was this Christ who warmed the chilled disciples when they had no food by giving them plenty to eat, and who in the tomb of Lazarus shattered the shackles until the broken links of the chain of death rattled into the darkest crypt of the mausoleum. In his genial presence the girl who had fallen into the fire and the water is healed of the catalepsy, and the withered arm takes muscular, healthy action, and the ear that could not hear an avalanche catches a leaf's rustle, and the tongue that could not articulate trills a quatrain, and the blind eye was relumed, and Christ, instead of staying three days and three nights in the sepulchre, as was supposed, as soon as the worldly curtain of observation was dropped began the exploration of all the underground passages of earth and sea, wherever a Christian's grave may after awhile be, and started a light of Christian hope, resurrection hope, which shall not go out until the last cerement is taken [illegible] and the last mausoleum breaks open.

Ah! I am so glad that the Son of Righteousness dawned on the polar night of the nations. And if Christ is the great warmer, then the church is the great hothouse, with its plants and trees and fruits of righteousness. Do you know, my friends, that the church is the institution that proposes warmth? I have been for 27 years studying how to make the church warmer. Warmer architecture, warmer hymnology, warmer Christian salutation. All outside Siberian winter, we must have it a prince's hothouse. The only institution on earth to-day that proposes to make the world warmer. Universities and observatories, they all have their work. They propose to make the world light, but they do not propose to make the world warm. Geology informs us, but it is as cold as the rock it hammers. The telescope shows where the other worlds are, but an astronomer is chilled while looking through it. Chemistry tells us of stranger combinations and how inferior affinity may be overcome by superior affinity; but it can not tell how all things work together for good. Worldly philosophy has a great splendor, but it is the splendor of moonlight on an iceberg. The Church of God proposes warmth and hope—warmth for the expectations, warmth for the sympathies. Oh! I am so glad that these great altar fires have been kindled. Come in out of the cold. Come in and have your wounds salved. Come in and have you sins pardoned. Come in by the great Gospel fireplace.

INTERESTING ITEMS.

MOSAIC gold is a combination of copper and zinc.

IN Chicago advertisements are to be frescoed on the ceilings of barber shops.

THE literature of Abyssinia amounts to little. What there is deals with religious matters.

ABYSSINIA is a very mountainous country. Many of the peaks are always covered with snow.

A NEW cavalry company is to be added to the Alabama state guard. It will be organized in Birmingham.

THE mikado can trace back to 660 B. C. The founder of his line was contemporary with Nebuchadnezzar.

ADOWA, where the Italians met defeat, is the second city in Abyssinia, having about seven thousand inhabitants.

PENOBSCOT, Me., is the new woman's paradise. There are three post offices in the town, and every postmaster is a postmistress.

THE Turkish sultan keeps 2,000 horses in his private stables, but he rarely rides. He is said to be in constant fear of assassination.

THE bay of Fundy has the highest tide in the world. It rises a foot every five minutes, and sometimes attains a height of 70 feet.

LORD SHOLTO DOUGLASS and an artist are about to make a trip through California, Arizona and Mexico to get materials for a series of syndicate letters.

COL. JOHN S. CUNNINGHAM, of North Carolina, is said to be the owner of the largest tobacco farm in the United States. He had nearly 3,000,000 hills to cultivate and harvest last year.

THE astrologers who confidently predicted that Queen Victoria would die in December last now claim that "an outburst of intercessory prayer" was instrumental in altering the course of fate.

PROF. ALEXANDER AGASSIZ, accompanied by his son, Mr. Max Agassiz, and a party of scientists, has started for Australia, via San Francisco, presumably on work for the government. A special steamer awaits the party at San Francisco.

MR. AUSTIN, an assistant librarian in the Cornell library, while cataloguing the fine Dante collection presented to the university by Prof. Willard Fiske, has found some live bookworms in an edition of the "Divine Comedy" bearing the date of 1186. This is the third time [illegible] that these insects have been found [illegible] American library.

[illegible]

[illegible]

These pens may be either [illegible] and movable, or built more cheaply, two or more together. The usual size of a farrowing pen is six by seven feet. The walls, which are double, face the south. In the accompanying Fig. 1, the front walls, D D D, are three feet high, and the openings above three by six feet. Each opening may be closed with a swing door, B, as shown in pen one. To open this door for ventilation and light, or other purposes, swing it back as shown at C in pen adjoining, and the same wooden bolt that fastens the door when closed may by a very simple arrangement be made to secure the door to the rafters out of the way. The openings E E E let the pigs out to be fed on the floor in front, which floor may, if required, be divided by portable panels at a a.

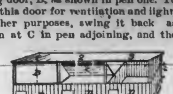


FIG. 1—CONVENIENT CHEAP PIG SHED.

When a more expensive hog house is wanted, a double row of pens may be constructed, that will admit sunshine to all the pens through glass. I have noticed several built after the style shown in the annexed drawing. The size for eight pens is 24 feet long by 20 feet wide, which makes the pens six by eight feet, with a four-foot hall running between their two rows. The main elevation, see A A A in Fig. 2, is six feet, there being one window in the same for each pen. The second elevation at B B B is four feet, the windows placed in it admitting plenty of sunlight into the back row of pens.

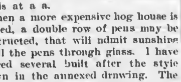

FIG. 2—EIGHT-PEN HOG HOUSE, GLASS WINDOWS.

Fig. 3 is an end view of the same building. The rafters, A to D, are 11 feet 8 inches long, and joined with the 16-foot rafters B E at 11 feet 8 inches from the eave. The short piece B C is attached to point of long rafter, and to short rafter at C. The space along rafters from C to A is not sheathed, so there is very little to obstruct the sunbeams. The gates to the several pens are placed along the hallway, and should be just four feet wide, so that when opened they will reach across and close the hallway, which will be found a great convenience in handling pigs. It enables one person unaided to sort out and separate a number, and arrange them as he may wish.

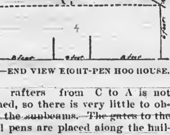

FIG. 3—END VIEW EIGHT-PEN HOG HOUSE.

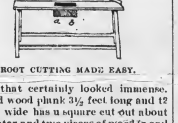
As to the floors for pig pens, there are divergent opinions. That the dirt floor is the healthier I have no doubt, but it is far more troublesome to keep in good order. If board floors are used, they should not be nailed down, but so put in that they may be taken out. Great care also should be had that a crack in the floor does not admit a draught of air.

Again, serious objections are raised against building a lot of pens under one roof, some breeders favoring individual pens that can be moved from place to place. For brood sows at farrowing time a single pen is far preferable. For wintering a lot of hogs the larger one is better. As many as 60 to 100 pigs can be arranged in the eight-pen shed above described, and still there need be no trouble. Use disinfectants freely. Sprinkle with carbolic acid. Use mercurial ointment to keep pens free from lice. Change the bedding frequently. Give the pigs the run of the pastures on pleasant days. With this kind of care your cluster of pig pens will be all right.—G. W. Waters, in St. Louis Journal of Agriculture.

SIMPLE ROOT CUTTER.

A Device Which Has Been Used in Scotland for Many Years.

The root cutter portrayed below was in use in Scotland 30 years ago and the past summer I made a trip of two months and found this same root cutter still in use even where they were cutting up roots for 75 head of winter feeders (steers). Turnips are what they use there chiefly in the way of roots, but the climate there is very favorable to their growth and I saw fields of 30 acres that certainly looked immense. A hard wood plank 3½ feet long and 12 inches wide has a square cut out about the center and two pieces of wood (a and b) are fitted with knives, whatever size desired for the roots intended to be cut, and bolted on the bench. Four legs for it to stand on having been inserted, a piece of hard wood (a) is cut to come down on the edge of the knives and this is fastened to a board or handle (c) attached to the stool part by hinge. A short fork is used to catch a root and place it in the hopper. But one motion and one stroke are required for each root cut. It can be done very quickly. The knives can be put in to cut slices of any thickness, as at d.—W. C. Gibson, Farm Superintendent National Home, Wisconsin, in Farm and Home.



ROOT CUTTING MADE EASY.

Celery Oil Is the Latest.

German distillers of essential oils have experimented with this during the past season, producing a few pounds. It is distilled from the green leaves, possesses the powerful aromatic odor and taste of the plant, and may arouse considerable interest among manufacturers of concentrated soups and preserved meats and vegetables. It requires 1,000 pounds of green leaves to make one pound of oil. Parsley oil is also distilled from the green leaves of the plant, but as yet has no market.

[illegible]

[illegible]

The Terrible Ordeal of a [illegible] Little Girl Almost [illegible] Saved in the Nick of Time—A Story That Will Touch the Heart of Every Mother.

From the Journal, Detroit, Mich.

A very grateful mother is Mrs. A. L. Hartness, of 676 Grand Avenue, Detroit, for the wonderful cure which her daughter has received by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Said Mrs. Hartness: "Yes, my daughter's life has been saved by using Pink Pills, thanks to a kind friend who recommended them to me.

"Blanche was sick for over three years. She had the care of the best physicians procurable, and no expense or trouble was spared to give her relief. She was so thin that she was fairly skin and bones, her digestion was out of order and she had the most awful headaches. We gave up all hope of her recovery. Her long, thin, listless face made me nearly crazy, and we did everything in our power to give her strength and induce her to take an interest in anything.

"One day a friend told me about the Pink Pills, and Mr. Hartness went down town and got three boxes. She had taken about one box, when, to my amazement, one morning I heard her playing on the piano. I could hardly believe it, for it had been over a year since the piano had been opened.

"Soon she began to take short rides on her bicycle, and soon she went singing around the house, our own happy, hearty little daughter once more.

"She thinks nothing of a spin on her wheel over to Mt. Clemens or Pontiac, and is as well as she ever was.

"I had a girl living at our house who was a great sufferer from impoverished blood, and who received instant and permanent relief from the use of one box of the pills.

"If this information can be of any use to help some poor sick one, it is given with [illegible] of pleasure."

The proprietors of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills state that they are not a patent medicine but a prescription used for many years by an eminent practitioner who produced the most wonderful results with them, curing all forms of weakness arising from a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves, two fruitful causes of almost every ill to which flesh is heir. The pills are also a specific for the troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, all forms of weakness, chronic constipation, bearing down pains, etc., and in the case of men will give speedy relief and effect a permanent cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. They are entirely harmless and can be given to weak and sickly children with the greatest good and without the slightest danger. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, (50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

PREPARED FOR EMERGENCIES.

Young Man Who Got a Clerkship in Anticipation of His Prodigality.

Here is a story that one of the southern members vouches for, according to the Washington Post. A young man, one of his constituents, applied to him for a $1,000 clerkship. The member secured the appointment, but the day before the constituent was to be sworn in he came to his representative in a troubled state of mind and said:

"Colonel, I have had $125,000 left me by an aunt, and, my God! just think what I have to go through again."

"Let me congratulate you," said the representative.

"No, don't do that," said the constituent; "you don't know what you're congratulating me on."

"Yes, I do," said the member, "for now you can live without working."

"Colonel," said the distressed young man, "I may as well tell you. Several years ago I had $100,000 left me by another aunt and it took me nearly a year to spend it. After I got through I had to go to the hospital for six months to get over the effects of my dissipation. The reason I came to see you to-day was to ask you to keep that place for me until I can spend this money."

BARE-NECKED SKATERS.

Holland Women Appear on the Ice with Ball-Gown Bodices.

We are accustomed to see women bundled up in furs as they glide over the ice. To witness a woman's race in Holland would give us a greater chill than to meet a ghost at midnight. A foreign correspondent, in mentioning a contest on skates, describes it as follows:

"It was snowing slightly, but in every available moment between the races troops of men were told to clear the course. At a given signal six women started for the first race. They were dressed in very short skirts, and transparent-looking blouses, low necks, with no sleeves at all. We were told they were from among the lower peasant people, and that the shop classes never entered the lists at all. The speed they went at was something wonderful, and especially remarkable at the corners. For the most part they raced with their arms behind them, but the girl who won the prize (two pounds sterling) skated with hers folded in front."

Bare arms and necks in midwinter! Our physicians think women are courting death by wearing low-necked dresses in ballrooms. What must it be to wear them as outing costumes?

A FREDONIA (Kan.) man, suspecting that someone was peeping through the keyhole of his office door, investigated with a syringe full of pepper sauce, and went home to find that his wife had been cutting wood and a chip had hit her in the eye.

STREET cars propelled by compressed air will soon appear in Chicago. The continual rattle and clanging of cable cars, the roaring and buzzing of electric cars and the clatter of iron-shod hoofs may be heard no more if the newcomers prove practicable.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, March 16.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	$2 50	@ 3 15
Select butchers	3 85	@ 4 10
HOGS—Common	3 60	@ 3 90
Good Packers	4 00	@ 4 10
SHEEP—Choice	3 00	@ 3 75
LAMBS—Good to choice	3 75	@ 4 25
FLOUR—Winter family	2 80	@ 3 10
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 72
No. 3 red		@ 70
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 30
Oats—No. 2		@ 22½
Rye—No. 2		@ 41
HAY—Prime to choice	14 00	@14 50
TOBACCO—Medium leaf	10 00	@11 50
Good leaf	12 00	@14 75
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@10 37½
Lard—Prime steam		@ 5 25
BUTTER—Choice dairy		@ 10
Prime to choice creamery		@ 23
APPLES—Per bbl	3 00	@ 3 50
POTATOES—Per bush	55	@ 40
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 90	@ 4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 1 north'rn		@ 75½
No. 2 red	71½	@ 71¾
CORN—No. 2 mixed	38	@ 38½
OATS—Mixed		@ 25½
PORK—New mess	10 50	@10 75
LARD—Western		@ 5 60
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patents	3 50	@ 3 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	65½	@ 65¾
No. 2 Chicago spring	61½	@ 61¾
CORN—No. 2		@ 28½
OATS—No. 2		@ 19¾
PORK—Mess	9 65	@ 9 70
LARD—Steam	5 35	@ 5 37½
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	2 60	@ 3 85
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	71½	@ 71¾
Corn—Mixed	33¾	@ 34½
Oats—Mixed	26½	@ 27
LARD—Refined		@11 00
PORK—Mess		@16 85
CATTLE—First quality	4 00	@ 4 80
HOGS—Western	4 40	@ 4 60
INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 71½
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 27¾
Oats—No. 2 mixed		@ 23
LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 30	@ 3 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 75
Corn—Mixed		@ 30
Oats—Mixed		@ 23½
PORK—Mess		@10 50
LARD—Steam	6 25	@ 7 50

[illegible] of the disease, and [illegible] strength [illegible] assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
Address F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

I envy Bings whene'er he sings,
So much does he deserve;
'Tis not his voice makes me rejoice—
I envy him his nerve.
—Judge.

WHERE DID YOU GET THIS COFFEE?

Had the Ladies' Aid Society of our Church out for tea, forty of them, and all pronounced the German Coffeeberry equal to Rio! Salzer's catalogue tells you all about it! 35 packages Earliest vegetable seeds $1.00.

IF YOU WILL CUT THIS OUT AND SEND with 15c. stamps to John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will get free a package of above great coffee seed and our 148 page catalogue! Catalogue alone 5c. postage. (K)

CYNICUS says that he has observed that the people who complain that divorce is too easy under the present laws are usually unmarried.—Somerville Journal.

Cheap Excursions to the West and Northwest.

On March 10 and April 7, 1896, the North-Western Line (Chicago & Northwestern R'y) will sell Home Seekers' excursion tickets at very low rates to a large number of points in Northern Wisconsin, Michigan, Northwestern Iowa, Western Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota, including the famous Black Hills district. For full information apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address W. B. KNISKERN, G. P. & T. A., Chicago, Ill.

THERE are many diversities of vice; but it is one never-failing effect of it to live displeased and discontented.—Seneca.

Free to "Comrades"

The latest photograph of Honorable I. N. Walker, Commander-in-Chief of the G. A. R. Write to F. H. Lonn, Quincy Building, Chicago, and you will receive one free.

THERE are but three classes of men: the retrograde, the stationary and the progressive.—Lavater.

FITS stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free. Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

PATIENCE—of whose soft graces I have her sovereign aid, and rest myself content.—Shakespeare.

PISO'S Cure for Consumption is an A No. 1 Asthma medicine.—W. R. WILLIAMS, Antioch, Ill., April 11, 1894.

MEN must love the truth before they thoroughly believe it.—Smith.

FOR COUGHS, ASTHMA AND THROAT DISORDERS, use "Brown's Bronchial Troches." Sold only in boxes. Avoid imitations.

SATAN as a master is bad; his work much worse; his wages worst of all.—Fuller.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

Cock-a-doodle doo—
My dame has lost her shoe;
But CUPID Hair-Pins held her hair [illegible]
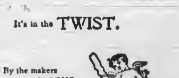
Or she'd have lost that too.

It's in the TWIST.



By the makers of the famous DeLONG Hook and Eye.

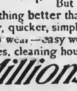
Richardson & DeLong Bros., Philadelphia.

HOG CHOLERA.

We will furnish medicine to treat one herd of Sick Hogs in EACH TOWNSHIP in the United States FREE Give express office and number of hogs. A trial only costs express charges and a report of the results of using the medicine.

WM. HALL MEDICINE CO., St. Louis, Mo.

THE KING CURE OVER ALL FOR RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA IS SAINT JACOBS OIL TRY IT



These stopped using soap, long ago.

This one stopped because—well, we'll have to guess why. Perhaps, because it gave him too much work to do. That's what everybody thinks, for that matter, when there's nothing but soap at hand, and there's a good deal of dirt to be removed from anything.

But this one stopped because she had found something better than soap—Pearline (no soap). Something easier, quicker, simpler, more economical. No rubbing to speak of, no wear—easy work and money saved, whether it's washing clothes, cleaning house, or any kind of washing and cleaning

Millions NOW USE Pearline

"A very smooth article."

Battle Ax PLUG

A GREAT BIG PIECE FOR 10 CENTS

Don't compare "Battle Ax" with low grade tobaccos—compare "Battle Ax" with the best on the market, and you will find you get for 5 cents almost as much "Battle Ax" as you do of other high grade brands for 10 cents.

FIELD AND HOG FENCE WIRE.

26, 38, 42, 50, or 58 inches high. Quality and workmanship the best. Nothing on the market to compare with it. Write for full information.

UNION FENCE COMPANY, DE KALB, ILL.

OPIUM and WHISKY habits cured. Book sent FREE. Dr. B. M. WOOLLEY, ATLANTA, GA. NAME THIS PAPER every time you write.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

STARK TREES BEAR FRUIT TESTED 70 YEARS Salesmen and club makers wanted for GOLD plum, etc. Stark, Louisiana, Mo., Rockport, Ills.

A. N. K.—E. 1596

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS PLEASE state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXI. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 25, 1896. NO. 22.

LOCAL NEWS

Jackson and Walling, who are charged with the murder of Pearl Bryan, were taken before the Circuit Court at Newport, last Monday, and pleaded not guilty to the charge. Judge Helm set the trial of Jackson for Tuesday, April 7th, and notified the attorneys that they must be prepared to commence the trial on that day, saying that no continuance would be granted unless very strong reasons therefor were presented. The trial of Walling will follow that of Jackson, their attorneys desiring separate trials. George Washington is defending Jackson, and L. J. Crawford, Walling.

Charlie Long, who lives on Gunpowder, shot into a gang of ducks, a few days ago, and killed five or six of them and crippled another. When he started after the dead ducks he crossed a riffle, in a shallow part of which he discovered a school of large suckers. He stopped and filled his overcoat pockets with fine fish, and then collected his ducks, and started down the creek in pursuit of the one he had crippled. He had gone but a short distance he discovered another large school of the same kind of fish, from which he could have taken a half a bushel with ease.

A few nights since a colored minister was exhorting his congregation to avoid the influence of the evil spirit. He said: "When you are under the 'fluence of the evil spirit, you can't help doing things you oughten to. It takes you to dances an' balls, an' carries you on an' [illegible] first thing you know, will make you swipe some body's chickens often de fence as you go home in de dark."

The severe weather this winter has had no effect on the crop of candidates for county offices. So far as known none of the prospective candidates have been chilled sufficiently to cause them to drop out of the contest; but, on the contrary, each one thinks his chances for the nomination grows brighter as time passes.

A negro boy fell off of his horse on the street Sunday, and his foot hanging in the stirrup he was dragged some distance by the animal. The horse was just becoming frightened when the boy's shoestring broke, unlacing his shoe, allowing it to come off and release him from his perilous position unhurt.

The soldiers whom Gov. Bradley needlessly called to Frankfort, will receive their pay at once, while thousands of legitimate claim-holders throughout the State will have to continue to wait for their money.

So soon as the weather will admit the farmers will get a lively hustle on. They have done very little work during this month, and are beginning to grow somewhat restless.

The pool-room proprietors are talking of opening up in Covington again. A room has been opened in West Covington, and the citizens are holding indignation meetings.

Late risers were astonished by the four inch snow that greeted them Monday morning. Those who turned out at four saw very little when they first commenced to stir.

Next Sunday morning at the Burlington Baptist Church, there will be preaching by Dr. J. A Kirtley. A large crowd will be expected to greet Brother Kirtley.

The Bethel Baptist church will meet for the worship and praise of God, at Elder E. Stephens', near Erlanger, on the first Saturday and Sunday in April next.

Gov. Bradley's scare cost the State $2,200, and this has to be paid, while those to whom the State is indebted for necessary services have to wait for their money.

Judge Riddell and O. J. Ryle have been engaged in a running religious discussion this winter. Baptism was the last subject considered by them.

Gov. Badley is losing no time in bouncing the Democratic office holders and replacing them with Republicans. There is nothing wrong in that.

Gov. Bradley has appointed N. B. Harper, colored, a Louisville lawyer, a member of the Advisory Board of Agriculture.

With a railroad, electric cars and a long distanced telephone, our neighbor, Erlanger, will be very much in the swim.

With this issue the RECORDER changes its form, thereby increasing its size, which will enable it to give more reading matter.

The sun has crossed the line, and people in this latitude do not care how soon it begins getting in its spring work.

The local base ball talent is taking great interest in the games being played down in dixie.

Only 14 degrees above zero yesterday morning, pretty good winter for this time of the year.

The remains of Mrs. Clarissa Smith will be taken from the vault and interred to-day.

The indications point to a pretty good sized tobacco crop in this county again this year.

W. M. Rachal & Co., of Union, have a new advertisement in this issue.

A big river is inevitable, but nothing like an '84 flood need be expected.

Ne hborhood News.

CONS NCE—Mr. Bert Berkshire, of Burli ton, and Mr. Tobe Walton, of Erlan , were visiting Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Zi er, a few days since.

Const has a bicycle club. Wm. Tanner resident.

Mose kelheimer has put a new wheel o s tow-boat.

The b celebrated J. B. Herbstropt's birth d the 14th inst., with a big fish-fry.

There been an epidemic of measles, scarl ever and diphtheria at Anderson's rry.

Mr. T hultz has commenced building his brick house.

There ome talk of building a large flour m n the site occupied by the Cincinn Desicating Co., which was burnt d last fall.

John re is happy, 'its a 11 lb girl.

Mr. B chard has purchased Bruce Anderso place.

VERO —Elmer Showers is on the sick list.

Two o . N. Dickerson's children have sca fever in a light form There are two es of same disease at Marshall W on's we are gald to report them oving.

Mi a Roberts, of Burliugton, was he st of Miss Della Roberts, last atu y.

Horney, the soul-stirring mi ister the gospel, is ing a gre and good work here. Many souls ha urned to Jesus, and night by nigh e congregation increases. The mee g will probably close about the mid of this week.

Prayer eeting at Mrs. Ruth Robert's Saturda ening, conducted by Miss Lulu Jon

Mrs. E ie Roberts has been quite sick for eral days.

A thi visited L. J. Hume's meat house, o day last week, and appropriated fat part of a ham, leaving the remain Mr. Hume says he knows the thie a Democrat for if he was a Republi he would have taken the whole h .

HATE WAY—Miss Maud Aylor entertai a number of her friends on the even of the 10th inst.

Plenty snow but not much sleighing.

James ice and wife are occupying their ne residence.

Mr. an Mrs. T. J. Stephens gave the young pple a party, last Saturday night.

The di ppearance of the snow last Saturd and Sunday knocked out the sleigh r arranged for by several of our you people. A half mile's ride in the l and a balky horse was too much o novelty for them.

Prof. onze is trying to make a spring ool at Big Bone.

Miss na McElroy will begin teaching sch here on the first Monday in April.

Rober and William Woods, who have b in Missouri for several years have rned to their grandfather's near he

Ira A ms, one of our dashing young men, templates spending the coming su er at Rabbit Hash. We will be sor o have him leave, as he is the life of country.

Joe ove has done considerable plow

Ja Stephens and his father and their ilies have moved to Florence.

Lo z had a woodsawing, last Saturda

Miss lley Aylor, of Waterloo, has been ting Miss Mand Aylor, of this place.

PETE RSBURG—Joe Snelling is the prou ther of a 12 pound boy.

A Delph, of Garrison, has been very of malarial fever. Dr. Tilly repo im better. Miss Nannie Lonaker so better.

M race Grant lost a Mink Boa.

D lley has a $40 cow from which he he makes 11 pounds of butter per k.

H J. Frank Grant made a business to Louisville, recently.

M Effie Hudson, of Aurora, was a visi ere a day or two last week.

J Ferris, proprietor of Prospect Sto Farm, realized good prices for the rses he sold at the Cambridge City nd., sale. One horse brought him 50.

At he Distillery everything is in readi ss for the dynamo.

Mi Zola Hardin is quite sick.

Re Howe occupied the pulpit at the C ristian Church, last Wednesday night Subject:—"Christ from Birth to R rrection." He handled his subject his usually interesting style.

Th snow that fell here, last week, was e heaviest of the season.

Th new boat will be launched the last this, or the first of next week.

B Graddy has yellow jaundice.

J. . Berkshire, of Burilugton, came dow last Wednesday to attend his siste 's wedding.

M nd Mrs. Roseboom, of Frankfort, Ohi were here last week, to attend thei son's wedding.

J n Evans returned to Hamilton, Ohi with his aunt, Miss Kate Jones.

S eral green ribbons were noticed on r streets on the 17th inst.

R BBIT HASH—If our town is to und go the trying ordeal of having its world famed and renowned na e changed, a name that has inspired r ablest and most gifted authors wit enthusiasm, encouraging them to loo back through the mystic valo of th ast and seek for information leadin o the orgin of this palatable comp d, (Rabbit Hash) now it appears th some one desires the name changed to "Kidville." We protest and in b f of the "kids" we will presume to s gest that the proposed new schoolh se be located here, as there seems to b no other available place, put it on t "bar," the "kids" are certainly entitled to some consideration, and don't forget that we were all "kids" once upon a time and there are those among us who bear a semblance, yet notwithstanding the mingling of the dark and gray. Only a few years hence and the universe (as well as Rabbit Hash) will be under the control of the boys and girls of today, and upon them we must rely for our future standard bearers Hence, it becomes us as loyal citizens to encourage and to cooperare with the State and Nation in the cause of education by providing good, comfortable and suitable houses with pleasant surroundings and in available places, all things pertaining to the child's comfort should be considered, thereby encouraging a more regular attendance instead of compulsory educational laws.

The Maher-Fitzimmon prize fight was looked to with national pride and unabating interest, and when the finish was made everybody said it was just what they expected. The Mexican bull-fight filled the sporting world with disgust, and caused civilization to blush with shame. These things are vanished into utter insignificance like a single drop of water descending in the deluge of the cataract of Niagara, in comparison with a hand to hand encounter that took place here a few evenings since. Our local M. D. armed with a broom and accompanied by the writer with two lumps of coal and Roan and the Hebron huckster each well armed, the former with a poker and the latter with a croquet-mallet, were led to the encounter by our worthy P. M. The [illegible] e onslaught was given by the unearthly screech of a Thomas Cat in the most distant and darkest corner of Cal's wareroom, the light flashed and the cat jumped, the door being closed the scene which followed, beggars all description, but at the expiration of the 45th round the Thomas Cat was completely knocked out of existence.

FLORENCE—Rev. B. J. Colb celebrated the nineteenth anniversary of his ordination to the Priesthood, last Tuesday, March 17th. He was congratulated and agreeably entertained by a large number of the clergy and laity. An elegant dinner was served about noon and a frugal luncheon later in the evening. Altogether it was made a to be memorable day for the celebrator.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Carpenter are receiving congratulations over the arrival of twins—a bouncing boy and a charming girl.

The progress of the work on Mr Myers' building has been delayed considerably by the heavy snows.

Miss Alice Cloud entertained the Mistletoe Euchre Club at her home, last Wednesday evening.

Mr. Henry Kroger & Son went over to Burlington, last Thursday, to take the preliminary steps for obtaining a license to keep a first-class sample room which they intend opening here in the near future.

Messrs. Irvin Kyle and Ben Dulaney started in earnest for the sweet, sunny South, last Saturday morning; but a blustering snow storm headed them off, and blew them back to their parental and more congenial homes.

Mr. John Bentler & Son have returned home from Indiana, where they went to attend the funneral of Mr. B's brother

Mr. John Hogan was in town, last Wednesday.

Misses Mary and Kate Grogan have returned from a pleasant visit, with their sister, Mrs. Meuzer, of St. Bernard.

Cecil Finch left, last Friday, to accept a position at Middleton, Ohio.

Mrs. Rich spent last Wednesday with her daughter, Mrs. Droge, of Covington.

Mr. T. L. Swetnam was visiting his daughter, Mrs. Porter, last week.

Miss Nannie Aheran is visiting her mother, Mrs. Aheran, of Shelby ave.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn, of Union, have taken up their residence on Main St.

Lex DeMoisey contemplates an early return to busy Florence.

Henry Kroger has about recovered from an attack of la grippe.

Mr. Joe Kyle is still improving.

Mr. Joe Bleoner after a hair-cut, had his maiden mustache shaved off by our ever ready barber, Mr. Farm Ashcraft.

The electric car line extention has not yet been completed to the flourishing town of Florence, but they tell us we are very near it. Nit!

ERLANGER.—The Erlanger Building Association sold three shares at $12.50 per share at their last meeting and seven new shares were subscribed. L. Morelli and J. A. Wyss were elected to represent the association at the meeting of the Building Association League at Covington.

Capt. W. H. Baker returned, Wednesday, from his trip to Oklahoma, looking refreshed.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist Church gave a social at the residence of Henry Meyer on Commonwealth Ave., Saturday evening, which was well attended. Brother Meyer is a success as an entertainer, and all went away satisfied.

Miss Sarah Kinsey and Pearl Quisenberry, of Norfolk, Va., and Miss M. Talbott, of Covington, were guests of Rev. O. M. Huey, last week.

Miss Susie Coe has returned home after a long visit among relatives in Ohio.

The South Erlanger Improvement Company will have their trial for incorporation on March 30th, before Judge Perkins in the Circuit Court.

The young ladies will give a Leap Year party at the town hall on the 16th of next month.

Mr. J. P. Garvey, who, for 30 years was a citizen of this neighborhood, died at the residence of his son in Anderson, Indiana, last Sunday. He was born at Lawrenceburg, this State, in 1818 and commenced business for himself in early manhood, and by industry and good management he had amassed a large fortune. He was, for many years, one of the leading tobacco merchants in Cincinnati. A widow and six sons survive him.

BEAVER—Miss Lulu Franks, of Grant county, who is visiting her sister Mrs. J. L. Noel, has a severe attack of pneumonia fever.

G. E. Carroll, clerk in Sleet, Hughes & Co.'s store at this place, hurt his back, last Friday, lifting a sack of potatoes, and has not been able to turn himself in bed since.

Mrs Henry Underhill, who was reported, in our last, as being very sick with pneumonia is improving slowly.

Rev. S. M. Adams and mother have returned from visiting in Illinois.

R. A. Connelly, of Greencastle, Ind., who has been visiting here for sometime, has returned home.

Andrew Ellis has been removed from Williamstown to Covington, lately.

Misses Allie and Lennie Moore, of Gallatin county, were visiting their uncle, G. M. Moore, Saturday and Sunday.

Monday morning, March 23d, snow 6 inches deep and still snowing. What do you say about the ground hog now? I'll go you the cigars he is a dead hog.

WALTON, March 22.—His Honor, Judge Stephens, of the County Court, was looking around the town Saturday.

A. M. Edwards returned from his eastern trip with a hearty look of renewed vigor. It is thought that the few weeks rest from chasing about after the dollars, has improved him very greatly. Better take another chassez, Dolph, and you will have no occasion to sing, "Oh would I were a boy again."

C. Y. Dyas, of Covington, also drifted in on Saturday from Crittenden, whither he had gone to attend a Justice's court.

Ricketts Johnson is very ill and the Doctors do not seem to know what ails him.

Miss Mollie Ransom, of Grant county, will return home to-morrow, after a pleasant visit to her sister, Mrs. B. L. Northcutt.

The bimetallists of this section are doing some very effective missionary work. There have been some surprising conversions of a very remarkable character in the past week, and the Recorder may look out as their manifesto is being prepared and a league may be formed in a short time which it is intended shall spread over the county like wild fire.

W. A. Gaines, the Covington's colored Republican, who aspires to the position of leader in his party, is giving the white bosses in the party some more trouble. Gaines wont down.

It is said that Edison is at work on the Ohio Republican platform with his X ray, but is having very poor success locating its meaning on the money question.

The Owens-Denny contest will come up for settlement in Congress, next Friday.

H. A. Hicks and Daniel Bedinger, two of Richwood's prominent citizens, were in town yesterday.

C. W. Cleek, of Union, has moved to Covington, to which place he orders his paper changed.

Several coal bins had to be replenished, this week.

John W. Williams, of Union, was in town yesterday.

Snow is becoming monotonous.

IN MEMORIAM.

Since the last meeting of our Society, we have sustained a sad loss in one who, though [illegible] with us, was none the less [illegible]. Mrs. May Riley Conner was on the 5th of January, 1896, suddenly called from the bosom of a loving family and friends, to that Heavenly home, for which her noble, christian life had well fitted her. Led by her Savior, she crossed the dark waters of the River of Death, and on that "Shining Shore" found awaiting her that tender mother, who in life had sacrificed so much for her children, and who is now finding her reward; a little one too, was there, who had gone before, and while holding him in a long embrace, another dear child "carried by the angels," pressed hard upon her footsteps, and made one more in the joyful reunion, a darling baby who found this world all too cold without its mother, and went to find her after a few brief hours' stay here.

Almost all of us have known May from her girlhood, and found much to love and admire in her character. She was a woman of deep piety, a dutiful daughter, a kind sister, a devoted wife and as a mother unusually loving. While we mourn her ourselves, we also sorrow with those whose loss is still greater, and extend our profound sympathy to the bereaved husband and children, her aged father, and brothers and sisters. Farewell, May! our loss is thy eternal gain.

THE LADIES PRESBYTERIAN SOCIETY.
Lillian Corbin, President.
Nannie D. Bristow, Sec'ty.

Prices Reduced!

—(o)—

1 gal. 4 year old Bourbon Whisky, reduced from $3.50 at	$3.00
1 gal. 2 year old Bourbon Whisky reduced from $2.00 at	$1.75
1 gal. 4 year old Rye Whisky at reduced from $3.50.	$3.00

At KASTNER'S,
Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

Election Notice.

The Stockholders of the Burlington and Petersburg turnpike will hold an election in Burlington, Ky., Monday, April 6th, 1896, for the purpose of electing a President and board of Directors for the ensuing year.

J. A. GAINES, President.

KENTUCKY MIDLAND RAILROAD.
[Via Georgetown.]

P. M.	A. M.			A. M.	P. M.
d 5:21	z9:31	Ar Walton	Lv	7:54	z4:45
4:40	8.55	Ar Williamstown	Lv	8:32	5:25
4:17	8.31	Ar Corinth	Lv	8:56	5:47
3:59	8:15	Ar Sadieville	Lv	9:16	6:06
3:33	7:50	Ar Georgetown	Lv	10:07	6:37
1:00	6:55	Lv Frankfort	Ar	11:00	7:30

z Daily. d Except Sunday.

C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged,
Money to Loan on Real Estate,
Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

Miss Helen Merci Schuster
DRAMATIC READER
AND TEACHER OF
Elocution, Physical Culture and Delsarte,
811 Scott St. - - COVINGTON, KY.
Class for young Ladies and Gentlemen at UNION, KY., every Saturday—10 to 11 a. m. SEND FOR TERMS.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession. Call at once for work, as I leave Walton April 1st.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
—DRUGGIST,—
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

NO :: LONGER
—AT ERLANGER.—
DR. WALLACE GILLHAM,
—THE DENTIST.—
who has been coming to Erlanger on Tuesdays of each week, has discontinued his office there, but will continue to do
First Class Dental Work of
All kinds at his
COVINGTON - OFFICE,
1421 Madison Ave. (next door to the Children's Home),
He also has all the latest and best facilities for administering
Gas, Vitalized Air, or Local Anæsthetics for Extracting Teeth.
You are refered to the following reliable references of your own community:
Dr. C. R. Slater, Dr. C. W. McCullum, Mrs. Cal Riggs, Mrs. Mattie Hoover, Mrs. Rev. M. M. Hiner, Mrs. Rev. O. M. Huey, Mr. Ira Aylor, Erlanger; Miss Sallie Snyder, Miss Sallie Stephens, Florence.

Public Sale!

We will offer for sale at the residence of the late J. H. Walton, deceased, on the East Bend and Burlington road, 2 miles east of Bellevue, Boone County, Ky., on Thursday, April 2nd, 1896,

The following property, towit:

3 Horses, 1 Mule, 2 Colts, 11 two-year-old Calves, 7 Calves, 3 Milch Cows, 3 dry Cows, 1 Bull, 44 Sheep, Sow and 5 pigs, 4 Shoats, an interest in three crops of Tobacco, 7 tons Hay, 150 bus. Corn, 15 bus. Potatoes, 2 Mowing Machines, Sulky Hayrake, Road Wagon, Sled, Buggy, Corn Drill, Haybed, Plows, Harrows, 2 Saddles, 4 sets work Harness, set Buggy Harness, lot of tobacco Sticks, 5 barrels Flour, Meat, Lard, Household and Kitchen Furniture, and many other articles.

TERMS OF SALE:

On all sums over $10 a credit of 9 months will be given, purchaser to give note with approved security, without interest. Sums of $10 and under, cash.

R. L. HUEY,
ERNEST WALTON, Adm'rs.
Sale to begin at 9 a. m.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
J. S. HUEY, President, Grant, Ky.
OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky,
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY,
Practice in all Courts, Promptness guaranteed.

H. S. STEVENSON.
DENTIST,
Anæsthetics used for painless operating. Plates $8 and $10; other work accordingly. Satisfaction guaranteed in all cases.
MAIN OFFICE—South side Main St. Rising Sun, Indiana.

P. T FALL,
PAINTER AND——PAPERHANGER
Union, Kentucky.
Paper Hanging a Specialty.
Will visit all parts of the Co. with samples. Give me a call.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL.
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW.
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by mail promptly attended to.

G. G. HUGHES. D. E. CASTLEMAN.
HUGHES & CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEYS - AT - LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to them.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 17,000
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN.................. $50,000
SURPLUS, ... $ 2.600
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

GENERAL
REPAIR SHOP,
At Hathaway, Ky.
WAGONS AND BUGGIES
A Specialty.
Plows and Harrows Made to Order. Satisfaction Guaranteed.
J. M. RICE.

THE NEWSPAPERS.

Eyes That Are Watchful to See the World's Doings of a Day.

Mistakes Sometimes Occur Without Intention to Be Harmful—The Papers Must Print the Evil as Well as the Good News—Dr. Talmage's Sermon.

Dr. Talmage's text Sunday was: "And the wheels were full of eyes."—Ezekiel x, 12. "For all the Athenians and strangers which were there spent their time at nothing else but either to tell or to hear some new thing." Acts xvii, 21.

What is a preacher to do when he finds two texts equally good and suggestive? In that perplexity I take both. Wheels full of eyes? What but the wheels of a newspaper printing press? Other wheels are blind. They roll on, pulling or crushing. The manufacturer's wheel, how it grinds the operator with fatigue, and rolls over nerve and muscle and bone and heart, not knowing what it does. The sewing machine wheel sees not the aches and pains fastened to it—tighter than the band that moves it, sharper than the needle which it plies. Every moment of every hour of every day of every month of every year there are hundreds of thousands of wheels of mechanism, wheels of enterprise, wheels of hard work, in motion, but they are eyeless. Not so the wheels of the printing press. Their entire business is to look and report. They are full of optic nerves, from axle to periphery. They are like those spoken of by Ezekiel, as full of eyes. Sharp eyes, near-sighted, far-sighted. They look up. They look down. They look far away. They take in the next street and the next hemisphere. Eyes of criticism, eyes of investigation eyes that twinkle with mirth, eyes glowing with indignation, eyes tender with love: eyes of suspicion, eyes of hope, blue eyes, black eyes, green eyes, holy eyes, evil eyes, sore eyes, political eyes; literary eyes, historical eyes, religious eyes; eyes that see everything. "And the wheels were full of eyes." But in my second text is the world's cry for the newspaper. Paul describes a class of people in Athens who spent their time either in gathering the news or telling it. Why especially in Athens? Because the more intelligent people become, the more inquisitive they are—not about small things, but great things.

The newspaper did not suddenly spring upon the world, but came gradually. The genealogical line of the newspaper is this: The Adam of the race was a circular or news-letter, created by Divine impulse in human nature, and the circular begat the pamphlet, and the pamphlet begat the quarterly, and the quarterly begat the weekly, and the weekly begat the semi-weekly, and the semi-weekly begat the daily. But alas! by what a struggle it came to its present development! No sooner had its power been demonstrated than tyranny and superstition shackled it. There is nothing that despotism so fears and hates as a printing press. It has too many eyes in its wheel. A great writer declared that the king of Naples made it unsafe for him to write of anything but natural history. Austria could not endure Kossuth's journalistic pen, pleading for the redemption of Hungary. Napoleon I., trying to keep his iron heel on the neck of nations, said: "Writers are the regents of sovereigns and the tutors of nations, and are only fit for prisons." But the battle for the freedom of the press was fought in the courtrooms of England and America, and decided before this century began by Hamilton's eloquent plea for J. Peter Zenger's Gazette in America and Erskine's advocacy of the freedom of publication in England. These were the Marathon and Thermopylae in which the freedom of the press was established in the United States and Great Britain, and all the powers of earth and hell will never again be able to put on the handcuffs and hopples of literary and political despotism. It is notable that Thomas Jefferson, who wrote the Declaration of American Independence, wrote also: "If I had to choose between a government without newspapers or newspapers without a government, I should prefer the latter." Stung by some base fabrication coming to us in print, we come to write or speak of the unbridled printing press; or, our new book ground up by an unjust critic, we come to write or speak of the unfairness of the printing press; or, perhaps through our own indistinctness of utterance, we are reported as saying just the opposite of what we did say, and there is a small riot of semicolons, hyphens and commas, and we come to speak or write of the blundering printing press; or, seeing a paper filled with divorce cases or social scandal, we speak and write of the filthy printing press; or, seeing a journal, through bribery, wheel round from one political side to the other in one night, we speak of the corrupt printing press, and many talk about the lampoonery, and the empiricism, and the sans-culotteism of the printing press.

But I discourse now on a subject you have never heard—the immeasurable and everlasting blessing of a good newspaper. Thank God for the wheel full of eyes. Thank God that we do not have—like the Athenians—to go about to gather up and relate the tidings of the day, since the omnivorous newspaper does both for us. The grandest temporal blessing that God has given to the nineteenth century is the newspaper. We would have better appreciation of this blessing if we knew the money, the brain, the losses, the exasperations, the anxieties, the wear and tear of heartstrings involved in the production of a good newspaper. Under the impression that almost anybody can make a newspaper, scores of inexperienced capitalists every year enter the lists, and consequently, during the last few years, a newspaper has died almost every day. The disease is epidemic. The large papers swallow the smaller ones, the whale taking down 50 minnows at one swallow. With more than 7,000 dailies and weeklies in the United States and Canada, there are but 36 a half century old. Newspapers do not average more than five years' existence. The most of them die of cholera infantum. It is high time that the people found out that the most successful way to sink money and keep it sunk is to start a newspaper. There comes a time when almost every one is smitten with the newspaper mania and starts one, or have stock in one he must or die.

The course of procedure is about this: A literary man has an agricultural or scientific or political or religious idea which he wants to ventilate. He has no money of his own—literary men seldom have. But he talks of his ideas among confidential friends until they become inflamed with the idea, and forthwith they buy type and press, and rent composing room, and gather a corps of editors, and with a prospectus that proposes to cure everything, the first copy is flung on the attention of an admiring world. After a while one of the plain stockholders finds that no great revolution has been affected by this daily or weekly publication, that neither sun nor moon stands still; that the world goes on lying and cheating and stealing just as it did before the first issue. The aforesaid matter-of-fact stockholder wants to sell out his stock, but nobody wants to buy, and other stockholders get infected and sick of newspaperdom, and an enormous bill at the paper factory rolls into an avalanche, and the printers refuse to work until back wages are paid up, and the compositor bows to the managing editor, managing editor bows to the editor-in-chief, and the editor-in-chief bows to the directors, and the directors bow to the world at large and all the subscribers wonder why their paper doesn't come. The world will have to learn that a newspaper is as much of an institution as the Bank of England or Yale college, and is not an enterprise. If you have the aforesaid agricultural, or scientific, or religious, or political idea to ventilate, you had better charge upon the world through the columns already established. It is folly for any one who can not succeed at anything else to try newspaperdom. If you can not climb the hill back of your house it is folly to try the sides of the Matterhorn.

To publish a newspaper requires the skill, the precision, the boldness, the vigilance, the strategy, of a commander-in-chief. To edit a newspaper requires that one be a statesman, an essayist, a geographer, a statistician, and in acquisition, encyclopediac. To man, to govern, to propel a newspaper until it shall be a fixed institution, a national fact, demand more qualities than any business on earth. If you feel like starting any newspaper, secular or religious, understand that you are being threatened with softening of the brain or lunacy, and, throwing your pocketbook into your wife's lap, start for some insane asylum before you do something desperate. Meanwhile, as the dead newspapers, week by week, are carried out to the burial, all the living newspapers give respectful obituaries telling when they were born and when they died. The best printer's ink should give at least one stickful of epitaph. If it was a good paper, say "Peace to its ashes." If it was a bad paper, I suggest the epitaph written for Francis Chartreuse: "Here continueth to rot the body of Francis Chartreuse, who, with an inflexible constancy and uniformity of life, persisted in the practice of every human vice, excepting prodigality and hypocrisy; his insatiable avarice exempted him from the first, his matchless impudence from the second." I say this because I want you to know that a good, healthy, long-lived, entertaining newspaper is not an easy blessing, but one that comes to us through the fire.

First of all, newspapers make knowledge democratic and for the multitude. The public library is a haymow so high up that few can reach it, while the newspaper throws down the forage to our feet. Public libraries are the reservoirs where the great floods are stored high up and away off. The newspaper is the tunnel that brings them down to the pitchers of all the people. The chief use of our great libraries is to make newspapers out of. Great libraries make a few men and women very wise. Newspapers lift whole nations into the sunlight. Better have fifty million people moderately intelligent than one hundred thousand solons. A false impression is abroad that newspaper knowledge is ephemeral because periodicals are thrown aside, and not one out of ten thousand people files them for future reference. Such knowledge, so far from being ephemeral, goes into the very structure of the world's heart and brain, and decides the destiny of churches and nations. Knowledge on the shelf is of little worth. It is knowledge afoot, knowledge harnessed, knowledge in revolution, knowledge winged, knowledge projected, knowledge thunderbolted. So far from being ephemeral, nearly all the best minds and hearts have their hands on the printing press to-day, and have had since it got emancipated. Adams and Hancock and Otis used to go to the Boston Gazette and compose articles on the rights of the people. Benjamin Franklin, De Witt Clinton, Hamilton, Jefferson, Quincy were strong in newspaperdom. Many of the immortal things that have been published in book form first appeared in what you may call the ephemeral periodical. All Macaulay's essays first appeared in a review. All Carlyle's, all Ruskin's, all McIntosh's, all Sydney Smith's, all Hazlitt's, all Thackeray's all the elevated works of fiction in our day are reprints from periodicals in which they appeared as serials. Tennyson's poems, Burns' poems, Longfellow's poems, Emerson's poems, Lowell's poems, Whittier's poems were once fugitive pieces. You can not find ten literary men in Christendom, with strong minds and great hearts, but are or have been somewhat connected with the newspaper printing press. While the book will always have its place, the newspaper is more potent. Because the latter is multitudinous, do not conclude it is necessarily superficial. If a man should from childhood to old age see only his Bible, Webster's dictionary and his newspaper, he could be prepared for all the duties of this life and all the happiness of the next.

Again, a good newspaper is a useful mirror of life as it is. It is sometimes complained that newspapers report the evil when they ought only report the good. They must report the evil as well as the good, or how shall we know what is to be reformed, what guarded against, what fought down? A newspaper that pictures only the honesty and virtue of a society is a misrepresentation. That family is best prepared for the duties of life which, knowing the evil, is taught to select the good. Keep children under the impression that all is fair and right in the world, and when they go out into it they will be as poorly prepared to struggle with it as a child who is thrown into the middle of the Atlantic and told to learn how to swim. Our only complaint is when sin is made attractive and morality dull, when vice is painted with great headings and good deeds are put in obscure corners, iniquity set up in great primmer and righteousness in nonpareil. Sin is loathsome, make it loathsome. Virtue is beautiful, make it beautiful.

It would work a vast improvement if all our papers—religious, political, literary—should for the most part drop their impersonality. This would do better justice to newspaper writers. Many of the strongest and best writers of the country live and die unknown, and are denied their just fame. The vast public never learns who they are. Most of them are on comparatively small income, and after awhile their hand forgets its cunning, and they are without resources, left to die. Why not, at least, have his initials attached to his most important work? It always gave additional force to an article when you occasionally saw added to some significant article in the old New York Courier and Enquirer J. W. W., or in the Tribune H. G., or in the Herald J. G. B., or in the Times H. J. R., or in the Evening Post W. C. B., or in the Evening Express E. B. While this arrangement would be a fair and just thing for newspaper writers, it would be a defense for the public. It is sometimes true that things damaging to private character are said. Who is responsible? It is the "we" of the editorial or reportorial columns. Every man in every profession or occupation ought to be responsible for what he does. No honorable man will ever write that which he would be afraid to sign. But thousands of persons have suffered from the impersonality of newspapers. What can our private citizen wronged in his reputation do in a contest with misrepresentation multiplied into 20,000 to 50,000 copies? An injustice done in print is ultimately worse than an injustice done in private life. During loss of temper a man may say that for which he will be sorry in ten minutes; but a newspaper injustice has first to be written, set up in type, then the proof taken off and read and corrected, and then for six or ten hours the presses are busy running off the issue. Plenty of time to correct. Plenty of time to cool off. Plenty of time to repent. But all that is hidden in the impersonality of a newspaper. It will be a long step forward when all is changed and newspaper writers get credit for the good and are held responsible for the evil.

Another step forward for newspaperdom will be when in our colleges and universities we open opportunities for preparing candidates for the editorial chair. We have in such institutions medical departments, law departments, why not editorial departments? Do the legal and healing professions demand more culture and careful training than the editorial or reportorial professions? I know men may tumble by what seems accident into a newspaper office as they may tumble into other occupations, but it would be an incalculable advantage if those proposing a newspaper life had an institution to which they might go to learn the qualifications, the responsibilities, the trials, the temptations, the dangers, the magnificent opportunities, of newspaper life. Let there be a lectureship in which there shall appear the leading editors of the United States telling the story of their struggles, their victories, their mistakes, how they worked and what they found out to be the best way of working. There will be strong men who will climb up without such aid into editorial power and efficiency. So do men climb up to success in other branches by sheer grit. But if we want learned institutions to make lawyers and artists and doctors and ministers, we much more need learned institutions to make editors, who occupy a position of influence a hundred-fold greater. I do not put the truth too strongly when I say the most potent influence for good on earth is a good editor, and the most potent influence for evil is a bad one. The best way to reinforce and improve the newspaper is to endow editorial professorates. When will Princeton, or Harvard, or Yale, or Rochester lead the way?

Another blessing of the newspaper is the foundation it lays for accurate history of the time in which we live. We for the most part blindly guess about the ages that ante-date the newspapers; and are dependent upon the prejudices of this or that historian. But after a hundred or two years what a splendid opportunity the historian will have to teach the people the lesson of this day. Our Bancrofts got from the early newspapers of this country, from the Boston News-Letter, the New York Gazette and the American Rag Bag, and Royal Gazetteer and Independent Chronicle, and Massachusetts Spy and the Philadelphia Aurora, accounts of Perry's victory, and Hamilton's duel, and Washington's death, and Boston massacre, and the oppressive foreign tax on luxuries which turned Boston Harbor into a teapot, and Paul Revere's midnight ride, and Rhode Island rebellion, and South Carolina nullification.

LOVE LETTERS FROM M'KINLEY.

Thousands of Them Find Their Way Into Indiana.

I do not know whether Maj. McKinley, in working up sentiment for his presidential aspirations, has a young woman or not to whom he dictates those pleasant typewritten letters that have reached every voting precinct in this state, but I do know that they have much to do in strengthening the original McKinleyite and winning over the wavering. Without the typewriter he could not have reached one-half the Indianians he is now rallying under his banner in response to the clicking of the little instrument in his law office or library at Canton.

On an average 50 republicans to a county have complimentary letters from the adroit little Napoleon. One would suppose that the distinguished gentleman in Canton had a powerful memory for persons and localities, for there is never the mistake of a letter in name or post office of the one addressed.

Up in Clinton county the other day a visiting politician from the capital was taken aside by a resident politician of Frankfort with a mysterious wink and nod of the head. "Look at that," said the verdant politician, unfolding a letter bearing the McKinley office head and the McKinley signature, with a dozen or fifteen lines of typewritten copy between.

"Oh," remarked the visiting politician, who is an Allison-Harrison or a Harrison-Allison man, just as events at St. Louis may dictate, "that is from McKinley, is it? Well, your letter is only one of the many thousand the major has sent into Indiana."

"That don't make any difference," the resident politician replied. "He may send 100,000 if he wants to do so. The letter shows that some time or other he has heard of me, and now, when he wants help, he remembers me. I'm for McKinley from this time on."

The major varies his compliments in these missives of good will to the importance of the one addressed. If the latter has a pull only in his precinct the major tickles his vanity with a few pleasant words, closing with the hope that he can find it consistent with his views to give him his personal support. If the one the Little Napoleon wishes to come over to his side is of mysterious greatness he phrases his communication with the suggestion that he (Maj. McKinley) can't go much further in this campaign unless his particular Indiana friend, whom he takes the liberty to address in his interest, visits Canton and the McKinley home at his earliest convenience.

One of these letters reached a prominent Harison man the other day. It added an inch to his stature and two to his stomach circumference. He had a secret that was burning a hole in his heart. He could keep it no longer, and, singling out a victim whom he knew would be moved by consuming envy, took him out of a group in a hotel lobby and in one of the out-of-the-way corners whispered:

"Have you heard from the major?"

"Major who?"

"Why, Maj. McKinley, of course. Hasn't he written to you?"

"No, and I don't care a rap if he doesn't."

"He has to me. Look at that, will you?"

And the victim of envy read the Ohio man's compliments without comment, and, passing the letter back to the proud Indianian, moved off into the crowd to say a good word for any candidate but McKinley.

All these letters are the sequence of a request the Canton candidate made of Chairman Gowdy some weeks ago. It read like this:

> "MY DEAR CAPT. GOWDY: Will you kindly send me the names of 25 or 50 republicans in each county of Indiana who will likely support me. Yours respectfully,
>
> "WILLIAM MCKINLEY."

That is the secret of the major's remembrance of so many ardent friends.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

——The republican party of Ohio is for McKinley. Mr. Foraker, the gentleman who owns it, has said so.—Chicago News (Ind.).

——Allison's own state is solid for him, and yet Allison doesn't look the least bit like Abraham Lincoln.—C—H—m.—Chicago Tribune (Rep.).

——McKinley is still howling at the favorite sons. As one of the original pets in this class he thinks that every other state should adopt him.—Detroit Free Press.

——McKinley is a living example of a man who undertook to make people rich by taxing them, and fell a victim to his own foolish theories.—Utica Observer.

——Even the tom cat on Mr. Reed's campaign button is smiling at the attempt of the Pennsylvania favorite son to get his boom off the ways.—Chicago Times-Herald.

——This thing of southern republicans declaring for McKinley before Gov. Morton has fairly begun to sign checks is unseemly and unbusinesslike.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

——McKinley's platform straddles everything but the tariff, and on that question he is flatfooted for plunder of the people for the protection of monopoly.—Wheeling Register.

——It may be that the democratic party is not yet through with trouble over the silver question, but the republican party's troubles on that score have hardly begun.—Albany Argus.

——The republican party is a queer trinity just at present. One part wants free silver and free trade; another protection and free silver, and a third sound money and protection. A rather refractory three-horse hitch.—Boston Herald (Ind.).

——The McKinley platform is already doing its deadly work. The New York Tribune swears roundly that it means the gold standard, while Editor Godkin's British organ rips out an oath that it means the silver standard. So there you are!—Atlanta Constitution.

READY TO STRAD

McKinley's Attitude on the [illegible]rency Issue.

When Gov. Foraker spoke [illegible] Ohic republican convention on [illegible] the chair it was noticeable th[illegible] said nothing [illegible] views as to silver. On the contrar[illegible] said everybody knew that the sup[illegible] issue is whether this country is t[illegible] ruled by democracy or republican[illegible] This is no issue at all until it is d[illegible]ined what democracy and rep[illegible]nism are to stand for this year. For-aker said further that repu[illegible]s had no differences of opinion up[illegible]ional questions or policies, thoug[illegible] knew the most important measu[illegible]efore congress have been killed [illegible] publican votes, and that the lead[illegible] publican paper of Ohio had call[illegible] vain on McKinley, Reed, Allison, [illegible] and others to define their positi[illegible] the currency question.

All this indicated a dispos[illegible]n to straddle the most importa[illegible] issue of the day. This promise is in t[illegible] main borne out by the money plan[illegible]f the platform. It reads as follows:

> "We contend for honest mone[illegible] for a currency of gold, silver and pa[illegible] with which to measure our exchan[illegible] that shall be as sound as the governm[illegible]t and as untarnished as its honor; and [illegible] that end we favor bimetallism, and [illegible] mand the use of both gold and silver as [illegible]dard money, either in accordance with [illegible]tio to be fixed by international agree[illegible]nt, if that can be obtained, or under [illegible]h restrictions and such provisions to [illegible]e determined by legislation as will se[illegible]e the maintenance of the parities of [illegible]es of the two metals, so that the purcha[illegible]g and debt-paying power of the dollar s[illegible] be at all times equal."

This plank is said to have be[illegible] writ-ten by McKinley himself. It c[illegible]tains some of the language of the Min[illegible]polis platform of 1892, and somethi[illegible] that was not in that platform. It is r[illegible]dered more incoherent and evasive [illegible] the matter added. The rhetorical [illegible]rish that the money of gold, silver a[illegible]paper "shall be as sound as the gov[illegible]ment and as untarnished as its hono[illegible]s not very impressive when we recoll[illegible] what bad money republicans hav[illegible]rust upon us in times past, and r[illegible] that they might get into power[illegible]. If the resolution is properly tr[illegible]itted it declares for "a currency o[illegible], silver and paper with which to [illegible]asure our exchange," which is not [illegible]ially different from arrant nonsen[illegible]out is eminently McKinleyesque.

The resolution adopted at M[illegible]eapolis in 1892 was written in part [illegible]ones, of Nevada, and contains the [illegible]gling word "bimetallism," to which [illegible]rites give a meaning altogether [illegible]erent from that which was given [illegible]y its inventors and by sound-mo[illegible] men generally. Still, it might have [illegible]ered well enough but for the fact [illegible]t the silver men have interpreted it [illegible] lean-ing free coinage, and have decl[illegible] that hereafter they will insist upon [illegible]finite expression for or against the [illegible] and unlimited coinage of silver at [illegible] ratio of sixteen to one. The silve[illegible]s say properly that this is the real [illegible]ge be-fore the country, and they a[illegible]for a deliverance on this point. In [illegible]d of making it clearer than that [illegible] 1892, Maj. McKinley has made it vag[illegible] more rhetorical, more unlike the utt[illegible]ce of a real advocate of honest mon[illegible]

McKinley is a straddle him[illegible]. He has been on every side of th[illegible] silver question except that of an u[illegible]tling and uncompromising foe of th[illegible] degra-dation of our currency. He ca[illegible]t be trusted to veto a sixteen-to-o[illegible] rec-coinage bill, and such a man is [illegible] for the presidency. To this person[illegible] strad-dle he has now added a platfor[illegible] strad-dle. Maj. McKinley is the exp[illegible]ncy and rose of the straddlers and th[illegible] im-mers who call themselves bimet[illegible]ists without defining what they me[illegible] by the term.—Louisville Courier-Jo[illegible]nal.

What Says Mr. McKinley?

Senator Chandler's utteran[illegible] re-specting the campaign method[illegible]ing used on behalf of Mr. McKinle[illegible]ome with peculiar force. The blow[illegible]hus struck at the Ohio man's cand[illegible]ey is aimed, not by a democrat, but [illegible]y a republican, and it is struck str[illegible]ght from the shoulder. Without att[illegible]pt-ing to extenuate the abuses whic[illegible]re charged up against him, it is al[illegible]ed by Senator Chandler that Mr. Mc[illegible]in-ley's supporters are carrying on [illegible]eir campaign by "begging money f[illegible]om the manufacturers of the west and [illegible]he east and everywhere else, to be exp[illegible]d-ed in manipulating state conventio[illegible]s." If Mr. McKinley's advisers are [illegible]se they will counsel him not to u[illegible]r-estimate the gravity and weig[illegible]f these charges. Had they come f[illegible] a democratic source it would have [illegible]en different. The people might ha[illegible]et them down as the emanation of [illegible]ar-tisan hatred. But they come fr[illegible] a republican of long standing and [illegible]h political position. They are sp[illegible]n with the force of conviction and w[illegible]h-out qualification. Mr. McKinley [illegible]as nothing to do, if he would save [illegible]n-self from the effects of a serious b[illegible]v, but to come out with a fair stater[illegible]nt defining just what basis of truth t[illegible]re is in Senator Chandler's charges, [illegible]d furnishing cogent proofs to back[illegible]p his denial.—Chicago Record (Ind.).

The Reciprocity Incident.

Senator Cullom, in his letter aga[illegible]t McKinley, recalls an episode in [illegible]e framing of the tariff bill bearing [illegible]ve latter's name which many repub[illegible] nas appear to have forgotten. [illegible]s supporters couple his name with [illegible] so-called policy of reciprocity. "B[illegible]e" as Senator Cullom says, "the trut[illegible] that McKinley fought reciprocity w[illegible] all the force he had until forced [illegible] surrender." The surrender was [illegible] casioned by Secretary Blaine's dr[illegible]matic smashing of his hat on th[illegible] table of the committe-room, emph[illegible]sizing his declaration that the Mc[illegible]Kinley bill as framed "would no[illegible] make a market for another bushel o[illegible] American grain or another pound o[illegible] American meat." In his extreme an[illegible] narrow protectionism McKinley wa[illegible] opposed to foreign trade, but th[illegible] stronger will of Blaine forced him t[illegible] accept the reciprocity provision.—N. Y. World.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

—A student 54 years old is a member of the freshman class of the Maine medical school.

—Bishop Hall (Episcopal), of Vermont, has been doing temporary duty for the venerable Bishop Clark, of Rhode Island, who is enfeebled by old age.

—The Church of England is supported by income from investments, endowments, and by voluntary contributions. The total revenue of the church is about $35,000,000.

—Rev. Sir John Warren Hayes, Bart., who has just died in his 97th year, was the oldest clergyman of the Church of England, the oldest free mason, and the oldest baronet in Great Britain.

—There is a good deal of soreness in Talmage's church in Washington, and among the Presbyterians there generally—at least, so it is said—over his success in freezing out one of his copastors in order that he could have the pulpit all to himself.

—The Christian Intelligencer remarks that "age is at a premium in all the professions, except the clerical. In the sick chamber and in the court-room experience counts for something; in the pulpit it counts for nothing. To treat sin-sick souls requires more skill than to treat diseased bodies, and skill is the ripe fruit of experience."

—The Pallium will be formally conferred upon Archbishop Kain, of St. Louis, on March 10 by Cardinal Gibbons. There is a rumor in Catholic circles of St. Louis that Cardinal Satolli will not make his contemplated visit to that city, owing to the fact that certain priests of the archdiocese recently criticised his alleged harsh treatment of Archbishop Kendrick.

PIRATE'S BURIED GOLD.

Treasure Worth $800,000 Believed to Be Hidden Away in Louisiana.

Not long ago a Mr. Palmer, of Lake Charles, La., purchased a tract of land situated on the south bank of English bayou, at its junction with the Calcasieu. This property is commonly known as the "English Bayou Bluffs."

To all intents this gentleman made the deal simply for purposes of speculation. So it may be imagined that Mr. Palmer was overwhelmed by the legend which was told him a few days ago.

He was one morning in his office when an old creole came in and introduced himself. After a few minor remarks he suddenly inquired if Mr. Palmer had not made the deal for the land about the mouth of the bayou. On being answered in the affirmative, he told this story:

"Along in the first part of this century things were rocky in these parts. There was no town here then, and, with the exception of a few scattered ranches, the country was held by the Quelquesho and Choctaw Indians.

"The Calcasieu river, however, and its tributaries were in the possession of the pirate, Lafitte. For years he made this section one of his hiding places, and a secure one it was, for, once across the bar with his chopper-built schooners, he was beyond the reach of the average deep-water cruiser.

"But it is said that on one occasion his pursuers crossed the bar and chased him up the river, for he sailed as far as the English bayou, and there on these high banks, in the angle formed by the two streams, he buried $800,000 in gold.

"Then about 200 yards further up the Calcasieu, he sunk his vessel, and with his men took to the dense swamps, leaving his pursuers no clews as to his whereabouts, and they probably never knew what became of the vessel or its crew."

Whether this man spoke the truth or not I am unable to say, but in all probability there is some ground for the legend. At all events the story leaked out, and one morning before a week had passed freshly dug holes on the bluffs showed that some one had been prospecting for the lost gold.

Up the Calcasieu, about a mile from this spot, there is a locality which has always borne a special charm for the fortune hunter, as well as for those in search of ancient legends.

As with the other place, Lafitte is the hero of the tale, but the treasure reposes at the bottom of the river. It seems that the pirate suddenly found himself in a tight place with one of his vessels. On board were heaps of costly jewelry—diamonds, rubies and pearls—which he had taken from merchantmen on the high seas.

Either from a notion of his own, or because he did not have time to do otherwise, Lafitte filled one of his cannon with this fabulous wealth, and, sealing it up, threw it overboard in a bend of the river.—N. Y. Times.

Found His Place.

In one of the frontier counties of Texas a few residents were fixing up a political slate, so that all would have a place at the public crib.

"There," said one, "I reckon about everbody has something but old Tom Jones."

"Might make him constable."

"No; he can't read—couldn't serve a warrant."

"Justice of the peace," suggested another.

"That won't do, because he can't write either. Reckon the old fellow will have to go hungry."

"That would never work," said another "he would throw his influence against us. I should think the school board was the place for Tom."

"Didn't think of that. Put him down for the best place on the board."—Texas Sifter.

Nothing of Consequence.

Mistress (just returned from a long visit in the country)—Well, Jane, how have you been getting on while I have been away?

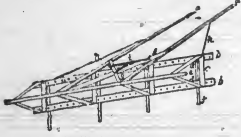
Jane—Pretty fair, mum. The kitchen drain's all stopped up, the chimbly has been on fire, burglars broke in one night and the brokers is in for taxes; but everything else is all right.—London Tit-Bits.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS.

SERVICEABLE MARKER.

Its Inventor Thinks It Is the Best Thing of Its Kind.

I have used many different markers of various patterns, but none have given me more satisfaction than the one here described and illustrated, which is one of my own invention. While I would not advise its use in breaking colts, I have drawn straight rows with it, and with a skittish horse, by using one hand to guide the horse, and the other to steady the marker. Take two pieces (b) one inch thick, three inches wide, and 13 feet long, to these fasten four crosspieces (c), two inches wide and 30 inches long, two feet three inches and six feet three inches from the center toward each end. Then fasten two barked poles (a) over the two center crosspieces, giving the frame the desired slant, allowing the pole to project three feet back of frame and fasten to another barked pole (e) 13 feet long, running parallel with the frame; at the same time give the two poles the proper shape for shafts. Brace the handle pole (e) with two-inch strips (d) fastened to the lower end of crosspieces (c) and to the top of endpieces. Brace the shafts crosswise from the handle to the shaft poles two feet in front of the frame, also by a heavy wire extending from the top of the end crosspieces to the shafts, two feet from the front end. A singletree (i) is secured to the X. Bore holes in the middle of each long frame strip, and every six inches each way, through which, by the use of bolts, the marking legs (f), 3½ or four feet long, are fastened any desired distance apart, care being taken to have the draft as evenly divided as possible by having the legs the same distance from the center on each side. Let the end leg trace the last mark made, and all rows will be of a uniform width. In turning, hook the elbows under the pole, using the hands to guide the horse around.—Orange Judd Farmer.



HOMEMADE MARKER.

PREVENT POTATO SCAB.

Care in the Selection of Seed and Land the Two Prime Requisites.

Experiments relating to potao scab show that it will infect turnips, beets, and possibly other root crops, catching from one kind to another. Scabby seed will produce a scabby crop, and land where a scabby crop was grown this year will produce a scabby crop next year. Barnyard manure increases the disease, hence, to prevent scab, plant healthy seed on clean land and use commercial fertilizers. If scabby seed must be planted, first soak them an hour and a half in 15 gallons of water in which 2½ ounces of corrosive sublimate has been dissolved. This will cost 25 cents and will treat enough seed for five acres. Soak seed before cutting, and wash dirt off before soaking.

The sublimate is a strong poison and corrodes metals; hence mix in a wooden vessel and exercise great care. Put the mixture in a barrel and dip in a bushel at a time in a loosely woven sack, and spread out to dry. The Rhode Island station confirms above points and adds two years' tests there prove conclusively that lime and ashes aggravate potato scab, which constitutes a serious objection to their use on potato lands.

Observation on potato blight indicates that it is caused by a fungus and is invited by hot, dry weather and by ravages of the flea-beetle. Cultivate often and shallow, and spray vines with Bordeaux mixture (six pounds copper sulphate, four pounds of lime, 22 gallons water.) If patato bugs are about, add one-fourth of a pound of paris green. This kills bugs, beetles and fungus.—St. Louis Journal of Agriculture.

The Country Butter Buyer.

We refer to the country grocer who buys for goods the butter made by his customers. He is frequently at the mercy of the poorest butter makers in his township. They can't sell their butter to private customers or to the commission houses; hence it turns up at the grocery. The grocer pays ten or twelve cents a pound for it, and that is frequently more than it is worth, as the same butter if sent to a city would be graded as "grease." Does the grocer tell the farmer his butter is not good? Far from it; he can't afford to lose a customer. Often he gives the butter a word or two of praise, which convinces the farmer that his wife is not to be beaten as a butter maker. It would never do for the groceryman to set himself up as a judge over the butter of his patrons.—Farmers' Review.

Road Building Is a Science.

Our communities should awaken to the fact that road construction is a science; that good roads cannot be built on the haphazard guess of an inexperienced individual; that the mere placing and compacting of broken stone on a roadway is only a matter of labor and workmanship; that workmanship will be of no avail, however thorough it may be, if the design has not been carefully adapted to the conditions to be met and to the ends sought; that an excess of strength can be readily secured by an unreasonable expenditure of money, but that the requisite strength and the best results at the minimum of cost are to be obtained only by the application of well-defined rules.—N. Y. Independent.

The more rapidly animals are fattened the better the profits.

GOOD EARTH ROADS.

Facts to Be Remembered by Those Entrusted with Making Them.

How to make a good country road is a problem of widespread interest. In large areas of the country common earth roads will have to answer all purposes for some time to come. In a recent number of the Pittsburgh Dispatch, Mr. John M. Burn describes a plan he has followed for several years with entire satisfaction, as follows:

"Cut the ditches down three or four feet lower than the roadway, use a two-horse scraper to curve the surface, and the natural forces set in operation will do all the rest. The water drains out of the body of the roadway, the mud surface dries and toughens as it dries, the scraper fills all ruts and cuts away all vegetation, the sun and air dry a hornhard surface; rainstorms simply wash it off clean, and in an hour or so after the rain it is as hard as before. I present it as the most effective solution of the problem of making good country roads with little expense.

"The greater portion of clay roads (probably 90 per cent.) are in front of farms and owned or rented by people who do not have the money necessary to macadamize (stone) them. They really cannot afford to do so, and it is really to their assistance I desire to direct these thoughts. This is such a simple matter and so thoroughly effective that I desire you to consider the analysis. The existence of the open ditch with clean bottom gives water a chance to drain out of the body of the roadway and run away. The tough mud worked up by hoofs and wheels becomes tougher and more compact as it drains from below and dries from above.

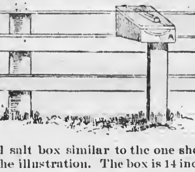
"The scraper drawn by two slow draft horses attacks the surface when sufficiently dry, all loose stones are moved into the wheel tracks, everything is moved towards the middle of the roadway, no vegetation remains between the wheelways and the ditches, travel compacts the still damp material in its new position. A rain may soften some of it again. So much the better. The scraper trims it smooth again, and about the third time the road is smooth, hard, compact and dry. It sheds the water of a storm, because of its curve, and especially because of solid, impenetrable surface of tough, dry material. Thus it remains and acts until frost sets in. If the freeze-up is rapid, the road is all right and remains so. If alternate freezing and thawing takes place it will roughen up somewhat, but the ditches are at work and very little water can remain in the roadway, and the road don't get bad enough to speak of.

"It takes water and clay to make mud. Get the water out as soon as possible. The ditches do that, and it is no longer in the roadway, therefore not much mud. It has been a very interesting study to me, and I have watched it in all its varying phases for many years."

SALT BOX FOR COWS.

How to Get Up a Convenient Arrangement at Small Expense.

Live stock should have a quantity of salt fed to them regularly. The best way is to place a quantity of salt where it will be accessible to them at all times, and this is done in no more satisfactory way than by the use of a covered salt box similar to the one shown in the illustration. The box is 14 inches long, 9 inches wide, 8 inches high at the back and 6 inches in front. The box is firmly nailed to the fence board or to a post or side of a building, as most convenient. The cover is hinged, and has a bevel-shaped piece (E) nailed at the top to prevent splitting, also to cause the cover to fall back into position. The front end of the box (A) is cut away, exposing the salt, and in trying to get it the cover is raised. Cattle readily learn to raise the cover when they are salt hungry. The stake placed under the box in front holds it firmly in position, and the whole makes a cheap and convenient arrangement, as from a week's to several weeks' supply of salt can be placed in the box at once.—Farmers' Review.



To Prevent Fires on Farms.

Too great care cannot be exercised to prevent fires on the farm; for a fire once started means the destruction of a building and perhaps more than one. The house is exposed to the usual causes of conflagrations — exploding lamps, defective chimneys and carelessness in handling matches. All the fire caution possible against such happenings should be taken. See that the lamps are perfect; fill them during the day, and move them from place to place with the utmost care. Make it a rule never to throw a match that is lighted anywhere that ignition could take place, until the fire on the match is entirely out. So far as the barn is concerned, never permit anyone to go into it with a lighted pipe or cigar, and the lantern should always be in good order and handled carefully. The only practical thing to do in the matter of fire on the farm is to prevent it.—Rural World.

By planting a good selection of varieties, the supply of strawberries, raspberries and blackberries may be considerably extended.

Wood ashes applied around the trees will help them make a healthy and more vigorous growth and bear sounder fruit.

AMERICANS' GREAT COURAGE.

Possibilities in Long-Distance Electric Power Transmission.

The feasibility of power transmission by means of electricity over distances of limited extent has been clearly demonstrated in the long years of experience with the direct current, but transmission by means of the direct current speedily reached a limit, beyond which for economical reasons it became inadvisable to go. Yet it was transmitted over very long distances. How best to effect this became the urgent question of the hour.

The direct current was, perforce, discarded, and the alternating current called into requisition. Attainment of an economical solution was by no means easy. Difficulty after difficulty arose, requiring countless experiments to elucidate; and alteration after alteration in machinery was made, involving the expenditure of vast sums. By successive and painful stages a solution was finally reached, and today the long-distance transmission of power by electricity is an established economic fact of a potentiality which seems limited in its comprehensiveness only by the exhaustion of the available natural forces of the earth.

Indeed, everything points to a corner in water powers, speculative enterprises keeping steady step with honest industrial initiative, and generally [illegible] little in advance. Waterfall and cataract have suddenly assumed a g[illegible] interest to their owners than that imparted by their merely scenic features. Hitherto unutilized water powers have become, in sanguine imagination, possible gold mines in futuro, and the elimination of the domestic coal heap and relegation of the steam engine to the oblivion which awaits the discarded have become articles of faith with water power proprietors.

By far the greatest number of the long-distance transmission installations of the world are situated in the United States. The American seems endowed with the courage of temerity, and is willing to adopt a new thing with promise only, where other nationalities demand assurance or proof. A possibility has a special attraction for the American mind, and the risk of its realization is willingly run. It is this spirit that has covered the United States with electric lighting staions, spread a nework of electric car lines over every city of any importance in its boundaries, and initiated the supersession of the steam locomotive itself from its main line railways.—John McGhie, in Cassier's Magaine.

"GOOD-BY, MATE, GOOD-BY."

Telegraph Lineman Drops Forty Feet to Save a Comrade's Life.

The life of the telegraph lineman is full of peril. As a rule, the workman has served an apprenticeship to his arduous occupation, or has previously qualified as a sailor. It is no easy matter to climb hand over hand the huge telegraph poles, the sight of which is so familiar all over the country.

In stormy weather the workman carries his life in his hand. A few years ago a shocking accident drew attention to the dangerous nature of the work. Two men were engaged on a telegraph pole standing many feet above a well-known line of railway. A wire had broken and they were busy repairing the damage.

The wind blew fiercely from the east, and the pole rocked to and fro in the blast. Suddenly a strong gust caused one of the men to turn in his position. In doing so he somehow pushed his companion, who, taken unawares, fell backwards. He clutched at his mate, and both tumbled over amongst the wires.

For a moment the two men hung without speaking a word. Then one of them said:

"Bill, I can't reach the post, and I'm afraid if I move the wires will break." And as he spoke a wire broke.

"Well, mate, it's a big drop down into the grass," replied the other man; "but as you're married and have three kids, I don't see why I should stay here."

"No, don't do that, Bill; you'll get killed, surely. Let's hang a little longer."

But another wire broke, and Bill made up his mind.

"Good-by, mate," he said to the other, who had tears in his eyes; "good-by."

Then he dropped—a fall of 40 feet. He fell among some bushes and rolled down the embankment. When he rose (for he was not dead) he crawled up to where his companion hung.

"I'm all right, mate; I'm going for help."

The station was half a mile distant. When the poor fellow who had risked his life for his mate told his tale he fainted away. The doctor said he had broken his arms and a couple of ribs; but his noble action saved his friend's life and his own.—Pearson's Weekly.

Scotch Cakes.

Only three ingredients are required —a cupful of butter, half a cupful of sugar and 1¾ pints of flour. Mix the flour and sugar. Beat the butter to a cream, and gradually beat it into the dry mixture. The new mixture will be stiff and brittle, and must be worked thoroughly with the hands until it becomes pliable. Sprinkle a board lightly with flour, and laying half of the mixture upon it, roll it down to the thickness of about half an inch. Cut into four parts, and pinch the edges with the fingers to make little scallops. Bake in a modern oven. Be sure that the measurements are exact, and take great care in mixing and baking. The cakes are nice to serve with preserves, marmalade and fruit jellies.—Boston Herald.

Died from a Natural Cause.

Insurance Superintendent (suspiciously)—How did your husband happen to die so soon after getting insured for a large amount?

Widow—He worked himself to death trying to pay the premiums.—Weekly Telegraph.

MUD-MADE MEN.

Thousands Rejuvenated in 1895—Remarkable Vitalizing Power of the Famous Magno-Mud Cure and Lithia Water Baths.

INDIANA MINERAL SPRINGS, Ind., Jan. [Special]—During the year 1895 a large number of physicians from all over the country have personally investigated the remarkable natural combination of cures found here for rheumatism, kidney and nervous diseases. This treatment, consisting of the Magno-Mud Cure and Magno-Lithia Baths, taken in connection with the drinking of Magno-Lithia water, has been found by the profession to be the most remarkable and successful remedial power as yet discovered. The end of the year brought reports from many eminent medical men, a number of whom have discussed and recommended the cure in the leading medical journals.

Since the accidental discovery of the virtues of Magno-Mud and Lithia water four years ago, this little valley has become world-famous. A big hotel has been built with all modern improvements, electric light, steam heat, and directly connected with a large bath-house especially constructed for the requirements of Magno-Mud and Lithia Water Baths. People in search of rest, health and pleasure from all over the United States have come in numbers to tax the capacity of the establishment, and have gone to help spread the fame of the cure.

The proprietors, the Indiana Springs Co., have opened offices at 105 Hudson St., New York City, and 45 Randolph St., Chicago, where all detailed information can be obtained on application, whether personal or by letter.

A TIMID HOUSEKEEPER.—Mrs. Newed—"We will have to have a speaking tube from the dining-room to the kitchen." Mr. Newed—"Why?" Mrs. Newed—"Well, I must get some way of talking to the cook without having her throw dishes at me."—Truth.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A.D. 1886.

[SEAL] A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

"THIS is leap year, I know," said the maid; "but I do not think I could so far forget my maidenly modesty as to propose to a man. Yet—" "Yet what?" asked the youth, seeing she hesitated. "I might jump at an offer if it were made to me."—N. Y. Herald.

Home Seekers Excursions.

In order to give everyone an opportunity to see the Western Country and enable the home seekers to secure a home in time to commence work for the season of 1896, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R'y has arranged to run a series of four home seekers excursions to various points in the West, North-West and South-West on the following dates: March 10, April 7 and 21 and May 5, at the low rate of two dollars more than ONE FARE for the round trip. Tickets will be good for return on any Tuesday or Friday within twenty-one days from date of sale. For rates, time of trains and further details apply to any coupon ticket agent in the East or South, or address GEO. H. HEAFFORD, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Chicago, Ill.

"SOME folks," said Uncle Eben, "doan' 'pear ter take no pride in speakin' de troof 'ceppin' when it gwine ter huht somebody's feelin's."—Washington Star.

Cheap Excursions to the West and Northwest.

On March 10 and April 7, 1896, the North-Western Line (Chicago & Northwestern R'y) will sell Home Seekers' excursion tickets at very low rates to a large number of points in Northern Wisconsin, Michigan, Northwestern Iowa, Western Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota, including the famous Black Hills district. For full information apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address W. B. KNISKERN, G. P. & T. A., Chicago, Ill.

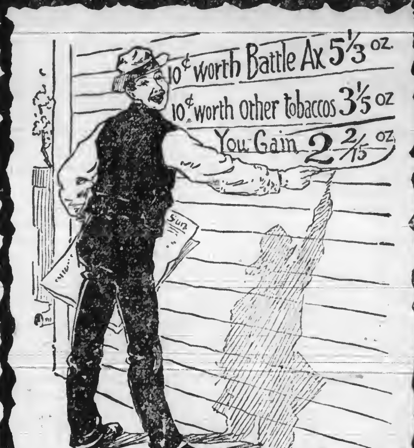
PEDANTRY crams our heads with learned lumber, and takes out our brains to make room for it.—Colton.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, March 23

LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	$2 50	@	3 00
Select butchers	3 75	@	4 00
HOGS—Common	3 40	@	3 75
Good Packers	3 70	@	3 80
SHEEP—Choice	3 65	@	3 75
LAMBS—Good to choice	4 35	@	4 65
FLOUR—Winter family	2 75	@	3 10
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@	71½
No. 3 red		@	70
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@	30
Oats—No. 2		@	22¾
Rye—No. 2		@	40
HAY—Prime to choice	14 50	@	15 00
TOBACCO—Medium leaf	10 00	@	11 50
Good leaf	12 00	@	14 75
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@	10 25
Lard—Prime steam		@	5 10
BUTTER—Choice dairy		@	10
Prime to choice creamery		@	23
APPLES—Per bbl	3 00	@	3 50
POTATOES—Per bush	35	@	40
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 85	@	3 95
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 1 north'rn		@	74⅜
No. 2 red		@	70⅝
CORN—No. 2 mixed		@	37¼
OATS—Mixed		@	25
PORK—New mess	9 75	@	10 25
LARD—Western		@	5 50
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patents	3 50	@	3 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	64¼	@	65⅛
No. 2 Chicago spring	61	@	61⅝
CORN—No. 2	28¾	@	28⅞
OATS—No. 2		@	19
PORK—Mess	9 05	@	9 10
LARD—Steam	5 17½	@	5 20
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	3 45	@	3 70
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	72	@	72¼
Corn—Mixed	33⅞	@	34
Oats—Mixed	25½	@	27
LARD—Refined		@	11 00
PORK—Mess		@	10 85
CATTLE—First quality	4 00	@	4 50
HOGS—Western	4 40	@	4 60
INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@	71
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@	27¾
Oats—No. 2 mixed		@	21¼
LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 30	@	3 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@	68
Corn—Mixed		@	29
Oats—Mixed		@	[illegible]
PORK—Mess		@	10 50
LARD—Steam	6 25	@	7 00

KNOCK THE SPOTS OUT. A sore spot, green, black, or blue, is a BRUISE Use ST. JACOBS OIL and watch the color fade, the soreness disappear. IT IS MAGICAL.



10¢ worth Battle Ax 5⅓ oz.
10¢ worth other tobaccos 3⅕ oz
You Gain 2 2/15 oz.

Battle Ax PLUG

A GREAT BIG PIECE FOR 10 CENTS

5⅓ ounces for 10 cents. You may have "money to burn," but even so, you needn't throw away 2 ounces of good tobacco. For 5 cents you get almost as much "Battle Ax" as you do of other high grades for 10 cents.

It's Pure

Walter Baker & Co.'s Cocoa is Pure—it's all Cocoa—no filling—no chemicals. WALTER BAKER & CO., Ltd., Dorchester, Mass.

150000 Copies of Demorest's Magazine

DO YOU KNOW WHAT THAT MEANS? THAT MEANS THAT 70,000 more SUBSCRIBERS have been Added to its LIST since Oct. 1st, 1895! Why is this? Because in its improved form it has no equal as a magazine for the family circle.

DEMOREST'S Is Actually a Dozen Magazines in One.

It is a Review for the studious man or woman; a Digest of Current Events and Ideas for the busy man or woman; a Storehouse of Interest for all. DEMOREST'S for 1896 will chronicle every Important Event of Daily Life, and Everything New in Art, Science, Mechanics, Politics, Adventure, Exploration and Discovery, always with profuse illustrations. It will contain a wealth of superbly illustrated papers on general topics, applying to all classes and conditions, instructive and delightful to everybody; and, in addition, it will publish the best and purest fiction from the pens of acknowledged geniuses of the world.

DEMOREST'S MAGAZINE has THE BEST AND MOST PRACTICAL FASHION DEPARTMENT of any magazine published.

Through DEMOREST'S you can obtain all the Cut Paper Patterns of any kind and size that the members of a household can possibly require; for each number contains a Pattern Order good for one pattern if 4 cents be sent for postage, or from 1 to 30 additional patterns may be obtained on it by sending 4 cents for each extra pattern. This Pattern Department alone, at the lowest estimate, is worth from $3 to $5 a year to every subscriber.

FOR ONE DOLLAR ($1.00)

We will send you DEMOREST'S MAGAZINE postpaid from APRIL to NOVEMBER, 1896 (seven months), and in addition will mail you FREE OF CHARGE, as a premium, a copy of De Longpre's Beautiful Water-Color "Chrysanthemum" picture (size 12x28 inches). This is an exquisite reproduction of this famous flower piece and is so well executed that none but an expert can tell it from the original painting which, by the way, cost $1,000.

CUT HERE, AND RETURN COUPON PROPERLY FILLED OUT.

DEMOREST PUBLISHING CO., 110 Fifth Avenue, New York.

DEAR SIR:—For the enclosed $1.00, please send DEMOREST'S FAMILY MAGAZINE to the address below, for seven months, from April to October, 1896, both inclusive. Also De Longpre's Water-color "Chrysanthemum" picture, and the other works of art that are to be published with DEMOREST'S FAMILY MAGAZINE during the year.

Name, ...

P. O., ...

State, ...

Date, ...

WE HAVE NO AGENTS but sell direct to the consumer at wholesale prices. Ship anywhere for examination before sale. Everything warranted. 100 styles of Carriages, 90 styles of Harness, 41 styles Riding Saddles. Write for catalogue. ELKHART CARRIAGE & HARNESS MFG CO. ELKHART, IND. W. B. PRATT, Secy.

HOG CHOLERA. We will furnish medicine to treat one herd of Sick Hogs in EACH TOWNSHIP in the United States FREE. Give express office and number of hogs. A trial only costs expresscharges and a report of the results of using the medicine. WM. HALL MEDICINE CO., St. Louis, Mo.

STARK TREES BEAR FRUIT. TESTED 70 YEARS. Salesmen and club makers wanted for GOLD plum, etc. Stark, Louisiana, Mo., Rockport, Ills.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION. CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. 25 CTS.

OPIUM and WHISKY habits cured. Book sent FREE. Dr. B. M. WOOLLEY, ATLANTA, GA. NAME THIS PAPER every time you write.

A. N. K.—E. 1597

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS PLEASE state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOON .CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, March 25, 1896.

Advertising Rates:

One inch, one time	$1.00
Each additional time	.25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch	.50
Announcement of candidates for for office, cash when ordered	$5.00.

W. L. RIDDELL. - - Publisher.

Notice is hereby given that their will be a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of Boone County, at 2 o'clock, p. m., on the 1st Monday in April, 1896. This meeting is called for the purpose of determining whether or not a primary for the nomination of Democratic candidates for county offices, shall be held on the day of the Presidential election in November, 1896.

D. E. Castleman Chairman.
B. L. Rice, Secretary.

Senator Blackburn was given a rousing reception when he returned to Washington.

Gov. Bradley has declared most emphatically that he will not call a special session of the legistature.

Gov. Bradley's action in calling out the State guards is comdemned or indorsed, according to party lines.

No Kentucky Senator has ever been convicted of bribery. As much cannot be said of the same officer in Ohio.

The Republican county convention is called to meet on the first Monday in April—next county court day.

Jack Chinn will be at Harrodsburg on county court day at that place. Will Governor Bradley send the State guards there to watch him.

The Cubans are holding out pretty well, and as time goes by the more it looks like they will gain their independence. They are receiving considerable help from outsiders.

The "ins" and the "outs" had an old time row in the Republican convention at Newport last Wednesday. They have hotter conventions in Newport than in anyother city in the State.

Alex Deaton, a Breathitt county school trustee, was fined $250 for selling a school to a teacher. He sold the school for $56. The grand jury is investigating other cases of a similar nature.

As silver is no good for money, why not Congress appropriate enough of Uncle Sam's surplus stock on hand to construct statues of some of the recent great financiers this country has produced.

The McKinley wave has completely submerged a few of the favorite sons, who, a few weeks ago, started out under what they thought very favorable conditions for making a good showing at the St. Louis convention.

By instructing for Gov. Bradley for President, the Kentucky Republicans will accomplish nothing more than a delay in their opportunity to vote for some candidate who has a chance to secure the nomination.

It looks very much like Gov. McKinley will win the presidential nomination in a canter. He appears to be almost invincible in the South, and the indications are that he will give Morton and Reed some trouble in the East.

Nebraska's favorite son, Manderson, does not expect to be nominated for the presidency, and says McKinley has the call. Such talk as Manderson is doing is not calculated to increase enthusiasm among his friends, and about the first thing he knows they will drop him.

Senator James could not hold his (Muhlenburg) county in line for Gov. Bradley for President, and her delegates are instructed for McKinley, and the Kenton county delegation are very nearly in the same fix. There is now, apparently, a break for the McKinley band-wagon.

Several of the colored Republicans in Tennessee have announced their candidacy for Congress and several others are contemplating following suit, while the white Republicans are very much annoyed at the determination of their colored brethren to become so prominent in politics.

Since the county Democratic Executive Committee has been called to meet next County Court day to consider the question of calling a primary election to be held November 3, 1896, the matter is being pretty generally discussed. Grant county will hold her primary election on that day.

Worse scenes than those enacted at Frankfort have occurred in the State House at Indianapolis during the session of Indiana legislatures, but calling out the troops was never thought the thing to do.

It is understood that President Cleveland will, in a few days, write a letter declining to allow his name used in connection with a nomination for the presidency, and that immediately thereafter Secretary Carlisle will become a candidate, and will be backed by the entire administration.

The Republicans charge that Carroll and Co's. love for party was greater than their love for principle, or they would have assisted in electing a "sound" money Republican to the Senate. Pray, at what time was there a "sound" money Republican before the legislature as a candidate for that office?

The gold standard advocates in the Democratic party, will do all in their power to bring about the nomination of Mr. Carlisle for the presidency by the Chicago convention. Of course it is understood, though, that he is not to be in the way of President Cleveland should he desire another nomination.

The sound money element of the Democratic party in Kentucky, caused the defeat of the nominee of the Democratic State convention, last fall, and the same element prevented the election to the United States Senate the caucus nominee of the Democratic party. These are facts that can not be denied.

Wood Dunlap never qualified as Kaufman's successor in the House, and the Republicans became so angered at him on that account that the Republican State convention, which was to have been held at Lexington, Dunlap's home, will be taken to Louisville as a punishment to Dunlap—and probably a reward to Carroll.

According to the Ohio platform if both gold and silver are not made standard money in accordance with a ratio fixed by international agreement, then Congress must come to the front and enact such laws as will maintain the parity of the two metals. It has been demonstrated that no international agreement can be reached, so it leaves the Ohio Republicans proclaiming in favor of pro-silver legislation.

The Henry County Local says that in the light of all the facts Carroll, Violett, Walker, Speight, the Louisville Post, Times and Courier-Journal, are directly and in the whole responsible for the state of affairs that existed at Frankfort for two weeks prior to the adjournment of the legislature. The Local has declared a fact that was discovered without the assistance of an X ray.

The right of the Governor to call out the militia is beyond question; but has he exercised that right for the best interest of the people and the State? We think not. There was no mob marching on the Capital. Peace and quiet reigned throughout. Warrants were not in the hands of any peace officer to enforce. No one was charged with any crime, and it was an outrage on the legislative branch of the goverment to order out the army to compel them to act in any way upon any matter.—Western Argus.

If reports are true Governor Bradley ought to have sent his soldiers to Newport last Wednesday, to protect the peace, during the session of the Republican county convention. A large number of the bullies and thugs took part in the convention, and during its session there were two or three knock-downs, one man being thrown down stairs and seriously hurt. There was more disorder during the short session of the Campbell county Republican convention than there was in the legislature during its entire session.

Hon. J. I. Landes, the Republican State Senator from Christian county, has been appointed by Gov. Bradley to fill the vacancy on the bench of the Court of Appeals, occasioned by the death of Judge Grace. This appointment is the heaping of coals upon the back of Congressman Hunter, as Senator Landes is the man who blasted his Senatorial hopes by bringing before the Joint Assembly his free silver pledge. The appointment is considered as a reward to Landes for forcing Hunter off of the track, and will widen the breach and intensify the ill feeling existing between Hunter and the Governor.

Of the financial plank in the platform adopted by the Ohio Republican State convention last Wednesday, the Enquirer says: "There have been slight changes in the phraseology, but there is no change in meaning. Or, rather, the finance plank of this year is as meaningless as that of last. There is the same dishonest rant about "honest money;" the same sneaking talk about bimetallism, without indicating which definition of the term is meant; the same jumble about gold and silver and paper money, each as good as the other, and all at a parity; and the same childish revamping of phrases about keeping our money and credit as untarnished as the flag, and other like vaporing."

A secret conference was held in Washington, that is full of significance for the Republican party, and gives promise of serious trouble at the St. Louis Convention. It resulted in a manifesto that announces to the country that protection and bimetallism must go togther; that McKinleyism must be coupled with the free coinage of silver. It was contended in some quarters that when Senator Tom Carter, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, made his now famous speech in the Senate and demanded the rehabilitation of silver as one of the money metals of the United States he was talking in a humorous mood for home consumption. It now turns out that no set of men are more serious or more determined than Mr. Carter and the other Republican Senators who joinen with him in voting against taking up the tariff bill.

There seems to be a division of opinion as to the propriety of having the primary election for the nominating of candidates for county offices held on the third day of next November, that being the day on which the presidential election will be held. Those favoring the holding of a primary election at that time argue that it would be the means of bringing out a much larger vote than would otherwise be polled by the Democrats, and, as a result, Boone's delegate strength in conventions will be increased, a result that will redound, greatly, to the interest of the party; those who desire to enter the contest will have the good weather of the summer and fall in which to make a canvass of the county. Now, it is not supposed that candidates will object to having the primary election this fall if it will assist the Democratic party either directly or remotely.

A query comes from Mechanicsburg, O.: "Where were the presidents of the United States buried?" The quest for this information was carried into many books, as there is no one volume in which it has been brought together. The result is that we are able to answer the question with more detail than it calls for, but yet in a way which will certainly be interesting.

1. George Washington died from a cold which brought on laryngitis; buried on his estate at Mt. Vernon, Va.
2. John Adams died from senile debility; buried at Quincy, Mass.
3. Thomas Jefferson died of chronic diarrhea; buried on his estate at Monticello, Va.
4. James Madison died of old age; buried on his estate at Montpelier, Va.
5. James Monroe died of general debility; buried in Marble Cemetery, New York City.
6. John Quincy Adams died of paralysis, the fatal attack overtaking him in the House of Representatives; buried at Quincy, Mass.
7. Andrew Jackson died of consumption and dropsy; buried on his estate, the Hermitage, near Nashville, Tenn.
8. Martin VanBuren, died of catarrh of the throat and lungs; buried at Kinderhook, N. Y.
9. William Henry Harrison died of pleurisy, induced by a cold taken on the day of his inauguration; buried near North Bend, O.
10. John Tyler died from a mysterious disorder like a bilious attack; buried at Richmond, Va.
11. James K. Polk died from weakness, caused by cholera; buried on his estate in Nashville, Tenn.
12. Zachary Taylor died from cholera morbus, induced by improper diet; buried on his estate near Louisville, Ky.
13. Millard Filmore died from paralysis; buried in Forest Hill Cemetery, Buffalo, New York.
14. Franklin Pierce died from inflammation of the stomach; buried at Concord, New Hampshire.
15. James Buchanan died of rheumatism and gout; buried near Lancaster, Pa.
16. Abraham Lincoln, assassinated by J. Wilkes Booth; buried at Springfield, Ill.
17. Andrew Johnson died from paralysis; buried at Greenville, Tenn.
18. Ulysses S. Grant died from cancer of the throat; buried in Riverside Park, New York City.
19. Rutherford B. Hayes died from paralysis of the heart; buried at Freemont, O.
20. James A. Garfield, assassinated by Charles J. Guiteau; buried at Cleveland, Ohio.
21. Chester A. Arthur died from Bright's disease; buried in Rural Cemetery, Albany, New York.

This leaves Benjamin Harrison the only living ex-president.—Exchange.

The nomination of St. John Boyle, by the Republicans for Senator inspired no enthusiasm in his party.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

Section 1. That every parent, guardian or other person in the State of Kentucky, having the control of any child or children between the ages of (7) seven and (14) fourteen years, shall be required to send such child or children, annually, at least eight (8) weeks of which attendance shall be consecutive, in some public or private day or night school for children: Provided, however, that this act shall not apply in any case where the child has been or is being taught at home in such branches as are taught in public schools for a like period of time and subject to the same examinations as other pupils of the district or city in which the child resides, or whose physical or mental condition renders his or her attendance impracticable, or who is excused by the Trustees of the public school district, or the Board of Education of the city in which the parent, guardian or person having control resides, upon its being shown to their satisfaction that the parent, guardian or person having control was not able, by reason of poverty, to clothe such child properly, or that he or she has already acquired the ordinary branches required by law, or that there is no colored school, in the case of colored children, taught within two (2) miles by the nearest traveled road.

Sec. 2. Any parent, guardian or other person failing to comply with the provisions of this act shall forfeit to the use of the schools in the city, town or common school district in which such child resides, a sum not less than five dollars ($5) nor more than twenty dollars ($20) for the first offense, nor less than ten dollars ($10) nor more than fifty dollars ($50) for the second and every subsequent offense, and costs of suit.

Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of any School Trustee or President of the Board of Education to inquire into all cases of complaint and neglect of duty prescribed in this act, and he shall notify in writing the parent, guardian or other person so offending that such complaint has been made, and if the cause be not shown within five (5) days, to at once proceed against the responsible persons as is hereby provided; and any School Trustee or President of the Board of Education neglecting to undertake such prosecution in good faith for such offense, within ten (10) days after a written notice has been served on him by any taxpayer in said district or city, unless the person so complained of shall be excused by the district or city Board or Board of Education for the reasons here-inbefore stated, shall forfeit to the public schools in the city, town or common school district in which said Trustee or President of the Board of Education resides, a sum not less than ten dollars ($10) nor more than fifty dollars ($50).

Sec. 4. Any person having control of a child, who, with intent to evade the provisions of this act, shall make a willfully false statement concerning the age of such child, or the time such child has attended school, shall forfeit for each offense a sum not less than five ($5) nor more than twenty ($20) dollars, for the use of public schools for such city, town or district.

Sec. 5. Any fine or penalty mentioned in this act may be sued for, and recovered before any Court of Record or Justice of the Peace of the proper county, in the name of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, for the use of the public schools of the city, town or district in which said child resides.

Sec. 6. That upon the trial of any offense as charged herein, if upon such trial it shall be determined that such prosecution was malicious then the cost in the case shall be adjudged against the complainant, and collected as fines in other cases.

Sec. 7. The conditions and provisions of this act shall apply to any parent, guardian or person having control of any colored child or children, in like manner as in Section 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6; but no white child shall be permitted to attend or become a pupil in any school for colored children, and no colored child shall be permitted to attend or become a pupil in any school for white children.

John Allison,

Undertaker

—AND—

Embalmer,

Cor. Pike & Russell Sts.,
COVINGTON, - KENTUCKY

Independent of Undertakers' Union.

"Its a Sure Hit" This Time.

We will certainly be in [illegible] UNION,
Saturday, March 28th, 1896,

And will be pleased to receive friends and others whom we may secure as friends. Come! bring your grips, your baskets and your saddle-pockets, and let us fill them with

GOODS THAT WILL SUIT YOU,

And at Prices that will make lasting impressions upon you.

Yours to Stay, IRA AYLOR.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We would call the attention of the public to the fact that we are still doing business at the

OLD STAND

And are more than ever determined to sustain our well earned reputation of selling the Best Goods at the Lowest Possible Prices.

We have not room to quote prices, but if you will give us a call we will convince you of the fact.

Our Terms are Cash.

W. M. RACHAL & CO. Union, Ky.

STEPHENS & SCALES,

—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN—

Hardware, Cutlery, and Agricultural Implements,

Genuine Oliver Chilled & Steel Plows,
Bissell Chilled & Steel Hillside Plows,
Walking & Riding Cultivators,
Steel & Wood Gear Farm Wagons,
Champion Mower and Binders,
Ball Bearing Disk Harrows,

BARBED AND SMOOTH WIRE
AT THE LOWEST MARKET PRICE.

No. 26 Pike Street, - - - Covington, Ky.

BEST GOODS! LIVING PRICES!

Hardware,
Farm Machinery,
Fine Vehicles,
Harness.

HARRIS FITCH, Corner HIGH AND SHORT STREETS,
LAWRENCEBURG, INDIANA.

J. J. GEISEN,

Best and Cheapest HAT STORE In the City.

Agency for WHITE STAR LAUNDRY.
615 Madison Ave.,
COVINGTON, KENTUCKY.

A. C. HECKMAN,

Florist, Plants, Bulbs, Seeds, & Metal Designs.

Fresh Cut Flowers Daily. Artistic Floral Designs a Specialty.
734 Madison Avenue,
Covington, - - Kentucky.
25 Per Cent. Less than any Cincinnati House.

METROPOLITAN COUPE AND LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,

E. H. BAKER, Proprietor

Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.

Telephone 580.

Attention! Ladies! Notice!

To the first 100 ladies of Aurora and vicinity sending me their names before March 4, I will give to of all such who buy their materials of me ONE FREE class lesson in Art Embroidery on March 10th, or as soon thereafter as their class number admits. Instructions in Delft, Napolitian, Jewel, Bulgarian, Swiss, Royal and South Kensington (with Itallan effect) and Japanese Embroideries; also Honiton Lace Work. Address

EMMA J. M. COULTER,
107 Second St., Aurora, Ind.

Eggs for Sale.

Eggs for hatching—Barred Plymouth Rocks exclusively—pure bred, vigorous and healthy—strictly first-class. Stock in separate pens—No. 1, $1 per 13 eggs. No. 2, 50c per 15 eggs.

Mrs. R. O. Smith, Union, Ky.

TABLER'S BUCK EYE PILE OINTMENT

CURES NOTHING BUT PILES.

A SURE and CERTAIN CURE known for 15 years as the BEST REMEDY for PILES.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by RICHARDSON MED CO., ST. LOUIS.

Eggs and Poultry

I am now taking orders for thoroughbred Poultry and Eggs. First come, first served.

A. M. ACRA,
Burlington, Ky.

Local News.

THE RECORDER
SOLICITS YOUR
Job Work.
NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS,
Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.
Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

Pursuant to the call of the District and State Republican Committees for a District Convention to be held at Falmouth, April 9th, 1896, and State Convention to be held at Lexington, April 15th, 1896, for the purpose of electing District and State delegates to the St. Louis National Republican Convention, also District Elector and State Central Committeeman the Republican electors of this county and others without regard to past political affiliations, who believe in Republican principles and indorse the Republican policy, will meet at Burlington Court House, Monday, April 6th, 1896, at one o'clock p. m., to elect delegates and alternates to the above named conventions and transact any such other business as may properly be presented.

T. B. MATHEWS, Chairman
Boone Co. Rep. Ex. Com.

Old Boreas dislikes to give up this territory.

The mud roads are getting scandlously bad.

Tony Bentler has about twenty 60lb shoats for sale.

Captain Brown was too ill to drive the 'bus Monday.

The weather, last week, was not favorable for lambs.

The snow was much heavier in some parts of the State last week than it was here.

Monday was a fine day for snow-balling, this is all that can be said in its favor.

The price of corn has kept up well, as is evidenced by the prices realized at public sales.

Gov. Bradley has not spotted a Boone county Republican to whom he desires to give an office.

Charles E. White has for sale 31 stock hogs weighing about 80 pounds. Also 3 sows and pigs.

Some of the farmers have sowed their wheat land to oats, and others will follow their example.

If plenty of snow indicates a good crop, the coming season will be productive of unusually large crops.

FOR RENT—Neat cottage of 3 rooms—garden and coal house in Hebron, Ky.
HARRISON CLORE.

This month has furnished as much snow in this part of the country as has fallen here for two or three years.

Hubert Gaines put two horses on the sawdust in Cincinnati, one day last week, but failed to make a sale because of low prices.

Covington people are manifesting great interest in the fourth of April game of ball. It will be a half holiday for everybody.

John Sebree, of Petersburg, has for sale, about 100 young peach trees, not budded but from seed of very fine budded fruit, at 5 cents a piece.

Dr. J. L. Adams, dentist, will visit Union every Monday after April 1st. Those wanting dental work done will please meet him on those days.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Utz have the sympathy of all in the loss of their ten months old child, which died on the night of the 17th inst., of brain trouble.

The genuine, old fashioned hog cholera has appeared in the Bellevue neighborhood, and several persons have had hogs to die, Solon Rice being the heaviest loser.

FOR RENT—House of 5 rooms in Erlanger, Ky. Four rooms in front, and bar and fixtures. Inquire of or address Eliza Gorman, Walton, or Wm. Rucker, at Erlanger.

Jeff Eddins and Oscar Ryle have been awarded the contract for carrying the mail on the Burlington and Erlanger route for four years, commencing July 1st, 1896.

T. G. Graves, a prominent fruit grower of the Bullittsville neighborhood, says that the peaches are killed for this year and next. Now bring on your fruit prognosticators.

Attention Knights! Burlington Lodge, 109 K. of P. will work in the rank of Esquire on Thursday night, March 26th. All members of the order are cordially invited.

Ira D. Adams will have a sale of personal property on the 28th inst. Considerable corn and oats will be sold. John Morris' sale will take place at his late residence near Erlanger, on March 30th. The personal property of J. H. Walton, dec'd., will be sold at public auction April 2d, near Waterloo.

BARGAINS! CLOSING OUT.

For the purpose of engaging in other business I am now selling my stock of goods below cost. If you want Bargains call early. The sales will continue from Saturday to Saturday until all the goods are sold. Having to go to the city every week I will continue to take orders for goods not in stock.

A. M. ACRA, Burlington, Ky.

Stick to the Nominee.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

FLORENCE, KY., April 21, 1896.

We silver men are inclined to judge too hastily those who do not agree with us. We call J. G. Carlisle names. "The boss traitor of them all," &c. Let us take an unprejudiced view of the case and see in what manner he has been a traitor. The only thing of which we might criticise him is changing his views on the financial question, but you know it is said, "Wise men may change but fools never." He did not change after he became the Secretary of the Treasury as some of us charge him. He would not vote for a free silver bill when he was a member of the United States Senate. He said he doubted the expediency of such a measure. Again we say he should have adviced the gold men in the legislature to support Blackburn. Would we have advised the silver men to support Carlisle had he been the nominee of the caucus? We think not, for many of our free silver brethren say they would swallow Republicanism sweetened with free silver rather than Democracy with a gold coating, and furthermore, it is said, "No one but a fool gives his advce to those who do not want it," and we certainly would not try to aid a man politically who traveled over the State making us the object of his enmity and sarcasm. Carlisle is human, and, therefore, it is hard for him to do good to those who despitefully use him. Some of us blame Carlisle for his secret sale of bonds to Morgan, Belmont & Co. It is said that that syndicate floated those bonds at 118 making a profit of 12 million dollars, some of us therefore claim that the Government was swindled out of the above amount. The government could not have sold those bonds publicly for more than the price for which the last bonds sold, viz: 112, so all that we can honestly claim the government lost was six million dollars. We know that, previous to the deal with the Morgan Syndicate, sales of bonds were coming rapidly and no sooner had the gold for the bonds been paid into the treasury than it began to leave, thus forcing another sale of bonds. And judging the future by the past Carlisle saw that with in a few months another issue of bonds would be inevitable in order to protect the gold reserve. It was then he made the secret contract with the syndicate, whereby it would keep the gold reserve intact for some specified time, thus bridging over a period during which there certainly would have been another bond issue to the amount of probably 100 million. No one can reasonably doubt this; because, as soon as the contract expired, away went the gold and another sale of bonds was made.

How did the government fare in that secret bond deal? It lost six million dollars by not selling the bonds publicly. It saved 100 million of bonds which undoubtedly would have been issued and had these bonds been sold as low as 3 per cent. interest, taken at par, the simple interest on 100 million at 3 per cent. for 30 years would be 90 million dollars, and compound interest payable quarterly would amount to several times that amount; but saying nothing of compound interest the account stands: Loss on sale of bonds privately, $6,000,000; saved by preventing another issue, $100,000,000; interest on same at 3 per cent. for 30 years $90,000,000—making $190,000,000. Deduct $6,000,000 and we have $184,000,000, the amount saved to the government by this last contract. We believe that instead of censuring Carlisle for this deal we should praise him.

It is a favored expression among us that "this district made Carlisle." We are again in error. The Ashland district did not make Henry Clay, but he made the Ashland district—that is he gave it notoriety and what Clay was to that district so is Carlisle to this congressional district. You can not keep brains down.

Blackburn and Hardin bolted the Kentucky Democratic platform and some of the gold men bolted the caucus nomination at Frankfort, and just so sure as the Democrats make a gold-platform at their National Convention, just so sure will there be a silver bolt, and vice versa. This is truly an age of bolting, but if John G. Carlisle is ever truthfully called a bolter, he must take advantage of the future to make him one in fact. We silver men do not help our cause by bleating like mutton heads and blustering like bullies, any more than do the gold men. "Let us tote fair," and give the devil his dues and stick to the nominee.

FAIR DEAL.

COUNTY COURT.

March 12.—William Smith granted a license to peddle goods and merchandise in this county.

March 16.—Johanna D. Morris qualified as executrix of John Morris, and John Miller, James Snyder and Leo Schwartz were appointed appraisers.

R. Lee Huey and Ernest Walton qualified as administrators of J. H. Walton, and J. S. Huey, Ephraim Aylor, and J. H. Walton, jr., were appointed appraisers.

March 19.—The order adopting the boundaries of the road districts as heretofore laid off in the Petersburg precinct was set aside, and new boundaries for said district were adopted.

John Hankins and son, of Constance, have been working for the Cincinnati Desicating company for several years at good wages. They have lived in a frugal manner, and succeeded in accumulating about $600 out of their wages. This money they kept in the house, and while Mr. Hankins and family were attending church, last Sunday night, a thief entered the house and stole the money, which was kept in a bureau drawer. When Mr. Hankins returned from church, they found the contents ot the house turned topsy-turvey, and soon discovered he had been robbed of several years' savings. The alarm was given but the thief had made good his escape.

Under the school law as amended by the last legislature, the regular examination days for teachers are as follows: For whites—the third Fridays and Saturdays in May, June, July and August. For colored—Fourth Fridays and Saturdays in same months. Teachers should take notice and govern themselves accordingly.

Next County Court day is the annual horse show day. Notwithstanding the very low prices, people like to see good horses.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Joe Reed has been quite ill for several days.

Prof. Voshell, of Union, was in town Monday.

T. L. Swetman of Covington, was in town Thursday.

Harry Blythe made a business trip to Petersburg, yesterday.

Mr. W. M. Rogers, of Walton, was in town one day last week.

W. E. Walton, of the Pt. Pleasant neighborhood, was in town yesterday.

Miss Estella Myers, of Union, is visiting Mrs. Emma V. Rouse, of Limaburg.

Mrs H. W. Ryle, of Erlanger, was visiting in Burlington several days last week.

Mrs. L. W. Castleman, of Gallatin Co., is visiting her son, D. E. Castleman, of this place.

Rev. J. A. Kirtley had a long, tedious trip from Big Bone church home last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Coffman, of Walton, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Vest, Sunday night and Monday.

Mrs. John Morris was in town Thursday and was appointed administrator of her husband's estate.

Mrs. B. W. Adams is visiting at Mr. Hamp Adams', of Big Bone. Mr. Adams' daughter, Miss Mabel, is very ill and has been for some time.

Mr. G. W. Crouch, of Gallatin county, and Miss Pearl Quisenberry, of Union, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Castleman, Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. Fizer preached quite an interesting sermon here, last Sunday, taking for his text, "The Building of the Temple." On the fourth Sunday of next month his subject will be, "Why I am a Methodist."

Leslie Clutterbuck has accepted a position with the John Shillito Co., of Cincinnati. Leslie is very competent young man, and his many friends here hope his course in the business world will be onward and upward.

C. L. Crisler returned from Indiana, last Thursday. While in Hoosier Cy crossed political swords with several Republicans, and proved himself worthy of his foes. If he should move to Indiana he would soon land that state safely in the Democratic column.

Hon. J. G. Furnish returned from Frankfort, last Wednesday. He was one of Senator Blackburn's most ardent supporters, and considers the Senator's fight the most gallant ever made in Kentucky. The Doctor is of the opinion that the purpose for which the State guards were called out was foiled by Wood Dunlap in refusing to qualify after Kauffman was unseated.

ROSEBOOM-BERKSHIRE NUPTIALS.

A Brilliant Affair at Petersburg, Kentucky.

A beautiful wedding occurred at the Christian church here at 3 o'clock p. m. last Wednesday, the contracting parties being Miss Fannie Maud Berkshire, daughter of John W. Berkshire, of this place, and Dr. Delbert J. Roseboom, of Frankfort, Ohio.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with evergreens, palms, ferns and other rare plants and flowers and presented a scene seldom equaled, and which was rendered the more attractive when the handsome bride and groom appeared at the altar.

The spacious church was crowded to its utmost capacity. Mrs. Dr. J. M. Grant presided at the organ and promptly at the appointed hour the strains of sweet music announced the arrival of the wedding party. The bride and groom, escorted by Messers Eugene Berkshire, Harry Walton, Hubert Walton, Belfield Graddy and Elder Howe, proceeded to the altar, where Elder Howe, in a solemn and impressive manner pronounced the ceremony that joined the two hearts forever.

Immediately after the ceremony Dr. Roseboom and wife left for Aurora, at which place they took a train for their future home, Frankfort, Ohio.

The bride was attired in a lovely blue cloth suit, with satin figure, and trimmed with Persian velvet and ermine fur. The groom wore the conventional black.

The bride is a very handsome young lady, 17 years of age, and a sister of F. W. Berkshire, Chinese Inspector; and J. B. Berkshire, Master Commissioner of this county. She was very popular, and will be greatly missed in society here.

The groom is the son of a wealthy farmer, of Frankfort, Ohio, is 24 years of age, and a prominent veterinary.

The wedding presents were numerous, handsome and useful. The following is a partial list, space forbidding a full list:

Mrs. Helen Walton, bride's grandmother—Silver kives and forks.

Mrs. Fannie Berkshire, bride's mother—Silver spoons.

J. W. Berkshire, bride's father—Silver berry dish and individual Salt and Pepper.

Eugene Berkshire—Silver knives and forks.

J. B Berkshire—Silver table spoons.

F. W. Berkshire—Silver baker.

Mrs. N. S. Walton—Silver butter knife and sugar spoon.

Mrs. Mamie Walton—Fine China Rose Jar.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Berkshire—Silver Nut Cracker and Pick.

Mrs. Sue and Mary Helms—One dozen Linen Napkins.

Belfield Graddy—Two handsome Cut Glass Fruit Bowls.

Everett Helms—Linen Table Cloth.

W. V. Gay—Silver Berry Bowl.

Miss Lou Alden—Stand Lamp.

EVERETT.

Last Friday being the anniversary of the birth of Mrs. J. B. Berkshire and Mrs. J. S. Clutterbuck, the event was celebrated by their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Ryle, by a large dinner to which quite a number of their relatives and friends were invited.

There is no reason why one should have a cough any length of time. All that is needed to allay soreness of the throat or to free the bronchial tubes from irritating mucus is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is a wonderful cough-cure, and should be in every medicine-chest.

A very small volume will contain all the laws passed by the last legislature.

For Sale or Rent.

96 acres of river bottom land, opposite Lawrenceburg, Ind., in good state of cultivation.
J. C. REVILL,
Burlington, Ky.

FARM FOR SALE.

A good farm of 76 acres, between Bellevue and Petersburg, near Woolper ford—good house, good barn and necessary outbuildings. The sale will be on easy terms.
OWEN ALLEN.

Election Notice.

The stockholders of the Burlington & Florence turnpike are hereby notified that an election will be held in the town of Burlington, Ky., Saturday, April 4th, 1896, for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year.
W. R. ROUSE, President.

Administrator's Notice.

All those indebted to W. A. Carpenter, dec'd, are notified that they must come forward and settle same, and those having claims against him must present them to the undersigned, proven according to law.

O. P. CONNER, Adm'r.
Lassing & Riddell, Attys.

Administrators Notice.

Those indebted to the estate of Lucinda Kelly, dec'd., must come forward and settle at once, and those having claims against said estate must present the same at once proven according to law.

L. H. & WALTER KELLY,
Administrators.

Administrator's Notice.

All persons indebted to the estate of America Frazier, dec'd., must come forward and settle same, and those having claims against same must present them to the undersigned proven according to law.

J. L. FRAIZER, Adm'r.
Lassing & Riddell, Attys.

Administrator's Notice.

All those indebted to the estate of Jas. L. Henderson, deced., must come forward and settle, and any one having claims against said estate must present them to me proven according to law.

J. O. HUEY, Adm'r.
Lassing & Riddell, Attys.

NOTICE.

All those indebted to me for taxes are hereby notified that I am compelled to close up my tax accounts and will proceed to enforce thier collection by law if not paid by March 1st, 1896. My books are in the hands of Lassing & Riddell, attorneys, Burlington, Ky. Call and settle with them and save costs.

D. BEALL, Ex.-Sheriff
Boone County.

Buggies! Buggies!! Buggies!!!

I will be in Burlington on the first Monday in next month (April) with several nice, first-class Buggies, which I will sell at prices that will surprise you. If you want a Buggy come to Burlington on that day and examine my vehicles and learn the very low prices at which I will sell.

G. H. HACKSTADT,
Bromley, Ky.

Corn For Sale.

For Sale—About 100 bushels of Forsyth's Early Mammoth white corn, selected last fall. It has the deepest grains and is the most productive of any other corn; has from sixteen to twenty-six rows on the ear, stands the drouths and yields from two to five barrels more per acre than any other variety. It originated in Johnson county Ind in 1891. Price $1 50 per bushel.

JOHN J. CLEEK.
Beaver Lick, Boone county, Ky.

Notice to Delinquent Tax-PAYERS.

The lists of Delinquents for 1895 have been placed in the hands of Collecting Officers in the different magisterial districts for the convenience of the tax-payers. See your collector and pay your tax, or you will be reported to the Road Supervisor in your district and proceeded against according to law.

FISCAL COURT BOONE CO.,
By J. M. Lassing, Co. Atty.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.
Sallie A. Botts, Plff.
vs.
N. W. Botts, Deft.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he will begin his sittings on the 12th day of March, 1896, at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington, Ky., to hear proof in the above styled cause and will adjourn from day to day (Sunday excepted) to the 31st day of March, 1896. All persons having claims against N. W. Bott's estate will present them to me properly proven as by law required.

J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C. C

LAND FOR SALE.

240 acres known as the Gaines farm on the Covington and Lexington pike and on the L. & N. and Cincinnati Southern Railroads, two miles north of Walton, Ky. This is one of the best farms in Northern Ky., suitable for stock, grain, grass and tobacco. Improved with a modern 8-room dwelling, large stock and hay barn, tobacco barn, tenement houses and all necessary outbuildings.

For further information call on H. C. BEDINGER, on the farm or address me.

Also 115 acres, known as the Platt farm, lying on the Walton and Beaver graded road. This is a good, strong piece of land with a large portion of it tobacco land. I will sell the above lands worth the money.

For further information call on or address
H. C. BEDINGER,

-- WATCHES GIVEN AWAY! --

When your purchases amount to $5 you are entitled to an Elegant Gold Plated Lady's or Gents' Watch, worth $12 at the Jewelry Store—finished in the latest and most modern style and an acurate time-keeper, by paying $3.95 only. We give a written guarantee for five years.

Drop in and see one of them and ask for information,

O. A. STOCKMAN,

—DEALER IN—

FANCY & STAPLE GROCERIES,

NO. 56 and 59 HIGH STREET,
LAWRENCEBURG. INDIANA.

WATCHES sent C. O. D., with privilege of examination. If not as represented you need not take it.

BOEHMER, ROLF & CO.,

—DEALERS IN—

PAINTS, OILS AND GLASS,

—63 and 65 Pike Street,—
Covington, Telephone, 4212. Ky.

GEO. W. HILL & CO.,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

Flour, Tea, Tobacco AND FINE Cigars.

ALSO DEALERS IN WOOL AND COUNTRY PRODUCTS.

CALL SPECIAL ATTENTION TO OUR RETAIL DEPARTMENT.

27 and 29 PIKE ST. 26 and 28 W. SEVENTH ST.
Covington, - - Kentucky.

HARBICK & ROSE,

Undertakers AND Embalmers,

OFFICE AND STABLE, 637 and 639 SCOTT STREET,
COVINGTON, KY.

CARRIAGES FOR WEDDINGS AND PRIVATE HIRE.
Telephone, 4146. OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

GEO. G. RUSSELL,

WHOLESALE AND

RETAIL GROCER,

GRASS SEED,
Corner Pike & Washington Sts. Covington, Ky.
Tom Wilson, Salesman.

A. H. BRYANT. J. L. V. McDONALD.

REMOVED AND READY FOR BUSINESS.

31 Pike Street,

THE OLD RELIABLE STOVE COMPANY,

Successor to J. M. CLARKSON.

Stoves, Grates, Fine Tin and

HOLLOW-WARE.

Our friends of Boone County will be Welcome to Make OUR STORE Their Headquarters when in Town.

J. L. V. McDONALD. - - - - Manager.

COVINGTON, KY.

MR. J. M. CLARKSON has his office with us.

SEEDS. SEEDS. SEEDS.

BUY YOUR

GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS

From W. J. RAMSEY & CO.,

We are the only House in Covington, handling a full Line of

GARDEN SEEDS.

708 Madison Avenue

COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.
Opposite Seventh Street Market House.

HANKINS, DAVIS & CO.,

GENERAL MERCHANTS,

HEBRON AND CONSTANCE, KY.

A good supply of Campbell's Creek Coal on hand at Constance at all times. A good supply of feed always in stock. Garden and Field Seeds.

UNDERTAKING.

is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : : KY.

CURRENT TOPICS.

DAVIDSON county, Tenn., boasts of a polecat farm.

SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN receives $3,500 for a single song.

ENGLAND pays $70,000,000 yearly for foreign dairy produce.

IN the British museum there are at present 39 miles of books.

MANY honors are being showered upon Prof. Roentgen in Germany.

WATER rents are higher in Pittsburgh than in any other city in America.

THE zinc mines at Mossy creek, Tenn., are to be operated on an extensive scale.

MME. ETELKA GERSTER, the opera singer, is about to start a vocal academy at Berlin.

MONTANA has an unusual number of inventors for a new state. There is one to every 1,738 of its population.

THE gavel to be used in the St. Louis convention has a gold plate on one side and a silver plate on the other.

"AUNT JANE" MCFARLANE, the oldest school teacher in Philadelphia, has just celebrated her 92d birthday.

MARK TWAIN has become so used to eastern customs that he says he can not avoid salaaming a door at present.

THE cause of the death of a Missouri newspaper is stated to be that "it failed to bore a straight hole in journalism."

SHOEMAKERS in New South Wales earn $9.80 a week; in New Zealand, $11.68; in Germany, $3.00; in Spain, $3.30.

A FRENCH naturalist has invented an instrument which he terms a "glossometer," for measuring the tongues of bees.

NELLY BLY, recently reconverted to independent maidenhood, announces that she wants to go to Cuba and fight.

As evidence of the advance of civilization in Abyssinia it is said that King Menelik is inordinately fond of champagne.

ABRAM DILE, of Center township, Perry county, Pa., recently caught a curiosity in the shape of a white flying squirrel.

E. C. BENEDICT will give $10,000 and Henry O. Havemeyer $70,000 for a gymnasium for the public schools at Greenwich, Ct.

CECIL RHODES' private fortune is now estimated at $7,000,000. He is certainly one of the richest of the South African magnates.

THE most valuable Bible in the world belongs to a Chicago man. He bought it at the Brayton Ives sale of rare books for $14,800.

MRS. STOWE'S early writing were published under the name of "Christine Crowfield," which is said to have been an invention.

THE empress of Austria walks 12 miles daily in the open air. A male attendant accompanies her, reading Homer aloud in Greek.

ADVERTISING devices have received much attention at the hands of the inventors, there being 1,922 patents taken out in this line.

THE baby boy of Amos and Abigail Snodgrass, of Hurleyville, Mo., has been christened Dunraven, because he is such a kicker.

BROOKLYN is about to change the names of a number of its streets, preparatory to being incorporated into Greater New York.

SOME gleaners of human family statistics say that a man or woman of correct proportions is six times as high as the right foot is long.

CHICAGO Italians are not going to Africa after all, and there will be no diminution in the number of banana stands in consequence.

AFTER making a complete circuit of the globe, "Owney," the world renowned post office dog, has returned to Albany, his native city.

SEPTIMUS ANDREWS, of Arkansas City, who has been taken to the insane asylum, imagined he had a tapeworm in his throat and tried to cut it out with a razor.

GRAY, of Delaware, and Wolcott, of Colorado, are said to be the finest whist players in the senate. They were frequently on opposing sides in the same game.

GEORGE EBERS, the German novelist, is one of the most notable of recent converts to Buddhism. Prof. Ebers is one of the profoundest Orientalists in the world.

THE Sicily, of the Hamburg-American line, has sailed direct from Hamburg to Galveston, Tex., and if successful, a regular line will be operated between those points.

THE number of confederate widows in Georgia is on the decrease. In 1891 there were 4,200 of them. Now there are only 3,600, a decrease of 14 per cent. in four years.

GEN. BOOTH'S tour of northern India is said to have been one of his greatest successes. At Gujarat he addressed the largest meeting of Salvationists ever held in India.

THE bicycle craze has begun to affect the dusky redskins. It is reported that little Black Bear, a Nez Perces Indian, traded 30 horses for a bicycle one day recently.

TRAVELING churches are to be established on the Trans-Siberian railway, which passes through many desert tracts, where neither village nor church can be met with for miles.

FRENCH "paste," from which artificial diamonds are made, is composed of a mixture of glass and oxide of lead. Rubies, pearls and sapphires are also successfully imitated by the Parisians.

A CRAZY man in Philadelphia wants the doctors to cure him of the X rays in his eyes. He says he sees the skeletons of all who come within the line of his vision, and the sight gives him great annoyance.

THE ostrich farm at Courtenay, Fla., promises to be a money maker. The birds have commenced laying, and as the eggs are worth $30 apiece it will not take long for them to pay handsome returns on the investment.

PATRONAGE.

A Non-Partisan Distribution to be Made Among Senators.

Employes of the Senate of Long Years Experience, Irrespective of Politics, to be Listed and Charged up to the Senate as a Body.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The democratic members of the senate held a caucus Thursday afternoon, at the adjournment of the senate, for the purpose of discussing the question of patronage. The proposition upon which Senator Gorman, representing the democrats, and Senator Elkins, representing the republicans, have been working for several weeks, was submitted to the caucus and appeared to meet with favorable consideration. This proposition provides for a nonpartisan distribution of the patronage equally among the 90 senators who compose the body. There are about eighteen employes who, from long years of experience, have become invaluable to the senate and these men will be placed in a list and charged up to the senate as a body. The other places will then be distributed equally. There were ten democratic senators who ceased to be members of the senate with the last session, and their successors have no one in office through their influence. The same can be said of the new republican senators.

Of course a revision of this sort means that some of the employes will have to go, and they will probably be those whose senators have lost their seats, and who are, therefore, no longer with senatorial backing. The whole subject, after discussion, was left to the steering committee. The committee will confer with similar committee for the republicans and after a caucus it is believed the whole matter will be settled on the basis herein indicated. No other subject was brought up in the caucus.

PICTURESQUE GATHERING.

A Delegation of Kickapoo Indians Call on President Cleveland.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—There was a picturesque gathering in the president's office in the white house Thursday morning when a delegation of Kickapoo Indians from Oklahoma territory had an interview with Mr. Cleveland about the severalty law.

The venerable chief White Water explained through an interpreter that his people were dissatisfied with the law dividing their land in severalty. They had obtained the land from the great Spirit, he said, and wished to preserve their tribal relations and not be obliged to take up separate farms and become civilized. They had therefore come to Washington to see the great father to secure redress.

The president replied in kindly tones that the severalty act was a law of the land and he was obliged to carry it out. The white man has endeavored to improve his condition and the Indians should do the same. He hoped the Kickapoos would realize the wisdom of this and advised them to abide by the law and become civilized.

EXECUTED

Cuban Traitors Who Attempted to Betray Gen. Maceo Strung Up.

KEY WEST, Fla., March 20.—Passengers by the steamship Olivette Wednesday night reported that Murios and Sastra, two Cubans employed by the Spanish government to betray Maceo, left Havana a few days ago, going to the sugar plantations, where they caused an uprising among the Cuban sympathizers.

They were met by Gen. Anguire, who discovered their mission and promptly hanged them. Victoria Noreinero, formerly an editor of a Spanish paper in this city, but lately editor of El Pueblo, one of the most rabid Spanish papers on the Island of Cuba, was recently sent to the Cabanas for criticising the Spanish government. Being drunk when he entered the Cabanas, Weyler ordered as soon as he was sober that he be shot.

A CONFERENCE

Of Silver Republican Senators and a Number of Philadelphia Manufacturers.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—At the Hotel Page an important conference was held Thursday night between the silver republican senators who voted against the consideration of the tariff bill in the senate and a large number of manufacturers of Philadelphia who have the linking together of protection and bimetallism. The authoritative statement issued by the conference after its secret session is looked upon by politicians as the first note of warning on the part of the republican senators from western states against the adoption of a single gold standard plank in the St. Louis platform.

Bad Weather in the West and South.

ST. LOUIS, March 20.—Severe snow storms accompanied by a cold wave is reported from states in the west and south. Heavy snow is reported in Southern Kansas, Indian territory and Arkansas. At Noblesville, Ind., a blinding snow storm has prevailed for the past 48 hours. Trains are badly delayed and traffic of all kinds nearly suspended. Tennessee and Southern Louisiana report a cold wave accompanied by light snow. In Missouri the temperature has fallen 25 degrees.

The Sugar Bounty Case.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The trial of the sugar bounty cases, involving the constitutionality of the law and incidentally sustaining the construction of the law, as announced by Controller Bowler, may not come up in the supreme court for a hearing for some time to come.

To Increase Wages.

ELWOOD, Ind., March 20.—The American Tinplate factory will, at the end of the working month, increase the wages of all its floating gang employes, who now get $1.15 per day, to $1.40 per day.

CUBAN RESOLUTIONS.

After a Short Discussion of the Measure the Senate Adjourns Until Monday.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—There was no time lost in getting at the conference report on the Cuban resolutions Friday morning. The reading of Thursday's journal was dispensed with, and there was little or no morning business to be disposed of.

Mr. Sherman (rep., O.) promptly moved that the conference report be taken up; but as soon as that motion was agreed to and the report laid before the senate, Mr. Allen (pop., Neb.) requested that he might address the senate for half an hour on the Dupont election case. Mr. [illegible]en wound up his speech by declaring emphatically that he would vote against Mr. Dupont being recognized as senator.

A motion to adjourn over until Monday was made by Mr. Gorman (dem., Md.) and was in the absence of Mr. Sherman objected to by Mr. Lodge (rep., Mass.) who desired to have action on the Cuban resolutions.

A call of the senate was had in order to give time for Mr. Sherman to return to the chamber, and 60 senators responded

In the [illegible] Mr. Sherman returned and he expressed the hope that the motion to adjourn over would not be agreed to unless there was first an agreement reported as to a time for taking a vote on the Cuban resolutions.

To that proposition a strong objection was made by Mr. Hale (Rep., Me.) on the ground that two-thirds of the time occupied in the Cuban discussion had been occupied by the members of the committee on foreign relations or those who sympathized with their report, and that there were many senators who desired to be heard on the other side of the question.

The vote was taken on Mr. Gorman's motion and it was agreed to. Yeas, 42; nays, 22.

NEGOTIATIONS

Going on in the Boundary Dispute Between Great Britain and Venezuela.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Senor Andrade, the Venezuelan minister, continues uninformed as to the progress of negotiations so vital to his own country in the boundary dispute, but since President Cleveland's message to congress, resulting in the high commission, Venezuela is no longer inquisitive to the means used by the United States to settle the matter, relying with confidence upon the good intentions of the United States. Simultaneously with the admission in the house of commons on Monday last by Mr. Curzon, parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, that negotiations had been resumed, which probably had reference to the preliminary discussions by Ambassador Bayard and Lord Salisbury, full instructions reached the British ambassador here which are understood to be of such scope as to give him plenipotentiary powers to reach an agreement with Secretary Olney. Little doubt is expressed that Sir Henry Stafford Northcote, who reached here Sunday, will also be an active participant in the negotiations to which, under ordinary circumstances, the Venezuelan representative would not be invited until considerable advance had been made. Beyond the fact that negotiations are actually going on, which is now admitted by all the parties concerned, the strictest secrecy is maintained as to any concessions made by either of the interested parties.

BRITISH PRESS

On the House's Action on the Ambassador Bayard Resolutions.

LONDON, March 21.—The Standard commenting on the action of the house of representatives in adopting the resolutions censuring Ambassador Bayard Saturday says that while there is some reason for the complaint against Mr. Bayard, it thinks his opponents ridiculous to exaggerate the grievance. They have taken an ungenerous advantage.

The Standard says it is of the opinion that a strong motive to induce Mr. Bayard to ignore the vote of censure and to remain at his post is found in the fact that the friendly tone which succeeded the initial bitterness of the Venezuelan question was largely due to his personal exertions. Englishmen, the paper says, would genuinely regret his departure.

Longest Session on Record.

OTTAWA, March 21.—The vote on the second reading on the Manitoba schools remedial bill was taken in the house of commons at six o'clock Friday morning, the second reading being carried by a vote of 112 to 94. The amendment made by Mr. Laurier (opposition leader), proposing a six months' hoist, was defeated by a vote of 115 to 91. The house then adjourned, after 38 hours' continuous sitting—one of the longest sessions on record.

John T. Waller Released.

PARIS, March 21.—The final formalities for the release of John T. Waller, formerly the American consul in Madagascar, who was sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment for conveying information to the Hovas regarding the French, were completed Friday and Waller is now free.

Severe Storms in Ontario.

TORONTO, Ont., March 21.—One of the worst storms in many years so far as its effects on railway traffic is concerned, has been raging all over Ontario for the past 24 hours, and as a result train service throughout the province is almost paralyzed.

Gen. Weyler Will Not Resign.

MADRID, March 21.—Prime Minister Canovas del Castillo has received a telegram from Capt. Gen. Weyler declaring that he is satisfied with the course of the military operations in Cuba and that nothing has hitherto occurred to induce him to resign.

The Dido Successfully Floated.

GLASGOW, March 21.—The new cruiser Dido, which stuck on the ways while being launched in the Clyde on Tuesday, was successfully floated Thursday. She is being examined to ascertain to what extent, if any, she has been damaged.

BUSINESS IN CONGRESS.

Senator Morgan's Cuban Resolution Will Be Pressed to a Vote.

The Legislative and Judicial Appropriation Bill Will Be Disposed of in the Senate—The Arkansas Bill Will Be Considered—No House Programme.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The failure of the senate thus far to act upon the questions involved in the Dupont case and on the conference report on the Cuban resolutions retains them in line as unfinished business for the coming week. The senate's attitude toward the Cuban resolutions has been materially affected by the joint resolution offered at the close of Friday night's session by Mr. Morgan. It is understood that he will press his joint resolution to a vote, if for no other reason than to put the senate on record.

The legislative and judicial appropriation bill, which is in charge of Mr. Cullom, will be called up at the first opportunity. The provisional changes in the compensation of United States marshals and district attorneys from fees to salaries will doubtless cause debate, but otherwise there is little in the bill that should precipitate discussion. The bill to approve the compromise made between the United States and the state of Arkansas holds its place as the unfinished business, but Mr. Berry has not pressed it.

Beyond Monday, which under the rules is to be devoted to the consideration of business reported by the committee on affairs of the District of Columbia, there is no programme of business arranged for the house of representatives this week. Chairman Babcock says he will have enough business to engage the attention of the house for an entire session unless some wholly unexpected opposition to some of the measures on the calendar from his committe should develop.

The naval appropriation bill, owing to differences in the committee having it in charge, mainly over the appropriations for battleships and for dry docks has not been fully completed, and it is not expected to be reported before the latter end of the week. That had been depended on by the managers to occupy most of the time beginning Tuesday and they have nothing of large importance to take its place. Two minor pension bills of a general nature are on the calendar and an opportunity will doubtless be afforded to press them to passage.

The committee on ways and means has before it for discussion and action at its meeting Tuesday, the "filled cheese" bill, reported from the sub-committee last week. Those particularly interested in its progress believe that the full committee can agree upon a report that day. Should that be done, the bill will doubtless be taken up a day or two later. It will be vigorously fought in the house, and a long debate is certain to ensue whenever it does come up.

GHASTLY DISCOVERY

That Probably Reveals a Horrible Crime Committed Several Years Ago.

PARIS, Tex., March 23.—A ghastly discovery was made in this county, near Sulphur Creek, that doubtless reveals a horrible crime committed many years ago. While plowing in a new piece of ground which had recently been added to the Lewis Merthena place, which was settled about fifty years ago, one of the hands turned up a lot of human bones where a thicket of young bushes had been cleared away. Investigation showed that they were the skeletons of three human beings, a man, a woman and a boy about ten years old. A few feet apart from them was the skeleton of a dog. The bones were blackened by fire, but not charred. All of the skeletons were complete, none of the bones being decayed. They are now in the possession of Dr. Skidmore, who says that, in his opinion, a log heap had been burned over the bodies, that had destroyed the flesh.

LYNCHED.

Wm. Murphy, in Jail for Murder, Taken Out by a Mob and Strung Up.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 23.—A mob took Wm. Murphy from the jail at Huntsville, Tenn., at midnight Saturday night and strung him up to a tree.

The deed was done so quietly that the villagers did not know that anything unusual had happened until Sunday morning when the dead man was discovered hanging from a honey-locust tree not 80 paces from the old log calaboose. Murphy was in jail awaiting trial for the murder of Bill Nowlin, a miner, about three weeks ago at Pioneer, in Campbell county, an adjoining county to Scott, where Saturday night's tragedy occurred.

About thirty mountaineers dressed in jeans and with handkerchiefs tied over their faces, composed the lynching party.

Ex-President Harrison Sits for His Portrait.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 23.—Artist John Colin Forbes, R. C. A., has been a guest of ex-President Harrison all last week and has had daily sittings from Mr. Harrison. Mr. Forbes will return to New York Tuesday with his painting all but finished and has Gen. Harrison's permission to display the painting in Schaus' art gallery, New York. It is a three-fourths view and is intended as a present for the coming bride of Gen. Harrison.

Says It's Unqualifiedly False.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Regarding the story from Syracuse that the American Tobacco Co. had purchased the right, title and interest of the National Cigarette Co. for $5,000,000, officials of the former company said it was unqualifiedly false, and declared that it was circulated solely for stock jobbing purposes.

To Join the Soudan Expedition.

CAIRO, March 23.—Seven thousand Bedouins and three British battalions have been organized to join the Soudan expedition. This will make a total of 19,000 men forming the expedition.

KEPT AHEAD OF THE BULLETS.

Astounding Swiftness of Foot Shown by a Georgia Razor-Back.

Col. Taylor Jenkins, who lives a few miles north of Blakely, is known throughout that section as one of the most truthful men in it. At least, so says the Early County Times. Recently, while Mr. Jenkins was out hunting, his dogs began barking at something in a large hollow log. It was a wild hog. He took the hog home and dropped it in his cornfield. It is there now. A few weeks ago Mr. Jenkins went out to kill it, thinking he could easily do so with his unerring rifle. He searched about till he "jumped" it. Down a corn row it went like lightning. He leveled his rifle and "cut down" on it, but never touched a hair. He "jumped" it again and shot again, but no hog. Again and again he "jumped" it and shot at it, with the same result. He began to wonder what could be the matter. The corn rows were as straight as moonshine whisky and his gun true as the third party to Tom Watson, yet hit it he couldn't. To shoot at the hog as it run off down the corn rows was just like shooting at it standing, so far as getting a "bead on it" was concerned. To make sure that he didn't "wobble" off the hog he put up a small target and "cracked down" at it five times, then took his ax and chopped in and found five balls all in one hole in the middle of the spot. That settled it—that the fault was not in him or the gun, but the hog had outrun the bullets.

To California in Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars.

The Burlington Route (C., B. & Q. R. R.) runs personally conducted excursions to California, leaving Chicago every Wednesday. Through cars to California destination, fitted with carpets, upholstered seats, bedding, toilet rooms, etc.; every convenience. Special agent in charge. Route via Denver and Salt Lake. Sunshine all the way. Write for descriptive pamphlet to T. A. Grady, Excursion Manager, 211 Clark St., Chicago.

DINGUS—"By the way, Shadbolt, talking of those X rays—" Shadbolt (sheering off)—"No use, Dingus. You'll make no X raise from me this time."—Chicago Tribune.

An Idle Scavenger.

The bowels act the part of a scavenger, inasmuch as they remove much of the debris, the waste effete matter of the system. When they grow idle, neglectful of duty, it is of the utmost importance that they should be impelled to activity. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters effects this desirable object without griping them like a drastic purgative. The Bitters is also efficacious for malaria, bilious, dyspeptic and kidney trouble.

OLD MAID—"Is this the newspaper office?" Clerk—"Yes, ma'am." Old Maid (blushingly)—"I see the mayor has advertised for proposals, and I would like to advertise, too."—Philadelphia Record.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The "North-Western Limited," sumptuously equipped with buffet, smoking and library cars, regular and compartment sleeping cars, and luxurious dining cars, leaves Chicago via the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western R'y) at 6:30 p. m. daily, and arrives at destination early the following morning. All principal ticket agents sell tickets via this popular route.

"MAMMA," asked the little girl, peering in between two uncut leaves of the magazine, "how did they ever get the printing in there?"

All About Western Farm Lands.

The "Corn Belt" is the name of an illustrated monthly newspaper published by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy R. R. It aims to give information in an interesting way about the farm lands of the west. Send 25 cents in postage stamps to the Corn Belt, 209 Adams St., Chicago, and the paper will be sent to your address for one year.

THIS grief still treads upon the heels of pleasure, marry'd in haste, we may repent at leisure.—Congreve.

When Nature

Needs assistance it may be best to render it promptly, but one should remember to use even the most perfect remedies only when needed. The best and most simple and gentle remedy is the Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company.

THE man who works the hardest for the least pay is the one who has the biggest fortune.—Ram's Horn.

THE well known firm of newspaper advertising agents, Alden & Faxon, Cincinnati, Ohio, will hereafter be known as the Frank H. Alden & Sons Company, being composed of Frank H. Alden and his two sons, Frank W. and Clarence H. Alden.

SAYS an exchange: "There are poems unwritten and songs unsung." That is what reconciles us to life.—Texas Siftings.

FITS stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free. Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

IF a man is endued with a generous mind, this is the best kind of nobility.—Plato.

NO SAFER OR MORE EFFICACIOUS REMEDY can be had for Coughs, or any trouble of the throat, than "Brown's Bronchial Troches."

HE surely is in want of another's patience who has none of his own.—Lavater.

EXPLOSIONS of Coughing are stopped by Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar.

Pike's Toothache Drops Cure in one minute.

THE noblest motive is the public good.—Virgil.

WE think Piso's Cure for Consumption is the only medicine for Coughs.—JENNIE PINCKARD, Springfield, Ills., Oct. 1, 1894.

OPINION, a sovereign mistress of effects.—Shakespeare.

Sour

Stomach, sometimes called waterbrash, and burning pain, distress, nausea, dyspepsia, are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This it accomplishes because with its wonderful power as a blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla gently tones and strengthens the stomach and digestive organs, invigorates the liver, creates an appetite, gives refreshing sleep, and raises the health tone. In cases of dyspepsia and indigestion it seems to have 'a magic touch."

"For over 1½ years I suffered from sour with severe pains across my shoulders, and great distress. I had violent nausea which would leave me very weak and faint, difficult to get my breath. These spells came oftener and more severe. I did not receive any lasting benefit from physicians, but found such happy effects from a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I took several bottles and mean to always keep it in the house. I am now able to do all my own work, which for six years I have been unable to do. My husband and son have also been greatly benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla—for pains in the back, and after the grip. I gladly recommend this grand blood medicine." MRS. PETER BURBY, Leominster, Mass.

Stomach

Hood's

Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1.

Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ills and Sick Headache. 25 cents.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, of ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor.) He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

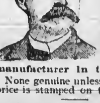
No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR

W. L. DOUGLAS $3. SHOE BEST IN THE WORLD.

If you pay $4 to $6 for shoes, examine the W. L. Douglas Shoe, and see what a good shoe you can buy for $3.

OVER 100 STYLES AND WIDTHS,



CONGRESS, BUTTON, and LACE, made in all kinds of the best selected leather by skilled workmen. We make and sell more $3 Shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

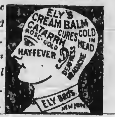
None genuine unless name and price is stamped on the bottom.

Ask your dealer for our $5, $4, $3.50, $2.50, $2.25 Shoes; $2.50, $2 and $1.75 for boys.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE. If your dealer cannot supply you, send to factory, enclosing price and 36 cents to pay carriage. State kind, style of toe (cap or plain), size and width. Our Custom Dept. will fill your order. Send for new Illustrated Catalogue to Box R.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

It is the medicine above all others for catarrh, and is worth its weight in gold. I can use Ely's Cream Balm with safety and it does all that is claimed for it.—B. W. Sperry, Hartford, Conn.



CATARRH

ELY'S CREAM BALM Opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Protects the Membrane from colds, Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. The Balm is quickly absorbed and gives relief at once.

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Druggists or by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

LATEST and BEST WELL 100 feet to 2000 ft. DRILLING MACHINES

LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

"I am sixty years of age and from girlhood have been familiar with the name of Ayer..... Five years ago, I become nervous, sleepless, and lost flesh. I took a variety of medicines without benefit. At last I began a course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I became stronger, gained flesh, and*

"A Word in Season"

The season is Spring,—Spring when you call on your body for all its energy, and tax it to the limit of effort. Does it answer you when you call? Does it creep unwillingly to work? It's the natural effect of the waste of winter. So much for the season. Now for the word. If you would eat heartily, sleep soundly, work easily, and feel like a new being, take

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

* This testimonial will be found in full in Ayer's "Curebook" with a hundred others. Free. Address J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

CONFERENCE CALLED.

Object: The Establishment of a Permanent System of Arbitration

Between Great Britain and the United States—It Is Desired That all Parts of the Country be Represented at This Conference to be Held in April.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The following letter has recently been mailed to over 1,000 representative men throughout the United States:

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 12, 1896.

DEAR SIR:—A widespread desire has been manifested, both in the United States and Great Britain, for the establishment between these two countries of a permanent system of arbitration.

With a view to the accomplishment of that end, we hereby invite you to attend a national conference, to be held in the city of Washington on Wednesday and Thursday the 22d and 23d of April, next, to express the general conviction that such a system of arbitration should be speedily provided for by the proper authorities, and with the most comprehensive application practicable.

It is earnestly desired that all parts of the country should be represented at this conference, and in order that this may be assured, a similar invitation has been sent to representative men, irrespective of party or creed, in every state and territory in the United States; the combined membership of the two houses of congress being taken as a general basis of numbers and apportionment.

Assuming that you share our belief as to the importance of the end proposed, we deem it unnecessary in this communication to enter into an extended statement on the subject. By repeated acts, as well as by repeated declarations, our government has appeared before the world in advocacy of international arbitration as a measure conformable to our interests and the general interests of our institutions, as well as to the cause of general justice and civilization. To this effect patriotism, philanthropy, statesmanship and religion have spoken as with one voice.

In confining the present movement to the promotion of arbitration between the United States and Great Britain we are not unconcerned for the wider application of the principle involved. But, taking into consideration the importance and value of practical results, it has seemed wise to concentrate our immediate efforts upon the attainment of a permanent system between the two great English speaking people.

Earnestly trusting that we may receive at an early day your acceptance of the invitation hereby extended, we remain, yours faithfully, etc.

The call is signed by Chief Justice Fuller, Maj. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, Adm. John G. Walker, Hon. John W. Foster, L. L. D., Hon. Abram S. Hewitt, and 20 other representative men in the ecclesiastical, financial and business world.

ANOTHER STAR.

Senate Committee Reports Favorably on the Bill Admitting New Mexico to Statehood.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The senate committee on territories Thursday favorably reported the bill for the admission of the Territory of New Mexico to statehood. The election of delegates to the constitutional convention is to be held on the eighth Tuesday after the passage of the enabling act, and the ratification of the constitution is to be submitted to the people not earlier than the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November next.

The report shows there are 122,580 square miles of territory in New Mexico, and that under the influence of irrigation it is productive and yields large crops of cereals and semi-tropical fruits. The population in 1890 was 153,593, of which about one-half is of Mexican birth or derivation. The assessed valuation of the property in 1890 amounted to $41,602,198, with a bonded indebtedness of $920,000.

A Split in the Convention.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 20.—What was probably the crisis in the Tennessee gubernatorial campaign was reached Thursday, when nearly two thousand democrats split into two conventions, one of which endorsed R. L. Taylor for governor. This is Harris' home, and his friends are confident of carrying the county for him. The dissatisfaction in his own county it is thought, will assure the nomination of Taylor.

Morton Delegates Selected.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., March 20.—At the 22d district republican convention held at Potsdam Thursday, Hon. Wm. L. Proctor, of Ogdensburg, and W. W. Worden, of Saratoga Springs, were elected delegates to the national convention at St. Louis. Resolutions endorsing Morton for the presidency were unanimously adopted.

A Battle Imminent.

ROME, March 20.—Popolo Romano has a dispatch from Massowah which says that the Dervishes are within two hours of Kassala, and are awaiting Osman Digna's arrival before attacking. Communications with Adigrat have been cut off. Gen. Baldissera's endeavors to restore negotiations with the Abyssian Negus Menelek contiaue.

Medical Board Confirmed.

COLUMBUS, O, March 20.—The senate confirmed the appointment of the members of the state board of medical examiners a few hours after they were announced by Gov. Bushnell.

Judge Landes Sworn In.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 20.—J. I. Landes was sworn in as judge of the court of appeals Thursday morning, and took his seat on the appellate bench to succeed Judge John R. Grace, deceased, of the First district. There is some doubt as to the time he shall serve.

Judge Landes' appointment carries with it the necessity for a special election for senator in the Sixth Senatorial district, which he resigned in order to accept the judgship. He has been a judge in Christian county, and is one of the able lawyers in that section.

CONDEMNED.

The House Censures the American Ambassador to England for Certain Utterances in Speeches at Boston, Eng., and Edinburgh.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The house Friday again proceeded immediately after the reading of the journal to consider the resolutions censuring Mr. Bayard, ambassador to London, for his speeches at Boston and Edinburgh. After debate the resolutions were passed by a vote of 108 to 71.

The following is the text of the resolutions regarding Ambassador Bayard, reported February 25, from the committee on foreign affairs.

Whereas, Thomas F. Bayard, ambassador of the United States to Great Britain, said in a public speech delivered in Boston, England, on August 2, 1895, as follows:

"He (the president of the United States) stands in the midst of a strong, self-confident, and often times violent people—men who seek to have their own way—and I tell you plainly that it takes a real man to govern the people of the United States."

Whereas, Thomas F. Bayard, ambassador of the United States to Great Britain said in a public speech delivered in Edinburgh, Scotland, on November 7, 1895, as follows:

"In my own country I have witnessed the insatiable growth of that form of state socialism styled 'protection' which I believe has done more to foster class legislation and create inequality of fortune, to corrupt public life, to banish men of independent mind and character from public councils, to lower the tone of national representation, blunt public conscience, create false standards in the popular mind, divorce ethics from politics and place politics upon the low level of a mercenary scramble than any other single cause.

"It (the said policy of protection) has unhesitatingly allied itself with every policy which tends to commercial isolation, dangerously depletes the treasury, and saps the popular conscience by schemes of corrupting favor and largesse to special classes whose support is thereby attracted. Thus it has done so much to throw legislation into the political market, where jobbers and chafferers take the place of statesmen;" therefore, be it

Resolved, that it is the sense of the house of representatives that Thomas F. Bayard, ambassador of the United States to Great Britain, in publicly using the language above quoted has committed an offense against diplomatic propriety and an abuse of the privileges of his exalted position, which should make him the representative of the whole country and not of any political party. Such utterances are wholly inconsistent with that prudent delicate and scrupulous reserve which he, himself while secretary of state, enjoined upon all diplomatic agents of the United States. In one speech he affronts the great body of his countrymen who believe in the policy of protection. In the other speech he offends all his countrymen who believe that Americans are capable of self government. Therefore, as the immediate representative of the American people, and in their name, we condemn and censure the said utterances of Thomas F. Bayard.

Resolved further, that in the opinion of the house of representatives public speeches by our diplomatic or consular officers abroad, which display partisanship, or which condemn any political party, or party policy, or organization of citizens in the United States, are in dereliction of the duty of such officers, impair their usefulness as public servants, and diminish the confidence which they should and may command at home and abroad.

The vote was mainly along political lines, the republicans voting yea and the democrats nay. The populists supported the resolution.

The following republicans voted against the resolution: Baker (Md.), Cook (Ill.), Draper (Mass.), Pitney (N. J.), and Willis (Del.)—5. And the following democrats voted for it: Bailey (Tex.), Cockrell (Tex.), Cummings (N. Y.), Latimer (S. C.), Layton (O.), and Sorg (O.)—6.

Five Men Burned, Two Fatally.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Five men were burned, two of them fatally, Friday afternoon in a foundry at Ashland and Archer avenues. They were: Michael Donovich and Peter Rovitch, fatally burned; Edward Davis, Miles Conway and Alexander Cameron serious burned. The capola in the converting shed fell from its support, hurling the molten metal on every side. The men who were injured were working nearby and could not escape.

The Battleship Massachusetts.

LEWES, Del., March 21.—The battleship Massachusetts passed out to sea Friday morning on her builder's trial trip, returning to the Breakwater at 2:30 p. m. She then made several rapid runs between the "Brown" and the Capes, evidently for the purpose of testing her steering apparatus, and at 5:45 p. m. anchored at the "Brown", where she will probably lay until high tide when she will continue up the bay to Cramp's yards.

Shot His Wife Then Killed Himself.

SCRANTON, Pa., March 21.—At Forest City, six miles north of Carbondale, Friday morning, Frank Creagle went to the house where his wife, from whom he had been separated, was staying. When Mrs. Creagle refused to return to him, Creagle fired at her four times with a revolver, one of the bullets going completely through the woman's body. Creagle then shot and killed himself. Mrs. Creagle is in a serious condition.

Four Dead, Two Dying.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 21.—A terrible explosion occurred at the gold mines of Rossland, in the remote northwest country. As a result four men are dead and two more are seriously hurt and will probably die. Two boxes of gunpowder ignited while being thawed out in a tunnel. The dead are: Thomas Gibbons, married; Mike Ravigan, single; Joseph Dolan, single; Daniel Lynch, single.

Aged Physician Dead.

ZANESVILLE, O., March 21.—Dr. E. A. Farquhar, one of the oldest and most prominent physicians in this part of the state, died Friday at the advanced age of 85 years. He acquired considerable fame several years ago by adopting methods in medicine which have since become generally accepted.

Ohio Game Laws.

COLUMBUS, O., March 21.—By the game laws, which finally passed the house Thursday afternoon, the season for hunting quails extends from November 10 to December 15; squirrels, doves, prairie chickens, woodcocks from September 1 to December 15; ducks, rails, snipe, plover, coots and mud hens, from September 1 to April 10. The killing of Mongolian, English and ring-necked pheasants and deer before November 10, 1900, is prohibited. There is nothing in the laws as passed which restricts the killing of rabbits. The season for the sale of game is made to conform to the shooting season.

LORD SALISBURY

Writes a Letter in Favor of the Principles of Arbitration.

The Prime Minister Says the British Government Has Made Overtures in That Direction to the American Government—Daily News' Comment.

LONDON, March 23.—Lord Salisbury has written a letter to Sir James Stansfeld, who was chairman of the recent demonstration in Queen's hall in favor of the principle of arbitration in all disputes between Great Britain and the United States, acknowledging the receipt of the memorial adopted at the meeting. In his letter Lord Salisbury says:

"I am glad to be able to inform you that this question is receiving the consideration of her majesty's government and that proposals in the direction indicated by the memorial are now before the government of the United States. (Signed) "SALISBURY."

The memorial referred to contained the following:

"Without expressing any opinion upon pending controversies, we would earnestly press the advisability of promptly concluding some treaty arrangement by which all disputes between Great Britain and the United States could be referred for adjudication to some permanent tribunal representing both nations and uniting them in the common interest of justice and peace."

In moving the adoption of the memorial Mr. Shaw-Lefevre, formerly president of the local government board, submitted the following resolution, which was adopted:

"That the chairman be instructed to forward the memorial when signed to the president of the United States, to the prime minister, and to the leader of the house of commons with an earnest desire of this meeting that no time may be lost in taking action thereupon."

He said that almost twenty-eight years ago he enlisted the almost unanimous vote of the house of commons in favor of arbitration on the Alabama claims. At that time the first cable had been laid and Mr. Cyrus Field telegraphed the whole of his speech across the Atlantic. The speech was apparently so heavy that it broke the cable. Since that time about forty arbitrations had taken place, in ten of which the United States was concerned and in which Great Britain was a party. In 1884 Great Britain negotiated a treaty of commerce with Venezuela, in which, for the first time, there was an arbitration clause; but the treaty was not ratified, as Mr. Gladstone's government went out and the foreign office, permanent office, he believed, thwarted his well meant efforts.

In its issue Monday the Daily News under the caption of "A break in the clouds," deals with Lord Salisbury's reply to Sir James Stansfeld, which it describes as the most hopeful word that has been had for a long time from the prime minister. The paper says that it hopes that no efforts will be spared to press the consideration by the government of the memorial into action.

NOT GUILTY.

The Jury in the Milliken Case Returns Its Verdict.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—When the jury in the Milliken case came in and announced that after 24 hours' deliberation they had reached a verdict, the crowded courtroom was in silent expectancy. The announcement of not guilty was met with an outburst of applause from the spectators that shook the east end of the dingy old courthouse. The bailiff rapped and cried for order but to no avail. Amid the din and confusion Judge Cole ordered the bailiff to arrest the enthusiastic persons who were disturbing the court. The bailiff was too much confused to single out but one person who was yelling at the top of his voice and waiving his hat high in the air. He, after a severe admonition from the judge, was set free. Mr. Milliken, the defendent, his brother, counsel and friends, received the verdict quietly. The acquitted man, left the courtroom and went to his brother's office where he held a reception, his friends crowding in to congratulate him.

Miliken was tried on the charge of housebreaking with intent to commit a criminal assault on Miss Gertrude Phillips, daughter of Ex-Solicitor General Phillips.

LAMP EXPLOSION.

Five Colored Persons Badly Burned in a Fire That Followed.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Five colored persons were burned early Saturday morning in a fire caused by the explosion of a lamp at 126 West Twenty-sixth street. One of the five, Mrs. Lucy Wilkins, was so badly burned about the face, neck and hands that she died several hours later at the New York hospital. The others are suffering from burned hands and arms. There was a big fright while the fire was on, nearly a hundred colored persons being in the tenement, a five-story brick building, and leaving their rooms and swarming out on the landings, all shouting and screaming. All reached the street in safety, however. The fire was extinguished with trifling loss.

Valuable Horses Burned.

SAGINAW, Mich., March 23.—A large barn in which F. E. Tallmadge had 18 valuable horses stabled, was destroyed by fire Friday night and all of the horses were suffocated; also a high-priced Jersey cow. Among the horses burned were Pontoon (2:15), a half brother to Alix; June Monk (2:41) and several other good ones. Tallmadge's loss is $7,000, with $2,000 insurance.

No Further Rioting at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 23.—The scene of Saturday night's riot was all quiet Sunday. Thousands visited it, and many bullets were picked from the sides of the buildings, where the affair occurred. Davis is still in a serious condition, and Lee had a bullet cut from his leg. The strikers are desperate, and the skirmish Saturday night shows what they and their friends can do. Threats, persuasions and even money have failed to induce the non-union men to leave the iron works, and it is stated Sunday night by a person in a position to know that other measures will be taken.

COMPULSORY EDUCATION.

The Text of the Bill Passed by the Kentucky Legislature.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 14.—Probably the most important bill that has passed the legislature this session is the compulsory education bill, which was drawn and fought through both branches of the general assembly by Hon. J. B. Hiles, the hard-working representative from Bracken county. He devoted a greater part of his time to working for this bill and his efforts have been at last crowned with success, unless the governor shall see fit to veto it. The following is a copy of the bill in full, and it will be read with interest by every parent in the state of Kentucky:

Be it enacted by the general assembly of the commonwealth of Kentucky:

Section 1. That every parent, guardian or other person in the state of Kentucky, having the control of any child or children between the ages of (7) seven and (14) fourteen years, shall be required to send such child or children, annually, at least (8) eight weeks of which attendance shall be consecutive, to some public or private day or night school for children: Provided, however that this act shall not apply in any case where the child has been or is being taught at home in such branches as are taught in public schools for a like period of time and subject to the same examinations as other pupils of the district or city in which the child resides, or whose physical or mental condition renders his or her attendance impracticable, or who is excused by the trustees of the public school district, or the board of education of the city in which the parent, guardian or person having control resides, upon its being shown to their satisfaction that the parent, guardian or person having control was not able, by reason of poverty, to clothe such child properly, or that he or she has already acquired the ordinary branches required by law, or that there is no colored school, in the case of colored children, taught within two (2) miles by the nearest traveled road.

Sec. 2. Any parent, guardian or other person failing to comply with the provisions of this act shall forfeit to the use of the schools in the city, town or common school district in which such child resides, a sum not less than five dollars ($5) nor more than twenty dollars ($20) for the first offense, nor less than ten dollars ($10) nor more than fifty ($50) for the second and every subsequent offense, and cost of suit.

Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of any school trustee or president of the board of education to inquire into all causes of complaint and neglect of duty prescribed in this act, and he shall notify in writing the parent, guardian or other person so offending that such complaint has been made, and if the cause is not shown within (5) days, to at once proceed against the responsible persons as is hereby provided: and any school trustee or president of the board of education neglecting to undertake such prosecution in good faith for such offense, within ten (10) days after a written notice has been served on him by any taxpayer in said district or city, unless the person so complained of shall be excused by the district or city board or board of education for the reasons heretofore stated, shall forfeit to the public schools in the city, town or common school district in which said trustee or president of the board of education resides, a sum not less than ten dollars ($10) nor more than fifty dollars ($50.)

Sec. 4. Any person having control of a child who, with intent to evade the provisions of this act, shall make a willfully false statement concerning the age of such child, or the time such child has attended school, shall forfeit for each offense a sum not less than five dollars ($5) nor more than twenty dollars ($20), for the use of public schools for such city, town or district.

Sec. 5. Any fine or penalty mentioned in this act may be sued for, and recovered before any court of record or justice of the peace of the proper county, in the name of the commonwealth of Kentucky, for the use of the public schools of the city, town or district in which said child resides.

Sec. 6. That upon the trial of any offense as charged herein, if upon such trial it shall be determined that such prosecution was malicious, then the costs in such case shall be adjudged against the complainant, and collected as fines in other cases.

Sec. 7. The conditions and provisions of this act shall apply to any parent, guardian or person having control of any colored child or children, in like manner as in Sections 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6; but no white child shall be permitted to attend or become a pupil in any school for colored children, and no colored child shall be permitted to attend or become a pupil in any school for white children.

A COLORED BISHOP

Arrested on the Charge of Embezzling From the Funds of a Proposed Training School.

CLEVELAND, O., March 17.—Bishop Wm. B. Campbell, of the African Evangelist Mission church was arrested here Monday on the charge of embezzling $500 from the funds for a proposed manual training school to be located here. The bishop is still in jail, not having secured bail.

Bishop Campbell has jurisdiction over the states of Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky and Ohio, with headquarters at Toledo. His arrest is the outgrowth of his suspension of Bishop R. H. Morsell, and Revs. R. Mosely, R. H. Brown and J. H. Steward of Northern Ohio district.

The suspended clergymen preferred charges against the bishop to a church committee which exonerated him. Then followed the judicial proceeding. The colored people of this city are greatly excited over the matter.

HALF A HUNDRED

People Stood By Helpless to Save a Child From Burning to Death.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 17.—The bright, bonny, four-year-old son of Henry Sliter, of No. 1744 North Capitol avenue, Monday morning, while playing in his father's barn, set the hay on fire, and his screams first aroused the neighbors and the family. To their intense horror they could not open the door, and they were compelled to stand powerless while the lad was burned to death. Adding to the horror of the scene, the fire reel, close at hand, answered the summons, but before a sufficiency of hose had been laid to reach the flames the hose reel lacked, and the firemen stood helpless until other fire companies arrived and aided them by splicing out. By this time the stable was in ruins, and nothing remained of the boy but a charred and shapeless mass.

Great Western Pin Co. Assigns.

TOLEDO, O., March 17.—The Great Western Pin Co. assigned Monday. No statement of the standing of the firm is obtainable. Western creditors hearing that Charles F. Milburn, the president, and George R. Hudson, treasurer of the company, had been forced out of the Malburn Wagon Co., pressed claims and the assignment followed.

Ex-gov. Campbell Endorsed for President

COLUMBUS, O., March 17.—The democratic city convention Monday adopted a resolution endorsing ex-Gov. James E. Campbell for the democratic nomination for the presidency.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS

First Session.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—SENATE—There were three speeches made in the senate Monday on as many different subjects. The first was by Mr. Lodge (Mass.), and was in favor of such a change in the immigration laws as will keep out illiterate and ignorant immigrants. The second was by Mr. Pugh (Ala.), and was in favor of the coinage of silver at the mints of the United States with the same rights as gold. The third speech was by Mr. Morgan (Ala.), in support of the conference report on the Cuban belligerency resolution.

HOUSE—Bills passed: Providing free homesteads on the public lands of Oklahoma for actual bona fide settlers—with an amendment suspending until further legislation can be had by congress the operations of the land laws in Greer county, Tex.—due to the decision Monday of the supreme court declaring that country a part of the public domain; increasing the penalty for mutilating or defacing coins and making the passing of such coins a felony; extending the collection limits of the port of New Orleans; to adjust the rank and pay of solicitor and judge advocate general of the navy; to dispose of the lands within abandoned town sites in Oklahoma. The bill relieving the supreme court of jurisdiction of criminal cases not capital failed of passage.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—SENATE—Senator Mitchell (rep., Ore.) complained that the Cuban resolutions were making no headway, and said if the Cuban question could not be disposed of in reasonable time, he must insist on going on with the Dupont election contest. Mr. Sherman responded that he saw no reason why the Cuban question could not be disposed of in a day or so, but he did not desire to cut off speeches. Mr. Pugh, of Alabama, continued his silver speech, arguing that the movement for an international monetary conference was futile, as England would not consent to it. Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, proceeded with his speech in support of the Cuban resolutions.

HOUSE—The house devoted the day to the bill to amend the administrative tariff act of 1890, and passed it without substantial amendment. The purpose of the bill is to strengthen the act of 1890, some weak spots having been developed during the six years it has been in operation. One of the most important changes makes increased duties and penalties for undervaluation commence at the point of undervaluation, and not at ten per cent. above the undervaluation, as provided by the present law. The judiciary committee of the house discussed Mr Morse's bill to place the name of God in the constitution, which indicated that the committee is unanimously opposed to it.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—SENATE—Owing to the indisposition of Mr. Mills (dem., Tex.) who had the floor on the subject, the Cuban debate was not continued Wednesday. An animated controversy arose over the resolution of Mr. Cannon (rep., Utah) directing Secretary Smith to execute the law for the public opening of the Uncompahgre Indian reservation, Utah. The senate passed a bill authorizing the secretary of war to issue Springfield rifles to state troops in exchange for an equal number of old arms.

HOUSE—Favorable committee reports were made to the house Wednesday on the following: A bill to pay James Miller, Bourbon county, Kentucky, $1,570 for supplies taken by federal troops during the war; a resolution directing the secretary of war to appoint three army officers as a commission to ascertain what property was destroyed by the army at Cynthiana, Ky., June 11, 1864; a bill to pension Greenville Puckett, late corporal Company D, Forty-fifth Kentucky Infantry, at $72 per month.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—SENATE—The senate committee on commerce Thursday authorized a favorable report on Senator Turpie's resolution providing for a preliminary survey and estimate of the cost for a ship canal from Lower Lake, Mich., to the Wabash river. A bill was passed authorizing the building of a bridge across the Tennessee river at Knoxville, Tenn.

HOUSE—Bills introduced: Authorizing court of claims to adjudicate claim of George S. Simon, of Darke county, O., amounting to $8,000; to pension Lydia W. Holliday, of Wheeling, W. Va., late army nurse, at $12 per month; to pension Sanford Ross, of Jackson county, at $4 per month; increase pension of John T. Burges of Madison county, Kentucky, to $12 per month; to pension Samuel McClure, of Rockcastle county, at $25 per month. The resolution censuring Ambassador Bayard for certain sentences in a speech delivered in England was discussed Thursday. A vote will probably be taken Friday.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—SENATE—The Cuban question was taken up as soon as the senate opened. Mr. Gorman moved that when the senate adjourn it be until Monday. Agreed to. Bills passed: For the relief of the settlers upon lands within the indemnity limits of the grant to the New Orleans Pacific Railroad company; to loan two condemned cannon to the Confederate Home of Missouri at Higginsville, Mo.; to provide time and places for holding terms of United States courts in Utah; to approve and ratify the construction of a bridge across the Sulphur river in Arkansas by the Texarkana and Fort Smith railway company; increasing the pension for the widow of Col. Clendening, second cavalry, to $50 a month; to authorize the payment to Rr. Adm. John H. Russell of the highest pay of his grade; to pay to Wm. S. Grant $77,989 for his claim for supplying military posts in Arizona in 1861 and 1862; house bill for the disposal of lands lying within the Fort Klamath reservation in Oregon; also senate bills for the exchange of land at Choctaw Point, Ala., held for lighthouse purposes, for another tract equally or better adapted for the same purpose; appropriating $25,000 for a monument in Baltimore to the memory of Gen. Wm. Smallwood, and the soldiers of the Maryland line in the war for American independence; appropriating $5,000 for a government survey of the mouths of the Yukon river, Alaska.

HOUSE—Ambassador Thomas F. Bayard was censured Friday by the house for making slighting criticisms on American citizens in general, and the republican party in particular, in speeches before the Burton (England) Grammar school and the Edinburgh (Scotland) Philosophical institute last fall. After an evening session, devoted to pensions, the house adjourned till Monday.

LEAD MINING.

An Increased Output of Desilverized and Soft Lead in the Year 1895.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Returns from all the refining works show that the total production of desilverized lead was 201,922 net tons in 1895, as compared with 181,404 net tons in 1894. The desilverized lead included 6,444 tons of hard lead. Desilverizers report that 51,618 tons of their product were obtained by refining foreign base bullion in bond. Of this quantity 17,282 tons were exported. The production of soft lead in Missouri and Kansas in 1895 was 39,890 tons. The total supply including production, imports, and stock on hand and in bond was 280,596 tons. Of this amount it is estimated that at least 241,000 tons consumed at home, as against 192,000 tons in 1894.

Arrests for Robbery.

WINDFALL, Ind., March 23.—The jewelry and notion store of James Cole, and grocery and notion store of A. H. Zehner were entered by burglars. A small amount of goods was taken at each place. Riley and Andrew Degolyer, of this place, were put under arrest Sunday evening. Search warrants are out.

Greenhalge Memorial Address.

BOSTON, March 23.—It has been decided that Senator Lodge will deliver the memorial address at the services in memory of Gov. Greenhalge on April 18 in Mechanics hall.

HUMOROUS.

—"Er man dat am allus lookin' foh trouble," said Uncle Eben, "ain' likely ter git disp'inted, no matter how near-sighted he is."—Washington Star.

—Out of Practice.—She—"Why don't you talk to me as [illegible] you used to me?" He (absent-minded)—"I'm so horribly out of practice."—Detroit Free Press.

—Employer—"You say you would like to go to your grandmother's funeral this afternoon, James?" James—"Yes, sir, if it doesn't rain."—Tit-Bits.

—"Oi saay, Moike." "Yis?" "Phot's dthis worrud? C-o-n—con—v-e-r—ver—s-a—sa—t-i-o-n — shun — conversation. Phot's conversation?" "Oi don't t'ink Oi'm shure, Dinnis, but Oi t'ink dthot's dude fer gab."—Harper's Bazar.

—"I would be mighty willin' to work," Mr. Dismal Dawson explained, "if I was only able." "You look able-bodied enough," said the sharp-nosed lady; "what is there to prevent you working?" "Me pride."—Indianapolis Journal.

—Mrs. Grimble (to her offspring)—"There you go, tracking the floor all over with mud. Didn't I tell you to wipe your feet before you came in?" Johnny—"Oh, nobody's blaming you, ma; you did all you could."—Boston Transcript.

—Little Lord Charles—"Oh, I'm going to be an omnibus conductor when I grow up." Fair American—"But your brother's going to be a duke, isn't he?" Little Lord Charles—"Ah, yes; but that's about all he's fit for, you know." —Punch.

—One View of It.—"Say, what is this social settlement idea?" "It's like this—you're a good fellow, you know." "Yes." "Well, you go and live in a tough neighborhood and you'll seem a darn sight better than you really are!"—Chicago Record.

—"I was very much disappointed today," said Mrs. Northside, when her husband came home from the office. "What about?" "It was a fine afternoon, and I thought I'd return Mrs. Tawk's call." "And she was out, was she? That was too bad." "No; she was in."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

ANCIENT ROMAN CROWNS.

Seven Kinds Were Distributed as Rewards of Valor.

The Romans had various kinds of crowns which they distributed as rewards for martial exploits and extaordinary services on behalf of the republic.

1. The oval crown, made of myrtle, and bestowed on generals who were entitled to the honors of the "lesser triumph," called ovation.

2. The naval or rostral crown, composed of a circle of gold with ornaments representing "beaks" of ships, and given to the captain who first grappled or to soldiers who first boarded an enemy's ship.

3. The crown known in Latin as "Vallaris Castrensis," a circle of gold raised with jewels or palisades, the reward of the general who first forced the enemy's intrenchments.

4. The mural crown, a circle of gold indented and embattled, given to the warrior who first mounted the wall of a besieged place and successfully lodged a standard or flag thereon.

5. The civic crown, (made of the branch of a green oak), a garland of oak leaves, bestowed upon the Roman soldier who had saved the life of a citizen.

6. The triumphal crown, consisting at first of wreaths of laurel, but afterward made of gold—the reward of such generals as had the good fortune to be successful in battle.

7. The crown called "Obsidionalis," or "Graminea," made of the "common grass" found growing on the scene of action, and bestowed only for the deliverance of an army when reduced to the last extremity. This was esteemed the highest military reward among the Roman soldiery.

Athletic crowns and crowns of laurel, destined as rewards at public games, and many other Roman sports, are frequently found mentioned in the annals of Roman history.—Chambers' Journal.

Chapped Lips.

Of the many minor ills to which the small child is subjected in cold weather there is none much more disagreeable than the chapped lips which so often torment him. And when the "chap" becomes a deep crack in the middle of the lip it is even more trying. Then cold cream or vaseline often fails to produce any effect, and the split grows broader until the lower lip looks as if it were cut in half. The one quick and efficient remedy for this is a tiny phial of flexible collodion and a camel's-hair brush. The mother must hold the two sides of the lip together with one hand, while with the other she dips the brush in the collodion and quickly paints over the crack with the liquid. It dries almost instantly, and in drying forms a skin over the wound. Whenever this skin breaks it must be renewed. The small child who does not wince and to whose eyes the tears do not come under this treatment must be heroic indeed, for the first application of the collodion smarts keenly for just a moment. But in two or three days the treatment will have entirely cured the offending member.—Harper's Bazar.

Effects Somewhat Similar.

"Hello, Swiggles! I congratulate you, old boy, on your appointment to that consulship. It's a good position, and you deserve it."

"Thanks, Ruggles. I'm sorry to see you're not looking well this morning Been sick?"

"No. I was out on a toot last night. That's all."

"Well, good-by! I've got an engagement."

"So have I. So long!"

Ten minutes later they happened to meet at a hatter's where they had gone to have their hats stretched.—Chicago Tribune

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER.

Wednesday, March 25, 1896.

Rates of Subscription:

One year	$1.00.
Six months	75.
Three months	40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

STATE NEWS.

A unique cigar cutter just introduced is one operated by clock work, which cuts off the cigar end when inserted in the hole. 250 cigars may be clipped without rewinding.

Lyon county tobacco growers held a meeting at Lamasco and adopted resolutions favoring a reduction in acreage. They will hold another meeting to elect delegates to the Growers State convention.

From Kansas is reported the organization of a company to manufacture Cigarettes from sassafras leaves, the main object being to humanely save the boys of the nation from the deadly tobacco article.

3,207,770 tons of coal were mined in Kentucky in 1895. That is the largest year's product ever mined in the State except in 1893, when it was 94,480 tons more. Hopkins is the banner coal county, producing 788,436 tons, which is nearly double the product of any other county.

A disease has appeared among the horses in the Dycusburg neighborhood, says the Marion Press, which the farmers have been unable to diagnose. One farmer has lost five animals, and two others have lost one each. The disease comes on suddenly like colic, a high fever ensues, and after a few hours of intense suffering the animals die in great agony.

The largest of fruit plantations in Jamaica are owned and operated by an American company. It cultivates 44,000 acres, 28,000 of which it owns and 16,000 of which it leases. The principal crops are bananas and cocoanuts. Last year it shipped 3,000,000 bunches of bananas and 5,000,000 cocoanuts, besides other fruits, to America and elsewhere; employing 11 steamers, which the company own.—Ex.

A very large acreage of tobacco will be set in this and other counties of Eastern Kentucky this season, says the Grayson Bugle, and we fear the error of last year will be repeated. Too much, too late and badly frost bitten. Why not set about half as much, getting it out early or not at all, cultivate it well, keep it free from worms, raising a valuable article and getting twice as much per pound for it, thus saving half the ground, half the labor and still get as much ready cash?

To brighten and freshen carpets sprinkle them with tea leaves or wet papers and sweep thoroughly but lightly. Grease spots may be drawn out by covering the places with coarse brown or butcher's paper and the passing over them a warm flatiron. Put a little ox gall in a pan of warm water and with a fresh cloth wrung quite dry again go over the carpet. To prevent moths under carpets use coarsly ground black pepper mixed with camphor, and strew thickly about the edges or wherever the moths are to be found.

Mrs. Dolarhie, of Bromley, Ky., mother of Mrs. Jacob Henthorn, of Oak Street, Ludlow, has obtained a pension from the Government. She had a son who fought bravely during the civil war. After his discharge he came home and lived for a while with his mother. Some 20 years ago he left, ostensibly to hunt work and has not been heard of since. Mrs. Dolarhie has inserted advertisements in papers at different times for the past two years. Failing to hear from him she mourned him as dead, and applied for a pension. She received a letter from Congressman Berry a few days since, stating that her pension had been granted. She will receive $12 a month from now on, and nearly $5000 cash for the years elapsing since the war. Mrs. Dolarhie is a widow, to whom the money will be more than acceptable.—Ky. Post.

The Poultry Yard.

The poultry keeper who is always dosing his fowls with spices and drugs does not come out ahead in the long run. Neither he nor his fowls make a long run.

If the old cocks are to be kept over clip their spurs.

Get seed of the nest egg gourd and grow your own nest eggs.

When you start the plow in the garden let the fowls in to follow the furrow. They will pick up worms, insects and their larva, also weed seeds.

Fowls cured of serious ailments are ever afterwards unfit for breeding purposes.

Fine houses and fine feathers will not make hens lay; egg-making food is essential.

Ice-cold snow water is not the best drinking water for laying hens at any season of the year.

The hatchet treatment is best for a very sick chicken: the hatch-it treatment for a perfectly healthy egg.

The great utility of hawks and owls in destroying field mice is one of our greatest pests, is everywhere recognized; but we notice that the gun is brought forward as an argument whenever a hawk visits one of our poultry yards.—Farm Journal.

Eggs of a uniform age hatch at a uniform time.

The best time to set eggs is the very day they are laid.

For laying hens care and close quarters will beat neglect and a ten-acre run every time.

The heavy sitters should have shallow nest boxes and rather flat nests, otherwise there will be many broken eggs.

Is milk abundant at your house? Warm a panful, put a little salt in it and set it before the hen early in the morning.

Let the children have charge of the flock, but let an older head look after the children in a helpful and encouraging manner.

Sunshine is good for weakly chicks; too much will kill the strongest, especially if it shine through a glass roof into a close box or coop.

When two hens are hatching at the same time put all the chicks as they hatch under one hen and the unhatched eggs under the other.

If a hen deserts her nest don't throw the eggs away. Put them in warm water for five minutes, dry them with a rag, wrap in woolen and set by the stove and hunt another broody hen. With care the eggs will wait for two or three days if not badly chilled.

Some fruits are improved by preserving, but the more hen fruit is preserved the less desirable it becomes for human food.

Lice are more destructive to poultry profits than disease and yet are much easier to combat. They are the pest of careless persons only.

A big basketful of chaff from the barn floor early in the morning will set the fowls to work and prepare them to relish their breakfast.

STOCK AND CROP.

The lamb crop in Boyle this year is turning out very well so far as it goes, but is not as large as usual by at least fifty per cent.

The outlook for the growing wheat crop in this county was never so poor. The wheat drilled looks very well, but the greater portion was sown broadcast, and bids fair to make a very poor yield.—Augusta Chronicle.

H. F. Hillenmeyer, the reliable nurseryman, of Lexington, writes: "The outlook for the quality of the fruit crop of 1896 is not altogether encouraging. It is quite true that fungus growths are not favored by a dry season, and that all fruit plants are now very free of such, as their fruits are also likely to be, but insect life is promoted by the same conditions, and is likely to be with us in full force later on. There will certainly be a full bloom on both fruit and forest trees, because dry weather favors the development of fruit, rather than wood buds, but a crop nurtured in poverty during its embryotic condition is prone to prove abortive and feeble. This same law is equally true of animate life."

Prof. Garman, of the Kentucky Experimental Station, has issued a bulletin that is of interest to all tobacco raisers. For the benefit of those who have not receive the bulletins we present the following summary of Prof. Garman's suggestions as perpared by the Russellville Ledger, regarding the best way to get rid of tobacco worms.

"After calling attention to the fact that moths deposit their eggs upon grass, weeds, etc., late in the fall, he says early fall ploughing prevents them from laying eggs on the grass, weeds and the like when turned under. Farmers have often observed that ground ploughed in the fall is never bothered with this worm like that ploughed in the spring. They have usually, we think, believed these eggs were in the ground and freezing had much to do with killing them out. This is not the case, but does cause starvation more or less among those hatched from eggs deposited before the ploughing took place. Again, it is suggested that burning over the land before ploughing in the winter or spring will destroy many of the eggs on the grass and weeds. Also poisoned bunches of clover or any plant that these worms feed upon placed in many different parts of the field immediately after seed is planted will destroy most of the worms in the soil before the seed comes up. For garden plants cylinders of thick ten-six brown paper or eight inches high slipped over the plant at night and taken off in the morning will prevent the worm from doing any damage. Prof. Garman refers to the blue bird and other birds as the enemies of this worm and calls upon the farmer to look to their interest by having laws passed to prevent the destruction of such birds."

OUR NEIGHBORS

CARROLL COUNTY

[News]

Two steam laundries.

Electric light is an assured thing.

There is quite a demand for at Sanders although there is not much work.

At the sale of W. A. Searcy last Saturday a fair crowd was present and stock sold high with exception of horses.

The heaviest snow of the season fell Saturday night. The "beautiful" fell thick and fast all night and was piled up to the depth of eight inches Sunday morning.

Thieves entered the residence of Geo. Southworth, at Worthville, last Friday night and took nearly everything in sight, including a large amount of meat, flour, potatoes, canned goods, dishes, etc., not leaving enough for the family's breakfast. George is keeping quiet but he has suspicions.

—§§—

GRANT COUNTY

[Courier]

W. W. Points returned from New Orleans last Saturday with his bonnie Southern bride.

Fox hunting has developed into quite a sport in Grant county during the last two or three years and this winter has seen many new faces drawn into the list of its devotes.

Rev. Wm. McMillan introduced a new departure in tying knots in Grant county Wednesday morning. At the time mentioned Theodore W. Wilson and Miss Lorena DeVors, of Owen county, drove up to the reverend gentleman's front gate made known their wants and were made man and wife, while they sat in the buggy, in less time than it takes to tell it.

W. D. Points, of Mt. Zion, shot and wounded H. Alexander.

—§§—

OWEN COUNTY

[News]

The News will move this week to its elegant new quarters in Beck's Block, next door to Brown's livery stable.

Bud McDormont, who was shot by Sheriff Gayle Thursday was able to go home Saturday. The shot in the breast flattened against the breast bone and fell out in his bosom. The other struck him in the cheek bone and fared equally as disastriously. Bullets don't have much affect on Bud.

The Baptist church at this place have sold their church building lock stock and barrel to the Methodist denomination last Saturday for $600. The latter denomination will move it at once to their lot opposite Mrs. S. A. Ford. All the carpets, benches, bell, organ, etc. were included in the sale. The Baptist will begin the erection at once of a fine $10,000 church edifice, and hope to have it completed by fall.

Dr. Massie was taken to Frankfort Monday morning by Sheriff Gayle. The Doctor has wonderful nerve and does not seem to be disheartened by the last verdict. He is confident of the Court of Appeals setting the verdict aside, giving him a new trial, and his ultimate acquital. Under the circumstances, the Doctor has every reason to have confidence in the upper court, and so long as the question rests with it, there is much to hope for.

On the question of Gov. Bradley calling out the State Guards, the Courier-Journal makes a straddle as pronounced as that of the Ohio Republicans on the financial question.

Andy Scheben,

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

WINES, LIQUORS

AND BRANDY,

Old Bourbon, $2.00 Per Gallon.

LEXINGTON PIKE,

ERLANGER, - - - KY.

Near Town Hall.

FERTILIZER.

Farmers, I would be pleased to have your orders for Fertilizer this year. Our goods are graded up considerably for 1896, and we have the following goods at last year's prices:

Raw Bone Meal.
Fine Ground Bone.
Tobacco and Potatoes.
Acidulated Bone.
Ammoniated Bone.
Special Tobacco.
Miami Valley Phosphate.
Jones Reliable Phosphate.
Jewell Phosphate.

When you buy our goods you get the worth of your money, and you know I placed good goods on the Boone and Kenton county market in 1894 and 1895 for less money than any other firm.

B. F. ZIMMER, Gen. Agt.,
for The Jones Fertilizer Co.,
Constance, Ky.

LOSS OF VOICE
After Acute Bronchitis
CURED BY USING
AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

A PREACHER'S EXPERIENCE.

"Three months ago, I took a violent cold which resulted in an attack of acute bronchitis. I put myself under medical treatment, and at the end of two months was no better. I found it very difficult to preach, and concluded to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. The first bottle gave me great relief; the second, which I am now taking, has relieved me almost entirely of all unpleasant symptoms, and I feel sure that one or two bottles more will effect a permanent cure. To all ministers suffering from throat troubles, I recommend Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."—E. M. BRAWLEY, D. D., Dist. Secretary, Am. Bapt. Publication Society, Petersburg, Va.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

GOLD MEDAL AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

AYER'S LEADS ALL OTHER SARSAPARILLAS.

THE QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE

Vestibuled Limited Trains to Southern Towns and Cities. A fine trip for summer outing through the Blue Grass region, the great Cumberland Plateau and to far famed Lookout Mountain.
The historic battlefields of CHICKAMAUGA, Mission Ridge and LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN.
Cool and invigorating air, unequaled scenery, good hotels.

Low reduced rates via the Queen & Crescent Route now on sale from cities and villages of the North.

Write to W. C. Rinearson, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, for illustrated and descriptive matter.

MOST IN QUANTITY. BEST IN QUALITY.

WORMS!
WHITE'S CREAM VERMIFUGE
FOR 20 YEARS
Has led all WORM Remedies.
EVERY BOTTLE GUARANTEED.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by
RICHARDSON MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS.

Scientific American Agency for PATENTS
CAVEATS,
TRADE MARKS,
DESIGN PATENTS,
COPYRIGHTS, etc.

For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the

Scientific American

Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address, MUNN & CO., Publishers, 361 Broadway, New York City.

HEADQUARTERS FOR
SWEET PEAS.

Mixed Varieties
Per pound	40c.
Half pound	25c.
Quarter pound	15c.

THE ONLY
DOUBLE SWEET PEA,
BRIDE OF NIAGARA.
(True to Name.)
Price—Packet 25c. Half packet 1[illegible]

THE WONDERFUL
CRIMSON RAMBLER ROSE,
Only 15 Cents.

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE, 1896,
The Pioneer Seed Catalogue.

Tried and True Novelties.—Fuchsias, Roses, Blackberry, The Pearl Gooseberry, Potatoes, Earliest Tomato Known, etc.

Lithographs of Double Sweet Pea, Roses, Fuchsias, Blackberries, Raspberries, New Leader Tomato, Vegetables. Filled with good things, old and new. Full list of Flowers, Vegetables, Small Fruits, etc., with description and prices. Mailed on receipt of 10 cts., which may be deducted from first order—really Free—or free with an order for any of the above.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.
JAMES VICK'S SONS

GO TO MARSHALL & STAHL,
DEALERS IN
Clothing AND GENTS' Furnishings!

Specialties--Stylish Suits, Hats, Caps, Collars, Cuffs, Neckties, Handkerchiefs, Socks, Suspenders, Umbrellas, Trunks and Valises.

WHITE SHIRTS, COLORED SHIRTS.

Masonic Building. - - - Lawrenceburg, Ind.

Do Not Read This.

Four Pound Schofield Blankets,	$3.00
Four and half pounds Schofield Blankets,	3.25
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 36 inches,	.80
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 38 inches,	.90
Schofield's all-wool Ready-Made Skirts,	1.15

Schofield Flannels at cost.
All Schofield Yarns 10 per cent. discount. Schofield Jeans at cost.
All Boots and Heavy Shoes at cost.
We have a few Suits of Mens' Underwear which we will sell at cost.

(o)

Also a full line of☞ DRY GOODS .... And a neat line of☞ GROCERIES,

AT THE STORE OF THE

Burlington Mercantile Co.,
Burlington, Kentucky.

PURE BRED CHESTER WHITE HOGS.

La : Belle : Herd
—OF UP TO DATE—
CHESTER WHITE HOGS.
Stock Eligible to any Record.

—:—:—

Correspondence or personal inspection Solicited. Send for my new Catalogue and Book of Gentral and Useful Information.

☞FREE FOR EVERYBODY.

ALSO AGENT FOR
AEROMETER
EVERY FARMER NEEDS ONE.
Best and Cheapest Wind-Mill Made.
COME AND SEE IT.

T. J. HUGHES, - - - BEAVER LICK, KY.

FOR SALE-THE LATEST IMPROVED "ACME" HARROW and Troy Pivot Axel Farm Wagons.

In calling attention to "ACME" HARROW, we will say that while some points of the it is not our custom to criticise harrows of other kinds, it is only fair to point out the difference we find in using this harrow along with other harrows. The arrangement of the Coulters on the "Acme" is such that the entire surface of the ground is practically cut over, while the Disk Harrow cuts but little more than half the surface—following one of the Disk Harrows the ground may appear to have been cut over, but if a portion of the surface be removed, uncut ridges will be found just underneath. The Disk Harrows are good for certain purposes, but they certainly can not be called general purpose harrows as they have no crushing or leveling device, whereas the "ACME" is a complete Harrow Clod Crusher and Leveler. The "Acme" is very simple and easily adjusted; does not undo the work of the plow; being entirely of cast and wrought iron it is practically indestructible, nothing can wear but the coulters, and these can be replaced at trifling cost. We are selling the "Acme" this season for but little more than the spike tooth harrow. It is the cheapest riding harrow made. We guarrantee them to give perfect satisfaction.

If you want a wagon made of carefully selected stock, well constructed, well proportioned, handsomely finished, lighter draught, greater carrying capacity than any other, and one that will give you perfect satisfaction, give us your order for the

TROY PIVOT AXEL WAGON,

as they are no experiment—they have been tried for several years and we know they have several good features that the ordinary axel wagon haven't. For prices and information call on or address

GEO. E. ROUSE & SON,
LIMABURG, Boone County, KY.

COME TO THIS OFFICE for JOB WORK.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXI. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 1, 1896. NO. 23.

LOCAL NEWS

As the Congressional Committee on Rivers and Harbors, were nearing the city of Pittsburg and entering lock No. 1, the river being almost at flood tide, the boat was carried within six feet of the dam. The steamer Phillips opportunely arriving, her officers threw a rope to the imperiled steamer and towed her up stream. Col. Berry with his son and daughter were on board, and they, with the 100 other souls, narrowly escaped a dreadful death.—Carrollton Democrat.

Judge Stephens received the following letter from the State Board of Equalization, at Frankfort: "The preliminary work of this Board for Boone county indicates that 10 per cent. should be added to assessed value of lands and personal property subject to equalization and a 5 per cent. addition to town lots as assessed. If you desire to be heard let not exceeding five witnesses appear before this Board on April 2nd, 1895. Let your County Assessor be one of the five."

Capt. Billy Hartman says the ferry property matter has not been permanently settled as yet, although something will have to be done soon, as the boat is almost a wreck, and cannot be continued in the service much longer. Should Capt. Hartman gain control of the ferry privileges, he would put in a handsome and serviceable boat and engine at a cost of $4,000 to $5,000.—Lawrenceburg Register.

The following is a list of the pupils on the honor roll of Mrs. F. E. Kirtley's school for last month: Omer Henry, 94 7-16; Donald Gaines, 94; Limam Gaines, 95 4-9; Bert Jones, 93½; Everett Jones, 94½; Bertha Gaines, 94⅔; Beula Gaines, 94½; Sophia Ackemeyer, 95½; Edgar Graves, 94½; Mary Gaines, 93 1-5; Lutie Gaines, 94 10-27; Annie Gaines, 94½; Mabel Kirtley, 93.

R. E. Ryle, son of P. A. Ryle, who lives near Burlington, graduated at the Starling Medical College, Columbus, Ohio, [illegible] since, and has located at New Albany, Ohio, where he will engage in the practice of his profession. The Doctor is a deserving young man, and his numerous friends here wish him abundant success in his professional labors.

It took a jury about four hours to decide a four dollar damage suit in Esq. O. W. Gaines' court last Saturday, and had it not been for the persuasive eloquence of a dashing young bachelor, who was on the jury, it might have been out discussing the merits of the case until now.

Mr. O. T. Porter celebrated the 71st anniversary of his birth, last Friday. A big dinner was prepared for the occasion, and of his old friends and associates, Messrs. H. C. Wingate, B. R. Gaines, Edward Gaines and Jas. Loder were present and enjoyed the feast with him.

The Lawrenceburg, (Ind.) Fair will be held during the third week in August, commencing on the 19th of the month. It is not in the circuit this year, which includes Osgood, North Vernon, Madison, Columbus, Franklin and Shelbyville.—Lawrenceburg Press.

The Locust correspondent of the Carrollton News wrote last week: "Some parties from Harriman, Tenn., passed through here in a covered wagon, one of those snowy, blustering days last week. They were originally from Petersburg, Ky."

Judge Stephens and a committee will go to Frankfort to-morrow to appear before the State Board of Equalization, and endeavor to induce it to be more just in its dealings with Boone in the matter of taxes.

Assessor Brady is not at all pleased with the action of the State Board of Equalization in regard to the lands of this county. He says the average value of land in this county is greater than it was last year.

An exchange says: "To enjoy sausage all that is necessary is faith, hope and charity; faith in the sausage, hope that it isn't your dog, but if it is, charity enough to believe that the man did not know it."

A few days ago a mule kicked William White, of the Hathaway neighborhood, under the left shoulder, disabling him for several days. It was a narrow escape for Mr. White.

The supervisors of roads will be appointed next Monday. There are 48 of these functionaries, and in some districts it is said there will be more than one applicant.

J. M. Lassing attended a called meeting of the Board of Directors of the Bank of Petersburg, last Saturday. He reports the bank in a flourishing condition.

The Aurora Bulletin finished its second year last week. It is a good paper, and appears to be in a prosperous condition.

Esq. Henry Bannister, of Union, was in town Monday, investigating some old titles to property in or near Union.

George W. Hoard, of Beaver, has 1 sow and 6 pigs; also 20 shoats that will average 100 pounds, for sale.

The Burlington base ball club will hold a meeting here next Monday, to complete its organization.

Esq. O. W. Gaines held his regular March term of court, last Saturday. The docket was small.

The Rabbit Hash and Rising Sun packet has received an outfit of new machinery.

Neighborhood News.

Beaver.

No new cases of pneumonia.

Andrew Ellis spent Sunday at home.

G. E. Carroll is confined to his room yet with rheumatism.

Miss Em Ellis has been on the sick list for several days.

C. C. Roberts passed through here, last Saturday, enroute for Big Bone.

Mrs. Mollie Shaw and daughter, of Cincinnati, are visiting Mrs. Amanda Hughes.

Died—Of consumption on Thursday morning, March 26, at her home on Mudlick Creek, Mrs. Thos. Ryan. Her remains were buried in the Catholic Cemetery, known as the Carr grave yard. Quite a concourse of friends attended the funeral.

Hathaway.

Ira Adams had a sale last Saturday at this place.

T. J. Stephens sold to J. L. Huey some very fine locust posts.

Our string band called on Robert Adams and wife last Wednesday night.

Farmers took advantage of the few fine days we had, last week, and did some work.

Miss Lizzie Adams will begin the spring school at Big Bone Hall, the second Monday in April.

The Burlington ground hog did most certainly see his shadow, judging from the bad weather we have had.

Some very nice trees were planted in the church yard at Big Bone, last Thursday. They will furnish fine shade in a few years.

Richwood.

Senator Conner has a very fine lot of lambs.

Samuel Noell, of Beaver, was here last Saturday.

James Delhanty attended the Morris sale near Florence, Monday.

J. H. Ryle, of Burlington, is working with the telegraph company, loading poles on the cars.

Mr. Odenwald and daughter were visiting in Kenton county, Saturday.

Mrs. Clay Baker is very sick at the home of her mother, Mrs. Cleek.

Herbert Basner made a trip to Florence, last Saturday.

The patrons of Miss Lizzie Roberts' school are trying to extend the length of her school term.

Mrs J. H. Hughes was visiting in the city, last week

The farmers are still talking of organizing the Dairy Company at this place. They should not take it out in talk but proceed at once to business. There is no better time to commence than in the spring.

Erlanger.

Rev. Huey had to recall his appointment to preach at the Baptist church, last Sunday morning and evening.

Calvin A. Riggs, of Hulbert Avenue, is the happiest man in town. His wife presented him with a daughter, Thursday morning.

Miss Schuster opened her class in Physical Culture, at the residence of Mrs. O. M. Huey, last Saturday.

The railroad company have commenced fencing in their road. Too many cattle have been killed and they believe it is cheaper to fence than to pay out so much for damages.

The school trustees are complaining about the delinquents who failed to pay their tax. The property owners are endangering the usefulness of the school session of six months by their action.

Good Faith Lodge, No. 95, F. & A. M., had a very good meeting last Saturday evening.

Eld. E. Stephens will hold special services on Saturday and Sunday at his home, in the interest of Bethel Baptist Church. All are cordially invited to attend.

The R. R. Officials are having their conductor and brakemen to take a vote of the commutors to see whether they will be satisfied to have their train stop at Gest street instead of going into the Grand Central depot in the morning and evening, and receive a transfer ticket on the electric car. The company would save about $10 a day by that. A talk with the people show that the commutors are opposed to any thing like the above.

Walton.

March 29.—The Walton Democratic Club met last night at the Opera House. There was only a slim attendance owing to the threatening appearance of the elements. Two new members were added to the list, and Mr. Wm. Taffe, who is a guest of his son-in-law, Dr. Gaines, was made an honorary member. With the view of performing some missionary work and enabling its members to clearly understand the proposition now prominent before the public, fifty copies of a recent pamphlet were ordered which will be disposed of to members at cost. The others will be distributed by a committee where they will do the most good. The club adjourned to meet next Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

The Cincinnati Tribune is very much in earnest about increasing its subscription list. Its agents have the names of all our citizens, who will get it on trial free for thirty days. It is about the best morning paper in the city. The price at which it is published—1 cent, is duly appreciated and it is almost certain to give some of the other dailies circulating a pretty close hunt, as it is published on a better class of paper than any of the others and it is ably edited.

One of the most beautiful and touching demonstrations of affection was exhibited here the other day by a little girl, Katie Grubbs. Gladys, the little daughter of Mrs. Annie Wilson, was taken very sick, and, among other childish cravings, wanted a small doll that she could keep in bed with her—the one she had being too large for that purpose. Every store in town was visited, but not one could be found. Katie had been to see Gladys at the time. She went home and brought her doll—it was just right and the little sufferer was made happy and Katie was as much pleased as was Gladys. Her little cousin, Eva Hull, of Covington, showed also a degree of thoughtfulness beyond her years. Her mother had hastened to the bedside of the sick child, bringing Eva with her, who also insisted on taking all her pictures to cheer and comfort her little cousin. "Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven," and unless you become like these you can not enter into it.

Florence.

All Florence was excited by a shrill shout of fire, last Wednesday afternoon when the house occupied by Charles McKinley was discovered enveloped in smoke and flames The fire was soon extinguished by the time assistance of the large crowd which soon gathered.

Last Sunday was Palm Sunday, and it was celebrated with the usual ceremony at the Catholic church, where palms were distributed to all the faithful

Mr. Ben Bogen has decided to tear down the old brick building on the corner, and construct in its place a new one, which will be a credit to the town.

Irving Kyle has been very busy for the last week chopping wood at the fair grounds.

We are sorry to report Charles Bradford as very sick. Acting upon the advice of his physician, Dr. Dulaney, he has gone to the good Samaritan Hospital, where we hope his health will be completely restored.

Harry Fisk is thinking seriously of purchasing a two-seated vehicle for use this summer.

Miss Bessie Snyder, in the most hospitable style, entertained the Mistletoe Euchre Club, at her home, last Wednesday night. Among those present were Misses Alice Cloud, Ella Coleman Ruy Dulany, Kate Grogan, Jennie Myers, Messrs Irving Kyle, Cecil Finch, Harry Fisk, Ben Dulaney and Chester Souther. A most delicious luncheon was served during the evening.

One of our young gallants spends his Sundays in Covington. May we guess the attraction?

Miss Ethel Conner entertained a number of her friends last Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Finnell Osborn have moved to Union.

Miss Ella Tanner, of Richwood, is visiting Miss Ewings, of Shelby avenue.

James McCourt was the guest of Rev. Father Kolb, last Friday.

Mr. March, of Lexington, is spending a few days with his parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. Swetman are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Porter.

Miss Kate Conner, of Covington, and Miss Bessie Crisler, of Erlanger, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Porter, last Sunday.

Mr A. C. Collins made a flying visit to Florence, Sunday.

Misses Ella Coleman and Jennie Myers spent a very pleasant day in Cincinnati, last Wednesday.

Mr. Hubert Gaines passed through town last Wednesday.

Miss Nannie Oheran has returned home after a pleasant visit with her mother at this place.

Petersburg.

Rain is needed very badly here.

Now is the time to trim grape-vines.

Mrs. Bolen and Mrs. Graves continue quite poorly.

The fair sex turned out Sunday week in their easter array.

Singing at the Christian Church every Sunday afternoon.

Geo. Weindel and Wm. Fenton are devoting their time to lizard training.

Preparations are being made for the erection of Gordon Bros'., new building.

Hubert Walton, that good natured fellow, from Utzinger, was in town one day last week.

The M. E. Sunday-School will have some easter exercises Easter morning at the church.

The Epworth League at Mrs. T. B. Mathew's last Wednesday night, was a grand success.

John Burns is minus mustache and eye-brows caused by touching off a fire that had powder or coal oil in it.

Ed Stott, W. T. Crisler and Charles Cox are all on the limp—caused by coming in contact with their Oklahoma cattle.

J. Frank Grant has returned from a pleasant trip to Chattanooga, Tennessee, where he has been the guest of Attorney E. Y. Chapin.

A trading boat landed here the other day and that night some person or persons gave it a dose of boulders, damaging it to the extent of $3 or $4.

A mistake was made last week in the list of wedding presents. Mr. Hubert Walton gave the stand lamp, and Miss Lou Alden some linen towels and a cushion.

The family and relatives of Phillip Hoffman desires to express their thanks to the people of Petersburg for their kindness in his recent sickness and death.

Hear that our esteemed friend, E. Y. Chapin, of Chattanooga, Tenn., is writing a book,—"Reminiscences of his Childhood days," a copy of which we would be pleased to see. Ed is an old Petersburg boy.

The Frankfort, (Ohio,) papers gave a very interesting account of the Roseboom—Berkshire wedding, and stated that an elegant repast with about 75 guests and a brass band made a most enjoyable evening.

The hull of the new steamer was launched on the 21st ult., and nearly every man, woman and child in town were out to witness the launching. She will be completed by the 15th of this month. Her name will be Pauline.

I was asked, the other day, if I sought notoriety by signing my name to my communications There are other correspondents here, and I sign my name so as to distinguish my contributions from theirs in case they should write anything that might not be pleasing to some.

On Wednesday evening the 8th of April, the women of the Christian Church will give a supper in Stott's Hall, this place. The menu is unusually elaborate, and 25cts is the price. A free entertainment with music will be given in connection with the supper, and the most delicious home-made candies will be on sale. EVERETT.

Lou Terrill brought some fine, budded peach trees to town, Friday. Mr. S. G. Botts thinks the trees makes a better stock not budded, and just as good fruit.

The news of the death of Mr. E. L. Workum in Florida, Wednesday, March 5th, 1896, reached this place that morning about 9 nine o'clock, his death occurring at 4. Although his health had been bad for some time, his friends hoped his southern trip might prove helpful, but not so. For several years his eyesight had failed, and by the constant strain of business, his nerve power gradually weakened until it was impossible, by the very best treatment, to build up the shattered system. Mr. Workum was a very wealthy man. Being a Jew his business talent was not only first-class, but his energy was unexcelled. It has been said of him, that when a person applied to him for work, if he could not furnish him work, if appearing in need he would give him a dollar or two to help him in his search for a place.

The steamer Workum went to Vevay, last Saturday, and did not get back until about 1 o'clock next morning. The storm that night was too much for her.

Several of our boys attended the funeral of Mr. E. L. Workum, in the city, last Friday. They were very much impressed with the burial services of the Jews.

Old Aunt Nancy Smith, of Woolper creek, is quite poorly with pneumonia.

Gunpowder.

Ransom, the son of O. A. Vaughn, who has been sick for some time is improving.

Mr R O. Beemon and family were visiting H. L. Tanner Sunday.

Raleigh and Ada Sebree were visiting at Mr. O. A. Vaughn's Saturday and Sunday.

Uncle Jordon Beemon has been on the sick list for a few days.

Prof. S. J. Orem has commenced his spring school at this place.

Mr. Editor we are glad too see your paper increase in size as it furnishes much more reading.

Charles Macrander took his departure for his new farm near Verona, last Friday. We hope he may succeed in his undertaking.

Mrs. Lucy A. Barlow, who has been very poorly for some time, is recovering slowly.

Taylorsport.

Wendell Miller is building a new residence

Wm. Clore had a woodsawing and a dance, last week.

The drought last summer and the freezing, this winter, have killed many meadows in this section.

Many hogs are dying with cholera in this neighborhood.

James Wilson is on the sick list.

Your scribe attended the public sale of Nickerson Bros., at St. Joseph, opposite here, and everything brought good prices. Horses brought from $26 to over $150. The large crowd was treated to six kegs of beer and several gallons of corn juice. Some of our boys declare that the land over there flows with milk and honey.

Hebron.

Dr. Rouse, of Limaburg, was visiting Geo. Hafer and family Sunday.

Maple molasses making is done with here. Bradford and Gordon made the most—185 gallons.

Grass is beginning to look green

Farmers have commenced plowing.

Miss Etta Graves started to school at Lebanon, Ohio, last Monday.

W. F. Bradford, of Nashville Tenn., has been visiting his parents and friends at this place.

Farrell, the pitcher who did such good work with the Hebron ball team last season, will pitch against the Reds on their return from the south.

Ben Quick gave the young folks a dance on the 23rd.

Constance.

Wm. Herbstrapt has sued the Jones Desicating Co., for $3,000 for injuries resulting from falling in a vat, while at work there 8 months ago.

Mrs. Lutie Sparks, wife of William Sparks, died on the 14th of acute tuberculosis. She was loved and respected by all.

Chicken thieves have been getting in their work here.

Grant Warford, who lived on Mr. John G. Gaines' farm died Tuesday morning at 2 o'clock. He had consumption.

Prices Reduced!

—(o)—

1 gal. 4 year old Bourbon Whisky, reduced from $3.50 at $3.00

1 gal. 2 year old Bourbon Whisky reduced from $2.00 at $1.75

1 gal. 4 year old Rye Whisky at reduced from $3.50. $3.00

At KASTNER'S,
Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

KENTUCKY MIDLAND RAILROAD.
[Via Georgetown.]

P. M.	A.M.			A.M.	P.M
d 5:21	z9:31	Ar Walton	Lv	7:54	z4:48
4:40	8.55	Ar Williamstown	Lv	8:32	5:25
4:17	8.31	Ar Corinth	Lv	8:56	5:47
3:59	8:15	Ar Sadieville	Lv	9:16	6:06
3:33	7:50	Ar Georgetown	Lv	10:07	6:37
1:00	6:55	Lv Frankfort	Ar	11:00	7:30

z Daily. d Except Sunday.

C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.

VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents

Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged,
Money to Loan on Real Estate,
Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
☞All communications addressed to
W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

Miss Helen Merci Schuster

—)o(—

DRAMATIC READER
AND TEACHER OF
Elocution, Physical Culture
and Delsarte,
811 Scott St. - - COVINGTON, KY.

Class for young Ladies and Gentlemen at UNION, KY., every Saturday—10 to 11 a. m. SEND FOR TERMS.☜

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.

All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession. Call at once for work, as I leave Walton April 1st.

Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
—DRUGGIST,—
Rising Sun, - Indiana.

—o—

Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

NO :: LONGER
—AT ERLANGER.—
DR. WALLACE GILLHAM,
—THE DENTIST.—

who has been coming to Erlanger on Tuesdays of each week, has discontinued his office there, but will continue to do

First Class Dental Work of
All kinds at his
COVINGTON - OFFICE.
1421 Madison Ave. (next door to the Children's Home),

He also has all the latest and best facilities for administering

Gas, Vitalized Air, or Local Anæsthetics for Extracting Teeth.

You are refered to the following reliable references of your own community: Dr. C. R. Slater, Dr. C. W. McCullum, Mrs. Cal Riggs, Mrs. Mattie Hoover, Mrs. Rev. M. M. Hiner, Mrs. Rev. O. M. Huey, Mr. Ira Aylor, Erlanger; Miss Sallie Snyder, Miss Sallie Stephens, Florence.

Public Sale!

We will offer for sale at the residence of the late J. H. Walton, deceased, on the East Bend and Burlington road, 2 miles east of Bellevue, Boone County, Ky., on Thursday, April 2nd, 1896,

The following property, towit: 3 Horses, 1 Mule, 2 Colts, 11 two-year-old Calves, 7 Calves, 3 Milch Cows, 3 dry Cows, 1 Bull, 44 Sheep, Sow and 5 pigs, 4 Shoats, an interest in three crops of Tobacco, 7 tons Hay, 150 bus. Corn, 15 bus. Potatoes, 2 Mowing Machines, Sulky Hayrake, Road Wagon, Sled, Buggy, Corn Drill, Haybed, Plows, Harrows, 2 Saddles, 4 sets work Harness, set Buggy Harness, lot of tobacco Sticks, 5 barrels Flour, Meat, Lard, Household and Kitchen Furniture, and many other articles.

TERMS OF SALE:

On all sums over $10 a credit of 9 months will be given, purchaser to give note with approved security, without interest. Sums of $10 and under, cash.

R. L. HUEY,
ERNEST WALTON, Adm'rs.
Sale to begin at 9 a. m.

INSURE AT HOME

The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.

Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.

EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.

J. S. HUEY, President, Grant, Ky.
OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.

Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY,

Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

H. S. STEVENSON.
......DENTIST,......

Anæsthetics used for painless operating. Plates $8 and $10; other work accordingly. Satisfaction guaranteed in all cases.
MAIN OFFICE—South side Main St.
Rising Sun, Indiana.

P. T FALL,
PAINTER AND——PAPERHANGER
Union, Kentucky.
Paper Hanging a Specialty.
Will visit all parts of the Co. with samples. Give me a call.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL.

LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.

Prompt Attention Given to Collections

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW.
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
—o—
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by mail promptly attended to.

G. G. HUGHES. D. E. CASTLEMAN

HUGHES & CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEYS - AT - LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.

Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to them.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)

CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 17,000

—)o(—

Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - - KENTUCKY

CAPITAL PAID IN.................... $50,000
SURPLUS,.................................. $ 2.600

Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

GENERAL
REPAIR SHOP,
At Hathaway, Ky.
WAGONS AND BUGGIES
A Specialty.
Plows and Harrows Made to Order. Satisfaction Guaranteed.
J. M. RICE.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : : : KY.

APRIL—1896.

Sun.	Mon.	Tue.	Wed.	Thur.	Fri.	Sat.
....	....	....	1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30	....	....

CURRENT TOPICS.

THE blue primrose is the latest horticultural freak.

SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN has received $3,500 for a single song.

THACKERAY'S signature to his sketches was a pair of spectacles.

A BATH church fair advertises "living pictures" as an attraction.

ANOTHER cargo of Negroes is being made up in Atlanta for Liberia.

A NEW comic opera, with William Penn as its subject, is threatened.

SO MANY birds and monkeys crowd the telegraph lines of Mexico at night that copper wires are used.

"To be in a brown study" is a corruption of brow study, a study attended by contraction of the brows.

THERE are now $8,000,000 worth of one-cent pieces in circulation, and the call upon the mint is still for more.

THE Bob's Bar oil well, on Little Crab, near Harriman, Tenn., is now flowing 20 barrels per hour, or 480 barrels per day.

THIEVES broke into the Central theater, Bethlehem, Pa., but were put to flight by a band of Indians showing there.

AT Cedar City, Mo., a fragment of rock thrown by a blast in a quarry killed a Negro standing 100 yards away.

IT is reported that the Standard Oil Co. will abandon its Cleveland (O.) offices as headquarters for the incorporation.

CORNELIUS VANDERBILT has just received thirteen cases from Italy containing vases for his summer villa at Newport.

"As dead as a herring" is an expression arising from the fact that herring die very quickly after being taken out of the water.

WILD horses have increased to such an extent in Queensland that the animals are being shot, with a view to reduce the numbers.

POET LAUREATE AUSTIN is said to be so much annoyed at the criticisms passed upon his official verse that he contemplates resigning.

THE family of James B. McTaggart, of Brooks, Me., is a remarkable one, in the fact that the father and seven sons are all railroad men.

THE finest tomb in Great Britain is undoubtedly that of the duke of Hamilton, in the grounds of the duke's seat. It cost over $1,000,000.

A HUGE electric fountain is to be the feature of a big dry goods house now approaching completion in the shopping district of New York.

FROM seven railway passenger stations to two within a decade is apparently to be Boston's notable record in settling the terminal problem.

THE annual report of the superintendent of the Detroit house of correction, just issued, discloses the fact that during 1895 that institution earned $35,000.

CURFEW bells are to be rung in Omaha and Lincoln, Neb., warning children under 15 years to remain in their homes after eight p. m. in winter and nine in summer.

WHILE coughing violently Miss Nellie Wright, of Delhi, N. Y., ejected a tooth from her lungs, and her health, which had been very critical, is improving.

MICHIGAN'S oldest practicing physician is Dr. Wm. Sprague, of Coldwater. He is 99 years old and has practiced in that town more than half a century.

JUDGE SLACK, of San Francisco, has dismissed the suit of the executors against the will of the late ex-Senator Fair and the children have withdrawn their contest.

THE citizens of Louisiana are going to erect a monument in Stonewall cemetery at Winchester, Va., in memory of the confederate dead of Louisiana who are buried there.

THERE is a man 50 years old in the Montgomery county (Pa.) alms-house who boasts that he has never done a day's work in his life and he says he that he never will.

A TORPEDO boat was successfully transferred by rail from St. Petersburg to Sebastopol a little while ago, and a number of others will now be sent in the same way to the Black sea fleet.

THE Higginson brothers have struck it rich in their mine about seven miles up Summit canyon, near Provo, Utah. According to assays, the ore carries 3,600 ounces in silver and $45 in gold to the ton.

AS AN acknowledgment of Queen Victoria's hospitality to his son a few months ago, the Ameer of Afghanistan has just sent her presents valued at 120,000 pounds sterling.

GLADSTONE, when he met President Faure recently, said that the reason he would not spend any time in Paris was because "when one is deaf and sees but imperfectly it is better to stay at home with one's family."

IN England and Wales the number of voters is 2,862,947 in the counties, 2,159,024 in the boroughs and 16,847 in the universities. The total number of voters in the United Kingdom is 6,415,46[illegible] out of a population of 39,118,000.

PACKED IN A BOX.

Body of a Man Found Among a Lot of Unclaimed Freight.

The Box Was Marked to G. M. Morgan, 166 Jefferson Court, Chicago—Two Men Buy the Package at a Sale, and Are Horrified Over Their Bargain.

CHICAGO, March 27.—In a box among a lot of unclaimed freight bought by a man in Austin, Ill., Thursday afternoon, was found a box containing the body of a man packed in chloride of lime and badly decomposed. It was marked to G. M. Morgan, 166 Jefferson Court, Chicago.

Philip Greiss and Carl Hoff, both of Austin, came into the city Thursday and bought a lot of unclaimed freight which was stored in the warehouse of Wakem & McLaughlin, on South Water street. The goods were delivered at the house of Hoff, whose boxes were opened. The first one they opened contained a new trunk. Around it was packed a layer of sawdust. The trunk was opened and inside was found a hermetically sealed box of zinc made to fit the trunk. This being broken open was found to hold the corpse of a man badly decomposed. It had first been doubled up and wrapped with small rope and then packed in tight with chloride of lime. The men were horrified at their find and with Mr. Hoff went to the police station at Austin and reported their experience. A patrol wagon was sent for the body and it was taken to the county morgue. The police are now working on the case, trying to discover where the body came from and why it was so packed. The name of G. M. Morgan does not appear in the Chicago directory.

J. Wallace Wakem, of the firm of Wakem & McLaughlin, was seen late Thursday night in regard to the mysterious box. He immediately knew to what box was referred when he was approached.

"That box," he said, "was stored with us by the Michigan Central railroad a year ago. We put it in the warehouse, and I recall now that bad odors were noticeable around it. We had some barrels of water standing around for use in case of fire and I had the water changed often, thinking it was the standing water which made the offensive smell. Of late it has not been noticed. Two weeks ago, knowing the box was to be sold, we made an effort to find its owner, but no one knew of a G. M. Morgan. The box was put up and sold, and that is all I know about it. Where it came from I do not know."

FIGHT IN COURT.

Three Prisoners Attack a Witness Who Had Testified Against Them.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., March 27.—The dignity of the United States court was ruffled Thursday by a fight which took place between three federal prisoners and a witness while the prisoners, in charge of a marshal, were being taken from the court room.

Chas. Burns, Wm. Petty and Samuel Long were on trial for counterfeiting and "Curley" McBee, an old pal of the gang, testified against them. Attempts have been made at different times to get even with the man who "peached," and this noon the quartette met at the entrance of the courtroom. The alleged counterfeiters were handcuffed and closely guarded but notwithstanding this precaution Burns made a lunge with his free hand which staggered McBee, and, surrounding him, the trio began to beat and kick him. Officers hastened to the rescue and using their guns as cudgels soon had Burns lying insensible on the floor.

All three prisoners are serving penitentiary terms on minor offences and are looked upon as bad men to deal with.

WITHOUT WIRES

Prof. Nicola Tesla Thinks He Can Telegraph—He Will Utilize the Electric Waves.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Nicola Tesla, the well known electrician says that he is satisfied that he has a machine which, when perfected, will enable him to make practical experiments in distributing electric waves about the earth so that messages might be conducted to all parts of the globe simultaneously.

He believes that electric waves might be propagated through the atmosphere and even the ether beyond, a disturbance of the waves at any point being instantly felt at every other point along them. He declared that he believed that the transmission of news about the earth by electric waves in the place of wires was no longer a dream.

Train on the Southern Road Derailed.

EASTMAN, Ga., March 27.—Southbound vestibule train No. 14 of the Southern road was derailed here at four o'clock Thursday morning. The accident was caused by a mail pouch thrown from the train striking the switch, causing it to open and the train to take a siding. All the cars except the last Pullman was derailed. Conductor Edson, Mrs. John Roy, of Chattanooga, and Miss Edith Miller, of Warren, O., were slightly injured.

House Crushed by Falling Walls.

WESTFIELD, Mass., March 27.—The walls of the Masonic block, recently burned, fell in Friday morning at 12:30. A two-story house standing near by was crushed. It is not known whether there was any loss of life.

Reduction in Wages.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 27.—Notice of a reduction in wages were posted in the Merino and Ross cotton mills at Olneyville Thursday, and it is expected that several of the smaller cotton factories in other parts of the state may follow suit. The amount of the reduction has not been decided upon.

The Greater New York Bill.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 27.—Senator Lexow's "greater New York" bill passed the Assembly Thursday afternoon by a vote of ayes 91, noes 56. The measure now goes to Gov. Morton for his approval.

SENSATIONAL CHARGES.

Wholesale Registration Frauds at Chicago Alleged—Registration Books Stolen.

CHICAGO, March 28.—Charges of wholesale registration frauds have been brought against republicans and democrats, notably in the First and Second wards in this city, where lodging house "colonizing" is the alleged method of stuffing the registration lists and in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth wards, the latter being full of cheap lodging houses. The sensational charges have been presented to the election commissioners, the civic federation and the police department. Numerous arrests are expected within 24 hours.

The election commissioners were informed Friday morning that the Eighteenth ward registration books had been stolen from a room at 140 West Madison street. While John Bellair, a republican clerk of election, was engaged with others examining the books with a view to discovering fraudulent padding a gang of lodging house toughs broke into the room, knocked down the men at work and escaped with the official records. Formal charges was made against certain men and warrants were placed in the hands of the chief of police. The alleged frauds in the Second ward are charged to the republican candidate for alderman and in the Eighteenth ward to the democratic candidate.

COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF

Of the Japanese Army, With His Staff, in San Francisco, on Their Way to St. Petersburg.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—The Occidental and Oriental steamship Coptic arrived Friday night from Yokohama, having on board Field Marshal Yamagata, commander-in-chief of the Japanese army, accompanied by his staff. The marquis is en route to St. Petersburg to attend the coronation of the czar.

He was to have sailed on the 8th of March, but a sudden attack of influenza disturbed the arrangements and detained the marquis for a week. There can be little doubt that his excellency will discuss the Corean problem freely in St. Petersburg. Russia is now shaping her policy to placate Japan, and a definite understanding may perhaps be formulated regarding Corea. But it is not likely that anything will be done without England's consent.

The marquis and his suite report having a delightful passage and the entire party are in excellent health. His excellency was greeted by an official deputation of national guard officers representing Gov. Budd, to welcome him to America. To all inquiries from newspaper reporters the marquis' interpreter stated that his excellency would meet them Saturday at his hotel.

THE SOCIAL EVIL.

A Bill to Be Submitted to the New York Legislature by the Law and Order League Regulating It.

NEW YORK, March 28.—The Times Saturday publishes the following: The Law and Order society of the state of New York has drafted a bill for submission to the legislature, providing for licenses for houses of ill repute within certain districts in New York city. The bill provides for license fees ranging from $250 to $500 a year, according to the number of inmates in a house. The keepers of such houses are to be held responsible for losses of money or other valuables. The bill calls these houses "district inns" and it provides for three law and order commissioners at a salary of $5,000 a year, and also for fees to physicians. Keepers of houses not licensed are liable under the bill to a fine of $1,000 or not more than six months imprisonment for the first offense, and $2,000 fine or not more than two years imprisonment for the second offense.

In a circular letter to members of the legislature, the society declares that the recent crusade against houses of ill-repute have resulted in spreading the evil fought against all over the city—in tenements and flat districts—to the great injury of the young.

INDIGNANT DONS.

Public Feeling Against the United States Running High in Spain.

LONDON, March 28.—The Standard Saturday publishes a dispatch from Madrid saying that even the most moderate papers in their issues Friday expressed indignation at the action of the American congress anent the belligerency of the Cuban insurgents, and asked the government to spare no effort to prepare for any development. The action of Capt. Gen. Weyler, in deciding to treat the insurgents as bandits is almost universally approved.

The dispatch adds that public feeling is running so high that the government will find it difficult to control the national exasperation. The papers advocate the granting of autonomy to Cuba and declare they will, with a view to avoiding responsibility, abstain from taking part in the elections for members of the cortes.

Battleship Indiana Docked.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The battleship Indiana was successfully docked at Port Royal, S. C., at seven o'clock Friday morning. The receipt of this news was very welcome to the navy department, inasmuch as statements had been published that the great battleship was land-locked and could not be made available either for war or for peace purposes for a long time to come.

A Gale in the English Channel.

LONDON, March 28.—A heavy gale prevailed in the English channel Thursday night and a large number of fishing boats have taken refuge in the harbors of Deal and Margate in a disabled condition. The Dover, Calais and Ostend steamers are greatly delayed and have been more or less damaged by the heavy seas.

The Report Officially Denied.

LONDON, March 28.—The report published in the Chronicle Friday that Great Britain has purchased Delagoa bay, east Africa, from the Portuguese, is officially denied.

FOUR KILLED

And Two Injured in an Early Morning Fire in New York.

A Fireman Knocked From the Ladder by Flames—A Woman Leaps From the Window and Is Killed—Others Suffocated by Smoke.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Four persons were killed and two injured early Sunday morning in a fire at No. 374 Hudson street. The building is a three-story brick house used for dwelling and store purposes. The upper two floors sheltered four families. The dense smoke deterred some of the tenants from descending the stairways. Miss Margaret Ryan, 60 years old, with a companion, Miss Kate Higgins, ran to a window. A fireman in ascending a ladder to rescue the women was knocked off by a burst of flame shooting from a second story window and was badly injured. The women then became hysterical, Miss Ryan leaping from the window. She fell on the sidewalk, breaking her back and died on the way to a hospital in an ambulance. Her companion fell out of the window and broke her leg. The fireman could not rescue everyone in the building owing to the immense quantities of smoke. After the fire had been extinguished three bodies were found of people who had been suffocated. They were Miss Mary McMahon, 22 years old; Thos. Mallory, 23 years old, a fireman on the steamer St. Louis, and Archibald Grogan, 35 years old. Their bodies were not burned. The damage amounted to $10,000, the building being almost entirely destroyed.

A FORECAST

Of the Business in Congress During the Week—Cuban Resolution and the Civil Appropriation Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—It is expected that consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill will be the first business of the house this week. The radical changes made by the bill will doubtless cause much discussion and several days may be spent over it. The reduction of the appropriation for continuing contract river and harbor work and public buildings in course of construction onto a basis of eight months' operations, on the theory that the remainder of the year can be provided for at the next session of congress, will be attacked by the democratic members of the committee on appropriations. Other provisions not so radical, will also be the subject of criticism, but no serious addition to the total carried in the bill is anticipated. When the sundry civil bill has been gotten out of the way, Mr. Hitt will call up the conference report on the Cuban question which recommends that the house agree to the senate resolutions.

The coming week in the senate will be devoted to the consideration of appropriation bills and routine business. The bill to approve the compromise between the United States and the state of Arkansas, which has been the unfinished business for two weeks, but which has not been passed, will be considered Monday. There appears to be little hope of its passage, and there likewise appears to be a disposition to devote Monday only to its consideration. The post office bill will be laid before the full committee Monday and an effort made to report to the senate during the day. If this is done it will be called up in the senate Tuesday. The Indian and naval bills are before the committee on appropriations and it is believed that the Indian bill will be reported before the week is out, although the house action relative to the appropriation for Indian schools is likely to cause some debate in committee. After the post office bill is disposed of the senate will probably renew the discussion on Mr. Cannon's resolution directing the secretary of the interior to obey the law opening the Uncompaghre reservation to settlement. This, several days ago, was made the unfinished business after the Arkansas matter should be disposed of. The bill to protect fur seals from extermination is demanding attention, and an effort will be made to get it up. The remainder of the week will be probably devoted to consideration of bills on the calendar.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTIONS

Held in Missouri Pass Resolutions Favoring Free Silver.

ST. LOUIS, March 30.—Democratic conventions were held Saturday in five counties of Missouri and each of them passed free silver resolutions. In Madison county the following resolutions were offered in jest, but was taken seriously and passed without dissent:

"Resolved, that we congratulate our worthy chief executive, Hon. Grover Cleveland, upon his newly acquired reputation as a successful duck hunter and that we greatly regret he has not given more time to waging an unsparing war upon the flocks of threatening and dangerous mallard, sprig tails and canvass backs and less time to co-operating with foreign money lenders for increasing the bonded indebtedness of an already overburdened people by additional issues of interest-bearing bonds, payable only in gold."

Died in Her Ninetieth Year.

MILLERSBURG, O., March 30.—Mrs. M. S. Koch, the oldest resident of this place, and mother of John E. Koch, president of the Commercial bank of this city, died Saturday morning in her ninetieth year.

Missing Man Found Under the Ice.

SANDUSKY, O., March 30.—The body of Julius Dickman, a laborer, aged 50, who has been missing several months, was found frozen under the ice in the bay Saturday morning by a fisherman. The body was badly decomposed and barely recognizable. He is supposed to have been drowned while fishing in the early winter. He was married and leaves a family.

The Report Denied.

HAVANA, March 30.—The government denies the rumors of an attack upon and capture of the city of Pinar del Rio by the rebels under Gen. Maceo.

TRADE REVIEW.

Dun & Co.'s Report of the Business of the Country the Past Week.

NEW YORK, March 28.—R. G. Dun & Co., says Saturday in their weekly review of trade:

The returns of failures are somewhat disappointing. Several [illegible] were mentioned a week ago, and they have swelled the aggregate of defaulted liabilities for three weeks of March to $12,383,614, against $11,271,121 last year. A heavy failure in Texas will also swell the aggregate of returns for the past week, which includes 259 in the United States against 234 last year, and 39 in Canada against 42 last year.

No important change has occurred in the general condition of business during the week and if trade, in some respects, looks worse, in other respects it seems better. Some failures of magnitude have occurred, which have caused much apprehension and unwillingness to lend among bankers, and there have been somewhat less favorable features in the dry goods market; but in iron and steel, conditions are slightly improved, and in boots and shoes considerably more hopeful. Foreign trade is a little more satisfactory, exports from New York for three weeks showing an increase over last year of six per cent., while imports have shown nearly the same rate of decrease. In general the course of domestic prices tends to favor the marketing of staples abroad.

Wheat has gained about a point but corn and cotton remain unchanged. Cotton had a lively rise with the covering of short sellers, but began to decline a week ago, and has been lagging ever since. The receipts from plantations continue quite as large as in the same weeks of the last short crop year; and stocks in sight, with the quantities known to be held by European and American mills, make up an ample supply for the rest of the crop year.

In the dry goods market the last indications do not warrant expectations that the mills will continue full production throughout the season. The demand for women's dress goods is the best feature of the woolen markets. The sales of wools have fallen to less than half an ordinary week's full consumption, amounting last week to only 2,926,750 pounds at the chief markets. A striking feature this week has been a sale of 350,000 pounds of American wool for shipment to England.

The iron and steel markets have disclosed a similar feature for a little Alabama pig has been sold for export, though few imagine that much business of that sort is possible. The combination of lake ore producers has at last announced its prices for the coming season. Four dollars for first-class Bessemer; $3.40 to $3.75 for Mesaba and $3 for non-Bessemer ores; and, it is calculated that with coke at $3 per ton Bessemer pig can be produced at about $12.25 at Pittsburgh, which is now the current price there. But the slow marketing of finished products is still the main trouble. There has been a little more activity this week and the Carnegie works have sold 10,000 steel rails to Japan, thus scoring a noteworthy success, but in the main, the market is about as inactive and insufficient as it has been.

The earnings of the railroads have been rather less promising than in previous months, averaging only 3.4 per cent. better than last March thus far and the tonnage from Chicago, which has so long been much in excess of previous years has now fallen short of the movement in 1893. Something is expected in stock exchange circles from important negotiations which Mr. Morgan is endeavoring to make abroad. But on the whole, little is done at present, and little expected for some time to come in the security market.

AT REST.

The Remains of Unfortunate Pearl Bryan Removed From the Vault to the Grave.

GREENCASTLE, Ind., March 28.—The remains of Pearl Bryan were removed from the vault to the Bryan lot in Forest Hill cemetery Friday afternoon. Brief funeral services were conducted by Dr. H. A. Gobin and Rev. Mr. Hollingsworth at the grave. It was intended that the funeral should be a quiet affair, yet a great many sympathizing friends were present to pay their tribute of love and respect to the murdered girl. It was only after long pleading that the aged and broken-hearted father agreed to permit his daughter's body to be buried without the head. "It must be found," was his only reply whenever the subject of burial was mentioned.

The body has been lying the vault several weeks and hundreds of people have gone to the cemetery out of curiosity to look upon the stone receptacle which contains it. The remains were not exposed at the funeral services. They were dressed in the beautiful white dress which Pearl wore when she graduated from the high school.

The burial of the body recalls more vividly than ever the horrible tragedy, and all of Putnam county is again agog over it. Excitement is still almost as high as it was the date the murder was revealed.

Seeking After the Truth.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 28.—A dispatch from Irkutsk, Siberia, says that messengers were dispatched on February 25 and March 10 from Yakutsk to inquire into the truth of the report that Dr. Nansen was returning after having discovered the north pole. These messengers were specially instructed to ascertain, where, when and by whom Dr. Nansen was seen.

Clash Between Louisville Officials.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 28.—It looks like war to the knife now between republican Mayor Todd and the democratic board of safety. The board some time ago announced certain changes it desired, and ordered made. The mayor did not like them, and now proposes an adjustment of the department by which no new men will be needed for the three additional houses to be opened. The mayor says that he knows beans from peas and that there has been too much extravagance. Prices have been out of reason, he says, and promises to reduce them to where they belong.

PROBABLY there is nothing that interests land owners more at this time of year than fencing. They want to secure the very best article they can for the purpose they desire to use it, and at the cheapest price going. While this is good business, price should not take the place of quality. In building a smooth wire fence you do not build it for temporary use but expect it to last for years, and this kind of an article requires a certain amount of good material to make it. The De Kalb Fence Co., of De Kalb, Illinois, has the largest and most complete line of smooth wire fencing of any plant in the country. They desire particularly to call your attention to their goods. Write them for a catalogue, which they will mail you free. No line of goods has grown so rapidly in demand or given such general satisfaction as the fencing manufactured by this company. Their steel web picket fence for lawn and yard purposes; their cabled field and hog fence for farm use; their cabled poultry, garden and rabbit fence are all they claim for them. You will hardly do yourself justice if you do not thoroughly investigate their lines before placing your order.

"YES," said the cornfed philosopher, "it is not so difficult to get something for nothing, but when one gets it it is not worth the price."—Indianapolis Journal.

Home Seekers Excursions.

In order to give everyone an opportunity to see the Western Country and enable the home seekers to secure a home in time to commence work for the season of 1896, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R'y has arranged to run a series of four home seekers excursions to various points in the West, North-West and South-West on the following dates: March 10, April 7 and 21 and May 5, at the low rate of two dollars more than ONE FARE for the round trip. Tickets will be good for return on any Tuesday or Friday within twenty-one days from date of sale. For rates, time of trains and further details apply to any coupon ticket agent in the East or South, or address GEO. H. HEAFFORD, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Chicago, Ill.

IF little labor, little are our gains; man's fortunes are according to his pains.—Herrick.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The "North-Western Limited," sumptuously equipped with buffet, smoking and library cars, regular and compartment sleeping cars, and luxurious dining cars, leaves Chicago via the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western R'y) at 6:30 p. m. daily, and arrives at destination early the following morning. All principal ticket agents sell tickets via this popular route.

A DOLLAR saved is a dollar somebody else will probably spend.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

All About Western Farm Lands.

The "Corn Belt" is the name of an illustrated monthly newspaper published by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy R. R. It aims to give information in an interesting way about the farm lands of the west. Send 25 cents in postage stamps to the Corn Belt, 209 Adams St., Chicago, and the paper will be sent to your address for one year.

MALICE and hatred are very fretting, and apt to make our minds sore and uneasy.—Tillotson.

FITS stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free. Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

"WHO was the first to discover that the earth went round?" "Noah—in the vineyard."—N. Y. Times.

BARE walls make a gadding housewife.—Fielding.

Mothers

Anxiously watch declining health of their daughters. So many are cut off by consumption in early years that there is real cause for anxiety. In the early stages, when not beyond the reach of medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla will restore the quality and quantity of the blood and thus give good health. Read the following letter:

"It is but just to write about my daughter Cora, aged 19. She was completely run down, declining, had that tired feeling, and friends said she would not live over three months. She had a bad and nothing seemed to do her any good. I happened to read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and had her give it a trial. From the very first dose she began to get better. After taking a few bottles she was completely cured and her health has been the best ever since." MRS. ADDIE PECK, 12 Railroad Place, Amsterdam N. Y.

Cough

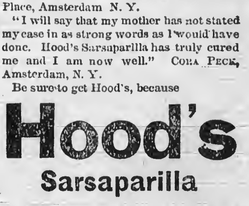
"I will say that my mother has not stated my case in as strong words as I would have done. Hood's Sarsaparilla has truly cured me and I am now well." CORA PECK, Amsterdam, N. Y.

Be sure to get Hood's, because

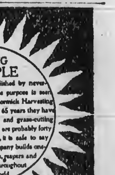
Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, reliable and beneficial. 25c.



A SHINING EXAMPLE of what may be accomplished by never-varying devotion to a single purpose is seen in the history of the McCormick Harvesting Machine Co., Chicago. For 65 years they have simply been building grain and grass-cutting machinery, and while there are probably forty manufacturers in this line, it is safe to say that the McCormick Company builds one-third of all the binders, reapers and mowers used throughout the entire world.



DIRECTIONS for using CREAM BALM.—Apply a particle of the Balm directly into the nostrils. After a moment draw strong breath through the nose. Use three times a day, after meals preferred, and before retiring.

CATARRH

ELY'S CREAM BALM Opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Protects the Membrane from colds, Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. The Balm is quickly absorbed and gives relief at once.

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Druggists or by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

OPIUM and WHISKY habits cured. Book sent FREE. Dr. B. M. WOOLLEY, ATLANTA, GA.

NAME THIS PAPER every time you write.

AN AGREEMENT.

The Conferees End Their Task on the Cuban Resolutions.

The Action Shuts Off All Further Debate in the Senate—The House, It Is Thought, Will Agree to the Report Without Further Delay.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The conferees on the Cuban resolutions after a short session Thursday afternoon agreed to the resolutions as they originally passed the senate. This shuts off all further debate in the senate. The house, it is believed, will agree to the report without delay. In the form, as thus agreed to, the resolutions are as follows:

"Resolved, By the senate (the house of representatives concurring therein) that in the opinion of congress, a condition of public war exists between the government of Spain and the government proclaimed and for some time maintained by force of arms by the people of Cuba; and that the United States of America should maintain a strict nutrality between the contending powers, according to each all the rights of belligerents in the ports and territory of the United States.

"Resolved, further, that the friendly offices of the United States should be offered by the president to the Spanish government for the recognition of the independence of Cuba."

The action of the five conferees was unanimous. Senator Lodge, of Massachutsetts, the sixth member of the committee was absent. Mr. Hitt, the chairman of the house foreign affairs committee, will, at the first opportunity, call up the conference report and ask its consideration. It will probably be follow by some debate, but it is not doubted that it will be adopted.

CONVENTION HALL.

Work on the Building at St. Louis Being Rapidly Pushed to Completion.

ST. LOUIS, March 27.—Work on the republican national convention building is being rapidly pushed forward and the iron girders and truss supporters for the roof are completed. It is expected that the building will be finished by June 1. The seating capacity will be so arranged that over 8,000 spectators and all the delegates will have an unobstructed view of the chairman's desk. Postmaster Carlisle has arranged for a sub-postal station with carriers, and parties attending the convention can have mail addressed to the convention hall with assurances of prompt delivery. The plans provide seats and tables for 408 newspaper reporters. D. M. Houser, of the Globe-Democrat, is chairman of the press committee. In a few days a secretary will be chosen by the press committee, and his name and address will be published through the press associations.

SIGNIFICANT REMARK.

Gen. Harrison Would Accept the Nomination If Tendered Him.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 27.—One of Gen. Harrison's most influential worshipers among the Indiana politicians was authority Thursday for a statement of much significance just now in the political world. Anent Harrison's being a receptive candidate, he said that a letter had been written to the general recently by leading republicans of Indiana asking him if he would accept in case the St. Louis convention nominated him. In reply to this letter Gen. Harrison is said to have remarked that "being drafted and volunteering are two different matters." The inference is that he would accept the nomination.

FAVORABLY REPORTED.

The Bill to Establish a Commission on Labor, Agriculture and Capital.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—A bill was favorably reported to the senate Thursday from the committee on education and labor to establish a commission on labor, agriculture and capital for the purpose of investigating those questions and recommending such legislation to congress as is necessary. The board is to consists of 15 members. Those representing labor are to be selected by the president upon the recommendation of labor organizations; those representing agriculture, three from the farmers' alliance and two from the national grange; those representing capital from various manufacturing industries.

England Purchases Delagoa Bay.

LONDON, March 27.—The Chronicle Friday publishes, under reserve, a report that Great Britain has purchased Delagoa bay, East Africa, from the Portuguese. The price paid, according to the report was 5,000,000 pounds. The purchase includes the whole country between the South African republic and the South Indian ocean, from Amatongaland to the Limpopo river, as far as the territory of the British South Africa Co.

New Mexico Bonds.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The house territories committee Thursday ordered a favorable report on the bill permitting New Mexico to issue bonds amounting to $155,000 for internal improvements, with the senate amendment validating the $172,000 worth of Brice bonds, together with an additional amendment validating the $359,000 Coles bonds, refunding the latter at four per cent. per annum.

Ben. Franklin's Will Probated.

BOSTON, March 27.—The will of Benj. Franklin was allowed in the Suffolk county probate court Thursday by Judge Grant, on petition of Mayor Quincy as a foreign will, having been probated about a century ago, in the orphan's court in Philadelphia. The probate of the will here is deemed necessary in view of a legal disposition of the "Franklin fund," which was created by the will of Franklin and now amounts to several hundred thousand dollars. There was no opposition to the probate and it was admitted upon the credit of the certificate of the recorder of the orphans' court.

WORK OF A FIEND.

Two Killed and Three Fatally Injured by an Unknown Man.

The Murdered Couple Were Members of the Wealthiest Families in Northeastern Ohio—Robbery Not the Object—Suspicion Rests on a Neighbor.

CLEVELAND, O., March 30.—At one o'clock Sunday morning the most fiendish deed that has ever claimed entrance to the criminal history of Ohio, was perpetrated near Tallmadge, a village five miles north of Akron.

Alvin Stone, aged 69, and his wife, aged 62, while asleep at their home were brutally murdered by a fiend, who literally beat their heads to pieces, after which numerous knife thrusts were made into the bodies of the dead. Two daughters, Hattie, aged 29, Emma, aged 27, and the family servant, A. F. Stillson, were also attacked. All three of these are fatally injured and are unconscious and bleeding at the home awaiting death. They had been beaten about the head with a blunt instrument which of itself must have been large and of great weight.

Alvin Stone and his wife were members of the wealthiest and most prominent families in Northeastern Ohio. The object of the murderous assault was not robbery as numerous articles of value, including the two gold watches of the aged couple, which were on the bedroom dresser, were not taken. The crime is shrouded in mystery and the whole county is agitated. The only suspicion as yet rests on one John Smith, who is employed at Woodward Parker's blacksmith shop, one-eighth of a mile from the Stone homestead on the Kent road. Smith was discharged by Alvin Stone two weeks ago. The former was a chores man about the place. The two men had words and Smith departed in great anger. He is now under police surveillance.

One member of the family alone escaped injury, a daughter, aged 16. She is laboring under intense excitement, but was able, between tears and hysterical sobs, to tell what she knew of the affair. The old folks, she said, occupied a chamber on the lower floor. Hattie and Flora slept upstairs, Emma across the hall and the hired man at the rear end of the hallway on the same floor. At about 1 o'clock Sunday morning, Flora heard an agonizing scream from Emma. She jumped from bed, and, opening the door started to cross the hall. Hattie followed her. Flora turning before she entered Emma's room, the door of which was open, saw a masked man strike Hattie over the head with what looked like a crowbar. Hattie, with a groan, fell senseless to the floor, while Flora in terror ran back to her room and hid under the bed clothes. Hattie, who is a woman of remarkable vitality, despite her frightful injury, arose and going into Flora's room asked her to throw something over her head. Flora was too frightened to move. Hattie left her room and entering that of her sister, noticed the window was open and that a ladder reached up to it from the ground. She wrapped a quilt around her and went down the ladder, running to Charles Sackett's farm, a quarter of a mile away, where she told her story and collapsed. Two of the Sackett's hurried to the Stone house, while another summoned a physician. When they arrived the house was pitch dark. The side door was open. Entering the room occupied by the old folks they were confronted by the two horribly mutilated bodies of the father and mother. Emma was found unconscious on the floor of her bed room. She had been struck a fearful blow over the forehead and still lies as one dead. The hired man was found in his room in the same condition. He had also been struck over the forehead. Flora was found under under the bed clothes in speechless fright. In a few minutes the whole neighborhood for miles around was aroused and hundreds assembled about the Stone homestead. The scene was terribly impressive. The rage of those who for so many years had lived with and loved the amiable, honest Stone family knew no bounds. The Akron police department was notified and Detective Dunn, Marshal Mason, Sheriff Griffin and First Deputy Hart hurried to the scene. They arrived at 9 o'clock. They found what appeared to be tracks of a man leaving the side door, which was open, and ending at the road. The rain, which had steadily poured all night, had, however, obliterated the tracks along the road. Bloodhounds were put into service, but they could do nothing, owing to the rain. The impression seems that Smith is not the right man and committees are organizing to scour the country in every direction. From all the indications of those who are starting to hunt down the murderer it is idle to attempt a forecast of what will happen if he is caught. There is but one fate in store for him if he fell into the hands of the citizens who are looking for him, aided by the bloodhounds.

Sunday evening a strong clew looks toward Ravenna, where a strange horse and buggy was left by an unknown man, who acted very suspiciously.

Shanklin Out of the Race.

GREENSBURG, Ind., March 30.—President Clark, of the Indiana Silver league, received a letter from the honorable John Gil Shanklin, of Evansville, withdrawing from the democratic gubernatorial race.

A Type Setting Contest.

ST. LOUIS, March 30.—Advanced figures were set here Sunday for rapid composition on linotype machines. Barney Mensing, of the Post Dispatch, and Robert W. Francis, of the Globe Democrat, competed for seven hours for the championship and $200 a side. Mensing's total was 74,100 ems and that of Francis 65,800 ems. These totals are net, as all corrections were deducted. Mensing's total would have been larger, but for an error by the timer, who called him off ten minutes before the seven hours were completed. Their proofs were good, those of Mensing especially so.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS

First Session.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—SENATE—The Cuban resolutions took the course Monday in the senate to which the current of debate has been drifting for some time past. That is, the conference report was, on motion of Mr. Sherman himself, disagreed to, and the senate insisted on its agreement to the house substitute for the senate resolutions, and asked for a further conference. The same conferees on the part of the senate were appointed, Senators Sherman, Morgan and Lodge. The legislative, executive and judicial bill was taken up and considered for upward of two hours. Some 30 out of the 135 pages being disposed of, the senate, at 5:30 o'clock, adjourned until Tuesday.

HOUSE—Monday's session of the house was, under the rules, given up to District of Columbia business, but the district calendar was soon cleared, and the remainder of the session was spent in consideration of a bill to modify the existing law regarding the punishment of crimes committed under federal jurisdiction, involving the death penalty, so as to allow a sentence to prison for life.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—SENATE—Senator Peffer introduced a bill to amend the interstate commerce law so as to authorize the inter-state commerce commission to proceed summarily by petition through the courts against any railroad company which may refuse to obey any requirements of the commission in regard to rates or charges on agricultural products and other freights, and requiring the courts to give the precedence to such cases over others on their dockets. The resolution offered by Roger Q. Mills, of Texas, providing for the forcible occupation of Cuba in case Spain refused to recognize the island's independence, came up in the senate. Mr. Mills spoke in support of his measure, and was unsparing in his arraignment of Gen. Weyler as "an atrocious scoundrel and villain."

HOUSE—Representative Hepburn (Ia.) Tuesday introduced a bill providing for a commission of five engineers to report upon the best practical route for a ship canal 28 feet deep, connecting the great lakes with the Atlantic ocean. Forty thousand dollars is appropriated for the expenses of the commission. A bill was passed by the house to make the sale of spiritous liquors under a false brand punishable by a fine and imprisonment. The senate bill to relieve ex-confederates from the statutory disability not allowing them entrance to the army and navy of the United States passed the house Tuesday by an almost unanimous vote.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—SENATE—Senator Platt (rep., Ct.) offered a resolution Wednesday providing for the final adjournment of congress next May 2 at two o'clock p. m. Without comment the resolution was referred to the committee on appropriations, and the senate turned to the consideration of the legislative apportionment bill. The question of reforming the fee system of United States district attorneys and marshals occasioned much debate. Mr. Hoar opposed the change from fees to salaries by means of an appropriation bill, as it was a large subject, needing separate treatment. Mr. Sherman presented a favorable report on the resolution authorizing ex-President Benjamin Harrison to accept decorations confered on him by Brazil and Spain while he was president. Mr. Sherman asked immediate action. Allen (pop., Neb.) prevented action by objecting.

HOUSE—The house Wednesday took up the naval appropriation bill and, despite several diverting incidents, made such rapid progress with it that when the adjournment was reached all the paragraphs had been passed save those relating to the increase of the navy. The bill carries $31,611,034, $2,463,438 more than the current law, and authorizes four new battleships and 15 torpedo boats, the cost of which complete will be almost $35,000,000. Not a single amendment was adopted, although there was an effort to provide for a new dry dock at the League Island yards. Bills introduced: To grant an honorable discharge to Thomas Cox, late of Company F, First Ohio volunteers; to pension Dorothy J. Edgar, widow of William D. Edgar, $30 per month; to pension Sarah J. Richardson, widow George Richardson, $12 per month, and $2 per month for Wm. L. Richardson until 16 years of age.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—SENATE—None of the matters that came before the senate Thursday was of much public interest or importance. One-third of the time was consumed over a joint resolution appointing a successor to Gen. Casey in the matter of the construction of the new library building in Washington; nearly as much time on an amendment to the legislative appropriation bill allowing a third clerk to the senate committee of pensions, and all the rest of the time on a motion made by Mr. Sherman, of Ohio. Without disposing of Mr. Sherman's motion the bill was laid aside, Mr. Cullom, who is in charge of it, giving notice that he would try to have a final vote on it Friday. A bill for the admission of Arizona as a state was reported from the committee on territories and placed on the calendar. The senate then, at 5:20, adjourned until Friday.

HOUSE—The house spent most of Thursday's session in discussing, in committee of the whole, the motion offered by Mr. Hanley (rep., Ind.), member of the committee on naval affairs, to amend the naval appropriation bill for the year ending June 30, 1897, by providing for the construction of six battle ships, instead of four, as recommended by the committee. The motion was lost by a vote of 32 to 34. Without further amendment the bill was reported to the house and passed as recommend by the committee, the first appropriation bill of the session to pass unscathed through the house. Among the morning miscellaneous business transacted was the passage of two or three private bills; the presentation of a concurrent resolution by Mr. Heatwole (rep., Minn.), authorizing the appointment by the president of a banking and currency commission, to consist of nine citizens, to act with the controller of the currency.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—SENATE—The senate committee on public buildings and grounds Friday voted to recommend the passage of the bill appropriating $2,000,000 for a new public building at Indianapolis. Senator Morrill, of Vermont, presented a favorable report on the bill proposing the purchase of a square opposite the east front of the capital adjacent to the new congressional library, for a supreme court building. The legislative appropriation bill passed the senate after occupying the attention of that body every day during the present week. It appropriates, in round numbers, $25,500,000. The senate at 4:50, proceeded to the consideration of executive business, and soon afterward adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE—The following bills were introduced in the house Friday: To pay to the trustees of the M. E. church, of Webster, W. Va., $720 for damage by Federal troops during the war; to pension John M. Laughlin, $30 per month. The house committee on the judiciary ordered a favorable report on Delegate Murphy's bill to allow appeals from the supreme courts of territories to circuit courts of appeals in capital and in famous cases. Mr. Broderick, of Kansas, has presented in the house a resolution directing the superintendent of documents to receive subscriptions for the medical and surgical history of the late war, and for the index catalogue of the surgeon general's office, at the estimated cost of reproducing these volumes from the stereotyped plates. Adjourned until Monday.

Think They Have a Clew.

CHICAGO, March 30.—The police now believe they have a clew to the identification of the body found in the trunk in Wakem & McLaughlin's bonded warehouse Thursday. They believe the body to be that of James Prosper Chazzell, who disappeared from Salt Lake, Utah, in February, 1893.

Ex-Gov. Seay Critically Ill.

GREENSBORO, Ala., March 30.—Ex-Gov. Thos. Seay is in a very critical condition. He is unconscious and death is likely to occur at any moment. He has been suffering from grip for some time.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

Chaotic State of Affairs in the Republican Ranks.

The republican leaders have assumed, ever since the result of the election of 1894 was declared, that their party's success in the presidential election was assured. They have counted on retaining the enormous vote which was then cast for their candidates for congress, and which elected a republican majority of 112 in a total of 356 in the national house of representatives. It is strange that such fatuity should possess the minds of men who have passed their lives in the active practice of American politics, and the phenomenon cannot be accounted for on any other theory than that politicians in this country are not intelligent observers of current events, and do not remember those facts of recent history that are most important to them. If the republican party were governed by that high degree of acumen that characterizes the American in his daily business, the leaders would recall the significant fact that in 1892 it was the democratic party that obtained a vast majority of the votes of the people of the United States, and that a change in 1896 from republican to democratic ascendancy would not be more startling than was the change of 1894. Moreover, they would remember also that the people punished the democrats in 1894 quite as much for what they did not do as for what they did, and that the failure of the democratic majority in congress to enact sound tariff and sound currency legislation was its most grievous sin in the eyes of honest people who are insisting with growing determination and passion on voting for the welfare of the country and against the mere interests of party politicians. Surely, if ever a victorious party should have understood that its retention of power depends on its accomplishment of some good to the country, it was the republican party after its great victory of 1894.

Notwithstanding the fact that the way to success lay clearly through a vigorous sound-money policy in legislation, and by an overturning of the the country. The weakness and vice of the republican situation are intensified by these two cunning masters of trade who are, between them, carrying around 136 votes to sell in the convention for promises of patronage, perhaps for cabinet places. A boss-ruled party with silent candidates, who are afraid to state their positions on the vital questions of the day, who hope to see their own party win by the momentum obtained two years ago, or who are willing, at least to divert public attention from these questions by barbarous jingo outcries—this is the situation in the republican party to-day.—Harper's Weekly.

IOWA'S PNEUMATIC SON.

The Raging Cyclone of Borrowed Balderdash.

Daily our country gives evidence of being the greatest of the great. It excels in all things. Its resources are limitless, industry is mighty, energy herculean, and there is wind enough to supply every spellbinder and lung statesman in all the broad and lengthy land. We are, indeed, a fortunate people, and wisdom will doubtless die with us.

It is Hon. Bob Cousins who brings these lofty sentiments to the brain surface—Bob Cousins, the choicest product of any age and exotic bud of Iowaland. In a mighty rush of wind to the mouth Bob thrilled the congressional debating society recently, and awakened the echoes of the immortal great in the tombs of the big past. Centuries gone cocked their ears to hear the cyclone rush up through Bob's esophagus and escape through his Cupid-bow lips. The present sat paralyzed in the majesty of the mighty disturbance, and the future crowded into the [illegible].

Bob's pneumatic nature was set in motion by the Ambassador Bayard censure resolution, the only thing co-existent with force and matter, and, being indestructible, incapable of end. With the soft purr of an oriental zephyr Bob began; into the hurricane-stage he leaped and then roared like the awful typhoon of the mikado seas. It was a grand, Iowa-like demonstration of the power of wind over congressional matter. But listen to the rumblings of the approaching storm:

"I look at that great array of buildings," says Bob, of Iowaland, with his mind's eye bolted to the past world's fair, "in which Caesar might have gloried, and in the contemplation of which Phidias and Angelo might muse, seeming more like the growth of centuries than of a single year."

But Bob missed the best part of the fair if he spent his time in looking at the great array of buildings. Up the Midway his poetic soul would have found delight and his lungs worthy peers. "There's nothing dead in Lapland" would have warned him of another later-day Demosthenes who would debate the Bayard resolution. "The only living ostriches in America" would have caused him to look well to his laurels and the "Hot-Hot-Hot" peroration would have shown him that the woods are full of embryo statesmen.

In going to Rome and Greece Bob's pneumatic burst shows signs of a lull. Why plug dead Caesar's game when Iowaland has a living Allison and a pulsating Boies? Phidias could cut marble, but could he shuck corn? Mike Angelo could design a St. Peter's, but could he carry the solid Iowa delegates into the delegation? Nero could fiddle, but could he lead the Buchanan county Boies brass band? Greece had her Socrates, Pericles and Plato, but she was barren of Bob Cousins. Did Rome ever pull off a corn palace, with half fares from distant points? Did Greece, with her olympian contests, ever have a husking bee? Rome and Greece, with their Horaces and Pindars, Sophocles and Aristophanes, Ciceros and Demosthenes, never had and never will have a Bob Guff Cousins, Delphic oracle, Doric orator and grand momentum of atmospheric disturbances.—Chicago News (Ind.).

——The speaker or newspaper asserting that the decline in government revenues came in with the Wilson bill perverts plain facts. When the McKinley bill was passed the surplus in the treasury was $105,000,000; after it had been a year in operation the surplus was $37,000,000; at the end of the second year it was $2,000,000, and after the end of the third year the deficit was $80,000,000. These are the figures given by so leading a republican authority as Senator Sherman.—Des Moines Leader.

——It is believed that $500,000 will not cover the visible expenses incurred by McKinleyites at St. Louis. A vast amount of fat must have been fried out to defray the enormous expense of the McKinley campaign. If it costs a great sum to nominate him what will it cost to elect him?—Chicago Chronicle.

TARIFF'S ULTIMATUM.

MONOPOLY TO BAYARD—You may think but you must not talk.

MONOPOLY TO BOBBIE COUSINS—You may talk but you must not think.

—Chicago Chronicle.

"bosses," the republican party has done absolutely nothing for the relief of the financial interests of the country or against the rule of the "bosses." There is not a candidate for the republican nomination who dare offend the free coinage men by declaring himself in favor of the single gold standard. There is not one who dare denounce the rule of Platt in New York, or of Quay in Pennsylvania. There is not one who will admit, in public, that McKinleyism is dead. The other day in the senate, when Mr. Carter, of Montana, chairman of the republican national committee, declared that he and his friends, and not the eastern senators, were the real republicans, because he and his were silver men, Senator Hoar could not assure him too quickly, with a qualification, that he, the representative of enlightened Massachusetts, was as enamored of silver as were the senators from the new northwestern states. It is true that the silver men have shown a disposition to cut loose from the republican party because its most prominent "sound money" men continue to try to deceive them with platitudes about "international bimetallism," but if Carter, Dubois, Teller, Wolcott and their followers really go, it will not be because they are driven forth by the party's assertions of honest-money sentiments. They will go in spite of the party's pleadings to them to remain.

The great republican majority in the house of representatives has refused to come to the relief of the treasury. Speaker Reed used to boast of the fact that he made the Fifty-first congress a business congress. He is making this congress idle and cowardly. He dare not speak his mind on any question before the country; but he is responsible, notwithstanding his silence, for the failure of the house to pass a gold bond bill. He is courting the silver men. McKinley is speechless, but we know that he represents a tariff policy that the country has repudiated, and that he championed the Sherman act because it would enable the silver mine owners of the country to sell their whole product to the government at more than its market price. Allison, too, is speechless; but we know him to be the author of the silver-purchasing scheme, which, under the name of Bland, who did not deserve that particular dishonor, filled the treasury vaults with silver dollars. Both he and McKinley are now presented as candidates by the republicans of their respective states with the assurance that they are bimetallists. If Gov. Morton were a serious candidate it might be frankly admitted that he would be for sound money if he were elected president. But he is not a serious candidate. Platt is fooling him, though he is not fooling

HUMOROUS.

—He—"That's a very extravagant book you have got." She—"Yes, she seems to think we have victuals to burn."—Yonkers Statesman.

—After Marriage.—She—"I thought you told me your salary was $50 a week?" He—"Oh, no; I said I earned 50, but I only get ten."—Yale Record.

—Absent-minded Party—"Why, how do you do, Barker? How's your wife?" Barker—"My wife? Why, my dear doctor, I never married." Absent-minded Party—"Really! Congratulate her for me."—Harper's Bazar.

—Judge—"Are you aware of any mitigating circumstances in your case?" Criminal—"Yes, your honor, this is the 50th time I have been arrested for vagrancy, and I thought that perhaps we might get up a little jubilee."—Household Words.

—A Good Idea.—"If you could have your choice of names which one would you choose?" "Either Smith or Jones." "Why such a common one?" "So my country relations couldn't find me so easily in the city directory."—Detroit Free Press.

—A Matter of Language.—"John," she said, rather sternly, "the coal-bin is empty." "Yes," was the disconsolate reply, "it's that way most of the time. It's never of use in an immediate emergency. I'm going to change its name and call it a coal-has-been."—Washington Star.

—Green (to Black, who is preparing for a continental trip)—"How do you get on with your language, old fellow?" Black—"Capitally. Why, I've got so far now that I can think in French." Green—"Well, that's a blessing, for it's more than you could ever do in English."—Tit-Bits.

—An Unpardonable Sin.—Banns—"You didn't know that I was once engaged to marry your wife, did you?" Danns—"No; what broke off the engagement?" "I did." "Did, eh? (Smashes him, and pounds him within an inch of his life). There, now; if you ever play a trick like that on me again I'll kill you the next time."—N. Y. World.

—They were seated in the parlor conversing on the uncertainty of life. She—"The future is a vast, unfathomable mystery to us, isn't it?" He—"Yes; all we know is that we have to go some time." Voice from the library—"It would suit the covenience of this household if you'd make it a little sooner than that."—Richmond Dispatch.

WHERE WOMAN ESCAPES.

Female Criminals Are Leniently Dealt with in Austria.

In Austria a woman is never a criminal. She may murder, steal, burn and slander without fear of coming to the gallows. She is not sent to an ordinary prison for her sins, the worst that can befall her being the taking up of her abode for a time in some convent.

The convent to which Vienna sends her erring sisters is only a few miles out of town. The building was once a castle and there is nothing about it to indicate that it is a prison. The court yard stands open all day long and there is never a guard in sight. The doorkeeper is a pretty little nun whom a good-sized criminal could pick up under one arm. The superior is a tall, graceful woman who moves with the dignity of a gentlewoman, but who is business to her finger tips.

During the day the 50 or more women prisoners assemble in a large, cheerful room where they engage in various occupations. Some make match boxes or buttons; others make fine lace, embroidery or wool work. A nun with a strong, decided face is the present censor of manners and morals. She sits in the room on a raised platform to guard against the frequent outbursts of temper which disturb the serenity of the day occasionally.

The women there at present, says a writer, are so kindly and gentle in appearance and differ so completely from one's preconceived notion of criminals that it is hard to believe them to be hardened characters. An insignificant little woman with a gentle, deprecating smile is in the convent because she has committed more murders than she has fingers on her hands. There is no place else to put her.

One of the prisoners is a delicate blonde girl with heavenly blue eyes and an enchanting smile. She set a house on fire with the hope of killing a man and his five children. This was accidentally referred to in her hearing one day, and if there had been a knife handy there is no doubt she would have killed the inspector who made the remark. An expression of ferocity unendurable to look upon came to her lovely face and transfigured it into something horrible.—Chicago News.

The Usual Way.

"He passed a plugged quarter on me," growled the honest citizen.

"Rather small business," commented the reputable tradesman.

"Small!" exclaimed the honest citizen. "It's worse. The man who will deliberately pass mutilated coin is too contemptible to live."

"That's right," replied the reputable tradesman. "However, there is no need to worry over it. If you want to get rid of it, give it to me. I have a dozen chances a day to dispose of bad coin."

"Oh, I haven't it now. I passed it on a newsboy."—Chicago Post.

After the Manner of Poets.

"What is that queer splotch on the face of the earth?" asked Apollo.

"That?" replied Pegasus, looking down over his shoulder at the remains of the would-be poet. That is a little thing I tossed off a short time ago in a moment of inspiration."—Indianapolis Journal.

A Sure Thing.

Grimshaw—Here is a safe wager.

Askins—What is it?

Grimshaw—Bet all you are worth that not a man on the street can tell what kind of a hat that pretty bloomer girl, who just passed, had on.—Puck.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, April 1, 1896.

Advertising Rates:

One inch, one time....................$1.00
Each additional time.....................25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50
Announcement of candidates for office, cash when ordered........$5.00.

W. L. RIDDELL. - - Publisher.

Notice is hereby given that their will be a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of Boone County, at 2 o'clock, p. m., on the 1st Monday in April, 1896. This meeting is called for the purpose of determining whether or not a primary for the nomination of Democratic candidates for county offices, shall be held on the day of the Presidential election in November, 1896.

D. E. CASTLEMAN Chairman.
B. L. Rice, Secretary.

THE "straddle-bugs" dictated the Ohio platform, say the downeasters.

THE new administration will put on ten new guards at the penitentiary to-day

IT seems that Speaker Reed is about to lose control of his team of colts in the House. He will have to discipline the boys.

AUSTIN GALLAHER, of Wilkins, who is ninety years old, claims that was a playmate of Abraham Lincoln, and that he saved Lincoln's life.

THE Compulsory Educational bill became a law without the Governor's signature. The Thorn bill was signed by him at the last moment.

THE two banks in Falmouth consolidated to-day. The new bank is expected to cover the fields of both the old banks and at much less expense.

SPEAKER REED, has long since, proven himself a good counter, but it begins to look as though he will not be able to count himself in at St. Louis.

CONGRESSMAN OWENS pleaded his own case before the Election Committee. His argument made his would-be successor nervous and put him out of his usual good temper.

GOV. BRADLEY's presidential boom is getting badly crippled here in Kentucky, but it will not suffer in anyother State—it has not become acquainted outside of Kentucky nor never will.

AT one time it was thought that Gov. Bradley would be instructed for for the Presidency by the Kentucky Republicans, but it is now evident that if he gets the instructions it will be by a small margin.

THE Texas Republicans had a red hot convention, last Thursday. A contesting delegation will go to St. Louis from the Lone Star State. It seems to be quite the fad in the southern States to organize contesting delegations.

GOV. BRADLEY's speech at Charleston, W. Va., was anything but an indorsement of the financial plank in the Ohio Republican platform. He wants a platform that declares in favor of a gold standard and against free coinage of silver.

THE Western Argus says that the clerks of both branches of the legislature were leaving Frankfort for their homes, when Gov. Bradley signed the bill allowing them pay for fifteen days extra service to finish the work of the session.

A FEW weeks since Col. Owens made a gold speech in Congress, and last week he presented a bill providing for the free coinage of silver. Col. Owens is a candidate for re-election, and it is charged that he is hedging on the money question.

THE Ohio straddle on the money question don't go with the Republicans in the eastern States. They demand that the St. Louis platform be made so plain that he who runs, may read and understand what it means on that important question.

KENTUCKY's standing army should be increased at once. In the opinion of Gov. Bradley the presence of 400 of her soldiers was necessary at Frankfort to subdue and keep Jack Chinn and three others quiet. In case of a sure enough riot the Governor would have to call on Uncle Sam to send in a few regiments.

AN effort is being made by those Republicans who are afraid to face the money issue, to hide behind the tariff, and try to force it to the front, but a strong element in the party is demanding a plain declaration on the financial question. It looks now very much like the Republican national convention will be a storm center.

The evidence all being in the result is that the ground hog has proved himself another liar.—State Journal.

The predictions of the ground hog that prognosticated the weather for this section hit it exactly, and the people down here do not want him assailed in a wontonly manner.

IT took Lieut-Governor Worthington only about fifteen minutes to grant a pardon while he was acting Governor, one day last week, and the only reason he did not issue more is because there were no other applications. Those who are acquainted with the Lieutenant Governor say that he is too tender hearted to resist the appeals of any person in distress.

SPECIAL elections have been called to fill the vacancies in two or three reliably Republican counties the Representatives of which have resigned since the Legislature adjourned, but no election has been ordered to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Weissinger. This is looked upon by the Democrats as a scheme to make the General Assembly Republican on joint ballot, when a special session will be called, among other things, to elect a United States Senator.

THE following statistics in regard to this judicial district may interest the readers:

Boone has 152,862 acres of land, valued at $28 68 per acre. Her net revenue paid the State is, $15,094 76

Carroll has 77,971 acres of land, valued at $19 20 per acre. Her net revenue paid the State it, $3,964 26.

Gallatin has 60,112 acres of land, valued at $16 93 per acre. Her net revenue paid the State is, $1,945 21.

Grant has 156,004 acres of land, valued at $14 70 per acre. Her net revenue paid the State is, $4,285 01.

Owen has 207,001 acres of land, valued at $11 67 per acre. She draws from the State $3,842 46 more than the revenue she pays in.

It appears that the largest county in the district is the only one that receives from the State more than it pays of the State revenue.

The above figures show, also, how the counties of this Senatorial district compare as regards the revenue.

The assessors, county boards of supervisors, and State boards of equalization, have got things in shape after years' labor, so it must be right—in a horn.

The O'Hara Trial.

Preparations are being made for the trial of James A. O'Hara, at Burlington, Ky., the first Monday in April, and witnesses are being summoned to appear before Judge Greene when Circuit Court convenes at the capital of Boone county. Over two years ago O'Hara killed John Glacking, on the main thoroughfare of Willimstown, and after an examining trial his attorneys asked for a change of venue, which was granted, and the case was taken to Burlington for trial last December. This was a long and bitter legal battle, but the prosecution finally won, the jury in the case returning a verdict of manslaughter and fixing O'Hara's punishment at two years in the State penitentiary.

Immediately after the verdict was read the attorneys for the defense moved for a new trial on the ground that an error had been made is selecting the jury. Judge Greene made a careful examination of the proof furnished by the attorneys and granted a new trial.

This case has been watched with deep interest by the people of this and adjoining counties, owing to the prominence of the defendant.

O'Hara's father is wealthy, and the son is a nephew of Judge James O'Hara, of Covington. He is also a near relative of the Hon. Tim Needham, cashier of the Bank of Williamstown, and Dr. Scott, a wealthy resident of Erlanger. His friends insist that O'Hara will be released at this trial.

Captain A. G. DeJarnette, Judge James O'Hara, the Hon. James W. Bryant and Shelley Rouse represent the defense, and ex-Congressman W. W. Dickerson, County Attorney William Carnes and Prosecuting Attorney M. D. Gray are for the prosecution. — Williamstown special to Louisville Post.

J. B. Darnell, of Odesso, is sixty-one years old and is splitting rails, every day that weather permits, with an iron wedge that is 200 years old, which his great-grandfather brought from Scotland with him. He hauls the rails with his well-known mule, Katy, who is thirty-four years old; he shaves once a week with his razor, which is forty-five years old; and has a reap-hook that is forty-five years old. To prove the truth of his manhood and sickle he defies any man to lead him in the harvest-field the coming season.

A DIVINE healer has begun business in Cincinnati, and is being consulted by the multidues. If Mr. Sehrader succeeds in straightening the Queen City out, there will be no question as to the authorship of his commission.

A Woolf in Sheep's Clothing.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

"Fair Deal's" effort, in last week's [illegible] masquerade [illegible] silver, was amusing, to say the least, and, in a verry few lines, it cropped out that his only desire was to offer something in defense of Mr. Carlisle's financial policy, and to say something ugly about those who are honest in their conviction as silverites. Neither side has made any converts by abusing those who do not agree with them on the money question. There is no argument in abuse.

For Mr. Carlisle's changed attitude as to silver, "Fair Deal" offers the following chestnut as an excuse or palliation: "Wise men may change but fools never." It is is only necessary to read a few sentences of "Fair Deal's" article to convince a person that "Fair Deal" is one of those fellows who will never change.

He admits that Mr. Carlisle gave Morgan six million dollars in a hundred million dollar bond deal, but tries to smooth over this recklessness on the part of the Secretary with the public funds, by saying that for that munificent gift Morgan agreed to forego, for a few months, at least, the pleasure and profit of raiding the treasury. Who would not take a few months' vacation when given $6,000,000 as spending money, while off on his lark?

But the lamest feature in "Fair Deal's" article is that in which it is attempted to show that by giving Morgan, $6,000,000 a saving of $184,000,000 will ultimately result. If, by giving Morgan $6,000,000 the government is sure to save $184,000,000, why did not the Secretary give him $60,000,000 and for the government save $1,840,000,000? When you have a good thing, push it along.

It is best to refrain from a further reference to the astounding results "Fair Deal" shows that are to flow from a financial policy that has increased this country's liabilities $262,000,000 in less than three years, and that, too, in the time of peace.

Along in the seventies every person, regardless of political affiliations, recognized Mr. Carlisle as the perfect embodiment of Democratic principles—utterly unable to enunciate anything but unadulterated democracy, and his convincing arguments were heard from every stump, stage and platform in Kentucky, and rang through the halls and corridors of Congress, carrying defiance to those who were opposing his then views on the silver question. Kentucky's big four—Carlisle, Beck, Blackburn and Waterson were then in perfect harmony, but according to "Fair Deal's" notion, Carlisle is to-day a simon-pure Democrat, and Blackburn is a heretic. If that be true Carlisle was at one time a heretic, and at the same time enjoyed the distinction of being the leader of democracy in Kentucky, a State in which democracy in its purity, only, was snpposed to exist.

If the financial views Mr. Carlisle entertains to-day are necessary to make him a Democrat, James B. Beck did not live long enough to become a Democrat, and Joe Blackburn never will.

In 1878 Mr. Carlisle said, concerning the demonetization of silver: "According to my view of the subject, the conspiracy which seems to have been formed here and in Europe to destroy by legislation and otherwise from three-sevenths to one-half of the metallic money of the world is the most gigantic crime of this or any other age.

"The consummation of such a scheme would ultimately entail more misery upon the human race than all the wars, pestilence and famine that ever occurred in the history of the world. The absolute and instantnaeous destruction of half the movable property of the world, including horses, ships, railroads and all other appliances for carrying on commerce, while it would be felt more sensibly at the moment, would not produce anything like the prolonged distress and disorganization of society that must inevitably result from the permanent annihilation of one-half of the metallic money of the world."

Was Mr. Carlisle speaking advisedly when he drew the above gloomy picture? It is said he never speaks otherwise.

"Fair Deal" affirms that Carlisle made this district—that is, gave it a national reputation. Admitted. But he did it by his profund advocacy of tariff reform and the free coinage of silver.

If Mr. Carlisle's views on the money question are now in harmony with Democratic principles they were not a few years ago; or, if they were a few years ago they are not now.

If adhering to Democratic principles as expounded, a few years ago, by John Griffin Carlisle with all that powerful logic of his, constitutes bolting, then Joe Blackburn and those who believe as he does are bolters and muttonheads.

A MUTTONHEAD.

POLITICAL.

S. E. Smith, an Owensboro negro is a candidate for delegate for the State-at-large to the national convention.

The Benton Tribune expresses the opinion that Capt. W. J. Stone will not be a candidate for Congress this fall.

Chas. Bronston for Governor, and Wm. Goebel for Attorney-General. How is that for high? You can't beat 'em!—Argus.

W. M. H. Gough, of Eagle Station, Carroll county, is a candidate for delegate from the Sixth district to the Republican National Convention.

It is now proposed to run Jack Chinn for State Senator, to succeed little "i" Stevenson. Why not save Jack and make him Governor when Bradley is impeached?—Argus.

The Second District Democratic Committee has been called to meet in Henderson Friday, March 27, for the purpose of taking some action toward nominating a Democratic candidate for Congress. Dr. John D. Clardy is the only candidate announced.

"The Louisville Commercial Tuesday, has a splendid picture of the State House under a stack of bayonetted rifles. We move that this design be adopted in lieu of the log cabin on the Republican ballots. It would be most appropriate."—Carlisle Mercury.

Maj. A. J. Morey, the well-known ex-newspaper man, is being urged by his friends throughout the district to become a candidate for Congress, says the Cynthiana Courier. Maj. Morey has not arrived at a conclusion about the matter yet, but has it under consideration.

Gov. Bradley's presidential boom in Kentucky is manifestly weakening. It looked at one time like all the Republicans would swing into line and vote for him first, last and all the time, but now that a few conventions have acted it is easily to be seen that McKinley stock is rapidly going higher.

State Senator C. J. Bronston, in an interview at Paducah, declared that he is for sound money and opposed to free silver. He says he does not think Secretary Carlisle would receive the undivided support of Kentucky. "My State pride, however," said Mr. Bronston, "rather prompts me to favor him."

Mr. Bronston cannot ride two horses to the Chicago convention as a delegate from the state-at-large. Carlisle, whom he recently denounced as the "boss traitor of them all," will have trusted friends, who will be elected should the goldbugs be in the majority, and the silver men, should they control the state convention, will not elect any delegate who as a matter of "state pride," or for any other reasons, would vote for Carlisle at any stage of the contest. If Mr. Bronston's Paducah interview correctly represents him, he has elected himself to stay at home. —Owensboro Messinger.

The Senate of Kentucky having expelled from its body, on March 11, 1896, Senators A. D. James and C. J. Walton, their names were not on the rolls of the Senate from said date. Under the law it is made the duty of the Chief Clerk of each House to certify the per diem of its members to the Auditor of Public Accounts for payment and the Auditor cannot, under any law, audit or issue a warrant upon any other voucher. The clerks certified the per diem of Senator Walton and James up to and including the day they were expelled; but the remaining six days could not be so certified, because it would be contrary to the records of that body. Contrary to law, however, the Lieutenant Governor certified the per diem of the two Senators for $30 each, and the Auditor paid the amounts to each of the Senators.—Western Argus.

Eggs and Poultry
I am now taking orders for thoroughbred Poultry and Eggs. First come, first served. A. M. ACRA,
Burlington, Ky.

FERTILIZER.

Farmers, I would be pleased to have your orders for Fertilizer this year. Our goods are graded up considerably for 1896, and we have the following goods at last year's prices:
Raw Bone Meal.
Fine Ground Bone.
Tobacco and Potatoes.
Acidulated Bone.
Ammoniated Bone.
Special Tobacco.
Miami Valley Phosphate.
Jones Reliable Phosphate.
Jewell Phosphate.
When you buy our goods you get the worth of your money, and you know I placed good goods on the Boone and Kenton county market in 1894 and 1895 for less money than any other firm.
B. F. ZIMMER, Gen. Agt.,
for The Jones Fertilizer Co.,
Constance, Ky.

"It's All Right."
They say, when you want the
BEST GOODS
and the most reasonable prices. Go to
IRA AYLOR'S,
Save money and your patience.
The Stock is new and has been bought at the best possible rates. Just call and see what we will do for you.
Very Truly,
IRA AYLOR,
Branch Store—UNION, KY. ERLANGER, KY.

STEPHENS & SCALES,
—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN—
Hardware, Cutlery, and Agricultural Implements,
Genuine Oliver Chilled & Steel Plows,
Bissoll Chilled & Steel Hillside Plows,
Walking & Riding Cultivators,
Steel & Wood Gear Farm Wagons,
Champion Mower and Binders,
Ball Bearing Disk Harrows,
BARBED AND SMOOTH WIRE
AT THE LOWEST MARKET PRICE.
No. 26 Pike Street, - - - Covington, Ky.

BEST GOODS! LIVING PRICES!
Hardware,
Farm Machinery,
Fine Vehicles,
Harness.
HARRIS FITCH, Corner HIGH AND SHORT STREETS,
LAWRENCEBURG, INDIANA

J. J. GEISEN,
Best and Cheapest HAT STORE In the City.
Agency for WHITE STAR LAUNDRY.
615 MADISON AVE.,
COVINGTON, KENTUCKY.

A. C. HECKMAN,
Florist, Plants, Bulbs, Seeds, & Metal Designs.
Fresh Cut Flowers Daily. Artistic Floral Designs a Specialty.
734 Madison Avenue,
Covington, - - Kentucky.
25 Per Cent. Less than any Cincinnati House.

METROPOLITAN COUPE AND LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,
E. H. BAKER, Proprietor
(o)
Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.
Telephone 580.

Attention! Ladies! Notice!
To the first 100 ladies of Aurora and vicinity sending me their names before March 4, I will give to of all such who buy their materials of me ONE FREE class lesson in Art Embroidery on March 10th, or as soon thereafter as their class number admits. Instructions in Delft, Napolitian, Jewel, Bulgarian, Swiss, Royal and South Kensington (with Italian effect) and Japanese Embroideries; also Honiton Lace Work. Address
EMMA J. M. COULTER,
107 Second St., AURORA, IND.

Eggs for Sale.
Eggs for hatching—Barred Plymouth Rocks exclusively—pure bred, vigorous and healthy—strictly first-class. Stock in separate pens—No. 1, $1 per 13 eggs. No. 2, 50c per 15 eggs.
Mrs. R. O. Smith, Union, Ky.

Andy Scheben,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
WINES, LIQUORS
AND BRANDY,
Old Bourbon, $2.00 Per Gallon.
LEXINGTON PIKE,
ERLANGER, - - - KY.
Near Town Hall.

Subscribe for the RECORDER.

TABLER'S BUCK EYE PILE OINTMENT
CURES NOTHING BUT PILES.
A SURE and CERTAIN CURE known for 15 years as the BEST REMEDY for PILES.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by RICHARDSON MED CO., ST. LOUIS.

John Allison,

Undertaker
—AND—
Embalmer,
COR. PIKE & RUSSELL STS.,
COVINGTON, - KENTUCKY
Independent of Undertakers' Union.

Local News.

Pursuant to the call of the District and State Republican Committees for a District Convention to be held at Falmouth, April 9th, 1896, and State Convention to be held at Lexington, April 15th, 1896, for the purpose of electing District and State delegates to the St. Louis National Republican Convention, also District Elector and State Central Committeeman the Republican electors of this county and others without regard to past political affiliations, who believe in Republican principles and indorse the Republican policy, will meet at Burlington Court House, Monday, April 6th, 1896, at one o'clock p. m., to elect delegates and alternates to the above named conventions and transact any such other business as may properly be presented.

T. B. MATHEWS, Chairman
Boone Co. Rep. Ex. Com.

Next Sunday is Easter.

Don't get April fooled to-day.

The maple trees are shedding their bloom.

The northenders are doing considerable improving this spring.

Heard of no turnpike fever in any part of the county this winter.

J. H. Walton's sale to-morrow. There is a great deal of property to sell.

Not many Irish potatoes planted this year during the dark of the moon.

A summer time thunder storm passed around north last Sunday afternoon.

Should the weather permit the oats crop will be about all sowed this week.

A. P. Collins, of Richwood, has a pair of well broke mules, 5 yrs old, for sale.

James L. Huey, of the Union neighborhood, has several sows and pigs for sale.

Friday is the last day for bringing suits for the next term of the circuit court.

A few hours' sunshine at this season of the year instill considerable life into the grass.

If Burlington presents a ball team this year it will be the strongest she has ever had.

Don't pick up anything which you may find lying by the wayside to-day. This is April 1st.

The ground is getting a thorough wetting, just what is needed before the crops are planted.

There will be about ten candidates in the Burlington voting precinct for the various county offices.

Beautiful spring weather arrived here last Monday morning, and you could almost see the grass grow.

The thunder awoke all the snakes last Sunday night. Now do not let any of them get into your boots.

FOR RENT—Neat cottage of 3 rooms—garden and coal house in Hebron, Ky.
HAR[illegible]ORE.

Geo. E. Rouse & Son, of Limaburg, shipped three fine Thin Rind hogs to a party at Charlestown, Ind., last week.

The Knights of Pythias had an interesting meeting last Thursday night. The lodge is enjoying a steady growth.

The Botts boys have been having some very fine fox chases this month. They have captured two or three, recently.

Deputy Turnkey Dempsey was superintending the prisoners in giving the jail a thorough spring cleaning, last Mon day.

Next Monday is county court and horse show day, and while in town on that day, drop in and subscribe for the RECORDER.

The total assessed value of property in this State has fallen off $20,000,000 for this year as compared with the total value of last year.

The anglers are anxiously awaiting a day favorable for trying their luck. It is believed that the creeks will be well supplied with fine fish this spring.

Those who want to be appointed supervisors of roads are circulating their petitions, securing signers asking the county judge to appoint them.

The populists make poor progress in gaining a foot-hold in this county. Democracy and Republicanism seem good enough for Boone county voters.

On account of the scarcity of grass ewes are not giving enough milk for their young, and some of the farmers are having considerable trouble feeding them.

Stopped in at a store, one evening last week, and found three men smoking cigars at the expense of the other nine present, they being prospective candidates.

FOR RENT—House of 5 rooms in Erlanger, Ky. Four rooms in front, and bar and fixtures. Inquire of or address Eliza Gorman, Walton, or Wm. Rucker, at Erlanger.

The docket for the April term of the Circuit Court has been filling up some within the past week. As the time for closing the docket draws nigh, business generally gets more lively about the clerk's office.

A couple of Burlington green hunters made a tour of the country, last Sunday. They were a deal hungrier when they got back home than they were when they left, but they had secured nothing with which to satisfy hunger.

It is believed by many that the grand Jury's recommendation that the court house be rodded, was premature. Several have examined the outside walls and say they are as plumb as the day they were completed, and that rods will be a useless expense.

When the blood is kept pure and the system thoroughly invigorated by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, sudden changes of temperature and extremes of heat and cold, so characteristic of certain climates are rarely attended with injurious results. Try it now.

Mr. H. A. Hicks, of Richwood, sold to Mike Hoffman, on Sixth street, Cincinnati, 52 cattle that averaged 1,865 pounds, the best lot of cattle that ever left Boone county, and no better ever left the State. Hoffman butchers the best cattle that are to be had, and Mr. Hicks knows how to produce the kind of animals that Mr. Hoffman wants to handle.

Judge E. E. McKay, of Bardstown, representing William Malone, has brought suit in the Carroll Circuit Court for his client against Eliar Block & Sons for $20,000 damages, on account of the accidental killing of his brother Thomas, who lost his life some three or four months ago by a section of the corn bin at the Block distillery in Prestonville falling upon him.

A goldbug called at a bank, the other day, and drew a check in favor of himself for $5. The cashier said: "I have two $2½ gold pieces in the drawer, will they do?" "No," said the goldbug. "How will a $5 gold piece do?" "O, give me silver or paper," said the goldbug, and the silver was counted out to him. A goldbug in theory but a silverbug in practice. Gold is the hoarders' money, but silver is the kind the common, every day fellow wants.

On Wednesday night between 12 and 1 o'clock the barn and corn crib of Frank Neves burned, together with a good crop of tobacco, some corn, four sets of harness, plows, saddles, &c. There is no accounting for the fire unless chicken thieves, who have been operating in the community, dropped a match while searching in the barn.—At Pendleton Station last Wednesday morning Syd Smith shot and killed his brother-in law R. W. Vance, and then attempted to commit suicide by shooting himself but failed at first. However, he went home soon afterward, loaded his gun and ended his life. Vance was one of the largest land owners in Henry county. The trouble grew out of Smith's wife's suit for a divorce —Carrollton Democrat.

A young man called at our office a few days ago and showed us a work which is being introduced in this county, with a request that we examine it, which we did, and we consider this book entitled "Hand Book of the United States," the best book of the kind ever issued from the press. It is not a history, but a description of our country as it is to-day, the results of four centuries of progress. History deals with the past, while this deals with the present. We have never before seen any thing like it, or equal in quality of paper or character of illustrations for the price asked for it. Every family needs just such a work, and every young man and young woman ought to possess a copy. We have ordered a copy, and we would be glad to know that every person in the county, who is trying to improve himself, or the minds of his family, had done the same.

Resolutions of Respect.

A meeting of the citizens of Petersburg, Kentucky, was held March 28th, 1896, for the purpose of expressing the feeling of deep regret with which the sad tidings of the death of Mr. E. L. Workum, of Cincinnati, has filled every heart. In the meeting, which was largely attended, the employes in the various industries in Petersburg controlled by Mr. Workum, the various authorities of the town government, and representatives of the several business interests, were present, and the following resolutions, which but feebly speak of the sincere sorrow felt by all, were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That in the death of Mr. E. L. Workum we have lost a friend whose cannot be filled. One, who, during the few short years of his active business connection with Petersburg, has bound us to himself by his generous deeds of unselfish kindness in an affectionate memory of him that can never die.

That we recall with pleasure the many generous acts of kindness on the part of Mr. Workum towards the citizens of our town in their times of trouble or distress. Ever ready to respond to any call for assistance, he was indeed a friend whose death casts a gloom over all.

That to his family and friends we offer our sincerest sympathy in their sad bereavement; and

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved and distressed family.

COMMITTEE:

Harry McWethy, B. F. Jarrell, Henry Hoffman, John Geiszler, A. J. Buchanan, W. J. Casey, T. B. Mathews, J. J. W. Berkshire and Harry Smith

At a regular meeting of Workum Lodge, No. 66, K. P., of Petersburg, Ky., a committee was appointed to draft suitable resolutions on the death of Mr. E. L. Workum in honor of whom said lodge was named. The following was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the news of Mr. E. L. Workum's death was received by this Lodge with the deepest sorrow; that we recognized in him a friend who has always displayed a lively interest in our welfare; that his sterling qualities as a generous, warm hearted and true friend had endeared him to each and all of us, and that in his death we sustain a loss that calls for this expression of grief. That while the name of Workum Lodge has ever been dear to us, it will now be associated with memories of him from whom it took its name that can never be obliterated.

Resolved, That the sympathy of this Lodge be tendered the family of Mr. Workum in their deep sorrow and that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to them.

COMMITTEE

T. B. Mathews, F. W. Baker, John Geiszler, Solen Early, Chas. Schramm.

COUNTY COURT.

March 26.—Joe Birkle granted license to peddle merchandise.

March 30.—H. Banister qualified as notary public.

T. M. McGlasson and J. W. Quigley granted license to peddle merchandise.

Our young friend X. Scott called on us Monday.

PERSONAL MENTION.

It is said that our young friend, Jack Sandford, was especially anxious to drive the mail wagon for Capt. Brown, last Thursday afternoon. A grape vine had been received from Erlanger, the truthfulness of which concerned him somewhat, and he desired a speedy opportunity to ascertain the truthfulness or falsity thereof.

Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Brady arrived home last Friday from Galveston, Tex., where they had spent several weeks very pleasantly visiting friends and relatives. The South evidently agrees with them as they look better than when they left home.

Miss Maggie, daughter of John Castello, who lives down on Woolper, departed this life on the night of the 24th inst. She had consumption, and taking the measles she soon died. Several other members of the family have the measles.

Mrs. W. M. Rogers, of the Walton neighborhood, has been critically ill for several days. C. C. Roberts came from there Monday, and reported her no better. Mr. Roberts' family was sent for last week.

E. B. H. Owens, who lives 12 miles north of Madison, Indiana, arrived here last Friday. He was a resident of Burlington in 1883. He says the farm he owns is the garden spot of Eden.

Rev. J. A. Kirtley occupied the pulpit in the Baptist Church here last Sunday, per appointment. It was a fifth Sunday, and he had no regular appointment for that day.

M. E. Hance, of Big Bone, was in town one day last week. He had just completed a land deal by which he added considerable fine land to his previous large possessions.

A fire insurance agent was in town Thursday, taking a survey of business buildings for the purpose of making a map thereof for the benefit of the insurance companies.

Dr. Tilley, of Petersburg, enlivened our sanctum with his presence, for a short time, last Wednesday. He is a genuine fun dispenser, and always has a new one to tell.

Mr. J. J. Lillard was in town Saturday, being his first visit here for six weeks, he having been confined to the house with a severe cold a good portion of that time.

Mrs. Jesse Kirkpatrick and daughter, Miss Gussie, returned home, last Wednesday, after a visit of several weeks with relatives in Covington and Dayton.

Attorney Tomlin and Dr. Bagby, of Walton, were in town, Friday, on business for the Walton Deposit Bank, of which the Doctor is president.

Hon. John S. Gaunt, of Carrollton, came up last Thursday to look after the business in which he is interested in and pending in the circuit court.

J. M. McCourt, of Covington, and agent for Smith & Nixon, dealers in musical instruments, was in town Friday, on business for his firm.

Benj. Smith and John McWethy, of Petersburg, were in town Friday, on business for the Boone County Distilling Company.

J. S. Noell, of Beaver, was in town a few days since. He says he is becoming very fond of Burlington cigars and whisky.

C. G. Smith, of Hebron, was in town Monday making his settlement with the County Judge, as supervisor of roads.

W. L. Aylor, one of the industrious and prosperous young men of the Hebron neighborhood, was in town Monday.

Joseph Birkle, of Bellevue, was in town Thursday, and took out a county license to peddle merchandise.

Mrs. Lizzie Linns, of St. Louis, Mo., was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lassing a few days last week.

It is said that one of Burlington's fair daughters will be lead to the altar before May apples bloom.

F. L. Gordon, of Beaver, was in town Monday. Sam Noell came with him as guide.

Atty. A. G. Winston, and Jordon Beall, were among the visitors to town Monday.

Bert Gaines has moved to the farm occupied by Robert Carver, last year.

Jacob Reib, of Big Bone, made the trip in across the dirt roads, Monday.

Fred Rich, a leading citizen of Florence, was over last Wednesday.

John Early, of Petersburg, was one of the visitors to town Monday.

Mrs. F. P. Walton, of Utzinger, was visiting in Burlington, Friday.

J. W. Kite, the Waterloo merchant, was in town, last Friday.

Buggies! Buggies!! Buggies!!!

I will be in Burlington on the first Monday in next month (April) with several nice, first-class Buggies, which I will sell at prices that will surprise you. If you want a Buggy come to Burlington on that day and examine my vehicles and learn the very low prices at which I will sell.

G. H. HACKSTADT,
Bromley, Ky.

Attention, Farmers!

We are handling the

Globe Fertilizer

and will sell it to you at

$26 Per Ton.

Money due September 1, 1896.

This is a high grade Fertilizer, the best on the market. Try it.

RIGGS BROS., Erlanger, Ky.

Election Notice.

The Stockholders of the Burlington and Petersburg turnpike will hold an election in Burlington, Ky., Monday, April 6th, 1896, for the purpose of electing a President and board of Directors for the ensuing year.

J. A. GAINES, President.

For Sale or Rent.

96 acres of river bottom land, opposite Lawrenceburg, Ind., in good state of cultivation. J. C. REVILL, Burlington, Ky.

FARM FOR SALE.

A good farm of 76 acres, between Bellevue and Petersburg, near Woolper ford—good house, good barn and necessary outbuildings. The sale will be on easy terms. OWEN ALLEN.

Election Notice.

The stockholders of the Burlington & Florence turnpike are hereby notified that an election will be held in the town of Burlington, Ky., Saturday, April 4th, 1896, for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the ensuing year. W. R. ROUSE, President.

Administrator's Notice.

All those indebted to W. A. Carpenter, dec'd, are notified that they must come forward and settle same, and those having claims against him must present them to the undersigned, proven according to law.

O. P. CONNER, Adm'r.
Lassing & Riddell, Attys.

Administrators Notice.

Those indebted to the estate of Lucinda Kelly, dec'd., must come forward and settle at once, and those having claims against said estate must present the same at once proven according to law.

L. H. & WALTER KELLY,
Administrators.

Administrator's Notice.

All those indebted to the estate of Jas. L. Henderson, deced., must come forward and settle, and any one having claims against said estate must present them to me proven according to law.

J. O. HUEY, Adm'r.
Lassing & Riddell, Attys.

NOTICE.

All those indebted to me for taxes are hereby notified that I am compelled to close up my tax accounts and will proceed to enforce thier collection by law if not paid by March 1st, 1896. My books are in the hands of Lassing & Riddell, attorneys, Burlington, Ky. Call and settle with them and save costs.

D. BEALL, Ex.-Sheriff
Boone County.

Corn For Sale.

For Sale—About 100 bushels of Forsyth's Early Mammoth white corn, selected last fall. It has the deepest grains and is the most productive of any other corn; has from sixteen to twenty-six rows on the ear, stands the drouths and yields from two to five barrels more per acre than any other variety. It originated in [illegible] county Ind in 1891. Price $1 50 per bushel.

JOHN J. CLEEK.
Beaver Lick, Boone county, Ky.

Notice to Delinquent Tax-PAYERS.

The lists of Delinquents for 1895 have been placed in the hands of Collecting Officers in the different magisterial districts for the convenience of the taxpayers. See your collector and pay your tax, or you will be reported to the Road Supervisor in your district and proceeded against according to law.

FISCAL COURT BOONE CO.,
By J. M. Lassing, Co. Atty.

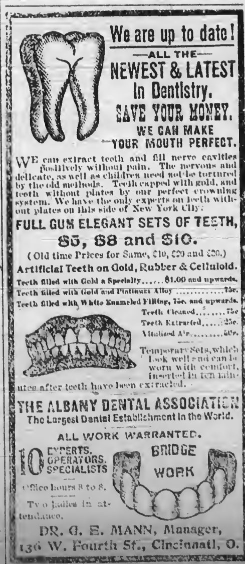
LAND FOR SALE.

240 acres known as the Gaines farm on the Covington and Lexington pike and on the L. & N. and Cincinnati Southern Railroads, two miles north of Walton, Ky. This is one of the best farms in Northern Ky., suitable for stock, grain, grass and tobacco. Improved with a modern 8-room dwelling, large stock and hay barn, tobacco barn, tenement houses and all necessary outbuildings.

For further information call on H. C. BEDINGER, on the farm or address me.

Also 115 acres, known as the Piatt farm, lying on the Walton and Beaver graded road. This is a good, strong piece of land with a large portion of it tobacco land. I will sell the above lands worth the money.

For further information call on or address H. C. BEDINGER,



We are up to date!
—ALL THE—
NEWEST & LATEST
In Dentistry.
SAVE YOUR MONEY.
WE CAN MAKE YOUR MOUTH PERFECT.

WE can extract teeth and fill nerve cavities positively without pain. The nervous and delicate, as well as children need not be tortured by the old methods. Teeth capped with gold, and teeth without plates by our perfect crowning system. We have the only experts on teeth without plates on this side of New York City.

FULL GUM ELEGANT SETS OF TEETH,
$5, $8 and $10.
(Old time Prices for Same, $10, $20 and $30.)
Artificial Teeth on Gold, Rubber & Celluloid.

Teeth filled with Gold a Specialty......$1.00 and upwards.
Teeth filled with Gold and Platinum Alloy..............75c.
Teeth filled with White Enameled Filling, 75c. and upwards.
Teeth Cleaned..........75c
Teeth Extracted.........25c.
Vitalized Air...........50c.

Temporary Sets, which look well and can be worn with comfort, inserted in ten minutes after teeth have been extracted.

THE ALBANY DENTAL ASSOCIATION
The Largest Dental Establishment in the World.
ALL WORK WARRANTED.
10 EXPERTS. OPERATORS. SPECIALISTS
Office hours 8 to 8.
Two ladies in attendance.
BRIDGE WORK
DR. G. E. MANN, Manager,
136 W. Fourth St., Cincinnati, O.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We would call the attention of the public to the fact that we are still doing business at the

OLD STAND

And are more than ever determined to sustain our well earned reputation of selling the Best Goods at the Lowest Possible Prices.

We have not room to quote prices, but if you will give us a call we will convince you of the fact.

Our Terms are Cash.

W. M. RACHAL & CO. Union, Ky.

BOEHMER, ROLF & CO.,

—DEALERS IN—

PAINTS, OILS AND GLASS.

—63 and 65 Pike Street,—

Covington, Telephone, 1212. Ky.

GEO. W. HILL & CO.,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

Flour, Tea, Tobacco AND FINE Cigars.

ALSO DEALERS IN WOOL AND COUNTRY PRODUCTS.

CALL SPECIAL ATTENTION TO OUR RETAIL DEPARTMENT.

27 and 29 PIKE ST. 26 and 28 W. SEVENTH ST.

Covington, - - Kentucky.

HARBICK & ROSE,

Undertakers AND Embalmers,

OFFICE AND STABLE, 637 and 639 SCOTT STREET,
COVINGTON, KY.

CARRIAGES FOR WEDDINGS AND PRIVATE HIRE.
Telephone, 4146. OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

GEO. G. RUSSELL,

WHOLESALE AND

RETAIL GROCER,

GRASS SEED,

Corner Pike & Washington Sts. Covington, Ky.

Tom Wilson, Salesman.

A. H. BRYANT. J. L. V. McDONALD.

REMOVED AND READY FOR BUSINESS.

31 Pike Street,

THE OLD RELIABLE STOVE COMPANY,

Successor to J. M. CLARKSON.

Stoves, Grates, Fine Tin and HOLLOW-WARE.

Our friends of Boone County will be Welcome to Make OUR STORE Their Headquarters when in Town.

J. L. V. McDONALD, - - - Manager.

COVINGTON, KY.

MR. J. M. CLARKSON has his office with us.

SEEDS. SEEDS. SEEDS.

BUY YOUR

GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS

From W. J. RAMSEY & CO.,

We are the only House in Covington, handling a full Line of

GARDEN SEEDS.

708 Madison Avenue

COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.
Opposite Seventh Street Market House.

HANKINS, DAVIS & CO.,

GENERAL MERCHANTS,

HEBRON AND CONSTANCE, KY.

A good supply of Campbell's Creek Coal on hand at Constance at all times. A good supply of feed always in stock. Garden and Field Seeds.

UNDERTAKING.

is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance.

GLAD EASTER.

WITH joy we welcome
balmy days,
The first wild
warblers hear;
Like laden ships
o'er stormy ways,
The glad spring
months appear:
They bring us bud,
they bring us
bloom,
They bring us hope and cheer;
How welcome after winter's gloom,
The Easter of the year.

The brooks make music—heavy now,
And now a lighter strain;
Till birds that flit from bough to bough,
Repeat its notes again;
Forth into song the mountains break,
The little hills take part—
All nature, hymns of praise awake—
Glad Easter of the heart.

Beyond the clouds of sin and doubt,
Beyond the realms of woe,
(Oh, life, what were thy gift without?)
There breaks the Easter glow.
It sheds a joy o'er pain and gloom,
The broken heart makes whole,
With life and love beyond the tomb—
Blest Easter of the soul.
—Sarah E. Howard, in Good Housekeeping.

A SUNDAY OF JOY.

MARION ARMITAGE opened her eyes on Easter morning and found that the steamer on which she was a passenger had anchored in the beautiful Bay of Palermo. Dressing herself with hurried care, she went on deck and saw the City of the Sun, with its great gateway, higher than the highest houses, and the white marble marina outside with its great length stretching towards Pellegrini, and the picturesque boats dancing in the harbor, besieging the steamer for custom.

The chaperon of the party, Mrs. Fortune, was also the aunt of Marion, and she engaged one of the boats, after much haggling with a fisherman in a red shirt, whose sunburned face was like the pictures of Scriptural type, and who was lazy enough to be a survivor of his Gallilean prototypes. As the party landed they were greeted everywhere with the Easter salutation:

"Surrexit" (He is risen).

And they joined in the antiphonal response.

"Vere surrexit" (He is risen, indeed).

For this was their Sunday of joy, the queen of festivals. Bells were ringing, salutes were fired in the streets, the flowers were in full bloom and the joy of resurrection was in the air. It was the day the Sicilians had honored for nearly 2,000 years, and Marion, who had visited St. Mark's on a similar occasion, felt that this union of elements in such an atmosphere of symbolic worship, combined with an intense, rapt devotion, had in it a sincerity which the service of the great cathedrals lacked.

In Palermo, Easter seemed enshrined as in her own stronghold, and when the little party entered the old English church embowered in its tropical verdure, with roses and oranges clustering together, Marion felt an indescribable peace steal into her heart, as if she had reached the summit of happiness.

If anyone had whispered to her that like the fabled bird of the Persians she was about to find the winged mate of her wingless soul, henceforth "to sail through all the heavens wide" in perfect union, she would have believed; therefore, when a devotional man, an American like herself, moved to make room for her, then shared his book with her and chanted a musical second to her responses, she was not surprised—she seemed to have been waiting for him all her life. Her aunt's frowns of propriety did not disturb her. The good woman had not noticed the proximity of the agreeable stranger and was ready to frown him down, and was as tactless in her methods as the head of the school procession who turned to her young ladies with the command:

"Don't look! Shut your eyes and keep them closed. There's a horrid, handsome man coming this way."

The man was really not handsome, but he had the strength, the magnetism, that is more than manly beauty; he was almost another Sir Launcelot. Was Marion to be Elaine, and "love him with the love that was her doom?" We hear of such fatalities in the comedy of life.

Mrs. Fortune, the aunt, was really obliged to recognize the stranger, for the clergyman was a townsman of her own, and he introduced him on the strength of being a compatriot. And he was a charming man to know—fine manners and a devotional spirit, so he won both aunt and niece. There was only this day to see Palermo and its wonders, and Philip Neff accompanied them to the steamer and said good-by. And they did not know whether he was a single or a married man, and Marion had only a bunch of flowers and a lava ornament, which he had bought for a trifle, and dropped into her lap with the flowers as an Easter offering.

"You have made a joyful Easter for me," he had said, and asked permission to call upon her when he returned in a year's time to his home in America, which was in the great city where she lived herself.

"I will expect you next Easter," she had said, gayly, and with that they parted.

A year—how short! "Why, it was only yesterday," we say, and now it is Easter again. And we are sorry, with a transient human pain, for some who have missed it, as if the more typical keeping of Easter could compare with that Easter which they have entered upon.

"Our lilies bloom and pass away,
But theirs shall live and bloom for aye."

Marion had made a very curious discovery after the steamer had left Palermo. She had found in the folds of her dress, as if it had been dropped there, an antique ring—a curious arrangement of ancient gems, set in silver, which she had noticed on the hand of the American, Mr. Neff. Her first impulse was to show it to her aunt; her next, to keep it as a bond between them until she could forward it to him. Then the idea occurred to her that he might have given it to her purposely—but no, she did not think he would have ventured to do such a thing—yet love was daring, and Marion ended the matter by forgetting it until she reached home. After that she wore it as a souvenir of travel, intending to return it when its owner came home.

But a strange thing happened before that time. During the Lenten season Marion had devoted herself to charitable work. She had gone into the [illegible] of the most wretched and degraded. She had visited the charity wards of the hospitals, and in St. Mary's she had found a young creature who was fast leaving a world that had been most cruel to her. She had helped this poor soul up into the blessed sunlight of divine peace, and knowing that she had cruelly suffered, had sought to win from her the story of her life. But her lips were sealed. She admitted that she was a wife abandoned by her husband. Since she had lost love she would have nothing else, and had stolen away to die in a fit of jealous despair.

It happened one day that Marion wore the souvenir ring, and as she bent over the sick girl, who was known only as Mabel, the eyes of the latter rested upon it. She gave a great cry.

"My husband's ring!" she exclaimed, and fainted.

It was days before she rallied, during which time the ring reposed on her own finger; then she proved her right to it by naming the letters engraved on the inside.

Marion did not at once return to her charge. Easter Sunday was drawing near, and she had arranged that the young minister who assisted at St. Jude's should conduct a service in the hospital ward.

"YOU HAVE MADE A JOYFUL EASTER FOR ME."

She had looked forward to the day with unspeakable longing. The stranger who had made such an impression upon her young heart in that far-off Sicilian town would present himself—no longer a stranger, but almost a friend, for she had received letters and credentials, and soon he would speak for himself. There was nothing to fear, but all things to expect, and now—

"Philip Neff is my husband."

These were the words spoken by the pale lips of the sick girl, and Marion knew that they were true.

But she had seen anger and jealousy in the eyes of the woman she had befriended, and, cruelly hurt, she had withdrawn from any contact with her until Mabel had sent for her to come and make a full explanation.

What was there to explain? The ring had dropped from the hand of Neff when he laid the flowers in the lap of Marion, as he explained in answer to her letter of inquiry. He had asked her to keep it until he came, as it might be lost in returning it to him, and that was all. Other letters had passed, but there had been no phrase of sentiment, nothing but the well-turned sentences of a graceful writer, such as he might have written to the chaperoning aunt. If Marion had colored them with the hues of imagination, who then was to blame? Not he, surely?

Little by little Mabel told her story, and it revealed a sad state of affairs between herself and the man who had married her. She had worn out his love with her jealousy, and ran away from him in a fit of pique to hide with an old nurse. She was a creature of impulse, and he had not known how to manage her. And he had gone away without a word—where, she did not know, nor did she ask if he had made any provision for her. Passionate and revengeful, she declared she would die in the hospital ward, and be buried in the potter's field, rather than ask help of him.

Marion lay awake all the night preceding Easter Sunday trying to comfort her own disappointed heart, and to evolve a plan to bring those two together again. In the morning she went to church with a distracted mind, but as soon as the joyous and beautiful Easter anthems were sung all her doubts were gone.

"I have loved the creature instead of the creator," she said, and gave her whole soul to the service.

"He is risen."

"He is risen, indeed."

The scent of the lilies and the grand notes of the organ drove out all thoughts "of sin or folly born." When the benediction was pronounced she was filled with a sweet compassion for all weak and suffering humanity, and in that spirit she passed out and met Philip Neff face to face.

It was well that she had made an Easter offering of herself that morning. She was friendly—there was no need to be more. She did not take his outstretched hand, but she said to him in a composed way:

"Come to me at two o'clock; I have an engagement for you then."

"I will come," he said, and there was a glad look in his eyes that caused her a moment's pang, it was so welcome.

He found her, to his surprise, ready to go out, but he cheerfully acquiesced in her wish that she should accompany him, even when she informed him that her errand was to a hospital.

The young assistant of St. Jude's was there awaiting them. Some flowers had been brought from the chancel to adorn the little table drawn up to the side of the sick girl. She had partaken of the feast of Easter, and was lying back on her pillow when Marion led Philip Neff to her bedside, and waited for a mutual recognition.

But the young man seemed to feel himself an intruder at this sacred scene, and looked distressed, and Mabel scarcely glanced at him before turning her head wearily away.

"Do you know her?" asked Marion.

"I? No, Miss Armitage, I never saw her in my life before," answered Philip Neff, firmly, and without hesitation.

"Then why does she claim this ring?" asked Marion, stepping forward and lifting the thin hand to view.

"That is my ring," came the faint answer from the sick girl's lips.

"Who gave it to you?" asked Marion.

"My husband, Philip Neff."

"Oh!" exclaimed Neff, stepping to the side of the narrow white bed; "then you are the wife of my Cousin Philip. He is in South America, and he gave me that ring before he left."

The sick girl frowned and turned her head aside. The pain-distorted soul was almost at peace, and resented the intrusion of either earthly love or hate. The compassion in Philip Neff's face and voice were alike lost on her now. The solemn tones of the young minister broke the stillness. He was singing a canticle of Easter:

"The strife is o'er, the battle done
The victory of life is won,
The song of triumph has begun,
Alleluia."

Philip Neff knelt by the side of the dying girl and gently chafed her cold hands. She smiled, and her lips faintly responded: "Alleluia." Then one of the sisters approached, and Philip drew Marion away. She was crying softly, and he said:

"She has found her Easter, and our Sunday of joy dawns. Alleluia!"—Mrs. M. L. Rayne, in Detroit Free Press.

The Origin of Easter.

The English name Easter and the German Ostern are most probably derived from the name of the feast of the Teutonic goddess Ostra, which was celebrated by the early Saxons in the spring of the year, and which was supplanted by the Christian feast. The old word oster, which means rising, adds significance to the name, the time of the resurrection of nature being an appropriate time to commemorate the resurrection of Christ. It is from the heathen feast, however, that the customs of Easter fires, Easter eggs and the like have their origin.

Easter Bells.

Ring, bells of brass, with clear accord,
Chime out your music sweet and clear,
Ye tell the rising of our Lord
With joy that all the world may hear.

Ring, flower bells, your message brave
Is sent to those who hold you dear.
Like Christ, ye leave a silent grave
And rise—our first fruits of the year.

Ring, holy bells of prayer and praise—
More sweet than any flowers we ken—
More strong than brazen tongues—ye raise,
Glad songs to Christ, who's risen again!
—Judith Spencer, in Good Housekeeping.

The Norse "Hel."

In Norse mythology all persons who die of old age are consigned to Hel (one "l"), a region of perpetual mist and fog.

MOST ALLURING

Are the Pleasures That Bring Destruction to Us.

This World Was Intended to Be Enjoyed—Music, Books and Other Innocent Amusements Strongly Recommended by Dr. Talmage in His Sermon.

Dr. Talmage took for his sermon Sunday, "Our Social Recreations," I. Cor., vii., 31: "They that use this world as not abusing it." Judges xvi., 25: "and it came to pass, when their hearts were merry, that they said, 'Call Samson that he may makes us sport.'"

There were 3,000 people assembled in the Temple of Dagon. They had come to make sport of eyeless Samson. They were all ready for the entertainment. They began to clap and pound, impatient for the amusement to begin, and they cried: "Fetch him out! Fetch him out!" Yonder I see the blind old giant coming, led by the hand of a child into the very midst of the temple. At his first appearance there goes up a shout of laughter and derision. The blind old giant pretends he is tired, and wants to rest himself against the pillars of the house, so he says to the lad who leads him: "Show me where the main pillars are." The lad does so. Then the strong man puts his right hand on one pillar and his left hand on another pillar, and, with the mightiest push that mortal ever made, throws himself forward until the whole house comes down in thunderous crash, grinding the audience like grapes in a wine press. "And so it came to pass, when their hearts were merry, that they said, 'Call for Samson that he may make us sport.' And they called for Samson out of the prison house, and he made them sport."

In other words, there are amusements that are destructive, and bring down disaster and death upon the heads of those who practice them. While they laugh and cheer they die. The three thousand who perished that day in Gaza are as nothing compared to the tens of thousands who have been destroyed by sinful amusements.

But my first text implies that there is a lawful use of the world, as well as an unlawful abuse of it, and the difference between the man Christian and the man un-Christian is, that in the former case the man masters the world, while in the latter case the world masters him. For whom did God make this grand and beautiful world? For whom this wonderful expenditure of color, this gracefulness of line, this mosaic of the ground, this fresco of the sky, this glowing fruitage of orchard and vineyard, this full orchestra of the tempest, in which the tree branches flute, and the winds trumpet, and the thunders drum, and all the splendors of earth and sky come clashing their cymbals? For whom did God spring the arched bridge of colors resting upon buttresses of broken storm-cloud? For whom did he gather the upholstery of fire around the window of the setting sun? For all men; but more especially for his own dear children.

If you build a large mansion, and spread a great feast after it, to celebrate the completion of the structure, do you allow strangers to come in and occupy the place, while you thrust your own children in the kitchen, or the barn, or the fields? Oh, no! You say: "I am very glad to see strangers in my mansion, but my own sons and daughters shall have the first right there." Now, God has built this grand mansion of a world, and he has spread a glorious feast in it, and while those who are strangers to His grace may come in, I think that God especially intends to give the advantage to his own children—those who are the sons and daughters of the Lord Almighty, those who through grace can look up and say, "Abba, Father." You can not make me believe that God gives more advantages to the world than he gives to the church bought by His own blood. If, therefore, people of the world have looked with dolorous sympathy upon those who make profession of religion, and have said, "Those new converts are going down into privation and into hardship. Why did they not tarry a little longer in the world, and have some of its enjoyments and amusements and recreations?" I say to such men of the world: "You are greatly mistaken;" and before I get through I will show that those people who stay out of the kingdom of God have the hardships and self-denials, while those who come in have the joys and satisfactions, writs of ejectment.

In the name of the King of Heaven and earth, I serve a writ of ejectment upon all the sinful and polluted who have squatted on the domain of earthly pleasure as though it belonged to them, while I claim, in behalf of the good and the pure and the true, the eternal inheritance which God has given them. Hitherto, Christian philanthropists, clerical and lay, have busied themselves chiefly in denouncing sinful recreations; but I feel we have no right to stand before men and women in whose hearts there is a desire for recreation amounting to positive necessity, denouncing this and that and that and the other thing, when we do not propose to give them something better. God helping me and with reference to my last account, I shall enter upon a sphere not usual in sermonizing, but a subject which I think ought to be presented at this time. I propose now to lay before you some of the recreations which are not only innocent, but positively helpful and advantageous.

In the first place, I commend, among indoor recreations, music—vocal and instrumental. Among the first things created was the bird, so that the earth might have music at the start. This world, which began with so sweet a serenade, is finally to be demolished amidst the ringing blast of the archangel's trumpet, so that as there was music at the start, there shall be music at the close. While this heavenly art has often been dragged into the uses of superstition and dissipation we all know it may be the means of high moral culture. Oh, it is a grand thing to have our children brought up amidst the sound of cultured voices, and amidst the melody of musical instruments.

There is in this art an indescribable fascination for the household. Let all those families who have the means to afford it, have flute, or harp, or piano, or organ. As soon as the hand is large enough to compass the keys, teach it how to pick out the melody. Let all our young men try this heavenly art upon their nature. Those who have gone into it fully have found in it illimitable recreation and amusement. Dark days, stormy nights, seasons of sickness, business disasters, will do little toward depressing the soul which can gallop off over musical keys, or soar in jubilant lay. It will cure pain. It will rest fatigue. It will quell passion. It will revive health. It will reclaim dissipation. It will strengthen the immortal soul. In the battle of Waterloo, Wellington saw that the Highlanders were falling back. He said: "What is the matter there?" He was told that the band of music had ceased playing, and he called up the pipers and ordered them to strike up an inspiring air, and no sooner did they strike the air than the Highlanders were rallied and helped to win the day. Oh, ye who have been routed in the conflicts of life, try by the force of music to rally your scattered battalions.

I am glad to know that in our great cities there is hardly a night in which there are not concerts, where, with the best musical instruments and the sweetest voices, people may find entertainment. Patronize such entertainments when they are afforded you. Buy season tickets, if you can, for the "Philharmonic" and the "Handel and Hayden" societies. Feel that the dollar and a half or two dollars that you spend for the purpose of hearing an artist play or sing is a profitable investment. Let your academies of music roar with the acclamation of appreciative audiences assembled at the concert or the oritorio.

Still further: I commend, as worthy of their support, the gymnasium. This institution is gaining in favor every year, and I know of nothing more free from dissipation, or more calculated to recuperate the physical and mental energies. While there are a good many people who have employed in this institution, there is a vast number who are ignorant of its excellencies. There are men with cramped chests and weak sides and despondent spirits who, through the gymnasium, might be roused up to exuberance and exhilarations of life. There are many Christian people despondent from year to year, who might, through such an institution, be benefited in their spiritual relations. There are Christian people who seem to think that it is a good sign to be poorly; and because Richard Baxter and Robert Hall were invalids, they think that by the same sickness they may come to the same grandeur of character. I want to tell the Christian people of my congregation that God will hold you responsible for your invalidism if it is your fault, and when, through right exercise and prudence, you might be athletic and well. The effect of the body upon the soul you acknowledge. Put a man of mild disposition upon the animal diet of which the Indian partakes, and in a little while his blood will change its chemical proportions. It will become like unto the blood of the lion, or the tiger, or the bear, while his disposition will change, and become fierce and unrelenting. The body has a powerful effect upon the soul.

There are good people whose ideas of Heaven are all shut out with clouds of tobacco smoke. There are people who dare to shatter the physical vase in which God has put the jewel of eternity. There are men with great hearts and intellects, in bodies worn out by their neglects—magnificent machinery, capable of propelling a Majestic across the Atlantic, yet fastened in a rickety North river propeller. Martin Luther was so mighty for God, first, because he had a noble soul, and secondly because he had a muscular development which would have enabled him to thrash any five of his persecutors, if it had been Christian enough to do so. Physical development which merely shows itself in fabulous lifting, or in perilous ropewalking, or in pugilistic encounter, excites only our contempt; but we confess to great admiration for the man who has a great soul in an athletic body, every nerve, muscle and bone of which is concentrated to right uses. Oh, it seems to be outrageous that men, through neglect, should allow their physical health to go down beyond repair—a ship which ought, with all sail set and every man at his post, to be carrying a rich cargo for eternity, employing all its men in stopping leakages! When you may, through the gymnasium, work off your spleen and your querulousness and one-half of your physical and mental ailments, do not turn your back upon such a grand medicament.

Still further, I commend to you a large class of parlor games and recreations. There is a way of making our homes a hundred-fold more attractive than they are now. Those parents can not expect to keep their children away from outside dissipations unless they make the domestic circle brighter than anything else they can find outside of it. Do not, then, sit in your home surly and unsympathetic, and with a half-condemnatory look because of the spoctfulness of your children. You were young once yourself; let your children be young. Because your eyes are dim and your ankles are stiff do not denounce sportfulness in those upon whose eyes there is the first luster, and in whose foot there is the bounding joy of robust health. I thank God that in our drawing rooms and in our parlors there are innumerable games and sports which have not upon them the least taint of iniquity.

Light up all your homes with innocent hilarities. Do not sit down with the rheumatism, wondering how children can go on so. Rather thank God that their hearts are so light, and their laughter is so free, and their cheeks are so ruddy, and that their expectations are so radiant. The night will come soon enough, and the heart-break, and the pang, and the desolation—it will come soon enough for the dear children. But when the storm actually clouds the sky it will be time enough for you to haul out your reef-tackles. Carry, then, into your homes not only the innocent sports and games which are the inventions of our own day, but the games which come down with the sportfulness of all the past ages—chess and charades and tableaux and battledore and calisthenics and lawn tennis, and all those amusements which the young people of our homes know so well how to contrive. Then there will be the parlor socialties—groups of people assembled in your homes, with wit and mimicry and joviality, filling the room with joy from door to mantel, and from the carpet to the ceiling. Oh, is there any exhilaration like a score of genial souls in one room, each one adding a contribution of his own individual merriment to the aggregation of general hilarity?

Suppose you want to go abroad in the city, then you will find the panorama and the art gallery and the exquisite collections of pictures. You will find the museum and the historical society rooms full of rare curiosities, and scores of places which can stand plainly the test of what is right and wrong in amusements. You will find the lecturing hall, which has been honored by the names of Agassiz in natural history, Doremus in chemistry, Boynton in geology, Mitchell in astronomy, John B. Gough in moral reform, and scores and hundreds of men who have poured their wit and genius and ingenuity through that particular channel upon the hearts and consciences and imaginations of men, setting this country 50 years further in advance than it would have been without the lecture platform.

I rejoice in the popularization of outdoor sports. I hail the croquet ground and the fisherman's rod and the sportsman's gun. In our cities life is so unhealthy and unnatural that when the census taker represents a city as having 400,000 inhabitants, there are only 200,000, since it takes at least two men to amount to one man, so depleting and unnerving and exhausting is this metropolitan life. We want more fresh air, more sunlight, more of the abandon of field sports. I cry out for it in behalf of the church of God as well as in behalf of secular interests. I wish that our ponds and our rivers and capitoline grounds might be all aquake with the heel and the shout of the swift skater. I wish that when the warm weather comes, the graceful oar might dip the stream, and the evening tide be resonant with boatman's song, the bright prow splitting the crystalline billow.

We shall have the smooth and grassy lawn, and we will call out people of all occupations and professions and ask them to join in the ball player's sport. You will come back from these outdoor exercises and recreations, with strength in your arm and color in your cheek and a flash in your eye and courage in your heart. In this great battle that is opening against the kingdom of darkness, we want not only a consecrated soul, but a strong arm and stout lungs and mighty muscle. I bless God that there are so many recreations that have not on them any taint of iniquity; recreations in which we may engage for the strengthening of the body, for the clearing of the intellect, for the illumination of the soul.

There is still another form of recreation which I commend to you, and that is the pleasure of doing good. I have seen young men, weak and cross and sour and repelling in their disposition, who by one Heavenly touch have wakened up and become blessed and buoyant, the ground under their feet and the sky over their heads breaking forth into music. "Oh," says some young man in the house to-day, "I should like that recreation above all others, but I have not the means." My dear brother, let us take an account of stock. You have a large estate if you only realize it. Two hands. Two feet. You will have, perhaps, during the next year at least ten dollars for charitable contribution. You will have 2,500 cheerful looks, if you want to employ them. You will have 5,000 pleasant words if you want to speak them. Now what an amount that is to start with!

You go out to-morrow morning and you see a case of real destitution by the wayside. You give him two cents. The blind man hears the pennies rattles in his hat and he says: "Thank you, sir; God bless you!" You pass down the street, trying to look indifferent, but you feel from the very depth of your soul a profound satisfaction that you made that man happy. You go still further and find a poor boy with a wheelbarrow trying to get it up on the curbstone. He fails in the attempt. You say, "Stand back, my lad; let me try." You push it up on the curbstone for him and pass on. He wonders who that well-dressed man was that helped him. You did a kindness to the boy, but you did a great joy to your own soul. You will not get over it all week.

On the street to-morrow morning, you will see a sick man passing along. "Ah," you say, "what can I do to make this man happy? He certainly does not want money; he is not poor, but he is sick." Give him one of those twenty-five hundred cheerful looks that you have garnered up for the whole year. Look joy and hopefulness into his soul. It will thrill him through and there will be a reaction upon your own soul. Going a little further on, you will come to the store of a friend who is embarrassed in business matters. You will go in and say: "What a fine store you have! I think business will brighten up, and you will have more custom after awhile. I think there is coming a great prosperity to all the country. Good morning." You pass out. You have helped that young man, and you have helped yourself.

NEAR Medicine Lodge, Kan., recently, two mules got to backing and fell into a well. The well was very deep, but the mules lodged fifteen feet down. When they were taken out one was dead.

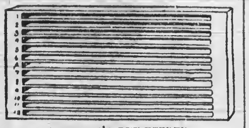
AGRICULTURAL HINTS.

PROFIT IN BEEKEEPING.

Experience of an Ohio Apiarist of Twenty Years' Standing.

On April 2, '95, we removed 50 stands of Italian bees from our cellar to their summer stands, and found that there had been no loss except in the weakening of some colonies and the loss of three queens. We immediately gave the bees that had lost their queens to the weakest colonies, leaving us 47 stands. To these we added five more by purchase at $2.30 each. Having 175 pounds of a poor grade of honey, and as all were getting scarce of honey, we invented a feeder of our own, and during the scarcity of honey between apple bloom and white clover, we placed a feeder over each colony and fed them some of this poor honey every evening, which brought them up good and strong in bees until the commencement of the white clover crop. This feeding prevented the cessation of egg laying by the queen, and consequently our hives were full of brood, larvae and eggs, and the new honey from clover was placed in the extracting combs, which were now put in readiness for the expected honey flow.

Perhaps a description of our feeder would be of benefit to some brother beekeeper. It is made of two-inch pine, cut 7x14 inches. In the center, lengthwise, a slot three-eighths of an inch in width is cut through and to within an inch of each end. Then 12 other slots, six on each side of the center slot, three-eighths of an inch wide, are cut 1¾ inches deep, and out as near each end as possible; one-eighth inch of wood is left between the slots for the bees to crawl up on and to keep them from drowning.



DICKMAN'S BEE-FEEDER.

A, slot ⅜ in. wide, cut entirely through block for bees to come through to get feed; 1 to 12 are slots cut ⅜ in. wide, 1¾ in. deep, to hold feed. This to be covered with screen, which is raised by placing ⅛-in. strips around edge and across center.

These center walls, save the one on each side of the center slot, have a portion cut away, down as deep as the slots are cut, which permits these slots to fill evenly though the feed be poured at one place. Small strips one-half inch thick are nailed around the edge and one across the center; over this a piece of common door screening, cut to fit, is placed, and another small strip one-eighth inch thick is nailed to hold the screen in place.

These feeders were placed over each colony by cutting a small strip out of the burlap and placing the center slot so as to come between, or rather directly over, the space between two combs in the lower story. We believe this feeder to be as good as any we have yet seen, as you can feed at any time without the bees being able to come out of the hive. If the feeder is full of bees it matters not, as you can pour your feed right on them and fill the feeder if you wish, and not a bee will be drowned. If you wish to stop feeding and the feeder is full of bees, simply place the feeder on the ground, bottom side up, and the bees will soon return to the hive. But we have digressed.

White clover yielded very poorly at first, but got some better, until a crop of 3,500 pounds was taken by the extractor. Then we had a short cessation, when the basswood flow began, and a crop of 2,000 pounds was harvested and the honey from 222 stands not removed, which (if it had been removed) would have swelled the entire crop to over 7,000 pounds. Two tons of this honey would have sold at 10@12½ cents per pound, and nearly one ton on hand. There is considerable capital invested, but this crop did not take three months' work of one man.

The query "did it pay?" seems to be very easily answered. One load of 1,800 shipped a few days ago brought as much as 300 bushels of wheat, or 1,000 bushels of oats, or 51,000 pounds of corn. Whether it paid or not, we think you can find us next year as in the past 20 years—still in the business.—Jacob Dickman, in Ohio Farmer.

DISEASES OF POULTRY.

It Will Never Pay to Attempt the Cure of a Sick Bird.

If fowls are kept clean and well sheltered from the wind and wet, and not overfed and have a due proportion of both soft and green food, and a never-failing supply of clean water, they will usually remain free from disease, unless infected by strangers. When disease does occur among fowls it may usually be ascribed to our variable climate, to dampness and cold, to injudicious feeding and to an ill-ventilated roosting house. We would therefore recommend, says an authority, as a cure in chief for all the ills to which poultry is subject, the practice of the old saw, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." And a good general rule for the cure of sickness is that it be killed without delay, for unless the birds be valuable ones, it will never pay to attempt a cure, and rarely so if they are. A diseased fowl, as will be the result of general observation, is never kindly treated by its healthy companions, and, as most of the diseases to which they are liable are highly contagious, if not killed and thus summarily disposed of, it should be at once removed from the flock and confined by itself for treatment.—Farmer's Voice.

Young chickens of fancy breeding should not be permitted to roost on perches until after they are three months old, because it so often causes crooked breast bones.

FOUNDATION STOCK.

A Subject That Should Be Studied by Every Progressive Breeder.

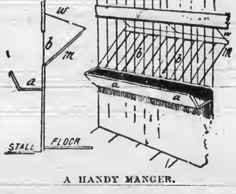
As a foundation principle, says Prof. Morrow, we want to use for the sire and dam hogs that have those characteristics we desire and have those fixed by good breeding. It is in accordance with the best practice and with the best theory that, given reasonable purity of breeding, it is more important to have an additional merit in the sire and dam than in the more remote ancestry, and so, in a descending scale, as we go back. If we will bear in mind that in going back only ten generations, we are each of us carrying the blood of 1,024 men and women in our veins, if there have been no intermarriage of relations, we will see we need not worry about what our tenth parental ancestor was. So when a man tells me the good points of a certain breed of hogs way back in 1800 it don't carry much weight. As a rule, we had better look to the individual merit. He thinks we make a mistake in breeding when we insist upon getting coarseness, perhaps length of body, in the dam and look for a compact and possibly slightly effeminate male. Among hogs the male, as a rule, is [illegible] than the female.

There may wisely be a distinction made in the practice of the professional breeder and the common breeder who is raising hogs, not for breeding purposes, but to be sold in the market. Let the first, as far as possible, breed from mature stock. Let him see that his hogs get a good deal of exercise. Prof. Morrow has no faith whatever in the wisdom of the practice of confining any animal designed for breeding purposes without exercise, summer or winter. On the other hand he would not have the farmer who breeds hogs for the general market be overly careful. It will not do to say that it is wise for him to breed only from mature animals. He will not do it, and as a rule he would make less money if he did. If he will renew his stock from the skillful professional breeder he will make more money by breeding from comparatively young animals, and as soon as may be turning off the dams for pork, than he will by following the practice so important to the professional breeder. It will be wise for the producer of the pig that he wants to sell for pork, to feed liberally and well at as early an age as practicable.—Farmers' Voice.

MANGER FOR HORSES.

Exceedingly Convenient Whenever Stable Room Is Limited.

Wherever the room for the horse stable is small, as it is where the stalls are arranged across one end of the barn in a 12 or 14 foot space, where the horses are to face the barn floor, this manger will be found exceedingly convenient. In place of the usual wide and deep manger, construct a trough (a) not over one foot wide or deep. Place rods (b) the full width of the manger, just far enough apart so that the horse can get his nose between them to eat his hay or fodder, which is placed upon the slant support (m). This is hinged at the bottom and supported at the top by a wire or rope (w). The advantages of this manger are a saving of space, no feed can be wasted, and there is no place in which the refuse parts of the feed may collect. The seed and chaff fall through the slat support to the barn floor. When feeding fodder drop this support from the top and the stalks roll out upon the floor, from whence they may easily be carried wherever desired; they thus never become an annoyance in the manure. When hauling hay into the barn this support (m) may be dropped so as to be entirely out of the way. Withal it is cheap in its construction. The rods in front of the trough may be of wood or iron. The support (m) may be made of half-inch boards four inches wide. Use common four-inch strap hinge.—Orange Judd Farmer.



A HANDY MANGER.

AMONG THE POULTRY.

Over-fat hens are in danger of apoplexy.

Wheat is among the best foods for laying hens.

Keep the hens scratching if you would keep them laying.

Generally it is not a good plan to feed stimulating food to poultry.

The quality of the eggs depends largely upon the food given to the hens.

Except for feeding soft food troughs should not be used. Always scatter grain.

While sour milk is relished by the hens, it should not be made to take the place of water.

The goose will lay about as many eggs as the turkey and can be raised to maturity at about one-half the cost.

Ducklings are much more easily fed than chickens. Nothing seems to disagree with them as long as it is sweet.

One advantage in raising ducks rather than chickens, is that they grow almost twice as fast, are free from vermin and less liable to disease.

The guinea is a useful fowl, notwithstanding its peculiarities. It lays a large number of eggs, which, though small, are of good quality and nutritious.

A goose is not fully matured at one year old, but sometimes breeders will couple old males with young females. Avoid getting them too fat, and give them plenty of opportunity for exercise. —St. Louis Republic.

ABOUT SHARKS.

Essay of a Young Naturalist on the Monsters of the Deep.

An examiner of lads under 16 for the civil service commission gave for a question: "Describe the habits of fish." Here is a literal transcript of one out of a batch of some hundreds of answers:

"The shark is about 20 feet long and has five rows of teeth when the shark is going to catch his pray it turns on its side. The sharks are found in India, where they are very numerous in Africa, etc. The way they catch sharks is lowering a piece of meat on a sharp hook (and sailors will do it for amusement), and the shark is very hungry always, that he will grab at the meat and find himself caught. One of his foes are the sord fish it will go and run its sword through its stummick.

"When the shark has been floating about on the water for some time it gets a lot of small fish in its mouth and they will go and lay on the beach and let small birds come in their mouth and pick them off and will not hurt them. The shark can live in water and on land. Going from England to India you will see sharks in the nile, they will follow ships for many miles on purpose to get some meat, and then perhaps not get any. They are different kinds of sharks, the Black shark, Etc.

"The shark is a very curious animal, it can lay its teeth down when not catching any food. Once upon a time there was a ship going to america, and on board some slaves the slaves were packed so close together that they could not live, and the captin of the ship youst to let some come upon deck, and many of the slaves you'st to jump overboard, and be eat with sharks, so the captin determined to stop it if he could. So one day a black slave woman was just in the acted to jump overboard when the captin caught her, and had as many slaves as he could upon deck. And then he had a roap fastened around her waist, and lowered her overboard, when a shark came and bitt a half off her off, and then the captin had the other half pulled up and sorn to the slaves on deck, and then said to them that he would do any one of them the same if he jumped overboard."—London Church Times.

HE APPRECIATED SYMPATHY.

And He Heaped Some Left-Handed Compliments on His Sympathizer.

When this man came into the Madison street car he was so unreliable in his legs and so dreamy about the eyes that everyone there knew his condition at a glance.

He dropped into the seat with all the abandon of a sack of meal falling off a dray, and, fastening a fixed gaze on the people opposite, observed that they were smirking and tittering.

"Funny, ain't it?" he asked, suddenly.

They straightened their faces at once.

"Never see a man zhag 'fore?"

No one replied.

He regarded the stove with wavering melancholy, and in a few moments began to chuckle, hoarsely:

"Don't blame you," said he. "'Scuse me."

He arose and started toward the doorway, lost his balance and was about to crush a pale girl, when a young man jumped up, caught him by the arm and said: "Steady, old man. Better sit down again."

The young man helped him to a place in the corner and resumed his own seat.

"You're a gem-n-m-n," said the man in the corner, shaking his finger at the one who had assisted him.

The young man smiled weakly, as anyone is apt to do when complimented, no matter what is the source of inspiration of the compliment.

"He's all right," said the man in the corner, with rising inflection. "He can sh'mpthize. There's boy been load' 'ims'f thous'n' times. Ain' tha' so?"

The young man turned very red, because the other passengers were laughing. He raised a gloved hand in mild protest and shook his head at the man in the corner.

"Aw, tha's all right," said the thankful man. "You know how 't is 'self. You had load peaches man' time Huh?"

It may not have been the young man's corner, but he got up and left the car.

"He's lush, too," said the man in the corner. "Won' 'dmit it now, but lush jus' same."—Chicago Record.

Sitting Erect.

Very many persons, in taking a seat, use the edge of it only, with the result that in a very short time they seem to be doubling up, the head bending forward over the chest. The easiest method of sitting erect, and in a graceful position, is to occupy the chair in such a way that the lowest part of the spine or backbone touches the back of the seat; then, by causing the shoulders also to touch the back, the whole body is erect and maintains itself, not only without an effort, but with a feeling of support, relief and rest, and that, too, without any appreciable effort. Any position maintained by the aid of a brace is forced, and is secured by an injury done to some other part, which not only has to support itself, but aid in supporting parts not intended, hence must in time itself need aid from other sources, and thus the mischief goes on. —N. Y. Ledger.

Our Vessels in the Lead.

The Vulcan, 6,620 tons, with a radius of action of 12,000 miles at ten knots an hour, or 3,000 at 18 knots, is regarded as one of the most capable ships in the British navy. Her French compeer is the Tage, 7,255 tons, which has a radius of 6,500 miles at ten knots. The Italia, 15,000 tons, Italy's best ship, has a coal capacity of 8,036 miles at ten knots an hour. From this it will be seen that no European navy has any vessel that can compare with the Oregon and other vessels of the United States navy which can steam 16,000 miles at ten knots an hour.—N. Y. Tribune.

A MOTORMAN'S LIFE.

Full of Hardships, Exposure and Constant Danger.

The Great Strain on a Man's Nerves Sufficient in Itself to Wreck Him in a Short Time—The Experience of a Well-Known Motorman.

From the Cincinnati, Ohio, Enquirer.

The life of a motorman is not a bed of roses. He is subjected to many hardships especially in the winter when he is exposed to the cold and snow. Even in the summer he must bear the intense heat which beats down upon him. Considerable nerve and self possession is necessary in a good motorman, for the lives and limbs of his passengers are at stake. One of the best known electric motormen in this city is William Frazer, who is at present running a car on the Cumminsville electric line. He is not only well known to his fellow employes but to the people who travel on his car. Mr. Frazer is a young man about twenty-six years of age and resides with his wife and child at 144 Betts Street, Cincinnati, O. About a year ago Mr. Frazer was taken with serious stomach troubles. He bought several kinds of medicine which were recommended to him, but none of them seemed to give him even temporary benefit. An enthusiastic admirer of that famous remedy known as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People told him to try them. Frazer was almost discouraged, but took the advice. To a reporter of the Enquirer he said:

"I can most heartily recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are all that is claimed for them, in fact they advertise themselves better than any medicine I ever saw. I was seized some time ago with a bad attack of indigestion. My stomach hurt me nearly all the time and I could not digest my food. The pain was almost unbearable and I found nothing that would give me relief. I confess that when I bought the first box of Pink Pills I hadn't much confidence in their efficacy because I had tried so many things without success that I was almost discouraged. Before I had taken one box I was decidedly better. Two boxes cured me entirely. While I have been under the weather from other causes my indigestion has never returned. If it ever should I know just what to do. I have so much confidence in the efficacy of Pink Pills that if I ever get real sick again with any disorder I shall use some of them. It is a pleasure for me I assure you to testify to the excellent qualities of these Pink Pills. They not only tone the stomach but regulate the bowels and act as a mild cathartic."

Mr. Frazer's testimonial means something. He speaks from personal experience and any one who doubts that he received the benefits stated can easily verify the assertion by calling on Mr. Frazer or seeing him some time while he is on his car.

Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are sold in boxes (never in loose form by the dozen or hundred) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or directly by mail from Dr. Williams' Med. Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

An Embarrassing Question.—Schoolmaster (to new boy)—"What is your father by trade?" Boy (perplexed)—"I haven't to tell." S.—"But you must." B. (after a great deal of hesitation)—"Please, sir, he's the bearded woman at the circus."—Almanach Amusant.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

A bright boy in a Boston school was asked to name six animals of the Arctic zone. With the confidence of a college professor, he promptly answered: "Three polar bears and three seals."

The Pilgrim—Easter Number

Will be ready the early part of April. Everything in it will be new and original. It will contain articles by Capt. Chas. King, U. S. A., Ex-Gov. Geo. W. Peck, of Wisconsin, and other noted writers. An entertaining number, well illustrated. Send ten (10) cents to Geo. H. Heafford, publisher, 415 Old Colony Building, Chicago, Ill., for a copy.

The gay cravat which she selected
Will leave him soon a wreck
While he with truth remarks, dejected,
"I'll get it in the neck."
—Washington Star.

"Scientists say now that handshaking conveys disease." "Of course; that's the way the grip got started."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

I have lived to know that the great secret of human happiness is this: Never suffer your energies to stagnate.—Adam Clark.

When a man gets to thinking that he can do it all, the only way to bring him to his senses is to let him try it.—Hartford Herald.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, March 30.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	$2 50	@ 3 00
Select butchers	3 85	@ 4 00
HOGS—Common	3 50	@ 3 95
Good packers	3 95	@ 4 05
SHEEP—Choice	3 25	@ 3 85
LAMBS—Spring	6 00	@ 8 50
FLOUR—Winter family	2 75	@ 3 10
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 73
No. 3 red		@ 70
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 30
Oats—No. 2		@ 21
Rye—No. 2		@ 42
HAY—Prime to choice	14 50	@15 00
TOBACCO—Medium leaf	10 60	@11 50
Good leaf	12 00	@14 75
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@ 9 50
Lard—Prime steam		@ 5 05
BUTTER—Choice dairy	13	@ 14
Prime to choice creamery		@ 23
APPLES—Per bbl	3 00	@ 3 50
POTATOES—Per bush	30	@ 35
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 85	@ 3 95
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 1 north'n		@ 75¾
No. 2 red		@ 70¾
CORN—No. 2 mixed		@ 37¾
OATS—Mixed		@ 25¼
PORK—New mess	9 00	@10 00
LARD—Western		@ 5 40
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patents	3 50	@ 3 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	66	@ 66¼
No. 2 Chicago spring	62½	@ 63⅜
CORN—No. 2	28¾	@ 29
OATS—No. 2		@ 19
PORK—Mess	8 75	@ 8 80
LARD—Steam		@ 5 12½
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	3 45	@ 3 70
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	72½	@ 72¾
Corn—Mixed	34	@ 34⅛
Oats—Mixed	26½	@ 27
LARD—Refined		@11 00
PORK—Mess		@16 85
CATTLE—First quality	4 25	@ 4 50
HOGS—Western	4 40	@ 4 60
INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 63½
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 28
OATS—No. 2 mixed		@ 21
LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 30	@ 3 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 71
Corn—Mixed		@ 29½
Oats—Mixed		@ 22
PORK—Mess		@ 9 75
LARD—Steam	5 75	@ 6 75

To California in Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars.

The Burlington Route (C., B. & Q. R. R.) runs personally conducted excursions to California, leaving Chicago every Wednesday. Through cars to California destination, fitted with carpets, upholstered seats, bedding, toilet rooms, etc.; every convenience. Special agent in charge. Route via Denver and Salt Lake. Sunshine all the way. Write for descriptive pamphlet to T. A. Grady, Excursion Manager, 211 Clark St., Chicago.

The imagination has a shadow as well as the body, that keeps just a little ahead of you, or follows close behind your heels; it don't do to let it frighten you.—Haliburton.

Cheap Excursions to the West and Northwest.

On March 10 and April 7, 1896, the North-Western Line (Chicago & Northwestern R'y) will sell Home Seekers' excursion tickets at very low rates to a large number of points in Northern Wisconsin, Michigan, Northwestern Iowa, Western Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota, including the famous Black Hills district. For full information apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address W. B. Kniskern, G. P. & T. A., Chicago, Ill.

A torpid liver has frequently succeeded in convincing man that he is fairly reeking with statesmanship and independence.—Washington Post.

Saved from Destruction.

This is what happens when the kidneys are rescued from inactivity by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. If they continue inactive they are threatened with Bright's disease, diabetes or some other malady which works their destruction. Malarial, bilious and rheumatic ailment and dyspepsia are also conquered by the Bitters, which is thorough and effective.

Be honest in your heart. Whitewash may look like paint for awhile, but the world soon learns the difference.—L. A. W. Bulletin.

I believe Piso's Cure for Consumption saved my boy's life last summer.—Mrs. Allie Douglass, LeRoy, Mich., Oct. 20, '94.

True happiness ne'er entered an eye; true happiness resides in things unseen.—Young.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

Such ills as SORENESS,
STIFFNESS,
and the like,
ST. JACOBS OIL
WIPES OUT
Promptly and Effectually.

Better use them this way,

if you don't use Pearline Give your tired arms and aching back a rest, somehow, when you're scrubbing and cleaning.

"An absurd idea?" Of course But when a person has cleaned house with Pearline, year in and year out, and knows how much work it saves, nothing seems more absurd than to try to clean house without it. Pearline—no soap with it—just Pearline—makes house-cleaning easy

Millions NOW USE Pearline

The coming Artist who knows enough to paint a popular subject.

Battle Ax
PLUG

A GREAT BIG PIECE FOR 10 CENTS

You get 5⅓ oz. of "Battle Ax" for 10 cents. You only get 3⅕ oz. of other brands of no better quality for 10 cents. In other words, if you buy "Battle Ax" you get 2 oz. more of high grade tobacco for the same money. Can you afford to resist this fact? We say NO—unless you have "Money to Burn."

STEEL WEB PICKET FENCE.
CABLED FIELD AND HOG FENCE.

Also CABLED POULTRY, GARDEN AND RABBIT FENCE.

We manufacture a complete line of Smooth Wire Fencing and guarantee every article to be as represented. Ask your dealer to show you this Fence. ☞ CATALOGUE FREE.

DE KALB FENCE CO., 122 HIGH ST., DE KALB, ILL.

STARK TREES BEAR FRUIT
STARK TRADE MARK
TESTED 70 YEARS Salesmen and club makers wanted for GOLD plum, etc. Stark, Louisiana, Mo., Rockport, Ills.

McKINLEY Bright men and women are making $10 to $25 a day handling the Life of McKinley, our NEW BOOK. Everybody wants this authentic biography of the brilliant advocate of protection and our next President. Finely illustrated. Sold only by subscription; exclusive territory given; act quick as time is money. For terms, etc., address the publishers, THE N. G. HAMILTON PUB. CO., 303 The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS PLEASE state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER.

Wednesday, April 1, 1896.

Rates of Subscription:

One year	$1 50.
Six months	75.
Three months	40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER
SOLICITS YOUR Job Work,
NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS.
Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.
Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

A big oil well is to be sunk at Pineville.

A fifty-year-old man is going to school at Paintsville.

Citizens of Morehead are talking up the erection of a new courthouse.

George Dougarte was killed in Barren county by a tree falling on him.

The wife of Nelson Turner, of Jessamine county, was burned to death.

The spotted fever has disappeared from Wolfe and Edmonson counties.

Barboursville has a white population of 1,317, 600 of whom are church members.

The Augusta school trustees want to sell $10,000 worth of bonds for building a school house.

Sixty Mason county farmers, white and colored, left last week to locate on lands in Kansas.

At Lancaster, Lee Floyd was sentenced to the penitentiary for life, for the murder of James Sloan.

At Jackson, Carey Holley was sentenced to eighteen years imprisonment for killing James Combs.

Ohio and New York men have leased large tracts of land in Tygart valley, near Greenup, and will bore for oil.

Ashland had her first colored jury, last week. It acquitted a colored man for carrying concealed weapons.

Allen Ballew, seventy-four years of age, has just been acquitted of the charge of murder at Lancaster, Kentucky.

Louisville's Board of Safety may be impeached for using funds levied instead of appropriated by the General Council.

Jessamine county Republicans instructed for Bradley first, McKinley second, and had several fights in the convention.

The local option election at Millersburg, resulted in a victory for the prohibition element by a majority of twenty-six votes.

Local option carried at Millersburg, Monday by twenty-six majority. The town has been under the local option law for ten years.

Douglas Thomas, of Paris, sold to Mike Bowerman, of Lexington the three-year-old trotting colt Baronade, by Baron Wilkes, for $3,000.

In the Fayette Circuit Court D. A. Wood, who sued J. E. Crogan for $10,000 damages for assaulting him, was awarded $2,000 damages.

Harrison county has thirteen candidates announced for County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, and a like number for other offices.

Cashier Shipp and Assistant Cashier Stone, of the Deposit Bank at Midway, have resigned, and there is said to be a shortage of between $20,000 and $30,000 in the bank's accounts.

It is not generally known, but nevertheless true, says the Lexington Herald, that the Bessemer process of making steel was first used in this State at Eddyville by one William Kelly.

Governor Bradley has approved the bill appropriating $100,000 for establishment of two houses of reform, one for boys and one for girls. This is one of the few good things that the Legislature did.

The Mt. Olivet Tribune-Democrat says: "Measles was never so prevalent as it is at present in Robertson county. About every family has had a case or two and there have been several deaths from it."

At Lexington Sunday, Rev. S. J. Howard, colored, immersed 110 persons, with one assistant, in one hour and a half, the result of a meeting he conducted at Pleasant Green Baptist Church. About 5,000 people white and blacks, looked on.

John T. Wood and John R. Nutter, Fayette-county farmers, have assigned all their property, including two very valuable blue grass farms, to Charles B. Nichols. They were forced to the wall by the explosion of the Wichita (Kas.) boom.

Rev. G. W. Perryman, of Newport Baptist Church, entered the ministry seven years ago. He has preached 1,161 sermons, received into the church 435 persons, the most of whom he baptised, preached more than 200 funerals and married 165 couples.

It is said that beer was obtained a long time ago by the tapping of trees, says the Somerset Hornet. If "white" whisky could be produced in the same way, every ax in Pulaski county would be worn to the eye, and there would not be a live tree or even a sapling in the county.

The Richmond Climax says: "J. H. Boggs & Co. now have eight imported fox hounds from the Albrighton Kennel, of England. One reached Richmond March 9, and the others arrived on the 19th. The dogs were bred by John Scott, huntsman, of Albrighton Kennel. They are fine specimens of their strain, every part being perfect."

The stanch Republican county of Clay has trouble with its officials. The recent grand jury indicted the County Attorney three times, the County Judge, Treasurer and Coroner each once. The ex-Jailer, ex-County Attorney and three ex-Sheriffs were also indicted. Some of the charges are for perjury, some for stealing, etc. One Deputy Sheriff was indicted for shooting out the window glass in the Court house.—Owingsville Outlook.

Charles Limerick, the well-known Newport contractor and ex-member of the City Council, died in Newport as the result of his terrible experience in the Ninth-Street sewer seven months ago. Limerick and Peter Linet were in the sewer making some repairs, when a heavy shower fell and a vast volume of water tumbled into the sewer, catching the two men and bearing them away, vainly struggling and screaming for help. After being swept for nearly half a mile underground the sewer vomited forth its half-dead victims into the Licking River. Limerick, previously a strong man, was completely prostrated for weeks and never recovered from the nervous shock and exposure. He began to fail in body and health, and his death today was the result.

STOCK AND CROP.

At a recent sale in Fayette county. Irish potatoes sold in 100 bushel lots at 15 cents per bushel.

A vein of cannel coal five feet thick has been found on the farm of Mrs. McCreary, near Manchester.

In Pulaski county last week Mrs. Kit Hall, already the mother of 11 children, gave birth to triplets, weighing 2½, 3 and 3½ pounds.

Mr. James McConathy, of Fayette county, bought last week 300 lambs at 4½ cents, for June delivery and 4 cents for August delivery.

Joel Luman, of Burtonville, Lewis county, is 6 feet 4 inches tall, and weighs 354 pounds. He has a son and daughter exactly his own height.

Kentucky is the foremost State in the production of hemp, and has been known to produce 35,000 tons in a year. It produces nearly two-thirds of the American tobacco crop.

Gracey has shipped $75,000 worth of poultry to New York since February 1. One firm doing business in Benton shipped 20,000 dozen eggs to Chicago during the past month.

Lady Dejarnette, the famous show mare that took more premiums than any other horse in Kentucky, was found dead recently in her stall on the farm of her owner, Mr. John Hughes, of Fayette county.

J. W. Givens is back from Lexington, Miss, after a very satisfactory trip. He disposed of 40 mules and horses at $65 to $150. The section is in a very prosperous condition at present, more so than since the war, he thinks.

Henry county can safely lay claim to the greatest curiosity of the season. Mr. James Adams, living near Franklinton, reports the birth on his place of a pig with two distinct bodies, one head, eight legs, four ears and two rows of teeth.—New Castle Local.

The Mt. Olivet Tribune-Democrat says: Jesse Sims has a peculiar apple tree in his yard. The apples of this tree are half sweet and half sour. Not the apples on one-half of the tree sweet and the other half sour, but the half of each apple is sweet while the other half is decidedly sour.

Reports from a number of the largest peach growers in this section indicate that the crop will be a large one. The buds on trees standing on the south side of hills have been forced and a portion of some of the varieties have been killed but as a whole there will be an ample supply of the fruit.

The tobacco market in this county is flatter than the proverbial pancake. Crops that are considered of fair quality have been selling as low as 2 and 3 cents; and we have heard of at least one farmer using his last year's crop for fertilizing—preferring to do that rather than strip and prepare it for market.—Robertson Advance.

OUR NEIGHBORS

OWEN COUNTY
[News]

The News is now in its new quarters in Beck's Block.

Last Monday was too much of a day even for the irrepressible horse jockeys to come to town.

The extremely severe weather has been very disastrous on young lambs, many of the farmers having lost as high as 25 per cent.

Hon. Ras Bainbridge, one of the most successful breeders of Jersey Red Berkshire hogs, in the State, will organize a Jersey Red swine breeder's association.

It is denied that 'Squire Knox Brown and Uncle Pete Hildreth and the old-timers, telegraphed to Gov. Bradley Monday to call out the malitia to suppress Field Marshal Hawkins, who, with his band of colored troops, were walking all over the Republican convention here last Monday.

Wm. Lindsay, J. F. Rees, and Rev. J. H. Anderson were appointed a committee by the Baptist church here ta look after the plans and specifications for the new church. They visited Covington, Newport and Cincinnati, last week to look through the churches in those cities and agree upon some particular style of edifice for the church here.

—§§—

GRANT COUNTY
[Courier]

Williamstown has ten groceries.

Williamstown has a wife beater, John Wilson pleaded guilty in Judge McMillan's Court on last Monday to the offense of whipping his wife, or as he puts it "their little differences."

John Bean, while on a drunk at Mason last Saturday, came in contact with a locomotive and was completely knocked out. The train was moving slowly and the drunken man stepped in front of it and received serious bruises and a cracked skull.

One of the most successful farmers in this county is R. L. Conrad, of near Dry Ridge. Last year on sixteen acres of land he raised and sold 22,320 pounds of tobacco, getting for the same $6,85 per hundred. This winter from 49 ewes he has 92 nice lambs.

—§§—

CARROLL COUNTY
[News]

C. H. Ward, of Carroll county, slashed a terrible gash across his throat with a razor, in attempting suicide.

In the motion for a new trial in the Massie case, at Owenton, the attorneys for the defendant aver that Geo. Carlton, who was a juror in 1892, claims that he had a conversation with J. J. Smith, also of this county, who was a juror in the last trial, in which he related the facts of the case as detailed by the witnesses, and that he was ineligible as a juror. The affidavit was not signed by Mr. Carlton, but the attorneys insisted that it was because the affidavit set forth the date as 1894 when it should have been 1892. Mr. Smith is one of the best citizens of the county and would not have served on the jury had he formed an opinion or otherwise been ineligible.

The plans of the new opera house have been received and when carried out, Carrollton will have the neatest and coziest "temple of amusement" in the State. There will be two boxes, and the seating capacity of the hall will be 700. The parquet will be flat and the chairs moveable, so that it can be used for dancing.

The largest spoon-bill catfish that has been seen here in years was caught by John F. Eblin and ye river man Thursday. It tipped the beam at 25½ pounds, and was caught while the snow was coming down in blinding sheets—on a snagging line.

There seems to be a good many superstitious people in Carrollton, according to Assistant Postmaster Darling. He says No 13 is a hard box to rent and no one keeps it long, so in renumbering the lock-boxes he left No. 13 out entirely.

The big City of Louisville made railroad time coming down Sunday night. She left Cincinnati at noon, made all her landings and landed at the wharf at 4:25, reaching Madison at 5:05 and arriving at Louisville at 7:40.

Rev. Oscar M. Huey has accepted the call to the Baptist church and will commence his pastorate the first of May.

CANCER CURED
—AND A—
LIFE SAVED
By the Persistent Use of
Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"I was troubled for years with a sore on my knee, which several physicians, who treated me, called a cancer, assuring me that nothing could be done to save my life. As a last resort, I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after taking a number of bottles, the sore began to disappear and my general health improve. I persisted in this treatment, until the sore was entirely healed. Since then, I use Ayer's Sarsaparilla occasionally as a tonic and blood-purifier, and, indeed, it seems as though I could not keep house without it."—Mrs. S. A. FIELDS, Bloomfield, Ia.

AYER'S
The Only World's Fair Sarsaparilla.
Ayer's Pills Regulate the Liver.

THE QUEEN & CRESCENT
ROUTE

Vestibuled Limited Trains to Southern Towns and Cities. A fine trip for summer outing through the Blue Grass region, the great Cumberland Plateau and to far famed Lookout Mountain.
The historic battlefields of CHICKAMAUGA, Mission Ridge and LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN.
Cool and invigorating air, unequaled scenery, good hotels.

Low reduced rates via the Queen & Crescent Route now on sale from cities and villages of the North.
Write to W. C. Rinearson, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, for illustrated and descriptive matter.

MOST IN QUANTITY. BEST IN QUALITY.
WORMS!
WHITE'S CREAM
VERMIFUGE
FOR 20 YEARS
Has led all WORM Remedies.
EVERY BOTTLE GUARANTEED.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by
RICHARDSON MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS.

A Fortune in Prizes!
$6,141.75
GIVEN AWAY IN
55 Separate Prizes
ONE PRIZE OF $1,000

The NEW WEEKLY
ROCKY MOUNTAIN NEWS,
Denver, Colo.,

The greatest bona fide prize offer ever made in the West or South.

The News is the representative paper of the West—it is silver's champion; it is the people's advocate; it leads in thought, as in news. The Weekly has just been enlarged and improved; it contains the latest and fullest mining and mining stock news; it has special departments devoted to the Farm, the Household, Women and Children; all the brightest cartoons and livest comment of the daily edition are to be found in it; it presents in condensed form the doings of all the world—it is a family paper without a peer.

And the Weekly News is determined to have beyond all question the largest circulation of any paper between the Mississippi river and the Pacific coast. Therefore it offers to the persons sending in the greatest number of $1 yearly subscriptions before September 1st next these unequalled prizes.

REGULAR AGENTS' COMMISSION ALLOWED IN ADDITION.
CONTEST BEGINS AT ONCE.
OPEN TO EVERYBODY EVERYWHERE.

For particulars address
The News Printing Co.,
Denver, Colo.

Administrator's Notice.

All persons indebted to the estate of America Frazier, dec'd., must come forward and settle same, and those having claims against same must present them to the undersigned proven according to law.

J. L. FRAIZER, Adm'r.
Lassing & Riddell, Attys.

Do Not Read This.

Four Pound Schofield Blankets,	$3.00
Four and half pounds Schofield Blankets,	3.25
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 36 inches,	.80
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 38 inches,	.90
Schofield's all-wool Ready-Made Skirts,	1.15

Schofield Flannels at cost.
All Schofield Yarns 10 per cent. discount. Schofield Jeans at cost.
All Boots and Heavy Shoes at cost.
We have a few Suits of Mens' Underwear which we will sell at cost.

(o)

Also a full line of ☞ DRY GOODS
And a neat line of ☞ GROCERIES,
AT THE STORE OF THE
Burlington Mercantile Co.,
Burlington, Kentucky.

PURE BRED CHESTER WHITE HOGS.
La : Belle : Herd
—OF UP TO DATE—
CHESTER WHITE HOGS.

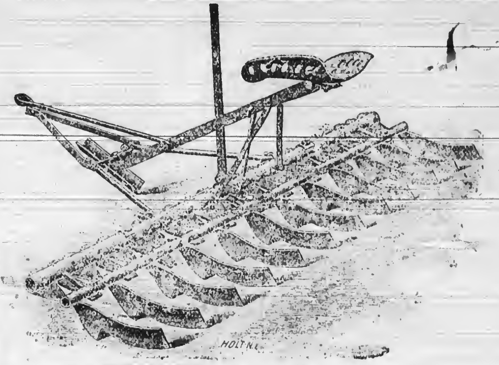
Stock Eligible to any Record.
—:—:—
Correspondence or personal inspection Solicited. Send for my new Catalogue and Book of Gentral and Useful Information.
☞FREE FOR EVERYBODY.

ALSO AGENT FOR
AEROMETER
EVERY FARMER NEEDS ONE.
Best and Cheapest Wind-Mill Made.

COME AND SEE IT.

T. J. HUGHES, - - - BEAVER LICK, KY.

FOR SALE-THE LATEST IMPROVED
"ACME" HARROW and
Troy Pivot Axel Farm Wagons.



In calling attention to "ACME" HARROW, we will say that while some points of the it is not our custom to criticise harrows of other kinds, it is only fair to point out the difference we find in using this harrow along with other harrows. The arrangement of the Coulters on the "Acme" is such that the entire surface of the ground is practically cut over, while the Disk Harrow cuts but little more than half the surface—following one of the Disk Harrows the ground may appear to have been cut over, but if a portion of the surface be removed, uncut ridges will be found just underneath. The Disk Harrows are good for certain purposes, but they certainly can not be called general purpose harrows as they have no crushing or leveling device, whereas the "ACME" is a complete Harrow Clod Crusher and Leveler. The "Acme" is very simple and easily adjusted; does not undo the work of the plow; being entirely of steel and wrought iron it is practically indestructible, nothing can wear but the coulters, and these can be replaced at trifling cost. We are selling the "Acme" this season for but little more than the spike tooth harrow. It is the cheapest riding harrow made. We guarrantee them to give perfect satisfaction.

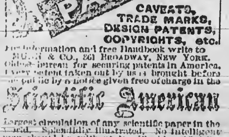
If you want a wagon made of carefully selected stock, well constructed, well proportioned, handsomely finished, lighter draught, greater carrying capacity than any other, and one that will give you perfect satisfaction, give us your order for the

TROY PIVOT AXEL WAGON,

as they are no experiment—they have been tried for several years and we know they have several good features that the ordinary axel wagon haven't. For prices and information call on or address

GEO. E. ROUSE & SON,
LIMABURG, Boone County, KY.

Scientific American Agency for



CAVEATS,
TRADE MARKS,
DESIGN PATENTS,
COPYRIGHTS, etc.

For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the
Scientific American
Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address, MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

COME TO THIS OFFICE for
JOB WORK

HEADQUARTERS FOR
SWEET PEAS.

Mixed Varieties	Per pound	40c.
	Half pound	25c.
	Quarter pound	15c.

THE ONLY
DOUBLE SWEET PEA,
BRIDE OF NIAGARA.
(True to Name.)
Price—Packet 25c, Half packet [illegible]

THE WONDERFUL
CRIMSON RAMBLER ROSE,
Only 15 Cents.

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE, 1896,
The Pioneer Seed Catalogue.

Tried and True Novelties.—Fuchsias, Roses, Blackberry, The Pearl Gooseberry, Potatoes, Earliest Tomato [illegible], etc.
Lithographs of Double Sweet Pea, Roses, Fuchsias, Blackberries, Raspberries, New Leader Tomato, Vegetables. Filled with good things, old and new. Full list of Flowers, Vegetables, Small Fruits, etc., with description and prices. Mailed on receipt of [illegible], which may be deducted from first order [illegible] Free,—or free with an order for any of the above.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.
JAMES VICK'S SONS

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXI. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 8, 1896. NO. 24.

Neighborhood News.

Waterloo.

Albert Clore was at home on a visit a few days last week.

Lucien Stephens has been suffering with a very sore hand.

John McAtee has bought Albert Clore's fine saddle horse.

Rev. M. L. Aylor preached to an attentive crowd at the Beech Grove school house, Sunday, March 22.

R. L. Huey and family and James Allen and family, of the Big Bone neighborhood, were visiting at R. K. Aylor's, Sunday week.

Limaburg.

Ezra W. Rouse has malarial fever.

James W. Utz was down with the gripp, last week

William Riggs and wife, of Erlanger, were visiting Legrand Utz's, Monday.

Wheat is coming out some.

A large crop of Irish potatoes will be planted.

Mrs Robert Brown celebrated her birth day on the 2nd inst. with a quilting and dance. Those present were Misses May Brown, Hattie Utz, Mamie Tanner, Sallie Tanner, Anna Brown, Dora Brown, Katie Riggs, Frances Riggs, and a large number of gentlemen.

Beaver.

Mrs. T. J. Coyle, of Crescent Springs, Kenton county, was visiting relatives here, several days last week

Mrs. B. W. Adams, of Burlington, was the guest of Mrs. G. W. Ossman, Saturday and Sunday.

The Sunday School at the Beaver Christian church which was discontinued last christmas, on account of bad weather, was reorganized last Sunday with the following officers and teachers: C. A. Slater, Supt.; John Ambros, Ass't Supt.; Ira Harris, Secretary; Teachers, John Ambros, Mrs. Lizzie Gordon, Mrs. Laura Wilson, Mrs. Lizzie Roter, Mrs. Ira Harris. About thirty-five scholars present.

Fibtown.

Farmers are talking of planting a larger crop of tobacco than was planted last season.

Having been short on grass for the last three years, farmers are watching every sign of sprouting grass, with evident pleasure.

Mrs. S. E. Terrill and son, George, were visiting in Louisville, recently.

Horse trainer, Jackie McMurry, will train Hon. N. S. Walton's horses this season.

Uncle Billie Grant is visiting his son, Dr. R. L. Grant, at Texarkana, Ark.

It is reported that there is to be a wedding in our town in the near future.

We now begin to realize that this is leap year. Girls, don't forget our charming bachelors and dashing widower.

Erlanger.

Miss Kennedy and Miss Rice, of Union, were guests of Rev. Huey, Sunday.

Good Faith Lodge No. 95 F. & A. M. will hold their regular meeting Saturday night.

The K of P. Lodge of this place visited Burlington Lodge last Thursday night and witnessed the work in confering the Knight Rank.

Clarence Garvey will leave on the 15th for Mexico for an investment in a ranch and locate there.

Sheriff Jule Plummer of Newport, and a number of K. of P.'s visited Lafayette lodge room Sunday, and were guests of Dr. C. M. McCullum.

The Southern railroad has been the victim of a number of small robberies lately. T. D. Finnell, Scott Marshall and L. Acra were after them the other night on a hand-car, but they escaped, but Finnell secured about two dozen pairs of pants that were hidden in a hay loft.

Gasburg.

Frank Laws has finished his house and moved into it.

Wood sawings have been more numerous than usual this spring.

W. T. Stott had a fine cow to fall in a gully and hurt herself so badly as to die.

Ben Johnson and family, of Dillsboro, Indiana, were visiting relatives here, last week.

The small boy with his fishing tackle was visiting the creeks in pursuit of the finny tribe the last few days.

The family of the late George Aylor moved to Plattsburg. James Burns will occupy the house vacated by them.

Unless the peach buds are killed after this there will be a large crop. I have made a thorough examination and am not mistaken.

The bad weather greatly delayed the planting of potatoes, making warm-beds, etc. Had the weather been favorable a large acreage of potatoes would have been planted before this for early market.

Hebron.

Mrs. John Ernste was out riding last Sunday.

Several from here went to view the "big" river, Sunday.

Dr. Sayre and family were visiting at Florence, last Sunday.

Thos Hafer and family were visiting Wm. Clore and wife, Sunday.

Last Monday evening, Walter Goodridge, Sr., had been riding out on his place and was returning home, when he was stricken with paralysis and fell from his horse. He had not been long where he was found by his sister-in-law, who summoned help, and he was carried to her house. Medical aid was summoned as soon as possible, but to no avail. He never regained consciousness and on Friday morning about 7 o'clock the hand of death was laid upon him to relieve him of the cares and sufferings of this world. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. E. Kirtley at the Francesville church, after which the remains were placed in the Hebron vault to await final interment. The deceased was in his 58th year, and was a cripple all his life.

Hathaway.

Last week was quite wintry.

Several from here attended the sale at Joe Walton's, last Thursday.

T. L. Utz spent last week with his parents.

Mrs. Milton Weldon, who has been very sick, is improving.

Several of S H. Marshall's friends called on him and his charming wife, last Saturday night, and were entertained till a late hour by splendid music furnished by the string band.

Samuel Marshall sold 15 acres of land to Jas. Sebree, last week, for $262 50

W. E Vest was in this vicinity, last week, dividing the Rue land.

Ras Stephens bought a fine bunch of sheep of Charley Stephens, one day last week. Price, $105.

Mrs. Lucy Utz and grand-daughter, Jessie, were visiting T. J. Stephens and family, last Thursday.

Miss Daisy Rouse was visiting Miss Grace Neal, last Wednesday.

Miss Grace Neal spent several days last week, with her aunt, Mrs. Emma Presser.

Lawrence Phipps, of near Burlington, was visiting Wood Stephens, Saturday and Sunday.

Florence.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kroger, of Hamilton, Ohio, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kroger.

Miss Katie Grogan is visiting friends in Cincinnati.

Miss Ella Coleman has returned home after a pleasant visit with friends in Covington.

Mr. and Mrs. Kroger and daughter, of Williamstown, spent Easter with his parents at this place.

Irvin Kyle made a flying visit to Cincinnati, last Saturday.

Cecil Finch, left last Monday for Chicago, where he has accepted a position. Cecil is a very enterprising young man, and his many friends here hope his course in the business world will be a success.

Miss Katie Corwine, of Covington, and Miss Stewart, of Cincinnati, were the pleasant guests of Mr. and Mrs. Porter, during Easter.

Mr. John Dulaney died very suddenly, last Tuesday at the residence of Mrs John Muller on the Price pike. The funeral took place at the Catholic church at 10 o'clock, Thursday morning, service by Rev Father Kolb. Burial at St. Mary's cemetery.

Chester Souther has finally concluded to part with a superfluous portion of his fair locks.

Walton.

Mrs. John E. Botts has gone down to Sulphur to see her sister, Mrs. Robt. Ricketts, and make the acquaintance of her lately arrived nephew.

Mrs. Wm. Rogers, who has been so dangerously ill is some better. Little Gladys Wilson is improving. Miss Adah Lennon is again on the sick list.

John Richards, brother-in-law of Weedon Dean, has purchased the interest of Ricketts Johnson in the two stores of Johnson & Dean, one of which is located at Critteuden.

Mrs. Julia Brinley, of Louisville, who has been visiting her father, Mr Elijah Northcutt taking with her and to be her boy, Gerald, the second son of her sister, Mrs. Sam Houston.

Mr. Edward Northcutt, living down on the Beaver Grade is in a sad predicament. His son is in the Asylum at Anchorage, his wife has recently been afflicted with a paralytic stroke and his married daughter is in the last stage of consumption.

Mrs. Annie Stephens rather evened things up with her husband, Everett, on last Wednesday. He is a great devotee of fried pies and she is accomplished in all the mysteries of the culinary art. At dinner Everett's face beamed with almost devout satisfaction as his eyes rested on the turnovers, and hastily swallowing the preliminary substantials of the meal he proceeded to attack the favorite dish. Taking a nicely browned one on his plate he tried to cut off a generous mouthful, but, in racing parlance, it was not a "go." Raising up the crust he found the filling to be cotton batting. Rumor had it that he did not relish the joke any more than he would have enjoyed the pie had he eaten it. However, he gulped down his indignation when it was proposed to send it in to a near neighbor, Mr. Vanlandingham was tickling his palate with hot biscuit and maple syrup when the dainty was placed before him. Discarding the plain biscuit in a hurry, he cottoned on at once on the pie which had the cut side next the plate. His knife was as ineffective as Everett's had been on the other side. He then contented himself with the despised biscuit.

Gunpowder.

Feed is very scarce in this neighborhood

This is the week for planting early potatoes.

The dirt roads are getting in good shape again.

Mrs. Lucy Barlow is improving after a severe attack of illness.

Mrs. J. C. Clarkson has a very severe attack of neuralgia in the face.

Dr. Eli Tanner had a woodsawing, last Friday, and now a lot of nice wood pleaseth the doctor.

The Cottage Prayer Meeting will be held at W. H. Garnett's next Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

Our merchant, W. N. Surface, is selling seed potatoes cheaper than they can be bought in the city.

I understand that Willis Grant killed a mad dog, last week, but I did not learn of any damage it had done.

Mr. E K. Tanner built a new yard fence for R. O. Beemon, and it adds a great deal to the appearance of the premises.

Misses Cordelia and Susie Lipp, of Frogtown, were visiting Mr. Robert Newman, last Sunday; also Mr. Aaron Rouse and wife.

W. H. Garnett had a woodsawing last Monday evening. The hands told him it would have been better had he waited until the fourth of July, as perhaps he would have had a warmer day.

Mr. Editor, what is the total indebtedness of the State of Kentucky? Is there any debt hanging over old Boone, and if so, how much?—[The Courier-Journal Almanac places the State debt at $1,671,133, while the Republicans have reported it at over $2,000,000 The last settlement with the sheriff shows this county owes between $800 and $900 — ED.]

Petersburg.

Electric lights are now used at the distillery.

Seymoure Mitchell, of Gasburg, has moved to this city.

The Workum was loaded to the guards, Monday, with freight from below.

Hear that Leonard Ruth will soon lead one of our fair damsels to the hymenial altar.

The beautiful, bright weather, Sunday, brought forth the fair sex in their handsome Easter array.

James Tolin was in our midst Sunday. His friends—and he has an unlimited number—think he will make a good race for circuit clerk. A good thing, Jim, push it along.

Supt. Mathews says the biggest run ever made by a Kentucky distillery was that made by the Boone County Distilling Company, last Thursday—23,900 gallons, or 486 barrels.

The Easter services at the M. E. Church, Sunday afternoon, were entertaining. The solo by Miss Elizabeth Weindel, who has a very sweet voice, charmed the congregation. Another very interesting feature was a representation of heathen countries, where the work of missionaries is needed. Margaret McWethy, a wee tot, sang a song to the tune of "Home, Sweet Home," that delighted her hearers. There were many appropriate songs, recitations, &c. The entire programme was excellent.

It is said that the McComas-Evans wedding will take place on the 15th inst. The to-be groom is a Petersburg boy, but now resides in Hamilton, Ohio.

EVERETT

Wednesday the 8th is the day set for the trial of the new boat, Pauline.

The distillery made another stop last week on account of Mr. Workum's death.

The Romines family have left Uncle Dennis McClelland and gone to the widow Terrill's place.

Rev. Curry went to Owenton, last week, and didn't fill his appointment here on the first Sunday.

The Utzinger correspondent has taken a new departure, i. e. a new string to his—a new bow—you know.

Several new citizens in town. Geo. Burns in Bob Snelling's house and blacksmith Carty in the widow Green's known as the Pappet house.

Verona.

The peach crop is safe.

Easter Sunday passed off here with its usual feast of eggs.

Miss Cecil, the little daughter of Dr. Menefee, has pneumonia.

We congratulate the Recorder on its new form and enlargement.

Tobacco plants were up during the recent cold spell, but were not killed.

Farmers say a great deal of clover was killed by the recent cold wave.

F. L. Gordon is favorably spoken of here as a candidate for our next assessor.

J. R. Johnson and daughter have been very sick with fever, for several days.

Our friend, John Vest, has purchased a new steam threshing machine—12 horse power.

People should watch their dogs as there are mad-dogs roaming about in this neighborhood.

Kirtley Johnson, who is representing the Stark & Bros. nursery, was delivering his stock here on the 26th ult.

Sunday school at the hall every Sunday at 9 a. m., and also at the M. E. church at 2½ o'clock p. m., Sunday.

Our tobacco merchants, George Roberts and John G. Kennedy, have commence buying the weed at prices ranging from 1 to 5cts per pound.

Rev. Mathews will preach at the Methodist church the second Sunday in each month. Rev. L Johnson preaches at the Baptist church on the third Saturday and Sunday in each month.

COUNTY COURT.

The 48 road supervisors were appointed.

J. A. Wilson qualified as notary public.

J. M. Lassing was appointed administrator of Jefferson Morris.

Peter Binder granted a license to peddle merchandise.

Henry Kroger granted license to keep tavern in Florence.

John Weindel's will was probated, and an appeal from the order probating, granted to the Circuit Court. Elijah Parker was appointed administration, and Ed Krutz, Henry Wingate and Adam Hoffman, appraisers.

If you desire your cattle dehorned, call on T. J. Hughes, who is prepared to do such work. See his advertisement.

It is sometimes the case that white wash is smeared on too thick to stick, and that is the kind of a coat the Boone county Republicans gave Gov. Bradley, Monday.

Gov. Bradley will be puzzled to understand under what circumstances the Republicans of this county would instruct for him for President. He will hardly get through reading the resolution next to the last before he will need a dose of Perry Davis' Pain Killer.

Buggies! Buggies!! Buggies!!!

If you desire your buggy repaired, and will bring it to Burlington next Monday, April 13th, I will examine it and give you the lowest figures on the work. I am now making all my work at my shop in Bromley, Ky., and will be glad for you to call and examine my vehicles, and learn the prices at the shop.

G. H. HACKSTADT,
Bromley, Ky.

REPAIRING.

Buggies and Carriages

—REPAIRED AT THE MOST—

REASONABLE RATES.

GIVE ME A TRIAL.

I am also agent for the EMMERSON, FISHER BUGGY COMPANY.

C. ERNSTES, - - Hebron, Ky.

BLACKSMITHI'G.

A. J. CLAYTON

—Does all kinds of—

Smithing.

Always on hand and anxious to give satisfaction to all customers,

Horse Shoeing A SPECIALTY.

BURLINGTON, - KY.

Attention, Farmers!

We are handling the

Globe Fertilizer

and will sell it to you at

$26 Per Ton,

Money due September 1, 1896.

This is a high grade Fertilizer, the best on the market. Try it.

RIGGS BROS., Erlanger, Ky.

---

18 SPRING AND SUMMER 96

MILLINERY

All the Latest Ideas in Spring and Summer

MILLINERY

Will always be found at our Store.

Ladies', Misses' and Children's Patterns..........

HATS & BONNETS of artistic designs and from our own work rooms—Stock up to date. Hats trimmed to order on short notice.

Prices Lower Than Ever.

You will find everything usually kept in a first-class

MILLINERY STORE.

Everything new in this season's goods. Our trimmers are of the best. Your patronage is solicited.

Mrs. A. J. SWALLOW,
Main St., RISING SUN, IND.

Notice to Delinquent Tax-PAYERS.

The lists of Delinquents for 1895 have been placed in the hands of Collecting Officers in the different magisterial districts for the convenience of the taxpayers. See your collector and pay your tax, or you will be reported to the Road Supervisor in your district and proceeded against according to law.

FISCAL COURT BOONE CO.,
By J. M. Lassing, Co. Atty.

FARM FOR SALE.

A good farm of 76 acres, between Bellevue and Petersburg, near Woolper ford—good house, good barn and necessary outbuildings. The sale will be on easy terms.

OWEN ALLEN.

Corn For Sale.

For Sale—About 100 bushels of Forsyth's Early Mammoth white corn, selected last fall. It has the deepest grains and is the most productive of any other corn; has from sixteen to twenty-six rows on the ear, stands the drouths and yields from two to five barrels more per acre than any other variety. It originated in Johnson county Ind in 1891. Price $1 50 per bushel.

JOHN J. CLEEK.
Beaver Lick, Boone county, Ky.

Attention! Ladies! Notice!

To the first 100 ladies of Aurora and vicinity sending me their names before March 4, I will give to of all such who buy their materials of me ONE FREE class lesson in Art Embroidery on March 10th, or as soon thereafter as their class number admits. Instructions in Delft, Napolitian, Jewel, Bulgarian, Swiss, Royal and South Kensington (with Italian effect) and Japanese Embroideries; also Honiton Lace Work.

Address
EMMA J. M. COULTER,
107 Second St., AURORA, IND.

KENTUCKY MIDLAND RAILROAD.

[Via Georgetown.]

P. M.	A.M.			A.M.	P. M
d 5:21	z9:31	Ar Walton	Lv	7:54	z4:48
4:40	8:55	Ar Williamstown	Lv	8:32	5:25
4:17	8:31	Ar Corinth	Lv	8:56	5:47
3:59	8:15	Ar Sadieville	Lv	9:16	6:06
3:33	7:50	Ar Georgetown	Lv	10:07	6:37
1:00	6:55	Lv Frankfort	Ar	11:00	7:30

z Daily. d Except Sunday.

C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.

VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.

Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.

All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

Miss Helen Merci Schuster

—)o(—

DRAMATIC READER
AND TEACHER OF
Elocution, Physical Culture and Delsarte,

811 Scott St. - - COVINGTON, KY.

Class for young Ladies and Gentlemen at UNION, KY., every Saturday—10 to 11 a. m. SEND FOR TERMS.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.

All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession. Call at once for work, as I leave Walton April 1st.

Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
—DRUGGIST,—
Rising Sun, - Indiana.

Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

NO :: LONGER
—AT ERLANGER.—
DR. WALLACE GILLHAM,
—THE DENTIST,—

who has been coming to Erlanger on Tuesdays of each week, has discontinued his office there, but will continue to do

First Class Dental Work of

All kinds at his
COVINGTON - OFFICE.
1421 Madison Ave. (next door to the Children's Home),

He also has all the latest and best facilities for administering

Gas, Vitalized Air, or Local Anæsthetics for Extracting Teeth.

You are refered to the following reliable references of your own community:

Dr. C. R. Slater, Dr. C. W. McCullum, Mrs. Cal Riggs, Mrs. Mattie Hoover, Mrs. Rev. M. M. Hiner, Mrs. Rev. O. M. Huey, Mr. Ira Aylor, Erlanger; Miss Sallie Snyder, Miss Sallie Stephens, Florence.

Andy Scheben,

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

WINES, LIQUORS

AND BRANDY,

Old Bourbon, $2.00 Per Gallon.

LEXINGTON PIKE,
ERLANGER, - - - - KY.
Near Town Hall.

Prices Reduced!

—(o)—

1 gal. 4 year old Bourbon Whisky, reduced from $3.50 at $3.00

1 gal. 2 year old Bourbon Whisky reduced from $2.00 at $1.75

1 gal. 4 year old Rye Whisky at reduced from $3.50. $3.00

At KASTNER'S,
Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

For Sale or Rent.

96 acres of river bottom land, opposite Lawrenceburg, Ind., in good state of cultivation.

J. C. REVILL,
Burlington, Ky.

INSURE AT HOME

The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,

Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.

Its Rates are Lower

Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County

HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE

In keeping their property insured.

EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.

J. S. HUEY, President, Grant, Ky.
OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.

EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.

Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY,

Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

H. S. STEVENSON,
······DENTIST,······

Anæsthetics used for painless operating. Plates $8 and $10; other work accordingly. Satisfaction guaranteed in all cases.

MAIN OFFICE—South side Main St. Rising Sun, Indiana.

P. T FALL,
PAINTER AND——PAPERHANGER
Union, Kentucky.

Paper Hanging a Specialty.
Will visit all parts of the Co. with samples. Give me a call.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL.

LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.

Prompt Attention Given to Collections

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.

—o—

Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.

Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by maill promptly attended to.

G. G. HUGHES. D. E. CASTLEMAN.

HUGHES & CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEYS - AT - LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.

Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to them.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.

(Incorporated 1886.)

CAPITAL,........................ $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 17,000

—)o(—

Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates

---

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK

(INCORPORATED 1893.)

ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY

CAPITAL PAID IN.................. $50,000
SURPLUS,.............................. $ 2,600

Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

GENERAL
REPAIR SHOP,
At Hathaway, Ky.
WAGONS AND BUGGIES
A Specialty.
Plows and Harrows Made to Order. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

J. M. RICE.

EASTER SERMON.

Rev. Dr. Talmage Recounts the Story of the Prodigal Son.

He Longed for the Dear Old Faces at Home—Then Rose Up and Went to His Father, Who Warmly Welcomed His Boy.

Dr. Talmage's text Easter Sunday was Luke xv.: 18: "I will arise and go to my father."

There is nothing like hunger to take the energy out of a man. A hungry man can toil neither with pen nor hand nor foot. There has been many an army defeated, not so much for lack of ammunition as for lack of bread. It was that fact that took the fire out of this young man of the text. Storm and exposure will wear out any man's life in time, but hunger makes quick work. The most awful cry ever heard on earth is the cry for bread. A traveler tells us that in Asia Minor there are trees which bear fruit looking very much like the long bean of our time. It is called the carob. Once in a while the people, reduced to destitution, would eat these carobs, but generally the carobs, the beans spoken of here in the text, were thrown only to the swine, and they cranched them with great avidity. But this young man of my text could not even get them without stealing them. So one day, amid the swine troughs, he begins to soliloquize. He says: "These are no clothes for a rich man's son to wear; this is no kind of business for a Jew to be engaged in, feeding swine; I'll go home; I'll go home; I will arise and go to my father." I know there are a great many people who try to throw a fascination, a romance, a halo about sin; but notwithstanding all that Lord Byron and George Sand have said in regard to it, it is a mean, low, contemptible business, and putting food and fodder into the troughs of a herd of iniquities that root and wallow in the soul of man is a very poor business for men and women intended to be sons and daughters of the Lord Almighty, and when this young man resolved to go home it was a very wise thing for him to do, and the only question is whether we will follow him. Satan promises large wages if we will serve him, but he clothes his victims with rags, and he pinches them with hunger and when they start out to do better he sets after them all the blood hounds of hell. Satan comes to us to-day and he promises all luxuries and emoluments if we will only serve him. Liar, down with thee to the pit! "The wages of sin is death." Oh! the young man of the text was wise when he uttered the resolution, "I will arise and go to my father." In the time of Mary, the persecutor, a persecutor came to a Christian woman who had hidden in her house for the Lord's sake one of Christ's servants, and the persecutor said: "Where is that heretic?" The Christian woman said: "You open that trunk and you will see the heretic." The persecutor opened the trunk, and on top of the linen of the trunk he saw a glass. He said: "There is no heretic here." "Ah!" she said, "you look in the glass and you will see the heretic."

As I take up the mirror of God's word to-day I would that, instead of seeing the prodigal of the text, we might see ourselves—our want, our wandering, our sin, our lost condition, so that we might be as wise as this young man and say, "I will arise and go to my father." The resolution of this text was formed in a disgust at his present circumstances. If this young man had been by his employer set to culturing flowers, or training vines over an arbor, or keeping an account of the pork market, or overseeing other laborers, he would not have thought of going home. If he had had his pockets full of money. If he had been able to say: "I have a thousand dollars now of my own; what's the use of my going back to my father's house? Do you think I'm going back to apologize to the old man? Why, he would put me on the limits. He would not have going on around the old place such conduct as I have been engaged in. I won't go home. I have plenty of money—plenty of pleasant surroundings. Why should I go home?" Ah! it was his pauperism, it was his beggary. He had to go home. Some man comes and says to me: "Why do you talk about the ruined state of the human soul? Why don't you speak about the progress of the nineteenth century and talk of something more exhilerating?" It is for this reason: A man never wants the gospel until he realizes he is in a famine struck state. Suppose I should come to you in your home, and you are in good, sound, robust health, and I should begin to talk about medicines, and about how much better this medicine is than that, and some other medicine than some other medicine, and talk about this physician and that physician, after awhile you would get tired, and you would say: "I don't want to hear about medicines. Why do you talk to me of physicians? I never have a doctor." But suppose I come into your house and I find you severely sick, and I know the medicines that will cure you, and I know the physician who is skillful enough to meet your case. You say: "Bring on all that medicine; bring on that physician. I am terribly sick and want help." If I come to you, and you feel all right in body, and all right in mind, and all right in soul, you have need of nothing: but suppose I have persuaded you that the leprosy of sin is upon you, the worst of all sickness. Oh! then you say, "Bring me that balm of the Gospel, bring me that divine medicament bring me Jesus Christ." "But," says some one in the audience, "how do you know that we are in a ruined condition by sin?" Well, I can prove it in two ways, and you may have your choice. I can prove it either by the statements of men or by the statement of God. Which shall it be? You say, "Let us have the statement of God." Well, He says in one place, "The heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked." He says in another place, "What is man that he should be clean? and he which is born of woman, that he should be righteous?" He says in another place, "There is none that doeth good—no, not one." He says in another place, "As by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin, and so death passed upon all men, for all that had sinned." "Well," you say, "I am willing to acknowledge that, but why should I take the particular rescue that you propose?" This is the reason: "There is one name given under Heaven among men whereby they may be saved." Then there are a thousand voices here ready to say: "Well: I am ready to accept this help of the Gospel; I would like to have this divine cure; how shall I go to work?" Let me say that a mere whim, an undefined longing amounts to nothing. You must have a stout, a tremendous resolution like this young man of the text when he said: "I will arise and go to my father." "Oh," says some man, "how do I know my father wants me? How do I know, if I go back, I would be received?" "Oh," says some man, "you don't know where I have been: you don't know how far I have wandered; you wouldn't talk that way to me if you knew all the iniquities I have committed." What is that flutter among the angels of God? What is that horseman running with quick dispatch? It is news, it is news! Christ has found the lost.

Nor angels can their joy contain,
But kindle with new fire;
The sinner lost is found, they sing,
And strike the souding lyre.

When Napoleon talked of going into Italy, they said: "You can't get there. If you knew what the Alps were you wouldn't talk about it or think about it. You can't get your ammunition wagons over the Alps." Then Napoleon rose in his stirrups, and, waving his hand toward the mountains, he said: "There shall be no Alps!" That wonderful pass was laid out which has been the wonderment of all the years since—the wonderment of all engineers. And you tell me there are such mountains of sin between your soul and God, there is no mercy. Then I see Christ waving his hand toward the mountains. I hear Him say: "I will come over the mountains of thy sin and the hills of thine iniquity." There shall be no Pyrenees; there shall be no Alps.

Again: I notice that this resolution of the young man of my text was founded in sorrow at his misbehavior. It was not mere physical plight. It was grief that he had so maltreated his father. It is a sad thing after a father has done everything for a child to have that child ungrateful.

How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is,
To have a thankless child.

That is Shakespeare. "A foolish son is the heaviness of his mother." That is the Bible. Well, my friends, have not some of us been cruel prodigals?

Have we not maltreated our Father? And such a Father! Three times a day has He fed thee. He has poured sunlight into thy day and at night kindles up all the street lamps of Heaven. With what varieties of apparel He hath clothed thee for the seasons. Whose eye watcheth thee? Whose hand defends thee? Whose heart sympathizes with thee? Who gave you your children? Who is guarding your loved ones departed? Such a Father! So loving, so kind. If He had been a stranger; if He had forsaken us; if He had flagellated us; if He had pounded us and turned us out of doors on the commons, it would not have been so wonderful—our treatment of Him; but He is a Father, so loving, so kind, and yet how many of us for our wanderings have never apologized! If we say anything that hurts our friend's feelings, if we do anything that hurts the feelings of those in whom we are interested, how quickly we apolize! We can scarcely wait until we get pen and paper to write a letter of apology. How easy it is for any one who is intelligent, right-hearted, to write an apology, or make an apology! We apologize for wrong done to our fellows, but some of us, perhaps, have committed ten thousand times ten thousand wrongs against God and never apologized.

I remark still further, that this resolution of the text was founded in a feeling of homesickness. I do not know how long this young man, how many months, how many years he has been away from his father's house, but there is something about the reading of my text that makes me think he was homesick. Some of you know what that feeling is. Far away from home sometimes, surrounded by everything bright and pleasant—plenty of friends—you have said: "I would give the world to be home to-night." Well, this young man was homesick for his father's house. I have no doubt when he thought of his father's house he said: "Now, perhaps father may not be living." We read nothing in this story—this parable—founded on every-day life—we read nothing about the mother. It says nothing about going home to her. I think she was dead. I think she had died of a broken heart at his wanderings, or, perhaps he had gone into dissipation from the fact that he could not remember a loving and sympathetic mother. A man never gets over having lost his mother. Nothing said about her, but he is homesick for his father's house. He thought he would just like to go and walk around the old place. He thought he would just like to go and see if things were as they used to be. Many a man, after having been off a long while, has gone home and knocked at the door, and a stranger has come. It is the old homestead, but a stranger come to the door. He finds out father is gone, and mother is gone, and brothers and sisters all gone. I think this young man of the text said to himself: "Perhaps father may be dead." Still he starts to find out. Are there any here to-day homesick for God, homesick for Heaven? A sailor, after having been long on the sea, returned to his father's house, and his mother tried to persuade him not to go away again. She said: "Now you had better stay at home. Don't go away. We don't want you to go. You will have it a great deal better here." But it made him angry. The night before he went away again to sea he heard his mother praying in the next room, and that made him more angry. He went far our on the sea and a storm came up and he was ordered to very perilous duty, and he ran up the ratlines, and amid the shrouds of the ship he heard the voice that he had heard in the next room. He tried to whistle it off, he tried to rally his courage; but he could not silence the voice he had heard in the next room, and there in the storm and darkness he said: "Oh, Lord! what a wretch I have been! What a wretch I am! Help me just now, Lord God." And I thought in this assemblage to-day there may be some who may have the memory of a father's petition, of a mother's prayer pressing mightily upon her soul, and that this hour they may make the same resolution I find in my text, saying: "I will arise and go to my father."

But I remark the characteristic of this resolution was, it was immediately put into execution. The context says "he arose and came to his father." The trouble in 999 times out of 1,000 is that our resolutions amount to nothing, because we make them for some distant time. If I resolve to become a Christian next year, that amounts to nothing at all. If I resolve to become a Christian to-morrow, that amounts to nothing at all. If I resolve at the service this day to become a Christian, that amounts to nothing at all. If I resolve after I go home to-day to yield my heart to God, that amounts to nothing at all.

The only kind of resolution that amounts to anything is the resolution that is immediately put into execution. There is a man who had the typhoid fever, he said: "Oh, if I could get over this terrible distress; if this fever should depart; if I could be restored to health, I would all the rest of my life serve God." The fever departed. He got well enough to walk around the block. He got well enough to go over to business. He is well to-day—as well as he ever was. Where is the broken vow? There is a man who said long ago: "If I could live to the year 1896, by that time I will have my business matters all arranged, and I will have time to attend to religion, and I will be a good, thorough, consecrated Christian." The year 1896 has come. January, February, March, April—a fourth of the year gone. Where is your broken vow? "Oh," says some man, "I'll attend to that when I get my character fixed up, when I can get over my evil habits: I am now given to strong drink;" or, says the man, "I am given to uncleanliness," or says the man, "I am given to dishonesty. When I get over my present habits then I'll be a thorough Christian." My brother, you will get worse and worse, until Christ takes you in hand. "Not the righteous, sinners Jesus came to call." Oh, but you say, "I agree with you in all that, but I must put it off a little longer." Do you know there were many who came just as near as you are to the kingdom of God and never entered it? I was at Easthampton, and I went into the cemetery to look around, and in that cemetery there are 12 graves side by side—the graves of sailors. This crew, some years ago, in a ship went into the breakers at Amagansett, about three miles away. My brother, then preaching at Easthampton, had been at the burial. These men of the crew came very near being saved. The people from Amagansett saw the vessel, and they shot rockets, and they sent ropes from the shore, and these poor fellows got into the boat, and they pulled mightily for the shore, but just before they got to the shore the rope snapped and the boat capsized and they were lost. Their bodies afterward washed upon the beach. Oh! what a solemn day it was—I have been told of it by my brother—when these twelve men lay at the foot of the pulpit, and he read over them the funeral service. They came very near shore—within shouting distance of the shore, yet did not arrive on solid land. There are some men who come almost to the shore of God's mercy, but not quite, not quite. To be almost saved is to be lost.

I will tell you of two prodigals—the one that got back and the other that did not get back. In Richmond, Va., there is a very prosperous and beautiful home in many respects. A young man wandered off from that home. He wandered very far into sin. They heard of him after, but he was always on the wrong track. He would not go home. At the door of that beautiful home one night there was a great outcry. The young man of the house ran down to open the door to see what was the matter. It was midnight. The rest of the family were asleep. There were the wife and children of this prodigal young man. The fact was he had come home and driven them out. "Out of this house! Away with these children. I will dash their brains out. Out into the storm!" The mother gathered them up and fled. The next morning the brother, the young man who had staid at home, went out to find this prodigal brother and son, and he came where he was and saw the young man wandering up and down in front of the place where he had been staying, and the young man who had kept his integrity said to the older brother: "Here, what does all this mean? What is the matter with you? Why do you act in this way? The prodigal looked at him and said: "Who am I? Who do you take me to be?" He said: "You are my brother." "No, I am not. I am a brute. Have you seen anything of my wife and children? I drove them out last night in the storm. I am a brute. John, do you think there is any help for me? Do you think I will ever get over this life of dissipation?" He said: "John, there is one thing that will stop this." The prodigal ran his fingers across his throat and said: "That will stop it, and I will stop it before night. Oh, my brain; I can stand it no longer." That prodigal never got home.

TOLD IN A FORECASTLE.

How a Wildcat Became a Pet and Turned Sailor.

Helped Navigate the Vessel—Climbed the Rigging, Learned the Ropes and Assisted in Reefing the Sails—His Singular Fate.

[COPYRIGHT, 1896.]

"'Minds me," said old Johnson, from his bunk—We had just turned in after chasing the skipper's cat out of the forecastle—"of a wildcat I was shipmates with in an English bark. A tom wildcat 'twas; he'd go aloft an' help stow the fore-t' gallans'l."

"Thot's a lie!" grunted Pat from the bunk beneath.

The old man reached his head out and peered down on his offending critic. Hostilities were imminent, but various cries of "Shut up, Pat," "Let the old man alone," "Go on, Johnson" and others of like nature from the other bunks silenced Pat and placated Johnson.

"Yes," resumed he, "it's a fact; that cat 'ud go aloft with us. He knew his work on a yard, too, better'n some men I've been with since;" and at this direct thrust at Pat, who had passed an earring incorrectly in our last reefing match, he chuckled audibly, while Pat, as though in silent protest at such claims of superior seamanship in a cat, rolled over on his side to go to sleep.

One or two of us threw out some hints in the way of questions as to the name of the bark and the color and size of the cat, knowing by experience that a direct call for a yarn would be ignored.

The old man filled and lighted his pipe, and then, kicking his bedding up over his knees, settled back and reeled off the following:

"Yes," he began, "the cat was a wonder; we got him out on the Californian coast long before 'Frisco was thought of. We ran short of water and put into a little bay, let go the mid-hook, and the mate took some of us and some casks ashore to try and find some. We found a creek of good water close by, and on our way back to the boat for the casks we ran ag'in a mother wildcat with two kittens. She snarled and spit at us, and was just 'bout to jump when the mate plugged her with a bullet; she thrashed around some and killed one kitten with her claws, but we got the other and took him aboard for a pet.

"Well, we got to sea, and the kitten seemed to take to sea life first-rate. Everyone petted him, and the mate wouldn't allow anyone to tease him; so, as he didn't get any fresh meat, he didn't get savage. He had a good time and made friends all around, and as he got bigger would chase 'round decks just as a common cat does when it feels good.

"One moonlight night he took a run from the quarter clean forward and up the riggin' half way to the fore-top; then he couldn't get down, and yowled so pitiful like that one of us went up and got him. He thought that was great fun, and did it again, and kept on doing it; but we couldn't be bothered going after him every time. So one night the mate says: 'Let him stay there and get down himself.' So we let him stay the whole watch, yowlin' all the time, but no one paid any attention to him. Bimeby, 'lon' 'bout eight bells, he stopped yowlin', and made up his mind to try it himself, so he hitched and scrambled and managed to get down all right. Then he walked aft, kinder dignified like. We thought he was sore on us for neglectin' him so, but he wasn't; he was only proud of what he'd done, and a little stuck on himself—but then, he was young.

"He sat down by the wheel and seemed to think it over, then he took nother run forward and up the shrouds. He came down right away and walked aft; and then he tried it again. That seemed to satisfy him that he could do it all right, and he gave it up for that night, but he carried his tail straighter up in the air after that.

"He learned an awful lot, that cat. He noticed everything, and bimeby got to wonderin' what made the skipper and the mates look at the compass and then swear at the man at the wheel. He larned to do that, too. He'd jump up on the binnacle and reach his neck over so's he could see the compass; then he'd make faces at the man at the wheel and growl. It was all in fun, though, he never meant nothin' by it. We called him quartermaster for that.

"One evenin' it looked mighty squally over to the eastward, and the old man ordered everything taken in down to the main to gallan' sa'l. We cleaned up and started aloft to tie the canvas up. Quartermaster was feelin' specially good that night, and had been racin' up and down the fore riggin'—he seemed to know he belonged to the mate's watch, and wouldn't go near the main or mizzen—so when we passed him in the riggin' we tried to coax him with us. He came along and got into the top all right; but the top mast riggin' was new to him, and he yowled as though askin' us to wait. 'Course we couldn't wait, but went on up; and Quartermaster thought it over. He didn't know the way—she was wire rigged aloft; he had to hunt around for the running riggin' that he could dig his claws into. But he got up to 'gallan' yard 'bout the time we'd finished with the royal and came down to it, and sat down in the slings to watch us. He seemed to know just what we were doin', and when we got done he come down with us.

"After that, every time he'd see us goin' aloft on the fore he'd go 'long, too, and knowin' the way now, he'd always beat us up, and we'd find him sittin' in the slings of the to' gallant yard, waitin' for us. But he'd never go above that yard; he'd no use for the royal at all, and if he found the to' gallan' sa'l wasn't clewed up to be furled when he got up, we'd always meet him comin' down, lookin' kinder sheepish like. Bimeby he got so he knew the ropes a bit, and could tell if we were clewing up the royal or the top gallan' sa'l; or else he understood the mate's orders, for he didn't make no more mistakes like that.

"After he'd watched us tie up the to' gallan' sa'l a few times, he took the notion o' helpin' us. He'd brace himself and dig his claws into the sail, and hang on to what we'd pulled up. Course he couldn't hold much of the sail in his grip, but he did his best, and he seemed so proud of it, too; we'd always pat him on the head and encourage him all we could.

"One time four of us and quartermaster had rolled up the to' gallan' sa'l, and were comin' down. The crowd below had tied a reef in the topsail and were bowsin' it up, and we all jumped on the haulin' part o' the halliards and rode down with it.

"Quartermaster was puzzled, and didn't know just what to do himself; but finally he made up his mind to ride down the halliards, too; so he jumped onto the rope. It was great fun for him; but he waited too long, and the top sail was up before Quartermaster got down, and it left him hangin' on to that single rope, way out from all the other ropes—and it was mighty hard work for him to scramble down on one rope. He seemed kinder hurt about it, as though he thought there was some trick in it. We tried to explain to him, and encourage him to try it again, and next time to jump on sooner. But he wouldn't; leastways, not on the fall.

"But he'd jump onto the other parts of the tackle and ride them down, knowin' that if his ride stopped before he got down there were plenty of ropes close to him to climb down on. One time, though, he warn't lookin' out for his tail, and it got dragged into the lower block. He let out an awful screech, and we slacked away till he got his tail clear; but he'd never ride down halliards after that, though he'd still help us on the yard.

"Bimeby, as he got bigger, he got too strong and ambitious, and his claws made little holes in the sail. That wouldn't do, and yet we didn't like to discourage him workin'; he was a real help on the yard. So the mate got a file from the carpenter, and filed his claws blunt, but he filed off too much, and next time Quartermaster started to go aloft he only got about six ratlines up. He couldn't hang on.

"He tried it again, but it warn't no use; he had to give it up and went right aft and below. He stayed down a whole day, and then came up and walked 'round lookin' so pitiful and discouraged like that we felt sorry for him.

"There wasn't a man of us who wouldn't ha' been willin' to mend that sail in his watch below just as fast as that cat could tear holes in it, if we could have him aloft with us again, and the mate was willin' to file the stumps sharp again, but Quartermaster wouldn't let him. The poor critter knew what the trouble was, and wouldn't never go near the mate again; but he'd sojer 'round among us, and whine and hold up his paw, so's we could see what kept him on deck when he was needed aloft.

"We hoped they would grow sharp again, and perhaps they would in time; but Quartermaster wouldn't wait for that. He felt himself disgraced and no use aboard at all; and he moped 'round and got thin, and one mornin' we found him curled up under the wheel-box dead. He just died of a broken heart, nothin' else.

"We buried him that day like a sailor. I tell you, we all felt bad, and the mate cried. The old man swore that if that cat had lived he'd have put him on the articles next voyage and rated him able-seaman."

As old Johnson finished, a long, tremulous snore arose from the other end of the forecastle, and reaching out his head, he peered around and growled: "Blast 'em, the're all asleep."

MORGAN A. ROBERTSON.

SWEARING AT THE MAN AT THE WHEEL.

HUMOROUS.

—"Do you notice any change in Dumley?" asked the tall man. "No, I don't," snapped the other man, sourly. He was Dumley's tailor.—Rockland Tribune.

—He—"I wonder you're not afraid of going to Nice after those terrible earthquakes." She—"O, surely those things are always confined to the poorer quarters of the town."—Punch.

—Mrs. Ayebee—"Men are such funny things. When Ayebee asked me to be his he was the most disconsolate man imaginable." Mrs. Cedee—"I can well believe that."—Boston Transcript.

—"I want an additional clause put on the anti-smoke ordinance," said Gaswell. "Go on," replied Dukane. "I want every cigarette smoker to be compelled to consume his own smoke."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

—She—"You don't care for my kisses any more." He—"The idea! Before we were married I used to expect a dozen or so in payment for a box of candy, and now I deem only one of them sufficient payment for a new dress."—Indianapolis Journal.

—"Are you going to call on our new neighbor, Mrs. L.?" "I think not. The fact is, I met her yesterday, and she evidently does not belong to the best society." "How do you know?" "Because she has such pleasant manners."—N. Y. Tribune.

—Informers stand a slim chance in Georgia. Here is a unique paragraph from a rural newspaper: "Any person driving over this bridge faster than a walk shall, if a white man, be fined five dollar, and if a negro receive 25 lashes—half the penalty to be bestowed on the informer."—Atlanta Constitution.

WEDDINGS IN ROME.

The Ceremonies Differ Much from Those in This Country.

There is a fixed idea in the Roman mind that the only two months of the year suitable for weddings are May and October, the former because it is not yet too hot to make the honeymoon tour unpleasant and the latter because it is not yet too cold to get up and be married at eight o'clock in the morning, for among the upper class eight o'clock is the fixed and orthodox hour. Marriage in Italy is essentially and primarily a religious ceremony, accompanied by mass and holy communion, the latter involving fasting until the ceremony is over.

Fashionable weddings are usually celebrated in the private chapel of a cardinal, bishop or monsignore, at whose house the breakfast is usually given, instead of at the bride's home. There are also various other differences, which make a curious impression on the mind of an English girl marrying a Roman. Bridesmaids are unknown; instead there are four witnesses in attendance — two for the bridegroom and two for the bride; they must be men of the Catholic faith, who are able to swear that the contracting parties are free to marry. During the marriage ceremony the witnesses must stand close to the bride and bridegroom, in order to hear their vows and to feel satisfied that they are made of their own free will, compulsion being one of the two reasons for which the church can annul a marriage. After this the witnesses retire to the background and low mass is laid, music never being so much as thought of. There is a special mass in which at one point a silver tablet, called a "pax," is kissed by the priest, with the words: "Peace be with you," and then carried to the married couple, to be kissed by them in turn. After the mass there is a pause and a silence in the chapel for about a quarter of an hour, while the priest and all who have communicated make their thanksgiving.

The breakfast, according to English ideas, is a most curious morning meal, consisting of coffee, ices, cakes and sweets in great variety. When it is over boxes or bags of "confetti" are distributed by the bride to all the gentlemen present and by the bridegroom to all the ladies. They are also sent with the "letter de faire part" to all intimate friends not able to attend the wedding, and vary from the simplest white satin bonbon bag to the boxes made of solid silver.

When the newly married pair have said "good-by" they drive to St. Peter's to pay the traditional visit to the tomb of the prince of the apostles. Almost any morning in May or October one may see a bride, in her wedding dress, kneeling with her husband under the great dome of St. Peter's. The wedding party has in the meantime broken up, to reassemble, however, later at the station to complete the farewells. The presents are often displayed the evening before at a reception given at the house of the bride. All the presents are given to her; even friends of the bridegroom who do not know her send him something for the bride. An audience of the pope is usually obtained a day or two previously, in order to ask his blessing on the two lives now to be spent together.—Chicago Chronicle.

The Ohio's Bed.

A prominent geologist who has been looking into the formation of the bed of the Ohio river 42 miles below Pittsburgh says the old river bed is 300 feet above the present water level and he finds there stones of Canadian granite, whose nearest home now is on the Canadian side of Lake Ontario. In the glacial gravel he came across a rough arrowhead, which he attributes to the glacial period, perhaps 300,000 years ago.—Chicago News.

He Wanted to Be Prepared.

Johnny—Father, don't you think I had better drop all my studies at school excepting arithmetic?

Father—Certainly not, my boy. What would you do that for?

"Why, I heard mother say that you would be a horrible example for me some day, and I thought I'd better get posted up!"—Detroit Free Press.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS.

STEEL-TRACKED ROADS.

A Promising Idea Advocated by Eastern Political Leaders.

In the wreck of matter and the crush of worlds, coronations, conventions, [illegible] and things, it is just as well not to forget that the farmer feeds us all, when the mud doesn't prevent his hauling stuff to market.

A TERRIBLE EXAMPLE.

Farmer O'Donnell, of New York state, distinctly understood that he, and not Farmer Budd, of New Jersey, or any other person, is the suggestor of the steel tracked roadway; perhaps the most promising of the new good roads ideas. Farmers O'Donnell, Budd and others propose, in brief, to lay wide, shallow steel rails in the public highways, with turnouts at intervals. Wagon wheels would run easily on flat rails eight or ten inches wide, with flanges on either side to prevent the wheels slipping off. Except upon main traveled roads the cost might be pretty heavy, but there would be almost no limit to the loads that could be drawn upon such a track. Bicyclists could easily use it. The appearance might not quite equal that of a good, well-crowned macadam road, but the idea is worth considering, especially in regions where macadam stone is scarce.

One beauty of the steel track is that wagons with narrow tires could safely use it. Macadam necessitates a broad tire law, which causes some opposition.

How true it is that there's nothing new under the sun! Here we are again back at the old plank road idea. A steel plank running lengthwise instead of a wooden one crosswise; that's all the difference.

And in the west, the last few years have seen the reappearance of the prairie schooner and the freight wagon.

OWEN LANGDON.

THE CONVICT PROBLEM.

It Can Be Solved by Employing Prisoners in Road Construction.

The convict labor question is a very knotty problem that is still waiting for solution.

It knocks at the door of nearly every state capital, during each session of the legislature, but is usually turned away with a promise of more consideration at some future time.

The good roads problem is also a question of importance in the land. In some localities one of these problems is permitted to solve the other. Two birds are killed with one stone.

That the present mode of employing convicts is very unsatisfactory is proved by the unsettled condition of the question in nearly every state where it is done. The following is from a recent issue of the Dayton (O.) Herald:

> The Ohio penitentiary seems to suffer from the general business depression. The annual report of the board of managers shows that in 1893 the surplus of earnings over expenses was $31,079; in 1894, the deficit of earnings was $[illegible],137, and in 1895 the deficit of earnings was $55,461.22. The board ascribes several reasons for this change of about $86,000, among them the passage of a law requiring the branding of all prison-made goods, and the passage of the Llewellyn law, restricting the number of laborers engaged in making any one kind of goods in the penal and reformatory institutions of the state to ten per cent. of the free labor employed in making like goods in the state. These have led, as the board claims, to a demoralization of the contract system. It recommends the repeal of the last-named law, the first having been declared unconstitutional; or if this cannot be done, then that the limit fixed by the Llewellyn law be raised to at least 25 per cent. The situation is one of great interest, and will probably lead to further agitation of the difficult questions of employment of convict labor.

In this connection it may be said that whether or not the penitentiaries are self-supporting has nothing to do with the case.

The more money the convicts make for the state under the Ohio system, the more free labor is deprived of. Thriving penitentiaries are not the most hopeful of signs.

It would be even better to tax free labor to support idle convicts than to have the convicts rob free labor of its means of support.

At the present time the work of making magnificent systems of highways appears to offer the best means of employing many of the convicts. They should not be permitted to compete with free labor in the manufactures. Roads should be made better.

When, oh, when, will the immemorial moss-gatherers known as legislators awake to the needs of the hour?—L. A. W. Bulletin.

HORTICULTURAL NOTES.

How can we know of the presence of the root louse? You can judge from the knotty and wooly appearance of the root and its bluish or grayish color; another tendency is to send out a large number of rootlets, these indicate the presence of root lice.

As we approach the northern limits of the apple belt, the number of varieties that can endure the climate rapidly diminishes. Obviously then, the number of varieties of first quality that may be grown on the northern confines of the apple region must be comparatively very small.

The apple leaf crumpler is an orchard insect of peculiar economic importance, because it winters on the tree not more than half grown and attacks the young leaves as fast as they put forth in spring. It thus does vastly greater mischief than it could a little later in the season.—Farmers' Voice.

A Fact and a Reminder.

In Holland, where they have the best roads in the world, it is said that a farmer will haul, with a team of large dogs, as heavy a load as can be drawn over a bad road with a team of horses. This reminds us how dog-gone bad our roads are.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

Experience of a German Town Shows That Improved Roads Pay.

B. E. Fernow, in an article in the Independent, to show that permanently good roads are an important element in any rational system of forestry, cites the example of the little city of Goslar, in the Harz mountains of Germany. This old town owns a forest of 7,500 acres, which the citizens treasure as one of their best investments, because it not only furnishes them outing grounds and good sport in the way of hunting, but with a sure and continuously increasing revenue. Under conservative management the annual cut is 350,000 cubic feet of wood, and the net income from the sale is, in round numbers, $25,000 a year, or $3.50 an acre a year, which is a good return from soil unfit for agriculture. Formerly the district was without good roads, but in 1875 the forest manager persuaded the city fathers to appropriate enough money to construct a first-class road system, which was gradually completed. In 1891 $25,000 had been spent on roads, and 141 miles of these roads were in good order. The manager kept an account of the influence of this improvement on the profits and cost of his forestry operations, and he was able to show that the annual cost of logging had been reduced by $2,450, the cost of hauling by $2,520, and the result of the sales due to the fact that much formerly unsalable material could now be disposed of and all could be transported more conveniently was increased by $3,255, being a net increase of $8,255, or nearly 33 per cent. of the amount invested in road improvements. On one road which was macadamized and maintained for a year at a cost of $7,440 an instructive comparison was made between the cost of hauling 470,000 cubic feet of wood over the old and over the new roads. On the old road 4,273 loads were required of 110 cubic feet each, and costing $3.60, or amounting in total to $15,282.80. On the new road the same quantity was moved in 2,652 loads of 177 cubic feet each, and the cost, at the same price a load, was $9,547.20, which means that the saving in haulage alone was $5,735, or 75 per cent. of the cost of the road in one year.

PLANT PROTECTOR.

It Holds Drooping Branches of Plants Up from the Ground.

A tile plant protector is just the thing for holding the drooping branches of some of the small fruits up from the ground, especially the gooseberry, whose habit of growth is low and straggling. The special advantage claimed for this method is that it keeps the fruit and branches from the ground and also gives a better chance to hoe up the weeds and stir the soil under the branches. It will also hold the moisture about the roots of the bush to some extent, and will make easier picking of the fruit than when the branches lie near the ground.—American Agriculturist.

Temperature Dominates the Dairy.

All of the trouble that so many experience in getting butter to come is due to some mistake in handling the cream. It is neither not ripe or over-ripe, or if properly ripened, it is too warm or too cold; or, again, it may be that there is too much in the churn. The Jersey Bulletin says that temperature is the law that dominates in the dairy; it governs in the setting of the milk, in the ripening of the cream and in the churning, in the making and packing of butter as well. The only index of temperature upon which the butter-maker can rely is the thermometer, and the butter-maker without a thermometer is as bad off as a mariner without a compass. Use a thermometer and know when your cream is too hot or too cold.

The Cost of Bogus Butter.

We have often been asked what profits the dealers realized on the sale of oleomargarine, but no definite or positive reply could be given for the very reason that it has been difficult to get at the facts from the manufacturers. Dairy Commissioner Van Valkenburg, of New York, has been looking into this matter, and he gives the following formula, together with cost: Twenty-four pounds of leaf lard, 27 pounds of oleo oil, 12 pounds of cottonseed oil, 9 pounds of salt, 18 pounds of milk. This will make 100 pounds of oleo, which costs $5.91, and wholesales at from 16 to 20 cents per pound.—Farmer's Voice.

Incentive for Good Roads.

The pleasure drivers of a township in Huntington county have made it a rule for the past two years to present a gold watch and chain to the road supervisors of the townships for keeping the roads in good repair. A Mr. Allison and his successor, Thaddeus S. Jackson, have each been the recipient of gold watches and chains. This is a new thing for public road supervisors, but a very common thing for railroad section supervisors to receive a prize every year for the best sections of road beds in each division of the Pennsylvania railroad. This action on the part of the officials make it an incentive for good work and good roads beds.—Media (Pa.) Ledger.

Some growers advocate mulching with strong manure pear and peach trees, the mulch to extend out as far as the limbs extend.

HE WAS THERE.

Alkali Ike Tells of What Happened at the Wedding He Attended.

"Did you attend the wedding out at old man Juckett's place last night, Ike?" asked Judge Stringer, the well-known Oklahoma jurist.

"Yep!" answered Alkali Ike.

"Had a lively time, I presume?"

"Eh—yah! Some ways it was middlin' lively an' other ways it was slower than snails. Thar was no shootin', an' the licker was mizzable. But, take it all around, up one side and down the other, it was what you might call a pleasant affair from start to finish. The preacher didn't show up at the ap-p'inted hour, but we didn't miss him for quite a spell, owin' to the fact that the bride's mother, who 'peared to be an advanced woman, sorter objected to Kickapoo Pete, who was supposed to be the groom, and got after him with a soap paddle or suthin' of the kind an' chased him all over the lot.

"She needn't have put herself to the trouble, for the bride got to thinkin' the matter over, an' concluded that she'd jest as soon marry Three-Fingered Babcock, who had sorter been spinning around her some little time before, an' she didn't know but she'd a little sooner. Nacheral enough, this kinder riled Kickapoo, an' him an' Three-Fingered got to jowerin' over it, an' I reckon they would have fought it out if Jim Whipsaw, from the Rattlesnake place ranch, hadn't pacified 'em an' got 'em to playin' cards to settle the question.

"This promised to satisfy all parties concerned, but the bride found out that Three-Fingered had put up $2.60 on his side against her hand in marriage, which Kickapoo had staked, which made her so blamed mad that she swore if they didn't value her pure affection at more'n $2.60 she'd be hanged if she'd marry either of 'em! This sorter complicated matters again, but Jim Whipsaw soothed an' comforted her an' when the preacher showed up, by gosh, Miss Daisy, an' Jim stepped forward, hand in hand, to be married.

"Meanwhile Kickapoo had put up $2.60 against Three-Fingered's stakes, an' they were playin' along as contented as a couple of kittens. They slipped their hands into a book and give it to Appetite Bill to hold while the preacher was gettin' off the solemn words that made the two hearts one. An' then, after they had congratulated the bride, thar came the call to supper, an' so they concluded to make it a show-down. Accordin', Appetite Bill opened the book an' 'burcussed if both hands didn't consist of four aces and a king. Thereupon they divided the stakes and shook hands. An' then everybody adjourned to the supper table, feelin' that it was indeed good to be thar."—N. Y. Herald.

THE HOUSEKEEPER'S PEST.

Above All Things She Most Detests Dust.

When a weary housekeeper was asked what her idea of Heaven was she replied: "A place where there is no dust and no dirty dishes."

To the housewife who has a servant to wash her dishes the second clause of the reply may not carry weight, but she must have a very efficient staff of domestics at her command who does not appreciate the pest of dust. The putting in of coal in the cellar covers all the furniture upstairs with a black dust; the furnace is shaken down, and all polished surfaces are gray; while in summer a fine, light, impalpable powder from the streets sifts in hourly through every chink and crevice. While it is well and proper for the housekeeper to fight the nuisance, and once a day have her house thoroughly dusted, she may become a slave to her enemy. She is no worse off than her neighbors, and she would do well to console herself with this thought, and not make herself and everybody else miserable because of a dim mirror or a whitened chair-rung. I have impressed painfully upon my mind the picture of a young married friend, fragile in appearance, and, in truth, whose life was worn to a thread by her arch-foe—dust. She was the mistress of a large house, entirely furnished as to floors, mantels and wainscoting in polished antique oak. She kept two servants, but the parlormaid had time to dust the house only once per diem. The remainder of the time the so-called mistress undertook to keep things clean. My most vivid recollection of her is as she appeared two-thirds of the time, worn and weary, with a dust-cloth in her hand. She used to say, half laughing, half sorrowfully, that a fit legend for her tombstone would be: "Dust thou art, to dust returneth."

As dear Mrs. Whitney says: "Something must be crowded out." Let us housekeepers accept this truth as inevitable, and when we die let it be of a struggle with something greater than dust.—Harper's Bazar.

Evidently.

"The palmists tell us about the line of life, the line of fate and all the other lines," observed Mrs. Morcomb, who was interested in the science, "but the palmist who wrote this book—"

"Have you been buying a book on palmistry?" asked Morcomb.

"Why, yes."

"Had your hand looked at, too, I suppose?"

"I have."

"What did it cost?"

"Only five dollars."

"Only five dollars! H'm! What did the palmist say about your line of economy?"

"He didn't say anything. There isn't any such line, is there?"

"If there is," snorted Morcomb, "the palmist never sees it in the hand of anybody who visits him!"—Chicago Tribune.

Any Kind Good Enough.

Minnie (fretfully)—I just despise these great, gawky, long-legged fellows. Don't you Alice?

Alice (firmly)—No, Minnie, I cannot truthfully say that. I have the smallest objection to Hymen.—Texas Siftings.

RESULT OF ENVIRONMENT.

Three French Ducks That Had Come to Hate the Water.

Hydrophobic ducks may seem a bit strange, but a writer in the Revue Scientifique tells of such. These were not mad ducks, but merely ducks that hated what people have come to consider their natural element. There were three of them, and they had lived some years in Paris, where they had a small basin and their daily bath. Their owner finally took them to the country to live beside a fine lake, thinking it the ideal place for the amphibious. What was his surprise on putting them into the lake to see them instantly scramble ashore and waddle, Indian-file, to a neighboring stable, whence they never came out save for feed.

Never could they be induced to remain in the water save by force or fear, and there they always drew close together, so as to occupy no more space than that of their bath basin in Paris. They were thoroughly afraid of the lake and they never became used to it.

In Picardy, it seems, young ducks are often kept from the water in order to protect them from the water rats and prevent them from eating things that might injure their flavor when they appear upon the table. Ducks thus brought up until their full growth of feathers is acquired refuse to enter the water, and if forced in sometimes drown.

Home Seekers Excursions.

In order to give everyone an opportunity to see the Western Country and enable the home seekers to secure a home in time to commence work for the season of 1896, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R'y has arranged to run a series of four home seekers excursions to various points in the West, North-West and South-West on the following dates: March 10, April 7 and 21 and May 5, at the low rate of two dollars more than ONE FARE for the round trip. Tickets will be good for return on any Tuesday or Friday within twenty-one days from date of sale. For rates, time of trains and further details apply to any coupon ticket agent in the East or South, or address GEO. H. HEAFFORD, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Chicago, Ill.

BOB—"Say, ain't you going to stand treat? I thought you bad money to burn." Dick—"I should have if you would furnish the draft."—Boston Transcript.

All About Western Farm Lands.

The "Corn Belt" is the name of an illustrated monthly newspaper published by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy R. R. It aims to give information in an interesting way about the farm lands of the west. Send 25 cents in postage stamps to the Corn Belt, 209 Adams St., Chicago, and the paper will be sent to your address for one year.

GLORY is like a circle in the water, which never ceaseth to enlarge itself, till by broad spreading it disperse to naught.—Shakespeare.

The Modern Beauty

Thrives on good food and sunshine, with plenty of exercise in the open air. Her form glows with health and her face blooms with its beauty. If her system needs the cleansing action of a laxative remedy, she uses the gentle and pleasant Syrup of Figs. Made by the California Fig Syrup Company.

FLATTERY is often a traffic of mutual meanness, where, although parties intend deception, neither is deceived.—Colton.

A DOSE in Time Saves Nine of Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar for Coughs. Pike's Toothache Drops Cure in one minute.

GIRD your hearts with silent fortitude, suffering yet hoping all things.—Mrs. Hemans.

I COULD not get along without Piso's Cure for Consumption. It always cures.—MRS. E. C. MOULTON, Needham, Mass., Oct. 22, '94.

A BITTER and perplexed "What shall I do?" is worse to man than worst necessity.—Coleridge.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI. April 4.
LIVESTOCK—Cattle, common	$2 50	@ 3 00
Select butchers	3 75	@ 4 00
HOGS—Common	3 35	@ 3 50
Good packers	3 50	@ 3 60
SHEEP—Choice	3 35	@ 3 65
LAMBS—Spring	8 00	@10 00
FLOUR—Winter family	2 75	@ 3 10
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 72½
No. 3 red		@ 71
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 31
Oats—No. 2		@ 21
Rye—No. 2		@ 40
HAY—Prime to choice	14 75	@15 00
TOBACCO—Medium leaf	10 60	@11 50
Good leaf	12 00	@14 75
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@ 9 50
Lard—Prime steam		@ 4 90
BUTTER—Choice dairy	13	@ 14
Prime to choice creamery		@ 22
APPLES—Per bbl	3 00	@ 3 50
POTATOES—Per bush	30	@ 55
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 85	@ 3 95
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 1 north'n	74⅛	@ 75⅛
No. 2 red	70⅝	@ 70⅞
CORN—No. 2 mixed		@ 37½
OATS—Mixed	24½	@ 25
PORK—New mess	8 75	@ 9 50
LARD—Western		@ 5 30
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patents	3 50	@ 3 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	65⅝	@ 66
No. 2 Chicago spring		@ 62¼
CORN—No. 2	28⅛	@ 28¼
OATS—No. 2		@ 19
PORK—Mess	8 37½	@ 8 50
LARD—Steam		@ 5 00
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	3 45	@ 3 70
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	72½	@ 73
Corn—Mixed	31	@ 34½
Oats—Mixed	26	@ 26½
LARD—Refined		@11 00
PORK—Mess		@10 85
CATTLE—First quality	4 25	@ 4 50
HOGS—Western	4 40	@ 4 60
INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 68
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 28½
Oats—No. 2 mixed		@ 21
LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 30	@ 3 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 70
Corn—Mixed		@ 29½
Oats—Mixed		@ 22
PORK—Mess		@ 9 75
LARD—Steam	5 75	@ 6 00

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

WERE it not better for a man in a fair room to set up one great light, or branching candlestick of lights, than to go about with a rushlight into every dark corner.—Bacon.

The Rack, the Thumbscrew and the Boot

Were old fashioned instruments of torture long since abandoned, but there is a tormentor who still continues to agonize the joints, muscles and nerves of many of us. The rheumatism, that inveterate foe to daily and nightly comfort, may be conquered by the timely and steady use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which likewise eradicates neuralgia, bilious, malarial, bowel, stomach and nerve complaints.

THOUGH plunged in ills and exercised in care, yet never let the noble mind despair.—Phillips.

FITS stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free. Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

OR what use are forms, seeing at times they are empty! Of the same use as barrels, which are at times empty, too.—Hare.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, of ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor.) He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

There's MONEY in it!

No business pays as well on amount invested as DRILLING WELLS with our modern machinery. "IT SUCCEEDS—THAT'S THE REASON!"

LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

The nervous system is weakened by the Neuralgia Torture.

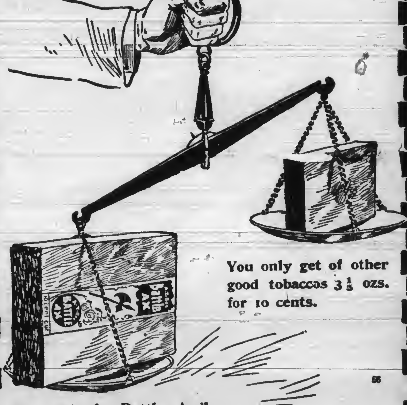
Every nerve is strengthened in the cure of it by

SAINT JACOBS OIL TRY IT

A. D. 1780.

Try Walter Baker & Co.'s Cocoa and Chocolate and you will understand why their business established in 1780 has flourished ever since. Look out for imitations.

Walter Baker & Co., Ltd., Dorchester, Mass.



You only get of other good tobaccos 3½ ozs. for 10 cents.

You get of "Battle Ax" same quality, 5⅓ ozs. for 10 cents.

Battle Ax A GREAT BIG PIECE FOR 10 CENTS

PLUG

You get over 2 ounces more of "Battle Ax" for 10 cents than any other tobacco of the same grade. These two ounces really cost you nothing, and the 5 cent piece is nearly as large as you get of other high grades for 10 cents.

"In the springtime of the year I always take your Sarsaparilla as I find the blood requires it, and as a blood purifier it is unequalled. Your pills are the best in the world. I used to be annoyed with ......" *

Poets Break Out

in the springtime. And a great many who are not poets, pay tribute to the season in the same way. The difference is that the poet breaks out in about the same spot annually, while more prosaic people break out in various parts of the body. It's natural. Spring is the breaking-out season. It is the time when impurities of the blood work to the surface. It is the time, therefore, to take the purest and most powerful blood purifier,

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

* This testimonial will be found in full in Ayer's "Curebook," with a hundred others. Free. Address: J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

HOG CHOLERA.

We will furnish medicine to treat one herd of Sick Hogs in EACH TOWNSHIP in the United States FREE Give express office and number of hogs. A trial only costs express charges and a report of the results of using the medicine.

WM. HALL MEDICINE CO., St. Louis, Mo.

STARK TREES BEAR FRUIT STARK TRADE MARK. TESTED 70 YEARS Salesmen and club makers wanted for GOLD plum, etc. Stark, Louisiana, Mo., Rockport, Ills.

OPIUM and WHISKY habits cured. Book sent FREE. Dr. B. M. WOOLLEY, ATLANTA, GA.

NAME THIS PAPER every time you write.

A. N. K.—E. 1599

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS PLEASE state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, April 8, 1896.

Advertising Rates:

One inch, one time.....$1.00
Each additional time..... .25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50
☞Announcement of candidates for office, cash when ordered.....$5.00.

W. L. RIDDELL, - - Publisher.

THE front end of winter was nothing to compare with the rear end.

THE President Diaz, of Mexico, has declared in favor of the Monroe Doctrine.

KENTUCKY'S chief magistrate is a prime favorite with A. P. A. organizations.

A SPECIAL grand jury will be called for the purpose of suppressing the pool rooms in West Covington.

IT is suggested that McKinley badges be made to show gold on the one side and silver on the other.

THE Democrats in this State can no longer agree on anything. They quarrel over the most trivial matters.

THE Cincinnati dailies are making arrangements for a rich harvest again when the trial of the Pearl Bryan murderers begins.

SENATOR Sherman had nothing to do with framing the Ohio platform. He is emphatically in favor of a single gold standard.

IT can not be said that the Governor's pardon mill has been idle since his inauguration. He gives the crank a turn every few days.

THE Argus, published at Frankfort, says that Gov. Bradley will call an extra session of the Legislature in May. It does not give its authority for the statement.

SENATOR TILLMAN, of South Carolina, will start his Presidential boom in a few days. The Senator has been out taking observations, and is satisfied with his prospects.

HON. HENRY WATTERSON and family sailed for Europe on the first day of this month, to be absent for a year, during which time he will prepare his "Life of Lincoln" for the press.

ALL the Republican county conventions in this State are being well attended. The Republicans are all enthusiasm, while the Democrats are sitting around, cussing each other.

Elkton Progress: Hon. John S. Rhea has announced that he will be a candidate for Congress, provided the national Democracy does not declare for sound money. In our opinion John is not likely to be a candidate.

IT is amusing to hear the Kentucky Republicans affirming their devotion to "sound" money. when they nominated two candidates for U. S. Senator, last winter, and each of them was favorable to the free coinage of silver.

GOV. BRADLEY will be decidedly pleased with his Presidential boom should it result in placing him on the tail end of the Republican ticket. He understands that he falls short, in many essentials, of being presidential material.

NONE of the Republican conventions, so far in this State, have failed to endorse Governor Bradley's action in calling out the militia during the last few days of the session of the legislatue. Of course they have to stand in with the powers that be.

IF something is not done in this State to unite and enthuse the Democracy, an alarmingly small vote will be polled for the Democratic candidates this fall, and it is going to take some exceedingly good work to get up any enthusiasm under the present conditions.

IT is said that President Cleveland has written a letter declining to become a candidate for a fourth nomination, and it is proposed to withhold it until the proper time for giving it to the public. The announcement of Mr. Carlisle's candidacy may precede the publication of the President's letter.

SOME of the Kentucky Republicans whose State pride inclines them to support Gov. Bradley for the Presidency, while, at the same time they are for Major McKinley, have been advising the Governor to withdraw from the race. They do not want to see him run over by the McKinley procession.

THE committee that went before the State Board of Equalization, last week, saved the county about $900 in taxes. If the committee had not waited upon the board Boone's taxes would have been increased ten per cent. As it is the increase is only six per cent. instead of ten, as was the original intention of the board.

EDUCATIONAL.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

The last few years have brought about great educational changes in Kentucky. It is admitted by the best informed leaders that no other State in the union has made greater progress in this line than has ours; and surely there has been much room for improvement.

It has not been many years since almost anyone who wanted to "keep" school, and who could "work sums" as far as the rule of three, could get a certificate. All the apparatus he needed in the school room was a hickory or a good sized club. The pupils were required to bring a slate, some writing paper, poke-berry ink and Webster's old blue back speller. And how delighted those pupils were, sitting on backless benches, with bare feet dangling in the air, when the schoolmaster, with eyes in the back of his head did not have them turned upon us, and we could turn over to the pictures in that old "blue-back." We remember how sorry we felt for the poor boy up in the farmer's apple tree, and how we wished he would come down before the old gentleman would quit throwing grass and begin pelting him with stones.

But the teacher of those days, no doubt, did his best. He received very little for his work, the State fund being small, and that was not paid until long after school had closed. By "boarding around" during school and working for his board between terms, and using the money received for teaching to buy his clothing, he was enabled to exist.

Today the scene is changed; the times demand men and women of broader education than formerly. This calls for better teachers, and to secure better teachers calls for increased salaries. Where is the teacher who, having spent a small fortune in fitting himself for teaching, will teach for the same amount as those who have never made any special preparation? No one could afford to do so; other vocations which are more remunerative are open to him, and he enters these. Increased pay in any line always produces the best results. Although teachers are not yet paid what they deserve, yet they receive fair salaries, and the effect is being felt, manifested by increased interest by both patrons and pupils. As a result of this increased interest in our schools, the little, dark, dingy, so-called school houses in which our children have to spend nearly one-half of their time, are being rapidly replaced by large, commodious buildings, furnished with comfortable seats and good apparatus.

Another important factor in bringing about these good results is the county Superintendents, and they are receiving much deserved praise just now for the able and efficient manner in which they are pushing the work in their counties. It has not been long since they, like the teachers, were receiving very little pay for their work, but now as their salaries have, in most instances been increased, the people are reaping the benefit. These officers have greatly increased the teaching force by being very strict in the examination; they have been instrumental in building more new houses in the last four years than have been erected in the ten years previous; they are now employing the best institute instructors for their teachers; they are devoting more time to the schools under their charge, correcting teachers in wrong instruction and discipline, and just so soon as they are sufficiently paid, that they can spend more time and money along the needed lines of improvement, then will still greater progress be made.

There has been much complaint about the greatly abused Trustee, but when he is amply paid for his work, satisfaction will be given.

This far we are encouraged by the progress made in all needed lines of improvement, and hope the time is not far distant when the public schools of Kentucky will afford educational advantages equal to any in the union.

THE Ohio Supreme Court has been handing down some decisions that are creating considerable uneasiness in many towns in that State. The recent decisions put in question the constitutionality of a large number of laws under which city bonds have been sold, and should it turn out that these particular laws are unconstitutional, chaos will result in many municipalities in Ohio.

Gov. Bradley appointed Senator Landes to the position made vacant by the death of Judge Grace, of the Court of Appeals, and by many the appointment is considered as a reward to Mr. Landes for springing Hunter's free silver pledge on him and driving him out of the contest for United States Senator after being nominated by the party caucus. The question of Landes' eligibility to the Judgeship has been sprung, as on that question the constitution is so very contradictory as to need interpretation by the Court of Appeals.

THE Capital says: "The United States Supreme Court's affirmation of the Kentucky Court of Appeals, in the case of the L. and N. railroad against the State of Kentucky, ends what Chief Justice Pryor once told Gov. Brown was the most important case ever decided by the Court of Appeals. This action of the highest court of the land reflects credit on the Kentucky Court of Appeals, and the lawyers for the Commonwealth, but to no single man is so much credit due as to the distinguished ex-Governor of Kentucky, the Hon. John Young Brown. He it was who forced the bringing of the suit; who took charge of the case, employed his own counsel and fought it out with dignity as a Governor, but with characteristic determination as a man. Some thought the State had no case, and that the Governor's unbroken line of legal victories had at last reached a "break" but Gov. Brown said he "would stake his administration on the result," and the latter ends the most exceptionally magnificent record as a constitutional lawyer ever made by a Governor or other official of Kentucky."

MONDAY, Lassing & Riddell filed a suit in the Circuit Court, to settle the E. M. Gaines assigned estate. This action was caused by one of the large creditors objecting to the payment of some five or six claims that were presented against the estate, on the grounds that the notes upon which they were based were not signed by Mr. Gaines, or by anyone legally authorized to sign his name. The land has all been sold and the assignee was ready to make a distribution, which will now, necessarily, be delayed until the question on the validity of these claims to which objection is made, is settled.

The mere mention of Judge Pryor's name as a candidate for re-election to the Appellate Bench ought to insure him a walk over. No man in Kentucky is held in higher esteem by the people of all parties. He has the qualities that go to make a great Judge—an equitable nature, a level head, a kindly heart, wide knowledge of the law, and absolute fearlessness. His return to the Appellate Bench, which he has honored so long, should be acknowledged by a unanimous vote.—Louisville Critic.

THE Governor is threatening ex-Auditor L. C. Norman with a suit to recover for the State $75,000, which it is charged is the amount of illegal fees he paid to an Auditor's agent in Louisville. Mr. Norman has been hearing of that suit for some time, and says he wishes those who are making the threats would bring it and let the matter be settled. He is not alarmed about the result. In paying the commissions he acted under the advice of the Attorney General.

THE presence of the "gum shoe" politician in Kentucky, last week, gave the Bradley wing of the Republican party considerable uneasiness, and the Governor spent several days in Louisville, trying to keep the ward politicians and political bummers in line for him for the presidency instead of obeying Hunter's mandates. He should have called out the militia as soon as Dr. Hunter returned from Washington, and kept him out of Louisville.

IT is amusing to see as pronounced a single gold standard advocate as Senator Sherman trying to get on the Ohio platform. James B. Beck was pretty well acquainted with Senator Sherman, and he use to claim that he had been on all sides of the money question; but when he gets on the Ohio platform he will be on no side of it.

SOME people are disposed to say a great deal about Gov. Bradley's appointing negros to office. He is doing just right. To the victors belong the spoils, and the colored voters constitute a very large proportion of the victors at the last November election.

"FAIR DEAL'S" article will appear next week. Long articles on any subject must reach this office not later than Friday of the week before they appear. Monday and Tuesday are devoted entirely to the preparation of the local and neighborhood news.

GOV. BRADLEY'S presidential boom was given a black eye in the county conventions held in Kentucky, last Saturday. It is evident that the Republicans in many of the counties see clearly that Governor Bradley is out classed.

THE Republican convention held here Monday was large and enthusiastic. Offices are supposed to be in sight. See?

THE date for the Democratic State convention will be fixed in a few days, and then the boys may begin hustling.

THE town was overrun with candidates, last Monday, and they were the most industrious fellows ever here.

The Republicans of this county met in mass convention last Monday, and appointed the following delegates to the State and Congressional convention: C. C. Hughes, W. Metcalf, Fritz Zimmer, Milton Baker, T. B. Mathews, Cyrus Kelly.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That we reaffirm our entire approval of the Republican party on national issues, first and foremost among which are the financial and tariff question. The Republican party has always stood for sound money with plenty of it, careful only that every dollar shall be equal to every other dollar. It has always stood firm for a tariff sufficient to raise revenue for the expenses of their government, and which will, at the same time, protect American labor and open and keep open American factories.

Resolved, That we express our deep and sincere regret at the utter failure of the present Democratic national administration in managing affairs of the country. The reduction of the tariff, the increase of the national debt, the issues of bonds, the foreign policy have each and all tended to create and continue a lack of confidence.

Resolved, That the delegates chosen to go to Falmouth, also be elected to go to the convention at Louisville, and the Congressional convention when called.

Resolved, That the delegates who go to both conventions be instructed to vote as a unit on all questions.

Resolved, That the delegates be instructed to vote for Hon. Wm. McD. Shaw, of Covington, and Hon. D. B. Wallace, of Warsaw, as delegates to the National convention at St. Louis.

We emphatically indorse the wise and courageous action of Governor Bradley in calling on the militia during the recent session of the Legislature as the only method of suppressing the mob of desperades who were threatening the honor of our State.

Resolved, That Wm. O. Bradley is today, and has been for years, dear to the hearts of the Republicans of Kentucky. We are justly proud of his pre-eminent ability, his statemenship, his integrity and his high standing in the country. Under other circumstances we would be glad and proud to present his name to the Republicans of this county as our first and only choice for President; but, in view of the general sentiment of the country at large, we believe that Wm. McKinley, of Ohio, is the man of all others to lead the Republican party to victory, and the country to prosperity. We declare that Wm. McKinley is our choice for President, and instruct the delegates chosen here today to do all in there power to help select him as the standard bearer of the Republican party of the United States in the campaign of 1896.

Resolved, That we indorse the administration of the Republican party in the State and especially the entire course of Governor Bradley.

The following County Executive Committed was elected: T. B. Mathews, chairman; W. H. Metcalfe, Secretary, G. G. Hughes, Lewis Rice, Cy, Kelly, Chas. Slater, N. Dickerson John Lockhart, Z. T. Kelly and B. F. Zimmer.

NOTHING like getting in the band wagon in good time—so thought the Boone county Republicans.

IT will be hard for Governor Bradley to tell who fared the worse in the Boone county Republican Convention Monday, he or Jack Chinn. The Governor will feel worse over the matter than Jack will.

THE Democratic committee expects those who are candidates for county offices, to bukle down and assist in bringing out the Democratic vote in this county this fall. Boys, take notice and act accordingly.

Eggs for Sale.

Eggs for hatching—Barred Plymouth Rocks exclusively—pure bred, vigorous and healthy—strictly first-class. Stock in separate pens—No. 1, $1 per 13 eggs. No. 2, 50c per 15 eggs.
Mrs. R. O. Smith, Union, Ky.

FERTILIZER.

Farmers, I would be pleased to have your orders for Fertilizer this year. Our goods are graded up considerably for 1896, and we have the following goods at last year's prices:

Raw Bone Meal.
Fine Ground Bone.
Tobacco and Potatoes.
Acidulated Bone.
Ammoniated Bone.
Special Tobacco.
Miami Valley Phosphate.
Jones Reliable Phosphate.
Jewell Phosphate.

When you buy our goods you get the worth of your money, and you know I placed good goods on the Boone and Kenton county market in 1894 and 1895 for less money than any other firm.

B. F. ZIMMER, Gen. Agt., for The Jones Fertilizer Co., Constance, Ky.

"It's All Right."

They say, when you want the
BEST GOODS
and the most reasonable prices. Go to
IRA AYLOR'S,
Save money and your patience.
The Stock is new and has been bought at the best possible rates. Just call and see what we will do for you.
Very Truly,
IRA AYLOR,
ERLANGER, KY.
Branch Store—UNION, KY.

STEPHENS & SCALES,
—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN—
Hardware, Cutlery, and Agricultural Implements,
Genuine Oliver Chilled & Steel Plows,
Bissell Chilled & Steel Hillside Plows,
Walking & Riding Cultivators,
Steel & Wood Gear Farm Wagons,
Champion Mower and Binders,
Ball Bearing Disk Harrows,
BARBED AND SMOOTH WIRE
AT THE LOWEST MARKET PRICE.
No. 26 Pike Street, - - - Covington, Ky.

BEST GOODS! LIVING PRICES!
Hardware,
Farm Machinery,
Fine Vehicles,
Harness.
HARRIS FITCH, Corner HIGH AND SHORT STREETS,
LAWRENCEBURG, INDIANA.

A. C. HECKMAN,
Florist, Plants, Bulbs, Seeds, & Metal Designs.
Fresh Cut Flowers Daily. Artistic Floral Designs a Specialty.
734 Madison Avenue,
Covington, - - Kentucky.
25 Per Cent. Less than any Cincinnati House.

J. J. GEISEN,
Best and cheapest HAT STORE In the city.
Agency for WHITE STAR LAUNDRY.
615 Madison Ave., COVINGTON, KY.

METROPOLITAN COUPE AND LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St, Cincinnati, Ohio,
E. H. BAKER, Proprietor
(o)
Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.
Telephone 580.

Go to JOHN L. KOCH,
FOR
HARNESS, BUGGIES and Road CARTS

He having secured the Agency of the James & Mayer Buggies, Manufactured at Lawrenceburg, can sell you a Buggy at factory prices.
LOOK HERE
Good Top Buggy $40 and up.
Machine-made Buggy Harness, $5 and up.
Hand-made Buggy Harness, $7.50 up.
BUGGIES REPAINTED AND REPAIRED.
JOHN L. KOCH, Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

FOR SALE.
Lumber Yard and Stock at Cost.
(o)
J. C. GARVEY, Erlanger, Ky.,
Is closing out his Entire Stock of Lumber at and below COST for CASH. Those wishing to reap the benefits of these remarkable Low Prices and obtain first choice of goods must come early, as I do not intend to replace the stock, but, to quit the business. The closing out of the stock will begin
April 13th and Continue Sixty Days,
After which time I shall close the yard, rent or sell to any one desiring to reopen the business. I am at present about two-thirds stocked and can meet the demands of those who come early. Write or call on me for prices on the kinds of lumber you are in want of.
J. C. GARVEY, Erlanger, Ky.

Local News.

Some shade trees were set out last week.

Now for April showers to make May flowers.

There are several new advertisements in this issue, to which your attention is called.

The indications are that an unusually large acreage will be sowed to oats this spring.

It will take only a few days of good weather to put the dirt roads in fine condition again.

Dr. Furnish is not so struck on legislative work as to hope the Governor will call an extra session.

Hear that the young ladies of this place will give a leap year picnic some time during the summer.

The docket for the next term of the Circuit Court closed with 31 ordinary and 10 equity appearances.

Some of the plug horses hereabout have gone to pastures of perpetual verdure during the past two months.

The peaches appear to be considerably injured in some neighborhoods, while in others they are not injured in the least.

Wesley Underhill brought a load of nice apples to town Saturday morning. He had several varieties all of which had kept nicely.

A Hawesville ferryman, after many years experience in his business, avows that a woman will not cross a river on a pretty night for anything.

The local editor who can dish up more interesting matter than Miss Grace Pate, of the Dillsboro, (Ind.) Advocate, has to work early and late.

Archie Acra and brother have opened up a repair shop in Burlington, and will be glad to have you bring them your shoes and harness needing repairs.

If all the big cases that are on the docket should be ready for trial at the term of the circuit court which begins next Monday, the term will be a busy one.

Three communications were received at this office too late for publication, last week. Communications should not reach this office later than Monday night.

James K. Sebree, who lives down on Gunpowder, has bought of S. H. Marshall 14 acres of land adjoining the 16 acres he recently bought of John Davis and wife.

We now have the grand jury with us three weeks in the year instead of two as under the old dispensation, and still the morals of the county are no better than then.

A good sized crowd attended Mrs. John Morris' sale, and very satisfactory prices were realized. Horses sold as high as $101. One sow and 10 small pigs brought $42.

The fellow who canvassed the town, a few days since for pictures to enlarge, the patron to pay him 25 cents in advance, walked out of the burg without increasing his cash.

It is said that about one-half of the large crowd at the Walton sale, Thursday, was prospective candidates for county offices, and that several arms were shaken off before night.

The sheriff is summoning the grand and petit jurors for next week. If the weather should be favorable for farming, the jurors will hate very much to lose the time from their fields.

The other members of the committee who went before the State Board of Equalization, say that County Attorney Lassing made an able argument in opposition to the increase of the value of taxable property in this county.

Jailer Crisler got a great big move on last week, and gave the court house yard the most thorough cleaning it ever has received. After getting the rubbish out of the way, he sowed the bare places to blue grass. He did a good job.

Those desiring information in regard to the matrimonial doings in Burlington can be accommodated upon application to Col. George Walter Sandford, corner Washington and Garrard street. No fee will be charged for the information.

Brack, James A. Riddell's fine saddle and harness stallion, aged 8 years, died of lung fever, last Thursday. He was a horse of fine style, and a very successful ring horse, seldom failing to take the premiums for which he competed. He would have sold for $400 or $500.

Naturally fair complexions would be the rule rather than the exception, as unfortunately it is at present, if the ladies would abandon cosmetics, and more generally keep the blood pure and vigorous by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the only reliable blood purifier.

The farmers are buying considerable food in the city and hauling it home for their stock. The drought last summer compelled the farmers to begin feeding unusually early, thereby exhausting their limited supply of provender before the feeding period has passed. The last twelve months have been as unprofitable to the farmes as any period of the same length they ever experienced.

Mr. Otto Billingsby, on his farm east of town, cut down a black locust tree the other day that had a horse shoe embedded in the heart of it. The tree branched out into two limbs, each about 17 inches in diameter, and the shoe was found within the tree at a point below the angle of these limbs. The supposition is that the shoe had been hung in the fork of the tree when it was very small, and had never been disturbed. He had known the tree for more than fifty years.—Aurora Independent.

It was a beautiful Easter Sunday.

Circuit Court begins next Monday.

It has rained on every county court day this year.

The patent medicine vendor showed up early Monday morning.

Rev. T. L. Utz occupied the pulpit in the Baptist church, Sunday night.

Lost—A yearling calf—bought at J. H. Walton's sale. O. P. Phipps.

W. L. Aylor was appointed administrator of Mrs. Clarissa Smith, last Saturday.

Rev. H. C. Groves, will preach at the Universalist Church next Sunday morning and at night at the usual hours.

The statement that O. J. Ryle is one of the contractors for the mail on the Burlington and Erlanger route is a mistake. Jeff Eddins alone is the contractor.

The Recorder is in receipt of an invitation to witness the opening game of the Championship season at the Cincinnati Ball Park on the 16th inst., at 3:15 p. m. Cincinnati vs. Pittsburgh.

Last week the Boone County Recorder, one of our best exchanges, changed its forms and came out a much larger sheet. It is a sure enough newspaper now, and has a pusher at the helm.—Milton News.

There was a large crowd in town last Monday, and for the first time since a time to which the mind of man runneth not to the contrary, there was no horse show in Burlington on the first Monday in April.

At a meeting of the Boone County Democratic Executive Committee held last Monday, the proposition to hold a primary election on Nov. 3d, 1896, to nominate candidates for county offices was defeated by a vote of 7 to 5.

The children of A. Corbin, of Bellevue, completely surprised him on the 31st of last month with a birthday party, it being his 70th anniversary. His brother J. K. Corbin and Mrs. Downton, of Aurora, were present and added much to the plasure of the occasion.

BARGAINS: CLOSING OUT.

For the purpose of engaging in other business I am now selling my stock of goods below cost. If you want Bargains call early. The sales will continue from Saturday to Saturday until all the goods are sold. Having to go to the city every week I will continue to take orders for goods not in stock.

A. M. ACRA, Burlington, Ky.

The Madison, (Ind.) Herald says: Gov. Bradley was hanged on the principal street of Hanover one night last week. The affair created a great excitement among the people and students although it was not known who instigated it. There are many students at Hanover from Kentucky and suspicion naturally rests upon them as the authors of the escapade. The execution of a republican governor in a republican stronghold is astounding and more hangings may follow.

LAND AND A LIVING.

Are best and cheapest in the Great New South. The northern farmer, artisan, merchant, manufacturer, are all hurrying into this rapidly developing country as pioneers. The open climate the low price of land, and its steady increase in value; the positive assurance of crops, with but little effort to raise them, all combine to turn all eyes southward. To assist in this movement. low railroad rates have been inaugurated over the Queen & Crescent Route from northern towns and villages, both round-trip and one-way tickets being on sale at about half the usual rates. Round-trips selling on April 7th 21st, and May 5th; one-way tickets on the first Tuesday in each month. Now is the time for you to go and see. Much has been said and written about the fruit, grains and grasses along The Queen & Crescent Route and about its climate—no blizzards and no sun-strokes. Summer nights are cool. Grass grows green ten months in the year. Less wear and tear in living than you've known in the north. A million acres of land at $3 to $5 an acre, on easy terms. Now is the time to go and see for yourself. Write to W. C. Rinearson, G. P. A. Queen & Crescent Route, Cincinnati, O, for such information as you desire before starting.

KIND WORDS SPOKEN.

—The Burlington Recorder has been made larger and has more interesting matter than ever before, which is saying a great deal.—Courier Journal

—The Boone County Recorder has changed its form and gives evidence of increased prosperity. Its Democracy hasn't changed, however, but is sound as ever.—Commonwealth.

—The Boone County Recorder has been enlarged, and greatly improved by the adoption of the quarto form in place of the folio. It is a good paper.—Rising Sun Recorder, —The Boone County (Ky.) Recorder has changed from an eight column folio to a six column quarto which greatly improves the appearance of that enterprising paper.—Aurora Bulletin.

The Boone County Recorder has been enlarged and greatly improved by the adoption of the quarto form in place of the folio. It is a good paper.—Lawrenceburg Register.

The Boone County Recorder has been changed from an 8-column folio to a 6-column quarto. The change does not seem to be an improvement.—Lawrenceburg Press.

That excellent paper, the Boone County Recorder, has increased its size. —Dillsboro Advocate.

—The Boone County (Ky.) Recorder has enlarged from an 8-column folio to a 6-column quarto. This is an evidence that the Recorder is prosperous.—Monroe City, (Mo.) Democrat.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Johnnie Powers, of Richwood, was in town Friday.

Mr. J. H. Ryle and family were visiting in Erlanger, Friday.

Miss Annie Garrison is visiting in the Hathaway neighborhood.

Esq. B. B. Allphin, who has been quite sick, is getting better.

Dr. Crisler and John Allison, of Ludlow, attended court Monday.

Deputy Sheriff Rodenhafer, of Kenton county, was in town yesterday.

Ezra Aylor, of the Petersburg neighborhood, is the proud father of a son.

Dr. W. O. Rouse, of Limaburg, made this office a pleasant call, last Thursday.

O. J. Ryle and wife entertained several of their Hathaway friends, yesterday.

A Mr. Morris was in town, last Friday and Saturday, representing the Courier-Journal.

Mrs. Sarah Carpenter, was visiting Mrs. E. E. Uitz, of Erlanger, two or three days last week.

Misses Myrtle Beall and Besie Davis, of Hebron, were guests of Elmer Beall [illegible] last Tuesday.

Judge Hackstadt, of Bromley, was in town Monday, having with him a string of buggies for sale.

J. M. McCourt, Alderman Gus Menninger and John Bryan, of Covington, attended court here Monday.

Rev. Hoover came in just afternoon, last Saturday, having made the journey from Walton on his bike.

Friend Wallace, of Warsaw, is just now too much interested in that fine boy of his to take much interest in politics.

Everett Souther, who lives out on the Limaburg and Constance pike, was in town, Friday, delivering a lot of shade trees.

W. Lee Gaines, of Richwood, passed through town, last Saturday with a drove of sheep he was taking out to his father's.

Several of the avowed candidates filled their pockets with cigars, and pulled out for the J. H. Walton sale, early Thursday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Piatt, of Newport, were in town, last Wednesday. Mr. Piatt called on the Recorder while in town.

Joseph Love, Henry Pate, and a Mr. Gibson, of Rising Sun, came over, last Monday, to see the annual horse show that did not take place.

Harry Blyth was in Frankfort, last Thursday, for the purpose of looking after an appointment he is seeking under the State administration.

Mr. John L. Koch, of Lawrenceburg, was mixing with the crowd in town, Monday. He is engaged in the buggy business, and attention is called to his advertisement in another column.

Charles Stephens, of Utzinger, has gone to Missouri, with a view to making that State his future home. Chas. leaves many friends behind, who will be glad to hear of his success in his new home.

Misses Maud and Ella Norman, of Union, who were visiting in the Bullittsville neighborhood several days last week, were guests of Miss Olga Kirkpatrick for a few hours last Saturday, on their return home.

Some of the boys say that they can always tell when Prof. Collins visits his girl on Saturday and Sunday instead of going home. If he returns to Burlington early in the afternoon, on Sunday, he has been to see his father and mother. They have been keeping tab on the professor.

James Clore attended the Walton sale, last Thursday, it being the first sale he has favored with his presence for three years, on account of his mania to buy too extensively; and when he summed up his purchases, Thursday, he declared it would be three years before he would attend another sale.

C. L. Crisler and Charles Westbay have more white hairs in their heads than they had one week ago. They crossed the river with their teams at Constance, last Thursday, while the wind was trying to blow all the water out of the river. They don't know yet whether the ferry boat crossed on the water or through the air. Cy thinks Capt. Kotmeyer's boat is somewhat of an air ship.

Judge Stephens, County Attorney Lassing, Assessor Brady, Stanley Clutterbuck and Harry Blyth, went before the State Board of Equalization at Frankfort, last Thursday, to show cause why the assessed value of taxable property in this county should not be increased. They made a strong plea against the proposed ten per cent. increase, and are confident that their efforts were not in vain, and that the increase will not reach 10 per cent. when finally settled.

The fiscal court was in session yesterday.

A small boat ascended Mudlick creek, last Sunday, as far as Esq. B. B. Allphin's.

This is the kind of weather that the farmes have been waiting for for some time, and they are making their work hum.

The Democrats have a very tired expression when discussing the approaching presidential campaign. The party was never known to manifest so little enthusiasm on the eve of a national campaign.

Last Saturday three detectives came down from Covington, and requested Sheriff Roberts to meet them at Constance that night, and assist in the arrest of Levi Fox and John Moore, whom they charge are the parties who stole John Hankins' money.

Sheriff Roberts and his deputy, Elmer Beall, left home about two o'clock Saturday night, returning about noon, Sunday, with the accused parties, who were lodged in jail.

Monday Moore waived examination and gave bond for his appearance at circuit court in the sum of $300, Fox is endeavoring to give bond in the same amount.

LAND FOR SALE.

240 acres known as the Gaines farm on the Covington and Lexington pike and on the L. & N. and Cincinnati Southern Railroads, two miles north of Walton, Ky. This is one of the best farms in Northern Ky., suitable for stock, grain, grass and tobacco. Improved with a modern 8-room dwelling, large stock and hay barn, tobacco barn, tenement houses and all necessary outbuildings.

For further information call on H. C. Bedinger, on the farm or address me.

Also 115 acres, known as the Piatt farm, lying on the Walton and Beaver graded road. This is a good, strong piece of land with a large portion of it tobacco land. I will sell the above lands worth the money.

For further information call on or address H. C. Bedinger,

John Allison,

Undertaker

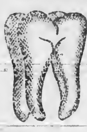
—AND—

Embalmer,

Cor. Pike & Russell Sts.,

COVINGTON, - KENTUCKY

Independent of Undertakers' Union.



We are up to date!

—ALL THE—

NEWEST & LATEST

In Dentistry.

SAVE YOUR MONEY.

WE CAN MAKE YOUR MOUTH PERFECT.

WE can extract teeth and fill nerve cavities positively without pain. The nervous and delicate, as well as children need not be tortured by the old methods. Teeth capped with gold, and teeth without plates by our perfect crowning system. We have the only experts on teeth without plates on this side of New York City.

FULL GUM ELEGANT SETS OF TEETH,

$5, $8 and $10.

(Old time Prices for Same, $15, $20 and $30.)

Artificial Teeth on Gold, Rubber & Celluloid.

Teeth filled with Gold a Specialty	$1.00 and upward.
Teeth filled with Gold and Platinum Alloy	75c.
Teeth filled with White Enameled Filling, 75c. and upwards.
Teeth Cleaned	75c
Teeth Extracted	25c.
Vitalized Air	50c.

Temporary Sets, which look well and can be worn with comfort, inserted in ten minutes after teeth have been extracted.

THE ALBANY DENTAL ASSOCIATION

The Largest Dental Establishment in the World.

ALL WORK WARRANTED.

10 EXPERTS. OPERATORS. SPECIALISTS.

Office hours 8 to 8.

Two ladies in attendance.

BRIDGE WORK

DR. G. E. MANN, Manager,

136 W. Fourth St., Cincinnati, O.

A Fortune in Prizes!

$6,141.75

.....GIVEN AWAY IN.....

55 Separate Prizes

...ONE PRIZE OF...

$1,000

The NEW WEEKLY ROCKY MOUNTAIN NEWS,

Denver, Colo.,

The greatest bona fide prize offer ever made in the West or South.

The News is the representative paper of the West—it is silver's champion; it is the people's advocate; it leads in thought, as in news. The Weekly has just been enlarged and improved; it contains the latest and fullest mining and mining stock news; it has special departments devoted to the Farm, the Household, Women and Children; all the brightest cartoons and livest comment of the daily edition are to be found in it; it presents in condensed form the doings of all the world—it is a family paper without a peer.

And the Weekly News is determined to have beyond all question the largest circulation of any paper between the Mississippi river and the Pacific coast. Therefore it offers to the persons sending in the greatest number of $1 yearly subscriptions before September 1st next these unequalled prizes.

REGULAR AGENTS' COMMISSION ALLOWED IN ADDITION.
CONTEST BEGINS AT ONCE.
OPEN TO EVERYBODY EVERYWHERE.

For particulars address
The News Printing Co.,
Denver, Colo.

Scientific American Agency for

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.

For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 Broadway, New York. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the

Scientific American

Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address, MUNN & CO., Publishers, 361 Broadway, New York City.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We would call the attention of the public to the fact that we are still doing business at the

OLD STAND

And are more than ever determined to sustain our well earned reputation of selling the Best Goods at the Lowest Possible Prices.

We have not room to quote prices, but if you will give us a call we will convince you of the fact.

Our Terms are Cash.

W. M. RACHAL & CO. Union, Ky.

BOEHMER, ROLF & CO.,

—DEALERS IN—

PAINTS, OILS AND GLASS,

63 and 65 Pike Street,

Covington, Telephone, 4212. Ky.

GEO. W. HILL & CO.,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

Flour, Tea, Tobacco AND FINE Cigars.

ALSO DEALERS IN WOOL AND COUNTRY PRODUCTS.

CALL SPECIAL ATTENTION TO OUR RETAIL DEPARTMENT.

27 and 29 PIKE ST. 26 and 28 W. SEVENTH ST.

Covington, - - Kentucky.

HARBICK & ROSE,

Undertakers AND Embalmers,

OFFICE AND STABLE, 637 and 639 SCOTT STREET,

COVINGTON, KY.

CARRIAGES FOR WEDDINGS AND PRIVATE HIRE.

Telephone, 4146. OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

GEO. G. RUSSELL,

WHOLESALE AND

RETAIL GROCER,

GRASS SEED,

Corner Pike & Washington Sts. Covington, Ky.

Tom Wilson, Salesman.

A. H. BRYANT. J. L. V. McDONALD.

REMOVED AND READY FOR BUSINESS.

31 Pike Street,

THE OLD RELIABLE STOVE COMPANY,

Successor to J. M. CLARKSON.

Stoves, Grates, Fine Tin and HOLLOW-WARE.

Our friends of Boone County will be Welcome to Make OUR STORE Their Headquarters when in Town.

J. L. V. McDONALD, - - - Manager.

COVINGTON, KY.

Mr. J. M. Clarkson has his office with us.

SEEDS. SEEDS. SEEDS.

BUY YOUR

GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS

From W. J. RAMSEY & CO.,

We are the only House in Covington, handling a full Line of

GARDEN SEEDS.

708 Madison Avenue

COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.

Opposite Seventh Street Market House.

HANKINS, DAVIS & CO.,

GENERAL MERCHANTS,

HEBRON AND CONSTANCE, KY.

A good supply of Campbell's Creek Coal on hand at Constance at all times. A good supply of feed always in stock. Garden and Field Seeds.

UNDERTAKING.

is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. Hankins.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : : KY.

APRIL—1896.

Sun.	Mon.	Tue.	Wed.	Thur.	Fri.	Sat.
....	....	....	1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30	....	....

CURRENT TOPICS.

QUEEN VICTORIA has always worn crepe.

DANIEL WEBSTER eared stray shillings as a chore boy.

GEORGE WASHINGTON carried a chain for a surveyor.

NEW YORK has sent a cargo of iron bedsteads to Jerusalem.

THE new liquor law of New York rules out the free lunch.

COLORED races never have blue eyes. Their eyes are always dark brown, brownish yellow or black.

DURING a recent week the patent office "broke the record" by receiving 1,140 applications for patents.

HENRY WARD BEECHER when he first began his ministerial career milked the cow and did the stable work.

SIAMESE worshipers hold the sacred monkey tooth in even higher regard than the royal white elephant's.

IN last parliamentary returns the population of Ireland is stated as 4,704,750, and the electorate as 729,473.

SILK is the strongest of all vegetable or animal threads. It is three times as strong as a flaxen thread of the same size.

THE Egyptians used pencils of colored chalk, and several of these ancient crayons have been found in their tombs.

ST. PETER was the name of an intoxicated individual who was fined $7.85 in the Concord (N. H.) police court recently.

PETER CONKLING, of Mount Hope, N. Y., who is 106 years old, has been sent to the almshouse to spend his remaining days.

IT is said that Benjamin Ide Wheeler, professor of Greek at Cornell, is to succeed Dr. Hill as president of Rochester university.

A MINISTER of Ceresco, Mich., has bought a stereopticon, with which he will in future illustrate his Sunday night sermons.

THERE are more than 200 lakes within the boundaries of Venezuela, one of the largest being 1,600 feet above the level of the sea.

IRON has for ages been a favorite medicine. Over 100 different preparations of iron are now known to the medical chemists.

GUY'S hospital in London is in financial straits. The prince of Wales has undertaken to raise by subscription the $2,506,000 it needs.

THE Canadian colony of Hebrews founded by Baron Hirsch has collapsed. Of the original 800 only a dozen or two are still on the ground.

AT the instance of Mr. Cecil Rhodes $10,000 was distributed among Jameson's troopers on their way home in the steamer Harlech Castle.

THE state of Mississippi owns 3,000 bales of cotton and has sustained a loss of $250,000 by not selling during the advance a short time ago.

A DAUGHTER of George A. Ward, of Omaha, swallowed carbolic acid by mistake. Her father ran for a doctor, and on his return dropped dead.

LITIGATION between John D. Rockefeller and Rev. D. C. Potter, at New York, led to a sheriff's sale of Tabernacle Baptist church effects.

MRS. POTTER PALMER reports that the tenth annual charity ball in Chicago yielded $16,860 for the cause. The expenses were $3,389 and the receipts $20.249.

SIR JULIAN GOLDSMIDT, who left about $1,000,000 to his daughters, has done so on the footing that if any of them marries a gentile her share is to be reduced to half.

A WOMAN has just been appointed assistant professor of English in the University of Michigan. She is Miss Gertrude Buck, a daughter of Judge Buck, of Michigan.

REV. DR. BENJAMIN W. BACON, pastor of the Congregational church of Oswego, N.Y., has been appointed instructor in the New Testament in the Yale divinity school.

WM. ORDWAY PARTRIDGE'S equestrian statne of Gen. Grant, which is to stand in Bedford avenue, opposite the Union League club. Brooklyn, will be unveiled April 25.

DR. EDSON'S aseptolin treatment is being administered to two consumptive convicts at the Connecticut state prison, under the supervision of the prison physician.

GOV. MORTON, of New York, has approved a law requiring medical students to attend an incorporated college for three years before applying for permission to practice.

A CAB shaped like a bath tub, in which the passengers either sit or recline as if in a bed, is in use in Berlin. It has three wheels, and is propelled by a naphtha motor.

EDISON'S patience is illustrated by the fact that he tried 1,800 chemicals before he found the right one to aid him in his finally successful attempt to see through an eight-inch block of wood.

JOSEF HOFFMAN, the boy pianist, still keeps up his reputation as a musical prodigy, and at a concert in St. Petersburg recently $1,500 were taken in, which Hoffman turned over to the Rubinstein fund.

FATAL FLAMES.

One Man Dead, Another Mashed and Crippled, and Four Prostrated.

The Result of a Fir[illegible] Ga.—The Property Destroyed Includes the Wharf Property, Cotton Sheds, Freight Warehouses, Etc.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 3.—A special received at 11 o'clock Thursday night from Brunswick, Ga., says:

The fire which commenced Thursday morning at 11:30 o'clock and is now burning, destroyed a half million dollars' worth of property, cost one human life, caused one man to be mashed and crippled, and prostrated four men, who are suffering in various stages. The dead man is Night Watchman Smith, of the Plant system, who died from apoplexy, due to excitement. The injured man lost a hand, his name is unknown. The men prostrated are Negroes.

The property destroyed includes the wharf property, cotton sheds, freight warehouses, tracks, part of the freight in the warehouses, etc., all belonging to the Plant system and comprises their local terminal freight facilities, a number of freight cars and between 10,000 and 20,000 cross ties, the property of N. Emanuel and Jas. E. Broadhead of the Plant system docks, 25,000 barrels of rosin; 1,000 barrels of spirits turpentine; all the wharf engines; wholesale grocery building; grocery stock and warehouse buildings of the Downing company; Segues fish house and various small fish and oyster houses on the water edge of Bay street.

On the far side of Bay street the fire swept Bryesenick's three-story brick building, including the machinery and the supply stock; the office furniture of Broker Maxey and Lumber Dealer Padrossa; the retail dry goods store of Cohn, the wholesale grocery and liquor stock of R. V. Douglass, the wholesale liquor stock of Tobias Newman; the Metropolitan saloon and the stock of T. Newman. All of these were in a block of five brick buildings; the wholesale warehouses of Hoyt Hardware Co.; the three-story Ocean hotel.

Extending up Monk street the retail store of the Hoyt Hardware Co. was burned and Bear's two warehouses full of goods. Across Monk street the Haas Liquor Co. and the ice depot. On Bay street, from Monk street up, the fire swept Herzog's brick building used as a retail dry goods store; Hirsch's wholesale and retail liquor store, several smaller stores and two empty stores, all in a block of brick buildings.

At this hour it is impossible to gain anything like an accurate statement of the losses, but the estimates place the plant system at $75,000; Downing, $225,000; Brieseneck and occupants, $60,000; Lott, $15,000 and Newman, $20,000. Messrs. Downing and Lott about covered by insurance. Mr. Newman has $50,000 insurance.

FATAL TRAGEDY.

Sheriff Guinn and One of His Posse Shot by a Desperado at Concord, Ga.

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 2.—A special from Concord, Ga., says:

A fatal tragedy occurred here Thursday, in which two men were fatally shot. About seven o'clock Sheriff Guinn and a posse went to the house of Taylor Delk, a notorious desperado, to arrest him for robbery and assault. As the sheriff arrived at the door, he was shot through the left side. While Guinn was lying on the front porch begging for some one to come and get him, John F. Madden, attempted to drag him off and was fired on, the ball passing through both thighs, breaking both legs.

A crowd have the house surrounded and are fixing to fire it to drive Delk and two companions out. They will be shot as they attempt to come out. Sheriff Guinn is not expected to live. Mr. Madden is a prominent merchant, well known throughout Georgia. His condition is regarded as dangerous.

SPECIAL AGENT

Of the Interior Department, With Half a Dozen Men and a U. S. Marshal Drowned in Rainy Lake.

CROOKSTON, Minn., April 3.—A letter received by the Crookston Times from the War Road river, says that it is reported there that Col. A. F. Naff, special agent for the interior department, who had gone to investigate timber depredations by the Indians in the Rainy Lake country with an outfit of a half dozen men and a United States marshal, had gone through the ice on Rainy river and that all were lost. Col. Naff left here a few weeks ago to look up the reports that had reached the government that Canadians were stealing large quantities of pine on the Red lake and other government lands along the boundary and the streams tributary to Rainy river. The War Road river, from which the report came, is near the mouth of the Rainy river and the story is believed to be authentic.

A Blizzard in Michigan.

DETROIT, Mich., April 3.—Reports from many sections of lower and upper Michigan show that a severe blizzard is raging. In the copper district of the upper peninsula trains are being badly delayed, the drifts being ten feet high in some places. In many districts in lower Michigan nearly a foot of snow has fallen. A strong wind prevails and the temperature generally is about ten degrees above zero.

Uncle Sam to Buy a Famous Building.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—An amendment to the sundry civil bill providing for the purchase and repair by the government of the house in which Abraham Lincoln died in this city was adopted by the house of representatives.

Bessemer Steel Manufacturers Organize.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Representatives of very nearly all the leading manufactories of Bessemer steel in the United States met Thursday at the Hotel Waldorf in this city and formed themselves into an association or combination to regulate and protect the business.

TRADE REVIEW.

The Expected Improvement in Business With Spring Weather Begins in Some Branches.

NEW YORK, April 4.—R. G. Dun & Co. will say Saturday:

The regular quarterly statement of failures shows 4,031 with liabilities of $57,425,135, against 3,802 last year with liabilities of $48,813,683.

The improvement expected with spring weather begins, though in some branches of business scarcely visible. As consumers make spring purchases they must lessen stock and compell less buying. The stocks taken in advance of consumers' demands last summer have been distributed far more slowly than was expected, but months of this waiting has helped to lessen the load which it is hoped spring buying will clear away.

Apprehensions of foreign or financial difficulties have hindered, but are now scarcely felt. Gold exports are rumored, but at this season are so far natural that they have no such power to cause alarm as they had in winter. The gigantic steel combination is expected to have a great influence in sustaining markets and stimulating confidence, and though such operations often miss the success they seek, they rarely fail to kindle speculative buying for a time. The sudden advance of two dollars a ton in billets a week ago has raised Bessemer pigs $1 at Pittsburgh, and the demands for structural forms increase in expectation that prices will rise. Nail associations have given notice of another advance of 15 cents at the end of this month. Bars have been greatly demoralized but some makers now hope to re-establish the combination, as steel bars will become dearer. But No. 1 foundry is slightly lower at Philadelphia and the general demand for finished products does not yet improve. The steel concerns propose to restrict production by allotment, those producing more than their share paying $2 per ton to those who produce less. Orders for lake copper are solicited at 10½ and lead is weak at 3.10. Less encouragement appears in the horseshoe trade. The woolen manufacture does not gain in orders and a large part of the machinery is stopped. Prices of wool have fallen 7½ per cent. Cotton mills still pile up goods in advance of orders, as reductions in prices have failed as yet to stimulate buying. Speculation in products has been slim. Cotton continues to come forward so largely that former predictions of 6,500,000 bales are remembered with derision and the outlook for the next crop continues good. Wheat has slightly advanced and if later reports of injury from extensive frosts and storms prove correct, will advance more, though western receipts continue nearly fifty per cent. larger than last year.

Corn exports are large and receipts also heavy, but pork has declined 75 cents per barrel.

Speculation in stocks has not been active, though railroads average nearly one dollar per share higher than last week, while transactions in trust stocks have scarcely gained anything. Railroad tonnage in March has been a shade larger than in 1893, but reported earnings of railroads are 3.7 per cent. larger than last year, but 10.4 per cent. smaller than in 1893.

REPORTED TO THE HOUSE.

The Rivers and Harbors Appropriation Bill for the Fiscal Year.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The rivers and harbors appropriation bill for the coming fiscal year was Friday reported to the house by Mr. Hooker (rep., N. Y.) chairman of the river and harbor committee. Among the principal allowances for harbors are the following:

Tonawanda harbor, N. Y., $50,000; Erie harbor, Pa., re-survey ordered; ship channel, Galveston bay, Tex., $50,000; Sabine Pass, Tex., $50,000.

Contracts authorized to complete, not to exceed $1,403,856.

Ashtabula, O., $50,000 of which $40,000 is for the construction of breakwaters.

Harbor at Black River, O., $20,000.

Harbor at Cleveland, O., $80,000, to be used for extension of breakwater and repair and rebuilding of piers and breakwater and widening and extending the channel between the piers and in the outer harbor. Contracts authorized for the completion of these projects, to cost not exceeding $1,354,000.

Fairport Harbor, O., $30,000; Sandusky, O., $40,000; Toledo, O., for straight channel through Maumee bay, $150,000; Conneaut, O., $40,000; outer harbor at Michigan City, Ind., $70,000; inner harbor, $70,000; Calumet, harbor, Chicago, $75,000.

Steamship Bermuda Released.

LONDON, April 4.—A private dispatch was received here Friday evening announcing the release of the steamship Bermuda at Puerto Cortez. The vessel will sail Saturday. Her destination is given as New Orleans. Ninety boxes of ammunition found aboard of her and which were seized, are held by the Hondurian authorities. Col. Nunez is a passenger aboard the vessel.

Herbert Appears Before the Committee.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Secretary Herbert appeared before the senate committee on naval affairs Friday morning, the committee now having under consideration the naval appropriation bill. It is believed this bill will be reported by the middle of next week. The number of battleships provided for by the house will, it is said, be left undisturbed.

Eight Hour Movement in Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 4.—A delegation representing the Dominion trades congress waited on the government Friday and asked that eight hours a day constitute a day's work by government employes. Sir Charles Tupper promised the delegation to try the system in the government printing bureau and recommend it to his colleagues for adoption in other departments.

All Saloons Closed.

BETTSVILLE, O., April 4.—The council of this village has closed all the saloons in the town, and a boycott on the village is threatened.

CLOSER UNION

Of the Interests of All the Republics on This Continent.

Preparations Under Consideration for a Broad Development of the Bureau's Commercial Usefulness—An Effort to Create a Better Understanding.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—An important departure in the control of the Bureau of American Republics was inaugurated Thursday afternoon through a meeting of the committee representing the American republics which was appointed by Secretary Olney Thursday morning, consisting of the Mexican, Brazilian, Venezuelan and Guatemalan ministers and the Costa Rican charge d'affaires. Senor Romero presided over the session which was held in the parlor of the bureau building, and while the proceedings were in the nature of a preliminary determination of the future work of the organization, it is understood that preparations are under consideration for a broad development of the bureaus of commercial usefulness, involving a much closer union of the interests of all the republics on this continent. Although the general direction of the bureau is, in all probability, to be continued under the secretary of state, the United States advancing the money for its support and being subsequently reimbursed by the other parties to the agreement, hereafter the other republics will exercise active control over their interests in the matter. The contemplated accession of Chili, although that country has abstained from participating in the enterprise since its conception, and the reconsideration of the determination by Mexico and Argentina to withdraw from the arrangements which are now announced, have been secured through the efforts of Secretery Olney, who is said to have confidence in creating a better understanding among the American nations than could have been deemed possible heretofore.

The committee which met Thursday will hold other meetings next week and report to a conference of all the republics as soon as possible. In addition to the chairman, its members are Senors Mendonca, Andrade, Lazo-Arriaga and Calvo.

EXPENSIVE REDSKINS.

The Indian Appropriation Bill Reported to the Senate.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The Indian appropriation bill reported to the senate Thursday carries $7,418,806, being a net reduction from the amount as passed by the house of $1,006,638. The bill is $1,348,944 less than the current law. The chief items of reductions made by the senate are as follows: Payment on Cherokee outlet purchases, $1,060,000; surveying Indian reservations in South Dakota, $20,000; Hampton school, Va., $20,204; Lincoln institute, Philadelphia, $33,400. The principal increases over the house bill are day and industrial schools for the Sioux of the different tribes, $50,000; Fort Hall reservation, Shoshones and Bannocks, $10,000; negotiations with Uncompahgre and other Indians of Uintah reservations. $25,000; extension of public lands surveys over the Cheyenne and Rosebud reservations, $35,000; surveying lands in the Indian territory, $200,000; support of day and industrial schools, $200,000; construction, repair, etc., of school buildings, $100,000; erection of school building at Sac and Fox reservation in Iowa, $35,000; additional school buildings at Flandreau, S. D., $50,300.

The bill also incorporates treaties with the Indians of Fort Belknap reservation in Montana; the Indians of the Blackfeet reservation in Montana and with the Indians of the San Carlos reservation, Arizona.

OLD GLORY.

Senator Sherman Introduces a Bill to Regulate a Uniform Flag in the Army and Navy.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—In the senate Thursday Mr. Sherman introduced a bill to regulate the use of a uniform flag in the army and navy, its proportions and the location of the stars in the blue field. The flag proposed is to be used on and after July 4, 1900. The arrangement of the stars is as follows: Three in each corner and a central star around which shall be entwined a sufficient number of stars so that the total number in the blue field will represent the total number of states. The bill sets out that the twelve stars in the four corners and the one in the center represents the 13 original states, according to their geographical location on the map, assuming the top of the field to be north, and the other states are represented in the circle of stars in the order in which they were admitted into the union, placing the oldest states nearest the center. The idea carried out in this bill is that of Mr. Alonzo Mather, of Chicago.

Reed Delegates.

HOLYOKE, Mass., April 3.—The republican convention of the First congressional district Thursday elected Harley A. Russell and Wm. Whiting delegates to the St. Louis convention. An attempt to postpone a resolution instructing the delegates for Reed and endorsing sound money was defeated, 49 to 45. The resolution, by a vote of 64 to 35, was then amended by substituting the word "recommend" for "instruct." There was a strong McKinley sentiment in the convention.

Robert K. McCoy Murdered.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., April 3.—Robert K. McCoy, relative of the McCoys, who years ago were mixed up in a feud with the Hatfields, on Big Sandy river, moved to this county about two months ago. He left here late Wednesday night for his home. His horse was found grazing about fifteen miles south Thursday morning. The saddle and sides of the horse were covered with blood. People living in that vicinity say they heard shots about midnight and it is supposed that McCoy was shot and his body thrown into the creek and carried away. Bloodstains lead to the creek.

CUBAN WAR.

The Insurgents' Hopes Were Never Brighter Than Now—More Gained in the Past Month Than Any Two Preceeding It.

HAVANA, April 1, via Tampa, Fla., April 4.—Army preparations have been pushed with great vigor for the past month. Gen. Weyler has given officers and men no rest. His orders have been peremptory, and many a general has incurred his displeasure by tardiness. The result of these movements have been to tire out a large portion of the army in the field. The insurgents have been kept moving; their camps have been destroyed and a dozen of their hospitals have been burned during the month that has just passed; but the government has not forced a single battle upon the rebels. The only serious engagements have been those in which the insurgents have had the advantage of position or numbers as at Cuyajobas and Candelaria, assumed the offensive and defeated the regular troops of Spain. There have been many rearguard skirmishes, which appear in the Spanish reports as battles and victories for the crown, but which, upon investigation, a number of them proved to be massacres of unarmed citizens, and there have been more tales of horrors committed than battles fought in this island of Cuba during the month of March. If 100th part of the stories that reach here of the operations of the columns of Gens. Melquizo and Bernal and of Cols. Molina, Tort, Sequera and others are true, the reason why Gen. Weyler cancelled all passes held by correspondents is plain. Owners of estates report excesses committed by detached bodies of Spanish troops in all parts of the island, and there is no longer talk of attempting to grind sugar this year, the problem is how to preserve the lives of employes and prevent wanton destruction by the troops.

The insurgents have gained more in the past month than in any two that have preceded it. Weyler's decree compelling people to abandon their homes in the interior has driven many peaceable inhabitants into the rebel armies. The harsh measures adopted toward suspects in cities and towns have also increased the number of recruits from families of the better class in cities. The landing of four important expeditions has given inspiration to the insurgent army.

Their hopes were never brighter. Hot weather is already here and the rains are not far off. The limited time remaining for military operations this spring, makes it plain that Spain can not crush the rebellion before the wet season sets in and the serious problem of caring for the lives of her soldiers presents itself. A Spanish officer says that the losses of the army through fevers and other sickness have been 12,000 since September and over 25,000 during the year ended March 1.

Gens. Aldrea and Madan have been sent back to Spain, making nine generals who have been returned since Gen. Weyler arrived. Gen. Obrejon is also booked to return and Gen. Pando, commander of the first army corps, has been ordered back for allowing Gomez to enter Santa Clara without fighting a battle. Gen. Suarez Valdez is also on the list. He is in command of Pinar Del Rio, and besides failing to suppress the rebellion in his section, he sent an impertinent message to Gen. Weyler by heliograph. Weyler says he can get more active work out of colonels than from generals, and the exodus continues. There is much dissatisfaction among officers of higher grades. Gen. Weyler has been in a highly nervous state for several days, and many stormy interviews between him and his men have taken place. His troubles with the politicians are just beginning. He has assured the home government that elections can be held in Cuba, and now he has two parties—the reformists and autonomists—refusing to take part, leaving the union constitutional or conservative Spanish party alone in the field. Rumors that Weyler will be recalled are persistent. Since advices that the United States will not recognize the belligerency of the Cubans, Gen. Weyler has begun open execution of prisoners of war. Three have been shot at Cabanas prison within a week, and more are doomed to the same fate.

Those Cuban Resolutions.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The house Friday entered upon consideration of the conference committee recommending the adoption of the senate resolutions relating to Cuba, which Mr. Hitt (rep., Ill.) chairman of the committee on foreign affairs, has been endeavoring to bring to the attention of the house for some time. Mr. Hitt was desirous of securing action on the report Friday, but the hour for recess intervened before the conclusion of the discussion and it went over until Saturday. The time Friday afternoon was occupied by Mr. Hitt in favor of agreeing to the report, and by Mr. Boutelle (rep., Me.) who opposed the passage of the resolution.

An American Jailed in Mexico.

EL PASO, Tex., April 4.—Israel M. King, who is a member of the New Mexico legislature from Silver City, was arrested in Juarez, Mex., Friday, on the charge of stealing Mexican calves, while driving cattle over the border at Palomas. King claims to have bills of sale for the stock and says the charge is made by an enemy for spite. He will have to stay in jail until his bond is approved at Chihuahua. The Washington authorities will be appealed to.

Ship-Building.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—During the last quarter the total number of vessels built and documented in the United States was 124, of 28,170 tons as compared with 128 vessels of 29,336 tons for the previous quarter. Of the vessels built during the last quarter 65 were sail and 59 steam. The steel steamers built were 9 of 12,849 tons of which 2, of 7,004 tons were built on the great lakes. Forty-eight wooden sailing vessels of 9,089 tons were built on the Atlantic and gulf coasts, and 26 wooden steam vessels of 3,312 tons were built on western rivers.

To California in Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars.

The Burlington Route (C., B. & Q. R. R.) runs personally conducted excursions to California, leaving Chicago every Wednesday. Through cars to California destination, fitted with carpets, upholstered seats, bedding, toilet rooms, etc.; every convenience. Special agent in charge. Route via Denver and Salt Lake. Sunshine all the way. Write for descriptive pamphlet to T. A. Grady, Excursion Manager, 211 Clark St., Chicago.

IN sleep, when fancy is let loose to play, our dreams repeat the wishes of the day.—Claudius.

Cheap Excursions to the West and Northwest.

On April 21 and May 5, 1896, the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western R'y) will sell Home Seekers' excursion tickets at very low rates to a large number of points in Northern Wisconsin, Michigan, Northwestern Iowa, Western Minnesota Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota including the famous Black Hills district For full information apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address W. B. KNISKERN, G. P. & T. A., Chicago, Ill.

THE Bible tells the sluggard to go to the ant, but in these days most of them go to the father-in-law.—Atlanta Constitution.

The Pilgrim—Easter Number

Will be ready the early part of April. Everything in it will be new and original. It will contain articles by Capt. Chas. King, U. S. A., Ex-Gov. Geo. W. Peck, of Wisconsin, and other noted writers. An entertaining number, well illustrated. Send ten (10) cents to GEO. H. HEAFFORD, publisher, 415 Old Colony Building, Chicago, Ill., for a copy.

IT is easier to find fault than to know what to do for it.—L. A. W. Bulletin.

In the Selection of a spring medicine bear in mind the fact that what you need is a good blood purifier, and the best, in medicine, should always be your aim. The great cures of blood diseases by Hood's Sarsaparilla have made it known as the One True Blood Purifier. It is therefore the best medicine for you to take in the

Spring

That you need a good spring medicine is almost certain. Ninety per cent. of all the people need to take Hood's Sarsaparilla to purify their blood at this season. The warmer weather finds them greatly debilitated, and it is well known that disease is most likely to attack those who are "all run down." If you

Take

Hood's Sarsaparilla now, it will purify and enrich your blood, give you a good appetite, prevent and cure that tired, languid feeling, which is so prevalent in the Spring, and in this way it will build you up and prevent sickness later in the year. Remember

Hood's

Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills the best family cathartic and liver stimulant. 25c.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR

W. L. DOUGLAS

$3. SHOE BEST IN THE WORLD.

If you pay $4 to $6 for shoes, examine the W. L. Douglas Shoe, and see what a good shoe you can buy for $3

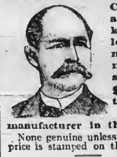
OVER 100 STYLES AND WIDTHS, CONGRESS, BUTTON, and LACE, made in all kinds of the best selected leather by skilled workmen. We make and sell more $3 Shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

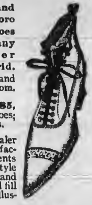
None genuine unless name and price is stamped on the bottom.

Ask your dealer for our $5, $4, $3.50, $2.50, $2.25 Shoes; $2.50, $2 and $1.75 for boys.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE. If your dealer cannot supply you, send to factory, enclosing price and 36 cents to pay carriage. State kind, style of toe (cap or plain), size and width. Our Custom Dept. will fill your order. Send for new Illustrated Catalogue to Box R.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.





CATARRH

is a

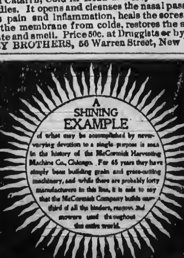
LOCAL DISEASE

and is the result of colds and sudden climatic changes. It can be cured by a pleasant remedy which is applied directly into the nostrils. Being quickly absorbed it gives relief at once.

Ely's Cream Balm

is acknowledged to be the most thorough cure for Nasal Catarrh, Cold in Head and Hay Fever of all remedies. It opens and cleanses the nasal passages, allays pain and inflammation, heals the sores, protects the membrane from colds, restores the senses of taste and smell. Price 50c. at Druggists or by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.



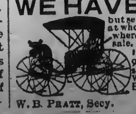
A SHINING EXAMPLE of what may be accomplished by never-varying devotion to a single purpose is seen in the history of the McCormick Harvesting Machine Co., Chicago. For 65 years they have simply been building grain and grass-cutting machinery, and while there are probably forty manufacturers in this line, it is safe to say that the McCormick Company builds one-third of all the binders, reapers and mowers used throughout the entire world.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS

but sell direct to the consumer at wholesale prices. Ship anywhere for examination before sale. Everything warranted. 100 styles of Carriages, 90 styles of Harness, 41 styles Riding Saddles. Write for catalogue.

ELKHART CARRIAGE & HARNESS MFG CO.
ELKHART, IND.

W. B. PRATT, Secy.



CONGRESSIONAL.

A Forecast of the Business During the Week.

The Appropriation Bills Will Take Precedence in the Senate.

The Dupont Case Still Before That Body—Rivers and Harbors Bill in the House—An Effort to Be Made to Abolish the Compulsory Pilotage System.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Appropriation bills will take precedence in the senate this week, the post office bill, now under consideration, possibly requiring two more days before it can be passed; the Indian and naval bills to follow.

Mr. Morgan having given notice that he will take the floor on Tuesday to address the senate in favor of his Pacific railroad bill, which gives the court of appeals of the District of Columbia jurisdiction in all foreclosure suits and similar proceedings that may be brought in connection with these roads.

Mr. Peffer will endeavor to press his motion for an investigation of the bond sales, but will not stand in the way of appropriation bills.

Meanwhile the Dupont case is still before the senate and speeches yet to be delivered by Senators Gray, Brown, Chandler, Vilas, Palmer and Burrows.

Mr. Frye has given notice that he will call up the extermination of the fur seals bill. Senators Mantle and Teller desire to defend their course in preventing the taking up of the tariff bill.

The proposed treaty with Great Britain for the appointment of a commission for the consideration of damages growing out of the seizure of Canadian sealing vessels, still remains to be finally acted upon in executive session, the state department uging the senate to abandon its intention of amending the text of the convention as submitted.

The Cuban matter out of the way, Mr. Hooker, chairman of the committee on rivers and harbors, will make an effort to take up the appropriation bill reported by him on Friday and proceed with its consideration under suspension of the rules. It is not the intention, it is explained, to ask the house to finally dispose of it within the limited time allowed for discussion of a bill so taken up, but to give a reasonable time for its consideration, the determination of this period of "reasonable time" will necessarily be the subject of unanimous agreement, so that it is impossible to forecast now what it will.

Mr. Payne, chairman of the committee on merchant marine and fisheries, will ask consideration of the bill reported from his committee to abolish the compulsory pilotage system, when the river and harbor bill has been disposed of, and these measures, together with the miscellaneous business coming up from day to day, it is expected, will occupy the time and attention of the house until the fortifications appropriation bill be reported to the house. It was stated Saturday that this would be ready the latter part of the week, and the appropriations committee desires that it shall be placed upon its passage as soon as copies of the bill and report have been printed.

ALEX. W. TERRELL,

United States Minister to Turkey, Arrives in New York.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Alexander W. Terrell, United States minister to Turkey, was a passenger on the Hamburg-American line steamer Fuerst Bismarck which arrived Sunday from Mediterranean ports. Mr. Terrell seemed to be in perfect health and in perfectly good humor, but to all questions regarding his mission to this country he responded with the one phrase, "I've absolutely nothing to say." He said he would tell everything to Secretary Olney whom he intends to meet in Washington Monday.

He was asked about the state of political affairs at Constantinople, the Armenian question and the doings of Miss Clara Barton, who departed some time ago on her mission of charity to those who are said to be the victims of cruelty at the hands of the Kurds and Turks, but he turned a deaf ear to all interrogations. He mechanically repeated that there was nothing to be given out.

Mr. Terrell, it is said, would visit his ranch in Texas immediately after finishing the preliminaries of his mission to Washington.

Four Thousand Houses Burned.

MADRID, April 6.—A dispatch from Manilla says that the town of Santa Cruz, on the west coast of the island of Luzon, 110 miles northwest of Manilla, has been almost completely destroyed by fire. Four thousand houses were burned and 30,000 persons were rendered homeless.

Ira Stillson Dead.

AKRON, O., April 7.—Ira F. Stillson, the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Stone, who was assaulted when the aged couple were murdered, died Sunday night from the effects of his injuries, and it thus becomes a triple murder, but the mystery surrounding the crime is deeper now than ever.

St. Louis Defeats Chicago.

ST. LOUIS, April 6.—The St. Louis football players Sunday defeated the Chicago eleven by a final score of two to one, giving the victors the western championship. Saturday's game was also taken by the locals.

Easter Display of Flowers.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 6.—About 15,000 people viewed the Easter display of flowers at the Phipps conservatory, Schenley park, Sunday. The display is said to be the greatest in the world.

Attempted to Kill His Child Then Suicided

DECATUR, Ind., April 6.—Thomas Freeong committed suicide here by taking arsenic after trying to kill his seven-year-old son.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS

First Session.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—SENATE—The senate passed the bill to approve a compromise and settlement between the United States and the state of Arkansas. The debts due from the state of Arkansas to the United States are of long standing and much complicated and confused. Congress in 1894 conferred authority upon the secretary of the treasury and secretary of the interior to compromise these claims. Secretaries Carlisle and Smith effected a compromise with Gov. Clark, providing that upon the payment by the state of Arkansas to the United States the sum of $572 in money and the payment of 160 $1,000 bonds of the state held by the United States, the state to pay in all the sum of $160,572, that all claims between the United States and the state of Arkansas be closed. The senate also passed a bill appropriating $2,000,000 for a public building at Indianapolis, Ind.; also a bill appropriating $15.845 for the relief of persons who sustained by the explosion of an ammunition chest of Battery F, U. S. Artillery, at Louisville.

HOUSE—The house Monday took up the consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill, and disposed of 15 of the 100 pages before adjournment. Eight amendments to increase the salaries of light house superintendents from $1,600 to $1,800 were adopted. Congressman Brownell introduced a bill in the house Monday to amend Section 4896, of the revised statutes, to enable guardians of insane to apply for letters patent for their wards. A number of private bills were also introduced.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—SENATE—In the senate Mr. Davis introduced a bill providing for the election of a delegate to congress from Alaska. The post office appropriation bill, carrying $93,000,000, was considered in part, but not completed. Senator George's speech, in opposition to Mr. Dupont's claim to a seat, occupied most of the day, and was not completed. In the post office appropriation bill the amendments appropriating $22,818,580 for the free delivery system had added to it the proviso that no part of the sum should be used for payment of post office inspectors.

HOUSE—The house Tuesday passed a bill introduced by Mr. McCreary, of Kentucky, to pay Clifton R. Anderson, of Danville, Ky., $46 for stamps taken from his office by burglars. Bills introduced: To pay John Sheehy, late sergeant Fifteenth Ohio regiment, $150 due him as bounty; to grant honorable discharge to Capt Theodore W. Tallmadge, of the Ohio Volunteer militia; a joint resolution providing for the appointment of a mixed reciprocity commission of five members to originate and perfect trade treaties with European powers and governments of the western hemisphere for submission to the president and by him to be submitted for ratification to the senate.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—SENATE—The senate completed consideration of the post office appropriation bill, except the paragraph relating to ocean mail subsidies. Mr. Vilas renewed his opposition to this form of government aid. Senator Butler (pop., N. C.) introduced a bill requiring the acceptance of current legal tender funds in payment of notes, bonds or private obligations. The senator explained that the purpose of the measure was to put a stop to gold notes, gold mortgages, etc., which were being wrung from the people, owing to their dire financial distress. The senate in passing the bill approving certain acts of the legislative assembly of New Mexico, added an amendment validating the $172,500 of the bonds and indebtedness of Santa Fe county, under a refunding act.

HOUSE—When the sundry civil appropriation bill was reported to the house, the item of $2,500, which had appeared in the estimates of the secretary of the treasury for building an addition to the surgeon's quarters of the Marine hospital at Cincinnati, had been stricken out. The house Indian affairs sub-committee, charged with the preparation of a bill for the reorganization of the government of the Indian territory, has completed its work, and a report will be made to the full committee Thursday.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—SENATE—The post office bill again went over after several speeches. The propriety of abolishing country post offices and absorbing them as branches of city offices was discussed. The amendment was laid aside to allow Mr. Elkins (rep., W. Va.) to speak in support of the subsidy item. He spoke of the British activity in securing control of the ocean commerce. As a means of reviving our ocean commerce, Mr. Elkins advocated the re-enactment of the old law giving ten per cent. rebate on duties on goods carried in American ships. The senate adjourned til Monday.

HOUSE—A battle against appropriations for sectarian institutions occupied the house Thursday, and at its close the sundry civil bill passed. The cause of the trouble is the Howard university, a colored institution of Washington, for which an appropriation of $32,600 was inserted in the sundry civil bill Wednesday on motion of Mr. Evans (rep., Ky.) Mr. Evans moved a substitute for the proviso to the amendment appropriating $32,000 for the Howard university, with the specific proviso that none of the appropriation was to be used for the support of the theological department of the university, the substitute was adopted. Mr. Hainer demanded the ayes and nays. The Evans amendment was adopted, 129 to 105. Adjourned until Friday.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—SENATE—Not in session.

HOUSE—Another forward step has been taken towards the accomplishment of the permanent improvements of the greater Ohio river Friday Chairman Hooker, of the committee on rivers and harbors, presented its report to the house. The total appropriations carried in the bill is $9,787,683. The question of recognizing the belligerency of the Cubans was discussed again Friday by the house, but no action was taken owing to Mr. Boutelle's obstruction. Mr. Pickler forced the consideration of pension bills, to the exclusion of the Cuban question. After 30 bills had been passed in something more than an hour, Mr. Erdman made a novel point of order, demanding after the bill had been ordered to be engrossed that a copy of the engrossed bill be produced. As this could not be done, the bill was laid aside. Adjourned until Saturday.

SAFE AND SOUND.

Col. Naff and Party, Who Were Reported Drowned, Return to Crookston, Minn.

CROOKSTON, Minn., April 4.—Col. Adam F. Naff, whom Thursday's reports said had gone through the ice on the Rainy river, and been drowned with his entire party, returned from the trip Friday morning safe and sound.

The report that they were drowned originated in the fact that the party did meet with a mishap on the river and all went through. Col. Naff and the United States deputy marshal escaped, but the rest of the outfit were drowned, being swept under the ice.

Turned Over to Jersey Authorities.

PHILADELPHIA, April 4.—John Rech, the self-confessed murderer of his alleged wife, Bessie Weaver, at Estellville, N. J., was turned over to the New Jersey authorities and taken to May's Landing Friday.

New Line From Pittsburgh to Youngstown.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 4.—Two engineering corps are engaged in surveying a route for a first-class railroad to be constructed between Pittsburgh and Youngstown, O. One corps is headed by Engineer Holbrook, formerly general superintendent of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie road. The other is in charge of Engineer Patterson. The new road, it is said, will parallel the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railway. It is stated that Senator Calvin S. Brice and Senator Wm. Flinn, of Pittsburgh, are back of the movement, which has not as yet been regularly incorporated.

HE DECLINES.

Secretary Carlisle Not a Candidate for the Presidency.

His Letter to Chairman Long, of the Kentucky Democratic Committee.

The Secretary Has a Profound Interest in the Welfare of the Party, But Thinks He Can Serve the Country Best by Staying in His Present Position.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Secretary Carlisle Sunday evening gave out the following letter to Chairman Long, of the democratic state central committee of Kentucky, declining to enter the contest for the democratic nomination for the presidency:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 4, 1896.

Chas. R. Long, Esq., chairman democratic state central committee, Louisville, Ky.:

MY DEAR SIR:—Your favor of March 30, in which you say in substance that many of my friends in Kentucky and elsewhere desire me to become a candidate before the approaching national democratic convention for nomination for the office of president and requesting me to give "some authoritative or definite expression" upon the subject, was duly received and has been maturely considered.

Many communications upon the same subject and of similar import, have been received from friends in different parts of the country, and while very grateful for these numerous expressions of confidence and esteem upon the part of my democratic fellow citizens, I have not been able to reach the conclusion that the exisiting conditions require me to comply with their requirements by authorizing them to announce me as a candidate for the presidential nomination. While I feel a profound interest in the welfare of my party, I am much more concerned about its declaration of principles than in its selection of candidates, because, in my opinion, its failure or success at the election, as well as its capacity for useful service to the country in the future depend upon the position it takes or omits to take upon the public questions now engaging the attention of the people, and especially the questions affecting the monetary system of the country and the character and amount of taxation to be imposed on our citizens.

Its position upon these and other subjects had been agreed upon, and clearly and distinctly announced, the convention ought to have no difficulty in selecting an acceptable candidate who would fairly represent its views; and in order that its deliberations may be embarrassed as little as possible by the contentions of rival aspirants and their friends, I think my duty to the party will be best performed by declining to participate in a contest for the nomination.

The obligations assumed when I accepted my present official position require me to devote my entire time and attention to the public interests committed to my charge, and I shall have to continue the discharge of my duty, as imposed upon me, to the best of my ability, and in such manner as will in my judgment most certainly promote the true interests of the country; and, if the opinion of my fellow democrats in Kentucky my services entitle me to their commendation and approval, I would regard their indorsement of my public course as an ample reward for the little I have been able to accomplish in behalf of honest administration and a sound financial policy.

With many thanks for your kind letter, I am, very truly yours.

J. G. CARLISLE.

THE X RAYS.

A Practical Test of its Use in Surgery Made in a Pittsburgh Hospital.

PITTSBURGH, April 6.—What is claimed to be the first practical use of the X rays in surgery in America was made Sunday evening in the homeopathic hospital and was successful in every particular. By means of photograph made with the rays Saturday night, the exact location of a piece of needle in the foot of seven-year-old Rachel Newell, of East Liverpool, O., was ascertained, and in less than a minute after the first incision, the needle was found, placed exactly as in the photograph. The operation lasted 60 seconds.

While Rachel was running about a room five weeks ago her foot struck a needle, and about a quarter of an inch of the steel ran into the ball of the foot. Acute irritation set in and the foot swelled to twice its natutal size. Frequent probings were made, but the steel could not be located.

Gov. Holcomb's Proclamation.

LINCOLN, Neb., April 6.—Gov. Holcomb has issued the annual quarantine proclamation against the importation of cattle from certain districts on account of Texas fever, and it goes into effect Monday.

Tug Boat Boilers Explode.

ANTWERP, April 7.—The boilers of the tug Virginia, plying between Ghent and Antwerp, exploded Sunday when the vessel was near Termonde. The captain escaped but the crew of four men were killed.

Matabeles Murdering Whites.

LONDON, April 6.—The Standard Monday publishes a dispatch from Buluwayo, furnished it by a news agency, saying that the Matabeles have murdered 100 whites, and that 250 are still missing.

Well Known French Painter Dead.

PARIS, April 6.—Earnest Ange Duez, a well known French painter, died in this city Sunday. He was born in Paris, March 8, 1845, and was made an officer of Legion of Honor in 1889.

Why Did He Commit Suicide?

CHICAGO, April 6.—An unknown man committed suicide early Sunday morning while being pursued by the police for a theft which it has since been learned he did not commit.

FASHION LETTER.

Gradual Reduction in Volume of Sleeves and Spreading Skirts—New and Attractive Styles.

[Special New York Correspondence.]

Although modistes and ladies' tailors are gradually reducing the volume of the huge sleeves of the season past and the ultra circumference of spreading skirts, the change is gradual, and we still note the full sleeve that is no longer of the balloon type, and skirts that have the graceful, graduated bell outline, and this model, it would now appear, has a future. The faultless simplicity of the present day effects accords immense importance to skirts, and one wonders what new idea will spring up in connection with them. To insure the perfect hang of a skirt, it is still necessary to wear either a moreen petticoat beneath the silk-lined dress-skirt or to line it, at least in the lower portion, with genuine horse-hair cloth to give it the requisite support without stiffness, which is otherwise unobtainable. These linings are comparatively light, protecting the silk lining as well as the dress material itself, and imparting a stylish cachet to the entire costume. Next to a silk lining, however, many women prefer its satisfactory substitute, "rustle percaline," with a stiff facing at the skirt hem covered with taffeta silk to the depth of ten inches or so. Although severe in outline, the skirt is quite as much a test of the maker's art as the most elaborate bodice. It is a success only when made by a professional. Some of the new spring models are trimmed, but as many and more are not. No set rules govern the modiste in the exact shaping and adjusting of the patrons' skirts, for they are individualized for each wearer quite as much as an individual style of hair-dressing is followed.

Regarding the newest shapes in dress sleeves the tendency is toward tightening the sleeve above and below the elbow. The recent great width just here was ill-proportioned and spoiled the natural outline of the arm in a place where it should have been particularly graceful.

Hungarian caps, Vandyke points, Medici, Queen Anne and Huguenot puffs, also three dress flounces falling one over the other, or a series of tiny frills from shoulder to wrist sewed upon a fitted coat sleeve, are all used on new costumes for general wear. For evening, the full puff to the elbow remains a leading favorite. Louis XV. coats of black or dark green velvet rival the stylish little French shoulder capes in favor. They are worn with full skirts of black satin, brocade or ladies' cloth, and the most dressy models have white satin revers bordered with jet with plaited satin fronts to correspond with the fronts in blouse or fitted waistcoat fashion, as best suits the wearer. These satin accessories, on waists, coats and capes are extremely stylish and elegant. White satin linings are even used on handsome costumes formed of black ladies' cloth and black stitched white gloves are then en suite, even when the costume is worn on the street. Very elegant velvet short, full shoulder-capes are lined with white satin or Persian brocade, and a number of natty capes for youthful wearers have linings of plaided satin, with no decoration on the outside but the costly jeweled clasp. Faced cloth, mohair and alapaca costumes have usurped crepons in popular favor; although these beautiful materials are yet in vogue, the new spring patterns in black and fancy crepons proving so very attractive they still retain place in fashion's ranks.

Trim, taut, and pre-eminently smart are most of the new spring tailor costumes made with full-gored skirt, with jacket to match, the jacket shaped to suit every form and every fancy. Some are belted, others finished with strapped machine-stitched seams, with turn-down collars similarly edged. There are open-fronted models over braided or gimp-trimmed vests, and double-breasted shapes with box fronts, and last but not least the Norfolk jackets made of tweed, English cheviot, Imperial serge or fancy suiting.

Exquisite tamboured organdies and dotted Swiss and India muslins are heaped in summer-like loveliness on city counters and shelves. The patterns are like a breath of early June. In making up these textiles, the majority will show a soft dainty skirt loose from its gored underskirt of silk or lawn, but fastened at the top, with one belt holding both skirts. Less diaphanous, but stylish toilets, show the outside skirt sewed in with each gored breadth of the underskirt, with insertions of lace or flowered embroidery in dainty patterns and colorings, covering each seam of the skirt from belt to hem.

KATE DUNHAM.

Many Headed Great Men.

Hideyoshi is one of the greatest men in Japanese history. His relics are as numerous as those of Washington. In a monastery not far from Yokohama the guide shows the visitor a skull which, it is declared, is the veritable headpiece of the great departed.

Phillips Brooks saw this relic when he was in Japan.

"Why," said he, "I thought Hideyoshi had an enormous head. This skull is very small."

"Yes," said the guide, "but that was when he was 13 years old!"—N. Y. Press.

M'KINLEY AS CANDIDATE.

Corrupt Methods Employed to Put Him Forward.

It is not to be wondered at that the republican opponents of Mr. McKinley are making charges touching the virtue of the men who are conducting this campaign. They are saying that rich manufacturers have been corrupting the primaries throughout the country, and that the delegates have been purchased. However that may be, it is clear that a public man must gain a reputation that unfits him for the presidency if he is the servant of those who are interested in government only as it enures to their pecuniary profit. Whether Mr. McKinley's strength in the convention has or has not been procured by the corrupt use of money, whether, if it has been, he is or is not a party to the corruption, he is the candidate of those who want to divert the government from its constitutional function of promoting the general welfare that its chief power may be used for their own selfish purposes. And it is because Mr. McKinley has already permitted himself to be employed as the agent of such men, and is presumably willing to be so employed again, that the extreme protectionists show such anxiety to bring about his nomination that prominent men of their own party are led to accuse them of employing corrupt means to accomplish their end.

Another aspect of this candidacy is that McKinley is not only the chief of the extreme protectionists, but he has heretofore been for unsound money, and is now, if we are to believe the platform of the Ohio state convention which nominated him, in favor of bimetallism, either through international arrangement or, if that cannot be had, through congressional legislation. In other words, the protected manufacturers, in order to capture the silver vote for the restoration of the tariff law of 1890, are willing to elect as president a man whose views on the currency are unsound.

It will be difficult—we trust, impossible—to elect Mr. McKinley president on the theory that has dominated his canvass for the nomination. The tariff is not to be the issue at the coming election, nor, if it were, do we believe that the country would agree to make another trial of McKinleyism. The issue is to be the currency question. Neither the silver men nor the gold-standard advocates are likely to support a double-dealer merely because he is ready to do the bidding of the men who are now working for his nomination. If the republican party has really come under the control of the beneficiaries of the tariff of 1890, and if therefore its convention nominate McKinley in grateful recognition of past tariff favors, and in hope of like favors to come, if in order to make the tariff issue prominent the party is to face both ways on the currency issue, the leaders who are anticipating a triumph at the coming election are likely to be grievously disappointed; for, no matter what the politicians may think, the country wants the money issue settled, and the question that will be put to candidates in the approaching campaign is: "Where do you stand on the money question?" To this question Mr. McKinley has not yet made a reply [illegible] satisfactory to the advocates of sound money; nay, he has more than once ranged himself on the side of those who could debase the currency in order that 50 cents might be made to pay a dollar of indebtedness. Although he would not probably dare renew his advocacy of such a silver bill as the Sherman law, and although he might fear to stand squarely with Teller, Dubois, Stewart, and his other silver friends, Mr. McKinley does not favor the single gold standard, and therefore his election to the presidency would be fraught with danger to the best interests of the country.—Harper's Weekly.

PROTECTION THAT HURTS.

The Kind That the Cross-Bred Republicans Would Provide.

The course of the republican free-silver senators in blocking tariff legislation with a free-silver substitute has had its expected result. It has brought the representatives of the protected manufacturers of Pennsylvania to overtures which were promptly responded to. One secret conference has been held in Washington between the senators and the manufacturers, and an agreement has been reached to join in an effort to sway the action of the St. Louis convention in their joint interest.

While this alliance is a matter of pure bargain and sale on both sides, it is not at all unnatural. On the contrary, it is perfectly logical. A tariff policy which aims to protect the iron and woolen and other manufacturing industries is bound in ordinary consistency to protect the silver industry. The advocates of the free coinage of silver would be equally inconsistent if they did not recognize their duty to protect the manufacturers.

This reciprocity of interest which is the basis of the alliance is the best guarantee of its maintenance. It adds to the interest of the situation. It is a challenge alike to the sound-money sentiment of New York and to the Ohio straddles and McKinley evasions which have hitherto been assumed to represent republican financial opinion. It is the entering of a wedge which with a little vigorous pounding may force the St. Louis convention to declare itself on one side or the other.

There is no reason for secrecy about the proceedings of the new alliance. As it is perfectly frank and candid in its motives it should be open in its methods and stand or fall on its merits.—N. Y. World.

——There is no man who so fitly represents McKinleyism as McKinley. The repudiation of McKinley would be a partial repudiation of McKinleyism. The movement in the various states against McKinley is a sign that the republicans would shirk the issue of McKinleyism.—Utica Observer.

ARCHITECTS OF THE PLATFORM.

Each One Working on His Own Plans and Specifications.

In view of the stubborn claim made by the republican party that it is the party of sound money and sound financial principles, the platforms presented by it in different states afford the evidence on which the people will base a popular verdict. The stupidity of the claim had already been established by the course of certain United States senators, and among them the chairman of the republican national committee, but it is emphasized by the comparison of platforms. It is plain that the builders have been governed by politic considerations and are deliberately aiming to hoodwink the voters in every section, or that there is a division of sentiment that cannot be healed by any false pretense of unanimity. Indeed, there are strong reasons for believing that both of these potential influences inspired the architects.

The ambiguous expressions of Ohio republicans on the subject of silver were unquestionably designed to attract western, northwestern and southern delegates to the support of McKinley. It has been noted that since the promulgation of that financial double-header the same confusion of ideas has been embodied in the "declaration of principles" given out by other states in the sections named and that they have shown a strong leaning toward the representative of the Ohio idea. On the other hand, the New York platform was constructed with the purpose of unifying the delegates from the middle and eastern states against McKinley and uniting them on Reed or Morton, as the one or the other of these candidates may develop the greater strength in the convention.

It is inevitable that these conflicting sentiments shall assert themselves in the national convention, and the alternative against an open rupture will be an adjustable financial plank so constructed that it will dovetail with the dominant sentiment of any and all communities. It is this horn of the dilemma that will be taken by those in control. Then the thinking delegates with honest convictions will be governed largely by the known character and records of the candidates. The study of these is a matter to which patriotic republicans should address themselves, for to attach importance to platforms diametrically opposed or to act upon the declarations of a convention that will be afraid to do more than to disguise its views would be the error of insincerity and partisan servility. The claim that the republican party is distinctively the champion of sound money is without the slightest foundation in fact.—Detroit Free Press.

HOW IT WILL BE DECIDED.

Contested Delegates Will Make Trouble at St. Louis.

According to present indications the balance of power in the republican national convention at St. Louis will be held by the contested delegations. "Joe" Manley, the secretary of the republican national committee, is reported as saying that 56 contested seats are already reported and that there are likely to be 100 more.

The convention that was held in Texas recently presented a case resembling many others at the south and resembling the condition of affairs likely to exist at St. Louis. A huge colored politician named Cuney is chairman of the Texas republican state committee. He is said to be an Allison man, and a combination has been formed by Reed and Allison to procure southern delegates against McKinley. In the Texas convention of 300 or 400 delegates there were 136 contested seats, and Cuney's committee decided all the cases. McKinley men were all thrown out and their opponents admitted to seats. This shows the advantage of controlling the committee that decides contested cases.

At St. Louis the delegation from each state will choose one of its number for member of the committee on credentials. Forty-five states, five territories and the District of Columbia will each have a member of the committee, making 53 in all, of which 27 is a majority. The prospect before McKinley is as plain as his facial resemblance to Napoleon Bonaparte.

McKinley must go into the St. Louis convention with a majority of the delegates from 27 states and territories or the committee on credentials will be packed against him. With an adverse committee the claim of 156 McKinley delegates to seats in the contested cases will be decided against them and their places will be given to anti-McKinley men.

In short, it appears that in an indirect manner, but effectually, the next republican candidate for president will be nominated by the committee on credentials and not by the delegates as chosen from the people.—Chicago Chronicle.

POINTS AND OPINIONS.

——Who says Tom Reed is weakening? He is "firing" democrats out of the house though the republican majority is too large to be manageable already.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

——If Easy Boss Platt discovers that he is Gov. Morton's Jonah it may sadden him. But he is likely to be still sadder after he has turned the stomach of the McKinley whale.—N. Y. World.

——Gov. Bradley, of Kentucky, who is trying to fight McKinley in that state, admits that he is in favor of a "moderate tariff," implying, of course, that he is opposed to McKinley's immoderate tariff.—Chicago Chronicle.

——All this talk in Indiana about McKinley is humbug. The republican bosses in that state are knifing him. They are pipe-laying for Harrison. The impression is being made that McKinley is radical and Harrison conservative upon the tariff question. The latter is as radical as the former, and perhaps more so. Harrison signed the McKinley bill willingly. If he ever suggested any modification it is not recorded.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER.

Wednesday, April 8, 1896.

Rates of Subscription:

One year	$1 50.
Six months	75.
Three months	40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER
SOLICITS YOUR Job Work,
NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS.
Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.
Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

Franklin had a $24,000 fire on the 1st inst.

Gold and copper have been discovered in small quantities in Hancock county.

David Hurst, of Richmond, while hunting ducks, accidentally shot one of his legs off.

Ben F. Roe, a colored man of Lancaster, has been appointed messenger for Governor Bradley.

Nicholasville refused to pay for her water, and as a result the company owning the waterworks, cut off the supply.

John Lewis Perkins is in jail at Salyersville, charged with beating the seven-year-old son of Levi Howard to death with a stick.

At Shepherdsville, Jack James, a negro about fifty years of age, hung himself to a rafter in an old barn because a merchant dunned him for a bill.

The School for the Deaf at Danville, will be closed on May 1st, one week earlier than usual, on account of the failure of the Legislature to make an appropriation for its support.

The Cornelius brothers will be tried at the May term of the Jackson County Circuit Court for murdering Chris Jones and burning his body and house last winter. They protest their innocence.

The Hawesville grand jury indicted quite a number of persons for gaming, among them Commonwealth's attorney, county attorney, county clerk. The report of the jury created a sensation.

Wesley and Will Whittaker, who were implicated in the French-Eversole feud in Perry county and sent up for life, have been pardoned out of the penitentiary by Gov. Bradley. They had served four years.

For shooting at her husband with intent to kill him Jennie Butler, of Anderson county, was held over to the grand jury. She discovered that her husband was untrue to her, and went after him to the extent of five shots.

Rowan county which, during the Tolliver-Mortin feud existing from 1883 to 1887, had gained the abhoring cognomen of "Bloody Rowan," is now coming out of the disgrace which had settle upon it and is to have a fine stone court house. Oil fields have been opened out and Rowan is now rated among the best counties in Eastern Kentucky.

Mr. W. E. Coleman, of Minorsville, has a hen and cat with a family of young kittens that are attracting more than the usual attention. The hen has on several occasions driven the mother cat away from her kittens and taken charge of them herself, hovering over them as though they were her own brood of chickens, while pussy sits near, apparently resigned to the situation.—Georgetown Times.

In the Mason county Circuit Court a party was convicted of grand larceny and sent to the penitentiary. He was accused of stealing $20. He swore he found the money. The evidence showed that if he found it he converted it to his own use and spent it without making any effort to find the owner. The court ruled that if the accused found the money, and made no effort to discover the owner, and converted the money to his own use, he was guilty of grand larceny, and was punishable by imprisonment.

Joshua Sims, of Harrodsburg, was terribly whipped by unknown parties in the west end of the county. Sim's wife died some time since, and shortly after, it is alleged, he went to live with a woman in Duncan, leaving two little girls to shift for themselves. The white caps, numbering about 50, found Sims in the woman's house, and demanded that he come out. He refused, and the door was forced and he was taken a mile distant and most unmercifully flagellated. The night riders threatened to bring a rope on their next visit, but Sims, who owns a splendid farm promised to do better.

It has been said that when sifted thoroughly, the credit system is at the bottom of every financial disaster. Wholesalers borrow from the bank and sell goods on time to the retailers, who in turn sells on credit to the consumer. The consumer buys so liberally that he can not pay the retailer, and the wholesaler can not pay his banker; the bank fails and depositors can not get their money; confidence takes wing; those who have money will not spend it; there is no work, no market and there is a panic. Cash up and no grumbling, should be a universal motto. If every man would pay spot cash for what he buys, there would be no loss of confidence, no locking up of money, and no panics.—Georgetown Sentinel.

STOCK AND CROP.

In Boyle, Wyatt Hughes sold corn at $1 50 in the crib.

Hog cholera is quite prevalent in some parts of Fayette county.

At Mayslick, Ben Longnecker & Co. sold Jersey cows at $30 to $58.25 publicly.

Beverly Powell, a Henderson county fruit-grower, who has investigated the matter thoroughly, states that the peach buds are so far uninjured. He thinks the crop of the coming season will be the largest for a number of years.

Henry C. Jewett has figured out that in three auction sales he disposed of 106 head of the Jerome Eddy for $37,700, an average of $356,32. Adding to this $33,600 for cash service fees, the famous son of Louis Napoleon earned $71,370 for Jewett Farm.

Realizing from the present indications that the wheat crop in this section will be almost a total failure this year, Mr. T. J. Smith, who has about 80 acres, will "harrow in" all but about 30 acres of his crop and sow in oats. Several other farmers, whose wheat has a "sickly" appearance, will do likewise.—Richmond Register.

The tobacco growers of Kentucky are working hard to perfect an organization that will further their interests. They have held meetings in many counties of the State, and these gatherings will take place in every county before the first of May. When this preliminary organization has been effected the "raisers of the weed" will call a meeting of the county clubs. This general meeting will be held soon, it is expected, and then the general gathering will be held for the exchange of ideas and to complete the organization. Trimble county growers should organize themselves at once.—Milton News.

POLITICAL.

The Louisville Times' Washington correspondent says Carlisle is working on his announcement for the Presidency, and that it is now definitely known that Cleveland will not enter.

It is said that the Populists and Republicans in Texas have a movement on foot by which they hope to capture the State this year. The Republicans have made fusion propositions to the Populists by which the Populists are to place Republican Presidential electors on their ticket this year, while the Republicans will put Populists candidates for State offices on the Republican ticket.

OUR NEIGHBORS

TRIMBLE COUNTY
[News]

The business men of Madison have an elegant club house.

Fruit growers are somewhat uneasy about the peach crop. They don't want too much warm weather before Easter.

Mr. Joseph Pecar, jr., sold his fine saddle horse, Black Bill, to an Indianapolis buyer at Madison last week for $125.

—§§—

OWEN COUNTY
[News]

On his examining trial Sheriff June Gayle was acquitted for shooting and wounding Bud McDorment, the proof showing that the shooting was justifiable. The parties have made up.

Arthur Lillard has 12 horses he is fattening to take to the mountains to trade for cattle.

The hog cholera is playing havoc with hogs in the vicinity of Lusby's Mill. W. R. Kinman has lost 40 fine ones.

Uncle John A. Glore, aged 78 years, died of old age at his home near Hesler, Tuesday morning.

The Republican delegates from Owen, selected last week, are said to be strong McKinley men.

THE Republicans commenced showing up at an early hour Monday.

GALLATIN COUNTY
[Independent]

J. H. McDanell, jr., returned from his trip to the Big Sandy river, Tuesday, where he bought a fine assortment of timber in logs which will be rafted here this spring for his saw mill.

Rev. S. M. Bernard, accompanied by several members of the Warsaw Christian Church, went over to Switzerland County, Ind., last Sunday and established a Christian Church at the Franklin school house on Hominy Ridge.

The high winds of Thursday caused most all of the boats to lay up nearly all day.

Born, to the wife of D. B. Wallace, a son, Sunday morning.

—§§—

CARROLL COUNTY
[News]

We are reliably informed, and know it is a fact, that the tobacco crop of this county will fall off at least one-half. Very few farmers have sowed any large plant beds, and it is noticed that the largest growers are making no preparations for anything like a full crop.

Rev. Dr. Robert Hiner was taken suddenly ill last Thursday, while in J. T. Lewis' store with something like apoplexy, but was able to go home by himself, since which time he has been quite ill and has been under the care of a physician, though he is somewhat improved.

Mr. Cornelius Deweese, one of the oldest and wealthiest citizens of the county, and one of Carroll's most valued, honest and charitable men, who had been in ill health for several years, passed away at his home in Hunter's Bottom, Wednesday morning.

Monday night burglars effected an entrance into Dinkelspiel's store going through a back window, and made quite a haul.

Carrollton congratulates herself on having one of the finest steam laundries in the State.

The small boy with the gum sling is breaking many windows.

—§§—

GRANT COUNTY
[Courier]

We have had a pretty good supply of water and for the first time in four years some few wet weather springs are flowing.

For the first time since its construction, more than 18 months ago, the railroad lake near the depot is full of water and is running over the sluice way.

The big Methodist revival at Dry ridge still continues with unabated interest. Large crowds at attending both day and night services and many conversions are reported.

The Masons had a great deal of business last Saturday night that kept them at work till the midnight hour. After the work was over they enjoyed a lunch provided by Dr. J. D. Violette.

W. D. Points who shot and slightly wounded Hasey Alexander about two weeks ago has not been heard from since the trouble. Alexander is able to go about and is very little the worse for his experience.

Thomas Marshal has a record breaking brood sow. Inside of 11 months she had 31 pigs, and inside of 28 months she has produced 43 young porkers. The four litters have been as follows 12, 9, 10, 12, in the order named.

Mrs. Dr. O. P. Hogan has filed suit in the Grant Circuit Court against her husband, Hon. Dr. O. P. Hogan, for divorce. She alleges in her petition cruelty, neglect, failure to provide, continual dissipation, and a waste of her property. Ex-Commonwealth's Attorney A. G. DeJarnette and Ex-Congressman W. W. Dickerson are her attorneys. Mrs. Hogan is the daughter of the late Hon. E. H. Smith and at his death was left a princely estate.

Charley Poor, who lives about a half mile from the north corporate limits of town, found almost an entire dry goods store in his hay loft Tuesday afternoon. The negro man while forking out hay for the stock picked up on his fork a paper box in which there was a fine suit of clothes. On further examination it was found that there were more than a dozen boxes containing suits of clothes of all sizes, dress goods and goods in general. He took the stuff to the house where it is at the present time. Who put the goods under the hay is not known. There has been no robbery in this part of the country that any one knows of. There are no marks of any kind on the goods to indentify their location by.

NOTICE.

All those indebted to me for taxes are hereby notified that I am compelled to close up my tax accounts and will proceed to enforce thier collection by law if not paid by March 1st, 1896. My books are in the hands of Lassing & Riddell, attorneys, Burlington, Ky. Call and settle with them and save costs.

D. BEALL, Ex.-Sheriff
Boone County.

Eggs and Poultry

I am now taking orders for thoroughbred Poultry and Eggs. First come, first served.

A. M. ACRA,
Burlington, Ky.

A SPECIFIC
—FOR—
La Grippe, for Colds, Coughs,
AND LUNG TROUBLES,
AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband,—reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,—procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral
Highest Honors at World's Fair.
Cleanse the System with Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

THE QUEEN & CRESCENT
ROUTE
Vestibuled Limited Trains to Southern Towns and Cities. A fine trip for summer outing through the Blue Grass region, the great Cumberland Plateau and to far famed Lookout Mountain.
The historic battlefields of CHICKAMAUGA, Mission Ridge and LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN.
Cool and invigorating air, unequaled scenery, good hotels.
Low reduced rates via the Queen & Crescent Route now on sale from cities and villages of the North.
Write to W. C. Rinearson, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, for illustrated and descriptive matter.

MOST IN QUANTITY. BEST IN QUALITY.
WORMS!
WHITE'S CREAM
VERMIFUGE
FOR 20 YEARS
Has led all WORM Remedies.
EVERY BOTTLE GUARANTEED.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by
RICHARDSON MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS.

HEADQUARTERS FOR
SWEET PEAS.
Mixed Varieties { Per pound . . . . 40c. Half pound . . . 25c. Quarter pound . . 15c.
THE ONLY
DOUBLE SWEET PEA,
BRIDE OF NIAGARA.
(True to Name.)
Price—Packet 25c. Half packet [illegible]
THE WONDERFUL
CRIMSON RAMBLER ROSE,
Only 15 Cents.
VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE, 1896,
The Pioneer Seed Catalogue.
Tried and True Novelties.—Fuchsias, Roses, Blackberry, The Pearl Gooseberry, Potatoes, Earliest Tomato known, etc.
Lithographs of Double Sweet Pea, Roses, Fuchsias, Blackberries, Raspberries, New Leader Tomato, Vegetables. Filled with good things, old and new. Full list of Flowers, Vegetables, Small Fruits, etc., with description and prices. Mailed on receipt of [illegible] [illegible]
ROCHESTER, N. Y.
JAMES VICK'S SONS

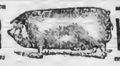
TABLER'S BUCK EYE PILE OINTMENT
CURES NOTHING BUT PILES.
A SURE and CERTAIN CURE known for 15 years as the BEST REMEDY for PILES.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by RICHARDSON MED CO., ST. LOUIS.

Do Not Read This.

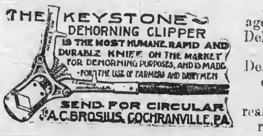
Four Pound Schofield Blankets,	$3.00
Four and half pounds Schofield Blankets,	3.25
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 36 inches,	.80
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 38 inches,	.90
Schofield's all-wool Ready-Made Skirts,	1.15

Schofield Flannels at cost.
All Schofield Yarns 10 per cent. discount. Schofield Jeans at cost.
All Boots and Heavy Shoes at cost.
We have a few Suits of Mens' Underwear which we will sell at cost.
(o)
Also a full line of ☞ DRY GOODS
And a neat line of ☞ GROCERIES,
AT THE STORE OF THE
Burlington Mercantile Co.,
Burlington, Kentucky.

PURE BRED CHESTER WHITE HOGS.
La : Belle : Herd
—OF UP TO DATE—



CHESTER WHITE HOGS.



THE KEYSTONE
DEHORNING CLIPPER
IS THE MOST HUMANE, RAPID AND DURABLE KNIFE ON THE MARKET FOR DEHORNING PURPOSES, AND IS MADE FOR THE USE OF FARMERS AND DAIRYMEN
SEND FOR CIRCULAR
A.C. BROSIUS, COCHRANVILLE, PA.

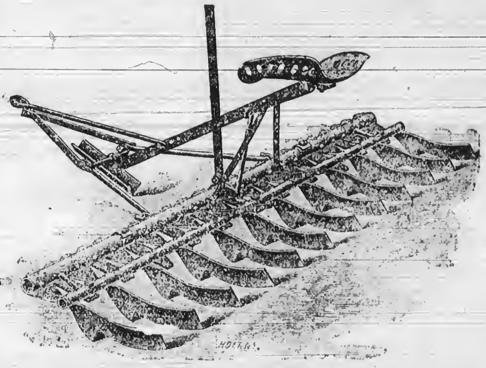
Also agent for Dehorner, and Dehorning done at reasonable rates.

ALSO AGENT FOR
AEROMETER

COME AND SEE IT.
EVERY FARMER NEEDS ONE.
Best and Cheapest Wind-Mill Made.

T. J. HUGHES, - - - BEAVER LICK, KY.

FOR SALE-THE LATEST IMPROVED
"ACME" HARROW and
Troy Pivot Axel Farm Wagons.



In calling attention to "ACME" HARROW, we will say that while some points of the it is not our custom to criticise harrows of other kinds, it is only fair to point out the difference we find in using this harrow along with other harrows. The arrangement of the Coulters on the "Acme" is such that the entire surface of the ground is practically cut over, while the Disk Harrow cuts but little more than half the surface—following one of the Disk Harrows the ground may appear to have been cut over, but if a portion of the surface be removed, uncut ridges will be found just underneath. The Disk Harrows are good for certain purposes, but they certainly can not be called general purpose harrows as they have no crushing or leveling device, whereas the "ACME" is a complete Harrow Clod Crusher and Leveler. The "Acme" is very simple and easily adjusted; does not undo the work of the plow; being entirely of steel and wrought iron it is practically indestructible, nothing can wear but the coulters, and these can be replaced at trifling cost. We are selling the "Acme" this season for but little more than the spike tooth harrow. It is the cheapest riding harrow made. We guarrantee them to give perfect satisfaction.

If you want a wagon made of carefully selected stock, well constructed, well proportioned, handsomely finished, lighter draught, greater carrying capacity than any other, and one that will give you perfect satisfaction, give us your order for the

TROY PIVOT AXEL WAGON,

as they are no experiment—they have been tried for several years and we know they have several good features that the ordinary axel wagon haven't. For prices and information call on or address

GEO. E. ROUSE & SON,
LIMABURG, Boone County, KY.

NEW HOUSE, NEW GOODS AND LOW PRICES.
ROLFES & WACHS,
RELIABLE CLOTHIERS,
Manufacturers of and Dealers in
Men's Boys' & Children's CLOTHING
Every Suit Guaranteed to fit or Money Refunded.
S, W. Cor Pike Street & Madison Ave., COVINGTON, KY.

Read this and take Advantage of it.

Now is the time to have your
CARRIAGE WORK done at the lowest possible CASH PRICES.
REPAIRING a specialty. New work always on Hand. General Smithing of all kinds.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
Call and see our prices before purchasing.
KYLE & BENTLER,
Florence, Ky.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXI. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 15, 1896. NO. 25.

WOOD DUNLAP, who refused to qualify after the House unseated Kauffman, last winter, says that if a special session of the legislature is called for business only—for the passage of the taxation and revenue laws—he will qualify. Otherwise, he will not. He has been a great sufferer in the flesh for the last 30 days, and is out for endorsement, a panacea for all political troubles. He wants to be a delegate at large to the St. Louis convention.

THERE is a prisoner in the Columbus, Ohio, penitentiary, who has contracted a habit of getting drunk occasionally. Last week he was gloriously inebriated, and when a man was found, who was brave enough to attempt to take his whisky away from him, it was discovered that he was in possession of two very savage looking pistols. How he got the whisky and pistols is a puzzle to the officers.

EDITOR SAM ROBERTS, of Lexington, is the happiest politician in the State at this time. He championed McKinley's cause in Kentucky and fought for victory until it was achieved. At no time while the Bradley boom apparently threatened to overwhelm him did he fulter, in his fidelity to the Ohio man, and if McKinley gets to distribute the pie, Roberts will get a good slice.

IT is being explained how the next election of a President may be thrown into the House, a result that has been discussed just previous to each election for about twenty years; but has never happened, and the approaching election will be no exception in that respect. If the Republicans don't win next fall, they will surely put up their blinds.

IN his speech before the Falmouth convention, last Thursday, Wood Dunlap said: "It was not the fault of any single member of the Assembly that I was not given my seat until ten days before the conclusion of the session. I don't say where the blame lies. I don't know who was responsible for the delay." But he has a mighty strong suspicion.

THE Seventh District Convention met in Frankfort, last Wednesday, and proceeded to demolish Governor Bradley's Presidential boom, with the Gov. as a witness to the slaughter. After all it begins to look like Hunter, he of gum-shoe fame, is about as large a man, politically, as the riot alarm governor.

THE compulsory educational law passed by the last legislature will not become popular in Kentucky, and many believe that it can not be enforced with any satisfaction. There are many children in this State who are growing up in ignorance, but will the compulsory law remedy the evil?

WHEN the result of a primary election is not that desired by the Louisville Commercial, it at once charges fraud, and the Republican primaries held in that city last week were no exceptions as soon as it was discovered McKinley had bested Bradley.

THOSE bombastic resolutions eulogizing Gov. Bradley's "pre-eminent statesmanship," etc., and so on, wore the severest of irony, and the action of the district conventions reflects the true sentiments of the Kentucky Republicans.

AND Dr. Hunter is wearing no crape on his hat because of Bradley's political death. The Doctor was vanquished a few weeks since, but now he gloats over having been instrumental in vanquishing his arch enemy.

THE returns being in it is ascertained beyond a doubt that Gov. Bradley carried one voting precinct somewhere in the State, but its exact location can not be determined.

THE Sixth District gave the Governor a black eye. Some of the delegates who were instructed for him flew the coop and landed safely on the McKinley band wagon.

THAT Zanesville, Ohio, man, who, twenty years ago had his coffin made and put away in one corner of his room, found use for it one day last week.

IT is time the Kentucky Democrats were trying to get together for the campaign next fall if they expect to wheel the State into line again.

THE Easter Sunday collection in the Church of the Assension, in New York, only fell $14,000 short the amount asked for, viz: $44,000.

AND the fight in the Republican party is progressing.

STATE NEWS.

Saloon license at Paris is $250 a year.

A cloud burst on Little Sexton and Buffalo Creek drowned about 16 people.

Kentucky Oddfellows paid $36,906 sick and funeral benefits during the past year.

Whitecaps burned the houses of Kent and John Keeling in Washington county.

Six colored doctors graduated from the Louisville National Medical College last week.

A tobacco growers association will establish a house at Lexington with $100,000 capital.

Bloodhound evidence in a criminal trial was thrown out by the presiding judge at Elizabethtown.

The High Bridge camp-meeting will be conducted this year by the Salvation Army, commencing July 17.

The Louisville Medical College and the Kentucky School of Medicine will open their doors to women students.

It is learned that the Arnold boys, of Frankfort, who, it was thought, were drowned in Florida, are in the Cuban army.

R. M. Barker says he intends taking the $10,000 premium at the St. Louis Fair with his model saddle stallion, Nelson.

Warden Nell discovered a plot of two convicts to blow a hole in the wall of the Frankfort penitentiary with dynamite and escape.

The late G. C. Lockhart, of Paris, had his life insured for $10,000. His estate is valued at about $30,000, exclusive of the life insurance.

Gov. Bradley has recently granted pardons to fourteen convicts. The Republicans evidently propose to turn the rascals out.—Cynthiana Democrat.

A disease, whose only manifestation is an inability to swallow food, is killing horses and mules in Woodford county. The veterinarians can not tell what the disease is.

Judge N. L. Bennett, of Campbell county, Ky., reduced his own salary from $1,700 to $1,400. He said he thought the county was paying more than it could afford.

In Clark county, Walter Webb lay down on two chairs, when the hammer of a pistol in pocket struck a chair, causing discharge, ball passing through arm, making a severe wound.

Charles Bonar, about fifty-five years of age, was instantly killed near Butler. He and his two sons were clearing a piece of ground and cutting timber, when a large tree fell on him.

The engagement is announced of Miss Julia Stevenson, daughter of the Vice-President, to Martin D. Hardin, son of P. Watt Hardin, of Kentucky. No date has been set for the marriage.

Hiram Ely, aged fifteen, was married to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Jane Ely, aged forty, at Richmond. The bride was a widow with four children. The groom's mother gave her consent to the marriage.

Tom Costigan, of Bath county, is claimed to be the boss horse trader of the State. He traded horses three times and got the first horse back and thirty two acres of land on the third trade and was only out two dollars.

S. C. Henson and Lee Hurley drugged the son of Jailer Page at Dixon, took the prison keys away from him and attempted to liberate Sam Smith, a prisoner charged with detaining a woman. Their plans failed, and they are now in jail.

According to the Lexington Gazette, rain, sleet or snow fell on 14 days in Mar. the aggregate of which was 5 22 inches. The snowfall was unusual, being just 24 inches. So much has not fallen during any month for more than a quarter of a century.

Reuben Fletcher, of Breathitt county, is the father of twenty-one children, and the same woman is the mother of them all. What is stranger still, the three younger children are named respectively Nineteen, Twenty and Twenty-one.

Dr. J. M. Owens, of Burnside, was called in haste last week to visit a patient west of town. When he arrived he found a boy covered up in bed, swearing vigorously, with a steel-trap holding him by the nose. The boy had been monkeying with the trap and got caught. His nose was found to be broken when the doctor released him."

The Masonic Lodge of this city is in possession of a very old Bible. It was translated from the original Hebrew and was printed by Isaiah Thomas, at Worcester, Mass., in 1793. It has been in the possession of the Masonic Order 103 years, and was presented by Jno. Hawkins, Sr., whose name is written on the fly leaf.—Georgetown Times.

It is reported at Frankfort that no colored men will be given positions in the State penitentiary as guards, and the appointment of the colored man made Lumber Inspector will be held up because the Warden and Commissioners are afraid that a certain element among the convicts will make trouble if negro officers of any kind are allowed inside.

"Potato Day" is a fixed festival in Marshall county. The Benton Tribune says: "Last Monday was potato day in Benton, and a very large crowd was here. People were here from all the surrounding counties. There were thirty-six loads of sweet potatoes, averaging thirty bushels to the load, making a total of 1,080 bushels, which sold at an average of sixty cents per bushel. The potatoes sold for at least $500 here last Monday and were carried away in small lots to every part of the county. All of our farmers wait until the first Monday in April to buy sweet potato seed. The thirty-six loads at thirty bushels to the load and 120 potatoes to the bushel will give the grand total of 129,600 sweet potatoes that were on sale here Monday. This will give some idea of the amount of potatoes that are here on this great day. Wagons began to arrive before bed time Sunday night and continued until 10 o'clock Monday morning.

The Owen News says it does not nominate James A. Violet for Governor.

EIGHTY convicts in the penitentiary have the measles. The hospital is crowded.

As time goes by Gov. McKinley's prospects for nomination by acclamation seem to increase.

PREEMINENT statesmen do not abound among ward politicians—they are not of that element.

GROVER may go fishing occasionally, but he has never been guilty of undertaking the work of a ward politician, when a candidate for the Presidency.

THE ray of hope for Democratic success is growing brighter. At the town elections in Ohio, last week, the Democrats actually elected three or four officers. Look out for this fall.

GOV. BRADLEY is submitting the resolutions adopted by county conventions to X rays, in search of the real meaning of the endorsement of him purporting to be contained therein.

THE Ohio candidate has developed more strength in the East than it was thought possible, and it may be that some of the favorite sons in that section will have to climb up on the fence to avoid being run over.

THE General Council of Louisville has passed an ordinance fixing pool-room license at $5,000 a year. It wont take a pool-room long to fleece that amount from a few green horns for whom they have such fascinations.

JACK CHINN was at large in Covington, last Friday night, but the Mayor was not solicited to call out the police force to prevent a riot, and it is said that Mayor Rhinock displayed no alarm because of his presence within his bailiwick.

THE State Board of Equalization stirred up several counties by adding a large per cent to the amount of taxable property as returned by the assessor. The Board grows more unpopular each year, and its repeal will finally be accomplished.

SPAIN is very indignant because of the action of Congress in regard to the Cuban war. Spain certainly is aware that she can not intimidate Uncle Sam in the least by threats, and her slow progress in suppressing the Cubans is proof of her very limited power in a war.

IT seems that Kentucky's favorite son has had the toughest experience of any of that class of Presidential aspirants. Several of the others who got off the track before the McKinley train came booming along, are not in the least disfigured; but as much can not be said for Billie O. B.

STOCK AND CROP.

Few persons are aware of the importance of the egg and poultry trade in this county. As an instance E. Renaker shipped during the month of March 663,780 dozen, for which he paid an average price of eight cents per dozen. These eggs were all Clark county eggs. During the month he also bought 21 barrels of goose eggs, 696 dozen, at 40 cents per dozen; also 30 cases of duck eggs, 600 dozen, at 15 cents per dozen. A portion of the goose and duck eggs were bought in Powell county.—Winchester Democrat.

The West Michigan Fruit-Growers' Association met at Grand Rapids recently and after comparing notes came to the conclusion that fruit prospects were never so bright as this year. In some localities peaches were damaged by frost, but these were exceptional and the damage was thought not sufficient to make much difference. Apples, cherries and plums were reported in perfect condition and the small fruits were protected by the heavy snow fall. Similar reports came from many sections.

An examination of the records of wheat prices discloses the fact, which most traders would at first thought pronounce preposterous, for the last seventeen years the price of wheat in April has never failed to show an advance over the low point in the preceeding month of March—an advance ranging from five to fifty cents.

From what we can learn history will repeat itself this year, for already the cry of the cut-worm is heard, and we are told that he is ever more numerous than last year. Now for the hares to come forth from their hiding places and give the country newspapers something to write about.—Henry county Local.

Mr. B. F. Cottrell raised 36,000 pounds of tobacco on Messrs. John and James Ferd's place, which was delivered last week at 11⅞ per lb., and to raise the entire crop he had to pay out but $6.—Georgetown News.

Wheat has a very unpromising appearance in this section. Pastures have put on quite a green appearance in the last few days.—Georgetown Times.

A strange and fatal malady is causing the death of horses and mules in Woodford county.

A panther has killed thirteen sheep and ten hogs near Oaks, Rowan county.

HILL, of New York, is giving the Republicans of his State some uneasiness.

So far as the presidency is concerned the Democratic household appears to be lukewarm.

OHIO has no mansion for her Governor, and her legislature has decided that one shall be built.

SOME of the A. P. A. leaders say that organization will put McKinley's political aspirations to sleep in the St. Louis convention.

Mr. Samuel J. Roberts, the McKinley manager in this State, estimates that in 105 counties in Kentucky McKinley leads Bradley by 83 votes.

GEN. GROSVERNOR, who is keeping tab for Major McKinley, claims for him 315 instructed votes. This claim is disputed by the friends of the other candidates.

IT is going to take some very efficient wire pulling at St. Louis to avoid a split in the Republican convention, unless those who are trying to avoid the money issue by declaring that protection is the only national question, succeed in pulling the wool over the eyes of a large western vote.

THE Ohio legislature has passed a law prohibiting the ladies wearing their big hats at theaters in that State. The author of the bill is one of those fellows who parts his hair in the middle, and the Buckeye ladies have gotton back at him by having a bill introduced in the legislature, which declares it a misdemeanor for a man to part his hair in the middle.

THE Republican State Convention will meet in Louisville to-day, and there is going to be a very pretty and close fight between Gov. Bradley and McKinley. McKinley has 752, and Bradley 600, instructed votes, while there are 237 uninstructed. Bradley will have to get 195 of the uninstructed delegates to tie McKinley. It looks very blue for the Governor.

KENTUCKY MIDLAND RAILROAD.

[Via Georgetown.]

P. M.	A.M.		A.M.	P. M
d 5:21	z9:31	Ar Walton Lv	7:54	z4:48
4:40	8.55	Ar Williamstown Lv	8:32	5:25
4:17	8.31	Ar Corinth Lv	8:56	5:47
3:59	8:15	Ar Sadieville Lv	9:16	6:06
3:33	7:50	Ar Georgetown Lv	10:07	6:37
1:00	6:55	Lv Frankfort Ar	11:00	7:30

z Daily. d Except Sunday.

C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.

Miss Helen Merci Schuster

DRAMATIC READER
AND TEACHER OF
Elocution, Physical Culture
and Delsarte,
811 Scott St. - - - COVINGTON, KY.

Class for young Ladies and Gentlemen at UNION, KY., every Saturday—10 to 11 a. m. SEND FOR TERMS.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.

All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession. Call at once for work, as I leave Walton April 1st.

Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
—DRUGGIST,—
Rising Sun, - Indiana.

Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the

✠Corner Drug Store.✠

NO LONGER
—AT ERLANGER.—
DR. WALLACE GILLHAM,
—THE DENTIST,—

who has been coming to Erlanger on Tuesdays of each week, has discontinued his office there, but will continue to do

First Class Dental Work of
All kinds at his
COVINGTON - OFFICE,
1421 Madison Ave. (next door to the Children's Home),

He also has all the latest and best facilities for administering

Gas, Vitalized Air, or Local Anæsthetics for Extracting Teeth.

You are refered to the following reliable references of your own community: Dr. C. R. Slater, Dr. C. W. McCullum, Mrs. Cal Riggs, Mrs. Mattie Hoover, Mrs. Rev. M. M. Hiner, Mrs. Rev. O. M. Huey, Mr. Ira Aylor, Erlanger; Miss Sallie Snyder, Miss Sallie Stephens, Florence.

Andy Scheben,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
WINES, LIQUORS
AND BRANDY,
Old Bourbon, $2.00 Per Gallon.
LEXINGTON PIKE,
ERLANGER, - - - KY,
Near Town Hall.

Prices Reduced!

1 gal. 4 year old Bourbon Whisky, reduced from $3.50 at	$3.00
1 gal. 2 year old Bourbon Whisky reduced from $2.00 at	$1,75
1 gal. 4 year old Rye Whisky at reduced from $3.50	$3.00

At KASTNER'S,
Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

For Sale or Rent.

96 acres of river bottom land, opposite Lawrenceburg, Ind., in good state of cultivation. J. C. REVILL, Burlington, Ky.

Corn For Sale.

For Sale—About 100 bushels of Forsyth's Early Mammoth white corn, selected last fall. It has the deepest grains and is the most productive of any other corn; has from sixteen to twenty-six rows on the ear, stands the drouths and yields from two to five barrels more per acre than any other variety. It originated in Johnson county Ind in 1891. Price $1 50 per bushel.
JOHN J. CLEEK.
Beaver Lick, Boone county, Ky.

INSURE AT HOME

The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,

Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.

Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.

EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.

J. S. HUEY, President, Grant, Ky.
OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.

Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY,

Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

H. S. STEVENSON,
DENTIST,

Anæsthetics used for painless operating. Plates $8 and $10; other work accordingly. Satisfaction guaranteed in all cases.

MAIN OFFICE—South side Main St.
Rising Sun, Indiana.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL.
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.

Prompt Attention Given to Collections

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.

Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given to Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.

Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by mail promptly attended to.

G. G. HUGHES. D. E. CASTLEMAN.
HUGHES & CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEYS - AT - LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.

Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to them.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

W. E. VEST, B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.

Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated. All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1880.)

CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 17,000

Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates.

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY

CAPITAL PAID IN.................... $50,000
SURPLUS,.................................. $ 2.600

Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

GENERAL
REPAIR SHOP,
At Hathaway, Ky.
WAGONS AND BUGGIES
A Specialty.
Plows and Harrows Made to Order. Satisfaction Guaranteed.
J. M. RICE.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : : KY.

CURRENT TOPICS.

VERMONT claims to have 11 living ex-governors.

THE yield of Vermont maple sugar is very small this year.

A GALLON was originally a pitcher or jar regardless of the size.

WHEN terrified the ostrich travels at the rate of 25 miles an hour.

CHICAGO'S registered voters are 45,000 in excess of the voting population.

ESTIMATES indicate an increase of 1,000,000 bushels in this year's corn crop.

OVER 600.000 cattle are slaughtered yearly for the manufacture of beef extracts.

MARY BLACK, 62 years old, has been arrested in Detroit 40 times for drunkenness.

ELECTRICITY may be substituted for steam in the Carnegie steel works at Braddock, Pa.

A NUMBER of Chicago carpenters are striking for an eight-hour day at 35 cents an hour.

THE wars of the last 70 years have cost Russia $1,775,000,000 and the lives of 664,000 men.

A HANDSOME monument will soon be erected to Gen. Sherman in Lancaster, O., his native city.

IN Liverpool there is a movement afoot for a monument to Mrs. Hemans, native of the town.

A JACKSON, Tenn., syndicate is considering the question of building a fine theater in that city.

SIGRID ARNOLDSON is to sing at the festival performances at Moscow when the czar is crowned.

FOURTEEN sea ducks were brought down at a single shot by a hunter near Bar Harbor recently.

MME. MOJESKA'S grandson was baptised in Chicago Sunday, Calve and Jean de Reszke being sponsors.

MINERS from Spokane, Wash., have made a rich strike in the new gold fields on the Colville reservation.

A TURKISH turban of the largest size contains from ten to twenty yards of the finest and softest muslin.

IT is stated that nearly one million pounds of fur for hatters' purposes are produced in the United States.

IN Bethany, Mo., a city ordinance is called for "to prevent girls from chewing gum during divine service."

BOSTON wants a statue of Paul Revere, but says nothing about a statue of Longfellow, who made Revere immortal.

THOS. B. REED was graduated from Bowdoin college. The subject of his commencement oration was "The Fear of Death."

A CURIOUS fact has been noted by Arctic travelers. Snow, when at a very low temperature, absorbs moisture and dries garments.

WM. DEAN HOWELLS thinks that it would be more to the interest of society to lower theater prices than to cut down theater hats.

THE French government has decided to continue to M. Pasteur's widow the annual pension of 25,000 francs granted to her husband in 1883.

PROF. DEAN and other scientists of Columbia college, New York, will, during the summer, make a study of marine life in Puget Sound.

RUDYARD KIPLING has written to friends in England that he is growing tired of Vermont and contemplates a return to his native land.

THE Chicago City Railway Co., is preparing to spend $2,000,000 in building 40 miles of track in the south and southwestern parts of Chicago.

FOR several years the number of lost children reported to and by the New York police has remained about 2,500 per annum. Two-thirds of them are boys.

THE Danes of the country have presented to Chicago a bronze statue of Hans Andersen, which will probably be unveiled at Lincoln park in June next.

PAUL DU CHAILLU, the Africen explorer, spends most of his time in New York at present. He is no longer a young man, but retains the vivacity of youth.

THE wages of working women in Colorado are said to have increased since suffrage was granted them. But they do not yet receive equal salaries with the men.

THE Florida season is nearing its end and the north-bound trains are crowded with tourists homeward bound. The big hotels will close about the middle of the month.

THE British royal family is in no danger of becoming extinct just yet. There are living 82 descendants of George III., and of these 61 are descendants of Queen Victoria.

DORA PATTERSON and Mida McKean, two 12-year-old girls of Alameda, Cal., saved John Baker from losing his life in quicksand the other day by throwing rails out to him.

THE owner of an ostrich farm at Anaheim, Cal., is trying to break ostriches to drive in single, double and tandem harness. His efforts are meeting with a great measure of success.

RECENT sales of autographs in London show that Mark Twain's signature is worth twelve shillings and six pence, Bret Harte's eight, Andrew Lang's six, and Rider Haggard's three.

A GEORGE ELIOT memorial library is to be erected in the novelist's native town of Nuneaton, Warwickshire and Americans are to be asked to contribute to the funds for its erection.

MR. W. D. PYLES, a prosperous young farmer living near Mountville, Ga., while moving some brick from his yard unearthed a tin box said to contain $1,000 in gold and silver, with some old coins dated 1812.

A "SHOWMAN in South Africa" says that not only are the Jews in the majority in the society circles, but that they are so numerous in every field that the place has got the nickname of "Jewhannisburg."

SMITH'S CONFESSION.

He Says the Devil Prompted Him to Kill the Stone Couple.

The Murdered People Were Knocked on the Head With a Baseball Bat—The Murderer a Slav Boy, 17 Years Old—His Real Name is Romulus Cottel.

AKRON, O., April 10.—When placed on the Stone murder mystery, the Cleveland detectives Doran and Decelle, at once started to work down the clews pointing to John Smith as the perpetrator of the terrible crime. At 5 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon the detectives confronted Smith with the evidence they had gathered against him. "John Smith, we are sent by the Lord to have you tell us about this crime," suddenly exclaimed Doran. The expression that came to Smith's face will never be forgotten by those who saw it. His lower jaw dropped, his cheek blanched, and every muscle of his face began to twitch. Then came forth this awful acknowledgment: "The devil told me to do these murders. I went to bed at eight o'clock on the night the Stones were murdered, and after I had laid there a little while the devil got hold of me and told me to go and kill the Stone family. I got up and dressed and went down stairs. I took an old pair of pants, and tearing two holes in them for my eyes, made a mask that covered my face and hung down below my knees. Then I took the baseball bat that was in the woodshed and started for the Stone house, and taking the ladder from the barn placed it against the house and climbed up and looked into the room where Flora and Hattie were in bed. They were both asleep. I looked through the window a moment then went down the ladder and walked around to the side door. Through this entered Mr. and Mrs. Stone's bedroom. I hit the old man on the head twice with the bat, then I hit Mrs. Stone. When they were dead I went up to Ira Stillson's room and knocked him in the head. Then I took Stillson's jack-knife from his pocket, and went back to the old people's room. I cut them up because the devil urged me to do it. Then I went back upstairs and knocked Emma and Hattie in the head. I did not try to kill Flora, but I don't know why I did not do it unless it was because I loved her."

John Smith is the assumed name of a 17-year-old Slav boy. His real name is Romulus Cottel. He acknowledges that he has always been addicted to bestial practices, and many think him a maniac whose passion culminated in a desire for blood.

A TERRIBLE CRIME.

An Eight-Year-Old Girl Assaulted by a Tramp—The Rapist Caught, Confesses and Narrowly Escapes Lynching.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., April 10.—The eight-year-old daughter of Wm. Fiezer, who resides on a farm, seven miles southwest of this city, was the victim of a brutal assault by a tramp Thursday afternoon, while on her way home from school. The neighborhood is thoroughly aroused and a posse of farmers is aiding the officers in a search for the ravisher, and if he is caught he will never appear before earthly tribunal to answer for his terrible crime. The news was brought to the city Thursday night by a farmer of the vicinity, who reported the facts at the police station. Sheriff Causemeier was immediately notified, and a detail of officers was sent to search for the brute. The entire country is being scoured for a trace of the ravisher, a description of whom answers in most respects to that given of the tramp who committed a similar outrage on a young girl in Michigan last week. The little girl who was outraged is said to be in a critical condition and may not recover from the effects of the assault. The mother is prostrated over the affair.

Late Thursday night the officers returned from the scene of the crime, having in custody the rapist, whom they rescued from an infuriated crowd who had captured and were about to hang him. He is Matthew Broderick, of Detroit. He confessed his crime to the officers.

To Pension Letter Carriers.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The house committee on post offices and railroads will probably soon report the bill introduced by Congressman Aldrich, of Illinois, providing an annuity pension for letter carriers. The bill provides that no more than two per cent. per annum shall be retained from the salaries of every letter carrier, and from the fund so created pensions shall be granted the carriers.

Potatoes as Fuel.

PENN YAN, N.Y., April 10.—A farmer of Italy Hill is disposing of his potato crop in a novel way. He begins by having a good bed of coals in the firebox of his coal stove, and then fills the feeder with potatoes which, as they descend into the firebox, become kiln dried, and it is claimed, throw out an excellent heat. Potatoes are worth about two dollars a ton, and coal five dollars a ton.

Mysteriously Missing.

TOLEDO, O., April 6.—Lewis W. Salkeld, secretary-treasurer of the Central Labor union, has been mysteriously missing since Wednesday. He had a large sum of money, funds of the union, with him and it is feared he has met bodily harm.

The Iron Hall.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 10.—Receiver Failey, of the Iron Hall, Thursday evening filed suit to enjoin the collection of $8.526.93 taxes assessed upon $522,847.28 in bank to the credit of the receiver April 1, 1895. Receiver Failey denied the jurisdiction of the board of review of this county in making the assessment and based his suit on the proposition that the moneys taxed were simply funds coming to an officer of the court from other receiverships for distribution to claimants whose claims were before the court for allowance and therefore not taxable.

ENCOURAGED.

The Cuban Insurgents Well Pleased Over the Action of the American Congress.

HAVANA, April 8, via Key West, Fla., April 9.—The Cubans are greatly encouraged by the action of congress. They say it is certain to have a good moral effect, and hope for practical benefit also. Members of good families are leaving cities and towns to join the insurgents in great numbers. The severe enforcement of Weyler's decrees is driving many to take the field.

The government has still failed to crush Maceo in the western province. He is west of the strong line between Marcel and Majana, but several parties have crossed and entered Havana province. Lacret, with 3,000 men, has entered from the east. All the wires west and south are cut and accurate news of the movements of the rebels is not obtainable. The government has been silent for four days, although it is known here that several important engagements have been fought. The hospitals are crowded with wounded and sick soldiers. Now that the yellow fever season is beginning, there is no room for victims. The prisons are also filled with political suspects. The government was obliged to transfer [illegible] from Cabanas fortress to the city prisons.

Gomez was last reported in Santa Clara province, moving in the direction of Suganca valley. His forces entered the important town of San Juan de Las Veras, taking supplies and ammunition. The troops shut themselves in forts and allowed the town hall and several other buildings to be burned. Refugees from the town have arrived at Ranchuelo.

The Spanish gunboat Alvarado was badly damaged by the rebel fire in attempting to enter the port of Marabi, near Baracoa. The balls shattered the rudder, penetrated the deckhouse plating and traversed the sides. The gunboat returned to the attack three times, but finally went to Baracoa for repairs. The official report says one sailor was wounded.

During a night attack upon the town of Hoyo, about fifteen miles west of Havana, the Spanish troops shot and killed four women and two children and wounded others. The troops occupied four forts. The insurgents entered the town crawling on hands and knees, fired upon the forts, burned a number of houses and retired. The troops later, seeing a group of people on the principle street, fired a volley from the fort, mistaking the women and children for insurgents, owing to the darkness. The accident is greatly deplored. Seven prisoners of war condemned to be shot in Cabanas fortress Monday morning have been respited pending a vote of the house. The general belief is since the action of congress no more insurgents will be publicly shot under the bandit decree.

THROUGH A BRIDGE.

A Steam Excavator, With an Eighty-Foot Span of a Railway Bridge, Goes Into the River—One Life Lost.

TOLEDO, O., April 9.—At an early hour Wednesday morning a ponderous steam excavator, pushed along by a light engine, jumped the track while crossing the Wheeling & Lake Erie railway bridge over the Maumee river, and tearing through the iron work of the structure carried the whole of an 80-foot span into the river with it. The engine remained on the track. James Marshall, of Ironville, a switchman riding on the excavator, was carried down by it and drowned. His body has not been recovered. He leaves a widow and four children. The property loss is estimated at $7,000. The bridge was erected in 1882 at a cost of $250,000. The traffic of the road will not be interfered with. President Blair says arrangements have been made with the Ann Arbor and Pennsylvania companies, with the latter for the use of its bridge. In the meantime a temporary span will be erected, and the road expects to be running as usual within three days. President Blair says that the engine and excavator were backing up across the bridge at a high rate of speed when the accident occurred, in contravention of the company's rules.

ENGLISH PROTEST

Against the Sultan's Intention to Expel Christian Missionaries From Armenia.

LONDON, April 9.—The Daily News Thursday says that resolutions were adopted at a meeting of the Armenian relief committee Wednesday evening protesting against the decision of the sultan to issue an irade for the expulsion of all Christian missionaries from Armenia, and urging the British government to make every attempt to prevent such a step being taken. The resolutions also requested the government to make immediate efforts to obtain the release of Rev. Geo. P. Knapp, the American missionary who was ordered to proceed from his station at Bitlis to Constantinople to answer the charge of sedition and murder made by Turkish officials and who is now said to be a prisoner at Diarbekir. It was also urged that an increase be made in the number of British vice consuls in Asia Minor.

A Bicyclist Killed.

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—While Mrs. Edward F. Morse, aged 30 years, wife of the president of the Morse Elevator Co., was riding a bicycle towards her home on Girard avenue, Wednesday afternoon, she was injured by a runaway horse, and died at the hospital before her husband could reach her.

Pardoned by the President.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The president Wednesday granted pardons to David L. Driver, Arkansas, sentenced to three years in the penitentiary for illicit distilling and to J. Reuben Phillips, South Carolina, sentenced January, 1895, three months in jail for working in a distillery with no sign.

Bicycles as Baggage.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 9.—The Armstrong bicycle baggage bill passed the assembly and senate Wednesday by large majorities. It now goes to Gov. Morton. The bill as passed provides for the carrying of bicycles as baggage.

VESSEL CAPSIZES.

The Bodies of Six of the Crew Are Imprisoned in the Hold.

A Violent Gale, Catching the Vessel Under the Port Bow, Lifted Her Out of the Water—Then She Keeled Over and Soon After Sank.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—The British ship Blairmore was capsized in the bay off the Union iron works Thursday morning and six of her crew were drowned.

The dead are: First Mate T. Ludgate, Able Seaman Henry F. Clark, Apprentice Roland Seigle, Seaman G. Rennebaum, Steward Samuel Kenney, Watchman H. Synstrand.

The ship is now at the bottom of the bay and the bodies of the drowned men are imprisoned in the hold. It will be impossible to recover them for several days.

The Blairmore was anchored about half a mile off the Union iron works in seven fathoms of water.

At seven o'clock the wind suddenly sprung up from the southeast with great violence. The tide was then at its flood, and taking the ship on the starboard bilge, heeled her over considerably. Suddenly and without warning a wild squall rushed up, and catching the vessel under the port bow, lifted her completely out of the water. For a moment she seemed held in the air, then she dropped over on her side and shortly after sank out of sight.

GEN. HARRISON'S

Attitude Toward the Presidential Nomination—His Letter Wrongly Interpreted.

CHICAGO, April 9.—A Washington special says: A private letter from Judge John Scott, a resident of the state of Washington and brother-in-law of Benj. Harrison, discloses some interesting alleged information concerning Gen. Harrison's attitude toward the presidential nomination.

Brother-in-law Scott, whose relationship has been further complicated by Gen. Harrison's second marriage, says the public put the wrong interpretation on Gen. Harrison's letter. The ex-president wanted to be regarded in the light of a possible presidential candidate, one not actively seeking votes, willing to accept whatever honors come with calm resignation. His Indiana constituents attached too much significance to the letter, says Judge Scott.

The brother-in-law, etc., of the ex-president is quite positive Gen. Harrison expects to be nominated.

HEALER SCHLATTER,

After a Forty Days' Fast, Again Becomes a Wanderer.

SILVER CITY, N.M., April 10.—Schlatter, the healer, after a 40 days' fast at a cattle ranch near Socorro, has again become a wanderer. His whereabouts was discovered, and to escape the curious, he started westward on his white horse, carrying with him a bundle of blankets and a small shelter tent. By obscure paths he reached Alma, N. M. There he was recognized and at once surrounded by those anxious to be healed. Geo. Barrup, a miner, who has long suffered from rheumatism, and Mrs. George Roberts, who has been seriously ill for some time, were among the treated. Both aver they have been entirely cured, and now after five days they both say they are without pain. A number of others were healed, among them a child afflicted with strabismus. The healer is traveling by the most unfrequented roads, still headed west.

Murder in the First Degree.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 10.—Frank Schaeffer, the colored man who has been on trial here for his life for the past week, was found guilty of murder in the first degree Thursday morning. Schaeffer is one of the gang of colored people who were implicated in the Mountain Cutoff murder two years ago, at which time they killed four Hungarians and injured six others by blowing up a boarding-house with dynamite for the purpose of robbery.

Favors the Independence of Corea.

OMAHA, Neb., April 10.—Through his interpreter, Field Marshal Yamagata, of Japan, said Thursday morning that both Japan and Russia are anxious to see Corea an independent country and that neither country expects to control it. There is no danger of a conflict between them. Japan is at peace with every country on the face of the globe. The increase of the Japanese army from 28 regiments to 52 regiments was contemplated long ago, and has no significance.

The Fortifications Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The fortifications bill will be laid by the subcommittee before the full appropriations committee Friday. It will carry a large appropriation and provides in such a liberal manner for the purchase under contract of sites, guns, etc., that it is stated that the war department will be able to enter upon an extensive system of coast defences for the next year.

Army Transfers.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—With the approval of the secretary of war the major and two troops of the Seventh cavalry, now at Fort Sheridan, Ill., will be transferred to the department of the Colorado. One of the troops will be sent to Fort Huachuca and the other to Fort Grant, both in Arizona.

Spain Preparing for War.

LONDON, April 10.—A dispatch from Madrid to the Central News says that for a month past the work of strengthening the defenses of the various ports has been carried on. Torpedoes have been laid at the entrances of the harbors and elsewhere, and heavy guns have been mounted in the forts.

Defeated in the House.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The bill to repeal the compulsory pilotage system so far as it effects sailing vessels engaged in the coastwise trade, was defeated in the house Thursday after a day's debate, by a vote of 117 to 152.

DUN'S REPORT.

A Weekly Review of Business Throughout the United States.

NEW YORK, April 11.—R. G. Dun & Co. says Saturday in their weekly review of trade:

Failures for the past week have been 209 in the United States against 207 last year, and 33 in Canada against 27 last year.

The volume of business has not, on the whole, increased nor have prices appreciably advanced since April 1, when the range for all commodities was the lowest ever known in this country. Breadstuffs and iron products have risen slightly, but some other articles have declined, and the root of the matter is that demand for consumption is still below expectations.

The injury done to winter wheat by storms and frosts at the west would appear from reports of state officers to have been considerable. But the reports are not more gloomy than a year ago, and the quantity of wheat which has come from farms since August has been 163,781,594 bushels, against 129,077,450 to the same date last year.

Stocks have been extremely dull, and yet railroad traffic is heavy. Reports of earnings have not improved, the March statement covering particularly all the roads usually reporting, shows an increase of 4.2 per cent. over last year, but a decrease of 11.2 compared with 1893, and is less satisfactory than returns of January or February. Domestic business reflected by clearing house exchanges is slightly better than last year. Foreign trade shows a decrease of nearly 10 per cent. in exports for the week, while imports gain nearly 20 per cent, though in March the decrease was 14 per cent. The billet pool and other combinations have raised the prices of pig iron and steel, but as yet finished products have gained scarcely anything, nor has demand for them increased. While purchases of pig iron to anticipate future wants have been heavy, actual consumption is but moderate. Minor metals are dull, but lead weaker at 3.05c on forced sales west.

Prices of boots and shoes don't change, though leather is lower. Hides are a little stronger at Chicago, receipts being small. Wool is weaker with sales for the week the smallest for many years. Prices tend lower except for fine washed fleeces, and manufacturers are rapidly reducing production.

There is fair demand in the dress goods branch, but it is estimated that not 3.40 per cent. of the men's wear machinery is at work. There have also been cotton mills stopping or reducing time this week. Further reduction in shirting prints to the lowest point ever touched failed to increase demand noticeably.

DISSOLVED.

The Merchants Bar Iron Association of the United States Goes to Pieces.

CLEVELAND, O., April 11.—The Merchants Bar Iron association of the United States is no more.

After a stormy session at the Weddel house Friday night the members unanimously agreed that it would be impossible for them to ever come to an agreement, and the association was formally dissolved. The death of the association was due to the fact that it could not control the output, and many of its members refused to be bound by its action in the effort to raise prices, because of fear of outside competition. For three days the association has held secret sessions, three times a day, and each one was marked with the utmost dissension and a total inability to agree. Representatives from everywhere where bar iron is manufactured in the United States were present.

After the death of the association a number of the delegates met and discussed the possbility of forming a new association. No action was taken, but another meeting will be held Saturday, when the matter will be fully discussed.

CIVIL SERVICE.

A Favorable Report on an Amendment to the Present Law.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The house committee on reform in the civil service Friday ordered a favorable report on the bill of Mr. Brosius, of Pennsylvania, amending the civil service law so as to give the civil service commission authority to administer oaths, take affidavits and depositions and examine witnesses. The clerk of any court of the United States is given power to issue a writ of subpœna summoning any person within the jurisdiction of the court, to appear and testify before the commission, any member of it, or its secretary. The court is given power to punish disobedience to the writ or summons.

ENFRANCHISED WOMEN.

They Score a Sweeping Victory at the Municipal Election in Ellis, Kan.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 11.—The enfranchised women of Ellis, Kan., scored a sweeping victory at the recent municipal election. A complete ticket of women candidates was nominated and all were elected with the exception of the candidate for police judge, who was defeated by a majority of five. Mrs. M. A. Wade, proprietor of a millinery and dry goods store, was elected mayor. The women named their ticket "Law and Order" and they propose to enforce the prohibition law to the letter.

The Torrens' Land Bill.

COLUMBUS, O., April 11.—The judiciary committee of the house and senate will meet next Monday and recommend the Torrens' real estate transfer bill for passage. It will first be amended so as to require the abstract company furnishing the transcript of title to give a $100,000 bond as a guarantee of perfect work.

The Report Untrue.

KEY WEST, Fla., April 11.—The reported capture of the schooner Pearl by a Spanish cruiser was a mistake. The schooner is now ashore near Turtle harbor.

Home Seekers Excursions.

In order to give everyone an opportunity to see the Western Country and enable the home seekers to secure a home in time to commence work for the season of 1896, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R'y has arranged to run a series of four home seekers excursions to various points in the West, North-West and South-West on the following dates: March 10, April 7 and 21 and May 5, at the low rate of two dollars more than ONE FARE for the round trip. Tickets will be good for return on any Tuesday or Friday within twenty-one days from date of sale. For rates, time of trains and further details apply to any coupon ticket agent in the East or South, or address GEO. H. HEAFFORD, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Chicago, Ill.

WHEN kings make war no law betwixt two sovereigns can decide but that of arms, where fortune is the judge, soldiers the lawyers and the bar the field.—Dryden.

Cheap Excursions to the West and North-west.

On April 21 and May 5, 1896, the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western R'y) will sell Home Seekers' excursion tickets at very low rates to a large number of points in Northern Wisconsin, Michigan, Northwestern Iowa, Western Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota, including the famous Black Hills district. For full information apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address W. B. KNISKERN, G. P. & T. A., Chicago, Ill.

OUR dangers and delights are near allies, from the same stem the rose and prickle rise.—Shakespeare.

Bank

President Isaac Lewis of Sabina, Ohio, is highly respected all through that section. He has lived in Clinton Co. 75 years, and has been president of the Sabina Bank 20 years. He gladly testifies to the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and what he says is worthy attention. All brain workers find Hood's Sarsaparilla peculiarly adapted to their needs. It makes pure, rich, red blood, and from this comes nerve, mental, bodily and digestive strength.

"I am glad to say that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a very good medicine, especially as a blood purifier. It has done me good many times. For several years I suffered greatly with pains of in one eye and about my temples, especially at night when I had been having a hard day of physical and mental labor. I took many remedies, but found help only in Hood's Sarsaparilla which cured me of rheumatism, neuralgia and headache. Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved itself a true friend. I also take Hood's Pills to keep my bowels regular, and like the pills very much." ISAAC LEWIS, Sabina, Ohio.

Neuralgia

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are prompt, efficient and easy in effect. 25 cents.

Webster's International Dictionary

The One Great Standard Authority, So writes Hon. D. J. Brewer, Justice U. S. Supreme Court.

Send a Postal for Specimen Pages, etc.

Successor of the "Unabridged."

Standard of the U. S. Gov't Printing Office, the U. S. Supreme Court, all the State Supreme Courts, and of nearly all the Schoolbooks.

Warmly Commended by State Superintendents of Schools, and other Educators almost without number.

THE BEST FOR EVERYBODY

BECAUSE

It is easy to find the word wanted.
It is easy to ascertain the pronunciation.
It is easy to trace the growth of a word.
It is easy to learn what a word means.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says:— Webster's International Dictionary has become the standard for all uses. It has no superior in methods and completeness. The new features added to its wonderful comprehensiveness, make it absolutely indispensable in almost every field of work. Everywhere it is regarded as the authority.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Publishers, Springfield, Mass., U.S.A.

A SHINING EXAMPLE of what may be accomplished by never varying devotion to a single purpose is seen in the history of the McCormick Harvesting Machine Co., Chicago. For 65 years they have simply been building grain and grass-cutting machinery, and while there are probably forty manufacturers in this line, it is safe to say that the McCormick Company builds one-third of all the binders, reapers and mowers used throughout the entire world.

For your Protection CATARRH

we positively state that this remedy does not contain mercury or any other injurious drug. Nasal Catarrh is a local disease and is the result of colds and sudden climatic changes.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

Opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Protects the Membrane from Colds, Restores the Senses of Taste and smell. The Balm is quickly absorbed and gives relief at once. Price 50 cents at Druggists or by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York

COLD IN HEAD

DROPSY Treated free. Positively CURED with Vegetable Remedies. Have cured many thousand cases pronounced hopeless. From first dose symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. BOOK of testimonials of miraculous cures sent FREE. TEN DAYS TREATMENT FURNISHED FREE by mail DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS, Specialists, Atlanta, Ga.

NAME THIS PAPER every time you write.

OPIUM and WHISKY habits cured. Book sent FREE. Dr. B. M. WOOLLEY, ATLANTA, GA.

NAME THIS PAPER every time you write.

A BORN FIEND.

H. H. Holmes Makes Confession to Twenty-Seven Murders.

Holmes Born With the Evil One as His Sponsor, and He Has Been With Him Ever Since—He Murdered for the Love of It—Great Cruelty.

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—H. H. Holmes, who is to be executed in this city May 7 for the murder of Benj. Pietzel, makes confession of that and his many other crimes.

In prefacing the confession, which covers in full nearly three newspaper pages, written in Holmes' own handwriting, and detailing with a minuteness that is simply at times revolting, the arch-mutilator and author of 27 murders, as he admits himself to be, states with something like pathos that he does so simply that he may obtain money enough to educate his boy.

Holmes writes of his blood-curdling atrocities with an abandon that simply appalls one. Not one grain of remorse seems to enter into the construction of that document, and never for a moment, except in two isolated cases—one where he refers touchingly to the memory of Minnie Williams, and another time, when he pathetically speaks of an outrage perpetrated on his boy—does the redeeming element, pity, figure in the case. Regret is never for a moment expressed, and he comes out boldly and without compunction on his very opening with the statement: "I was born with the very devil in me."

LATEST PICTURE OF HOLMES.

Even now he believes that the evil spirit is the guiding genius of his destiny. He believes that he is fully under the spell of the damned and despite the assertions to the contrary that he is receiving the attentions of a minister of God, and is gradually becoming imbued with the spirit of forgiveness and religion, he feels that he is lost hopelessly. He even goes further. He asserts that he is gradually changing in appearance, in figure; that his face is becoming distorted, and he sees, whether in the distortion of his bloody imagination, which conjures up hosts of vengeance-calling dead, or not, his face assuming the look, the eyes the leer, and the very ears the exact similitude of the picture of satan himself.

"I was born with the devil in me," says he in one part of his confession. "I could not help the fact that I was a murderer no more than the poet can help the inspiration to song nor the ambition of an intellectual man to be great. I was born with the evil one standing as my sponsor beside the bed where I was ushered into the world, and he has been with me since.

The inclination to murder came to me as naturally as the inspiration to do right comes to the majority of persons. Where others hearts were touched with pity, mine filled with cruelty, and wherein the others the feeling was to save life, I reveled in the thought of destroying the same.

"Not only that, I was not satisfied in taking it in the ordinary way. I sought devices strange, fantastical and even grotesque. It pleased my fancy. It gave me play to work my murderous will, and I reveled in it with the enthusiasm of any alchemist who is hot on the trail of the philosopher's stone.

"This inclination," continues Holmes, "came to me early in life. I remember, when a mere lad, my ambition was to study medicine, that I might know the relative effects of poisonous gases; that I might fully become acquainted with their uses, and learn to be an expert in handling them.

"I am convinced," he declares, "that since my imprisonment I have changed woefully and gruesomely from what I formerly was in feature and in figure."

"If you look at my picture, when I was first taken into custody in Boston, nearly two years ago, and look at my face now, you may begin to observe something of what I mean.

"I mean, in fact, that my features are assuming nothing more or less than a pronounced satanical cast; that I have been afflicted with that disease, rare but terrible, with which physicians are acquainted, but over which they seem to have no control whatever.

"That disease," said he, "is a malformation or distortion of the osseous part, causing deformity so marked that in many cases men are made to assume likenesses to the inferior animal.

"The horror of the thing did not pall on me, for it was quite in keeping with my nature, and, like a true medical student, I began to study the new conditions that had arisen.

"From what I can see I fully believe I am growing to resemble the devil; that the osseous part of my head and face are gradually assuming that elongated shape so pronounced in what is called the degenerate head, and that the similitude is almost completed.

"In fact, so impressed am I with this belief," continued Holmes, "that I am convinced that I have no longer anything human in me."

Holmes' confession from this on speaks of his early experiences of his boyhood days on the farm in Vermont and the life he led, until he entered college to study medicine in Michigan.

It was not until after he was graduated, fully equipped with the knowledge of poisons and the easiest way to sever the simple thread of life that Holmes began his career as a murderer and mutilator.

When he began, he admits himself, he was ruthless and never once halted until he took 27 lives.

"And I would have committed six other murders," he added, "had not certain occurrences intervened."

Possibly one of the worst, most brutal, revolting and disgusting crimes this arch-mutilator ever committed was one he speaks of in a chapter devoted to his boy, the son of his first wife. The only explanation he offers is that he did it simply to gratify his love of mutilation.

"It was shortly after I was married," he declares, "and our boy was then but a youngster.

"I called him in from the road, where he was frolicking about like an innocent with a lot of other lads, and took him out to a rear barn.

"I don't know what it was that possessed me but I took a surgical knife along with me. It was simply the craving of the murderer within me that inspired me to make a subject of my little one."

With the utmost abandon, and with here and there an expressed sigh of regret, Holmes then tells how he went through the operation of mutilating his own son.

Finished with that, Holmes felt satisfied and did not murder his boy outright.

Station Agent Held Up by Tramps.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 13.—At an early hour Saturday morning two tramps entered the station of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railway at Mishawaka, this county, and held up the station agent, R. R. McGladery and a friend, Wm. Lamphere, who also was in the office. From Lamphere they secured $1.25, and from McGladdery $3 and a pair of shoes. They overlooked $160 which McGladdery had in one of his pockets. After taking $11 from the till of the ticket office the tramps marched their victims to a box car, where they locked them in and then escaped.

FROM SPAIN.

Ex-Consul Taylor Makes a Tour Through That Country.

Spain Not Averse to War With the United States—Ignorance Regarding the Size and Resources of Our Country—People Inflamed by the Press.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Among the passengers on board the American line steamship New York were Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Chatfield Taylor, of Chicago.

Mr. Taylor was the consul, of Spain at Chicago during the World's fair and he and his wife have been making a tour of Spain. They went aboard on September 1 and spent some time in Madrid, but had left before the breaking out of the Barcelona riots. Mr. Taylor was not surprised at the troubles, as the feeling against America and Americans was intense in Spain.

"Spain is proud and sensitive," said Mr. Taylor, "and I have no doubt that she is not averse to war with the United States. There appears, as far as I was able to see, only one opinion in Spain regarding the Cuban troubles, and that is that the rebellion must be overcome if it takes every drop of Spanish blood and every peseta of Spanish treasure. Spain is confident that she can quell the revolution if this country does not step in. She has improved wonderfully since the last Cuban war, and is consequently better equipped to deal with the insurgents than before.

"While in Madrid, I talked with political leaders, such as Senor Moret, formerly minister of foreign affairs; Sagasta, leader of the liberals, and Silveta, a conservative leader. From these talks I am led to believe that the Spanish leaders understand the institutions and people of the United States far better than our own political leaders do those of old Spain. Outside of the better classes there is a great amount of ignorance regarding the size and resources of this country. The men I have mentioned, and their colleagues, realize the effects of a war with the United States, and realize the great odds against which their country would have to fight. Consequently they do not wish to precipitate a war and few of them believe that Spain would have any chance of being successful.

"But," continued Mr. Taylor, "the rank and file have been inflamed by the absurd statements of the press regarding America, and believe that the advantage would all be on the side of Spain in case of war with the United States. It is urged that Spain has no great amount of commerce, and the Spanish privateers could prey upon American commerce and drive the flag from the seas. Spanish papers are full of such absurd statements, and the people believe them. They believe the Americans are a nation of merchants and that commercial interests entirely control its foreign policy. They believe that America is run by Wall street. The prominent Spanish leaders still refuse to recognize a state of war in Cuba and profess to believe that the Cuban insurgents are mere bandits."

COL. INGERSOLL.

The Great Agnostic Speaks to the Church Militant Congregation, Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 13.—With a prelude that included the pronouncing of an invocation, the repeating of the Lord's Prayer in unison, the reading of the tenth chapter of Luke, commencing with the 25th verse, the singing of an hosanna of "Nearer My God to Thee" and "America," the greatest living agnostic of the age stepped to the rostrum of the Church Militant Sunday morning and for nearly two hours expounded to the congregation his views upon "How mankind could be reformed." The Church Militant is composed of the major portion of the former adherents of the Fullerton Avenue Presbyterian church, one of the strongest parishes of that denomination in the city, and who, with their pastor, Rev. Dr. John Rusk, branched off into an independent organization some months since, as a result of opposition of the minority of the congregation, to the introduction of radical changes in the conduct of the services.

MISSOURI DEMOCRATS.

All the Delegates So Far Elected Instructed for Free Silver.

ST. LOUIS, April 13.—Up to and including Saturday 92 democratic county conventions had been held in Missouri to select delegates to the state convention at Sedalia, which meets next Wednesday. Delegates instructed for free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, 342; instructed for gold standard, none; instructed to vote for Stone, Bland, Vest and Cockrell as delegates at large to Chicago, 255; instructed to vote for a solid free silver delegation to Chicago, 301; uninstructed, 3. Three wards in St. Louis send sound money delegates, and two are reckoned from other wards to vote for the gold element.

Killed by a Train.

PORTSMOUTH, O., April 13.—John Philip Noel, a well-known farmer and market gardener, was killed by a Norfolk & Western freight early Sunday morning while walking on the track.

New West Virginia Postmaster.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—L. C. Thomas was appointed postmaster at Page, W. Va., Saturday.

Bliss Must Go.

COLUMBUS, O., April 13.—A sufficient number of councilmen have agreed to vote for the confirmation of the bond of Martin Gemuender, the new director of public works, at the meeting of the council next Monday evening and permit the successor of Jerry Bliss being installed in office.

Elections in Cuba.

HAVANA, April 13.—Elections for 30 members of the cortes were held Sunday. The candidates of the union constitutional party were the only ones in the field, the other parties declining to take part in the elections.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS

First Session.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—SENATE—The following bills were passed by the senate: Pensioning the widow of the late Gen. John M. Thayer at $100 per month; pensioning the widow of Gen. Charles A. Heckman at $50 per month; to provide for the continuance in office of customs officers and assistant treasurers until successors shall have been appointed and qualified. A bill was favorably reported to the senate to prevent wholesale divorces in the territories by requiring one year's residence before application for divorce. A bill providing for an additional circuit judge in the Sixth circuit has been favorably reported to the senate. Bills introduced: To grant honorable discharge to Alfred Burgess; to increase pensions of Jesse C. Yocum, Mrs. Henrietta Bixler and Wm. A. Brown.

HOUSE—The senate Cuban resolutions passed the house Monday by a vote of 244 to 27. The announcement was greeted with a great demonstration on the floor, which was taken up by the galleries. The house also passed the river and harbor appropriation bill without a change in the items relating to improvements in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia. Bills introduced: To increase the pension of John H. Kerch, 87th Ohio infantry, to $30 per month; to pension Wm. S. Pratts at $12 per month; to reimburse Richard Porter, of Carlisle county, Ky., for property taken from him by federal forces; to pension John W. Church at $72 per month.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—SENATE—The post office appropriation bill, which has engrossed the attention of the senate for almost a week, passed Tuesday. The consolidation of post offices was bitterly opposed. The committee amendment appropriating $80,000 additional for mails from San Francisco to New Zealand and New South Wales, via Honolulu, was adopted. Mr. Brice placed before the senate Tuesday a petition of the chamber of commerce of Cincinnati, praying for the creation of a department of commerce and manufactures. Mr. Sherman also laid before the senate a memorial from citizens of Ohio remonstrating against the introduction of military training in the public schools.

HOUSE—The house spent the day debating a bill to fix the standard of weights and measures by the adoption of the metric system on and after July 1, 1898, and a proposition that the government share with the District of Columbia the expense of creating and maintaining public library in the city of Washington. The latter was defeated 113 to 127, and the fate of the metric system bill still hangs in the balance. On a rising vote it was defeated, 65 [illegible] Mr. C. W. Stone, (Pa.), chairman of the committee on coinage, weights and measures, secured the yeas and nays, and pending roll-call the house adjourned.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—SENATE—A bill providing penalties for trespassing on the Chickamauga and Chattanooga Military park, broadened to apply to all national military parks, was reported. Senator Allen introduced a bill Wednesday providing for the restoration of the names of widows of soldiers to the pension rolls after the death of the second husband, who, by reason of a second marriage, have been dropped from the pension rolls. Mr. Sherman gave notice that he would ask at an early date to take up the treaty providing a commission to consider the Behring sea seizure claims. The act originating in the senate to authorize the leasing of lands for educational purposes in Arizona Wednesday became a law without the president's approval.

HOUSE—The house committee on the judiciary Wednesday completed its work upon the bankruptcy bill, and decided to report the bill to the house this week. This measure is based upon the old Torrey bill. The senate committee on foreign relations failed to reach a conclusion as to the Hawaiian cable question Wednesday. The house committee on labor Wednesday heard Mr. Corliss, of Michigan, who advocated the passage of his bill provided that all persons employed by the United States, or by any contractor or sub-contractor doing work for the United States or the District of Columbia, must be full citizens of the United States. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, spoke.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—SENATE—The senate committee on commerce decided to take up the river and harbor bill Friday, and to sit daily until its consideration is concluded. The senate committee on appropriations reported the naval appropriation bill. The principal amendments are as follows: For testing methods of throwing high explosives from guns on board ship with the ordinary velocities, $50,000. The provision regarding the large and swift torpedo boats is changed by reducing the number from five to three and increasing the speed of these from 26 to 30 knots and reducing the cost from $875,000 to $800,000. Instead of ten or more additional small torpedo boats the number is limited to ten and their cost is made $500,000 instead of $800,000.

HOUSE—The house non-concurred in the senate amendment to the post office appropriation bill and agreed to a conference. The bill to repeal the compulsory pilotage system, so far as it affects sailing vessels engaged in the coastwise trade, was defeated in the house Thursday, after a day's debate, by a vote of 117 to 152. The amended District of Columbia appropriation bill for the year ending June 30, 1897, was passed, after a brief debate. Consideration was begun of "the filled cheese" bill (imposing a tax upon its manufacture and sale), and will be continued Friday. Mr. Cooke (rep., Wis.), author of one of the bills for which the pending bill was a substitute, addressed the house, and at 5:05 o'clock the house adjourned.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—SENATE—The main portion of the session of the senate Friday was taken up by the Indian appropriation bill, the house proposition abolishing the system of contract schools for Indian children giving rise to a long and rather interesting discussion. The matter went over, however, without action. A bill giving the aid of the government to the Trans-Mississippi and International exposition, at Omaha, in 1898, was passed and the senate at 5:35 o'clock adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE—General debate was concluded Friday upon the "filled cheese" bill, which was begun Thursday afternoon. The bill will be further considered Saturday under the five-minute rule for amendment. The appropriation bill for fortifications and coast defenses for the year ending June 30, 1897, was reported by Mr. Hainer (rep., Neb.) and placed on the calendar. At five o'clock the house took a recess under the rules until eight o'clock, the evening session to be for the consideration of private pension bills. During the evening session nine bills were acted upon in committee of the whole, and three of them were passed in the house before the hour of 10:30 came and caused an adjournment.

Congress May Adjourn May 15.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—With the fortification bill reported to the house the only general appropriation bill remaining to be submitted to the body for passage is the general deficiency bill. Members feel confident that the so-called long session of the Fifty-fourth congress will adjourn by the 15th of May, and thus prove one of the shortest sessions on record within the past 20 years.

Spanish Cavalry for Cuba.

MADRID, April 13.—Capt. Gen. Weyler has asked for the immediate despatch of 5,000 cavalry to Cuba, and the minister of war is arranging to send them at once. The war office is also considering the question of employing balloons in the military service in Cuba. The naval squadron at Ferroe has gone to Vigo to begin maneuvers.

The German Wrestler Won.

ATHENS, April 13.—The final bout of the wrestling contest of the Olympic games took place Saturday and was won by the German wrestler, Schuman, who threw the Greek wrestler, Tsintah.

A POEM OF SOULS.

Reed——McKinley is a daisy,
And I would like to see
Him get the nomination
And lead the G. O. P.
Nit!

Morton——I want to help the party
With heart and head and hand,
And shall be happy having
McKinley lead the band.
Nit!

Allison——On serious reflection,
I have concluded that
McKinley is a leader
Who knows where he is at.
Nit!

Manderson—I'm glad to know McKinley
Has joshed me, and I'll see
That later at St. Louis
He wins the victory.
Nit!

Davis——I've always felt we needed
One like McKinley to
Come to the front, like Moses,
And take the party through.
Nit!

Cullom——I take peculiar pleasure
In rising here to state
I'm happy to surrender
My chance to one so great.
Nit!

Quay——I'm going to help McKinley
Swipe all the other states,
And by and by I'll throw him
The Penn'y delegates.
Nit!

McKinley—Ah, gentlemen, I thank you
For what you've said to-day;
You know that I'm relying
On every word you say.
Nit!

And, gentlemen, I hasten
To give you now a bit
Of news: to wit, you're booked
for
McKinley's Cabi-Nit!

—N. Y. Sun.

NIPPED IN THE BUD.

Scheme of "Steve" Elkins Fails to Go Through the Senate.

"Steve" Elkins and his former business associate in New Mexico, Delegate Catron, of that territory, are cast down over the failure of a political job which the house had indorsed and which they hoped would be accepted by the senate without question, but which was exposed and defeated by Mr. Hill with the aid of republican votes. Mr. Elkins, who once lived in New Mexico, and Mr. Catron, who is one of the prominent republicans of the territory, assuming that the next national election would result in a republican victory, conceived the idea of changing the date of the beginning of the next session of the territorial legislature from December to May, so that in the event of republican success a republican president might appoint territorial officers and thus take the control of legislation from the democrats. In pursuance of this scheme, a paragraph was inserted in the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill providing that the next session of the legislature should begin the first Monday in May, 1897, and each succeeding session on the first Monday in May of every odd numbered year thereafter, and forbidding the election or appointment or payment of any officer of either house of the legislature, except a translator and an interpreter. The present secretary of the territory, Lorion Miller, incurred the enmity of the republicans by his action at the last meeting of the territorial legislature in connection with a contested seat, and the job contemplated his retirement, as well as the overriding of public sentiment in the territory.

Of course the paragraph embodying the selfish motives of Mr. Elkins had no business in the appropriation bill. Mr. Hill says it was "sneaked" in; and the anxiety displayed by Mr. Elkins to have him explain the offensive term lends strength to the charge. The house had not a word to say in protest against the job, which may be explained by the activity of Mr. Catron, who has the reputation in New Mexico of being a past master in the art of political manipulation. That he and his senatorial friends came to grief is due alone to the fact that Mr. Hill had learned of their scheme from democrats in the territory, who rightly assumed that the New York senator would like nothing better than to expose and defeat it.—N. Y. Times.

—McKinley seems to have engendered a feeling of bitterness on the part of all the other candidates which will work very seriously against his chances in the convention. The impression prevails that he has carried the "grab" policy too far and has invaded the fields of his rivals without any adequate excuse. This has angered all the other candidates, and so they will all be more or less unfriendly to McKinley in the convention.—Boston Globe.

—Maj. McKinley and his logical bill led the republicans to the worst two defeats ever inflicted on the party since its organization 40 years ago.—Chicago Chronicle.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

A Democrat's Forecast of the Probable Outcome.

Forecasting the initial ballot in a national convention is always a hazardous undertaking. The anti-McKinley manager who essayed the work in the Chronicle of March 17 may have put the McKinley strength too high or too low. His estimate of 233 votes for McKinley might easily be too high if the credentials committee in the St. Louis convention is organized against the McKinley candidacy, but if that committee is organized on McKinley lines it will certainly be found much too low.

There will be nearly if not quite 100 contests coming up to St. Louis from the districts of the south. It is assumed that practically all of these will be decided against McKinley from the fact that the national republican committee, which will make up the temporary roll of delegates, may be supposed to seat the anti-McKinley men, constituting in this way a majority against McKinley in the temporary delegation from every southern state, which would, working in conjunction with the Morton, Quay, Reed, Allison, Cullom, Manderson and silver bullion states of the north, enable the anti-McKinley managers to organize the committee on credentials.

This line of management is entirely practicable if the anti-McKinley leaders stick together. But they will not so stick. If advance bulletins of the first ballot in St. Louis are now to become fashionable I will make one. McKinley will have 350 votes on that ballot. This can only be made possible through a contract between him and Quay and Platt, but my estimate is based upon the conviction that that contract will be made, just as one, evidently, has been made between McKinley and Foraker, in Ohio. With Quay and Platt assured of their potency under a McKinley administration, the national republican committee could not be used against the Ohioan in the south, even with Allison's own Clarkson in the secretaryship of that body.

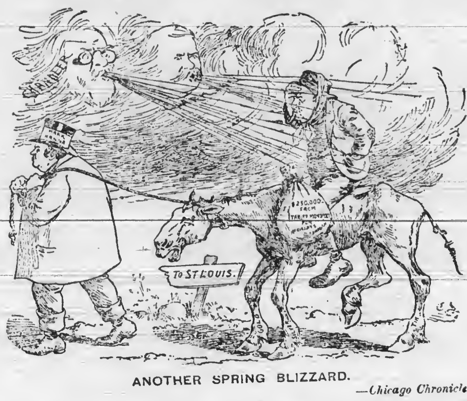
And in addition to such an invaluable service to McKinley on the first ballot, Platt and Quay, inspired by that quality of gratitude which is a lively sense of favors yet to come, could give McKinley enough votes out of the middle states to nominate him whenever Platt should drop Morton. He might drop him on the second ballot, or he might not. But time is not necessarily of the essence of such contracts as I am convinced McKinley has made, or will make, with Platt and Quay.

The question is not one of McKinley's political morals. There are managers in politics, as in pugilism. The managers of McKinley are the tariff plutocrats of this country—the men who made the McKinley law in 1890, which, as Mr. Carnegie has told us, was, as drafted by McKinley, simply an enacting clause, with blank schedules to be filled in by the representatives of "infant industries." They filled them in to such purpose that the country revolted against high protection. Nobody knows better than the tariff managers that the revolt is not over. Present hope of republican success is not due to a belief that a republican victory means a return to blank tariff schedules to be filled in by tariff plutocrats. A republican congress, with Allison in the white house, would never give the plutocrats what they want. In no other way by the election of McKinley can the country be convinced that McKinleyism is approved.

That fact explains the money power which is behind the McKinley candidacy. It explains the political power behind that candidacy. It explains the tremulous and fearsome assurances of Senator Cullom and Senator Aldrich and Mr. Clarkson that Mr. McKinley is not alone responsible for the McKinley law. But it is vain for them to appeal to the tariff plutocrats for help. The ox knoweth his owner, but the owner knoweth also his ox. The St. Louis convention will be a triumph of tariff plutocracy. Morton will be sacrificed. Allison will be slaughtered. McKinley will be nominated.—Chicago Chronicle.

—The trouble with the story about the bosses taking up Harrison to beat McKinley is that bosses hate Harrison a little worse than they hate McKinley. They are simply jealous of McKinley, but they hate Harrison for past injuries and the sure prospect of similar favors in the future.—Utica Observer.

—There are unmistakable signs of nervousness in the McKinley camp. That is only fair, for the major has been making the other fellows nervous for some time. The oftener Mark Hanna puts his ear to the ground the worse he will feel.—Detroit Free Press.



ANOTHER SPRING BLIZZARD.

—Chicago Chronicle.

HUMOROUS

—"In battle musicians are always kept in the rear." "That's not fair. Many of them richly deserve killing."—Chicago Record.

—Next.—"I wonder what part of a man's costume the new woman will adopt next?" "Probably the frock coat."—Detroit Free Press.

—She (fishing)—"I know, Alfred, I have my faults." He—"Oh, certainly." She (angrily)—"Indeed? Perhaps you'll tell me what they are?"—Tit-Bits.

—Flora—"Chollie told me last night that he believed I could break a man's heart with my smile." Laura—"Chollie was just talking. A man's heart is not like a mirror."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

—"The natural history class will now write down the names of 12 arctic animals," said the teacher in monotonous tones. Little Johnnie dashed off the following and handed his slate proudly to the teacher: "Six seals, five polar bears and one walrus."—N. Y. Evening Sun.

—Papa (busy with his accounts)—"I wish you wouldn't read aloud, Rachel. You disturb me." Miss Rachel—"This is the morning paper, papa. I'm reading 'Notes on Society.'" Papa—"So am I, child, and I've got some here that are awfully hard to collect."—Chicago Tribune.

—"That last load of coal you sent," said Mr. Slopay, with a most impressive manner, "was more than half slate." "Perhaps you may remember," retorted the coal man, with much spirit, "that you said, after you had ordered it, 'just slate this, will you?'"—Indianapolis Journal.

—The latest device of a Paris paper for attracting readers is the engagement of two eminent physicians to attend gratuitously upon its yearly subscribers. Recently the manager of the paper gave notice to one of the physicians "not to prescribe for X any more; his subscription has expired." The doctor replied: "So has X."—Tit-Bits.

BOORISHNESS ON THE RAIL.

Theories of the Cold Treatment of Fellow-Passengers by Men Otherwise Decent.

What is it that makes a decent man turn boor as soon as he enters a railroad car? If there were 30 double seats in a car and 30 men entered it each would sit by himself. Let him, if he chooses. But let the 31st man come in and ask "Is this seat engaged?" and the chances are that every answer he gets will be "Yes."

The other day a Hartford man bound for Boston asked six men who were sitting alone if the seats beside them were taken. Each answered "Yes," and yet five of the six rode clear through alone. Indeed, this habit has gone so far that, if a passenger moves along to make room for you, you look him over pretty carefully before you'll trust yourself with him, for fear he is a pickpocket. His unnatural demonstration of hospitality invites suspicion.

And this disposition of man to sit alone seems to be a matter of sex. Women do not behave that way—at least not in steamcars. In trolleys 12 women may start on one side of the car, but, after three, or even four, have gone, there's no more room, not even for another woman, than there was before. The remaining eight somehow spread out their skirts so as to look more crowded than before. But in the steamcar the average woman, especially if she has with her a big bundle, a baby, or a restless child, will take a half-seat beside a man, even if there's a whole seat vacant near by.

There are some men to whom this fate comes whenever they travel. It may be due to a Christian gentleness that beams in their eyes, but it may also be due to the cowardice that they can't conceal. At all events, they have the company, and, generally, before long, the bundle or the child is in their laps and they submit. One reason is that they have to. It is expected of them.

Maybe the cold treatment that one man gives another in the cars is his method of getting even for the way that women impose upon him. That is a plausible explanation and it's the only one that appears. Nor does this do away with the charge of boorishness. That can't be done away with, for it's there.—Hartford Courant.

Prehistoric Literature in America.

The only evidence that has ever been found going to show that the prehistoric cave-dwellers of America had a written language was discovered for the first time in the year 1891. In the summer of that year Profs. Shaler and Warren, the former of Yale college, made a thorough exploration of what is known as Falling Spring cave, in the Sequatchie valley, state of Tennessee, and therein found incontrovertible evidence that the prehistoric Americans were a race of civilized beings, possessing a literature and an alphabet. In one of the galleries of the cave they found the body of a human being, transformed to stone by the salts and silica in the dripping water, and near by a large oval slab, upon which were carved 467 words. In all these words, some of which contained nine and ten letters, only 32 different characters were used, proving conclusively that their alphabet was one of 32 letters only.—St. Louis Republic.

Fine Place for Quail.

"Any quail about this neighborhood?" inquired a tourist who was about to register at a western Texas hotel.

"Quail!" said the proprietor, with an indulgent smile, "they have got to be a nuisance. The cook complains that she can't throw a piece of refuse toast out of the back window but four or five fat quails fight to see which one shall be down on it."—Texas Sifter.

Ambiguous.

This inscription painted on a board adorns a fence in Kent:

"Notis—If any man's or woman's cows get into these hare otes his or her tail will be cut off as the case may be."—Toronto Register.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, April 15, 1896.

Advertising Rates:

One inch, one time..............................$1.00
Each additional time..............................25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50
☞Announcement of candidates for office, cash when ordered..........$5.00.

W. L. RIDDELL, - - Publisher.

Neighborhood News.

Walton.

In the editorial column of the RECORDER of the 8th inst., three or four shots were fired at the Democrats which they will do well to heed unless they prefer to meet defeat in the next November election to which the one lately held will be the merest, sort of a circumstance. It is hard to say what it is elsewhere, but right around in this region the arbitrary action of the Executive Committee comes in for a large amount of condemnation, expressed in terms of the deepest indignation, which grate harshly on refined ears. The old war-horses of the party, leaders and wheelers, absolutely refuse to stretch a trace, as it were, over an unknown road. To get up any enthusiasm it will be necessary to find some candidate who is in full sympathy with the people and who can not be wheeled into the gold standard schemes of the Falls City manipulators.

There have been two attempts to have a meeting of the Democratic Club; both have been abortive. Let some man, be he Gaunt, Dickerson, DeJarnett, Gray, or whoever he may be, come up here and make a speech in favor of bimetallism or remonitization of silver—of righting the great wrong of 1873, and it will require no guarantee to fill the hall to overflowing with fair women and brave men, whom desperate straits have driven to cast about for a new leader with convictions who shall lead them to the fray against the cohorts of monometallism, and take an old man's word for it, the tribunes of the people shall not stable their steeds in the stalls of the money changers. The time is auspicious, the farmer, the laborer and all the producers are ground into the very dust and they are ready, aye, willing to throw their lives into the mighty contest. In the language of the immortal Patrick Henry, "Our chains are already forged, their clanking may be heard in the cabinet at Washington—in the banking houses all over the land and in all the Temples of Mammon wherever found."

The crime of 1873 has no apologist to plead its innocence, but when the attempt is made to right that wrong the mercenaries of the country raise a howl of anguish and cry aloud, that times have changed and the great infamous crime must stand or their bonds and other certificates of indebtedness will lose some value and it will cause the letting go of the hold it has upon the throat of the people and possibly enable them to live in the future with some degree of comfort. To appropriate again from America's greatest orator, "The next gale that sweeps from the East, may bring to our ears the roar of some new calamities. Our brethern in the west are already in the field. Shall we lay supinely on our backs until our opponents have bound us hand and foot? Forbid it Almighty God, and give us freedom — — — — or give us death."

An arrangement has been made for two contests in declamation by the pupils of the Walton Institute (Mrs. Myers' school) on the one side and those of the Independence High school, (G. W. Dunlap, principal) of the other. The first effort will be at Independence and the prizes are a gold and silver medal; the second will be at this place and a prize of a silken banner will be awarded to the successful school.

Miss Adah Lermon started on Wednesday to pay a visit to friends at Bowling Green.

It seems that Diers & Hance had more in view than mere money making when they purchased the A. M. Edwards livery stable. They were envious of Dolph's lithe and active appearance and ardently desired to lessen their avoirdupoise, which they most certainly can accomplish if they chase the town over in order to run in the straggling and much abused "Dollar of the Dads"

It is reported that our P. M., has rented her house to John Richards and will probably board at the hotel.

The following question is submitted to the old man (editor) of the Recorder, your correspondent's answer being doubted. Can a minor hold any office, such as county clerk, notary public, sheriff, constable or magistrate in this State? If so what ones? A dozen stogas, made from pure, unadulturated, very lowest grade and darkest kind of tobacco depends on your decision.—[He can not—see sections 97 to 100 inclusive of the constitution.—ED.]

Petersburg.

A. J. Buchanan is all smiles. It's a girl.

The City of Louisville makes the fastest time of any steamer on western waters.

The Enquirer states that Hon. T. B. Mathews will make another race for Congress.

John Dennerline has resigned as marshal, and the town is free to do as it pleases, provided the grand jury does not make a raid.

John Burns says the Pauline has more than as large again tonnage as the Mayflower, and that she will be speedier than the Mayflower was.

Elder E. J. Curry, pastor of the Christian church here will preach at the Broadway Christian church, Louisville next Sunday morning and evening.

John Burns started to Cairo Monday.

The friends of Ira Wingate, of this place, have suggested that he make the race for sheriff, and he will, no doubt, make the race.

The Christian Endeavor social at the handsome residence of Major W. T. Stott on Broadway, was a grand success in every particular. Nearly 100 persons were in attendance, and a lengthy and most excellent programme was rendered. The lack of space prevents giving programme in full.

At the annual meeting of the Bank of Petersburg, last Thursday, a six per cent dividend was declared on paid up stock, and the following officers were elected: Wm. Appleton, president; R. Y. Randall, vice-president; Solen Early, J. M. Lassing, J. Frank Grant, Wm. Levi and S. G. Botts, directors.

Hon. J. Frank Grant has two old relics in the shape of newspapers. One is Dunlap's Packet or General Advertiser published at Philadelphia, July 8th, 1776. The other is the Ulster County Gazette, published at Kingston, N. Y., by Samuel Freer, January 4, 1800, and contains a full account of the death and burial of George Washington. These relics are well preserved, and are valued very highly by Mr. Grant.

DEL VECHO.

Mr. Frank Cox, formerly a citizen of our town, but now of Aurora, was here with his family on a visit Sunday.

Morris McWright is on the Bostona, running south. He is learning to engineer and has made his third trip. He is a boy likely to be heard from, of whom his father may well be proud.

The Workum had a good freight trip Saturday down the river. About 150 cases of eggs, corn, tobacco, &c.

Stephen Hynes, while chopping wood, was struck in the eye by a stick that made an ugly wound.

Mr. Barnett, our veterinarian, treated a horse for Levi Spencer, the cattle boss, but the remedies failed and the horse died. It was a very bad case.

James Jarrell and wife went out on Woolper to see his mother, last Sunday.

A great deal of coal has gone below during the recent high water.

The wheat is looking short and thin in these parts, but grass will be very early, with a nice warm rain.

Hathaway.

We are informed that O. J. Ryle is a candidate for jailer, and think there is no one who would fill the place so well. He has a host of friends and is loved by all who know him. He was one of Morgan's men and is a Democrat. He was a prisoner, once, during the war, so we are sure he would feed and attend to the prisoners well.

We have had some fine spring days since April appeared.

Potatoe planting is the order of the day. Farmers seem to have given up tobacco and turned their attention to potatoes.

Miss Annie Garrison, of Burlington, is visiting friends and relatives here.

Mrs. Mary Love was quite sick last week, but is better at present.

A. J. Utz and wife spent Easter with Nathen Clements and wife.

Born to Milton Weldon and wife, a girl.

There seems to be quite an attraction for Lafe Pressor over on the Big Bone pike. What can it be?

T. J. Stephens, while trying to open a vinegar barrel one day last week, mashed the end of his thumb nearly off, producing a most painful wound.

B. F. Rue and wife entertained several of their friends on the night of the 4th, inst.

Mrs. J. Q. Elstun and mother, Mrs. Reed, spent last Wednesday with Mrs. A. J. Utz.

Considerable plowing has been done in the last few days.

Miss Edna McElroy commenced the school here last Monday week.

Erlanger.

Rev. Huey will hold a revival meeting, beginning Monday night and ending Sunday evening, at the Baptist Church.

The Building Association sold several shares last Monday night.

The Y. M. I. had a very enjoyable calico party at their club rooms Saturday evening. Supper was served to all and an invitation to call again.

The Electric railway committee held a meeting at J. J. Weaver's office in Ludlow, looking over the surveys. Progress is being made and Mr. Weaver expects to complete the same by the middle of May.

Z. B. Smith has rented the Stillmacher residence, and John Hutchinson has taken possession of the Bierbaum place.

There is talk of having a meeting held at Konnerding's hall next Saturday evening to take steps towards having North Erlanger incorporated into a sixth class city.

A Koffee-Klatchthat was heldat Mrs. Isadore Hagen's residence on Erlanger Road, last Thursday evening, was well attended. An enjoyable time was had and the affair was a financial success.

The leap year party to be given by the young ladies at Erlanger town hall will take place April 16, and will be a brilliant affair.

Florence.

Florence is thinking seriously of having street lamps, which will be a great credit to the town.

The Mistletoe Euchre Club was never so beautifully entertained as it was last Wednesday evening by Mrs. Cloud and her charming daughter, Miss Alice. After a number of interesting games had been played a most delicious lunch was served. Among those present were Misses Katie Grogan, Ella Coleman, Ruy Dulaney, Bessie Snyder, and Jennie Myers; Messrs. Charley and Chester Souther, Irving Kyle and Harry Fisk.

Our town is now in possession of two first-class sample rooms.

Roy Wilber, of Erlanger, makes quite a number of visits to Florence of late, and has become quite a favorite.

Clif Hedges left, last Sunday to visit his grand-parents at Bullittsville.

Mrs. Rich spent Sunday with friends in Covington.

Mr. M. Kolb, of New York, is the guest of his brother, Father Kolb.

Mrs. Caravan and little daughter, are the guests of her aunt, Mrs. Cloud, at this place.

Will Neadspent a few days last week, with his parents.

Utzinger.

Jas. T. Gaines cut the end of one of his thumbs off.

The Cochran boys made 125 gallons of maple molasses.

Dr. George F. Smith is at home on a vacation.

Cropper & Gaines, the new firm seem to be doing a good business.

Miss Lou Aylor will teach the spring school at the Berkshire school house.

Sim Terrill has the contract for carrying the mail from here to Ludlow.

Robt. Aylor, jr., of Big Bone, was visiting his brother, Ezra, near here last week.

The Southern Mocking bird has made its appearance in this vicinity, and his sweet music has more charms than a Neilson.

W. H. Sebree made a flying visit to Milton, Ky., last week.

Wingate & Thompson bought a big lot of tobacco in Indiana, last week.

Three handsome young ladies made application for the Woolper school and the trustees were so smitten with the charms and intelligence of the ladies that they could not decide between them, so they told each one to canvass the district, and the one getting the largest number of scholars signed they would give the school to. Miss Artie Ryle secured the school.

On what day of the week and month was Christ crucified.

J. H. Bronston would make Kentucky a good governor—what you say Mr. Editor?—[Have given the matter no thought, yet.—ED.]

Mrs. G. W. Terrill has moved to her father's. Miss Ethel Terrill is in bad health.

Everett Helms has bought a three minute trotter and a bran new side-bar buggy. Now girls, look a leedie oud.

Jas. L. Green has been increasing his earthly possession by buying the Woolper store building.

Mathew Fleek has tobacco plants up, and the farmers seem to be making preparations for another big crop of the weed, although a great deal of it still remains in their hands, and what is bulked down will have to be taken up, as it will go through the sweating process in a few days now.

J. I. Wingate has returned from his trip down the river where he went with a boat load of produce. He says Capt. Beff Bradley is the owner of three or four steamers, and resides at Cairo, Ill.

Egbert Nichols, who has been employed in the C. & O. repair shops at Covington for the last six months, has moved back here.

Wm. Fleek attempted to cross Woolper, the other Sunday night, but the current was so strong that it washed his horse and buggy away. He finally reached shore to find that his horse had broken loose from the buggy and got out, but the buggy was a total wreck.

Isaac Zelph, a Jew huckster, tried to cross the back water at Ben Akins' crossing, one day last week. Isaac and the horse and wagon got out, but his chickens and tinware floated down toward the beautiful Ohio.

Harry Acra has moved to this neighborhood, and will farm J. F. Cason's land.

The RECORDER like bourbon whisky—improves with age.

A dwelling house belonging to G. C. Voshell at Plattsburg, burned down Sunday night.

Miss Mary White, a very handsome young lady of Hathaway, is visiting her brother, James, at Plattsburg.

Bullittsville.

Mr. John Hogan is now a partner in the J. L. Riley Mercantile Co., with Dr. L. H. Crisler as clerk.

Misses Maud and Ella Norman, two handsome young ladies of Union, were the guests of Mrs. C. S. Balsly, last week.

Mr. James Blanton, of Cincinnati, passed through town Sunday.

Mr. Newson, the affable agent for the St. Louis Wrought Iron Range Co. has sold quite a number of Home Comfort Ranges in this community.

Misses Lacy Kirtley, Eunie Duncan and Bertha Gaines were the guests of Miss Bessie Cropper, of North Bend, last Saturday and Sunday.

We are sorry to hear that Miss Sadie Kirtley has temporarily lost the use of her arms.

Belfield Graddy, who has had an attack of yellow jaundice, is much better.

Hebron.

Some farmers are done planting potatoes. G. O. Hafer has planted one acre in beans.

Walter Goodridge was visiting his sister at Francesville, Sunday.

The Hebron Sunday School will organize next Sunday at 3 p. m. W. O. Rouse is superintendent and Geo. O. Hafer, assistant.

Died—On the 11th inst., at her home near this place, Mrs. Margaret Aylor, after a brief illness. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Max Lentz, at the Hebron church, Sunday.

Bellevue.

Small grain is improving in appearance.

The farmers are lessening the acreage of tobacco, and increasing that of potatoes.

Mrs. Jonas Clore is in very poor health.

James Moreland moved from Mcville to the farm of Frank Hartman, near Gasburg.

The peachbloom will not come out in the dark moon, which is said to be an indication of a crop of fruit.

E. W. Rice is catching some very fine bass in his nets.

J. T. Marshall is buying a lot of Indian relics.

Rev. Hoever will occupy the Baptist pulpit at this place, on Sunday the 26th.

Robt. Rice and wife were the guests of T. L. Utz, Sunday.—Ephraim Aylor and wife were guests of Jonas Clore, last Sabbath.—Miss Gracie Rogers, of Louisville, is visiting her parents.

Constance.

Julius M. Utz left for Livingston county last Tuesday.

D. E. Castleman, of Burlington, was in town on last Thursday.

Esq. Wagstaff, of Florence, held court here last Thursday.

Capt. Kotmeyer and Rev. Blanched delivered eloquent lectures at the school house, last Thursday.

Our public school closed last Thursday, and Mr. Richards left for Indiana.

John Greens oldest boy was run over by an electric car, and had his left hand cut off.

A majority of Stringtown's population went to Burlington, Monday, as witnesses before the grand jury.

B. Brink's children have been down with measles.

Dr. M. H. Keyh, of the Higland Sanitarium, was visiting Dr. Murat last week.

Mrs. Branstrap, and daughter, of Cincinnati, were visiting Mrs. H. Kotmeyer, last week.

Wm. Tanner and George Rosen will play ball with the Home City team this season.

Richwood.

Mrs. Charles Cleek is on the sick list.

Wade Bedinger is attending school at Richwood.

A team belonging to M. L. Hedges became frightened at a locomotive and ran away, demolishing the wagon, but doing no other serious damage.

Willie Glackin intends to move to a farm belonging to O. F. Glackin.

The many friends of C. C. Snow, formerly of this neighborhood, will be sorry to learn that he has returned from Lincoln county in very poor health.

Miss Lizzie Roberts' school will close next week.

Mr. Cum Wilson is in the Big Bone neighborhood.

Rev. Davis preached at Erlanger, last Sunday night.

Queen & Crescent to Cincinnati for the opening ball game. Only 30 cents for the round trip from Erlanger to Cincinnati, Sunday, April 19th, to see the Louisvilles and Cincinnatis in the opening series of the series of the season. Special train leaves your station at 11 a. m. Returning leaves Cincinnati at 6:30 p. m. Ample accommodations for everybody. Take advantage of the low rate. Ask the agent for particulars.

W. C. Rinearson, G. P. A.

Painting & Repairing
Buggies AND Carriages
—REPAIRED AT THE MOST—
REASONABLE RATES.
☞GIVE ME A TRIAL.☜
I am also agent for the EMMERSON, FISHER BUGGY COMPANY.
C. ERNSTES, - - Hebron, Ky.

BLACKSMITHI'G.
—o—
A. J. CLAYTON
—Does all kinds of—
Smithing.
Always on hand and anxious to give satisfaction to all customers,
Horse Shoeing A SPECIALTY.
BURLINGTON, - KY.

Attention, Farmers!
We are handling the
Globe Fertilizer
and will sell it to you at
$26 Per Ton.
Money due September 1, 1896.
This is a high grade Fertilizer, the best on the market. Try it.
RIGGS BROS., Erlanger, Ky.

18 SPRING AND SUMMER 96
MILLINERY
☞All the Latest Ideas in ☞Spring and Summer
MILLINERY
Will always be found at our Store.
Ladies', Misses' and Children's Patterns.......................
HATS & BONNETS of artistic designs and from our own work rooms—. Stock up to date. Hats trimmed to order on short notice.
Prices Lower Than Ever.
You will find everything usually kept in a first-class
MILLINERY STORE.
Everything new in this season's goods. Our trimmers are of the best.
Your patronage is solicited.☜
Mrs. A. J. SWALLOW,
Main St., RISING SUN, IND.

FERTILIZER.

Farmers, I would be pleased to have your orders for Fertilizer this year. Our goods are graded up considerably for 1896, and we have the following goods at last year's prices:
Raw Bone Meal.
Fine Ground Bone.
Tobacco and Potatoes.
Acidulated Bone.
Ammoniated Bone.
Special Tobacco.
Miami Valley Phosphate.
Jones Reliable Phosphate.
Jewell Phosphate.
When you buy our goods you get the worth of your money, and you know I placed good goods on the Boone and Kenton county market in 1894 and 1895 for less money than any other firm.
B. F. ZIMMER, Gen. Agt.,
for The Jones Fertilizer Co.,
Constance, Ky.

Eggs for Sale.
Eggs for hatching—Barred Plymouth Rocks exclusively—pure bred, vigorous and healthy—strictly first-class. Stock in separate pens—No. 1, $1 per 13 eggs. No. 2, 50c per 15 eggs.
Mrs. R. O. Smith, Union, Ky.

Eggs and Poultry
I am now taking orders for thoroughbred Poultry and Eggs. First come, first served.
A. M. ACRA,
Burlington, Ky.

Election Notice.

The stockholders of the Burlington & Bellevue turnpike are hereby notified that an election will be held in the town of Burlington, Ky., Monday, May 4th, 1896, for the purpose of electing officers to serve the ensuing year.

S. P. BRADY, President.

"It's All Right."
They say, when you want the
BEST GOODS
and the most reasonable prices. Go to
IRA AYLOR'S,
Save money and your patience,
The Stock is new and has been bought at the best possible rates. Just call and see what we will do for you.
Very Truly,
IRA AYLOR,
Branch Store—UNION, KY. ERLANGER, KY.

STEPHENS & SCALES,
—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN—
Hardware, Cutlery, and Agricultural Implements,
Genuine Oliver Chilled & Steel Plows,
Bissell Chilled & Steel Hillside Plows,
Walking & Riding Cultivators,
Steel & Wood Gear Farm Wagons,
Champion Mower and Binders,
Ball Bearing Disk Harrows,
BARBED AND SMOOTH WIRE
AT THE LOWEST MARKET PRICE.
No. 26 Pike Street, - - - Covington, Ky.

BEST GOODS! LIVING PRICES!
Hardware,
Farm Machinery,
Fine Vehicles,
Harness.
HARRIS FITCH, Corner HIGH AND SHORT STREETS,
LAWRENCEBURG, INDIANA.

A. G. HECKMAN,
Florist, Plants, Bulbs, Seeds, & Metal Designs.
Fresh Cut Flowers Daily. Artistic Floral Designs a Specialty.
734 Madison Avenue,
Covington, - - - Kentucky.
25 Per Cent. Less than any Cincinnati House.

J. J. GEISEN,
Best and cheapest HAT STORE In the city.
Agency for WHITE STAR LAUNDRY.
615 Madison Ave., COVINGTON, KY.

METROPOLITAN COUPE AND LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,
E. H. BAKER, Proprietor
—(o)—
Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.
Telephone 580.

Go to JOHN L. KOCH,
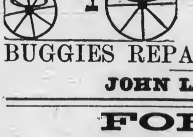
FOR
HARNESS, BUGGIES and Road CARTS



He having secured the Agency of the James & Mayer Buggies, Manufactured at Lawrenceburg, can sell you a Buggy at factory prices.
LOOK HERE
Good Top Buggy $40 and up.
Machine-made Buggy Harness, $5 and up.
Hand-made Buggy Harness, $7.50 up.
BUGGIES REPAINTED AND REPAIRED.
JOHN L. KOCH, Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

FOR SALE.
Lumber Yard and Stock at Cost.
—(o)—
J. C. GARVEY, Erlanger, Ky.,
Is closing out his Entire Stock of Lumber at and below COST for CASH. Those wishing to reap the benefits of these remarkable Low Prices and obtain first choice of goods must come early, as I do not intend to replace the stock, but, to quit the business. The closing out of the stock will begin
April 13th and Continue Sixty Days,
After which time I shall close the yard, rent or sell to any one desiring to reopen the business. I am at present about two-thirds stocked and can meet the demands of those who come early. Write or call on me for prices on the kinds of lumber you are in want of.
J. C. GARVEY, Erlanger, Ky.

Local News.

A very small crowd in town, Monday.

The farmers did considerable work last week.

The court house received its thorough spring cleaning, last week.

Two prisoners in jail waiting an investigation by the grand jury.

A good shower of rain would be very acceptable to the farmers now.

The wind and dust made it very unpleasant on the streets Monday.

For sale—Fresh Jersey cow, with second calf. J. P. UTZ, Limaburg, Ky.

Our young friend, A. C. Robert, of Verona, was delivering fruit trees here Monday.

Miss Schuster and Mr. Meeks will give a concert in Burlington, Saturday night, May 2d.

George Blyth had a good horse badly crippled by backing onto a disc harrow a few days ago.

Mumps has taken posse[illegible] of Rabbit Hash. There are about 20 cases, and many more will take them.

No stallions exhibited on the streets, last Monday. The court day horse show in this county is a thing of the past.

The local gardeners had a considerable move on last Saturday morning. That was the last day for planting potatoes.

The following sales were made on the street Monday: One suckling mule $15; two mares, $26 each; one horse, $26,50; one horse $31,50.

The Boone County Recorder is now the neatest of 6-column quartos. Bro. Riddell is certainly getting out a newsy paper.—Carrollton News.

Madison county, this State, has a colored waman who is an expert chimney builder, and she is growing rich on her income from that source.

In our last issue we omitted the name of County Clerk Adams from the committee who went to Frankfort to head off the increase of taxes in this county.

The work of erecting the buildings on the Florence fair grounds is progressing very satisfactorily, and everything will be in first-class order and ready for an up to date fair this fall.

There will be a series of meetings at Mt. Pleasant Church commencing next Friday evening. Basket meeting on Sunday. Elders J. V. Kirtland and H. M. Curry will be present.

The Boone County Recorder comes to us in an enlarged and much improved condition. We are glad to note the prosperity of our valuable exchange. It deserves it all.—Falmouth Guide.

Mr. D. B. Wallace, editor of the Warsaw Independent, has our sympathy in the death of his wife, which occurred at 2 o'clock a. m., on the 9th inst., of puerperal fever. The child survives its mother.

Elmer Beall is still wondering where he lost that five dollar bill last county court day. He had the bill spotted for a particular purpose, but that purpose did not eventuate, but the bill got away from him all the same.

Keene Robbins, who resided with his father down on Gunpowder, and who has been afflicted with consumption for several years, died on the 10th inst. The deceased was a single man, and was a patient sufferer.

At the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, last year, of the several varieties of Irish potatoes, the Marshall White, considering the yield, produced the largest per cent. of merchantable potatoes, 97. The yield was 239½ bushels per acre.

The examining trial of Levi Fox, charged with stealing John Hankins' money, was held before Judge Stephens on the 7th inst, and his bail fixed at $300, in default of which he was remanded to jail to await the action of the grand jury this week.

Deputy Sheriff Beall killed a very large Spreading Adder, down in the Taylorsport neighborhood, one day last week. Our local detective suggests that Duley had been across the river only a few hours before the supposed "slewing" of the reptile occurred.

The great favor in which Ayer's Pills are held all over the world has been well earned. They are easy and even pleasant to take, and for all complaints of the stomach, liver, and bowels, are the safest and most thorough medicine in pharmacy. Every dose effective.

L. S. Beemon threw the town into a state of excitement last Monday evening by setting fire to a large number of briar and brush piles in a field about a mile from town. At first it was thought someone's house was on fire, and several went out to render assistance.

The County Board of Health, composed of Drs. J. G. Furnish, president; M. J. Crouch, secretary, and H. C. Lassing and J. M. Grant, met on the 6th inst., and took steps to have the public privy near the jail remodeled so as not to endanger the health of the town.

The large residence of Ed Hunt, in Indiana, just below Laughery Island was destroyed by fire, last Sunday morning. Nearly all the contents of the building was saved. The fire was caused by defective flue. Mr. Hunt was so excited during the fire that it took two or three men to keep him out of the flames.

Queen City Jockey Club, Newport, Ky. On the occasion of the inaugural meeting of the Club, April 11th to 25th inclusive, tickets over the Queen and Crescent route will be sold to Cincinnati at 1⅓ fare for the round trip. Five days to return (but not later than April 26th.) Ask agents for particulars.

W. C. Rinearson, G. P. A.

FISCAL COURT.

The Fiscal Court was in session, Tuesday of last week, with the County Judge and all the Justices of the Peace present, and the following business was transacted:

Judge Stephens was appointed a committee to purchase half a dozen spitoons for use in the county court room.

J. F. Blyth allowed $500 with which to pay expenses of the County Infirmary.

The salary of County Superintendent Voshell was fixed at $500, Esquires H. Banuister, O. W. Gaines and Joe Wagstaff and Judge Stephens voting in favor of $500, and Esquires R. L. Roberts, T. E. Roberts and M. B. Green voting favor of fixing the salary at $400.

J. M. Lassing was appointed a committee to have the tin roof on the County Infirmary repaired.

The question of rodding the court house was continued.

The following claims were allowed: Edwards & Metcalfe, pauper coffins $12; T. E. Roberts, holding inquest, $3; W. W. Conner, pauper coffin, $6; C. L. Crisler, jailer's account, $45 60; J. M. Lassing, expenses of committee to Frankfort to go before Board of Equalization, $40 39.

Esquires Green, Banuister, Wagstaff, Gaines, R. L. Roberts and T. E. Roberts, and County Clerk Adams, each allowed $3 for one day's services.

ROAD SUPERVISORS.

The following is a list of those who drew prizes from the county Judge, in the shape of road supervisors:

Burlington—Wm.s Gaine, Legrand Gaines, Jas. L. Clore, Henry Phipps.

Bullittsville—C. W. Riley, Harry Kilgour, Geo. Hafer, Hubert Conuer, Petersburg—Harry Stevens, Alfred Chambers, jr., Stephen Gaines, Reuben Akin.

Bellevue—James Rogers, W. N. Arnold, Zinn Scott, Leonard Kite.

Carlton—Earnest Walton, Joseph Walton, Peter Hager, R. A. Stephens.

Hamilton—B. B. Allphin, jr., J. J. Story, Jacob Reib, R. L. Huey.

Union—R. D. Finnell, Ed Clegg, T. J. Stephens, N. C. Tanner.

Beaver—Joe W. Cleek, G. W. Moore, Ed Senlour, J. T. Dempsey.

Verona—J. R. Johnson, Chas. Waller, Jas. Waller, Chas. Griffith.

Walton—J. H. Rogers, Joe Fisher, Alonzo Stevenson, Andy Collins

Constance—Clinton Clutterbuck, Ab. Quick, John Peno, Milton Souther.

Florence—J. O. Carpenter, Henry Tanner, W. P. Beemon, Eli Suface.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Judge Green arrived Monday morning about 9 o'clock, and proceeded to open court at once. A very small crowd was present when the Judge took his seat. The first thing done was the empaneling and swearing the grand jury, which occupied only a short time.

The grand jury is composed of the following gentlemen:

J. S. Huey,
S. C. Johnson,
T. P. Crisler,
J. H. Mason,
M. P. Neal,
Wm. Bernard,
S. P. Brady,
Jerry Beemon,
Oscar Gaines,
Geo. E. Rouse,
Orlando Snyder,
A. P. Gregory.

The Judge gave the grand jury a charge that covered every phase of crime, and was emphatic on all the worst character of offenses. The charge consumed considerably over an hour, and was listened to attentively by the jurors.

The following attorneys came in from the neighboring counties Monday: J. S. Gaunt, Carrollton; Judge O'Hara, Shelly Rouse and Joel Baker, Covington; A. G. DeJarnett, Williamstown.

The O'Hara case was, by agreement, called Monday and continued on account of the absence of Dr. O'Hara, the defendant's father, who is at Hot Springs, Arkansas, where he is being treated for Bright's disease, which he has in a very bad form. Dr. O'Hara is an important witness for the defense.

W. T. German has charge of the door at the grand jury room.

Stanley Clutterbuck is assisting clerk J. W. Duncan keep the record.

John H. Mason, one of the grand jurors, is in his 62d year, and never served on a jury before.

Very little business was transacted Monday, no cases being set for trial on that day.

The jurors at the last term of the court have not yet received their pay.

Judge Green keeps the wheels of justice moving. He goes on the bench early in the morning and stays until late in the afternoon, and then goes back at night if necessary.

Senator R. B. Brown, of Warsaw, is attending court. He looks as though his sojourn at Frankfort was not very trying on him.

The attendance at court Tuesday was smaller than on Monday, no one except clients, witnesses and jurors being in attendance.

The petit jurors were empaneled as follows:

Jury No 1—J. W. Kite, Z T. Kelly, Jordon Beall, Lucien Dickerson, G. M. Allen, Davied Houston, Daniel Bedinger, Samuel Taylor, Nathan Smith, A. P. Collins, Owen Gaines, Lystra Smith, Jury No. 2—J. A. Botts, W. S. White, Jno. L. Fulton, W. P. Cropper.

Jury No. 2 was not completed when we went to press.

G. E. Carroll, of Beaver, escaped from jury service via deputy postmastership, while G. W. Sleet, of same place, was excused because of being deputy county clerk. J. H. Aylor (alias Tucker) was excused on account of being the father of fourteen children, and other reasons satisfactory to the court.

Atty. Grant Tomlin came down yesterday from Walton, to look after the interests of his clients.

Atty. Gray has been suffering with one of his eyes. and an oculist has pronounced the trouble of a serious character, and is treating him for it.

The indications are that no great amount of business will be disposed of at this term.

The grand jury is a body of mighty good men, but they are not apt to have much to do. Their session may be prolonged by having to wait on witnesses.

Some of the jurors from Walton and Verona neighborhoods had not reached town, yesterday, when the court commenced to organize the juries.

Rheumatism is causing Chas. White to do the limping act. It had him confined to his bed a few days since.

James H. Aylor's horse, Tucker, will be at Tony Cook's on Woolper creek, on Tuesday of each week during the season. There is the chance to get you a saddle horse.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Circuit Clerk Duncan was in the city, last Thursday.

J. J. Berkshire made a delivery of fruit trees here, last Friday.

Cashier R. C. Green and wife, of Walton, were in town last Friday.

Col. John Leathers, of Covington, was in Burlington, one day last week.

Chas. Riddell, of Williamstown, is the guest of his sister, Mrs. T. W. Finch

Dr. R. H. Crisler, of Ludlow, was called to see Mr. Thomas Goodridge, last Friday.

Mrs. Clay Baker, of the Walton neighborhood, died of consumption, last Saturday.

C. C. Hughes attended the Republican district convention at Falmouth, last Thursday.

Quite a number of young people enjoyed a dance at Mr. J. W. Duncan's, last Friday night.

W. C. Watts, of Bullittsville, was in town Monday. Will says he is now taking the rest cure.

Capt. DeJarnette, of Williamstown, came down Monday, in the interest of his client, James A. O'Hara.

Mrs. Judge Green came up with the Judge Monday, and she is the guest of D. E. Castleman and wife.

Mrs. Susie E. Saxton, of Bellevue, has been the guest of Mrs. Annabel Kirkpatrick for several days.

J. T. Judge, one of the handsomest and pleasantest young gentleman, of Union, made us a call last Friday.

Henry Feltman, of Covington, was in town, last Thursday, on business pertaining to the G. W. Terrill estate.

Mrs. B. W. Adams returned home, last Wednesday, after several days' visit in the Big Bone and Beaver neighborhoods.

We are glad to hear that Mr. W. A. Gaines, who has been quite ill for several weeks, is improving and will soon regain his usual health.

Henry Pate and John Gibson, of Rising Sun, were detrmined to see the fine horses, and came over again Monday and enjoyed the exhibition. Nit.

Leander Setters, of Tennessee, was in town Monday. Evidently the South agrees with him. He met many of his Boone co , acquaintances and friends.

Being Deputy County Clerk relieved E. E. Fry, of Verona, from service on the grand jury this week. Mr. Fry likes the office better than he did previous to Monday.

Mr. J. E. Duncan, of the Bullittsville neighborhood, was in town one day last week, complaining of having been frozen all winter. But we thought he displayed considerable life for an icicle.

B. W. Adams, J. M. Lassing. J. B. Berkshire and S. W. Tolin, went to Covington, Friday night, and heard Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge deliver a political speech. They were charmed by his eloquence.

John H. Aylor, of Gunpowder, was in town Friday. He is the greatest sheep fancier in the county, and is preparing to make a clean sweep of the premiums on sheep in his tour of the fairs this fall. Success to you, John.

A. B. Rouse was home from Hanover College, the latter part of last week. One of his schoolmates, a Mr. Gross, was his guest while at home. Arthur says that the reported hanging of Gov. Bradley in effigy did not occur at Hanover.

Read Hackstadt's new ad.

Some of the maple trees are sending forth leaves.

Hardly a Saturday afternoon crowd is attending court.

Jack Sandfard says that was a daffodil party at Mr. Duncan's the other evening.

This is pretty good summer weather, and the spring fever has attacked the '95 patients.

Mr. Daniel Bedinger, who has had advertised for sale some of the best land in this county, says that he has been offered nothing like a fair price for it.

The town of Walton, was shocked last Monday, when the news of the death of Warren Lermon was received. Young Lermon was, at one time, a resident of Walton, and at the time of his death he had charge of a force of railroad bridge hands, and a train on which they were riding went through a bridge at Bedford, Indiana.

BARGAINS: CLOSING OUT.

For the purpose of engaging in other business I am now selling my stock of goods below cost. If you want Bargains call early. The sales will continue from Saturday to Saturday until all the goods are sold. Having to go to the city every week I will continue to take orders for goods not in stock.

A. M. ACRA, Burlington, Ky.

SOUTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION,

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 8-11, 96.

The short line—the finest passenger equipment—the quickest schedules, and the most interesting scenery are found on the Queen & Crescent Route. Two superb vestibuled limited trains daily, Cincinnati and Lexington to Chattanooga, without change. Rates for the convention, one fare for the round trip from Cincinnati. Ask agents for Queen & Crescent tickets.

W. C. Rinearson, G. P. A.,
Cincinnati, O.

Election Notice.

There will be an election held at Hebron, Ky., May 4th, 1896, by the stockholders of the Bullittsville & Dry Creek Turnpike Road Co., to elect a president and five directors to serve the ensuing year.

J. C. CLORE, Sect'y.

NOTICE.

I hereby give notice that after thirty days I will apply to the Boone County Court to have my voting place changed from the Bellevue precinct to the Petersburg precinct, in Boone county.

BEN HENSLEY.

April 13, 1896.

LAND AND A LIVING.

Are best and cheapest in the Great New South. The northern farmer, artisan, merchant, manufacturer, are all hurrying into this rapidly developing country as pioneers. The open climate the low price of land, and its steady increase in value; the positive assurance of crops, with but little effort to raise them, all combine to turn all eyes southward. To assist in this movement. low railroad rates have been inaugurated over the Queen & Crescent Route from northern towns and villages, both round-trip and one-way tickets being on sale at about half the usual rates. Round-trips selling on April 7th 21st, and May 5th; one-way tickets on the first Tuesday in each month. Now is the time for you to go and see. Much has been said and written about the fruit, grains and grasses along The Queen & Crescent Route and about its climate—no blizzards and no sun-strokes. Summer nights are cool. Grass grows green ten months in the year. Less wear and tear in living than you've known in the north. A million acres of land at $3 to $5 an acre, on easy terms. Now is the time to go and see for yourself. Write to W. C. Rinearson, G. P. A. Queen & Crescent Route, Cincinnati, O., for such information as you desire before starting.

Notice to Delinquent Tax-PAYERS.

The lists of Delinquents for 1895 have been placed in the hands of Collecting Officers in the different magisterial districts for the convenience of the taxpayers. See your collector and pay your tax, or you will be reported to the Road Supervisor in your district and proceeded against according to law.

FISCAL COURT BOONE CO.,
By J. M. Lassing, Co. Atty.

FARM FOR SALE.

A good farm of 76 acres, between Bellevue and Petersburg, near Woolper ford—good house, good barn and necessary outbuildings. The sale will be on easy terms. OWEN ALLEN.

John Allison,

Undertaker

—AND—

Embalmer,

COR. PIKE & RUSSELL STS.,
COVINGTON, - KENTUCKY

Independent of Undertakers' Union.

A Fortune in Prizes!

$6,141.75

GIVEN AWAY IN

55 Separate Prizes

ONE PRIZE OF

$1,000

The NEW WEEKLY
ROCKY MOUNTAIN NEWS,
Denver, Colo.,

The greatest bona fide prize offer ever made in the West or South.

The News is the representative paper of the West—it is silver's champion; it is the people's advocate; it leads in thought, as in news. The Weekly has just been enlarged and improved; it contains the latest and fullest mining and mining stock news; it has special departments devoted to the Farm, the Household, Women and Children; all the brightest cartoons and livest comment of the daily edition are to be found in it; it presents in condensed form the doings of all the world—it is a family paper without a peer.

And the Weekly News is determined to have beyond all question the largest circulation of any paper between the Mississippi river and the Pacific coast. Therefore it offers to the persons sending in the greatest number of $1 yearly subscriptions before September 1st next these unequalled prizes.

REGULAR AGENTS' COMMISSION
ALLOWED IN ADDITION.
CONTEST BEGINS AT ONCE.
OPEN TO EVERYBODY EVERYWHERE.

For particulars address
The News Printing Co.,
Denver, Colo.

HEADQUARTERS FOR

SWEET PEAS.

Mixed Varieties { Per pound . . . . 40c. Half pound . . . 25c. Quarter pound . . 15c.

THE ONLY
DOUBLE SWEET PEA,
BRIDE OF NIAGARA.
(True to Name.)
Price—Packet 25c. Half packet 15c.

THE WONDERFUL
CRIMSON RAMBLER ROSE,
Only 15 Cents.

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE, 1896,
The Pioneer Seed Catalogue.

Tried and True Novelties.—Fuchsias, Roses, Blackberry, The Pearl Gooseberry, Potatoes, Earliest Tomato Known, etc.

Lithographs of Double Sweet Pea, Roses, Fuchsias, Blackberries, Raspberries, New Leader Tomato, Vegetables. Filled with good things, old and new. Full list of Flowers, Vegetables, Small Fruits, etc., with description and prices. Mailed on receipt of 10 cts., which may be deducted from first order—really Free,—or free with an order for any of the above.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

JAMES VICK'S SONS

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We would call the attention of the public to the fact that we are still doing business at the

OLD STAND

And are more than ever determined to sustain our well earned reputation of selling the Best Goods at the Lowest Possible Prices.

We have not room to quote prices, but if you will give us a call we will convince you of the fact.

Our Terms are Cash.

W. M. RACHAL & CO. Union, Ky.

BOEHMER, ROLF & CO.,

DEALERS IN

PAINTS, OILS AND GLASS,

63 and 65 Pike Street,

Covington, Telephone, 4212. Ky.

GEO. W. HILL & CO.,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

Flour, Tea, Tobacco AND FINE Cigars.

ALSO DEALERS IN WOOL AND COUNTRY PRODUCTS.

CALL SPECIAL ATTENTION TO OUR RETAIL DEPARTMENT.

27 and 29 PIKE ST. 26 and 28 W. SEVENTH ST.

Covington, - - Kentucky.

HARBICK & ROSE,

Undertakers AND Embalmers,

OFFICE AND STABLE, 637 and 639 SCOTT STREET,
COVINGTON, KY.

CARRIAGES FOR WEDDINGS AND PRIVATE HIRE.

Telephone, 4146. OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

GEO. G. RUSSELL,

WHOLESALE AND

RETAIL GROCER,

GRASS SEED,

Corner Pike & Washington Sts. Covington, Ky.

Tom Wilson, Salesman.

A. H. BRYANT. J. L. V. MCDONALD.

REMOVED AND READY FOR BUSINESS.

31 Pike Street,

THE OLD RELIABLE STOVE COMPANY,

Successor to J. M. CLARKSON.

Stoves, Grates, Fine Tin and

HOLLOW-WARE.

Our friends of Boone County will be Welcome to Make OUR STORE Their Headquarters when in Town.

J. L. V. McDONALD, - - - - Manager.

COVINGTON, KY.

MR. J. M. CLARKSON has his office with us.

SEEDS. SEEDS. SEEDS.

BUY YOUR

GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS

From W. J. RAMSEY & CO.,

We are the only House in Covington, handling a full Line of

GARDEN SEEDS.

708 Madison Avenue

COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.

Opposite Seventh Street Market House.

HANKINS, DAVIS & CO.,

GENERAL MERCHANTS,

HEBRON AND CONSTANCE, KY.

A good supply of Campbell's Creek Coal on hand at Constance at all times. A good supply of feed always in stock. Garden and Field Seeds.

UNDERTAKING.

is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance.

STRIKING EXAMPLES

Of Many Great Men Who Had Low Beginnings.

You Can Not Keep a Good Man Down—However Oppressed He is Bound to Rise—Sermon by Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, D.D.

Dr. Talmage chose for his text last Sunday Genesis xxxvii., 28: "They drew and lifted Joseph out of the pit and sold Joseph to the Ishmaelites for 20 pieces of silver." Genesis xiv., 26: He is governor over all the land of Egypt."

You can not keep a good man down. God has decreed for him a certain point of elevation. He will bring him to that though it cost him a thousand worlds. You sometimes find men fearful they will not be properly appreciated. Every man comes to be valued at just what he is worth. You can not write him up, and you can not write him down. The facts are powerfully illustrated in my subject. It would be an insult to suppose that you were not all familiar with the life of Joseph. How his jealous brothers threw him into a pit, but seeing a caravan of Arabian merchants trudging along on their camels, with spices and gums that loaded the air with aroma, sold their brother to these merchants, who carried him down into Egypt: Joseph there sold to Potiphar, a man of influence and office. How by Joseph's integrity he raised himself to high position in the realm, until under the false charge of a vile wretch he was hurled into the penitentiary. How in prison he commanded respect and confidence. How by the interpretation of Pharaoh's dream he was freed and became the chief man in the realm, the Bismarck of his century. How in the time of famine Joseph had the control of a magnificent storehouse which he had filled during seven years of plenty. How when his brothers, who had thrown him into the pit and sold him into captivity, applied for corn, he sent them home with the beasts of burden borne down under the heft of the corn sacks. How the sin against their brother which had so long been hidden came out at last and was returned by that brother's forgiveness and kindness—the only revenge he took.

You see, in the first place, that the world is compelled to honor Christian character. Potiphar was only a man of the world, yet Joseph rose in his estimation until all the affairs of that great house were committed to his charge. From his servant no honor or confidence was withheld. When Joseph was in prison he soon won the heart of the keeper, and though placed there for being a scoundrel, he soon convinced the jailer that he was an innocent and trustworthy man, and released from close confinement he became general superintendent of prison affairs. Wherever Joseph was placed, whether a servant in the house of Potiphar, or a prisoner in the penitentiary, he became the first man everywhere, and is an illustration of the truth I lay down, that the world is compelled to honor Christian character. There are those who affect to despise a religious life. They speak of it as a system of phlebotomy by which the man is bled of all his courage and nobility. They say he has bemeaned himself. They pretend to have no more confidence in him since his conversion than before his conversion. But all this is hypocrisy. There is a great deal of hypocrisy in the church and there is a great deal of hypocrisy outside the church. It is impossible for any man not to admire and confide in a man who shows that he has really become a child of God, and is what he professes to be. You can not despise a son of the Lord God Almighty. Of course we have no admiration for the sham of religion.

I was at a place a few hours after the ruffians had gone into the rail train and demanded that the passengers throw up their arms, and then these ruffians took the pocketbooks, and Satan comes and suggests to a man that he throw up his arms in hypocritical prayer and pretension, and then steals his soul. For the mere prentension of religion we have abhorrence. Redwald, the king, after baptism, had an altar for Christian sacrifice and an altar for sacrifice to the devils, and there are many men now attempting the same thing—half a heart for God and half a heart for the world—and it is a dead failure, and it is a caricature of religion, and the only successful assault ever made on Christianity is the inconsistency of its professors. You may have a contempt for pretension to religion, but when you behold the excellency of Jesus Christ come out in the life of one of his disciples, all that there is good and noble in your soul rises up into admiration, and you can not help it. Though that man be as far beneath you in estate as the Egyptian slave of whom we are discoursing was beneath his rulers, by an irrevocable law of your nature, Potiphar and Pharaoh will always esteem Joseph. When Eudoxia, the empress, threatened Chrysostom with death, he made the reply, "Tell the empress I fear nothing but sin." Such a scene as that compels the admiration of the world. There was something in Agrippa and Felix which demanded their respect for Paul, the rebel against government. I doubt not they would willingly have yielded their office and dignity for a thousandth part of that true heroism which beamed in the eye and beat in the heart of that unconquerable apostle. Paul did not cower before Felix; Felix cowered before Paul. The infidel and worldling are compelled to honor in their hearts, although they may not eulogize with their lips, a Christian firm in persecution, cheerful in poverty, trustful in losses, triumphant in death. I find Christian men in all professions and occupations, and I find them respected and honored and successful. John Frederick Oberlin alleviating ignorance and distress; Howard passing from dungeon to lazaretto with healing for the body and soul; Elizabeth Fry going to the profligacy of Newgate prison to shake its obduracy as the angel came to the prison at Philippi, driving open the doors and snapping loose the chain, as well as the lives of thousands of followers of Jesus who have devoted themselves to the temporal and spiritual welfare of the race, are monuments of the Christian religion that shall not crumble while the world lasts. A man said to me in the cars: "What is religion? Judging from the character many professors of religion I do not admire religion." I said: "Now, suppose we went to an artist in the city of Rome and while in his gallery asked him: 'What is the art of painting?' would he take us out in a low alley and show us a mere daub of a pretender at painting? or would he take us down into the corridors and show us the Reubens, and the Raphaels, and the Michael Angelos? When we asked him: 'What is the art of painting?' he would point to the works of these great masters, and say: 'That is painting.' Now, you propose to find the mere caricature of religion, to seek after that which is mere pretension of a holy life, and you call that religion. I point you to the splendid men and women whom this Gospel has blessed and lifted and crowned. Look at the masterpieces of Divine grace if you want to know what religion is."

We also learn from this story of Joseph that the result of persecution is elevation. Had it not been for his being sold into Egyptian bondage by his malicious brothers, and his false imprisonment, Joseph never would have become a governor. Everybody accepts the promise, "Blessed are they that are persecuted for righteousness sake, for theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven," but they do not realize the fact that this principle applies to wordly as well as spiritual success. It is true in all departments. Men rise to high positions through misrepresentation. Public abuse is all that some of our public men have had to rely upon for their elevation. It has brought to them what talent and executive force could not have achieved. Many of those who are making great effort for place and power will never succeed, just because they are not of enough importance to be abused. It is the nature of men—that is, of all generous and reasonable men—to gather about those who are persecuted and defend them, and they are apt to forget the fault of those who are the subjects of attacks while attempting to drive back the slanderers. Persecution is elevation. Helen Stirk, the Scotch martyr, standing with her husband at the place of execution, said: "Husband, let us rejoice to-day: we have lived together many happy years; this is the happiest time of all our life; you see we are to be happy together forever. Be brave, now, be brave. I will not say 'Good-night' to you, for we shall soon be in the kingdom of our father together." Persecution shows the hero and heroines. I go into another department and I find that those great denominations of Christians which have been most abused have spread the most rapidly. No good man was ever more violently maltreated than John Wesley—belied and caricatured and slandered until one day he stood in a pulpit in London, and a man arose in the audience and said: "You were drunk last night," and John Wesley said: "Thank God, the whole catalogue is now complete. I have been charged with everything but that!" His followers were hooted at and maligned and called by every detestable name that infernal ingenuity could invent, but the hotter the prosecution the more rapidly they spread, until you know what a great host they have become and what a tremendous force for God and the truth they are wielding all the world over! It was persecution that gave Scotland to Presbyterians. It was persecution that gave our land first to civil liberty and afterward to religious freedom. Yea, I might go further back and say it was persecution that gave the world the great salvation of the Gospel. The ribald mockery, the hungering and thirsting, the unjust charge, the ignominious death, when all the force of hell's fury was hurled against the cross, was the introduction of that religion which is yet to be the earth's deliverance and our eternal salvation. The state sometimes said to the church: "Come, take my hand and I will help you." What was the result? The church went back and it lost its estate of holiness, and it became ineffective. At other times the state said to the church: "I will crush you." What has been the result? After the storms have spent their fury the church, so far from having lost any of its force, has increased, and is worth infinitely more after the assault than before. Read all history and you will find that true. The church is far more indebted to the opposition of civil government than to its approval. The fires of the stake have only been the torches which Christ held in his hand, by the light of which the church has marched to her present, glorious position. In the sound of racks and implements of torture I hear the rumbling of the Gospel chariot. The scaffolds of martyrdom have been the stairs by which the church mounted.

Learn also from our subject that sin will come to exposure. Long, long ago had those brothers sold Joseph into Egypt. They had made the old father believe that his favorite child was dead. They had suppressed the crime, and it was a profound secret well kept by the brothers. But suddenly the secret is out. The old father hears that his son is in Egypt, having been sold there by the malice of his own brothers. How their cheeks must have burned and their hearts sunk at the flaming out of this long suppressed crime. The smallest iniquity has a thousand tongues, and they will blab out exposure. Saul was sent to destroy the Canaanites, their sheep and their oxen; but when he got down there among the pastures, he saw some fine sheep and oxen too fat to kill, so he thought he would steal them. Nobody would know it. He drove these stolen sheep and oxen toward home, but stopped to report to the prophet how he had executed his mission, when in the distance the sheep began to bleat and the oxen to bellow. The secret was out and Samuel said to the blushing and confused Saul: "What meaneth the bleating of the sheep that I hear and the bellowing of the cattle?" Ah! my hearer, you can not keep an iniquity still. At just the wrong time the sheep will bleat and the oxen will bellow. Achan can not steal the Babylonish garment without being stoned to death, nor Arnold betray his country without having his neck stretched. Look over the police arrests. These thieves, these burglars, these counterfeiters, these highwaymen, these assassins, they all thought they could bury their iniquity so deep down it would never come to resurrection; but there was some shoe that answered to the print in the soil, some false keys found in their possession, some bloody knife that whispered of the death, and the public indignation and the anathema of outraged law hurled them into the dungeon or hoisted them on the gallows. Francis I., king of France, stood counseling with his officers how he could take his army into Italy, when Ameril, the fool of the court, leaped out from a corner of the room and said: "You had better be consulting how you will get your army back;" and it was found that it was Francis I., and not Ameril was the fool. Instead of consulting as to the best way of getting into sin, you had better consult as to whether you will be able to get out of it. If the world does not expose you, you will tell it yourself. There is an awful power in an aroused conscience. A highwayman plunged out upon Whitefield as he rode along upon horseback, a sack of money upon the horse—money that he had raised for orphan asylums, and the highwayman put his hand upon the gold and Whitefield turned to him and said: "Touch that if you dare—that belongs to the Lord Jesus Christ." And the ruffian slunk into the forest. Conscience! Conscience! The ruffian had a pistol, but Whitefield shook at him the finger of doom. Do not think you can hide any great and protracted sin in your heart, my brother. In an unguarded moment it will slip off the lip, or some slight action may for the moment set ajar this door that you wanted to keep closed. But suppose that in this life you hide it, and you get along with this transgression burning in your heart, as a ship on fire within for days hinders the flames from bursting out by keeping down the hatches, yet at last, in the judgment that iniquity will blaze out before God and the universe.

Learn also from this subject that there is an inseparable connection between all events, however remote. The universe is only one thought of God. Those things which seem fragmentary and isolated are only different parts of that great thought. How far apart seemed these two events—Joseph to the Arabian merchant and his rulership of Egypt, yet you see in what a mysterious way God connects the two into one plan. So the events are linked together. You who are aged men look back and group together a thousand things in your life that once seemed isolated. One undivided chain of events reaches from the Garden of Eden to the Cross of Calvary, and thus up to the kingdom of Heaven. There is a relation between the smallest insect that hums in the summer air and the archangel on his throne. God can trace a direct ancestral line from the blue jay that this spring will build its nest in the tree behind the house to some one of the flock of birds which, when Noah hoisted the ark's window, with a whirr and a dash of bright wings went out to sing over Mt. Ararat. The tulips that bloom in the garden this spring were nursed by the snowflakes. The furthest star on one side of the universe could not look toward the furthest side of the universe and say: "You are no relation to me," for from that bright orb a voice of light would ring across the Heavens responding, "Yes, yes, we are sisters." Nothing in God's universe swings at loose ends. Accidents are only God's way of turning a leaf in the book of His eternal decrees. From our cradle to our grave there is a path all marked out. Each event in our life is connected with every other event in our life. Our losses may be the most direct road to our gain. Our defeat and our victory are twin brothers. The whole direction of your life was changed by something which at the time seemed to you trifling, while some occurrence which seemed tremendous affected you but little. God's plans are magnificent beyond comprehension. He molds us, and turns and directs us, and we know it not. Thousands of years are to Him as the flight of a shuttle. The most terrific occurrence does not make God tremble. The most triumphant achievement does not lift Him into rapture. That one great thought of God goes out through the centuries, and nations rise and fall, and eras pass, and the world changes, but God still keeps the undivided mastery, linking event to event and century to century. To God they are all one event, one history, one plan, one development, one system. Great and marvelous are thy works, Lord God Almighty! I was years ago in New Orleans at the exposition rooms, when a telegram was sent to the president of the United States at Washington, and we waited some 15 or 20 minutes and then the president's answer came back, and then the presiding officer waved his handkerchief and the signal was sent to Washington that we were ready to have the machinery of the exposition started, and the president put his finger on the electric button, and instantly the great Corliss wheel began to move—rumbling, rumbling, rolling, rolling. It was overwhelming, and 15,000 people clapped and shouted. Just one finger at Washington started that vast machinery, hundreds, and hundreds of miles away, and I thought then as I think now, that men sometimes touch influences that respond in the far distance, 40 years from now, 50 years from now, 1,000 years from now—1,000,000 years from now—one touch sounding through the ages.

FASHION'S FANCIES.

Hints Which May Prove of Benefit to Well-Dressed Women.

Fancy braids are still fashionably used on many styles of dress. Galloons both wide and narrow are made great use of, and are to be found in all the dark and some of the neutral tones, matching plain dress fabrics, the narrower braids usually finished with a tiny line of gold or silver at each edge, or they show shot, shaded, or Persian mixtures and other fancy combinations in keeping with the varied color schemes of the season.

Alpaca and mohair used to be counted an economical purchase, and perhaps they deserve the reputation they have acquired, but as now sold they can by no means be called cheap fabrics, and shoppers are often surprised to find them quite as expensive as silk, excepting, perhaps, the very finest qualities of silk. It must, however, be said for them that these materials are double width, and the fact that mohair is one of the most fashionable dress fabrics, if not quite the most fashionable, must not be overlooked when passing judgment upon it.

Trim, taut and preeminently smart are some of the new spring coats that are shaped to suit every form and fancy. Some are belted, others finished with strapped seams and a gay lining. Some are tight-fitting in the back, with loose box fronts, and again are open-fronted styles with immense revers that continue into spreading cape collars, the revers and collar covered with velvety white cloth, stitched with rows of white silk, or the facing is of white satin, wrought with colored beads and spangles.

A great variety of silky looking feather-weight fancy straws are used for spring hats and bonnets, many of which are in mixed colors, to match iridescent and Persian dress goods. Although reduced somewhat in size, the new round hats are nearly all picturesque in effect, although greatly overburdened with trimming. For dress occasions the tiny toy bonnet continues in undisturbed reign. Quantities of exquisite lace, pins, buckles, bands and slides of beadwork, pearl and gold gimp, and fascinating French flowers and foliage are used on these fresh creations of the milliner.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

HE MADE A DISCOVERY.

How Murat Halstead Was Embarrassed at Meeting a Certain Woman.

The best retort that Murat Halstead ever received is the one which is described as follows:

The old law firm of Goldsmith, Colston, Hoadley & Johnson was one of Mr. Halstead's pet subjects for sarcasm, politically and otherwise. He caught up a phrase which was attributed to the junior partner of the firm, Mr. Johnson, and after calling him a 'shining ornament of the Cincinnati bar,' for some time the brilliant Mr. Halstead went further and publicly dubbed Mr. Johnson 'the brass ornament of the Cincinnati bar.' This phrase was so attractive to Mr. Halstead that he never hesitated to use it every possible way. Halstead's day of reckoning came, however.

At an evening gathering Mr. Halstead, who was very susceptible to the charms of the fair sex, saw a handsome woman in the crowd superbly dressed, and with diamonds on her bosom and in her hair that would at once attract attention. He begged to be presented, and was—to Mrs. Johnson. It did not present itself to Mr. Halstead's mind, a little less steady at the time than usual, who the lady might be. He was curious about her.

"Johnson, Johnson?" he repeated, "I have never had the pleasure of meeting you before, Mrs. Johnson. Do you live in Ohio?"

"Oh, yes," replied the lady, brimming over with smiles; "I live in Cincinnati."

"Indeed!" said Mr. Halstead, quite astonished. "May I inquire of what family of Johnsons you are?"

The smiles were more merry this time.

"Mr. Halstead," she replied, "for 15 years I have been trying to polish up the 'brass ornament of the Cincinnati bar.'"—The Collector and Commercial Lawyer.

Joke on Her.

The other day in a street car a man was crowded along in his seat by the very fashionably-dressed young woman, who pushed herself in next to him. Her very full dress skirt further inconvenienced him, for she was so anxious to preserve it from wrinkling while sitting that she swung its folds carelessly over the lap of this man next to her. This person had his own ideas about proper retaliation. He deliberately adjusted his large, clumsily-shod feet so that they appeared to emerge from beneath the skirt. It was not long before they were noticed by some one opposite. The effect of the great, awkward feet, as if belonging to the pretty young woman, was indescribably ludicrous. The looker-on laughed and pointed out the joke to his neighbor. The looks and laughs spread, until all the rest of the car were craning their necks to see the fun. At last the girl herself became conscious of the jest at her expense. With a look like thunder she motioned to the conductor and hastily left them all. — Philadelphia Press.

Chicken Salad Dressing.

To make the dressing, first chill the plate, eggs and oil. Put the yolks of two eggs in a soup plate; add one-half teaspoonful of salt and stir with a silver fork until the yolks are well beaten and mixed; add the oil, drop by drop, being careful to always stir in the same direction, adding a drop of vinegar whenever the mixture begins to look oily. Add only acid enough to keep the dressing from separating. Two eggs will take a pint of oil. Season with salt and red pepper, and lemon juice, if necessary. A perfect mayonaise should not be too acid, as that destroys the flavor of the oil.—St. Louis Republic.

MR GLADSTONE AT WORK.

A Busy Man with a Passion for Saving the Minutes.

Three writing tables stand in the Hawarden castle library, and not one of them is for show. At one table Mrs. Gladstone writes many of her letters; the second, standing between two windows, is Mr. Gladstone's political desk. It looks now too neat, too tidy, by far, for the taste of any Gladstonian politician; the blotting pad has an unused air about it; the pen-wipers, racks, knives and other appurtenances stand about with a mathematical precision which means want of use, and there is neither note nor leaflet to be seen. The political desk, at all events for the present, must be numbered among the unemployed. But turn to the third, the literary writing table in the niche by the window, which is the most peaceful corner in that place of peace. You may there at any time during the day see a sight that will make your heart rejoice, and that will linger in your mind while pictures linger there at all.

The whole desk is covered with reference books of all shapes and sizes. They form a wall around three sides, and there is only an opening in the front of the desk just wide enough to allow Mr. Gladstone to place the sheets of foolscap on which he writes. There at this desk the G. O. M. sat lately all day long, with very short intervals, absorbed in "Bishop Butler," the man whom he gives a place among the best of men who have ever lived. The number of volumes required by Mr. Gladstone for reference is almost endless; he has often to search through one bulky tome after the other for some chance paragraph that may help him to elucidate a dark place in the "Analogy." There he sits absorbed in his work; now writing rapidly and eagerly for some minutes; now throwing down his pen and dipping into one of the books with which he has surrounded himself. Sometimes a specially favored artist has been admitted to take Mr. Gladstone's portrait, but it is on express condition that the "sitter" shall not in any way be distracted from his work. Not once does Mr. Gladstone's attention flag, though you may perchance be sauntering about the room in company with a member of his family, or be privileged to have a chat with Mrs. Gladstone as, in loving pride in all her husband's doings, she points out to you this, that or the other of the objects in the library to which attaches a special interest for him. Not that Mr. Gladstone is altogether indifferent to violent interruptions. In fact, he objects to them strongly, and he does not hesitate to say so. But when it happens that he himself has invited you to "come into my room," he forgive you if you appear while he is at work, and works on, undisturbed by your presence or your voice, with an absorption in his occupation which is nothing short of marvelous. Whatever the work may be which he has in hand, it takes hold of him so entirely that he has to be aroused from it as most people are roused from sleep. Mr. Gladstone does not, as a rule, care to talk of his idiosyncrasies, since he holds the sincere opinion that he is very much like the rest of the world. But he acknowledges that his faculty of concentration is his special gift, the one by which he is distinguished from other people.

Another reason why Mr. Gladstone gets through so astounding an amount of work is his extraordinary habit of using up odds and ends of time. One day, not long ago, he was going out for a drive into Chester after luncheon. His pudding was very hot, so he went away from the table, changed his clothes, got ready for the drive and came back and finished his pudding, thus saving the ten minutes during which his pudding cooled!

From ten a. m. to luncheon time Mr. Gladstone spends regularly in the library, hard at work. But when the gong sounds he puts down his pen, for promptness in everything has become a second nature to him, and he is probably in the dining-room before anyone else arrives. Petz alone, if that little creature can arrange it so, is as prompt as his master, for his two ruling passions—love for his master and love for his dinner—come into play at the sound of the luncheon gong. — Westminster Gazette.

AN ABSENT-MINDED MAN.

Why He Thought His Sandwich Was Dry and Tasteless.

The absent-minded man took his seat at the restaurant table, and, as usual, buried his face at once in a newspaper. A waiter placed a bill-of-fare, a napkin and a knife and fork in front of him and stood two or three minutes unnoticed before asking:

"What shall I bring you, sir?"

"What's that?" said the absent-minded man, starting up suddenly, not remembering what it was all about.

"What do you want for lunch, sir?" the waiter asked again.

"Oh! yes," said the absent-minded, trying to collect his wits. "Bring me a cup of coffee and a ham sandwich."

The waiter supplied the order and put a large pasteboard check for it down on the table, the absent-minded man continuing to read his paper. The waiter went away to attend to the wants of other people, and about 15 minutes later came back.

"Do you wish anything more?" he asked, politely.

"Yes," snapped the absent-minded man, somewhat viciously. "Go and get me a fresh ham sandwich. The one you brought me was as dry as a bone."

"Why, here is the sandwich I brought, sir," said the waiter, pushing the plate toward him. "You've eaten the check."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Indispensable.

"I don't think I want a cyclopedia," said the woman of the house, "but if you have got any nice book for children—"

"Great Scott, madam!" exclaimed the unblushing book agent. "We use this cyclopedia for a children's book at our house altogether. They sit on it at the table."—Chicago Tribune.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

—According to the latest school census in New York 70,000 fewer children were in attendance at the schools than a year ago.

—Mgr. Agostino Caprara, the advocate of the devil, has just died at Rome. The duty of the advocatus diaboli is to present the objections to the canonization of any person proposed as a new saint and to cast doubts on his miracles, while the advocatus Dei takes the other side.

—Rev. Dr. Jacob Cooper, professor of logic in Rutgers college, is to be Mr. Gladstone's American editor, or, rather, editor in America. Dr. Cooper suggested the Butler book to Mr. Gladstone and has revised numerous articles written by the grand old man.

—There were 114,439 fewer children being educated in French primary schools than there were five years ago, according to the last report of the minister of public instruction, while in the five years the number of pupils in the schools of the Christian Brothers nearly doubled. The Brothers are now teaching 1,365,886 children, with no aid from the government.

—Rev. John Watson, M. A., minister of Sefton Park Presbyterian church, Liverpool, more widely known as "Ian Maclaren," has received from the University of St. Andrews the degree of doctor of divinity. "The most ancient university," as the late Lord Selborne once said, "in a land whose citizens are distinguished in every sphere in which distinction can be gained," has a happy way of anticipating the larger degree-granting institutions in its recognition of merit.

—The "Costers' Parson" is dead. It is not too much to say that more than any other Christian worker of recent times Rev. A. B. Goulden succeeded in breaking down the barrier of sullen reserve that those who labor among the London poor have found so difficult to overcome. He won first the confidence and then the affections of an almost unapproachable class, and the Church of St. Alphege, in Southwark, became the temple of the most thoroughly working-class congregation in London.

—An "experience social" was held by the young women of the Methodist church in Coldwater, Mich., recently, in which the usual conditions of things was reversed, because the young women were paid for the experience they acquired, instead of themselves paying steeply for the privilege of getting it. They shined shoes, tended babies, split kindling wood, and one or two shaved and cut the hair of a few fearless men who attended the social.

STEAL INVENTIONS.

Pirates in the World of Discovery Who Thrive Upon Stolen Ideas.

As Thomas A. Edison watched the pumping of air from a glass tube in his laboratory a day or two ago a man said to him:

"You patent every little thing you discover, don't you, Mr. Edison?"

"I do," said Mr. Edison. "And do you know why I do it?"

"I suppose you do it so you will reap the benefit of your discovery," was the reply.

"I thought you'd say that," said Mr. Edison; "and I don't suppose you will believe me when I tell you it isn't so. But it isn't so, nevertheless. I discover a great many things that I would be very glad to give to the public for nothing, but I don't dare. I patent these things to save myself from defending lawsuits. There are a lot of sharks in this world who are continually on the lookout for new things, and when one of them hears of something new he hustles to the patent office to see if it is patented. If it isn't he claims it as an original discovery and files his claim. Then he will turn right around and, like as not, begin suit against the very man who invented the things for making or using it. The inventor will say: 'But I discovered this thing first; I am the inventor.' He is referred to the patent office, where he finds the official claim of original invention. The fact that the papers are filed long after he made his discovery does not help him, for all the other man does is to hire a fellow to swear that he made the discovery a month or two prior to the date the inventor claims. It sounds ridiculous, probaly, but it is a fact, that there are often races between the inventors and these sharks to reach the patent office, the sharks having had early information about the inventor's discovery. There are many such races, and thousands of dollars depend on each one. What I say is literally true. I patent things, and no doubt, many other inventors patent things, just to save defending lawsuits."—N. Y. Sun.

A Touchy Ruler.

Emperor William is something of a tartar when it comes to himself being discussed. Leze majesty in Germany is a curious thing. A man in Cologne last fall was discussing the American constitution. He had just returned from America and was eloquent in our praise. Then going on to discuss the kaiser, he began: "As for the kaiser—," and stopped, realizing his danger. But he was overheard and denounced to the police, arrested, tried and sentenced to three months' imprisonment for what he was evidently going to say. At Danzig a man was called upon to appraise a plaster bust of the empress. He said the bust was not worth a mark. He shared the fate of the first individual. Last summer at Bonn a man in a pleasure party said: "What a fool that kaiser is!" He was arrested and taken to the police station, but was able to prove that he had been speaking of a man named Kaiser instead of the emperor. A common mode of concealing their views from servants, who are perhaps, spies, is for persons when talking of the kaiser to call him Herr Muller. Speech was freer under Louis the Great in France 200 years ago than in Germany to-day under William.—Chicago News.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS.

DURABLE HAY SHED.

An Investment Which No Progressive Man Will Ever Regret.

The yearly losses of western farmers in hay and fodder, through exposure to the weather, aggregate an enormous amount. Extensive inquiry convinces me that nearly or quite one-fourth of the feeding value of all the hay and fodder cut and put in stacks, ricks and shocks is thus sacrificed. It is nothing uncommon to see a whole meadow of little misshapen stacks and ricks so damaged and weather-beaten as not to be worth over half what it would have been if properly secured in the barn, and kept in first-class condition.

The best and strongest cheap hay shed I have seen is that shown in the accompanying cuts. Figure 1 is an end view of the framing. Posts A A, of the heigh required, say 16 to 20 feet long, are set in the ground to form the framing of the shed, while other similar posts, E E, are set four feet out from the former—that is, at the bottom, though at the top they are brought together. The inner posts, A A, should lean outward, so as to make the horizontal width along the dotted line, F, two feet more than the floor width at H. The posts A and E are placed directly opposite each other, and braced together as indicated at Y. The rafters may be of the usual structure, which would require cross ties, or joists, at F; or else a truss frame may be made as indicated at B B and C. A roof on such a truss frame will not spread, and the hay carrier may be swung at D.

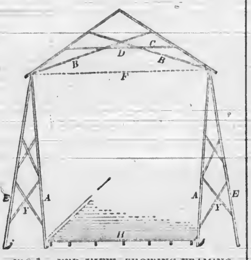

FIG. 1.—END VIEW, SHOWING FRAMING.

Fig. 2 represents the shed weather-boarded down to within six feet of the floor. The door, A, may be hinged so as to swing down, or may be made double and open into the barn. In either case the space for admitting the hay should be at least six feet square, and, in fact, eight feet is better. The rail for the hay carrier would extend out at B, if truss roof is used; in ordinary roof, the carrier would be at top of rafters. If long enough posts (A and E, Fig. 1) may not be had, use the longest available 2x6 pieces, and spike strongly the lower ends to short posts placed well in the ground.

A drive crosswise through this shed would be more convenient in many ways. If the hay is to be baled, the bales could be conveniently stored. If intending to bale, put the hay into the shed in sections, ten to twelve feet long, the entire width of the shed, as it will be much more convenient that way for getting out. Indeed, it will be the better way even if the hay is to be hauled out, in which case arrange the floor so as to back the wagon under at K, Fig. 2. A shed of this style can be built 20 feet wide and 18 feet high, at a cost of only $2 to $2.50 for each ton of contents, and it will last 20 years. The siding, S S, may be of cheap material, as the slight slant inward will prevent the water from running in. The floor, for economy's sake, may be of rails or poles.

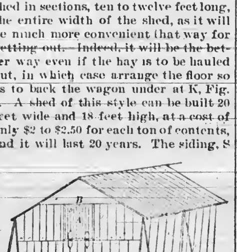

FIG. 2.—SHOWING WEATHER-BOARDING, DOOR, ETC.

The practice of cutting up and shredding the fodder is rapidly gaining ground. A shed built built on the foregoing plan would answer admirably for storing such feed. Slats would have to be nailed across the lower openings, of course. The elevator would carry the cut fodder in at the door, A. It is hardly necessary to say that when barn room and protection for stock are to be taken into account, in addition to economy of handling, it is cheaper to so construct the building as to give up the entire floor space to stock, using only the upper part for feed.—G. W. Waters, in St. Louis Journal of Agriculture.

NOTES FOR BEEKEEPERS.

Bees, small fruit and poultry make a good combination.

The queen bee is the only perfectly developed female in the hive.

The queen lives several years and is useful as a laying queen for three years.

A young queen is more liable to produce a working progeny and an old one drones.

In the spring if a frame of dirty comb is put in the hive the bees will clean it up and make it fit for use.

Worker bees are undeveloped female bees, and are hatched from the same kind of eggs that the queens are.

A good, strong colony of bees, located where there is plenty of honey-producing flowers will, with good management, produce 100 pounds of comb honey and still allow another strong colony to be made from it.—St. Louis Republic.

SERVIAN BEE FARMS.

They Are to Be Conducted on Strictly Scientific Principles.

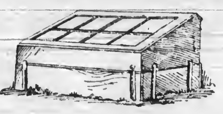
A new industrial department of great interest has been taken in Servia, where a "society for bee and fruit culture" has been established, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. This society seeks to introduce a system of beekeeping on scientific principles, and of developing the industry on a profitable basis throughout that country, where, until lately, the peasants have been in the habit of keeping their bees in conical straw skeps daubed with mud or plaster, and destroying the bees to obtain the honey. It is probable that the society will provide the peasants with cheap straw skeps with supers, as well as bar-framed hives and other desirable agricultural appliances. The farm of the society contains about 200 hives, placed in regular rows over the ground, six feet six inches from each other, facing north. These hives are all on the bar-frame principle, and of the pattern generally known as Dzierzon hives, and they contain about 80 pounds of honey in the comb when full. They are made of wood, with draw sides, and cost about $2.25 each. The bees appear to be a species of the common bee (Apis mellifica), but are rather small in size, and unusually tractable. The Italian bee (Apis ligustica) does not succeed well in Servia, becoming quickly merged into the indigenous stock.

The bee farm is provided with two centrifugal honey-extractors of very simple design, but perfectly practical. After extraction, the honey is put into glass bottles, with neat screw tops, imported from Austria, containing respectively half pound, one pound and two pounds. The price of the honey is about 17 cents a pound, exclusive of the bottle, for which an extra charge is made. The wax is sold to the wax dealers for making into church candles, and realizes about 30 cents a pound. The importance of encouraging bee culture is evidently fully realized by the members of this society and others interested, and the introduction of a law is in contemplation obliging all priests, schoolmasters and certain others holding employment under the government to turn their attention to the keeping of bees.

SHELTER FOR CHICKS.

Excellent Device for Keeping the Brood Warm and Comfortable.

It is not a difficult matter to hatch out chicks early with hens. It is a more difficult matter to make them live and grow when hatched in cold weather. They must stay under the hen almost constantly in order to keep warm, but after a few days the hen will not continually brood them, even if cold, and the chicks become chilled. The engraving shows a device for keeping the brood warm. It is a coop with glass top set on top of a pen filled with heating horse manure. It is, in fact, a coop on top of a hot bed. The bottom of the coop is of thin boards, so that sufficient warmth will go up into the coop to make it very comfortable. The hen and the chicks are placed inside and sand and chaff given to scratch in. A score of early chicks can thus be raised that will set to laying early in the fall.—Orange Judd Farmer.



Indigestion in Poultry.

Indigestion is one of the commonest troubles of fowls and one of the most easily prevented. Grit takes the place of teeth with fowls. It requires to be sharp in order to grind up the food and prepare it for digestion. Yet how often is the supply deficient? Crushed oyster shells or sharp gravel should be accessible to the hens. Acidity of the stomach is the result of indigestion. It may be corrected by mixing very fine pulverized charcoal with the food or by keeping a supply of broken charcoal in the neighborhood of the fowls. One of the best methods of giving it is to char a couple of corncobs once a week in the oven and then let the fowls have them to peck at. The feeding of charcoal is excellent at all stages of the hen's existence, but it is particularly desirable when the fattening process is going on.

Feeding Bees for Profit.

Many beekeepers must change their location, go to the flowers, or change their methods of management. The beekeeping public says at present, and perhaps always will say, that sugar-honey must not be produced, but there is no objection to bees living on 4 cent sugar instead of 15-cent honey. It has been estimated, and we think fairly, that a colony of bees consume 60 or 70 pounds of honey during the year. If a good portion of this can be cheap sugar instead of high-priced honey, it may make all the difference between a fair profit and a serious loss. A change to a better location is preferable, if a change can be made, as there is more profit in plenty of honey from natural sources than in exchanging sugar for honey in a poor locality.—Southern Cultivator.

The Control of Swarming.

To control swarming, remove one of the prime factors. Brood is the only factor we can remove and not defeat our object—honey. The removal of brood, instead of decreasing the honey yield, rather increases it. We may remove the brood by direct confiscation, or we can do it more gradually by the removal of the queen. The first method would be better where the flow is very short and profuse, the second better where the flows lasts 40 to 60 or more days. The cause of swarming is instinct; its control, broodlessness. Other methods at times seem effective, but the only method of controlling swarming that is at all times a success, is broodlessness.—Southern Cultivator.

SPAIN'S POLITICAL PRISONERS.

The Tortures Inflicted Upon Suspects in the Old Moorish Town of Ceuta.

From time to time the horrors of slave-dealing and the barbarism with which prisoners are still treated in certain parts of the world have been exposed to the public. There remains yet, however, a spot within 20 miles of English territory where such terrible sufferings and hideous tortures are undergone by human beings as to be almost incredible. This is at Ceuta, an old Moorish town in Morocco surrounded by a chain of fortresses which make it almost impregnable.

The place was built by the Moors in 945, on the side of the ancient mountain Abyla. All the fiendish ingenuity of which they were masters was exerted to invent and construct as many solitary dungeons and horrible torture chambers as possible. Just as it was in those dark ages, with as many improvements as were added before the Spaniards took possession in 1840, so it is to this day.

The town to Spain is what Siberia is to Russia, but infinitely more horrible. Here political prisoners and persons whom the government suspects are transported. As a rule the "suspects" are prominent and respectable citizens, who, however, have committed no crime, and against whom no charge can be brought. No suspicious papers have been found in their possession; they have no secret weapons; they have neither made rebellious speeches nor encouraged insurrection.

Since they have committed no crime they cannot be tried in the orthodox manner, nor can they be executed. Nevertheless, they are dangerous—they must be put out of the way. Therefore, they are spirited to a dungeon in Ceuta, where they will be safe. The dungeons are hewn out of the solid rock beneath the fortress, and run in tiers 50 or 60 feet deep. They measure on an average eight feet square. The approach is made through the floor of the fortress, down long, winding stairs. The dungeons line either side of damp alleys, the only openings being a small hole about a foot from the ground.

It is through this hole, enlarged for the occasion, that the prisoner enters his cell, followed by armed keepers and a blacksmith. He is thrown on his back and chains are welded from his ankles into the solid rock. The keepers then leave him and the hole is blocked up with fresh masonry. The dungeon is reeking with damp, is infested with vermin and absolutely dark. Scanty scraps of food are occasionally passed through the opening by the keepers.

For a whole year the prisoner is left to rot in the dungeon without seeing a human face. Naked and starved he crouches in the darkest corner, awaiting death. At the end of a year's time the keepers and blacksmith again enter the cell to see whether the captive is still alive, and that the chains are in good condition, possibly to add fresh ones.—Chicago News.

THIRTY-EIGHT YEARS OVER 100.

Time Seems to Have No Effect on This Man, Feodorovitch Kouzmin.

Ivan Feodorovitch Kouzmin is, according to the Russian authorities, the oldest man in the world. This seems a rather broad statement, but the records are there to show that Ivan first saw the light of day on October 21 (old style), 1757, which would make him 138 years of age next birthday. One hundred and thirty-eight years of age!

Late last September Gospodin Lomonossof, a member of the Moskovski Viedomosti editorial staff, happened to stop at a wayside inn near the village of Dukova, in the government of Kostrama, and there met an aged son of Ivan and became interested. Having satisfied himself that Ivan Kouzmin, for he it was, was telling the truth about his age and having obtained some data as to the aged peasant's probable birthplace, Lomonossoff set to work to discover, if possible, the entry of his baptism.

This required an unusual amount of labor and research, but finally the church where this ceremony took place was found and the archives containing the entry were brought to light. There was the full name and the date, and, curious to relate, an addenda by the officiating priest to the effect that God had blessed the child with the holy sign of the cross beneath the right shoulder blade, and thus marked him for his own. A subsequent examination of old Ivan's body revealed this peculiar mark, a growth of warty substance, slightly resembling the Greek cross seen on the cupolas of all churches of the eastern orthodox faith.

So there could be no mistake about it! Ivan Feodorovitch Kouzim was 137 years of age! The records showed it, and his own words told the story still more eloquently. Here was a veteran, who, though entirely illiterate and barely able to understand more than the requirements of a peasant's daily routine, could, in his lucid moments, recall the happenings of a century ago. Ivan and his son, it may be said, very quickly benefited by this sudden bound into fame.—N. Y. World.

A Boy's Rapid and Fatal Growth.

Patrick Casey, a young Bridgeport boy, in the middle of August last was five feet high. He then began to shoot upward, and kept at it until the middle of the following October, when he was six feet three inches. This was an average of a quarter of an inch a day, or nearly seven feet a year. His age then was 17 years. Casey was unable to withstand this enormous strain upon his constitution, and he died the following November. Before his death his hair turned from red to jet black. The physicians accounted for the change on the theory that the tincture of iron that had given to him as a tonic had entered into his blood and acted upon the hair. His case puzzled the doctors, but no autopsy was held on the remains, owing to the objections of the family.—Boston Post.

SWAPPED AWAY HIS WIFE.

A Little Family Complication Amicably Arranged.

The very unusual story of swapping a daughter for a wife is reported from Toledo, Wash., says the New York World. A farmer named Thompson lost his wife a short time ago. She left him a little baby girl. The child he took to a neighbor by the name of Putnam to be cared for. Of course frequent visits were made to see how the baby was getting along.

Mrs. Putnam was quite a comely person and very soon attracted the attention of the widowed farmer. Then he soon learned to love her and, worst of all, his love was reciprocated. The husband discovered the situation The lovers naturally expected a scene but there was none.

Instead of making the neighboring hills resound with jealous rage Putnam called upon Thompson and they discussed the matter in a business-like manner. Putnam professed to be tired of his wife and said he would as lief that some other fellow would take her away as not; but he wanted something in return. He wanted some one around the house to minister to his wants; some one he could learn to love. Thompson had a daughter who suited him very well and, if it was just the same, he was willing to trade his wife for her. That suited Thompson and the girl, too. So a bargain was struck and the exchange made. Thompson and Mrs Putnam went to Aberdeen and the girl to Castle Rock.

KNOW THYSELF.

Science Helps You to Be Your Own Doctor.

The Story of a Woman Who Kept Posted on the Work of Science and Saved Her Own Life.

From the Era, Bradford, Pa.

Too few people are acquainted with the rapid advance of medical science, and too many doctors are still plodding in the old paths. Once it comes to pass that people know themselves, that all physicians are abreast of the world's knowledge, much of our suffering will come to an end. Medical scientists are not delving into the depths of knowledge for the mere benefit of brother physicians, but for the benefit of the world. They place in the hands of the well man a means of keeping well, in the hands of the sick a means of recovery. To the parent they give the power of saving the child. Science is working for you—will you accept the proffered help?

Mrs. George Rowend, an estimable lady who resides at No. 276 East Main Street, has cause to feel grateful toward the science of medicine.

One day recently, a reporter, learning that Mrs. Rowend had been greatly benefited by the use of a new medicine, interviewed her. She stated that she had been suffering with a female trouble for many years. She had been doctored for the ailment for a long time—in fact, nearly all her life—and had never received anything more than temporary relief. During the last three years her condition grew worse and was aggravated by an affection of the heart. Her health was so poor that she found it almost impossible to perform her household duties.

"I never believed in proprietary medicines," said Mrs. Rowend, "but one day last fall I read an article in a newspaper which told of the cures effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to try the medicine. Before I had taken the contents of one box I began to feel better. The depressing weakness which had bothered me for so many years began to disappear, and the action of the heart at once became stronger and more regular.

"I took nine boxes of the pills and I am now feeling better than I have for several years, and I have unbounded faith in the medicine."

Mrs. Rowend is steadily gaining in health and strength and gives all the credit for her restoration to health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

WHYSO—"This physiognomist says that aggressive, impulsive people generally have black eyes." KNOWSO—"If not at first, they get them later."—Truth.

All About Western Farm Lands.

The "Corn Belt" is the name of an illustrated monthly newspaper published by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy R. R. It aims to give information in an interesting way about the farm lands of the west. Send 25 cents in postage stamps to the Corn Belt, 209 Adams St., Chicago, and the paper will be sent to your address for one year.

A CLOCK! with its ponderous embowelments of lead and brass, its pert or solemn dullness of communication.—Lamb.

SOME people have moral sentiment who have no moral sense. There is a distinction and a difference.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, April 13.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	$2 75	@ 3 25
Select butchers	3 85	@ 4 10
HOGS—Common	3 35	@ 3 65
Good packers	3 65	@ 3 80
SHEEP—Choice	3 50	@ 3 85
LAMBS—Spring	6 00	@ 8 00
FLOUR—Winter family	2 85	@ 3 10
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 74
No. 3 red		@ 73
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 32
Oats—No. 2		@ 22¼
Rye—No. 2		@ 42
HAY—Prime to choice	15 00	@15 25
TOBACCO—Medium leaf	10 60	@11 50
Good leaf	12 00	@14 75
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@ 9 50
Lard—Prime steam		@ 4 75
BUTTER—Choice dairy	13	@ 14
Prime to choice creamery		@ 20
APPLES—Per bbl	3 25	@ 3 75
POTATOES—Per bush	30	@ 35
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 90	@ 4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 1 north'n		@ 78¾
No. 2 red		@ 71⅛
CORN—No. 2 mixed		@ 41⅛
OATS—Mixed		@ 25⅛
PORK—New mess	9 00	@ 9 50
LARD—Western		@ 5 35
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patents	3 50	@ 3 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	67¾	@ 68⅛
No. 2 Chicago spring		@ 63⅜
CORN—No. 2	29⅛	@ 29¼
OATS—No. 2		@ 19⅝
PORK—Mess	8 55	@ 8 60
LARD—Steam		@ 5 02½
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	3 50	@ 3 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	73¼	@ 73¾
Corn—Mixed	34⅞	@ 35
Oats—Mixed	26	@ 26¾
LARD—Refined		@11 00
PORK—Mess		@16 85
CATTLE—First quality	4 00	@ 4 25
HOGS—Western	4 00	@ 4 25
INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 68
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 28¾
OATS—No. 2 mixed		@ 21
LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 20	@ 3 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 70
Corn—Mixed		@ 29¾
Oats—Mixed		@ 22
PORK—Mess		@ 9 75
LARD—Steam	6 75	@ 6 75

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
☞ Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills, 25 cents.

A CROWD is not company, and faces are but a gallery of pictures, and talk but a tinkling cymbal, where there is no love.—Bacon.

Fair and Fruitful

As the West is, it is often malarious. But it is pleasant to know that a competent safeguard in the shape of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters exists, which absolutely nullifies the poison of miasma. Western bound emigrants should bear this in mind. Nor should it be forgotten, the Bitters is a sterling remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, kidney and nervous complaints and rheumatism.

THE SHERIFF—"You say that fellow who broke jail left a message behind?" The Keeper—"Yes, sir: here it is on this paper—'Excuse the liberty I take!'"—Truth.

FITS stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free. Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

WHEN two discourse, if the one's anger rise, the man who lets the contest fall is wise.—Plutarch.

FOR Whooping Cough, Piso's Cure is a successful remedy.—M. P. DIETER, 67 Throop Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 14, '94.

MOST men have more courage than even they themselves think they have.—Greville.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

Pain often concentrates all its Misery in RHEUMATISM

Use at once ST. JACOBS OIL if you want to feel it concentrate its healing in a cure.

Battle Ax PLUG

A GREAT BIG PIECE FOR 10 CENTS

As good as can be made regardless of price

5⅓ Ounces for 10 cents

Other Brands Only 3⅕ Ounces for 10 cents

Don't take our word for it, but buy a piece and see for yourself.

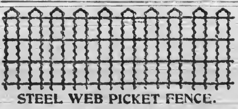
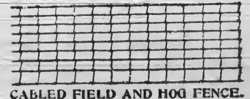
It's a slow process, usually—education, development, and growth. But it hasn't been so with Pearline (use without soap). Pearline's success has been a wonder, from the start. All the more so when you consider the many poor imitations of it, which claim to make washing easy

These things tend to confuse people, of course. They're forced on the public by peddlers, prizes, substitution, etc. No doubt they're often thought to be the same as Pearline We protest. Don't judge Pearline (use no soap) by the company it has to keep.

Millions NOW USE Pearline



STEEL WEB PICKET FENCE.



CABLED FIELD AND HOG FENCE.

Also CABLED POULTRY, GARDEN AND RABBIT FENCE.

We manufacture a complete line of Smooth Wire Fencing and guarantee every article to be as represented. If you consider quality we can save you money. CATALOGUE FREE.

DE KALB FENCE CO., 123 HIGH ST., DE KALB, ILL.

STARK TREES BEAR FRUIT

STARK TRADE MARK

TESTED 70 YEARS Salesmen and club makers wanted for GOLD plum, etc. Stark, Louisiana, Mo., Rockport, Ills.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

HOG CHOLERA.

We will furnish medicine to treat one herd of Sick Hogs in EACH TOWNSHIP in the United States FREE Give express office and number of hogs A trial only costs express charges and a report of the results of using the medicine.

WM. HALL MEDICINE CO., St. Louis, Mo.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS PLEASE state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER.

Wednesday, April 15, 1896.

Rates of Subscription:

One year	$1 50.
Six months	75.
Three months	40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER
SOLICITS YOUR Job Work,
NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS,
Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.
Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

FAIR DEAL vs MUTTON-HEAD.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

FLORENCE, KY., 10, 1896.

It was not our intention or desire to court controversy when we foolishly rushed into the columns of the RECORDER, but seeing the probability of the nomination of Mr. Carlisle as the Democratic presidential standard bearer, we wished to heal up all wounds in the Democratic party, as far as possible, and present a united front to the Republicans on the 3d day of November; but in our humble effort so to do we have stirred up one who subscribes himself "Muttonhead." (We are very sorry he is one, for they are very cheap and apt to get wool gathered.) He may be what he calls himself, we know not, but one thing is certain, he thinks he possesses some natural endowments that he can look through the environments of the brain and tell the thoughts of one he is certain he sees with this peculiar vision, that we are only masquerading as a friend of silver.

He accuses us of desiring to say ugly things about those who are honest in their convictions as silverites. We plead not guilty to the indictment. The only thing that could be interpreted as ugly in our article was the statement that neither silver nor gold men "help their cause by bleating like mutton heads or blustering like bullies." We agree an that question and it seems on several others.

He did not deny that Blackburn would not stand on the Kentucky Democratic platform, nor that some gold men bolted Blackburn's nomination, nor that Mr. Carlisle changed his views on finance before he became a member of the cabinet. He says, "Fair Deal" offers the following chestnut as an excuse for Mr. Carlisle's change on silver, viz: "Wise men may change but fools never," and he says furthermore, "It is only necessary to read a few sentences of 'Fair Deal's' article to convince a person that 'Fair Deal" is one of those fellows who never change." It seems to us with our limited powers of comprehension that he wishes to convey the idea that we are one of that class who are non-compos-mentus. Well, the old saying is, "When a man is drunk he thinks that everybody is drunk."

He says, "if by giving 6 million dollars saves 184 million, why did not the Secretary give 60 million and save $1,840,000,000?" If Mr. Carlisle had reason to believe that congress would not pass a law for 10 years to relieve the strain on the treasury and making the issuing of bonds annually unnecessary, then such a deal as mentioned above would haqe been the finest piece of financiering the world has ever seen.

He seems to blame the Secretary chiefly for changing his views. There was a time when the people of this State believed in slavery, many even thought it a divine institution—it was a political principle among us, but few be found today who will deny that it was a curse to the South, and, yet, according to the judgment of modern critics, those who have changed are traitors to the parties that once believed in it. There was a day when our ablest men believed in a tariff for protection in order to build up new industries in our country, but after these industries became self-sustaining they changed their views because conditions changed. Mr. Carlisle evidently would give that as a cause for his change on the money question.

He says, "If the financial views Mr. Carlisle entertains today are necessary to make him a Democrat, James B. Beck did not live long enough to become a Democrat and Joe Blackburn never will." Yes, but it is not when some people learn that the money question is not all there is of the Democratic party, they will then know more of Democracy. The trouble is with that class of our citizens they are always reading some one out of the party, and this reading process invariably requires a brilliant objective point (we therefore have no fears for ourselves,) but Mr. Carlisle on the one hand and our learned friend on the other, are surely in iminent danger.

Oh! may that day never come. If it does, woe unto Democracy! It will be but a shadow of its former self, for its mental substance will have departed. This class of men, who are adepts in this reading business, should as early as convenient jump astride the scales of fairness and try to balance themselves (if possible,) and when they arrive at a state of conservative equilibrium and strive to retain it until their dying day.

It is fanaticism that stands on picket duty fartherest from the base of supplies of common sense, and often endangers its safety.

He says, "If adhering to Democratic principles as expounded a few years ago by John Griffin Carlisle, constitutes bolting, then Joe Blackburn and those who believe as he does are bolters and muttonheads." Yes; but it does not, but when a party has met in convention and framed a platform, said platform becomes the text-book of the party, and any man of that party who antagonizes the principles laid down in that platform, becomes a bolter, and furthermore if the representatives of a party meet in a legislative convention and nominate a candidate for any office, any representative, who refuses to vote for said nominee, becomes a bolter, they are all of a kind—they are bolters pure and simple, notwithstanding all the excuses, whys and wherefores to the contrary.

He accuses us of wishing to defend Mr. Carlisle's financial policy. Of course we do; or we would not be an honest friend to silver. Some silver men think he ought to redeem greenbacks and treasury notes in silver. That would not do. You know when we silver men get into an argument with a gold man, we fire our largest gun at him, viz: "In 1873 you destroyed one-half of the money of final redemption," then we walk away after taking one glance at the wreck we have wrought. Final redemption! Redeem what? What could it redeem but obligations. The silver dollar is a legal tender for debts; it seems that when a debt is paid with silver dollars, that debt ought to be in a redeemed condition; that should be the last of it, but it is not, because silver is not money of final redemption, therefore we true silver men indorse Carlisle's financial policy and object to his paying the notes of the government in money which will not redeem them. If silver will redeem them and that would be the last of them, it certainly would be a money of final redemption, and the key to our position would be destroyed.

We are sorry that our friend has seen fit to block the possible results of our attempt to "Poor oil on the troubled waters." If he has such antipathy for harmony, he can no doubt find some real gold man who will discuss the financial question with him. Give us peace and unity. If we can't have that, then we say, "Lay on McDuff and damned be him that first shall cry, hold, enough."

FAIR DEAL.

OUR NEIGHBORS

OWEN COUNTY
[News]

The candidates have begun to skirmish in the coming fight. The battle however will not rage before late in the summer.

Sam Lewis Ransdell, who had a nice lot of tobacco plants up, says they were all killed by frost last Friday.

The smoke house and hen house of Mrs. Georgie A. Bourn were consumed by fire last Sunday about noon. She lost about half of her meat and several setting hens.

The residence of Major Bourn, the old homestead, near Cedar Hill, was consumed by fire last Monday morning. The family were able to save most everything except some lard and can fruits.

—§§—

GRANT COUNTY
[Courier]

The old fashioned dance and cake walk at Elliston Hall on Thursday night was the event of the season. Old folks and young folks alike were out in numbers, more than 150 persons being present. Old time dances were danced to old time music and a merry, happy crowd tripped the light fantastic. In the cake walk there was a very spirited contest.

W. D. Points who shot and wounded Hasey Alexander on Mar. 17th, came to town Saturday morning with A. A. Blanchett and J. L. Belew and gave himself up. Judge McMillan set the examining trial for Friday.

Mrs. Susie Garrison, of Union, is visiting her sisters, Mrs. Alice V. Willis and Mrs. H. T. Wolf.

—§§—

CARROLL COUNTY
[News]

It is said that the fiscal court of Owen county is having a hard time wrestling with the free turnpike problem. At last accounts she was about to fix the county levy at 55 cents—five cents above the constitutional limit—and then the members could not see their way through.

Dr. Hiner is slowly improving, and we hope [illegible] him on our streets soon.

Jo. Duvall, son of John Duvall, while re-building his house on White's Run, fell from the scaffold and broke several bones in his left foot.

The Owen fiscal court wants Carroll to stand her proportion of building a new span to the Worthville bridge. Carroll's corporation would be about $600.

R. L. Vallandingham sold his farm and residence, on the Carrollton and Ghent pike, to Carroll S. Tandy, executor of J. B. Tandy, deceased, for $8,000. The tract contains 98¾ acres.

It was a painful surprise to the many friends of George W. Darrah, the grocery man, to hear of his assignment, which was made Monday evening to M. L. Downs.

POLITICAL.

There are thirty-three announced candidates for the Democratic nomination for Jailer of Henry county.

The Scott county Republicans stand a whole lot, until it comes to the indorsing of the Military Governor.—Times.

Commonwealth's Attorney Simon is a candidate for Circuit Judge against Judge Kimbrough in the Harrison district.

At the Casey county Republican convention Monday ex-Congressman Silas Adams made a speech denouncing Gov. Bradley for calling out the troops.

Chairman Long has called the State Democratic Executive Committee to meet in Louisville April 22, to fix a time and place for holding the State Convention.

When the Governor of a State degenerates into a ward politician, to further his own political aspirations, the office of Governor suffers somewhat in dignity.—Georgetown Times.

At Uniontown one day last week a Republican district convention was held at which there were only 25 white men and 400 negroes; says the Morganfield News, and it ought to know.

The Democrats of the Pendleton, Harrison, Robertson, Nicholas Judicial district will hold a primary June 27th, to nominate candidates for Judge and Commonwealth Attorney to be voted for in November 1897.

The mere mention of Judge Pryor's name as a candidate for re-election to the Appellate bench ought to insure him a walkover. No man in Kentucky is held in higher esteem by the people of all parties.—Louisville Critic.

Another lady is about to offer for public office in Kentucky, says the Madisonville Hustler. This time it is Miss Maude Kirkman, of Elkton, who is tipped by the Fairview Review as a sure starter in the race for County School Superintendent.

The suggestion of Tony Carroll by the Louisville papers as chairman of the Democratic State convention is a gratuitous insult to the free-silver Democrats. After Mr. Carroll's record at Frankfort we don't see how he could have the face to go into a Democratic convention.—Elizabethtown News.

The Marion county Repub. convention resolved that "we favor a bounty on sugar that will enable us to buy 22 pounds of sugar for $1 and the farmer to sell his mule for $150." It might as well have added "and a pair galluses flung in, also a stone pipe for the old woman and a stick of peppermint candy for the baby."

Mr. Carlisle's nomination would be a fatal mistake; would be disastrous; would widen the breach in our ranks, and involve Kentucky's electoral vote for the first time in doubt. Any other good man can unite the party in this State, can heal the dissension in our ranks, can marshal us in solid line against the enemy, but Mr. Carlisle cannot.—Henry County Local.

The favorite sons have had a hard time of it in the West. Senator Davis was the first man to go down before it, although he thought he had hitched his wagon to a star when he offered his Monroe doctrine resolutions, then Senator Cullum was knocked out in Illinois, and now Gov. Bradley is disconsolate. Delegates are not giving to wasting ballots this year.—Courier-Journal.

If Bradley intends to call an extra session of the Legislature at all he ought to do so right away, as there is nothing to be gained by allowing the State to remain any longer than necessary in its present deplorable financial condition. The members would be just as apt to take wise action in the matter now as they will six months or a year hence. Some arrangement for paying the State's creditors ought to be made just as soon as possible.—Kentucky New Era.

Kentucky politicians of the Republican kind seem to be adopting the extraordinary tactics of the Spanish soldiers in Cuba—shooting at each other, and shooting to kill. Let the good work go on until there is not one left to advocate the cause of the wicked one. In the meantime the Democratic Gemezes and Maceos can continue to poor hot shot into, and otherwise annoy, the enemy until the country is freed from his hateful and oppressive rule.—Fulton Democrat.

Hon. John S. Phelps writes to the Lexington Gazette: "It is well known that during the State canvass last year the charge was made by the Republican speakers that there was rottenness in the Democratic administration of State affairs, that the extravagance of State officials was alone responsible for the increase of expenditures over the receipts of revenue, that a party ring had possession of the State offices and was running them in the interest of individual gain; and, hence, that if the Republicans could only get a sight at the books they would demolish Democracy forever by showing that the party was the enemy of economy and the friend of extravagance.

"I desire to say that during the stormy session of 1896, when every effort was made to assert the superiority of Republican virtue, not a solitary charge was made, not an intimation was suggested, that the past Democratic administrations were responsible for the present depleted condition of the State Treasury. Had such a charge been made or hinted at, I was prepared to show that there was last year only thirty-three counties out of the 119 which compose the Commonwealth that paid a surplus of revenue into the Treasury and of these thirty-three revenue-paying counties twenty-seven were represented upon the floor of the House by Democrats, and of the eighty-six non-revenue paying counties, sixty-one were represented by Republicans. It is owing to the overdrafts of the non-revenue paying counties, a large majority of which are controlled by the Republican party, that the State expenditures exceed the revenue and no administration, either Democratic or Republican, can prevent it unless we increase the rate of taxation, or require such county to bear the expenses of its criminal courts and stop the allowance of fraudulent claims upon the State Treasury."

Gov. Bradley's band wagon has developed an acute case of flat wheel.—Washington Post.

OVERWORK
—INDUCED—
Nervous Prostration
Complete Recovery by the Use of
Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"Some years ago, as a result of too close attention to business, my health failed. I became weak, nervous, was unable to look after my interests, and manifested all the symptoms of a decline. I took three bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, began to improve at once, and gradually increased my weight from one hundred and twenty-five to two hundred pounds. Since then, I and my family have used this medicine when needed, and we are all in the best of health, a fact which we attribute to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I believe my children would have been fatherless to-day had it not been for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, of which preparation I cannot say too much."—H. O. HINSON, Postmaster and Planter, Kinard's, S. C.

Ayer's THE ONLY Sarsaparilla
RECEIVING MEDAL AT WORLD'S FAIR.
AYER'S Pills Save Doctor's Bills.

TABLER'S BUCK EYE PILE OINTMENT
CURES NOTHING BUT PILES.
A SURE and CERTAIN CURE known for 15 years as the BEST REMEDY for PILES.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by RICHARDSON MED CO., ST. LOUIS.

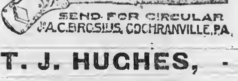
G. H. HACKSTADT,
Ludlow, Ky.,
MANUFACTURER OF
ALL KINDS OF VEHICLES.
Best Buggies on Earth
FOR THE
Price, $35 and UP
W. C. BROWN, Agent
BURLINGTON, KY.

Do Not Read This.

Four Pound Schofield Blankets,	$3.00
Four and half pounds Schofield Blankets,	3.25
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 36 inches,	.80
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 38 inches,	.90
Schofield's all-wool Ready-Made Skirts,	1.15

Schofield Flannels at cost.
All Schofield Yarns 10 per cent. discount. Schofield Jeans at cost.
All Boots and Heavy Shoes at cost.
We have a few Suits of Mens' Underwear which we will sell at cost.
(o)
Also a full line of☞ DRY GOODS
And a neat line of☞ GROCERIES,
AT THE STORE OF THE
Burlington Mercantile Co.,
Burlington, Kentucky.

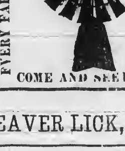
PURE BRED CHESTER WHITE HOGS.
La : Belle : Herd
—OF UP TO DATE—
CHESTER WHITE HOGS.



THE KEYSTONE
DEHORNING CLIPPER
IS THE MOST HUMANE, RAPID AND DURABLE KNIFE ON THE MARKET FOR DEHORNING PURPOSES, AND IS MADE FOR THE USE OF FARMERS AND DAIRYMEN
SEND FOR CIRCULAR
A. C. BROSIUS, COCHRANVILLE, PA.

Also agent for Dehorner, and Dehorning done at reasonable rates.

EVERY FARMER NEEDS ONE.
ALSO AGENT FOR
AEROMETER



COME AND SEE IT.
Best and Cheapest Wind-Mill Made.

T. J. HUGHES, - - - BEAVER LICK, KY.

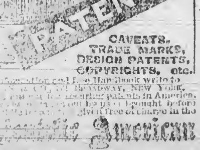
NEW HOUSE, NEW GOODS AND LOW PRICES.
ROLFES & WACHS,
RELIABLE CLOTHIERS,
Manufacturers of and Dealers in
Men's Boys' & Children's CLOTHING
Every Suit Guaranteed to fit or Money Refunded.
S, W. Cor Pike Street & Madison Ave., COVINGTON, KY

Read this and take Advantage of it.

Now is the time to have your
CARRIAGE WORK done at the lowest possible CASH PRICES.
REPAIRING a specialty. New work always on Hand. General Smithing of all kinds.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
Call and see our prices before purchasing.
KYLE & BENTLER,
Florence, Ky.

MOST IN QUANTITY. BEST IN QUALITY.
WORMS!
WHITE'S CREAM
VERMIFUGE
FOR 20 YEARS
Has led all WORM Remedies.
EVERY BOTTLE GUARANTEED.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by
RICHARDSON MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS.

Scientific American Agency for



CAVEATS,
TRADE MARKS,
DESIGN PATENTS,
COPYRIGHTS, etc.
[illegible] Handbook write to [illegible] Broadway, New York. [illegible] patents in America. [illegible] given free of charge in the
Scientific American
[illegible] scientific paper in the [illegible] Weekly, $3.00 [illegible] months. Address, MUNN & CO., [illegible] Broadway, New York City.

COME TO THIS OFFICE for JOB WORK

THE QUEEN & CRESCENT
ROUTE
Vestibuled Limited Trains to Southern Towns and Cities. A fine trip for summer outing through the Blue Grass region, the great Cumberland Plateau and to far famed Lookout Mountain.
The historic battlefields of CHICKAMAUGA, Mission Ridge and LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN.
Cool and invigorating air, unequaled scenery, good hotels.
Low reduced rates via the Queen & Crescent Route now on sale from cities and villages of the North.
Write to W. C. Rinearson, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, for illustrated and descriptive matter.

NOTICE.

All those indebted to me for taxes are hereby notified that I am compelled to close up my tax accounts and will proceed to enforce thier collection by law if not paid by March 1st, 1896. My books are in the hands of Lassing & Riddell, attorneys, Burlington, Ky. Call and settle with them and save costs.

D. BEALL, Ex.-Sheriff
Boone County.

Subscribe for the RECORDER.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXI. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 22, 1896. NO. 26.

MR. W. A. GAINES, colored, of Covington, is not a successful politician, and, although he claims to have thirty thousand colored voters backing him, his opponents do not seem to fear him and his followers, and he finds defeat his portion on every occasion. Gaines wanted to go to St. Louis, but, as usual, he got the cold shoulder.

OF the twenty-six Kentucky delegates to the St. Louis Convention, ten of them will vote for McKinley, and sixteen for Bradley, if all obey instructions. It is very doubtful if Gov. Bradley will be able to swing a single vote in the convention. His strength will be of so little consequence, that he will wield but little influence there.

GOV. BRADLEY and the A. P. A. contingent of the Republican party defeated instructions for the choice of Kentucky Republicans for president. The Governor's judicious distribution of pie saved for him a majority of Kentucky's delegation to the St. Louis Convention.

THE colored brethren sought to keep themselves constantly in evidence at the Louisville convention, last week, and the chairman sat down on them, hard, repeatedly, and finally they got mad and charged him with having "no use for the nigger nohow."

AND Judge Holt was defeated for delegate at large in the Republican Convention at Louisville, last week, by Rev. S. E. Smith, of Daviess county, the Judge was not in it a little bit in the trial of conclusions with the colored man.

IT is said that Judge Holt's defeat by a colored man in the Louisville convention is very humilating to him. He is one of the best and ablest Republicans in the State, and an all-around useful gentleman.

GEN. HARRISON is looming up as the most formidable opponent to McKinley, and he is the man upon which the opposition to the Ohio man, is liable to unite, unless he is nominated on the first ballot.

THE Kentucky Republicans made a straight out platform on the money question, and when compared with the platform adopted by the Ohio Republicans, it reads like that belonging to another party.

THE colored brother was recognized by the Republican convention at Louisville, last week. One delegate at large and one alternate, were among those selected to represent the State at St. Louis.

FAVORABLE weather this week will cause the planting of considerable corn in this county. When the farmer gets his corn ground ready and the weather is favorable, he is going to plant.

THE trial of Scott Jackson for the murder of Pearl Bryan, commenced in the Campbell Circuit Court, yesterday. It will be watched with great interest throughout the country.

THE Louisville base ball club is making a hard fight for its old position; but it is too early in the season to bet dollars to dough nuts that it will occupy it at the close of tho season.

THE A. P. A's are claiming that the action of the Louisville convention is a great victory for them. They are beginning to regard Gov. Bradley as a king bee in Kentucky.

REVENGE is sweet, and Dr. Hunter and Mayor Todd gave Gov. Bradley all that kind of sweetness they could scrape together in the Louisville convention.

IT is seldom that a period of midsummer weather is experienced in this latitude along about the first of April, as has been the case this spring.

AFTER the fight of his life Governor Bradley captured a portion of the delegates who will represent Kentucky in the St. Louis convention.

THE Missouri Democrats made no straddle of the financial question. They made an unmistakable declaration in favor of free silver.

DR. HUNTER's dose of retaliation did not produce as complete a paralysis of the Bradley following as desired.

THE A. P. A. fight against McKinley is creating some uneasiness in the ranks of his friends.

THE McKinley boom continues to retain its healthy condition.

AND Senator Quay really thinks that he has a show for the Republican nomination for the Presidency.

THE latest McKinley figures published give the Major 376 instructed delegates, and several States are yet to here from.

FROM the grand rush that is being made to McKinley, it looks like the Republican party regards him as the only available piece of Presidential timber in the party.

The Erlanger people are very much interested about the electric road, and are watching the developments closely. If the road can be secured, Erlanger will take on a genuine boom.

THE only really interesting proceedings in the two national conventions this summer will be the adoption of the platforms, and the financial rock is the most dangerous one known to be in the way.

WHEN a gold bug paper admits that the indications are that the silverites will have equal chances with the gold bugs in the national convention, you may set it down that the indications are silver will have the advantage there.

IT very often happens that the public is thoroughly convinced of the guilt of parties but there is no way to prove the guilt, and the criminal goes free. A case of this kind occurred here Monday, when Ward was told to go.

THE Aurora Bulletin denies, emphatically, the report that Hon. W. S. Holman will not be a candidate for Congress before the approaching Congressional convention in his district, and predicts the nomination will come to him spontaneously.

NONE of the prominent Democrats of the country are worrying themselves trying to secure the nomination for the Presidency, but when the time comes some good material, of which there is an abundance in the party, will be selected and will accept.

Is Ex-Governor Hoadley, of Ohio, hunting a path that will lead him back into the Republican party? He is quoted as saying that he will vote for a Republican it the Democrats nominate a gold bug at Chicago. Would he vote for a gold bug Republican in preference to the same kind of an insect selected by the Democrats?

ESQ. HUGH MONTGOMERY, of Warsaw, is a candidate for Judge of the Gallatin county court, on a platform of retrenchment and reform. In his announcement he says: "I believe the salary of $350 per annum for the County Judge is out of reason and desire to establish a precedent by pledging that if elected I will not accept more than $116 per annum." The 'Squire is amply able to hold the office for the honor it affords.

A FEW weeks since the silverites entertained very little, if any, hope of being able to control tho Chicago convention, but they are now confident that they are gaining strength and will be able to cope with the gold bugs in the national convention, and dictate the platform. The gold bugs are, evidently, growing uneasy, and are not as sanguine of overpowering the silver men at Chicago as they were a short time since. It just now looks like there will be a close fight in the Democratic national convention.

THERE will be 894 delegates in the Democratic national convention in Chicago, and an Omaha journal has been figuring on the complection of the body as relating to the money question. It is claimed that its figures are based on reliable information, and says that the delegates in the convention will be divided as follows: For silver, 516; for gold, 310; doubtful, 68. Kentucky is placed in the silver column. Estimates like that only serve to dampen the ardor of the silver advocates, preparing them to become victims of over confidence.

At Paducah the other day G. W. Williams, a negro was on trial on two charges of burglary. He pleaded guilty in each instance and the two juries retired successively. In twenty minutes both juries returned a verdict of guilty." The first one, in a case where the accused had broken into a man's house, stolen $180 and cut tho man on the hand in his efforts to escape arrest, the defendant was given five years. In the other one, where the accused had stolen only a watch and hat, he was given eight years.

STATE NEWS.

Colonel Hill, at Beattyville, Ky., fatally stabbed his brother, John, as a result of a quarrel.

Mrs. Harvey Wilson, of Panola, is only thirty years old but she is the mother of fourteen children.

Gov. Bradley has informed Representative Burnham that there'll be no extra session of the Legislature.

In Madison county a bald eagle swooped down on a dog and made an unsuccessful effort to carry off the canine.

Near Morehead Miss Sarah Caudill, aged 19 years, was burned to a crisp by her clothing taking fire from a stove.

The Bowling Green post-office has been robbed of $1,142.98 in stamps. The robbery occurred about two weeks ago, but the matter has been kept quite.

James and William Britain of Harlan county, demanded an apology of one McCreary, whose head was nearly blown off with a musket when he refused.

At Winchester, the infant daughter of Abraham Effron, got a small collar button in her throat and was choked to death. The little one was about 15 months old, and remarkably bright.

The wife of Paul Goetz, a Lexington barber, told him to go and hang himself. He took her at her word, and when an officer found him life was almost extinct. He will probably die.

Maj. John D. Harris says he is in favor of a war with Spain. It will kill off about a million of men the country could well spare, and if he had the picking of the men they could let about two million go.—Richmond Pantagraph.

While arguing on opposite sides of a case at Greenup, Ky., Lieut. Gov. Worthington and Col. B. Frank Bennett became personal in their remarks, and Worthington attempted to throw an ink-stand at Bennett. Attorney W. T. Coles caught the Lieutenant Governor's arm and also caught the contents of the ink-stand in his face.

The State Board of Equalization is at work increasing county assessments, doing something the Legislature failed to do last session, providing means to run the government. There will be a time when the people will tire of this body and repeal it.—Western Argus.

A Richmond girl has a pet pig, which she leads about the streets as other girls sometimes lead a pet poodle. The pig ambles along contentedly except when its owner takes it past an inviting puddle, when there is usually a sharp and noisy struggle for a minute or two before the porker can be persuaded to pursue its promenade.

A good wash for peach trees to keep out borers is:—For a fifty gallon cask use 25 pounds of caustic potash, three pounds of common white arsenic, two gallons crude carbolic acid with water, lime and enough clay to make a thick wash. Apply with a brush from the ground to the branches; get it ready this month; use it in May. Why must the trees be fed to produce best fruit? Because something is never made out of nothing. Most trees dig deeply for nourishment, and on some accounts are among the most profitable things we grow, but in soil that will give only food enough to maintain the growth of the tree even poor fruit is yielded at an expense; don't mow and carry away nothing; turn in stock, protect bodies of the trees and leave the crop to rot, or put on manure or chemcials and keep down sod growth by frequent stirring of surface soil.

Prof. Meeks and Miss Shuster, assisted by Prof. Jones, Edward McKim and Mrs. Dr. Furnish, will give an entertainment at the court house in Burlington, on the evening of May 2d, consisting of vocal and instrumental music and select reading. Miss Shuster is well known as a gifted elocutionists in this county, as well as in the city. Prof. Jones, as a violinist, has few equals. All are invited to attend. Admission—adults, 25 cent; children under 12 old, 15 cents.

SOUTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION,
Chattanooga, Tenn., May 8-14, 96.

The short line—the finest passenger equipment—the quickest schedules, and the most interesting scenery are found on the Queen & Crescent Route. Two superb vestibuled limited trains daily, Cincinnati and Lexington to Chattanooga, without change. Rates for the convention, one fare for the round trip from Cincinnati. Ask agents for Queen & Crescent tickets.

W. C. Rinearson, G. P. A.,
Cincinnati, O.

Kentucky Crop Report.

The report for March is taken from replies received from 154 correspondents, representing ninety-nine counties:

WHEAT.

Reports on wheat crop are very conflicting. It will be remembered that condition of March 1st, was 64. Fifty-six correspondents, represent-46 counties, report condition improved and estimate the improvement during March at 5 to 25 per cent. Seventy correspondents, representing 47 counties, report condition impaired. Counties where all reports agree on an improvement during March number 36. Counties where all reports agree on the condition being impaired during March number 33. Fifty-seven correspondents, representing 43 counties, report percentages to be plowed up varying from 5 to 40 per cent; 30 correspondents, representing twenty counties, report none will be plowed up. The counties from which all reports agree none will be plowed up number 16. In 38 counties all reports agree the acreage will be diminished.

Per cent. of 1895 crop still in first hands on March 1st, was 21. The average condition is found to be 69, being an improvement of points during the month.

RYE.

Report on condition of rye crop give an average of 75, being an improvement of 7 points during the month.

OATS.

The weather during March has been very unfavorable to seeding oats. Reports on acreage, which are mainly estimates on the probable amount to be seeded, give the acreage at 93. This will, very probably, be increased by that part of the wheat crop failing to stand the winter being seeded to oats, and will result in a full crop.

CORN.

It was estimated that 58 per cent. of 1895 corn crop was still in farmers' hands on March 1st.

TOBACCO.

Report on the condition of plant beds show an average condition, 86. 64 correspondents, representing 48 counties, report no diminution of holdings, while 61 correspondents, representing 48 counties, report from 2 to 50 per cent. decrease.

CLOVER.

Reports on condition of clover vary wide in different sections of the State. Quite a number of counties report the plant in bad condition, owing to the frequent freezing and thawing during March. The condition over the State averages 77 per cent.

CATTLE.

The condition of cattle is uniformly reported good, averaging 92.

HOGS.

Condition is given at 87. 65 correspondents, representing 53 counties, report cholera, in many instances in a malignant form.

SHEEP.

The lamb crop as compared with last year is 88, which would prove a decrease in the number of breeding ewes, or that a considerable portion of the crop later than April 1.

HORSES.

Per cent. of colts foaled as compared with last year is 69. Per cent. of mares bred compared with last year is 76.

MULES.

Per cent. of colts foaled compared with last year, is 67.

CUT WORMS.

Quite a number of correspondents report the ground infested with cut worms.

FRUIT PROSPECTS.

The reports show the fruit crop in good condition as regards weather influence. More or less damage is reported to peaches. 11 correspondents report the crop killed. It is significant that the reports from the peach growing sections of the State give the outlook excellent for a full crop.

LUCAS MOORE,
Commissioner of Agriculture.

Attention, Farmers!
We are handling the
Globe Fertilizer
and will sell it to you at
$26 Per Ton,
Money due September 1, 1896.
This is a high grade Fertilizer, the best on the market. Try it.
RIGGS BROS., Erlanger, Ky.

FARM FOR SALE.
A good farm of 76 acres, between Bellevue and Petersburg, near Woolper ford—good house, good barn and necessary outbuildings. The sale will be on easy terms. OWEN ALLEN.

KENTUCKY MIDLAND RAILROAD.
[Via Georgetown.]

P. M.	A.M.			A.M.	P. M
d 5:21	z9:31	Ar Walton	Lv	7:54	z4:48
4:40	8.55	Ar Williamstown	Lv	8:32	5:25
4:17	8:31	Ar Corinth	Lv	8:56	5:47
3:59	8:15	Ar Sadieville	Lv	0:16	6:06
3:33	7:50	Ar Georgetown	Lv	10:07	6:37
1:00	6:55	Lv Frankfort	Ar	11:00	7:30

z Daily. d Except Sunday.
C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.

Miss Helen Merci Schuster
DRAMATIC READER
AND TEACHER OF
Elocution, Physical Culture
and Delsarte,
811 Scott St. - - COVINGTON, KY.
Class for young Ladies and Gentlemen at UNION, KY., every Saturday—10 to 11 a. m. SEND FOR TERMS.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Call at once for work, as I leave Walton April 1st.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
—DRUGGIST,—
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

NO :: LONGER
—AT ERLANGER.—
DR. WALLACE GILLHAM,
—THE DENTIST,—
who has been coming to Erlanger on Tuesdays of each week, has discontinued his office there, but will continue to do
First Class Dental Work of
All kinds at his
COVINGTON - OFFICE,
1421 Madison Ave. (next door to the Children's Home),
He also has all the latest and best facilities for administering
Gas, Vitalized Air, or Local Anæsthetics for Extracting Teeth.
You are refered to the following reliable references of your own community: Dr. C. R. Slater, Dr. C. W. McCullum, Mrs. Cal Riggs, Mrs. Mattie Hoover, Mrs. Rev. M. M. Hiner, Mrs. Rev. O. M. Huey, Mr. Ira Aylor, Erlanger; Miss Sallie Snyder, Miss Sallie Stephens, Florence.

Andy Scheben,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
WINES, LIQUORS
AND BRANDY,
Old Bourbon, $2.00 Per Gallon.
LEXINGTON PIKE,
ERLANGER, - - - KY.
Near Town Hall.

Prices Reduced!
1 gal. 4 year old Bourbon Whisky, reduced from $3.50 at $3.00
1 gal. 2 year old Bourbon Whisky reduced from $2.00 at $1.75
1 gal. 4 year old Rye Whisky at reduced from $3.50. $3.00
At KASTNER'S,
Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

For Sale or Rent.
96 acres of river bottom land, opposite Lawrenceburg, Ind., in good state of cultivation. J. C. REVILL,
Burlington, Ky.

Corn For Sale.
For Sale—About 100 bushels of Forsyth's Early Mammoth white corn, selected last fall. It has the deepest grains and is the most productive of any other corn; has from sixteen to twenty-six rows on the ear, stands the drouths and yields from two to five barrels more per acre than any other variety. It originated in Johnson county Ind in 1891. Price $1 50 per bushel.
JOHN J. CLEEK.
Beaver Lick, Boone county, Ky.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
J. S. HUEY, President, Grant, Ky. | OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky,
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections.
Office—In residence near post-office.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY,
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

H. S. STEVENSON,
DENTIST,
Anæsthetics used for painless operating. Plates $8 and $10; other work accordingly. Satisfaction guaranteed in all cases.
MAIN OFFICE—South side Main St.
Rising Sun, Indiana.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL.
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by maill promptly attended to.

G. G. HUGHES. D. E. CASTLEMAN.
HUGHES & CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEYS - AT - LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to them.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged,
Money to Loan on Real Estate,
Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 17,000
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates.

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN.................. $50,000
SURPLUS,............................ $ 2,600
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

GENERAL
REPAIR SHOP,
At Hathaway, Ky.
WAGONS AND BUGGIES
A Specialty.
Plows and Harrows Made to Order. Satisfaction Guaranteed.
J. M. RICE.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : : KY.

CURRENT TOPICS.

PLASTERERS at Pittsburgh demand $3 for nine hours' work.

VALPARAISO, in Chili, [illegible] almost totally destroyed by fire in 1862.

WILLIAM WALDORF ASTOR is visiting his former home in New York.

THE pearl fishery discovered off the south coast of India is very rich.

IN the year 1700 over one-half of the city of Edinburgh was destroyed by fire.

DEEP and rapid breathing is recommended as a means of stopping hiccough.

ALEXANDER FREEMAN, of Sailors' Snug Harbor, Staten Island, is now 110 years old.

JEFFERSON, Ga., is the center of the population of colored folks in the United States.

THE spring and autumn maneuvers of European armies cost over two million pounds sterling.

IN 1822 Canton, China, was almost obliterated by a fire which swept over three-fifths of the city.

THE "great fire" of London in 1666 destroyed property estimated to exceed $53,000,000 in value.

CONDENSED food has not been a success, according to the war department experiments on soldiers.

IN 1729 over 12,000 houses were burned in Constantinople, and 7,000 lives were lost in the fire.

GEO. H. BELL, postmaster of Caron City, Neb., has been swindled out of $1,100 by two spiritual mediums.

INCREASED business has compelled the Canadian Pacific railroad to increase its train service nearly 50 per cent.

A RUBY of the best quality and more than three carats is worth more than a diamond of the same size and weight.

OVER two thousand dollars has been recovered by divers from the steamer Malabar wrecked off Gille 40 years ago.

GEORGIA has 200 square miles of coal beds in one body, besides other great beds in the Chattanooga and Cohutta ranges.

ABOUT two thousand fishing nets of unlawful mesh have been seized at Grand Haven, Mich., by the state game warden.

THE population of the world averages 109 women to every 100 men. Eight-ninths of the sudden deaths are those of males.

ALDEN J. BLETHEN, founder of the Penny Press at Minneapolis, Minn., has made a gift of the entire plant to his employes.

WHILE preaching at Curtis Bay (Md.) Baptist church, Pastor Wm. T. Bailey's tongue was paralyzed and he lost all power of speech.

THE manufacturers of Knoxville have subscribed $46,500 for the purpose of making suitable exhibits at the Tennessee centennial.

THE time for the reunion of the Society of the Army of the Potomac has been changed to September 16 and 17, at Burlington, Vt.

THE great Climo ranch, in southern California, composing 40,000 acres of land, is to be sold to a London syndicate for $2,000,000.

COPENHAGEN is to have a woman's theater, with women to manage it, women to act all the parts and women to write the plays.

A THIEF cut the leadpipe in Policeman Cronin's house in Chicago, and he was almost drowned in the flood of water which came.

NEARLY 20,000 horses—aged, infirm, weak from overwork, starving and fatigued—are said to be fed to leeches annually at Bordeaux.

BOSTON, which is a stickler for grammatical language, is considering a scheme for running an elevated railway through a subway.

LONDON city has now about twenty-three miles of roadway laid with noiseless materials, three-fourths being asphalt and the rest wood.

A SEVEN-FOOT colored man is now playing "Uncle Tom" in Southern Kansas. He was born in California and has brothers just as tall.

THE deepest gold mine in the world is at Eureka, Cal.; depth 2,290 feet. The deepest silver mine is at Carson City, Nev.; depth 3,300 feet.

DOOLY is the most prosperous county in the state of Georgia. It has assessed no county taxes for two years and has just completed an $8,000 jail.

NEW ENGLAND'S maple sugar crop is reported to be short this year, but the spruce gum crop is said to be all right, in both quality and quantity.

NEATSFOOT oil has been used as a substitute for cod liver oil. It is prepared by boiling the feet of oxen, previously deprived of their hoofs.

IT is asserted by local surveyors that the government survey located about 4,500 acres of "good farming land" inside the limits of Klamath lake, Ore.

IN 1842 Hamburg was burned; 4,219 buildings were destroyed, their estimated value be $35,000,000; 100 lives were lost by falling walls and similar accidents.

PLANS for a ten-story $700,000 hotel have been filed in New York by D. O. Mills. The hotel is designed for working people who can not afford to pay the prices demanded at the other hostelries.

CALIFORNIA orange growers have made more money so far this year than in many seasons. The early crop of naval oranges was of unusual quantity and quality.

IN Berlin the height of buildings is limited to the width of the street, in Paris to one-half more than the width of the street, in Chicago to 130 feet and in Boston to 2½ times the width of the street.

THE grand army men of Rhode Island have formally decided to push Col. Daniel R. Ballou, a past department commander, for the office of commander-in-chief at the national encampment in St. Paul next September.

CUBAN BONDS.

The New Republic Advertises for $2,000,000 Six Per Cents.

Principal and Interest Payable in New York or Havana—The Principal Due in Ten Years After the Evacution of Cuba by the Spanish Forces.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The following advertisement appears in a morning paper:

"Republic of Cuba $2,000,000 6 per cent. gold bonds.—Sealed proposals will be received until 5 o'clock p. m., April 23, 1896, at the office of the treasurer, B. J. Guerra, 192 Water street, New York city, for the purchase of all or any part of $2,000,000 Republic of Cuba 6 per cent. gold coupon bonds, being a portion of an issue of $10,000,000 authorized by the Cuban government, principal and interest payable in the cities of Havana or New York.

The recitals in the bond make the principal due in ten years after the evacuation of the island of Cuba by the Spanish forces, the republic reserving the right to take up and pay said bonds at any interest period at the face value thereof. All revenues are pledged for the payment of the principal and interest. The denominations are $1,000, $500, $100 and $50.

"There is every indication," said Senor Guerra Wednesday, "that our issue of $2,000,000 of bonds will be readily disposed of. Several responsible syndicates have offered to take the whole lot. The issue will be successful beyond a doubt. In due time other issues of $2,000,000 will follow, and every cent realized will be devoted to promoting the warfare against Spain."

BOB FITZSIMMONS.

His Pet Lion Killed, and the Pugilist Himself Has a Narrow Call.

CLEVELAND, O., April 17.—Bob Fitzsimmons' pet lion, Nero, is dead, and Bob himself received a very close call at the time of the animal's demise. Fitzsimmons is filling a week's engagement at the Star theater here. He kept the lion chained on the roof of the Natitorium adjoining the "Doan" on Erie street.

Wednesday night at 12 o'clock Fitzsimmons, accompanied by Roeber, the wrestler, ascended to the lion's quarters to feed it. The pugilist was beautifully tuned up with liquor and was exhausted when he reached the roof. He leaned for support upon the first available thing, which happened to be an electric light wire. It snapped in two under his weight and one end of the wire fell upon and clung to Nero. The frightened brute sprang over the edge of the roof, the wire clinging to it and burning its flesh. Fitzsimmons grabbed the chain, and after a hard struggle pulls his pet back on the roof, but not until it had been strangled to death. Roeber did not notice the danger his companion was in, and it was well for him that he did not. In taking hold of the chain Fitzsimmons made himself a part of the deadly current and was terribly burned about the hands. Had not the wire been loosened from the animal's body when it was hauled back on the roof it is probable that Bob and Nero would have passed in their checks together.

THE MINERS.

The National Association Elect Officers—An Effort to Pledge the Organization to Support Debs for President.

COLUMBUS, O., April 17.—The session of the National Miners' association was a stormy one Thursday morning. A resolution pledging the organization's support to Eugene V. Debs for the presidency had been referred to the resolutions committee, and failing to get favorable consideration, came back to the convention. It provoked long and animated discussion and was finally referred back to the resolutions committee. It is expected that it will be reported back adversely Thursday afternoon.

Resolutions were adopted thanking the retiring secretary, P. McBryde, for his services; Gov. Altgeld for pardoning J. L. Geyer and other miners, and condemning the New York and Cleveland Coal Co. for its infidelity in dealing with the miners. A resolution to organize the anthracite region was referred to the executive committee.

P. H. Penna was re-elected president, Cameron Miller, of Massillon, O., vice-president, and W. C. Pearce, of Corning, secretary treasurer.

The following executive committee was chosen Thursday afternoon: R. L. Davis, Ohio; James O'Connor, Illinois; Andrew Stevenson, West Virginia; Fred Dilcher, Ohio; John Fahey, Ohio, and W. U. Webb, Kentucky.

THOMPSON DEAN,

At One Time a Widely Known Business Man of the Southwest, Dies in New York.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Thompson Dean died in this city Thursday. He was at one time the most widely known business man of the southwest, being engaged in numerous enterprises at Memphis, Galveston and New Orleans. He built and operated numerous lines of Ohio, Mississippi and tributary rivers steamboats, which for many years did an extensive passenger and freight business from Cincinnati to Memphis and New Orleans before the competition of railroads rendered water transportation unprofitable. He owned and conducted the Memphis gas works.

Monument for Explorer DeLong.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—In the senate Thursday Mr. Chandler introduced a bill appropriating $10,000 for the erection of a monument in Woodlawn cemetery, New York city, to the memory of Lieut. Commander DeLong and his comrades, who lost their lives in the Jeannette Arctic expedition.

Will Be Captured Dead or Alive.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 17.—The Peru bank wrecker, Davies, who escaped from Wintersett jail Wednesday, is surrounded by the sheriff's posse, six miles north of that place. He will be captured dead or alive.

TRADE REVIEW.

An Increase in the Number of Failures in the United States—There is a General Improvement in the Retail Business.

NEW YORK, April 18.—R. G. Dun & Co. says Saturday in their weekly review of trade:

Failures for the past week have been 223 in the United States against 201 last year, and 26 in Canada against 34 last year. The sudden change from sleighing to midsummer heat has tested the prevalent idea that good weather only was needed to bring general improvement of business. Everywhere there has been more retail buying and in some branches better demand at wholesale and at the works has resulted, but not as yet in most lines. There is no abatement of the almost universal disposition to deal with unusual conservatism and not to anticipate future wants, and this has been especially conspicuous where combinations have been formed of prices advanced.

To many interested in iron ore and coke, steel billets, Bessemer pig and various forms of steel it may be disappointing that the forming of combinations and fixing of prices have not started again the rush to buy ahead of needs, which made last year so memorable. But it is not easy to forget the lesson which the past year has taught. Instead of increasing, purchases have been on the whole rather slackened though a little better in plates at the east and in sheets at Chicago. Bessemer pig and grey forge are a shade lower at Pittsburgh, as is the average of all iron and steel quotations and obstacles to some attempted combinations have not yet been overcome. The greatest consumers of lake ore have not hastened to make contracts at advanced prices and the output of coke is stationary. Tin-plate makers are meeting and some propose to produce steel for their trade at plants of their own. Their unsold stocks increased in March 18,588 tons more than was reported last week. At the west almost every town seems to want steel for some building and good orders have been placed for bars by implement and car makers. Heavy production of copper defeats heavy exports and 10¾ is quoted for lake and spelter has broken to 410.

The boot and shoe makers have put some quotations a shade lower since leather has fallen below the average a year ago and hides to the lowest average since November, 1894, have declined three per cent. this week. The northern and northwestern demand is backward though the south has bought freely. The silk association states that 40 per cent. of the machinery and hands in the country are idle partly because of increasing Japanese competition. Several more woolen mills have shut down and some have reduced wages ten per cent, while many are working only half time, but recent advances by appraisers not only disclose heavy undervaluations in the past, but tend to check future imports. The demand for goods does not improve. Somewhat more demand for staple cottons has been aroused by bargain prices, but the closing of many mills for a time is urged as necessary.

Wheat rose about five cents last week, met some reaction, but is a shade higher than a week ago. After remaining unchanged for many days, rumors either way having no effect, cotton rose a sixteenth on Thursday. Heavy commercial and mill stocks hinder most buyers and possibilities of injury to the coming crop retard sellers at current prices.

March imports were $3,912,455 smaller and exports $12,366,107 larger than last year, and the excess of exports was $9,144,015.

DESPERATE NEGRO.

He Knocks His Guard Out With a Club, Escapes, Murders a Witness Against Him and Kills Two of His Pursuers.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 18.—Walter Crawford, a fugitive Negro convict, is inviting violent death in the country about forty miles southeast of this city. Tuesday morning he knocked his guard out with a club, released a gang of fellow convicts, and fled with the guard's weapons. Making his way to the home of a witness against him, Crawford shot him dead and would have served his wife the same way but she escaped by flight. He then went after a hostile planter, who saw him coming and mounting his horse hurriedly fled the danger. Friday the sheriff and a posse took the field and report Friday night has it that the fugitive has already killed two of his pursuers.

Senator Allen for President.

HASTINGS, Neb., April 18.—The populist state central committee Friday fixed upon July 15 at Grand Island as the time and place for holding the state delegate convention. A resolution favoring free coinage of silver and indorsing Senator Allen for the presidency was adopted.

Seventh District, South Carolina, Delegates.

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 18.—The Seventh congressional district convention held Friday elected H. H. Richardson, of Sumter, who is for Reed, and W. A. Smith, of Irmo, who is uncommitted as to St. Louis convention.

Two Aged Men Dead.

MILTON, Ind., April 18.—Isaac Kinsey, a wealthy citizen of Wayne county, died Friday morning at the age of 75 years. John Wissler, a pioneer, died Friday at the age of 80 years.

Want More National Parks.

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., April 18.—At a public meeting held here resolutions were passed asking the government to establish national parks at the battlefields of Fredericksburg, Spottsylvania, The Wilderness and Chancellorsville, and asking the co-operation of the grand army and united confederate veterans throughout the country.

Five Children Suffocated.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 18.—In a tenement house fire at Turner's Falls, Mass., at 5 o'clock Friday morning five French children were suffocated. The property loss was small.

ANNUAL CLERKS.

Their Employment by Congressmen the Whole Year Round

Instead of During the Session—The Matter Had Been Considered in the Senate, But the House Conference Did Not Then Agree to the Proposition.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The house committee on accounts will report Monday without recommendation the resolution providing for the employment of clerks to members the whole year round instead of during the session. The question was recently agitated anew in connection with the report of the conferees on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. It was stated that the senate had amended the bill so as to provide each member of that body not a chairman of a committee, 38 in all, a clerk at a salary of $1,500 a year. The house conferees had not agreed to the amendment but Gen. Bingham Franklin stated that he saw no outcome of the struggle except the concurrence by the house in the senate's proposition. There was a feeling in the house that its members should have the same assistance and the resolution referred to was introduced to secure it. The committee were evenly divided on the question, and it was decided to direct Chairman Aldrich to report it without recommendation, which he will do Monday. The members will then have an opportunity to secure annual clerks for themselves if the majority of them have the courage to go on record as favoring the proposition. Mr. Cannon is of the opinion that the resolution will be passed: that "the house is stacked for for it," but Mr. Aldrich believes that it will be defeated. To provide these clerks at $1,200 a year, the same rate as their present pay, will cost $432,000 annually.

MASKED MEN

Attack and Kill Leo Hirth, a Wealthy Indianapolis Grocer.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 20.—Leo Hirth, a well-known and wealthy German citizen, living at 1020 West Washington street, where he conducted a large grocery business, was instantly killed at two o'clock Sunday morning by two masked men who were discovered in his bed room and whom he pursued into the rear part of the house.

Mrs. Hirth was awakened by a noise in the room, and raising herself in bed, saw two men standing in the doorway leading to another room. She gave the alarm by calling to her husband who was in a deep sleep by her side. At the same instant one of the men leveled a pistol at her and fired, the bullet entering the head board just above where she lay. A second shot followed an instant later and the two men turned toward the rear of the house. Mr. Hirth was awakened by the first shot, but seemed not to realize what had occurred until the second shot was fired, when he sprang from the bed and followed the intruders. He had a loaded revolver lying on a table within reach of his bed, but seems not to have thought of the weapon in his excitement.

As he passed into the room immediately back of the sleeping apartment, a third shot was fired, as the man fled from the room pursued by Mr. Hirth. Mrs. Hirth ran to the front of the house and made her exit through the front door, screaming at the top of her voice for help. A number of the neighbors were aroused and came hurriedly to the place and when they entered the house, Mr. Hirth was found upon the floor with a bullet in his heart.

Mr. Hirth was known to have kept large sums of money in the house.

Elopers Drowned.

HANNIBAL, Mo., April 20.—For several weeks past Samuel Drew and family and Otto Oatman and family have been camped on the opposite side of the river engaged in making willow baskets. Thursday night while Oatman was in Quincy on business Drew and Mrs. Oatman and her two children eloped and started down the river in a boat. The boat sank in the river at a point about 14 miles south of this city, and all were drowned. The children were a boy and a girl aged seven and nine respectively.

Spain to Grant Political Reforms.

MADRID, April 20.—The secretary of the colonies will make arrangements to put into effect the law granting political reforms to the Antilles. These arrangements will probably go into operation in Porto Rico on June 1 and Cuba on July 1. The government denies that the Washington action prompted this action. The speech from the throne opening the cortes will contain a passage dealing with the reforms.

The Gold Output of California.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—The director of the San Francisco mint has forwarded his annual report to the department at Washington. It shows the gold output of California for the year 1895 to be $15,334,317.69, as compared with $15,863,281.89 in 1894. The silver output for 1892 was $599,789.70, as against $292,331.55 for 1894.

Owens Still a Candidate.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Representative Owens, of Kentucky, announced Saturday that he was a candidate for re-election to congress and would again fight Breckinridge for the nomination.

Matabeles Massing Near Buluwayo.

CAPE TOWN, April 20.—Advices which left Buluwayo by coach have been received here stating that the Matabeles are massing men to the northeast of that place and sending out small looting parties. The hostile Matabeles are within half an hour's march of the town.

To Be Imprisoned for Life.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 20.—Mrs. Bell, accused of revolting cruelties towards her grandchildren, Percy and Oneita Short, was found guilty Saturday and was sentenced to imprisonment for the remainder of her life.

Free Attendant Service—The North-Western Line.

A new departure has been inaugurated at the Chicago passenger station of the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western R'y) which will be found a great convenience to the traveling public. A corps of uniformed attendants has been provided to render both incoming and outgoing passengers all necessary attention, directing them to carriages, omnibuses and street cars, carrying hand baggage, assisting persons in feeble health, and making themselves useful in every way in their power. The attendants wear blue uniforms and bright red caps, and the service is entirely free. The North-Western Line is the through-car route between Chicago and St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth, Ashland, Council Bluffs, Omaha, Sioux City, Denver, Salt Lake, San Francisco, Portland and many other important cities of the west and northwest.

"I SHORE does hope," said Uncle Mose, "dat dey will git dis heah new photograph trick so fine by summer dat man kin tell wedder melon is ripe."—Indianapolis Journal.

Better Than Refined Gold

Is bodily comfort. This unspeakable boon is denied to many unfortunates for whose ailments Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a promptly helpful remedy. The dyspeptic, the rheumatic, the nervous, persons troubled with biliousness or chills and fever, should lose no time in availing themselves of this comprehensive and genial medicine. It promotes appetite and nightly slumber.

HORACE appears in good humor while he censures, and therefore his censure has the more weight as supposed to proceed from judgment, not from passion.—Young.

All About Western Farm Lands.

The "Corn Belt" is the name of an illustrated monthly newspaper published by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy R. R. It aims to give information in an interesting way about the farm lands of the west. Send 25 cents in postage stamps to the Corn Belt, 209 Adams St., Chicago, and the paper will be sent to your address for one year.

DE TANQUE—"You don't take enough exercise for a man of your habits." Old Soak—"Why, I have been shaking dice for drinks all the afternoon."—Philadelphia Record.

"I'LL kiss you for my sister's sake."
  "Pray, don't forget yourself," she said.
I straightway took her at her word,
  And kissed her for myself instead.
—Truth.

FITS stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free. Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

"THOU hast a pretty wit," quoth the monarch. "Aye, and a dry humor," replied the jester. Whereupon the king pushed the button.—Philadelphia Record.

DID you write The N. G. Hamilton Pub. Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, about their Life of McKinley? Better do so—chance to make money rapidly.

THE secret of success in modern art is to be crazy in an original way.—Fliegende Blaetter.

SMALL are the seeds fate does unheeded sow of slight beginnings to important ends.—Davenant.

THERE are in business three things necessary—knowledge, temper and time.—Feltham.

I USE Piso's Cure for Consumption both in my family and practice.—DR. G. W. PATTERSON, Inkster, Mich., Nov. 5, 1894.

EVEN from the body's purity the mind receives a secret, sympathetic aid.—Thomson.

FORTIFY Feeble Lungs Against Winter with Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Pike's Toothache Drops Cure in one minute.

THE measure of choosing well is whether a man likes what he has chosen.—Lamb.

Spring Medicine

Your blood in Spring is almost certain to be full of impurities—the accumulation of the winter months. Bad ventilation of sleeping rooms, impure air in dwellings, factories and shops, over-eating, heavy, improper foods, failure of the kidneys and liver properly to do extra work thus thrust upon them, are the prime causes of this condition. It is of the utmost importance that you—

Purify Your Blood

Now, as when warmer weather comes and the tonic effect of cold bracing air is gone, your weak, thin, impure blood will not furnish necessary strength. That tired feeling, loss of appetite, will open the way for serious disease, ruined health, or breaking out of humors and impurities. To make pure, rich, red blood Hood's Sarsaparilla stands unequalled. Thousands testify to its merits. Millions take it as their Spring Medicine. Get Hood's, because

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

A SHINING EXAMPLE of what may be accomplished by never varying devotion to a single purpose is seen in the history of the McCormick Harvesting Machine Co., Chicago. For 65 years they have simply been building grain and grass-cutting machinery, and while there are probably forty manufacturers in this line, it is safe to say that the McCormick Company builds one-third of all the binders, reapers and mowers used throughout the entire world.

For your Protection we positively state that this remedy does not contain mercury or any other injurious drug. Nasal Catarrh is a local disease and is the result of colds and sudden climatic changes.

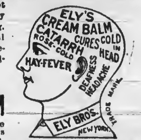
CATARRH

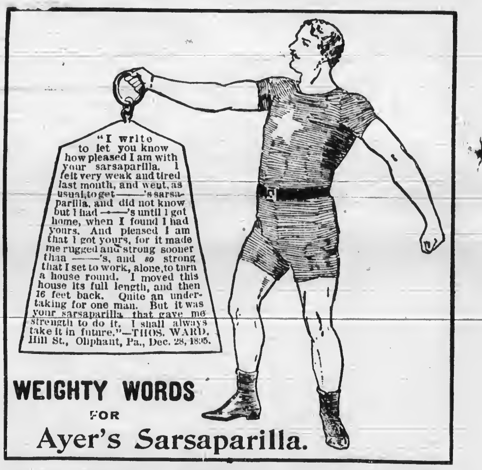
ELY'S CREAM BALM

Opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Protects the Membrane from Colds, Restores the Senses of Taste and smell. The Balm is quickly absorbed and gives relief at once. Price 50 cents at Druggists or by mail.

COLD IN HEAD

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.





"I write to let you know how pleased I am with your sarsaparilla. I felt very weak and tired last month, and went, as usual, to get ——'s sarsaparilla, and did not know but I had ——'s until I got home, when I found I had yours. And pleased I am that I got yours, for it made me rugged and strong sooner than ——'s, and so strong that I set to work, alone, to turn a house round. I moved this house its full length, and then 16 feet back. Quite an undertaking for one man. But it was your sarsaparilla that gave me strength to do it. I shall always take it in future."—THOS. WARD, Hill St., Oliphant, Pa., Dec. 28, 1895.

WEIGHTY WORDS FOR Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Ivers & Pond Pianos

HOW TO OBTAIN ONE EASILY.

In addition to our large wholesale and retail business, we have arranged a plan for supplying our pianos on Easy Payments to residents of any village or city in the United States where they are not sold by a local dealer.

We make first-class pianos, but one grade — the best. We refer to the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, which has bought and has in daily use 125 Ivers & Pond Pianos.

Musically and in point of durability our pianos are not excelled. Catalogue and prices, both for cash and on easy payments, mailed promptly, free. Write for full information.

IVERS & POND PIANO COMPANY,

114 Boylston Street, Boston.

BRADLEY INDORSED.

The Resolutions Oppose the Free and Unlimited Coinage of Silver,

And Express Sympathy for Struggling Cubans—The Calling Out of the Troops at Frankfort Approved—Wm. McKinley Second Choice—Delegates Selected.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 16.—Over seventeen hundred delegates, half as many alternates, and twice as many republicans and republican officeholders, have arrived in the city to attend the republican state convention Wednesday.

McKinley's headquarters in the Galt house, presided over by Mayor Todd and Editor Sam J. Roberts, late of Canton, O., were thronged with the admirers of the Ohio man Tuesday night. They were all cheerful and hopeful of the convention instructing for McKinley.

At the Louisville hotel, Gov. Bradley had his headquarters. He presided. A bottle of old bourbon was on the center table and all who called were invited to drink.

Of the 1,700 delegates about 850 are instructed for Bradley, 750 for McKinley and 150 uninstructed.

Of the district delegates Bradley has 12 and McKinley 10.

The Bradley forces Tuesday night fixed up this slate for delegates from the state at large:

John W. Yerkes, Danville.
Lew P. Tarlton, Frankfort.
G. D. S. Hobson, Owensboro.

The state central committee met at the Galt house at nine o'clock Tuesday night and effected a temporary organization by selecting Gov. Bradley's brother-in-law, Judge Z. T. Morrow, of Somerset, for temporary chairman and Editor Edward Roberts, of Owensboro, temporary secretary.

The state advisory board of the A. P. A. held a meeting at noon and it was decided that it would be best for the A. P. A. delegates to the republican convention not to vote to endorse the candidacy of either Bradley or McKinley. This is considered a McKinley victory.

In a speech at Linton hall Wednesday morning, Chairman J. H. D. Stevens, of the national advisory board of the A. P. A., stated that the Catholic church was backing McKinley with the hope of killing the A. P. A.'ism in the republican party in the event of McKinley's success.

The delegates from the state at large at the national convention will probably be W. J. Doe, of Marion county; Col. Lew P. Tarleton, of Lexington, S. E. Smith, a Negro preacher of Owensboro, and either Gen. E. T. Hobson, of Green county, or Col. Albert Scott, of this city, all Bradley men. Gov. Bradley claimed Wednesday morning that he will control 1,000 out of the 1,699 votes in the convention.

It was shortly after two o'clock when the convention was called to order in the big auditorium. Over the stage swung a large banner with the word "Welcome" in big letters. The chandeliers and the big wooden posts in the body of the building were wrapped with colored bunting. Big colored fans, some twenty feet in diameter, helped to decorate the walls. The decorations used cost over $2,000.

Hon. John W. Yerkes, chairman of the state central committee, delivered an enthusiastic address, and, when the name of Gov. Bradley was mentioned the delegates jumped to their feet and cheered wildly. A reference to McKinley was greeted with yells that could be heard a block. Calls for cheers for Bradley did not produce one-half of the noise which followed the mention of the name of Ohio's son.

Mr. Yerks read a telegram from Congressman Evans urging the convention to put a strong sound money plank in the platform.

On behalf of the McKinley forces, W. O. Root nominated Judge George Denny, of Lexington, for temporary chairman.

Judge Thomas Z. Morrow was nominated on behalf of the Bradleyites.

A vote was taken, which resulted as follows: Morrow, 833, Denny, 742.

A tumult followed the announcement of the vote, and it continued during the ten minutes before Judge Morrow appeared upon the stage. The chair appointed Mr. Howard, of Butler; Senator W. H. Clark, of Jackson, and Oliver G. Root, of Campbell, as a committee to notify Judge Morrow of his election as temporary chairman. Judge Morrow set the pace for Bradley at the very beginning. He wasted no time. "Our honored governor, Wm. O. Bradley," were in the first 50 words of his speech. It provoked another long spell of noise. Fred Roberts, the committee's nominee, was elected secretary, with D. Elliott Kelly as assistant. That completed the temporary organization.

At the evening session Chairman Morrow announced that the committee on permanent organization had selected Hon. Charles Blanford as permanent chairman, and that the temporary chairman had been continued in office.

"Mr. Chairman," shouted Hon. Bill Lyons, of Newport, "we have something to say to that. We present the name of Hon. George Denny for permanent chairman." This opened the fight between McKinley and Bradley. A storm of cheers and angry exclamations arose. "I nominate Judge Denny, and demand a call of the roll," shouted Lyons. The nomination was declared out of order.

A motion to take a recess was defeated, and Judge W. H. Holt, of Frankfort, was called upon for a speech.

Col. Lew Tarleton, of Frankfort, another candidate for delegate at large, made a short speech, in which he denounced the democrats as rascals, and evolved much applause by referring in complimentary terms to Gov. Bradley. Speeches were made by W. A. Gaines, colored, of Covington; John P. McCartney, of Flemingsburg; A. T. Wood, of Mt. Sterling; M. C. Hutchins, of Maysville, and S. E. Smith, colored, of Owensboro.

At 11 o'clock the committee on credentials made a unanimous report in favor of allowing the regular Bradley delegates from Warren county and the McKinley delegates from Logan county to be seated. Jefferson county and the Sixth and Eighth wards in Louisville to be divided equally between the Bradley and McKinley delegates. N. T. Howard to cast the vote of Edmonson county, S. H. Kash to cast the vote of Leslie and John W. Yerkes and J. M. Langley to cast the vote of Pike county. The report was adopted without opposition. The committee on permanent organization recommended Charles Blanford, of Breckinridge county, for chairman, and Fred Roberts for secretary. Lyons, of Newport, moved to substitute the name of George Denny for chairman and some one else suggested the name of Oliver Root, of Newport. Both were withdrawn, however, and the committee's report adopted.

Blanford took the chair and the committees on the rules and order of business reported in favor of adopting the rules of the national house of representatives to govern the convention; limited speeches to five minutes and provided that for the four delegates at large the four candidates receiving a majority of the votes cast be declared elected, and if no election be had on the first ballot the candidate receiving the lowest number of votes be dropped.

The next thing in order was the report from the resolutions committee. That committee, however, had adjourned until Thursday morning. By motion the committee was requested to report at once. While the committee was preparing their report the following candidates for delegates at large were placed in nominations: S. C. Smith, Owensboro; E. H. Hobson, Green county; A. R. Burnam, Richmond; W. J. Deboe, Crittenden county; M. S. Hutchins, Mason county; A. T. Wood, Montgomery county; L. P. Tarlton, Frankfort; W. H. Holt, Frankfort; John W. Ritter and Albert Scott, Louisville; Vincent Boreing, Laurel county; W. A. Gaines, Covington.

Representative Speed tried to make a speech nominating some one, but was interrupted by a delegate who charged that Speed had gotten in by irregular methods. Both men got to the front of the orchestra circle to explain matters when a motion to close the nominations for delegates cut them off. Then there was another motion to adjourn, which the chair declared lost. The next regular business was the nomination of electors. The confusion was so great that it could not be proceeded with, and after endeavoring for ten minutes to go on, the motion to adjourn till 9 a. m. was declared carried.

CONVENTION HALL, LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 17. The adjourned session of the republican state convention was called to order at 9:20 a. m. Thursday. Judge V. S. Deming and State Inspector C. W. Lester, of Whitley, were elected electors for the state at-large. The report of the committee on resolutions was read and adopted almost by an unanimous vote.

The resolutions oppose the free and unlimited coinage of silver, believing it would plunge the country in financial ruin; regards the gold dollar the best dollar, and that all other dollars should be kept on a parity with it; favors reciprocity; sympathizes with the people of Cuba; believes in extending the system of free common schools; indorses Bradley's administration, and especially the calling out of troops to Frankfort; indorses the action of the late Kentucky house of representatives, and condemns the senate for refusing to assist the house.

Bradley is indorsed for president as follows:

Believing in the availability and fitness of Gov. Wm O. Bradley as a presidential candidate, mindful of the splendid state victory under his leadership, proud of his executive ability, knowing the soundness of his views on the financial and tariff questions, and confident that his nomination will secure for the republican party the electoral vote of Kentucky and other southern states, we declare him our choice for the president and instruct the delegates selected by this convention as delegates from the state at large to the next republican national convention to cast their votes for him as presidential nominee, but in the event his name is withdrawn from before the St. Louis convention and he ceases to be voted for there, then they are directed to cast their votes for Hon. Wm. McKinley, the great friend of protection, so long as his name shall remain before the convention."

Upon the adoption of the resolutions there were loud calls for Bradley. The chairman informed the convention that the governor was not in the house. Then there were loud calls for Hunter, but he did not respond.

Editor Sam Roberts, leader of the McKinley forces, said to the United Press reporter that his side was perfectly satisfied with the result, second instructions being all they wanted. A fight was only made on Bradley because some of his supporters tried to beat McKinley out of second instructions.

The following delegates from the state at large to the national convention were elected:

Electors-at-large—Samuel H. Cash, O. S. Deming.

Alternates-at-large—B. S. Phillips, Marshall Goosberry.

Delegates-at-large—W. J. Deboe, A. R. Burnham, Lew H. Tarlton, S. E. Smith (colored).

Convention adjourned.

FIRST AT HOME.

Ex-President and Mrs. Harrison Give an Informal Reception.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 17.—Ex-President and Mrs. Harrison gave the first of a series of informal receptions Thursday afternoon.

The occasion proved an enjoyable one to the friends that availed themselves of the opportunity to call and extend their congratulations.

Mrs. Harrison wore a gown of white silk, with trimmings of blue velvet, chiffon and lace. The general was attired in conventional black with white silk vest. The double parlors in which the guests were received were tastefully decorated with roses, evergreens and plants, delicate festoons of vines hung at the openings at the silk curtains.

INTER-COLLEGIATE MEET.

The Athletic Association Will Hold Their Convention at Columbus, June 6.

DELAWARE, O., April 17.—The Inter-Collegiate Athletic association has decided to hold its first annual state field meet on June 6. Each college is entitled to enter two men for each of the events, which are as follows: 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, one-fourth mile run, one-half mile run, one mile run, 120 yard hurdle, 220 yard hurdle, running high jump, running broad jump, pole vaulting, putting 16 pound shot, throwing 16 pound hammer, hop, skip and jump and one mile bicycle race. The college winning the greatest number of points will receive a very fine banner. The meet will occur at Columbus.

Big Tin-Plate Output.

ELWOOD, Ind., April 17.—The American tin-plate factory is all closed down for a few days, excepting the tinning department, for the purpose of taking an inventory of stock, as they do annually about this time. The work will probably require all this week, when the plant will again resume operations in full. The company has enjoyed a fairly prosperous year, and in that time has made over 720,000 boxes of tin plate, a record unsurpassed by any other American plant. Preparations are now being made to enlarge the plant by adding two new mills and ten stacks, requiring 250 more men, or 1,500 in all, to operate the plant.

A Double Egg.

CONNERSVILLE, Ind., April 17.—Wm. Green, of this city, has a Plymouth Rock hen which laid an egg a few days ago that is a curiosity. The outside shell is nearly as large as a goose egg, while inside is another egg, shell and all, of the ordinary size. Mr. Green has experts at work figuring out what kind of chicken would likely have hatched from the egg had it been incubated. As yet no satisfactory result has been reached.

No Fear of Lynching.

RICHMOND, Va., April 17.—Henry McCruder, the negro charged with outraging and murdering a colored girl near Longdale, Tuesday, has been captured at Clifton Forge. He was taken to Covington, the county seat of Allegheny, and lodged in jail. Public excitement is almost allayed, and there is no further fear that he will be lynched.

Pest House Burned.

ZANESVILLE, O., April 17.—The buildings where the smallpox patients were quartered were burned Thursday. The disease has been effectually stamped out. There was but one death during the epidemic.

Reappointed Superintendent.

DELAWARE, O., April 17.—At a meeting of the board of trustees of the Girls' Industrial home Capt. A. W. Stiles was reappointed superintendent for a term of four years and Mrs. Stiles matron.

He Gets Five Thousand Dollars.

SIDNEY, O., April 17.—The jury in the case of Wade Hitchcock vs. the C., H. & D. railroad, for $30,000 damages for the loss of his leg, brought in a verdict for $5,000, after being out about six hours.

Drilling for Oil Near Salem.

SALEM, O., April 17.—A company has just been formed here to drill for oil four miles north of this city. They claim they have strong indications of it being a good field.

SOUND MONEY.

It Is the Theme of Secretary Carlisle's Address at Chicago.

He Declares It the Only Safeguard Against Financial Disaster—Workingmen Entitled to a Stable Currency.

Chicago, April 16.—Every one of the 5,000 seats in Chicago's great Auditorium was filled Wednesday night with people who came to hear the address of Secretary Carlisle on currency and finances. Several hundred people stood through the entire address and several hundred more went away, being unable to gain admittance.

The secretary received a hearty welcome and was loudly cheered upon entering the hall.

The stage was occupied by about 200 officers of Chicago trades and labor assemblies, at whose invitation Mr. Carlisle came to Chicago. M. J. Carroll, editor of the Eight-Hour Herald, presided.

Mr. Carroll said it was the desire of the laboring people of Chicago to hear some plain, intelligent truths regarding the currency question, and that the secretary of the United States treasury had been selected as the most fit person for giving the information wanted. He referred to the late Horr-Harvey debate on the silver question, and said that nothing had been learned from it, and that the labor people were still undecided as to whether silver could be coined free without detriment to the credit and financial standing of the country. He then introduced Mr. Carlisle.

JOHN G. CARLISLE.

Relation of Currency to Workingmen.

Mr. Carlisle opened his address by speaking of the importance of the money question to the workingmen of this country or any other country.

Whether the general business of the people, he said, shall be transacted with good money or bad money, whether the wages of labor shall be paid in a sound and stable currency, with full purchasing power in the markets where they are exchanged for the necessaries of life, or in a depreciated and fluctuating currency, having no fixed value and therefore bearing no permanent relation to the current prices of commodities, are questions which affect the comfort and happiness of every home and the peace and prosperity of every community.

He called attention to the fact that the workingmen, more than all others, should insist upon a policy that will preserve the value and stability of all our currency and promote the profitable conduct of our industrial enterprises, for it is his home and his family that will suffer from the effects of a cheap currency that will increase the price of commodities more than the wealthy capitalist. The capitalist has enough to prevent want coming to himself or family whatever may come. It is the poor man who depends upon his wages or upon the products of his own labor for the means of supporting himself and his family, that always feels the first and most disastrous effects of a business or industrial depression, no matter whether it results from a depreciated and fluctuating currency or from other causes. Such a man has nothing to dispose of but his labor, and nothing with which to support himself or his family but his wages or the proceeds of his own labor, and any policy that even temporarily suspends or obstructs the industrial progress of the country, by diminishing the demand for the products of labor or by impairing the capacity or disposition of capital to employ labor, must be injurious to his interests and inflict more or less suffering upon all who are dependent upon him.

Result of 16 to 1 Ratio.

Whether we shall or shall not have a long period of financial, commercial and industrial depression in this country is a question directly and necessarily involved in the demand now seriously made by many of our fellow-citizens that the United States, without the cooperation of any other government in the world, shall authorize the free and unlimited coinage of full legal tender silver at the ratio of sixteen to one, notwithstanding the true market ratio between the two metals is about thirty to one. The naked proposition is that the United States shall coin, at the public expense, for the exclusive benefit of the individuals and corporations owning the bullion, all the silver that may be presented at the mints into dollars containing 371¼ grains of pure silver, or 412½ grains of standard silver, worth intrinsically about 51 or 52 cents, deliver the coins to the depositors of the bullion and compel all the other people in the country to receive these coins at a valuation of 100 cents each in payment of debts due them. To say nothing of the gross partiality and manifest injustice of such a policy, its immediate effect would be to contract our currency to the extent of about $620,000,000 by stopping the use of gold as money and putting a premium upon the coins of that metal equal, or about equal, to the difference between the intrinsic value of the gold dollar and the intrinsic value of the silver dollar. Gold coins would at once become a commodity and would be bought and sold by speculators in the market. The value of the silver dollar would fluctuate from day to day, moving up and down with the rise and fall of the commercial price of the bullion contained in it, as the Mexican dollar does now, and the premium on the gold dollar would of course fluctuate to the same extent, thus affording an opportunity to bullion brokers and speculators to buy and sell at a profit. It would cease to be used as money, because no man would pay his debts in gold dollars, or in paper redeemable in gold dollars, worth 100 cents, when the law permitted him to pay it in silver dollars, worth only 51 or 52 cents each.

Purchasing Power of Silver Lessened.

While the sudden expulsion of $620,000,000 in gold from our stock of money would itself be sufficient to create a financial disturbance unparalleled in the history of this or any other country, the situation would be very greatly aggravated by the fact that the purchasing power of all the remainder of our currency would be suddenly reduced about one-half; we should have only about two-thirds as much currency as we have now, and at the same time it would be so depreciated in value that it would require about twice as much as we have now to transact the business of the country, provided there should be any business to transact.

Double Standard Always a Failure.

The attempt to maintain what is called the double standard of value, that is the attempt to keep the legal tender coins of the two metals, gold and silver, in use as money at the same time, upon a ratio of value fixed by law, has repeatedly been made by kings and parliaments in every civilized country in the world, and it has failed again and again in every one of them; and it requires no gift of prophecy to foresee that it must continue to fail so long as self interest constitutes a controlling factor in the business affairs of men.

A history of the monetary legislation in this country from the time of the drafting of the constitution to the present day is given to support the assertion that the double standard has proven a failure in the United States.

We should descend by a single step from the highest standard of value to silver monometallism, with a contracted and at the same time a depreciated currency, a financial experiment which has no precedent in the monetary history of the world.

Many Years Required for Readjustment.

After struggling for more than a quarter of a century, through labor organizations and otherwise, to secure a rate of wages which would make the proceeds of a day's work equal the cost of a day's subsistence for the workingman and his family, you are asked by the advocates of free coinage to join them in destroying one-half the purchasing power of the money in which you are paid and impose upon yourselves the task of doubling the nominal amount of your wages hereafter; that is, to struggle for another quarter of a century, or perhaps longer, to raise your wages in a depreciated currency to a point which will enable you to purchase with them as much of the necessaries of life as you can purchase now; and if, after years of contention, privation and industrial disorder, you should at last succeed in so adjusting wages that you would procure at the higher prices of commodities just what they will procure now at the existing prices, what would you have gained by the change from the old to the new conditions?

A history of wages in this country is given to show that cheap money does not increase wages, but does increase the price of commodities.

American Workmen Deserve Good Money.

You have doubtless observed recently what appears to be quite a formidable demonstration in favor of the free coinage of silver by certain large manufacturing interests in the eastern part of the country, upon the ground that if we continue to maintain our present standard of value the silver standard countries, especially India, China and Japan, will soon be able to undersell them in the markets of the world. Reduced to its simplest form, the proposition of these gentlemen is that the manufacturers of certain kinds of goods in this country cannot continue to pay their laborers high wages in gold or its equivalent and compete successfully in the markets abroad with the manufacturers of similar goods in silver standard countries, who pay their laborers low wages in depreciated silver, and, therefore, they insist that a monetary system shall be adopted here which shall give them the advantage of paying for their labor in depreciated silver. The theory is that with free coinage of legal tender silver the wages of laborers in this country would be paid in silver dollars worth about half as much as gold dollars, but the product of labor, which would belong to the employer, would be sold for gold in the markets abroad, and that the gold thus obtained would be exchanged for silver at about the rate of one dollar in gold for two dollars in silver; and thus the process would go on, the employer getting gold of full value and the laborer getting depreciated silver, which, in the opinion of these gentlemen, would be a most happy solution of this question.

Workingmen the Creditor Class.

If the solution of this question affected only the character and amount and purchasing power of the future earnings of the American laborer, it would still be a subject of the gravest importance to him; but its importance is greatly increased by the fact that the safety and value of a very considerable part of his past earnings are also involved.

According to the latest reports the savings banks in your own state hold $24,[illegible]-4[illegible]0 on deposit for 83,802 people, or an average of $2[illegible]7 for each depositor, and in the whole country they hold $1,810,597,000 for 4,875,519 people or an average of $371 for each depositor. State banks, trust companies and private banks hold $1,340,888,000 for about 1,750,000 people, and national banks hold $1,701,653,521 for 1,520,340 depositors, of whom 1,724,000 have less than $1,000 to their credit. Besides these institutions there are 6,000 building and loan associations in the United States, having about 1,800,000 shareholders, male and female, who have paid dues in good money, amounting to more than $500,000,000.

More than 7,500,000 of our people have taken out life insurance policies, which are now in force, amounting to $4,202,857,-323, and have paid the premiums on them year after year in good money, while the mutual benefit and assessment and cooperative and fraternal companies and associations have 3,500,000 members, who have contributed a large part of their earnings to the funds held to reimburse losses sustained by sickness or death. The obligations of these companies and associations to their members amount to $5,184,670,136; and the industrial companies in the United States have a membership of 6,919,598, with insurance amounting to $516,650,678 in addition to all the foregoing, and it is constantly increasing.

Debts Should Be Paid in 100-Cent Dollars.

The banks, trust companies, building associations and other similar institutions, owe the people of the United States to-day $5,353,183,321 for money actually deposited, a sum nearly eight times greater than the total capital of the national banks in the country; while the life insurance policies held by the people in the various kinds of corporations and associations and in force to-day amount to $10,203,804,357, a larger sum than has been actually invested in all our railroads and about 15 times larger than the capital of all the national banks. In view of these facts, which cannot be successfully disputed, I submit that you ought seriously to consider all the consequences to yourselves and your fellow-citizens before you agree to the free and unlimited coinage of legal tender silver at a ratio of sixteen to one, in order that these great corporations and associations may have the privilege of discharging their debts to the people by paying 51 to 52 cents on the dollar, for that is exactly what it means.

Depreciated Currency Will Bring Disaster.

But if free and unlimited coinage of legal tender silver at the ratio of sixteen to one is established in this country, a very large part of the money deposited in these various kinds of savings institutions will not even be repaid in depreciated silver, but will be wholly lost, because such a reckless monetary system would precipitate a financial panic, which very few, if any, of the depositories could survive. I doubt if there is a single financial institution in the country that could sustain the pressure that would be immediately made upon it by its depositors and other creditors, when it became apparent that our standard of value was to be lowered and our currency depreciated by free coinage.

Sound and Stable Money the Safeguard.

Less than three years ago you saw our financial, commercial and industrial affairs violently disturbed by the fear that the government would not be able to maintain gold payments, and that our currency would descend to a silver basis. You saw the operations of industry interrupted, banks failing, great commercial houses unable to meet their obligations, credit seriously impaired, mills and factories closed and thousands of laborers thrown out of employment, and a state of panic and business disorder prevailing in every part of the country. If a mere doubt as to the kind of money we intended to use produced these distressing results, what think you would be the probable consequences of a deliberate determination upon the part of our people to adopt silver monometallism as a permanent system?"

The greatest crime short of absolute political enslavement that could be committed against the workingman in this country would be to confiscate his labor for the benefit of the employer by destroying the value of the money in which his wages are paid; but, gentlemen, this irreparable wrong can never be perpetuated under our system of government unless the laboring man himself assists in forging his own chains.

TREATY RATIFIED.

Senate Acts in the Behring Sea Commission Matter.

Washington, April 16.—Practically without opposition and without taking a yea and nay vote the senate Wednesday afternoon in executive session ratified the treaty with Great Britain providing for the appointment of a commission for the assessment of the damages growing out of the seizure of vessels engaged in sealing in the Behring sea. There were one or two verbal but unimportant amendments.

Ex-Congressman Commits Suicide.

New York, April 16.—Charles H. Voorhis, formerly a lay judge of Bergen county, N. J., and an ex-member of congress, committed suicide Wednesday night in his law office in the Davidson building, Jersey City.

THE CONGRESS.

The General Pension Bill Will Be Called Up in the House,

To Be Followed by the General Deficiency and the Bankruptcy Bills—The Naval Appropriation Bill Will Probably Be Disposed of in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Monday is "suspension day" in the house—that is to say a day on which it is in order to take up bills for immediate passage under suspension of the rules. That order will be followed by the general pension bill reported on Friday last. By the terms of this bill, discontinuances or reductions of pensions, except for fraud or error, or recovery from disabilities, are made unlawful. Chairman Pickler estimates that the restoration of pension and additional expenditures authorized by the bill will amount to two or three millions a year.

Mr. Cannon will afterwards call up the general deficiency bill. Wednesday and Thursday have been set aside for a discussion of the bankruptcy bill upon which a vote is to be taken by the house on Friday.

In the senate an effort will probably be made to antagonize Mr. Peffer's pending bond purchase investigation resolution by calling up the Indiana bill. The naval appropriation bill has been ready for consideration for ten days, and Mr. Hale is very anxious to dispose of it. Mr. Gorman is credited with an intention to attack the provision for four new battle ships. He proposes to reduce this number to two and to substitute for the battle ships stricken out small sized gunboats for use in rivers and shallow waters.

A NATIONAL CONFERENCE

Of Prominent Men to Discuss the Arbitration Question to Be Held in Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—A national conference to discuss methods of securing a permanent system of arbitration between the United States and Great Britain will be held in Washington Wednesday and Thursday of this week. The call contemplated a conference of the same size as a national convention, and it is expected from the responses received that about 300 gentlemen will be in attendance. It was signed by a number of gentlemen prominently identified with the peace by arbitration movement. Chief Justice Fuller, Gen. Miles, of the army, Adm. Walker, of the navy, Hon. John W. Foster, Cardinal Gibbons, President Eliot, of Harvard, Seth Low, of New York, and others. Senator Edmunds is slated for presiding officer, and the first day's speakers include beside him, Hon. John W. Foster, President Angell, of Michigan, Mr. Edward Atkinson, of Massachusetts, and Hon. Carl Schurz, of New York.

AN "INVENTOR"

Calls on the President, Is Sent to the Police Station to Await an Examination as to His Sanity, Where He Commits Suicide.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—On Friday last a man giving his name as Henry A. Anderson, of Chicago, called at the executive mansion and endeavored to secure an interview with President Cleveland. Anderson claimed to have a number of inventions suitable for a hunter's use that he thought the president would like to have. His inventions included a patent boat which had a speed of a 100 miles per hour; a gun that would kill 48 ducks at one shot, etc.

The officer sent Anderson to a police station to await an examination as to his sanity. Sunday he was found dead in his cell, having committed suicide by hanging himself to the bars of the grating of his cell.

Shot His Wife and Wounded an Officer.

TROY, N. Y., April 20.—John Kaiser, a German residing at Sand Lake who separated from his wife two months ago, went to her house early Sunday morning and demanded that he be permitted to remain. She refused, whereupon he fired two shots, fatally injuring her. He then went to the farmhouse where he had been living and went to sleep. A sheriff's posse of several hundred villagers arrested the man after a hot fight, during which Deputy Sheriff Horton received a bullet wound in the hand.

Counterfeiters Arrested.

SPOKANE, Wash., April 20.—Secret service officers of the government raided a little shanty in the timber near this city and captured two men engaged in making counterfeit coins. Their paraphernalia and a lot of bogus coin was secured. George Johnson and George Craig are the names of the prisoners. Both are ex-convicts. Five other members of the gang escaped. This is the same gang that flooded the city with spurious coin a month ago and for which the officers have been in search.

Destructive Floods in Canada.

MONTREAL, April 20.—Dispatches from various points in the province of Quebec report that the floods are causing great damage and are not abating. The Quebec Central railroad will lose $100,000 by the wreck of the bridge at Sherbrooke. Every store in Richmond, a town of 3,000, is flooded. The telegraph office and other buildings are abandoned. Great damage has been done at Sorel, Three Rivers, St. Anselma, Nicholet, Actone and other places.

Rev. Cyrus S. Bates Dead.

CLEVELAND, O., April 20.—Rev. Cyrus S. Bates, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, on Euclid avenue, died Sunday afternoon from pneumonia, contracted ten days ago. Rev. Bates was one of the most widely known Episcopal clergymen in Ohio, and among his congregation were numbered many of the wealthiest families in Cleveland. He won renown as a soldier, practiced law for five years at the close of the war and entered the ministry in 1873. Before coming to Cleveland he was professor of theology at Gambier and Kenyon universities. Rev. Bates was born December 31, 1840.

CLARA BARTON

Appeals to the Armenian National Relief Committee—Three Thousand Armenians Sick of Typhus at Marash.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Miss Clara Barton, president of the Red Cross society, cables to the national relief committee as follows:

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 17.—Trask, New York. Hubbell, in charge of the Red Cross relief expedition at Marash, reports April 13: "Three thousand sick of typhus, including the English consul."

On the 15th he reports: "Sickness at Zeitoun increasing with forty to fifty deaths daily. Great and immediate need for funds. General condition for relief work favorable." BARTON.

The national Armenian relief committee in giving out this appeal from Clara Barton can not refrain from reminding the American people of all classes and stations that Miss Barton undertook this sacred work of relief only in response to the urgent request of the public, and assurances that the work would be generously maintained to the end.

Not one-fifth of the $500,000 needed to carry on the relief work on the smallest calculation made has yet been given and yet the need and facilities for carrying on relief are greater than ever. In fact, unless the people are aided the various agencies will be practically thrown away and thousands will inevitably perish of pestilence and starvation.

The christianity and honor of the American people are at stake as well as the lives of the survivors of the massacres, most of whom are helpless and innocent women and children. It should be remembered that by showing a lively interest in the sufferers by liberally supporting the agencies at work for their relief is the best and most efficient way of securing for them more considerate treatment at the hands of the Turkish government.

Individuals, churches and clubs should at once send large gifts to Brown Bros. & Co., 59 Wall street, New York, who are the authorized treasurers.

SPENCER TRASK,
Chairman Executive Committee.

A CAUCUS.

Democratic Leaders, Opposed to Free Silver, Hold a Consultation in Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 18.—A caucus of democratic leaders in Chicago, to "take such steps as will prevent a declaration in favor of free silver at the coming state convention," was held Friday night at the Palmer house. Half a hundred democrats prominent in state, city and ward politics, attended and Henry S. Robbins, president of the Sound Money league of Illinois, presided. Several bankers and prominent merchants were active participants. It was distinctively a Cleveland administration meeting, and to that extent an anti-Altgeld gathering. Ex-Mayor Hopkins, who is credited with being the leader of the Altgeld free silver faction in state politics, and other Altgeld democrats were absent, presumably because of the state machine's opposition to the gold standard. It was decided to organize the city by wards so as to win out in the county convention and then to carry the fight into the state convention by city and state organization. For that purpose a committee of 100 was decided upon, of which Mr. Robbins was chosen chairman. These democrats are not opposed to Altgeld's renomination, but if they get a majority of gold delegates to the state convention they will give him the alternative of being nominated on that kind of a platform or retiring to private life.

FATAL FIRE.

Three People Burned in a Tenement House at Klotter and Baymiller Streets, Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, April 18.—Shortly after two o'clock Saturday morning fire broke out in the building at Klotter and Baymiller streets. On the lower floor is a grocery and saloon, while the upper portion is occupied by several tenants. The fire was burning briskly when discovered, and before the sleeping inmates of the house could be got out by the police and firemen, who responded to an alarm from Box 376, three persons were badly burned, one fatally.

The victims are Mrs. Freda Wagner, aged 27; her infant daughter, and a Mrs. Mary Shafer, aged 48. The latter can survive but a few hours, being burned about the body. Mrs. Wagner is also frightfully burned about the face, shoulders, arms and feet. The child is not so badly burned. The three unfortunates were taken to the city hospital by patrol No. 5.

The fire, the origin of which is unknown, was extinguished with small loss.

HORSE-RACING.

Important Decision by the Appellate Division of the New York Supreme Court.

NEW YORK, April 18.—According to a decision rendered by the appellate division of the supreme court Friday horse racing can be conducted in this state at least until the court of appeals decides otherwise.

The decision reaffirms the constitutionality of the act known as the Percy-Gray racing law. The appeal was taken on the decision of Judge Ingraham releasing from custody Joseph Sturgis and Col. Lawrence, who were arrested while conducting, October 23, 1895, a meeting at Morris Park.

Nine Months' Revenue Receipts.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Internal revenue receipts for the nine months of the current fiscal year from official figures made public Friday by Commissioner Miller aggregated $110,179,073 an increase over the corresponding months of 1895 of $183,957, exclusively derived from tobacco and beer. The principal items of revenues were: Spirits, $61,525,454, a decrease of $2,377,415; tobacco, $21,257,507, an increase of $1,151,180; fermented liquors, $24,059,737, an increase of $1,758,071; oleomargerine, $996,339, a decrease of $188,892, and miscellaneous, $340,946, a decrease of $138,987.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, April 22, 1896.

Advertising Rates:

One inch, one time	$1.00
Each additional time	.25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch	.50
Announcement of candidates for office, cash when ordered	$5.00.

W. L. RIDDELL, - - Publisher.

Neighborhood News.

Limaburg.

Ezra Rouse and wife were visiting at Jacob Tanner's, last Sunday.

Otis Rouse has a bicycle.

Geo. Rouse is our early bird. He commenced planting corn on the 20th.

Hebron base ball boys are talking ball, now, and expect to have a club this season.

James M. Utz was visiting John P. Cloud, last Sunday.

John Conrad gave the young folks a social party, last Saturday night.

A. F. Crigler is quite poorly.

Hebron.

Rain is needed badly.

There is fine prospects for fruit.

We are sorry to hear that Wilfred Bullock is not able to be at his post in the store.

Chas. Clore gave Wm Goodridge's house a fresh coat of paint, which added greatly to its appearance.

Mrs. Addie Ernstes is able to be out again.

The Sunday School at this place was organized last Sunday. Miss Maggie Bullock is secretary, Walter Goodridge treasurer, and Miss Orle Rouse, organist. There were 16 teachers and 92 scholars present. Collection, $2.26.

Union.

Mr. Dick Thompson, of Covington, will be in our town this week.

Dr. Adams will preach here the second and fourth Sundays of each month.

Mrs. John Garrison spent several days at Williamstown, last week.

Miss Schuster will give an entertainment in the near future.

If you want cheap and first-class groceries give Rachal & Co., a call.

Mrs. Quiseuburry is the guest of her sister, Mrs. James Huey.

Mrs. Lida Conne, Misses Lottie Williams, Maud and Ella Norman attended a Missionary Meeting in Covington, last week.

Tom Huey has a new buggy. Who will be the first?

Hathaway.

A fine crop of peach bloom.

Rev. Reed preached at the Big Bone Hall, last Saturday night a week.

Rev. Kirtley occupied the pulpit at Big Bone church on the 2d Sunday. He very seldom fails, no matter what the weather, is good or bad.

Several of our boys and men turned out with their poles and lines, last Tuesday night, but luck was against them and they never got a fish.

Several made gardens during the fine weather, we have had.

Mrs. Ella Utz and Miss Anna Garrison, spent last Monday with Mrs. Ava Adams.

Mrs. Alice Neal and daughter and Mrs. Lou Neal and daughter spent last Wednesday with Mrs. Etta Clements.

Waterloo.

This is a peaceable community with law-abiding citizens, at least the grand jury thought so.

John McAtee is teaching the spring school at Beech Grove, and Miss Hattie Huey at Locust Grove.

Jasper Sullivan had a young horse to die a few days ago.

Owen Blankenbecker and wife were guests of J. L. McAtee, Sunday.

Chas. L. Kelly has the mumps.

Ben Sturgeon and wife, of Petersburg, spent last Wednesday with Mrs. Sturgeon's mother, Mrs. Wingate, who has been very sick.

Eugene Kelly has moved to his farm —the Kelly homestead.

J. W. Satchwell has typhoid fever.

Robt. Clore and family were visiting at J. S. Huey's, Sunday.

The RECORDER attracts more attention than any paper that comes to this place. Everyone is anxious to see it each week, and it has improved with age.

Dogs made a raid on E. Aylor's flock of sheep, last Friday night, but were discovered before much damage resulted.

Bullittsville.

Wm. A. Clore, one of our most enterprising citizens, fell from a wagon a few days ago and broke a rib.

Mrs. Dr. Crouch, of Union, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Gaines, last week.

Rev. Geo. Ranshaw, of Covington, occupied the pulpit at the Christian Church. last Sunday, in the absence of the regular pastor, J. E. Curry.

Clif Hedges, of Florenc, is visiting his grand father, Ben Clore.

Miss Dolly Goodridge has been quite ill for the last three weeks.

Mrs. Clinton Gaines and Miss Bernice Duncan were visiting in Covington, a few days last week.

W. C. Watts, our former clerk, is much improved in health and has been visiting friends in this vicinity.

T. G. Graves has reconsidered his prophecy concerning the fruit crop. He now thinks we will have plenty of fruit for the next two years.

Miss Mae Cropper and Scott Chambers, Miss Bernice Duncan and James Duncan, were the guests of Hubert Cropper and family, of North Bend, last Saturday and Sunday.

Quite a number of our citizens were attending court last week.

Wm. C. Gaines, one of our enterprising young farmers, is tending a corn crop on the river.

Miss Effie Henry, of this neighborhood, and Mr. McNulty, of Chillicothe, Ohio, were married in Covington, last Wednesday.

Erlanger.

Mr. Jefferson Utz, left for his home in St. Louis, after an enjoyable vacation to his sister here, whom he had not seen for 21 years.

J. J. Weaver, the surveyor reached this place Friday with the survey of the electric route from Ludlow.

The meeting for the incorporation was well attended and resolutions were passed to have an improvement association and have papers drawn and signed by those in favor and those opposed.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Scott have for their guest Miss Wray, of Standford.

Rev. O. M. Huey has accepted the call at Carrollton, and will preach on the 1st and 3d Sundays in May before locating at Carrollton.

The leap year party given by the young ladies last Thursday night was the event of the season. The attendance was very large. Among those present were Misses Sarah and Nannie Bullock, Alice Wilson, Rena Yelton, —— Whitehouse, Clara Senior, Pearl Respass, Lina Coppin. Bertha Hackathorn, ——Davis of Covington; Fannie Finch, Olga Kirkpatrick, Ella Duncan, Bessie Berkshire, Kittie Gaines, Mr. and Mrs. Riley, and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Clutterbuck, of Burlington; Miss Burkett, Miss Lassing, Miss Clutterbuck, Misses Lizzie and Hattie Dulaney, Statia Childress, Bessie Crigler, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Scott, Dr. and Mrs. Slater, Mrs. R. K. Dulaney and Bessie Snyder; Messrs. Thos. Tupman, Chas. Souther, Leslie Clutterbuck, J. M. Collins, Hubert Gaines, T. C. Glore, Kirtley Bannister, John and Hugh Bullock, Jos. and Wm. Whitehouse, Chas. Freeman, Cecil Pence, Coppen, Lowery, Gibson, Fisk, Riley, Corey, Mason, Galvin and Childress.

Walton.

The compositor make a mistake in the second paragraph in last week's communication by setting up "not" for "yet" which entirely reversed the meaning of all that preceded it and should read "and the day yet shall come when the tribunes of the people shall stable their steeds in the stalls of the money changers." There was considerable badgering at the expense of the correspondent, and as it was printed, justly.

The Courier-Journal of the 14th inst., says that Chairman Long announces the opinion that the State Convention should not adopt a platform, but leave it to the National Convention which will meet later. Mr. Long is something of a schemer, sees very clearly that the convention will adopt a bi-metallic platform which will have a big effect on the National Convention, and it is very probable that the Courier-Journal is of the same mind.

Now it is highly important to the silver cause that the State Convention should make a platform in order that all may know just how Kentucky stands, and it is the one great hope of the gold standard men that something may be set up before the meeting of the National Convention that will prejudice the cause of bi-metallism. A special to the Times-Star one day this week stated that there was a panic among the gold devotees at Washington as it was there believed that the silver men would capture the convention.

So much the more important is it then that Kentucky should lead off. We have them now on the down grade and by all means should keep them going. The sound money men so called were anxious to stave off the meeting of the convention until the last of June hoping the silver men would come over enthusiastically for Mr. Carlisle, but the futility of this hope has impressed Mr. Carlisle and Chairman Long of the Executive Committee so the Convention will be called for May.

It may be as well to state that Mr. Long is an expert in calling conventions and every move that it is possible for him to make to injure the silver cause will be made deliberately and with malice prepense. Let us hasten then the formation of bi-metallic clubs all over the country and be ready for any emergency. The silver men of Lexington met on the 13th inst., and took preliminary steps for an organization.

On to-morrow Walton will lose one of her most enterprising citizens. Mr. A. M Edwards will move to Wilmington, Delaware, and make it his home in the future. He is identified with this place and has done more toward building it up than any man who ever lived here. His integrity, industry and enterprise has been equaled by none, and his going is regretted by all who knew him, many predict his return at no distant day but the wish is father to the prediction. The Recorder wishes him success, peace and happiness.

Florence.

Mrs. Dr. Dulaney and daughter, Ruy, most beautifully entertained the Mistletoe Euchre club at their home, last Wednesday evening. A very pleasant evening was spent and a number of interesting games were played. Among those present were Misses Katie Grogau, Ella Coleman, Jennie Myers, Bessie Snyder, Alice Cloud, Edmonia Porter; Messrs. Irving Kyle, Charley and Chester Souther, Harry Fisk, Ben and Mack Dulaney, Mr. and Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Kyle and Mrs. Cravens.

Mrs. Corwine and children, of Covington, were the guests of Mrs. Porter, last week.

Mrs. Thos. Coleman, of Maysville, has returned home, after a pleasant visit with her daughter, Mrs. Hickey.

Mack Dulaney, of Lexington, is the pleasant guest of his parents, here.

Clif Hedges is at home after a delightful visit with his grand-parents at Bullittsville.

Miss Mary Grogan and sister spent Sunday with their sister, Mrs. Carrell, of Bank Lick.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn spent Sunday with friends at this place.

Miss Lizzie Egholze, of Erlanger, was the guest of Miss Lizzie Kroger, one day last week.

Mr. P. Metcalfe, of Walton, was in town, last Sunday.

Zeke Jones and his sister, Mary, were the guest of their cousin, Irving Kyle, last week.

The members of the Baptist church have opened a Sunday school, and parents will do well to see that their children are present. We sincerely hope it will be largely attended.

One of our gallant young gentlemen is thinking seriously of purchasing a bicycle made for two.

The horses belonging to our cab driver, Mr. Sells, became frightened at a drove of sheep, one day last week, and ran off, demolishing the cab, while Mr. Sells was conversing with one of Erlanger's most brilliant young ladies, and we hope that this accident will teach him that business always comes before pleasure.

The party given by Miss Susie Grant, last Wednesday evening, was a brilliant affair and a very pleasant time was had by all those present.

Mrs. Cravens, the popular and accomplished musician, has been offered by Rev. Father Kolb a position as organist at St. Paul's Church.

Richwood.

W. H. Scott and wife, of Crescent, were visiting here, last Sunday.

Jasper Carpenter has purchased a farm in Kenton county and moved there last week.

J. J. Tanner is reading up on electricity and is able to give desirable information on that subject.

Ed Stephens has improved his house by the addition of two rooms.

F. Carpenter's eyes are not improving very rapidly.

Mr. Steele, of Cincinnati, has moved into Mrs. Judith Rice's house.

J. R. Carpenter has lost several head of cattle this spring.

A Mr. Waltrop, a conductor on the Southern Road, was killed by an overhead bridge at Walton, last Saturday. He got on top of a freight car to set a brake, not thinking of the bridge, his head striking the cross-beam, crushing his skull and killing him instantly.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Col. John Leathers, of Covington, attended court here Monday.

Jack Sandford attended a ball in Cincinnati last Wednesday night.

Geo. McClusky, at one time a citizen of Florence, was in town last Saturday.

Hon. Cecil Pence, of Covington, attended court two or three day, last week.

Addison Riddell, of the Beaver neighborhood, was reported very sick last Monday.

Mrs. Venie Patterson, of Covington, is the guest of her niece, Mrs. F. Riddell, of this place.

Rev. B. F. Swindler, of Covington, will preach in the Baptist church here to-morrow (Thursday) night.

Mrs. Geo. Piper and children, of Louisville, are visiting Mrs Piper's mother, Mrs. Virginia Huey, of this place.

Mat J. Day, a Cincinnati stenographer, has been present several days during the present session of the court.

Frank Russell ran a passenger coach between Burlington and Constance while the Fox and Moore case was on trial.

Mrs. James S. Moore, of the Bullittsville neighborhood, was in town, last Monday, and made this office a pleasant call.

C. C. Roberts and wife attended the basket meeting at Mt. Pleasant, last Sunday. It was a decidedly pleasant day to them.

Dr. J. H. Walton, left last Wednesday morning for Chicago, where he will visit his brother, R. R. Walton, and cousin, F. W. Berkshire.

Assessor Brady has discovered that he is holding the most popular office in the county, at least more men want it than are [illegible] to anyother.

Ome Rogers came out from the city, last week, and was examined and granted a license to practice law. He stood a splendid examination, and is now a full-fledged attorney.

Thos. Cowen came down from Frankfort, last Friday, to visit his aged father, who is quite poorly. He returned Saturday morning. Tom is beginning to look slightly ancient about the head.

W. H. Rice, of Florence, visited this office, one day last week. He is in fine spirits, but recently having been successfully treated for rupture by Dr. Riggs. Mr. Rice will be glad to give anyone information in regard to the treatment received.

T. L. Swetnam writes us that he is still a citizen of Florence, where he intends to vote and pay poll tax; and that he has recovered mentally and almost physically, and is prepared to do any kind of writing, such as deeds, mortgages, contracts, wills, etc., for anyone desiring such work.

The tenant house on the land owned by Dudley Rouse about a mile south of town, was destroyed by fire at 9 o'clock Monday night, together with all the clothing and household effects of the occupants, William Slayback and family. The fire is supposed to have been caused by a defective flue, and it had made such headway when discovered that Mr. Slayback and family barely had time to make their escape. A paper asking aid for the unfortunate family, was in circulation Monday, and it was being responded to byall.

For Sale.

A new, double brick dwelling house in first-class order. With it are 7 acres of desirable land. All kinds of fruit.—Price, $5,000.

MR. MAYER, Erlanger, KY.

Eggs and Poultry

I am now taking orders for thoroughbred Poultry and Eggs. First come, first served.

A. M. ACRA,
Burlington, Ky.

Election Notice.

The stockholders of the Burlington & Bellevue turnpike are hereby notified that an election will be held in the town of Burlington, Ky., Monday, May 4th, 1896, for the purpose of electing officers to serve the ensuing year.

S. P. BRADY, President.

Eggs for Sale.

Eggs for hatching—Barred Plymouth Rocks exclusively—pure bred, vigorous and healthy—strictly first-class. Stock in separate pens—No. 1, $1 per 13 eggs. No. 2, 50c per 15 eggs.

Mrs. R. O. Smith, Union, Ky.

NOTICE.

I hereby give notice that after thirty days I will apply to the Boone County Court to have my voting place changed from the Bellevue precinct to the Petersburg precinct, in Boone county.

BEN HENSLEY,

April 13, 1896.

Painting & Repairing
Buggies and Carriages
—REPAIRED AT THE MOST—
REASONABLE RATES.
GIVE ME A TRIAL.
I am also agent for the EMMERSON, FISHER BUGGY COMPANY.
C. ERNSTES, - - Hebron, Ky.

BLACKSMITHI'G.
A. J. CLAYTON
—Does all kinds of—
Smithing.
Always on hand and anxious to give satisfaction to all customers,
Horse Shoeing A SPECIALTY.
BURLINGTON, - KY.

18 SPRING AND SUMMER 96
MILLINERY
All the Latest Ideas in Spring and Summer
MILLINERY
Will always be found at our Store.
Ladies', Misses' and Children's Patterns.
HATS & BONNETS of artistic designs and from our own work rooms—Stock up to date. Hats trimmed to order on short notice.
Prices Lower Than Ever.
You will find everything usually kept in a first-class
MILLINERY STORE.
Everything new in this season's goods.
Our trimmers are of the best.
Your patronage is solicited.
Mrs. A. J. SWALLOW,
Main St., RISING SUN, IND.

FERTILIZER.

Farmers, I would be pleased to have your orders for Fertilizer this year. Our goods are graded up considerably for 1896, and we have the following goods at last year's prices:
Raw Bone Meal.
Fine Ground Bone.
Tobacco and Potatoes.
Acidulated Bone.
Ammoniated Bone.
Special Tobacco.
Miami Valley Phosphate.
Jones Reliable Phosphate.
Jewell Phosphate.
When you buy our goods you get the worth of your money, and you know I placed good goods on the Boone and Kenton county market in 1894 and 1895 for less money than any other firm.
B. F. ZIMMER, Gen. Agt.,
for The Jones Fertilizer Co.,
Constance, Ky.

If you want Harness and Saddle qualities combined with speed breed to

SAM HARRIS,
No. 6520. Record, 2:29¼.
He will make the season of 1896, at my stable on the Dry Creek & Bullittsville pike, between Hebron and Constance, at $10 to insure a colt, the money due when the mare is known to be in foal or parted with after being bred.
SAM HARRIS' get always sells for fancy prices. Forty of his colts sold at an average of over $400—no other horse that ever stood in this county has made such a showing. If desired the names of those making above sales will be furnished.
Those desiring to breed mares can leave them with me and they will receive attention and be furnished pasturage at $2 per month. The excellent breeding qualities of Sam Harris are well known in this county.
J. L. RILEY.

THE SADDLE AND HARNESS
STALLION,

JIM CROW,
Will be found this season at Geo. E. Rouse's farm on the Florence and Burlington pike at $8.00 for a living colt.
For further information call on or address
J. E. ROUSE,
Limaburg, Boone Co., Ky.

Take your County Paper.

"It's All Right."
They say, when you want the
BEST GOODS
and the most reasonable prices. Go to
IRA AYLOR'S,
save money and your patience.
The Stock is new and has been bought at the best possible rates. Just call and see what we will do for you.
Very Truly,
IRA AYLOR,
Branch Store—UNION, KY. ERLANGER, KY.

STEPHENS & SCALES,
—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN—
Hardware, Cutlery, and Agricultural Implements,
Genuine Oliver Chilled & Steel Plows,
Bissell Chilled & Steel Hillside Plows,
Walking & Riding Cultivators,
Steel & Wood Gear Farm Wagons,
Champion Mower and Binders,
Ball Bearing Disk Harrows,
BARBED AND SMOOTH WIRE
AT THE LOWEST MARKET PRICE.
No. 26 Pike Street, - - - Covington, Ky.

BEST GOODS! LIVING PRICES!
Hardware,
Farm Machinery,
Fine Vehicles,
Harness.
HARRIS FITCH, Corner HIGH AND SHORT STREETS,
LAWRENCEBURG, INDIANA.

A. G. HECKMAN,
Florist, Plants, Bulbs, Seeds, & Metal Designs.
Fresh Cut Flowers Daily. Artistic Floral Designs a Specialty.
734 Madison Avenue,
Covington, - - - Kentucky.
25 Per Cent. Less than any Cincinnati House.

J. J. GEISEN,
Best and cheapest HAT STORE In the city.
Agency for WHITE STAR LAUNDRY.
615 Madison Ave., COVINGTON, KY.

METROPOLITAN COUPE AND LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,
E. H. BAKER, Proprietor
Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.
Telephone 580.

Go to JOHN L. KOCH,
FOR
HARNESS, BUGGIES and Road CARTS

He having secured the Agency of the James & Mayer Buggies, Manufactured at Lawrenceburg, can sell you a Buggy at factory prices.
LOOK HERE
Good Top Buggy $40 and up.
Machine-made Buggy Harness, $5 and up.
Hand-made Buggy Harness, $7.50 up.
BUGGIES REPAINTED AND REPAIRED.
JOHN L. KOCH, Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

FOR SALE.
Lumber Yard and Stock at Cost.
J. C. GARVEY, Erlanger, Ky.,
Is closing out his Entire Stock of Lumber at and below COST for CASH. Those wishing to reap the benefits of these remarkable Low Prices and obtain first choice of goods must come early, as I do not intend to replace the stock, but, to quit the business. The closing out of the stock will begin
April 13th and Continue Sixty Days,
After which time I shall close the yard, rent or sell to any one desiring to reopen the business. I am at present about two-thirds stocked and can meet the demands of those who come early. Write or call on me for prices on the kinds of lumber you are in want of.
J. C. GARVEY, Erlanger, Ky.

Local News.

Some corn was planted last week.

Land has worked nicely this spring.

The ground is warm enough for corn planting.

There is lots of shade now, and good shade, too.

Jack Horton's jail sentence will expire in June.

Just enough rain fell here, last Monday night, to lay the dust.

Some have predicted that there will be very few apples this year.

The Baptist Church has obtained a handsome silver communion service.

Constance and Stringtown had a strong delegation in town two or three days last week.

Several gardens were made last week, the weather being decidedly favorable for that kind of work.

There will be an abundance of shade in a few days. No cold snaps are needed in this section now.

The Knights of Pythias had a big meeting last Thursday evening. Three candidates received degrees.

The Burlington contingent that went down to root for the Louisvilles, last Sunday, had very little rooting to do.

The Burlington base ball team has secured its grounds for the season, and is now ready to do business with all comers.

The Missionary Board of the North Bend Baptist Association will meet with the Baptist Church at Burlington on Friday, April 24th, 1896.

The grand jury made a close examination of the court house, last week, and decided that the walls are all right, and recommended that the fiscal court do not have the building rodded.

CHANGE OF TIME—The Spring and Summer Schedules of the Queen and Crescent Route will go into effect Sunday, April 19, 1896. Note the change as shown in Station Time Card.
W. C. Rinearson, G. P. A., Cin'ti., O.

H. J. Casey and Sam Houston, of Bullittsville, have discovered a large otter that is living in a culvert under the pike at that place. They are going to lay for the animal, and have its hide. Other persons have seen it, but did not know what it was.

"After years of dyspeptic misery, I can at least eat a good square meal without its distressing me," gratefully exclaimed one whose appetite had been restored by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla: This remedy wonderfully sharpens the appetite and improves digestion.

The horse driven by Ves, Edwin and Felix Gaines, got the bulge on them here in town, last Sunday evening, and run upon the pavement at Dr. Smith's where the horse tore away from the buggy and ran off from the boys, who were thrown out of the vehicle and one or two of them somewhat bruised.

The interest in the murder of old man Bruce, of Cleves, Ohio, was revived last Friday, when officers came out from the city, and took Jack Horton down to appear before the Hamilton county grand jury then in session. The officers stated that there was no doubt but what, Harry Ward, Lightner and Jack Horton were the murderers.

A lady here in town has a pet pig that has grown to be of considerable size. A few days since she went down into the cellar, propping the door behind her. The pet porcine came along, shortly after, and rooted the prop from under the door, and when it fell he stretched himself out thereon to take a sun bath. When the lady desired to leave the cellar, she could not open the door, it and the pig's combined weight being too much for her. Neither could she make the pig abandon his comfortable position, and she was held a prisoner until her husband came home and released her. That pig is now put out of the yard before the lady goes into the cellar.

A large barn and contents, belonging to B. B. Allphin, Jr, of Mudlick, was destroyed by fire, last Saturday night. The barn contained about 14,000 lbs. of tobacco and a lot of farming implements. The loss is about $1,500 with $700 insurance on the tobacco in foreign companies, and $500 on the building and farming implements in the Boone County Company. Mr. Allphin thinks the barn was accidently set on fire by someone who went to it in search of chewing tobacco. He had two barns standing only about 50 yards apart, and one was saved by hard work after being on fire at one time. Several of the neighbors heard the ringing of the dinner bell and arrived in time to render considerable assistance.

McNulty-Henry Marriage.

A wedding of more than usual import occurred at the Cathedral residence in Covington on Wednesday afternoon, April 15th, when Miss Effie Henry, one of Covington's charming belles, was married to Mr. J. C. McNulty, a rising young business man of Chillicothe, Ohio, but formerly of Covington, Ky.

The fair bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. A. Henry, of Bullittsville, this county, and is a bright, vivacious and handsome woman.

The bridal gown was of novelty cloth of green, pink and white mingled, the bodice trimmed with Persian silk, yoke and green collar and cuffs She wore a stylishly trimmed hat of white silk braid with a velvet band about the point of dark apple green, white chiffon roses with yellow centers underneath. She carried a bunch of roses. Miss Helen Schuster, of Covington, and Mr. Marian Harland, of Cincinnati, Ohio, were the attendants.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. James Thompson, on Madison Ave., Covington. The bride and groom left that evening for Chillicothe, Ohio, where they will go to housekeeping and be at home to their many friends after May 1st.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The criminal docket was disposed of as follows:

Com'lth vs L. H. Brooks, three cases.
same vs Dick McGuire;
same vs Claud McGuire;
same vs James Craig;
same vs Wm. Neal, four cases;
same vs Frank Henderson;
same vs Luther Kirtley.

The above seven prosecutions were filed away with leave to the clerk to redocket.

Com'lth vs John Foster;
same vs Bud Hensley;
same vs Jack Henour, &c.;
same vs Chas. Aylor;
same vs John Slayback, 2 cases;
same vs John Horton, 2 cases;
same vs Dennis Craig;
same vs Morris Rice;
same vs Alfred Acra;
same vs Frand Henderson.

The above 12 prosecutions were continued and alias bench warrants ordered issued.

Com'lth vs Harry Ward. At the last December term of the Circuit Court, Ward was indicted, jointly, with Jack Horton, for stealing butter and eggs from Abe Clore's wagon, a few weeks before the sitting of court. Horton was captured just before the December term of the court, and pleaded guilty to the charge and was given six months in jail. Ward was captured and lodged in jail about the close of the December term. He was put on trial, last Thursday. Horton swore that Ward was with him and assisted in the theft. Ward was put on the stand and denied everything to which Horton testified, and the jury acquitted him.

Horton was taken before the grand jury last Friday in Cincinnati, and repeated the confession made and repeated on two or three occasions, and at the conclusion of a two hours' examination he informed the grand jury that all he had told them, was a d—m lie, and the jury refused to find an indictment.

Horton was brought back to Burlington and lodged in jail last Saturday afternoon. The Cincinnati officers who had charge of Horton says he is the biggest liar they ever had anything to do with.

Horton and Ward were taken from jail Sunday night and kept out the greater part of the night for fear of a mob. The fear of a mob resulted from the mysterious actions of two or three strangers who were seen in town during the day, Sunday.

The indictment against Ward, charging him with horsestealing, was filed away Monday morning, and he was discharged. The Judge advised him to get out of the county and stay out, that the people are in no temper to allow him about. A great many persons on this side of the river believe that Ward, Horton and Lightner are guilty of the Bruce murder.

Wm. Weimer plead guilty to the charge of adultery and was fined $20.

Colonel Carrier was fined $10 for his bloodless carnival at Gunpowder. The indictment against him for misbehavior at Florence was dismissed, he not being the guilty party.

George Richey, of Hebron, was fined $10 for breach of the peace.

The L. & N. Railroad Co., was indicted for not erecting and maintaining privies at its stations at Walton and Verona. The Verona indictment went out on demurrer, while a $100 fine was assessed on the Walton indictment. An appeal was taken.

The indictment against the Anderson Ferry and Limaburg Turnpike Company was dismissed.

John Watson supervisor of roads in the Walton precinct was fined $5 for failing to keep public road in repair.

James Noble and Arthur Smith were adjudged idiots, and committees appointed for them.

Com'lth. vs T. W. Finch—law and facts to court, and judgment for $50 for selling whisky.

CIVIL CASES.

Cleek vs Conner—deed made to the purchaser of the land.

Wm. Stamper vs John B. Presser—commissioner ordered to convey land to Stamper.

Geo. Delph, &c, vs Minerva Weaver. This case involved the contest of will of J. J. Weaver. It was compromised by the parties, and the will ordered probated by the County Court.

Emily F. Carpenter vs Cland Carpenter—plaintiff granted a divorce from the defendant Cland Carpenter.

Wm. Powers, &c., vs Jeffrie Powers, &c.,—this action is a contest of the will of Jeffrie Powers, deceased, and was continued until next term for the contestants.

John L. Henderson, &c., vs Ada McMullen. Referred to the Master Commissioner to hear proof and to audit claims against the estate of James L. Henderson, deceased.

The grand jury completed its business Friday afternoon, and made the following written report:

To the Hon. John W. Green, Judge Boone Circuit Court, in 15th Judicial District.—We, your grand jury, would most respectfully report that we have been in session five (5) days—have examined 70 witnesses and found 10 indictments; and dismissed the indictment against the Limaburg & Anderson Ferry pike, returned to us.

We have examined the court house and offices therein, and find them in good condition and well kept.

The County Infirmary we found clean, well kept and in first-class condition; and the County Jail and surroundings as well kept as could be under existing circumstances.

We do not think that it is necessary to rod the court-house at this time, and we, therefore, recommend that the Fiscal Court take no steps at present to have it done.

We were considerably bothered with complaints from different neighborhoods which, upon investigation, we were unable to fasten upon any one or to find any postive clue to the offending parties. All of which is respectfully reported. JOHN S. HUEY, Foreman.

The jurors got tired of loafing last week, but the condition of the business was such that they had to attend every day.

Chas. B. Stephenson has filed suit against Geo. B. Murphy for $5,000 damages for slander.

The case of J. T. Dempsey vs J. S. Hume involving 412 sheep was decided in favor of Hume. The attachment was discharged and it was adjudged by the court that James Hume is the owner of the gray mule and the brown mule, and the 40 barrels of corn.

The indictments returned by the grand jury, last Friday are not of a serious nature. Three of them are for giving liquor to a minor, one for carrying pistol, one for breach of the peace, one for assault and battery, one for unlawfully selling liquor, one for hunting on Sunday.

Ed Graves, colored, got a 30 days term in the county jail for stealing W. P. Cropper's chickens.

Monday was consumed by the trial of Levi Fox and John Moore, indicted at this term for robbing the house of John Hankins, of Stringtown. The jury had the case but a few minutes, when it returned a verdict of not guilty.

The Helm-Clore damage suit was called for trial Tuesday morning, and after some skirmishing by the attorneys, the work of obtaining a jury was commenced about noon, and it wasn't completed when we went to press.

A Rebel's Petition.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

The poem below was written in 1872 by Judge John F. Willis, of Lawrenceburg, Ky., petitioning Congress to remove his disabilities. The petition was presented and read by the Hon. J. Proctor Knott, member of Congress in the House of Representatives; and the Hon. Jas. B. Beck in the Senate. Ben Butler, after hearing it read, said that "he would vote to remove that man's disabilities if it disolves the Union." The petition was granted; Willis did run "for office" and was deservedly elected. The petition is too good to be lost, and it is just as it was when read in Congress. I therefore send it to you, with the hope that you will publish it in the RECORDER; as I feel satisfied that many of your subscribers, especially the older ones, will enjoy reading it.

T. L. S.

Dear Knott, I thought as I had time,
I'd write to you and Beck in rhyme,
To let you know that I am well,
A span's length yet, or more from hell,
As these few lines will surely tell.
I also send petition signed,
By loyal men who were so kind
As to indorse and recommend,
For clemency your wayward friend.
Please put it through, and thus relieve
A rebel whose past sins doth grieve;
And you may tell each friendly Rad,
That thought I was a rebel bad,
My penitence is deep and true,
More than I dare express to you.
When Jeptha, judge of Israel fought
The Amonitish hosts, and sought,
In prayer the aid of Israel's God,
To drown his foes in their own blood,
He made vow "he hadn't oughter,"
And thereby lost his only daughter,
This vow I'm sure old Jep repented
Until he felt almost demented.
If all of Holy Writ be true,
Old Pharoh did the Jews pursue,
With numerous hosts, intent on slaughter,
Until be got neck deep in water;
With penitence, no doubt profound,
His soul was filled before he drowned;
And thousands evil ways have tried,
Who felt repentance ere they died,
But few have felt such deep contrition
As he who sends you this petition.
Some for their crimes get thrown in prison
And some get ropes 'round their 'wizen'
Some after death are punished sore,
Who never got their dues before;
But he who with a gory hand
Stirs up rebellion in the land
Against the best government under the sun
And fails in his purpose, is forever undone.
No prison for him! let no gallows be built!
The red ocean of hell is too mild for his guilt!
The pit of perdition, where the de'll and kith
Are weeping and wailing and gnashing their teeth;
Is too full of pleasure; let's unveil some new plan
To punish and tortue his rebellious clan!
Thus our law-makers said, and with cruel contentment,
Went to work and concocted the 14th amendment.
A man can stand being hung or put in jail,
Face the guillotine too without turning pale,
And pleasantly travel the pathway to hell,
And plunge in as though without fear they fell—
But just think, my dear Prock—and you are no novice—
How a Kentuckian feels when he can't hold an office.
Old Spain's inquisition and the racks there applied
To torture mankind may be thrice multiplied;
Then add gallows and jail and the tortures of hell,
And the figures you get begin scarcely to tell
The miseries of him whose scale of decendment
Is laid down by law in this Fourteenth Amendment;
Not that he cares much for the Yankee blood spilt
Or for those he has wounded, or those he has kilt,
But the cup of his misery he thinks full enough is,
When he knows he's proscribed, and can never hold office.
Remorse and repentance express but contentment,
When compared with the rule in this Fourteenth Amendment;
Why it's bad enough Prock, when one can't get elected:
It makes him feel sorry, repentant, dejected,
But to say he shan't run—oh, ye gods! what contrition
Fills up a man's heart in this awful condition.
Such condition is mine, and it worries me sore,
And pierces my soul to my heart's very core;
And I'm sure when your friends can see how I'm grieved
They'll hurry the cakes up and get me relieved.
Oh! my country! my country! how I'd like to serve it,
In some good, fat office, for I know I deserve it;
You may tell your friends, too, I'll remember in prayer
Those who in relieving your friend shall take share;
And I'll here give a specimen prayer, by-the-way,
For fear they may think I don't know how to pray:
Thou Ruler of both good and bad,
Look down and bless each friendly Rad,
Who hastens forward with agility
To free Jack Willis of disability;
May pleasure on his pathway shine,
May he for office never pine;
May he never know defeat,
Unless some Reb. can get his seat;
May he live one thousand years,
His eyes be never wet with tears,
Except it be with tears of joy,
Of pleasure mixed with no alloy—
And spend his days in sweet contentment,
Free from the d—d Fourteenth Amendment.

LAND AND A LIVING.

Are best and cheapest in the Great New South. The northern farmer, artisan, merchant, manufacturer, are all hurrying into this rapidly developing country as pioneers. The open climate the low price of land, and its steady increase in value; the positive assurance of crops, with but little effort to raise them, all combine to turn all eyes southward. To assist in this movement, low railroad rates have been inaugurated over the Queen & Crescent Route from northern towns and villages, both round-trip and one-way tickets being on sale at about half the usual rates. Round-trips selling on April 7th 21st, and May 5th; one-way tickets on the first Tuesday in each month. Now is the time for you to go and see. Much has been said and written about the fruit, grains and grasses along The Queen & Crescent Route and about its climate—no blizzards and no sun-strokes. Summer nights are cool. Grass grows green ten months in the year. Less wear and tear in living than you've known in the north. A million acres of land at $3 to $5 an acre, on easy terms. Now is the time to go and see for yourself. Write to W. C. Rinearson, G. P. A. Queen & Crescent Route, Cincinnati, O., for such information as you desire before starting.

BARGAINS: CLOSING OUT.

For the purpose of engaging in other business I am now selling my stock of goods below cost. If you want Bargains call early. The sales will continue from Saturday to Saturday until all the goods are sold. Having to go to the city every week I will continue to take orders for goods not in stock.
A. M. ACRA, Burlington, Ky.

This week the RECORDER departs from its custom and publishes a poem, but it will do so no more. The one that appears this week is especially good.

The oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scott, of the Point Pleasant neighborhood died Sunday and was buried yesterday.

The personal estate of Mrs. Clarissa Smith will be sold at public sale on May 9.

It is said that a great many fish are on the riffles in the creek every night.

Harry Blyth has bought the Blyth homestead here in town, we hear.

A good rain is very badly needed.

Notice to Delinquent Tax-PAYERS.

The lists of Delinquents for 1895 have been placed in the hands of Collecting Officers in the different magisterial districts for the convenience of the taxpayers. See your collector and pay your tax, or you will be reported to the Road Supervisor in your district and proceeded against according to law.
FISCAL COURT BOONE CO.,
By J. M. Lassing, Co. Atty.

John Allison,
Undertaker
—AND—
Embalmer,
COR. PIKE & RUSSELL STS.,
COVINGTON, - KENTUCKY
Independent of Undertakers' Union.

Election Notice.

There will be an election held at Hebron, Ky., May 4th, 1896, by the stockholders of the Bullittsville & Dry Creek Turnpike Road Co., to elect a president and five directors to serve the ensuing year.
J. C. CLORE, Sect'y.

THE QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE
Vestibuled Limited Trains to Southern Towns and Cities. A fine trip for summer outing through the Blue Grass region, the great Cumberland Plateau and to far-famed Lookout Mountain. The historic battlefields of CHICKAMAUGA, Mission Ridge and LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN. Cool and invigorating air, unequaled scenery, good hotels.
Low reduced rates via the Queen & Crescent Route now on sale from cities and villages of the North.
Write to W. C. Rinearson, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, for illustrated and descriptive matter.

ANNOUNCEMENT.
We would call the attention of the public to the fact that we are still doing business at the
OLD STAND
And are more than ever determined to sustain our well earned reputation of selling the Best Goods at the Lowest Possible Prices.
We have not room to quote prices, but if you will give us a call we will convince you of the fact.
Our Terms are Cash.
W. M. RACHAL & CO. Union, Ky.

BOEHMER, ROLF & CO.,
DEALERS IN
PAINTS, OILS AND GLASS.
63 and 65 Pike Street,
Covington, Telephone, 4212. Ky.

GEO. W. HILL & CO.,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
Flour, Tea, Tobacco AND FINE Cigars.
ALSO DEALERS IN WOOL AND COUNTRY PRODUCTS.
CALL SPECIAL ATTENTION TO OUR RETAIL DEPARTMENT.
27 and 29 PIKE ST. 26 and 28 W. SEVENTH ST.
Covington, - - Kentucky.

HARBICK & ROSE,
Undertakers AND Embalmers,
OFFICE AND STABLE, 637 and 639 SCOTT STREET,
COVINGTON, KY.
CARRIAGES FOR WEDDINGS AND PRIVATE HIRE.
Telephone, 4146. OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

GEO. G. RUSSELL,
WHOLESALE AND
RETAIL GROCER,
GRASS SEED,
Corner Pike & Washington Sts. Covington, Ky.
Tom Wilson, Salesman.

A. H. BRYANT. J. L. V. McDONALD.
REMOVED AND READY FOR BUSINESS.
31 Pike Street,
THE OLD RELIABLE STOVE COMPANY,
Successor to J. M. CLARKSON.
Stoves, Grates, Fine Tin and
HOLLOW-WARE.
Our friends of Boone County will be Welcome to Make OUR STORE Their Headquarters when in Town.
J. L. V. McDONALD, - - - Manager.
COVINGTON, KY.
MR. J. M. CLARKSON has his office with us.

SEEDS. SEEDS. SEEDS.
BUY YOUR
GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS
From W. J. RAMSEY & CO.,
We are the only House in Covington, handling a full Line of
GARDEN SEEDS.
708 Madison Avenue
COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.
Opposite Seventh Street Market House.

HANKINS, DAVIS & CO.,
GENERAL MERCHANTS,
HEBRON AND CONSTANCE, KY.
A good supply of Campbell's Creek Coal on hand at Constance at all times. A good supply of feed always in stock. Garden and Field Seeds.
UNDERTAKING.
is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.
Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance.

PALACE GATES

Closed Behind Him When Christ Came to the Manger.

He Left His Father's Mansion For a Voluntary Exile Through Death's Valley—Rev. Dr. Talmage's Elegant Analysis of Homesickness.

Dr. Talmage's sermon Sunday shows another way in which the earthly experience of our Lord is set forth. His text was II. Sam. xv., 17: "And the King went forth and tarried in a place which was far off."

Far up and far back in the history of Heaven, there came a period when its most illustrious citizen was about to absent Himself. He was not going to sail from beach to beach; we have often done that. He was not going to put out from one hemisphere to another hemisphere; many of us have done that. But He was to sail from world to world, the space unexplored and the immensities untraveled. No world has ever hailed Heaven, and Heaven has never hailed any other world. I think that the windows and the balconies were thronged and that the pearly beach was crowded with those who had come to see Him sail out of the harbor of light into the ocean beyond. Out and out and out, and on and on and on, and down and down and down He sped, until one night, with only one to greet Him, when He arrived. His disembarkation so unpretending, so quiet, that it was not known on earth until the excitement in the cloud gave intimation to the Bethlehem rustics that something grand and glorious had happened. Who comes there? From what port did He sail? Why was this the place of His destination? I question the shepherds. I question the camel drivers. I question the angels. I have found out.

He was an exile. But the world had plenty of exiles. Abraham was an exile from Haran; John, an exile from Poland; Mazzini, an exile from Rome; Emmet, an exile from Ireland; Victor Hugo, an exile from France; Kossuth, an exile from Hungary. But this One of whom I speak to-day had such resounding farewell and came into such chilling reception—for not even a hostler went out with his lantern to light Him in—that He is more to be celebrated than any other expatriated exile of earth or Heaven.

First, I remark that Christ was an imperial exile. He got down off a throne. He took off a tiara. He closed a palace gate behind Him. His family were princes and princesses. Vashti was turned out of the throne-room by Ahasuerus. David was dethroned by Absalom's infamy. The five kings were hurled into a cavern by Joshua's courage. Some of the Henrys of England and some of the Louises of France were jostled on their thrones by discontented subjects. But Christ was never more honored, or more popular, or more loved than the day He left Heaven. Exiles have suffered severely, but Christ turned Himself out from the throne-room into sheep pen, and down from the top to the bottom. He was not pushed off. He was not manacled for foreign transportation. He was not put out because they no more wanted Him in celestial domains, but by choice departing and descending into an exile five times as long as that of Napoleon at St. Helena, and a thousand times worse; the one exile suffering for that he had destroyed nations, the other exile suffering because He came to save the world. An Imperial exile. King eternal. "Blessing and honor and glory and power be unto Him that sitteth upon the throne."

But I go further and tell you He was an exile on a barren island. This world is one of the smallest islands of light in the ocean of immensity. Other stellar kingdoms are many thousand times larger than this. Christ came to this small Patmos of a world. When exiles are sent out they are generally sent to regions that are sandy or cold, or hot—some Dry Tortugas of disagreeableness. Christ came as an exile to a world scorched with heat and bitten with cold, to deserts simoon-swept, to a howling wilderness. It was the back-door yard, seemingly, of the universe. Yea, Christ came to the poorest part of this barren island of a world—Asia Minor, with its intense summers, unfit for the residence of a foreigner, and in the rainy season unfit for the residence of a native. Christ came not to such a land as America, or England, or France, or Germany, but to a land one-third of the year drowned, another third of the year burned up, and only one-third of the year just tolerable. Oh! it was a barren island of a world. Barren enough for Christ, for it gave such small worship and such inadequate affection, and such little gratitude. Imperial exile on the barren island of a world.

I go further and tell you that He was an exile in a hostile country. Turkey was never so much against Russia, France was never so much against Germany, as this earth was against Christ. It took Him in through the door of a stable. It thrust Him out at the point of a spear. The Roman government against Him with every weapon of its army, and every decision of its courts, and every beak of its war eagles. For years after His arrival the only question was how best to put Him out. Herod hated Him, the high priests hated Him, the Pharisees hated him, Judas Iscariot hated Him, Gestas, the dying thief, hated Him. The whole earth seemingly turned into a detective to watch His steps. And yet He faced this ferocity. Notice that Christ's wounds were in front. Some scourging on the shoulders, but most of Christ's wounds in front. He was not on retreat when he expired. Face to face with the world's ferocity. Face to face with the world's sin. Face to face with the world's foe. His eye on the raging countenances of His foaming antagonists when He expired. When the cavalry officer rowled his steed so that he might come nearer up and see the torturtured visage of the suffering exile, Christ saw it. When the spear was thrust at His side, and when the hammer was lifted for His feet, and when the reed was raised to strike deeper down the spikes of thorn, Christ watched the whole procedure. When His hands were fastened to the cross they were wide open still with benediction. Mind you, His head [illegible] fastened; He could look to the right and He could look to the left, and He could look up and he could look down. [illegible] when the spikes had been driven home, and the hard, round iron heads were in the palms of His hands. He saw them as plainly as you ever saw anything in the palms of your hands. No ether, no chloroform, no merciful anaesthetic to dull or stupefy, but, wide-awake, he saw the obscuration of the heavens, the unbalancing of the rocks, the countenances quivering with rage and the cachinnation diabolic. Oh! it was the hostile as well as the barren island of a world.

I go further, and tell you that this exile was far from home. It is 95,000,000 miles from here to the sun, and all astronomers agree in saying that our solar system is only one of the smaller wheels of the great machinery of the universe turning around some great center, the center so far distant it is beyond all imagination and calculation, and if, as some think, that great center in the distance is Heaven, Christ came far from home when He came here. Have you ever thought of the homesickness of Christ? Some of you know what homesickness is when you have been only a few weeks absent from the domestic circle. Christ was 33 years away from home. Some of you feel homsickness when you are a hundred or a thousand miles away from the domestic circle. Christ was more million miles away from home than you could count if all your life you did nothing but count. You know what it is to be homesick even amid pleasant surroundings, but Christ slept in huts, and He was athirst, and He was a-hungered, and He was on the way from being born in another man's barn to being buried in another man's grave.

I have read how the Swiss, when they are far away from their native country, at the sound of their national air, get so homesick that they fall into melancholy and sometimes they die under the homesickness. But oh! the homesickness of Christ. Poverty homesick for celestial riches. Persecution homesickness for hosanna. Weariness homesick for rest. Homesick for angelic and archangelic companionship. Homesick to get out of the night and the storm and the world's execration. Homesickness will make a week seem as long as a month, and it seems to me that the three decades of Christ's residence on earth must have seemed to Him almost interminable. You have often tried to measure the other pangs of Christ, but you have never tried to measure the magnitude and ponderosity of a Saviour's homesickness.

I take a step further and will tell you that Christ was in an exile which He knew would end in assassination. Holman Hunt, the master painter, has a picture in which he represents Jesus Christ in the Nazarene carpenter shop. Around Him are the saws, the hammers, the axes, the drills of carpentry. The picture represents Christ as rising from the carpenter's working bench and wearily stretching out His arms as one will after being in contracted or uncomfortable posture, and the light of that picture is so arranged that the arms of Christ, wearily stretched forth, together with his body, throw on the wall the shadow of the cross.

Oh! my friends, that shadow was on everything in Christ's lifetime. Shadow of a cross on the Bethlehem swaddling clothes. Shadow of a cross on the road over which the three fugitives fled into Egypt. Shadow of a cross on Lake Gallilee as Christ walked its mosaic floor of opal and emerald and crystal. Shadow of a cross on the road to Emmaus. Shadow of a cross on the brook Kedron, and on the temple, and on the side of Olivet. Shadow of a cross on sunrise and sunset. Constantine, marching with his army, saw just once a cross in the sky, but Christ saw the cross all the time.

On a rough journey we cheer ourselves with the fact that it will end in warm hospitality; but Christ knew that His rough path would end at a defoliaged tree without one leaf and with only two branches, bearing fruit of such bitterness as no human lips had ever tasted. Oh! what an exile—starting in an infancy without any cradle and ending in assassination. Thirst without any water. Day without any sunlight. The doom of a desparado for more than angelic excellence. For what that expatriation and that exile? Worldly good sometimes comes from worldly evil. The accidental glance of a sharp blade from a razor-grinder's wheel put out the eye of Gambetta and excited sympathies which gained him an education and started him on a career that made his name more majestic among Frenchmen than any other name in the last 20 years. Hawthorne, turned out of the office of collector at Salem went home in despair. His wife touched him on the shoulder and said: "Now is the time to write your book," and his famous "Scarlet Letter" was the brilliant consequence. Worldly good sometimes comes from worldly evil. Then be not unbelieving when I tell you that from the greatest crime of all eternity and of the whole universe, the murder of the Son of God, there shall come results which shall eclipse all the grandeurs of eternity past and eternity to come. Christ, an exile from Heaven opening the way for the deportation toward Heaven and to Heaven all those who will accept the proffer. Atonement, a ship large enough to take all the passengers that will come aboard it.

For this royal exile I bespeak the love and service of all the exiles here present, and, in one sense or the other, that includes all of us. The gates of this continent have been so widely opened that there are here many voluntary exiles from other lands. Some of you are Scotchmen. I see it in your high cheek bones, and in the color that illumines your face when I mention the land of your nativity. Bonnie Scotland! Dear old kirk! Some of your ancestors sleeping in Greyfriars churchyard, or by the deep lochs filled out of the pitchers of Heaven, or under the heather sometimes so deep of color it makes one think of the blood of the Covenanters who signed their names for Christ; dipping their pens into the veins of their own arms opened for that purpose. How every fiber of your nature thrills as I mention the names of Robert Bruce, and the Campbells, and Cochrane. I bespeak for this royal exile of my text the love and the service of all Scotch exiles. Some of you are Englishmen. Your ancestry served the Lord. Have I not read of the sufferings of the Haymarket? and have I not seen in Oxford the very spot where Ridley and Latimer mounted the red chariot? Some of your ancestors heard George Whitefield thunder, or heard Charles Wesley sing, or heard John Bunyan tell his dream of the celestial city, and the cathedrals under the shadows of which some of you were born had in their grandest organ roll the name of the Messiah. I speak for the royal exile of my sermon the love and the service of all English exiles. Yes, some of you came from the island of distress over which Hunger, on a throne of human skeletons, sat queen.

All efforts at amelioration halted by massacre. Procession of families, procession of martyrdoms marching from Northern channel to Cape Clear, and from the Irish sea across to the Atlantic. An island not bounded, as geographers tell us, but as every philanthropist knows—bounded on the north and the south and the east and the west by woe which no human polities can alleviate, and only Almighty God can assuage. Land of Goldsmith's rhythm, and Sheridan's wit, and O'Connell's eloquence, and Edmund Burke's statesmanship, and O'Brien's sacrifice. Another Patmos with its apocalypse of blood. Yet you can not think of it to-day without having your eyes blinded with emotion, for there your ancestors sleep in graves, some of which they entered for lack of bread. For this royal exile of my sermon I bespeak the love and the service of all Irish exiles. Yes, some of you are from Germany, the land of Luther, and some of you are from Italy, the land of Garibaldi, and some of you are from France, the land of John Calvin, one of the three mighties of the glorious Reformation. Some of you are descendants of the Puritans, and they were exiles, and some of you are descendants of the Huguenots, and they were exiles; and some of you are descendants of the Holland refugees, and they were exiles. Some of you were born on the banks of the Yazoo or the Savannah, and you are now living in this latitude; some of you on the banks of the Kennebec, or at the foot of the Green mountains, and you are here now. Some of you on the prairies of the West, or the table lands, and you are here now. Oh! how many of us far away from home. All of us exiles. This is not our home.

Oh! I am so glad when the royal exile went back he left the gate ajar, or left it wide open. "Going home!" That is the dying exclamation of the majority of Christians. I have seen many Christians die. I think nine out of ten of them in the last moments say, "Going home!" Going home out of banishment and sin and sorrow and sadness. Going home to join in the hilarities of our parents and our dear children who have already departed. Going home to Christ. Going home to God. Going home to stay. Where are your loved ones that died in Christ? You pity them. Ah! They ought to pity you. You are an exile far from home. They are home! Oh, what a time it will be for you when the gatekeeper of Heaven shall say: "Take off that rough sandal; the journey's ended. Put down that saber; the battle's won. Put off that iron coat of mail and put on the robe of conqueror." At that gate of triumph I leave you to-day, only reading three tender cantos translated from the Italian. If you ever heard anything sweeter I never did, although I can not adopt all its theology.

'Twas whispered one morning in Heaven
 How the little child-angel May,
In the shade of the great white portal
 Sat sorrowing night and day;
How she said to the stately warden—
 He of the key and bar—
"Oh, angel, sweet angel, I pray you
 Set the beautiful gates ajar—
Only a little, I pray you,
 Set the beautiful gates ajar.

"I can hear my mother weeping,
 She is lonely, she can not see
A glimmer of light in the darkness,
 When the gates shut after me;
Oh, turn me the key, sweet angel,
 The splendor will shine so far!"
But the warden answered, "I dare not
 Set the beautiful gates ajar."
Spoke low answered, "I dare not
 Set the beautiful gates ajar."

Then up rose Mary, the blessed,
 Sweet Mary, the mother of Christ;
Her hand on the hand of the angel
 She laid, and her touch sufficed.
Turned was the key in the portal,
 Fell ringing the golden bar.
And lo! In the little child's fingers
 Stood the beautiful gates ajar.
In the little child's angel fingers
 Stood the beautiful gates ajar.

EAST of Australia and north of New Caledonia is the republic of Franceville, an island with an area of about eighty-five miles. Its inhabitants number 550, of whom 40 are white and 510 natives. It was once a colony of France, but in 1879 it was declared independent, and its people at once adopted a republican constitution. It is governed by a president and a council of eight, elected by the people—black and white, men and women. Only white males hold office. The president elected recently is R. D. Polk, a native of Tennessee, and a relative of James K. Polk, one of the presidents of our own republic.

A PORTABLE crematory for military purposes has been invented by a Polish engineer. It has the appearance of the army baking oven but is much higher and heavier, and is drawn by eight horses. It is intended for the disposal of the bodies of soldiers killed in battle, so as to avoid the danger of epidemics from the burials of great numbers of men. Each German army corps, it is said, will be equipped with one.

POSITION OF MR. CARLISLE.

The Right Thing Said and in the Right Place.

The attitude taken by Mr. Carlisle in his letter to a friend concerning his possible nomination for the presidency is worthy of the man. The secretary of the treasury is charged with some of the most important duties resting upon this administration. He could not, without neglecting these, enter into a rough and tumble struggle for the presidential nomination. In this respect, he sets a worthy example to those senators and representatives whose custom it has been to absent themselves from Washington for weeks while congress is in session in order to secure their own renomination. In the next place, Mr. Carlisle is rightly concerned far more about the declaration of principles of the democratic party than about its candidate. A mistake in selecting a leader may be rectified. Its consequences are but temporary. But a mistake in a party platform reaches far into the future, and remains an embarrassment and a source of weakness to that party until a generation arises that has had time to forget the blunder.

In the present instance, a false step would be more than unfortunate; it would be fatal. The failure of the democratic party to declare for sound money and against silver monometallism in its national convention this year would mean, must mean, party disintegration and the absorption of democracy by populism. It is the existence and not merely the success or defeat of the democratic party that is at stake. Therefore, Mr. Carlisle acts the patriot and the loyal democrat when he sets this issue in the forefront and subordinates to it any personal ambition that he may entertain. First of all, let the fight be made for sound-money principles, and candidates will not be lacking.

There is not a word in Mr. Carlisle's letter, of course, from beginning to end, which can be construed as a definite refusal to accept a nomination under any circumstances. It is not believed that he would. All that he has said is that he does not wish to obscure issues or divide forces in his party until its attitude on the currency question shall have been definitely determined; and that he does not propose either to slight the duties of his high office, or to use, as his predecessors have done, its great patronage in order to force himself upon his party as its presidential candidate. In both of these positions Mr. Carlisle commends himself to his party and to the country as a high-minded, honorable, old-fashioned democrat, worthy to bear the name and to be the chosen leader of his party if it should so declare. He has said the right thing in the right place, and the whole country respects and admires him for it.—St. Paul Globe.

The Tariff Outlook.

The McKinley threat to business should be reckoned with by those merchants and bankers who say that they will breathe more freely when congress adjourns. Congress will adjourn some happy day, but the McKinley canvass, the McKinley nomination and election, if they come, will mean destruction of all business stability up to the summer of 1898 at least. No new tariff can be passed before that time, and meanwhile the shadow cast before it, the intriguing and pulling and hauling to fix rates in it, and the uncertainty which will attend both its terms and its workings will leave business gasping and struggling for two years more. Add to this the practical certainty that if any tariff at all is passed it will have to be by concessions to the silver republicans, and hence by a further unsettling of the currency as well as customs duties, and the prospect for business men will appear to be little short of what Dr. Johnson called "inspissated gloom."—N. Y. Post.

——Mr. Carlisle is more interested in the platform which the democratic party should adopt than he is in the nomination it shall make, and he would not think of accepting the nomination unless the platform should be satisfactory. By the way, has anybody heard of a single republican candidate who is making any conditions on the subject of platforms? — Louisville Courier-Journal.

FULL OF SIGNIFICANCE.

Those Who Are Investors in Republican Politics.

"Twenty Bessemer steel companies representing $400,000,000 of capital and producing half the world's output formed an organization yesterday at the Hotel Waldorf.

"The price of steel billets was placed at $20 a ton. Last week they sold at $17 and $18."—N. Y. Press.

The above is quoted from the news columns of one of the most rabid and insistent newspaper champions of protection. It carries its own argument. These gentlemen met at the finest hotel in the world, and decided to increase the cost of steel to the builders of all structures in which these billets are used by 17½ per cent. No one who observes building operations in the large cities can fail to understand how burdensome this will be upon contractors and builders. There will be a crowding of expenses in other directions, and the workingmen will not reap any advantage. Upon all grades of men, from the housesmith to the tenant who occupies the completed building, the representatives of $400,000,000 of capital have made a levy of 17½ per cent.

This is of special importance just now because of the political relations of these gentlemen. The present tariff on the products they control is 35 per cent. This tariff enables them to combine and raise the price three dollars a ton higher than the competitive level. But not satisfied with this enormous advantage, they are investing their money in a presidential campaign, in the hope of securing a still greater advantage over the consumers of the goods they make. The trusts and protected manufacturers are not investing their money in a republican candidate without substantial hope and expectation of reward. The New York Times says:

"It is a bad state of things, but so long as the success of the republican party is supposed by a large body of business men to be needed for the safety and progress of their business, we do not doubt that they will invest money in promoting it. Sooner or later they will see their mistake, as many of the shrewdest and most far-sighted of their class have already seen it. But until that conviction spreads much further than it has yet spread, money will be used, and used freely, at every step in republican politics."

The complete ownership of a party by large combinations of capital should be a sure handicap to success. We believe it will be.—Utica Observer.

PARAGRAPHIC POINTERS.

——Under the Wilson bill the shoddy mills are closed, while the woolen mills work overtime. — Illinois State Register.

——At any rate, the McKinley crowd have not claimed Gov. Morton, though they have annexed—on paper—everything else in sight.—N. Y. Sun.

——Gov. Bradley's fall from the pinnacle of favorite sonism is undoubtedly the most humiliating of the entire batch.—Chicago Times-Herald.

——There are people who incline to the opinion that the St. Louis nomination would make a very appropriate wedding present.—Washington Post.

——The protected manufacturers could afford to pay higher wages if they did not have to furnish so much "fat" for republican campaigns.—Chicago Chronicle.

——In view of the exploits of Mark Hanna among the protectees, a frying pan would not be an inappropriate device for a McKinley button. The legend might be: "I fry. You melt."—St. Paul Globe.

——Mark Hanna is said to have ordered a large number of cots forwarded to St. Louis for the republican convention. We are going to have a convention to decide the question, after all.—Iowa State Register (Rep.).

——The president of the McKinley club of Hartford, Conn., was defeated for the mayoralty, but he was defeated by a democrat. The popularity of McKinleyism is limited to the republican rank and file.—St. Louis Republic.

——McKinleyism has twice gone before the country for approval and both times the people defeated the party advocating the socialistic doctrine. If it is to ask for indorsement a third time, and the head and front of the policy is put forth to champion it, a united democracy upon a sound platform can again defeat it.—Nashville American.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

Little Eva McKinley to Uncle Tom Hanna of Ohio—"Tell me, Uncle Tom, is it nice in the white house?"—Chicago Record.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS

First Session.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—SENATE—Mr. Cullom Monday gave notice of an amendment to the sundry civil bill, providing that out of the appropriation made for the bureau of engraving and printing the bureau shall provide the full amount of internal revenue stamps required by law, and that the printing of postage stamps shall be done by contract to the lowest bidder. Senator Gordon, of Georgia, gave notice of a proposed amendment to the naval bill, appropriating $50,000 for arms, accouterments, etc., for the naval militia of the various states.

HOUSE—Bills introduced: To remove charge of desertion against George Schall, Sixty-fifth Ohio; to pension Lydia Lampsoll, widow of David Lampsoll, late surgeon Eighty-second Ohio, $10 per month; to pension Matilda Zimmerman, widow of Martin Zimmerman, Twenty-fifth Ohio, $12 per month; to pension Nancy A. Wilcox, widow of Charles K. Street, Ninety-ninth Ohio, at $12; to increase pension of Mrs. Isabella Graham, widow of John L. Graham, of Louisville, Ky., from $20 to $30 per month, to pension Elizabeth Bryant, widow of Ray Bryant, late soldier in Mexican war, at $12 per month.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—SENATE—Senator Proctor, chairman of the committee on agriculture, was Tuesday authorized by that committee to make a favorable report on a bill to provide for a director-in-chief of the scientific bureaus of the agricultural department. The senate committee on agriculture authorized Senator Warren to make a favorable report upon the animal industry bill. Senator Platt favorably reported the bill giving to any state having a claim for expenses incurred in the defense of the United States the right to have it adjudicated by the court of claims. Senator Hawley introduced a general bill for the reorganization of the militia.

HOUSE—The house Tuesday passed without amendment the fortification appropriation bill carrying appropriations and authorizations involving an expenditure of $11,384,613. Mr. Bingham (rep., Pa.) presented the conference report on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, and explained with reference to the paragraph to abolish the fee system in the case of marshals, attorneys and United States commissioners that the whole question had been referred to a joint committee of the judiciary committees of the two houses, who were to consult with the attorney general and report to the conference committee. A bill was introduced in the house by Congressman McCall, of Tennessee, to remove the charge of desertion against G. B. Gibson, Henderson county, Tenn.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—SENATE—Wednesday Mr. Sherman introduced a bill granting a pension to Evaline Sheridan, widow of Capt. John Sheridan; also to remove the charge of desertion from the record of William Weigel. Mr. Blackburn introduced a bill to remove the charge of desertion standing against Thomas W. Cardwell; Mr. Voorhees, through Mr. Turpie, introduced a bill correcting the military record of Cornelius Farrell. Mr. Voorhees, through Mr. Turpie, presented the resolutions of the Young Men's Democratic club of Boston favoring the election of senators by popular vote.

HOUSE—Mr. Burton (O.) introduced a bill in the house Wednesday authorizing the secretary of the interior to convey certain lands in the District of Columbia to John H. Gause and others. Mr. McCreary (Ky.) introduced a bill pensioning Jas. L. Fish, of Lincoln county, Ky. The bill introduced by Mr. Henry (Ind.), to pay Thomas F. Ryan, of Indianapolis, $2,200 for property belonging to him and seized by United States marshals in February, 1868, has been favorably reported from the committee on claims. Mr. Leighty (Ind.) laid before the house the petition of citizens of Indiana protesting against the passage of the Loud postal bill.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—SENATE—The senate committee on military affairs, Thursday, agreed to report favorably Senator Hawley's bill for the reorganization of the army. The bill increases the force to 30,000 enlisted men. Mr. Sherman introduced in the senate resolutions praying the passage of a law to secure better markets for grain, grain products, meat and all manufactured products of the United States. Senator Peffer's resolution for an investigation of recent bond issue was the subject of a sensational speech in opposition by Senator Hill. Mr. Hill defended Secretary Carlisle and his administration of the treasury against loose insinuations of irregularity. Mr. Carlisle, he said, deserved a vote of thanks for saving the country's credit.

HOUSE—Bills introduced: To pension James S. Fish, of Lincoln county, Kentucky; to remove charges of desertion against Jacob Burkhardt, 28th Ohio, and Eli Norris, 59th Ohio; to pay T. R. Mason, Adairville, Ky., $482 for carrying the mails; to pay Rebeckah Wilkins, widow of Jesse Wilkins, late jailer at Carrollton, Ky., $4,380 for food furnished to prisoners of war; To pension Emily Sims, widow of Edward Sims, Third West Virginia, at $8 per month. The house committee on foreign affairs Thursday adopted a resolution appropriating $75,000 for determining under existing treaties the boundary at all necessary points between the St. Lawrence river and the Lake of the Woods.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—SENATE—Mr. Hill continued, without concluding, Friday afternoon the speech he commenced Thursday against the passage of the Peffer resolution to investigate the bond sales of the present administration. Mr. Gear (rep., Ia.) chairman of the committee on Pacific railroads, presented a committee substitute for all bills proposing a settlement of the Pacific railroad debts.

HOUSE—Friday was an old-fashioned field day in the house, with radical variations. It was private bill day, under the rules, when bills to pay claims arising out of the war, which in the past afforded opportunity and excuse for fighting the battles of the rebellion over again, were under consideration. Friday, however, the contest was waged largely by republican members who advocated the payment of the bills reported by the committee on war claims and those who favored postponing action, and some of the statements were startling in their bitterness. The net result of the day's discussion was the rejection of the bill, and the passage of another. Mr. Pickler (rep., S. D.) reported the general pension bill, prepared by the committee on invalid pensions, and it was recommitted.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—SENATE—Not in session Saturday.

HOUSE—The house committee on appropriations Saturday reported to the house the general deficiency bill, the last of the regular appropriation bills for this session. The total amount carried by the bill is $1,791,340. The house Saturday paid tribute to the memory of the late Representative Cogswell, of Massachusetts. Gen. Cogswell was one of the most popular members of the house. Catchings (dem., Miss.), Grosvenor (rep., O.), Henderson (rep., Ia.), and Dockery (dem., Mo.) were among those who laid their tributes on his bier. Mr. Talbert (dem., S. C.), who had previously blocked private bills, objected to a pension bill presented by Mr. Cannon (rep., Ill.) in the house. Mr. Cannon made a personal appeal to Talbert. He said it was the first time in twenty years that he had asked for unanimous consent. He reviewed the pathetic history of the soldier who was a constituent of his, shot to pieces and almost totally blind. Mr. Talbert was plainly touched by the appeal, and withdrew his objection.

Drowned in the Licking River.

NEWPORT, Ky., April 20.—Jim Scott, colored, was drowned in the Licking river back of the Queen City race track at Wilder's, Ky., at 11:30 Saturday morning. He and another colored man named Varence Clay were scuffling in a skiff, when Scott fell into the river. He could not swim and was drowned. The body has not been found.

Buried in Potter's Field.

XENIA, O., April 20.—The body of Morris, the condemned murderer who suicided in jail, was buried here Saturday morning, none of his relatives appearing to claim it.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS.

PATENTS HAVE EXPIRED.

Description of a Few Excellent Pail-Supporting Milk Stools.

The dairy reader will find something to amuse and interest him and possibly something instructive, in the illustrations and description of a few milk stools, the patents on which are expired, and they are public property.

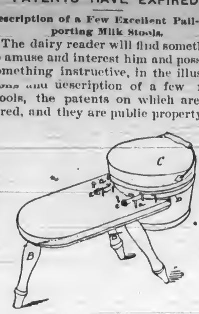

FIG. 1.

In Fig. 1 the bucket is held in place by a yielding hoop or yoke in combination with hooks upon the top of the stool. These hooks (a, a) are inserted in two rows in the arcs of circles on the upper surface of the top of the stool near that end which is curved out, and serve as means for holding firmly in place the flexible yoke or supporting hoop, D, the ends (e,e) of which are straightened out and terminated by hooks (e, e). This yoke D is preferably made of spring metal, so that when it is compressed and its ends adjusted between the hooks, a, a, on the stool top, its tendency to recoil will keep the ends, e, e, in place beneath the retaining hooks a. The hooks e will prevent the ends of the yoke from being drawn out of their place endwise. It will be seen from the above description that the yoke D, when applied to the hooks a, will be firmly held and will afford a good support for a pail, C. The yoke can be easily made larger or smaller to adapt it for receiving different-sized pails, and can be readily detached from the hooks a, turned over from the stool top, and there fastened again to the hooks, thus bringing the parts into a very small space for portability.

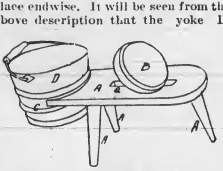

FIG. 2.

In the device shown by Figs. 2 and 3, the bucket is clamped and held firmly by the action of the weight of the milker upon a movable seat and clamp hoop. In the drawings C represents the clamp-hoop, which extends out beyond the curved end of the stool top A, and which is intended to clamp the bucket E against the seat as shown. B represents the seat for the milker, which is secured permanently to an extension, b, of a cam, b, which is pivoted at s in an oblong slot a. To the convex surface of the cam b, a strap, e, is securely fastened which is connected to a strong spring f, the front end of which is connected to the cross-bar g of the sliding clamp C. When the stool is not in use the spring h, which is connected to the bar g at one end and to the stool top at the other end, causes the parts to assume the inclined positions as shown. Upon the milker placing his weight on the seat, the clamp C is drawn inwardly around the vessel to be held and accommodates itself to buckets of different diameters through the medium of the spring f. When the milker removes his weight the spring h causes the seat to rise and at the same time causes clamp C to release the bucket. The seat also serves to hold the tail of the animal during milking, which is done by drawing the bushy part of the tail between the seat and the table-top before sitting down.—Country Gentleman.

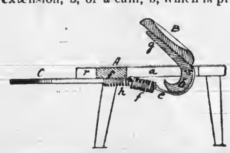

FIG. 3.

GRAPE ROOT WORM.

Only the Strongest Solutions of Arsenical Poisons Will Kill It.

The Ohio experiment station reports that the graperoot worm is the young of a small, brown beetle, that emerges from the ground, in the vicinity of Cleveland, O., from the latter part of June until September, but largely during July, feeding on the leaves and depositing its eggs under the bark of the vines. These eggs hatch out minute worms, of a white color, with brownish heads, which drop to the ground and make their way to the roots upon which they feed, when full grown constructing earthen cells, in which the larger portion pass the winter, advancing to the pupal state in June without feeding, in spring, the pupae developing adults as stated above. There is but one annual brood. The natural enemies, so far as now known, attack the eggs only. The beetle can be poisoned by very strong solutions of arsenical poisons, and the worms can be killed with the fumes of bisulphide of carbon. Frequent stirring of the soil during July, and keeping a thick covering of mellow earth over the roots during this period, will also be of service in preventing the young from reaching the roots.

If the fruit trees are infested with bark lice, wash them with strong soft soap suds into which a little carbolic acid has been stirred.

STEEL RAILS ON ROADS.

Valuable Suggestion Made by the Governor of New Jersey.

The latest scheme for good roads—that of laying tracks of broad steel rails along country roads and city streets for the wheels of vehicles to run on, thus greatly increasing the traction power of horses and the general comfort and convenience of driving and trucking—was suggested by Gov. Werts, of New Jersey, in his last message. It apparently is an elaboration and improvement of a system of paving used in some foreign cities which has proved very satisfactory. Gov. Werts' suggestion, which is really the proposition of Mr. Budd, commissioner of roads, is to lay double tracks of steel along the country roads, filling in the space between the rails with ordinary paving of macadam. He says a horse will draw on such a steel track 20 times as much as on macadam. The unanimity with which drivers of all manner of vehicles in city streets take to the car track clearly illustrataes the idea.

Many of the streets along the line of docks in Liverpool, over which heavy loads of all kinds are drawn to and from the ships, have long slabs of granite, such as are used at crossings, laid end to end in four parallel rows all along the street, practically like car tracks. The rest of the street is paved with Belgian granite set in the ordinary manner. These wheel tracks of granite slabs afford a perfectly regular and smooth surface for the trucks to run on, while the granite sets give a good purchase for the horses. This style of paving has proved of great utility and convenience. It is much easier for the horses than where the wheels have to jolt over the small sets, and they can do much better work. It adds much to public comfort, too, because the trucking is almost noiseless. The slabs wear better than the small sets, because there is no irregular wear by jolting and scraping.

This system of paving is in use in some of the streets about the docks of London, in Antwerp and many other cities in Great Britain and on the continent. Of course, steel rails would be a great improvement on the granite slabs in many respects. Perhaps the granite has an advantage over steel for use in crowded city streets in that it it not more slippery in wet weather than is the rest of the paving, while broad rails of steel might prove treacherous for horses where there is much crossing of teams. Gov. Werts, however, only suggested the use of steel on country roads.

Many of the streets of Sheffield and other towns in the north of England are paved with blocks of stone 12 to 18 inches long by 9 to 12 inches broad. These streets are practically as smooth as the sidewalks. The stone is rougher and softer than the granite. But while this pavement is excellent for cabs and other light vehicles, because of its smoothness and comfort, it is not so good for heavy trucking, especially in wet weather, as the horses are not able to get a good purchase on the broad blocks.—N. Y. Sun.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

In planting give trees plenty of room.

Nearly all kinds of stock are injurious to young orchards.

In setting out trees thin them so as to avoid forks and to make them head low.

A few apple and peach trees should be planted every year to keep up the supply.

Missing trees in the orchard should be replaced by thrifty young trees of some sort.

It is not a bad plan to keep the orchard lands in as good a condition of fertility as the cornfield.

Dead or decaying trees in the orchard afford a harboring and breeding place for insects and vermin.

The pear tree, after it once comes into bearing, if kept healthy, can be depended upon for fruit every year.

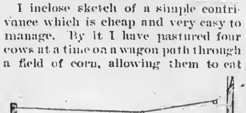
The best ground for a peach orchard is a sandy soil that has been planted for several years with general crops.

The union between the scion and stock takes place by the inner bark and not by the cut surface of the wood. The skill of the grafter is then exercised to bring the inner bark of the scion into close contact with the inner bark of the stock.

BETTER THAN HURDLES.

How an Eastern Man Pastures Four Cows on a Wagon Path.

I inclose sketch of a simple contrivance which is cheap and very easy to manage. By it I have pastured four cows at a time on a wagon path through a field of corn, allowing them to eat the grass almost to the corn. He could use part of his field for hay, and pasture the rest by tying the rope on a new place on the fence occasionally. It allows the cow to move along as she would when loose to eat.—Country Gentleman.



Neat Packages for Butter.

Many people are willing to pay for appearance in butter as well as in other things, and it pays in making butter to put it up in neat packages. The best is made from cream which is ripened uniformly, and the dairyman who undertakes to do without an icehouse is working along wrong lines. Above all he must know the capabilities of his cows individually, or there will be a leak for every item of profit, and he be in ignorance as to why he reaps no reward for all his labor, and disgusted with life in general. In these times the doing of one's best is the only path which leads from failure.

THE ASHANTEE EXPEDITION.

What Led to the Campaign in Which Prince Henry Lost His Life.

The origin of the difficulty with Ashantee, which led to the expedition in which Prince Henry lost his life, may be assigned to the year 1888. Lord Kuntsford then decided that a British representative should be sent to the court of Coomassie. King Prempeh acceded with reluctance, for, notwithstanding the debt of about $500,000 due to England on account of Sir Garnet Wolseley's expedition in 1873, he still claimed to be an independent sovereign over his 96,000 square miles of territory. But in 1894 the acting governor of the Gold Coast colony sent him word that a resident was to be sent to his capital with power to define the limits of Ashantee, to decide whether representative action should be taken in the case of rebellious chiefs, and to exercise supervision over the kingdom generally.

These demands were resented by Prempeh, who sent his cousins, Prince John and Prince Albert, to England to obtain relief. But they were unable to effect any arrangement. Lord Rosebery referred them to the governor of the Gold Coast, and when the conservatives came into power Mr. Chamberlain adopted the same line. And then an expedition was organized to enforce the ultimatum sent to the dusky monarch.

The expedition was not on a very large scale. Only 200 British troops were employed. They were supplemented by a battalion of a West Indian regiment stationed at Sierra Leone and a battalion of Houssas. The artillery consisted of nine-pounders and Maxims. But, though small, the force was sufficient for its purpose. After hacking its way through 150 miles of jungle, it is now in peaceful occupation of Coomassie. King Prempeh has announced his intention of meeting in every way the wishes of his formidable visitors, and it is announced that he and his relatives are to be held in hostage until his promises have been fulfilled.

It is highly probable that the whole territory of Ashantee will now pass under British protection. The territory will prove a valuable acquisition, for the amount of gold in it is, by all accounts, so large that it may be expected to affect the price of the metal in the world's markets.—N. Y. Herald.

A DESERT FACTORY.

Its Principal Business Is to Turn Out Splints for Surgeons.

Down below the Santa Fe roundhouse, near the railroad tracks, is a factory unlike any other in the United States, or, for that matter, anywhere else. It makes splints for the use of surgeons in bandaging broken limbs from a peculiar fibrous material that possesses especial adaptability for the purpose. This material is none other than the wood of the yucca palm, which grows plentifully on the Mojave desert. The trees are cut down and trimmed into logs about ten or twelve feet long and from ten inches upwards in diameter, and shipped to the factory, where they are stripped of bark and carefully inspected. About half or more of the logs contain what might be called flaws, or kidney-colored masses of carbonized wood so hard that the machinery used cannot cut them. Nobody seems to be able to explain how these formations are caused, but they make the men at the factory a great deal of trouble and spoil much timber. The logs are sawed into suitable lengths, a length put in a lathe, and a long knife is pressed against it, taking off a shaving about an eighth of an inch thick, more or less, according to the use to be made of it. This long shaving or board is then cut into smaller pieces and put away in racks to dry, for the trees are cut up when green, it being impossible to soften them after they are dried. Although they grow in the desert and look parched to the eye, they are full of water and weigh so much when green that they sink in water. The poorer quality of the yucca is cut up into narrow strips, which are fastened around young fruit trees to protect them from sunburn and the attacks of rabbits, for which purpose they are found to answer admirably, and a great many of them are used. But the use of this material upon which the greatest hope of ultimate profit is based is for splints, for which it is much better adapted than any other material used, as well as being cheaper.—Los Angeles Journal.

A Long Farewell.

The Frenchman's politeness sometimes serves him in good stead to point a rebuke. A Frenchman who was staying at a hotel in Edinburgh asked, at the cashier's desk, how much his bill was, and was astonished to find how great an amount had been charged.

He felt that he had been plundered, but he paid the bill, and then asked to see the proprietor. Presently the landlard came down in response to the call, all beaming with smiles.

The Frenchman rushed up to him, exclaiming:

"Ah! let me embrace you! Let me kees you!"

"But why do you want to embrace me, sir? I—I don't understand."

"Ah! saire, but look at zee beel."

"Your bill? Yes; but what of it?"

"Vot of it? Vy, it mean zat I s'all nevaire nevaire see you again, saire!"—Tit-Bits.

Easily Explained.

"Sam, how is it that we here have two legs presumably off the same chicken, and yet one is about 100 per cent. tougher than the other?"

Sam—Always the case with chicken, sah; one leg has 100 per cent. more work to do than de oder, and de muscles cons'quently git tougher.

"Why, I never heard of that. Which one is it?"

"De one de chicken sleeps on, sah."—Harper's Magazine.

Our Beggars.

"Poor man! You have only one eye left! How did you lose the other?"

"In looking for work, kind lady."—L'Evenement.

WHAT SNAKES EAT.

One Owned in Paris Averaged Five Meals Each Year.

During the last few months some of the gentlemen connected with the Museum of Natural History at Paris have given to the world various interesting results of their observations.

The learned professor at the museum, Leon Vaillant, describes the diet of a serpent more than 20 feet long, which has been on exhibition at the Jardin des Plantes since the month of August 1885. Up to the end of 1895 this reptile had eaten 50 times—that is, on the average of five times a year The largest number of times in one year that the snake took food was in 1886, when he ate seven times.

Nearly always the food consisted of flesh of goats, old and young. Three times, however, the repast was composed of rabbits and once a goose. The feeding of the serpent, which will eat nothing but what is alive, offers an uncommon spectacle, and many persons request to have notice of the times when the creature feeds, so as to witness the feeding. Yet the lightning-like rapidity with which the reptile seizes its prey produces a powerful impression.

Apropos of the volume which can, by means of distension, enter the stomach of serpents, Prof. Vaillant relates that a French viper was once put in the same cage with a horned viper. As these individuals, although belonging to different species, were of the same size, it was supposed that the reptiles would live amicably side by side.

Nevertheless the horned viper during the following night swallowed his companion in captivity, and in order to accommodate this prey so disproportionate to itself its body was distended to such a degree that the scales, instead of touching each other laterally and even overlapping each other a little, as in its normal condition, were separated, leaving between the longitudinal rows of them a space equal to their own breadth. All the same, digestion proceeded regularly and the viper did not appear to have suffered in the least. The ease of the cobra that swallowed a brother cobra by mistake at the zoo affords another example of this extraordinary capacity for the accommodation of food. — Pittsburgh Dispatch.

The Poster in Japan.

Four or five years ago I stopped for the night at a little tea-house far up in the mountains of Japan. Nowhere were to be seen any railroads, European cast-off clothing, or other "modern improvements;" and in a walk through the village, after a dinner of rice and fish, I was led to believe that at last a spot had been found where things were to be as they always had been. But on returning to the village last summer, there stood at the door a little maiden with a delightful smile of rejoicing, as she proudly showed in one hand an unmistakable nickel-plated American alarm-clock, and in the other an unbroken tin-foiled stick of chewing-gum. Verily our civilization had arrived. The next day, however, in a village even more remote, a still greater surprise awaited me; for, displayed prominently on a blank wall, with an admiring crowd about it, was a veritable poster; and a few more days showed that this innovation in art, if it may be so called, was common and highly popular. Every tea-house had its series, and all the shops in the bazaars were full of them; and wherever a poster was in sight an admiring throng was sure to be seen. A new style of drawing seemed to go hand in hand with the new idea, and even an understanding of our perspective was appreciable.—D. P. B. Conkling, in Century.

Stallion with Great Records.

Stallions that have more than 100 standard performers to their credit are four in number: Electioneer, 151 trotters and one pacer; total, 152. Nutwood, 112 trotters and 21 pacers; total, 133. Red Wilkes, 97 trotters and 26 pacers; total, 123. Onward, 92 trotters and 20 pacers; total, 112. Electioneer was foaled in 1868, and died in 1890, being 22 years old at the time of his death. Nutwood was foaled in 1870, at the present time being 26 years of age. Red Wilkes was foaled in 1874, making him 22 years of age. Onward was foaled in 1875, and is 21.

THE MARKETS.

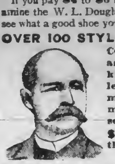
CINCINNATI. April 20.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	$2 50	@ 3 00
Select butchers	3 65	@ 3 85
HOGS—Common	3 09	@ 3 40
Good packers	3 40	@ 3 55
SHEEP—Choice	3 35	@ 3 65
LAMBS—Spring	5 00	@ 7 50
FLOUR—Winter family	2 85	@ 3 10
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 74
No. 3 red		@ 71½
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 31¼
Oats—No. 2		@ 23
Rye—No. 2		@ 43
HAY—Prime to choice		@ 16 00
TOBACCO—Medium leaf	10 60	@ 11 50
Good leaf	12 00	@ 14 75
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@ 9 75
Lard—Prime steam		@ 4 80
BUTTER—Choice dairy	13	@ 14
Prime to choice creamery		@ 19
APPLES—Per bbl	3 25	@ 3 75
POTATOES—Per bush	20	@ 65
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 90	@ 4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 1 north'n.		@ 76⅜
No. 2 red		@ 75⅜
CORN—No. 2 mixed		@ 38¼
OATS—Mixed		@ 25¾
PORK—New mess	9 25	@ 10 25
LARD—Western		@ 5 30
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patents	3 50	@ 3 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	68⅝	@ 70
No. 2 Chicago spring		@ 63⅞
CORN—No. 2	30⅛	@ 30⅜
OATS—No. 2		@ 19¾
PORK—Mess	8 60	@ 8 65
LARD—Steam	4 90	@ 4 92½
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	3 50	@ 3 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	71¾	@ 72
Corn—Mixed	35⅛	@ 35½
Oats—Mixed		@ 26
LARD—Refined		@ 11 00
PORK—Mess		@ 16 85
CATTLE—First quality	4 00	@ 4 25
HOGS—Western	4 00	@ 4 25
INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 68
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 28¾
OATS—No. 2 mixed		@ 21
LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 20	@ 3 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 70
Corn—Mixed		@ 29½
Oats—Mixed		@ 22
PORK—Mess		@ 9 75
LARD—Steam	5 75	@ 6 75

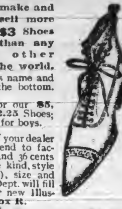
THERE is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

CORROBORATED.—New Yorker—"Are Philadelphians as slow as New Yorkers think they are?" Philadelphian (surprised)—"Do New Yorkers think we're slow?"—Truth.

A Child Enjoys
The pleasant flavor, gentle action, and soothing effect of Syrup of Figs, when in need of a laxative, and if the father or mother be costive or bilious, the most gratifying results follow its use; so that it is the best family remedy known and every family should have a bottle.

THE best hearts, Trim, are ever the bravest, replied my Uncle Toby.—Sterne.





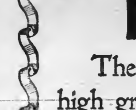
ASK YOUR DEALER FOR
W. L. DOUGLAS
$3. SHOE BEST IN THE WORLD.
If you pay $4 to $6 for shoes, examine the W. L. Douglas Shoe, and see what a good shoe you can buy for $3.
OVER 100 STYLES AND WIDTHS,
CONGRESS, BUTTON, and LACE, made in all kinds of the best selected leather by skilled workmen. We make and sell more $3 Shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.
None genuine unless name and price is stamped on the bottom.
Ask your dealer for our $5, $4, $3.50, $2.50, $2.25 Shoes; $2.50, $2 and $1.75 for boys.
TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE. If your dealer cannot supply you, send to factory, enclosing price and 36 cents to pay carriage. State kind, style of toe (cap or plain), size and width. Our Custom Dept. will fill your order. Send for new Illustrated Catalogue to Box R.
W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

Queer Names. "A Crick"—"A Stitch" "A Twist"—"A Jam" "A Halt"—"Raw Spots" "Blue Spots"—"Dead Aches"—are all well known of flesh, bone, and muscle, and easily cured by St. Jacobs Oil.

Breakfast Cocoa
Made by Walter Baker & Co., Ltd., Dorchester, Mass., is "a perfect type of the highest order of excellence in manufacture." It costs less than one cent a cup.

Greatest Quantity. Highest Quality. Smallest Price.
Battle Ax
A GREAT BIG PIECE FOR 10 CENTS
PLUG
The only brand of strictly high grade tobacco ever sold for a low price. Not the large size of the piece alone that has made "Battle Ax" the most popular brand on the market for 5 cents,
QUALITY; SIZE; PRICE.

LATEST AND BEST WELL DRILLING MACHINES 100 ft. to 2,000 FEET. HORSE, STEAM AND GASOLINE POWER...... ADDRESS LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.



WE HAVE NO AGENTS but sell direct to the consumer at wholesale prices. Ship anywhere for examination before sale. Everything warranted. 100 styles of Carriages, 90 styles of Harness, 41 styles Riding Saddles. Write for catalogue.
ELKHART CARRIAGE & HARNESS MFG CO. ELKHART, IND.
W. B. PRATT, Secy.

STARK TREES BEAR FRUIT STARK TRADE MARK. TESTED 70 YEARS Salesmen and club makers wanted for GOLD plum, etc. Stark, Louisiana, Mo., Rockport, Ills.

HO FOR CALIFORNIA! Big Saving in Railroad Fare. Send 10 cts. for certificate and particulars. Stamps accepted. GEO. E. BRITTAIN, DAYTON, O.

OPIUM and WHISKY habits cured. Book sent FREE. Dr. B. M. WOOLLEY, ATLANTA, GA.
NAME THIS PAPER every time you write.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION 25 CTS. CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.
KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.
DONALD KENNEDY, of ROXBURY, MASS.,
Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.
He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor.) He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.
A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.
When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.
If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.
No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS PLEASE state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER.

Wednesday, April 22, 1896.

Rates of Subscription:

One year	$1 50.
Six months	75.
Three months	40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER
SOLICITS YOUR Job Work,
NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS,
Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.
Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

POLITICAL.

Capt. W. J. Stone is moving around over the yeomanry in a way that would indicate an announcement as a candidate for Congress.

There seems to be a very great difference of opinion as to the meaning of Mr. Carlisle's recent letter in regard to his candidacy for the Presidency. We are of the opinion, however, that the Courier-Journal gave it the right interpretation when it announced that Mr. Carlisle is emphatically a candidate for the nomination.—Henry County Local.

McKinley may be the Napoleon of the Republican party in the United States, but Marshal Sam Roberts, of the Leader, is entitled to wear the cocked hat, while knee breeches and yellow vest belonging to the tout ensemble of that famous General and Emperor so far as his character must be typified by a Kentuckian, one of whom is at least entitled to serve in uniform as one of the Marshals of France.—Lexington Argonaut.

Henry Clay, the greatest of Kentucky's sons, declared on an occasion, "I would rather be right than be President." If the present Governor of Kentucky had acted on this motto he would not occupy the humiliating position of going down on his knees to the A. P. A. bigots to obtain their assistance in furthering his presidential aspirations. A person capable of playing the role that Gov. Bradley is credited with playing courts political defeat and should meet with it.—Irish world.

The Brooksville Review declares for the Hon. William Goebel for Governor, and says: "He is one of the ablest men in the State; in fact he scarcely has an equal in point of ability. Honest, fearless and true as steel to his friends, a scholar and a statesman, he would make one of the greatest and most able Chief Executives the State ever had. An acute politician, a great organizer, with a personal following among the most influential leaders in the State, he would make a leader who would scatter the enemy like chaff before the wind and would bring the old State back to the Democratic fold with an old-time majority.

The Sixth District was not devoted to Bradley at Louisville. Kenton with 40, Campbell with 47, Boone with 6, Grant with 13 and Pendleton with 13 saw nothing charming in the distribution of State patronage and cast 119 votes for Denny. Gallatin with 3 and Carroll with 6 gave a measly 9 to Morrow, and it was a morrow that came too. It is your practical politician that wins, however, and sentiment even though directed against unjust distribution of pie meets little sympathy. The Sixth District went to Louisville for kicking but, to the surprise of the delegates, it was the other fellow who did it.—Commonweath.

Hon. Will Lyons, of Campbell county, has a bit of political history concerning Gov. Bradley which he used to good effect against the Governor in the Sixth district and which may tell in to-day's convention. According to Mr. Lyons Gov. Bradley did not stop at preventing the election of Hunter to the Senate, but also opposed the election of St. John Boyle. He declares that he was personally solicited by Gov. Bradley, in the Governor's office at Frankfort, to vote for J. M. Atherton for United States Senator in order to prevent the election of St. John Boyle, the Republican caucus nominee. Mr. Lyons has made this statement repeatedly in proof of his claim that Gov. Bradley is unworthy the support of Republicans. —Courier Journal.

"I want it distinctly understood," shouted gallant old Silas Adams in his speech at Liberty, when the committee reported a resolution indorsing Gov. Bradley and his acts, "that I do not approve the Governor's action in calling out 400 soldiers to suppress the Hon. Jack Chinn." The old soldier had smelled gunpowder, heard minnie balls whistling and cannons thunder in the thickest of the fight thirty odd years ago and has no patience with the set who will let one man put 10,000 to flight. Indorse and resolute about it as much as they please the calling out of the army for such a purpose will forever remain a blot on the first Republican administration in Kentucky, and honest Republicans like Col. Adams do not hesitate to admit it.—Stanford Interior Journal.

The present law for electing members of Congress thirteen months before they are to take their seats ought to be changed. As it is now a certain issue may be before the country and men are chosen to act on that issue, but before their term begins the question has been dropped and something else has come up on which the members-elect hold views opposed to those of their constituents, and they go to the Capital and vote on those measures. The members should go to Washington fresh from the people, and ready to act on the issue on which they were elected. Then again a Congress, the majority of the members of which belong to the defeated party, should not hold another session after the election, as they are liable to get desperate and pass laws that are dangerous to the welfare of the country, and which the people have expressed themselves against. The elections ought to be held about sixty days before the Congress meets.–Hopkinsville New Era.

Hon. John S. Phelps, of Fayette county, is writing a series of articles on the late Kentucky Legislature to the Lexington Gazette. In his latest paper he says:

"Whatever may have been the Governor's motive in calling the militia to the capital, whether there was actual danger to the members of the General Assembly in the discharge of their legislative duties, or a political necessity to enable the Republicans of the joint assembly to elect their nominee for the office of United States Senator, in either event the presence of armed soldiers in the building where the two houses held their sessions was fatal to further legislation. The Democrats believed and charged that the purpose of the Governor was to aid the Republican members in the two houses to force the election of St. John Boyle. They had by a strict party vote very unjustly unseated Moses Kaufman, and had declared Mr. Dunlap entitled to the seat right at the close of the session, after Mr. Dunlap had placed in the hands of Speaker Blanford a written withdrawal of his contest. The sole purpose in taking this action at this time could only have been to force the election of a Republican Senator, which would have been done that day but for the prompt and determined proceedings by the Democratic Senators in unseating two Republican Senators. It was a game of bluff and both parties played the game to perfection; but the Democrats of the Senate 'got the drop' on them, and hence came the demand for the State militia. I repeat that to the presence of the militiary is due to a great extent the responsibility for the failure to enact such revenue laws as are absolutely necessary to enable the Commonwealth to meet her obligations to her citizens. No man of any honorable convictions, however partisan he may be in his political conduct, is willing to legislate when every time he moves from one house to the other he is compelled to run a gauntlet of hostile bayonets."

STOCK AND CROP.

Hog cholera prevails quite extensively in Harrison county and a portion of Clark.

The sugar crop this year will, it is estimated, be fully 1,000,000 short as compared with last year.

About 300 cattle at Richmond on Court day. Prices, $2 to $2 90. No mules sold. About half a dozen stallions on exhibition.

The peach trees are now in full bloom, and from the number of buds there will be a crop, provided a cold snap doesn't come along and kill them.—Bracken Chronicle.

A pet sheep entered the kitchen of a Bourbon county farmer and playfully butted a little two-year-old child into the fire, from which the child died in a few hours, and we suspect the sheep did too.

One of the most successful Kentucky farmers finds that his flock of sheep are the most profitable stock he keeps. They eat the weeds, pack the wheat fields after heavy winter freezes, and convert green crops into a better plant food on land that is to be cultivated than is possible by turning them under.

In the neighborhood of Cadiz in the past week fifty sheep have been killed by dogs, and the Telephone is moved to remark: "It would seem that in this day and time while the Legislature exhausts itself in devising hooting owl bills and rabbit laws, something might be done to rid the country of worthless curs."

The general conditions of the tobacco market are a puzzle, and it is to form an opinion of the future. While it is true that the stock of [illegible] in the warehouses is larger than common, it is also true that the manufacturers have not been heavy buyers, and it may be that the stocks usually in their hands at this time, are in the hands of shippers.

No breed of horses has brought better prices in the past year than the showy saddle horse. In every public sale where he has been offered his price has stood close to the top. Only recently in a mixed sale of fast trotters and saddlers a showy saddle gelding brought $900. The demand for this class is far in excess of the supply.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

The Uniontown Telegram says: "So far as we are capable of judging from information and actual observation, the wheat crop in Union county this year will be up to the usual average. The acreage is greater than ever known. During the past week the crop has made wonderful strides toward growing, and with a few weeks of favorable weather the yield of '96 will be made a record- breaker.

Farmers are delivering the very best of corn at Kincaid at $1,25 per barrel. After deducting the expenses for having the same cut, put in shocks, shucked out and putting on the cars, the seller can't realize over 70 cents per barrel, provided he hires everything done, which will bring him in debt, especially if he is a renter, and if he owns the land and keeps it in good repair he will not have enough left to pay taxes on the same. The lands had better remain in grass and graze it with cattle at $3,50 per hundred.—Georgetown Times.

OUR NEIGHBORS

CARROLL COUNTY

[News]

Wheat is not looking well.

A good acreage is being put to oats.

Peach trees are loaded with blossoms.

Tobacco plants are coming nicely, but in many beds rain is needed to give the seed life.

Madison has contracted for an electric street car line, which will probably be extended to Clifty Falls and Hanover.

Fred C. Packham, of Prestonville, killed a blue crane on Little Kentucky last week, that measured six feet, two inches from tip to tip.

Dr. Louis Cobln and Dr. W. S. Golden were called in consultation by Dr. Conn yesterday in regard to Dr. Hiners condition. They are very feartul the worst will soon come, as with all the stimulants the heart's action can not be brought above 40.

[Democrat.]

Chas. Duncan, of Ghent, aged 85, and Mrs. Susan Stockdale, of Locust, aged 87, are dead.

It is reported that the inmates of the County Infirmary are very desirous of having preaching occasionally.

When the wharfboat sunk last November there was a large quantity of furniture on board, owned by the Carrollton Furniture Co. Of course it was damaged by the water. On Wednesday the Furniture Co. sued the city for $800 damages on account of it. We understand that one ground of the complaint is that the city had neglected to require the wharfmasters to give bond, and they were merely agents of the city, &c.

—§§—

GRANT COUNTY

[Courier]

There was abundance of hogs, sheep and cattle on sale here Monday. Most of the stock went at extremely low price, except hogs which sold at satisfactory figures.

The wheel craze has struck Williamstown with force this spring. There will be more new wheels sold this season and especially to ladies than there has ever been sold in this town altogether in the past.

A shooting affray that may yet result in a homicide occured on the streets of Williamstown about the noon hour on last Tuesday. Robert Tully, the second son of Harrison H. Tully, shot Frank Musselman. Frank Musselman and Millard Gougs were walking up the street from the direction of Dr. R. H. O'Hara's drugstore and met Robert Tully and Ralph Myers coming from the opposite direction. Millard Gouge says not a word was spoken before Tully drew his pistol. Myers says that Musselman called Tully a d——n s——n of a b——h. Any way Tully drew a pistol from somewhere and fired three shots as fast as he could pull the trigger of the gun. One shot took effect, striking Musselman in the neck close to the thyroid artery, passing through the neck and down toward the shoulder. Musselman was taken to the Johnson House, where Drs. Thomas and Violett dressed the wounds. The wound is not necessarily fatal but is in a very dangerous locality, and the final outcome can not be safely predicted for several days.

The cause leading up to the shooting is not very clear. It seems that Musselman and Tully had had some trouble in the corner saloon about 9 o'clock in the morning. Words and possibly threats had passed between them, but no blows were struck, and the matter passed oft and no more was thought about it. They did not meet again until the shooting occurred.

Both parties were apparently sober, each having had two or three drinks during the day, but not enough to notice it on either.

Tully was arrested and lodged in jail. Later he waived examination before Judge J. D. McMillan and was admitted to bail, his father H. H. Tully as bondsman.

GALLATIN COUNTY

[Independent]

Extracted from "Centennial Sketch of Ohio County" by F. J. W.: "In 1814 the first steamboat passed Rising Sun. It formerly had been a large barge that made several voyages from Cincinnati to New Orleans, consuming eight months in the downward and upward trip. A rudely constructed engine was put into it, and thus furnished and fitted up, the steamer 'Independence' plowed the waters of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. Arriving at New Orleans, Gen. Jackson, commander of the American forces, pressed it into service against the British; and, after the war, in 1815, she began her upward trip, and arrived after a voyage of four months at Rising Sun, where she stopped for wood, but none could be obtained. John James furnished her with fence-rails for fuel, and agreed to take his pay in a passage to Cincinnati. He embarked, but such was the slow speed of the steamer that when he got to North Bend he left the boat and walked to Cincinnati, arriving some twelve hours before the steamer.

Lewis Lillard, one of our best colored citizens, was seriously hurt and narrowly escaped death Thursday of last week, while hauling logs on the North farm in the Hoggins district. In handling the logs, a large one rolled on him and pinned him to the earth, holding him in the most painful position for nearly two hours, when assistance arrived, and he was released from his hazardous position and brought home here where he is gradually recovering.

John Bledsoe, aged 59 years, made application Sunday, for license to marry Miss Bertha Keeney, a little girl from Madison, Ind., who claimed to be 17 years old, though she did not appear to be over 12 years. County Clerk W. R. Payne, very promptly and properly refused to issue the marriage license, and Bledsoe was greatly disappointed. The little girl was taken home by Theodore Sarlls who will care for her for the present.

Wednesday afternoon, a very happy wedding took place at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Carver, near Warsaw, when their pretty daughter, Miss Maggie, was united in the bonds of holy wedlock to Albert Tandy, of Port Royal, Henry County.

W. P. Shouse, of New Castle, Sheriff of Henry County, was here Saturday bringing Wm. Morgan, colored, whom he arrested on a bench warrant from the Gallatin Circuit Court for shooting at a companion at Sparta last fall.

Mrs. Anna Crouch, of near Warsaw is announced as a candidate for Supt. of Public Schools of Gallatin County.

TABLER'S BUCK EYE PILE OINTMENT
CURES NOTHING BUT PILES.
A SURE and CERTAIN CURE known for 15 years as the BEST REMEDY for PILES.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by RICHARDSON MED CO., ST. LOUIS.

HEADQUARTERS FOR
SWEET PEAS.
Mixed Varieties { Per pound . . . . 40c. Half pound . . . 25c. Quarter pound . . 15c.
THE ONLY
DOUBLE SWEET PEA,
BRIDE OF NIAGARA.
(True to Name.)
Price—Packet 25c. Half packet 15c.
THE WONDERFUL
CRIMSON RAMBLER ROSE,
Only 15 Cents.
VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE, 1896,
The Pioneer Seed Catalogue.
Tried and True Novelties.—Fuchsias, Roses, Blackberry, The Pearl Gooseberry, Potatoes, Earliest Tomato Known, etc.
Lithographs of Double Sweet Pea, Roses, Fuchsias, Blackberries, Raspberries, New Leader Tomato, Vegetables. Filled with good things, old and new. Full list of Flowers, Vegetables, Small Fruits, etc., with description and prices. Mailed on receipt of 10 cts., which may be deducted from first order—really Free,—or free with an order for any of the above.
ROCHESTER, N. Y.
JAMES VICK'S SONS

G. H. HACKSTADT,
Ludlow, Ky.,
MANUFACTURER OF
ALL KINDS OF VEHICLES.
Best Buggies on Earth
FOR THE
Price, $35 and UP
W. C. BROWN, Agent
BURLINGTON, KY.

☞A good Investment. What does it mean? To secure a Good Value for your money. These Values are off[illegible] long as they last☜

Men's All-Wool Nicely Finished, Good Weight Sack Suits at	$5.00
Same in Boys' Sizes,	$4.50
Men's All-Wool Pants,	$1.25

We have advertised ourselves as the RELIABLE CLOTHIERS—any statement we may make can be depended upon. When we say that these suits are Bargains at $4.50 and $5.00 we know it to be a fact. We will appreciate inspection whether you desire to purchase or not.

ROLFES & WACHS,
RELIABLE CLOTHIERS,
S, W. Cor Pike Street & Madison Ave., COVINGTON, KY

Do Not Read This.

Four Pound Schofield Blankets,	$3.00
Four and half pounds Schofield Blankets,	3.25
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 36 inches,	.80
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 38 inches,	.90
Schofield's all-wool Ready-Made Skirts,	1.15

Schofield Flannels at cost.
All Schofield Yarns 10 per cent. discount. Schofield Jeans at cost.
All Boots and Heavy Shoes at cost.
We have a few Suits of Mens' Underwear which we will sell at cost.
(o)
Also a full line of☞ DRY GOODS
And a neat line of☞ GROCERIES,
AT THE [illegible]ORE OF THE
Burlington Mercantile Co.,
Burlington, Kentucky.

PURE BRED CHESTER WHITE HOGS.
La : Belle : Herd
—OF UP TO DATE—
CHESTER WHITE HOGS.
THE KEYSTONE DEHORNING CLIPPER IS THE MOST HUMANE, RAPID AND DURABLE KNIFE ON THE MARKET FOR DEHORNING PURPOSES, AND IS MADE FOR THE USE OF FARMERS AND DAIRYMEN
SEND FOR CIRCULAR
A.C. BROSIUS, COCHRANVILLE, PA.
Also agent for Dehorner, and Dehorning done at reasonable rates.
ALSO AGENT FOR AEROMETER
EVERY FARMER NEEDS ONE.
Best and Cheapest Wind-Mill Made.
COME AND SEE IT.
T. J. HUGHES, - - - BEAVER LICK, KY.

Read this and take Advantage of it.
FINE BUGGIES
Now is the time to have your
CARRIAGE WORK done at the lowest possible CASH PRICES.
REPAIRING a specialty. New work always on Hand. General Smithing of all kinds.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
Call and see our prices before purchasing.
KYLE & BENTLER,
Florence, Ky.

E. H. RIGGS,
—Dealer in—
HARDWATE, STOVES, LIME,
—CEMENT, ETC.—
TIN, IRON AND SLATE ROOFING.
FLY SCREENS NOW ON HAND.
Erlanger, : : : Ky.

MOST IN QUANTITY. BEST IN QUALITY.
WORMS!
WHITE'S CREAM VERMIFUGE
FOR 20 YEARS
Has led all WORM Remedies.
EVERY BOTTLE GUARANTEED.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by
RICHARDSON MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS.

NOTICE.

All those indebted to me for taxes are hereby notified that I am compelled to close up my tax accounts and will proceed to enforce thier collection by law if not paid by March 1st, 1896. My books are in the hands of Lassing & Riddell, attorneys, Burlington, Ky. Call and settle with them and save costs.

D. BEALL, Ex.-Sheriff
Boone County.

Subscribe for the RECORDER.

Scientific American Agency for
PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.
For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the
Scientific American
Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address, MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

COME TO THIS OFFICE for JOB WORK

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXI. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 29, 1896. NO. 27.

THE recent party fight left the Republican party in a deplorable condition in this State.

COL. HODGES, editor Lexington Observer, suggests Mrs. Josephine K. Henry, of Versailles, for Governor in 1899.

ENGLISH capitalists still have confidence in American bonds, and are looking for railroad securities in which to invest their surplus.

THE Alabama Democratic State convention was emphatically and unmistakably a 16 to 1 assemblage, and the gray metal had everything its own way.

THE Massachusetts Democrats endorsed President Cleveland, and instructed the delegates to the Chicago convention to vote for Gov. Russell for the Presidential nomination.

LEXINGTON got the State Convention. Louisville was her only competitor, and as she is entitled to nothing from Democracy no tears will be shed because of her defeat.

GOV. BUCKNER thinks the victory of Bale over Walton, in his Senatorial district, is an indication that an old time Democratic victory is in store for the Kentucky Democrats this fall.

AND GOV. Russell, of Massachusetts, is the first Democrat to be given a boom for the Presidency by a State Convention. Massachusetts and Rhode Island have both instructed for him.

ANYTHING adopted by a Republican State Convention goes with the Louisville Commercial as a good, sound money platform. Editor Kelly is determined to be in the swim let come what may.

THE Democratic State convention will be held in Lexington on the third day of June, and from now until that date, politics will grow interesting as the contest for delegates progresses.

ONE of Williamstown's local insurance agents has visions foretelling the fate of his risks. Not long since his company had a big loss to pay because he disregarded the revelation made by a vision.

THE indications are that there will be a lively fight in the Indiana Republican State convention between the faction demanding that the delegates be instructed, and the faction in opposition thereto. The Harrison people will fight instructions.

WHEN GOV. McKinley's forces went over into Pennsylvania and tackled Quay, they did not fair as well as when they made war on Gov. Bradley in Kentucky. Quay held his State in line, and will go to St. Louis with a solid State delegation at his back.

THAT GOV. Bradley went to Louisville and indulged in ward campaigning for the Presidency, is true beyond doubt, but the charge that he used the pardoning power to secure votes in the State convention, will find very few believers.

WOOD DUNLAP, of Lexington, keeps trying to explain why he did not take Kauffman's seat in the legislature, when it was at his disposal, but his explanation is not satisfactory to a very strong portion of the Kentucky Republicans.

THE jury trying Scott Jackson in Newport is being kept together in the court house. The trial will consume considerable time, and the jurors will not be allowed to separate until they are finally discharged from the consideration of the case.

MAJOR MCKINLEY has made his appearance in Morton's and Reed's yards. He has gathered in several delegates in New England territory, very much to the surprise of the two candidates who claimed to have a cinch on all the delegates in that section of country.

GOV. MATHEWS, of Indiana, is willing to become the Democratic candidate for the presidency on any platform the party may see proper to adopt. The Governor is certainly very obliging, to say the least. That proposition will remove the Governor as a Presidential possibility.

THE Missouri Democrats resolved "that we the Democratic party of Missouri, in convention assembled, demand the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold into primary or redemption money at the ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the action or approval of anyother nation."

IT will take hard work to keep Illinois out of the McKinley camp. She has already given him a portion of her delegation and other districts are likely to join the procession as soon as the opportunity is offered.

OWENS and Breckinridge will be opposing candidates in the Seventh Congressional District again, and another exciting campaign will be the result. Their last canvass demoralized the Democratic party in that district, and the factions have not become reconciled yet.

JUDGE DENNY is growing impatient because of the dilitory manner in which Congress is handling his contest. When Congress met the Judge was sanguine that he would be occupying Owens' seat long before this time, but he is not now certain that he will ever get there.

IT is reported that Uniontown is located immediately over an inexhaustible mine of coal, and that she has one hundred and fifty able bodied men, out of a job, who would make good miners were a shaft sunk. It is a pity that so much good muscle can not be utilized when work is so convenient.

BEFORE naming the delegates to the national convention, the Tennessee Republican convention lined up the candidates for delegates and made them declare that they would obey instructions. The material for delegates was, evidently, very unreliable, if the pledging proceedings was necessary.

WHY don't some good Democrat of this county announce himself a candidate for delegate to the Chicago Convention. Boone is now recognized as the banner Democratic county of the State, and as she "never gets nothing nohow," she ought not to be refused that small crumb should one of her sons ask it?

WHEN the Chicago convention meets and makes a platform and nominates a candidate for President the Democrats should unite in battle against their common foe. Nothing can be accomplished by bolting the convention and making a fight with only a portion of the party. The majority should rule.

CANDIDATES for Congress are coming to the front all over the State, nearly, but, as yet, the aspirants in this district are keeping decidedly quiet. There are several distinguished gentleman in the Sixth who would appreciate a nomination, but they are not even putting themselves in the hands of their friends.

SENATOR WALTON, who was unseated by the Democrats in the last State Senate, appealed to his constituents for an endorsement, and he got it at the special election held last week, when he was defeated by about 400 votes. Senator James who was also unseated, faired better than his colleague, Walton, and was reelected.

THE 16 to 1 silver men controlled the Alabama Democratic State Convention by a vote of 333 to 173. The resolutions endorsed President Cleveland's Monroe doctrine and stopped there. The leaders of the minority in the convention accepted the situation and pledged themselves to submit to the will of the majority.

THE single gold standard Democrats held a meeting at Dallas, Texas, and resolved to organize in the State and make a fight for gold. The gold bugs are becoming alarmed and will go to work and keep it up from now on. The silver men have been too previous in sending out estimates of their strength by States. A still hunt is the plan they should have adopted.

THE opposition to the nomination of McKinley for President, is making good use of the money straddle in the Ohio platform, and the Mayor may be compelled to make a public declaration as to his position on the financial question before the national convention meets. If he does not come out of the bushes, he will have considerable trouble at St. Louis, as the time has come when straddles will not be permitted.

UNCLE SAM can not do without the services of Judge Mulligan, of Lexington. He sent the Judge to Samoa, and after a few months' service he resigned the Consul Generalship there. He was then offered a similar position at Capetown, South Africa, which he declined, after which he was appointed Special Agent of Customs for the Treasury Department along the Canadian border, at a salary of $3,000 a year and traveling expenses.

THE Louisville Critic draws this pen picture of the Republican party in Kentucky:

"Sixty days ago the Republican party in Kentucky was a band of brothers, with harmony agitating every heartstring and peace brightening every forehead. It made the wrangling Democrats envious to see so much affection displayed. To-day the Republicans are split into forty fragments. Bradley does not like Hunter or Todd, and both of these gentlemen reciprocate his enmity. Judge Holt is mad clear through because a "nigger" beat him for delegate-at-large, and he is inclined to hold Bradley responsible. A few weeks ago, George Denny is said to have written a letter to Bradley pledging him his support, but that did not prevent him from accepting the position of delegate from the Seventh District with instructions to vote for McKinley. Ex-Speaker Blandford put Congressman Colson on the State Central Committee, and Bradley did not want him there, and as it is understood that Bradley's friends made Blandford chairman, it was real mean of him to throw him down in that manner. The A. P. A.'s have fallen out with Todd, and McKinley also has a "band of midnight assassins" on his trail. What was once a perfect love feast has become a knock-down and drag-out free-for-all, where everybody is belaboring everybody else, and no man's eyes or reputation is safe. With all this trouble in the enemy's ranks, what is the matter with the Democrats of old Kentucky getting together and taking advantage of the situation?"

HAD the leading Democratic gold bugs of this State displayed the same party loyalty as that manifested by Senator Blackburn in the following letter, there would have been different political results in this State in the last twelve months:

"WASHINGTON, D. C., April 18.1896. Dear Sir:—In considering the attitude which the press has occupied toward the conduct of the late Legislature in reference to the occurrences there during the late senatorial canvass, and the many misrepresentations and exaggerations which they have indulged in, reflecting not only upon me but upon every member of the Legislature who was true and loyal to the party and to me as its nominee, I think it perfectly proper that the coming convention to be held in the State of Kentucky for the selection of delegates to the National Convention should pass resolutions indorsing the action of such members of the Legislature as stood by us, and condemning that of all bolters from the party.

"I can see no other course if we are to preserve any party organization in the State. No matter what may be the platform adopted by the convention upon the question of currency nor who they may desire to indorse as the choice of the State as the Democratic nominee for President, it is of vital importance that this should first be done in order that all division and dissension in the party may cease. This I would be pleased to see accomplished.

"It seems to me that it would look absurd for the convention to undertake to condemn the action of Bradley in calling out the militia to overawe the Legislature and suppress the civil authorities if it stands confessed by silence, as charged, that I, you, and other true Democrats had combined and banded together for the purpose by force, by fraud, and by revolutionary methods, to wrongfully and unlawfully elect a Democrat to the Senate. If we were wrong, then it may be he was right.

"There can be no middle ground upon this proposition and this action should be had in each county convention. Yours truly.

"JO. C. S. BLACKBURN."

IN Texas five hundred Democrats met and resolved to reorganize the Democratic party in that State, and handle it in the interest of sound money. Five hundred Democrats in Texas is a very small assemblage when it is remembered two hundred thousand is about the majority Texas gives, and the tail may not succeed in wagging the dog.

THE suggestion that the Democratic State Convention ought not to give any expression on the money question, should not be heeded. Let the delegates from each county and legislative district be instructed as to the preference of their constituents on the money question, and the State Convention can then dispose of the matter intelligently, after which every Democrat should fall in line and put his shoulder to the wheel.

POLITICAL.

The Maryland and Connecticut Republican State Convention sent uninstructed delegations to St. Louis.

Congressman Evans has been requested to write the report on his bill ceding the old Louisville Custom-house to the Filson Club.

Hon. Wm. E. English is being boomed as the Democrat candidate for Congress in the Indianapolis district. He is now more than a millionaire, and the Democrat boys are anxious to tap his pocket.—Rising Sun Recorder.

A dispatch from Washington says: Representative Owens has written a letter to James Todd, of Owenton, in which he personally announced himself a candidate for re-election. He says it is the first time he has declared himself, but now feels justified in doing so.

After free silver had carried the day in the Alabama Democratic Convention, and Capt. Joseph F. Johnson had been nominated for Governor, his defeated opponent, Richard H. Clarke, made a patriotic plea for a united fight against the common enemy.

It is said that Col. W. Larue Thomas, of Maysville, will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress. Mr. Thomas is the Grand Commander of the Knights Templar of the United States and is a man of ability with many friends throughout the district.

There is great cry and little wool over the fact that Judge Holt was beaten for delegate-at-large to St. Louis by a negro. Didn't Judge Holt vote for the negro Republican candidate for Register of the Land office against the Democratic candidate? He did, and is entitled to no sympathy. And then he has no more business in the Republican party than Tom Carroll has.—Commonwealth.

After the first of May Walter Forrester will cease to be managing editor of the Louisville Commercial. He is charged with the dissension that caused the failure to elect a Republican United States Senator, and thereby virtually nullified the effects of the victory of last November. Finally, it became apparent to the management of the Commercial that as long as Mr. Forrester retained his connection the paper would be without influence. Hence the change.

The opposition to Gov. Bradley in his own party in Louisville and elsewhere say that he will have a hard time in the next few months in trying to fill the promises which the State officers made during the last month preceding the State convention. It is said that over one thousand promises are out for places in almost every county in the State, and that the Governor and his friends have only a few more places at their disposal. Widespread dissatisfaction is looked for on this account when the time comes to divide the remainder of the spoils.

The Cincinnati Tribune suggests, owing to the black eye our Governor Bradley will get at St. Louis during convention week, that he take along with him "a liberal supply of wet rags, arnica and raw beef." The suggestion is a wise one, but because of the Governor's nature he may not act on it, but rather on the bravery and strength of the Kentucky militia, which it is in the air he will call out and take along with him, for safety. He will much more need it there than he did at Frankfort on that well known occasion.—State Journal.

It has been given out that Gov. Bradley will not issue his proclamation convening the General Assembly in extra session until the Democratic members agree in writing to enact a law to pay off the State's indebtedness. This the Democratic members will never do. The Governor is the Chief Executive, and has the right under the law to pass on all bills enacted by that body, but his powers are separate, and he should not assume more power than the law authorizes. The Governor invaded the last General Assembly with the military, and attempted to direct that department what it should do. The General Assembly must be free to enact such laws as its judgment may dictate, and the Governor's power rests alone in the veto. There will be no extra session if the Governor insists on the Democratic members agreeing in writing to his suggestions. Then again we do not believe the General Assembly can or will consent to the payment of interest on any warrant heretofore or hereafter issued.—Argus.

KENTUCKY MIDLAND RAILROAD.
[Via Georgetown.]

P. M.	A.M.			A.M.	P. M
d 4:50	z9:13	Ar Walton	Lv	7:54	z
4:12	8.52	Ar Williamstown	Lv	8:32
3:48	8.28	Ar Corinth	Lv	8:55	5:48
3:30	8:13	Ar Sadieville	Lv	9:12	6:05
2:20	7:50	Ar Georgetown	Lv	9:40	6:33
1:00	6:55	Lv Frankfort	Ar	11:30	7:25

z Daily. d Except Sunday.

C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.

Miss Helen Merci Schuster
—)o(—
DRAMATIC READER
AND TEACHER OF
Elocution, Physical Culture
and Delsarte,
811 Scott St. - - COVINGTON, KY.

Class for young Ladies and Gentlemen at UNION, KY., every Saturday—10 to 11 a. m. SEND FOR TERMS.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.

All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.

Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
—DRUGGIST,—
Rising Sun, - Indiana.

Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the

✠Corner Drug Store.✠

NO :: LONGER
—AT ERLANGER.—
DR. WALLACE GILLHAM,
—THE DENTIST,—

who has been coming to Erlanger on Tuesdays of each week, has discontinued his office there, but will continue to do.

First Class Dental Work of
All kinds at his
COVINGTON - OFFICE.
1421 Madison Ave. (next door to the Children's Home),

He also has all the latest and best facilities for administering Gas, Vitalized Air, or Local Anæsthetics for Extracting Teeth.

You are refered to the following reliable references of your own community: Dr. C. R. Slater, Dr. C. W. McCullum, Mrs. Cal Riggs, Mrs. Mattie Hoover, Mrs. Rev. M. M. Hiner, Mrs. Rev. O. M. Huey, Mr. Ira Aylor, Erlanger; Miss Sallie Snyder, Miss Sallie Stephens, Florence.

Andy Scheben,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
WINES, LIQUORS
AND BRANDY,
Old Bourbon, $2.00 Per Gallon.
LEXINGTON PIKE,
ERLANGER, - - - KY,
Near Town Hall.

Prices Reduced!
—(o)—

1 gal. 4 year old Bourbon Whisky, reduced from $3.50 at $3.00

1 gal. 2 year old Bourbon Whisky reduced from $2.00 at $1.75

1 gal. 4 year old Rye Whisky at reduced from $3.50. $3.00

At KASTNER'S,
Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

For Sale or Rent.

96 acres of river bottom land, opposite Lawrenceburg, Ind., in good state of cultivation. J. C. REVILL, Burlington, Ky.

Corn For Sale.

For Sale—About 100 bushels of Forsyth's Early Mammoth white corn, selected last fall. It has the deepest grains and is the most productive of any other corn; has from sixteen to twenty-six rows on the ear, stands the drouths and yields from two to five barrels more per acre than any other variety. It originated in Johnson county Ind in 1891. Price $1 50 per bushel.

JOHN J. CLEEK.
Beaver Lick, Boone county, Ky.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,

Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.

Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.

EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.

J. S. HUEY, President, Grant, Ky.
OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt, - Walton, Ky.

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.

Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY,

Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

H. S. STEVENSON.
...... DENTIST, ...

Anæsthetics used for painless operating. Plates $8 and $10; other work accordingly. Satisfaction guaranteed in all cases.

MAIN OFFICE—South side Main St. Rising Sun, Indiana.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL.
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.

Prompt Attention Given to Collections

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
—O—

Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.

Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by maill promptly attended to.

G. G. HUGHES. D. E. CASTLEMAN.
HUGHES & CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEYS - AT - LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.

Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to them.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.

Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 17,000
—)o(—

Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates.

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN.......................... $50,000
SURPLUS,... $ 2.600

Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

GENERAL
REPAIR SHOP,
At Hathaway, Ky.
WAGONS AND BUGGIES
A Specialty.
Plows and Harrows Made to Order. Satisfaction Guaranteed.
J. M. RICE.

LIKE A GARDEN.

Rank Weeds Grow Among the Flowers That Blossom

In Christ's Earthly Garden, Where the Fragrance of Good Work and Faith Offset the Thorns That Hide Beneath the Roses—Dr. Talmage's Sermon.

Dr. Talmage's text last Sunday was: Isaiah lviii., 11: "Thou shall be like a watered garden."

The Bible is a great poem. We have in it faultless rhythm and bold imagery and startling antithesis and rapturous lyric and sweet pastoral and instructive narrative and devotional psalm; thoughts expressed in style more solemn than that of Montgomery, more bold than that of Milton, more terrible than that of Dante, more natural than that of Wordsworth, more impassioned than that of Pollock, more tender than that of Cowper, more weird than that of Spenser.

This great poem brings all the gems of the earth into its coronet, and it weaves the flames of judgment into its garlands, and pours eternal harmonies in its rythm. Everything this Book touches it makes beautiful, from the plain stones of the summer threshing floor to the daughters of Nahor filling the trough for the camels; from the fish pools of Heshbon up to the Psalmist praising God with the diapason of storm and whirlwind, and Job's imagery of Orion, Arcturus and the Pleiades.

My text leads us into a scene of summer redolence. The world has had a great many beautiful gardens. Charlemagne added to the glory of his reign by decreeing that they be established all through the realm—deciding even the names of the flowers to be planted there. Henry IV., at Montpelier, established gardens of bewitching beauty and luxuriance, gathering into them Alpine, Pyrenean and French plants. One of the sweetest spots on earth was the garden of Shenstone, the poet. His writings have made but little impression on the world; but his garden, "The Leasowes," will be immortal. To the natural advantage of that place was brought the perfection of art. Arbor and terrace and slope and rustic temple and reservoir and urn and fountain here had their crowning. Oak and yew and hazel put forth their richest foliage. There was no life more diligent, no soul more ingenious, than that of Shenstone, and all that diligence and genius he brought to the adornment of that one treasured spot. He gave £300 for it; he sold it for £17,000. And yet I am to tell you to-day of a richer garden than any I have mentioned. It is the garden spoken of in my text, the garden of the church, which belongs to Christ. He bought it, he planted it. he owns it and he shall have it. Walter Scott, in his outlay at Abbottsford, ruined his fortune. and now, in the crimson flowers of those gardens, you can almost think or imagine that you see the blood of that old man's broken heart. The payment of the last £100,000 sacrificed him. But I have to tell you that Christ's life and Christ's death were the outlay of this beautiful garden of the church, of which my text speaks. Oh, how many sighs and tears and pangs and agonies! Tell me, ye women who saw him hang! Tell me, ye executioners who lifted him and let him down! Tell me, thou sun that didst hide; ye rocks that fell! Christ loved the church and gave himself for it. If the garden of the church belongs to Christ, certainly he has a right to walk in it. Come, then, O blessed Jesus, today; walk up and down these aisles and pluck what thou wilt of sweetness for thyself.

The church, in my text, is appropriately compared to a garden, because it is the place of choice flowers; of select fruits, and of thorough irrigation. That would be a strange garden in which there were no flowers. If nowhere else, they would be along the borders or at the gateway. The homeliest taste will dictate something. if it be only the old-fashioned hollyhock, or dahlia, or daffodil, but if there be larger means, then you will find the Mexican cactus, and blazing azalea, and clustering oleander. Well, now, Christ comes to His garden and He plants there some of the brightest spirits that ever flowered upon the world. Some of them are violets, inconspicuous, but sweet as Heaven. You have to search and find them. You do not see them very often. perhaps, but you find where they have been by the brightened face of the invalid, and the sprig of geranium on the stand, and the new window curtains keeping out the glare of the sunlight. They are, perhaps, more like the ranunculus, creeping sweetly amid the thorns and briars of life, giving kiss for sting; and many a man who has had in his way some great black rock of trouble, has found that they have covered it all over with flowery jasmine, running in and out amid the crevices. These flowers in Christ's garden are not, like the sunflower, gaudy in the light, but wherever darkness hovers over a soul that needs to be comforted, there they stand, night blooming cereuses.

But in Christ's garden there are plants that may be better compared to the Mexican cactus—thorns without, loveliness within; men with sharp points of character. They wound almost every one that touches them. They are hard to handle. Men pronounce them nothing but thorns, but Christ loves them notwithstanding all their sharpnesses. Many a man has had a very hard ground to cultivate, and it has only been through severe trial he has raised even the smallest crop of grace. A very harsh minister was talking to a very placid elder, and the placid elder said to the harsh minister: "Doctor, I do wish you would control your temper." "Ah," said the minister to the elder: "I control more temper in five minutes than you do in five years."

It is harder for some men to do right than for other men to do right; The grace that would elevate you to the seventh Heaven might not keep your brother from knocking a man down. I had a friend who came to me and said, "I dare not join the church." I said, "Why?" "Oh," he said, "I have such a violent temper. Yesterday morning I was crossing very early at the Jersey City ferry, and I saw a milkman pour a large quantity of water into the milk-can, and I said to him, 'I think that will [illegible]' and he insulted me, and I knocked him down. Do you think I ought to join the church?" Nevertheless that very same man, who was so harsh in his behavior, loved Christ, and could not speak of sacred things without tears of emotion and affection. Thorns without, sweetness within—the best specimen of the Mexican cactus I ever saw. There are others planted in Christ's garden who are always radiant, always impressive—more like the roses of deep hue that we occasionally find, called "Giants of Battle," the Martin Luthers, St. Pauls, Chrysostoms, Wickliffes, Latimers and Samuel Rutherfords. What in other men is a spark, in them is a conflagration. When they sweat, they sweat great drops of blood. When they pray, their prayer takes fire. When they preach, it is a Pentacost. When they fight, it is a Thermopylae. When they die, it is a martyrdom. You find a great many roses in the gardens, but only a few "Giants of Battle." Men say: "Why don't you have more of them in the church?" I say: "Why don't you have in the world more Humboldts and Wellingtons?" God gives to some ten talents; to another one.

In the garden of the church which Christ has planted I also find the snowdrops, beautiful, but cold-looking, seemingly another phase of winter. I mean those Christians who are precise in their tastes, unimpassioned, pure as snowdrops and as cold. They never shed any tears, they never get excited, they never say anything rashly, they never do anything precipitately. Their pulses never flutter, their nerves never twitch; their indignation never boils over. They live longer than most people, but their life is in a minor key. They never run up to "C" above the staff. In their music of life they have no staccato passages. Christ planted them in the church and they must be of some service or they would not be there; snowdrops—always snowdrops.

But I have not told you of the most beautiful flower of all this garden spoken of in my text. If you see a century plant your emotions are started. You say: "Why, this flower has been a hundred years gathering up for one bloom, and it will be a hundred years more before other petals will come out." But I will have to tell you of a plant that was gathering up from all eternity, and that nineteen hundred years ago put forth its bloom never to wither. It is the passion plant of the Cross! Prophets foretold it; Bethlehem shepherds looked upon it in the bud; the rocks shook at its bursting; and the dead got up in their winding-sheets to see its full bloom. It is a crimson flower—blood at the roots, blood on the branches, blood on all the leaves, Its perfume is to fill all the nations. Its breath is Heaven. Come, O winds from the north and winds from the south and winds from the east and winds from the west, and bear to all the earth the sweet-smelling savor of Christ, my Lord!

His worth if all the nations knew,
Sure the whole earth would love him, too.

Again, the church may be appropriately compared to a garden, because it is a place of fruits. That would be a strange garden which had in it no berries, no plums or peaches or apricots. The coarser fruits are planted in the orchard or they are set out on the sunny hillside, but the choicest fruits are kept in the garden. So in the world outside the church, Christ has planted a great many beautiful things—patience, charity, generosity, integrity, but he intends the choicest fruits to be kept in the garden, and if they are not there, then shame on the church.

Religion is not a mere sentimentality. It is a practical, life-giving, healthful fruit—not posies, but apples. "Oh," said somebody, "I don't see what your garden of the church has yielded." In reply, I ask where did your asylums come from, and your hospitals and your institutions of mercy? Christ planted every one of them—he planted them in his garden. When Christ gave sight to Bartimeus he laid the corner stone to every blind asylum that has been built. When Christ soothed the demoniac of Galilee he laid the corner stone of every lunatic asylum that has been established. When Christ said to the sick man, "Take up thy bed and walk," he laid the corner stone of every hospital the world has ever seen. When Christ said, "I was in prison and ye visited me," he laid the corner stone of every prison reform association that has ever been organized. The Church of Christ is a glorious garden, and it is full of fruit.

I know there is some poor fruit in it. I know there are some weeds that ought to be thrown over the fence. I know there are some crab-apple trees that ought to be cut down. I know there are some wild grapes that ought to be uprooted—but are you going to destroy the whole garden because of a little gnarled fruit? You will find worm-eaten leaves in Fontainbleau and insects that sting in the fairy groves of the Champ Elysees. You do not tear down and destroy the whole garden because there are a few specimens of gnarled fruit. I admit there are men and women in the church who ought not to be there, but let us be frank and admit the fact that in there are hundreds and thousands and tens of thousands of glorious Christian men and women—holy, blessed, useful, consecrated and triumphant. There is no grander, nobler collection in all the earth than the collection of Christians.

There are Christian men in this house whose religion is not a matter of psalm singing or church going. To-morrow morning that religion will keep them just as consistent and consecrated in their worldly occupation as it ever kept them at the communion table. There are women here to-day of a higher type of character than Mary of Bethany. They not only sit at the feet of Christ, but they go out into the kitchen to help Martha in her work, that she may sit there, too. There is a woman who has a drunken husband, who has exhibited more faith, patience and courage than Ridley in the fire. He was consumed in 20 minutes. Hers has been a 20 years' martyrdom. Yonder is a man who has been 15 years on his back, unable to feed himself, yet calm and peaceful as though he lay on one of the green banks of Heaven, watching the oarsmen dip their paddle in the crystal river! Why, it seems to me this moment as if St. Paul threw to us a pomologist's catalogue, of the fruits growing in this great garden of Christ—love, joy, peace, patience, charity, brotherly kindness, gentleness, mercy; glorious fruit, enough to fill all the baskets of earth and Heaven.

Again, the church in my text is appropriately called a garden, because it is thoroughly irrigated. No garden could prosper long without plenty of water. I have seen a garden in the midst of a desert, yet blooming and luxuriant. All around us was dearth and barrenness; but there were pipes, aqueducts, reaching from this garden up to the mountains, and through those aqueducts the water came streaming down and tossing up into beautiful fountains. until every root and leaf and flower was saturated. That is like the church. The church is a garden in the midst of a great desert of sin and suffering; but it is well irrigated; for "our eyes are unto the hills from whence cometh our help." From the mountains of God's strength there flow down rivers of gladness. "There is a river the stream whereof shall make glad the city of our God." Preaching the Gospel is one of the aqueducts. The Bible is another. Baptism and the Lord's Supper are aqueducts. Water to slake the thirst, water to wash the unclean, water tossed high up in the light of the Son of Righteousness, showing us the rainbow around the throne. Oh, was there ever a garden so thoroughly irrigated! You know that the beautiful of Versailles and Chatsworth depends very much upon the great supply of water. I came to the latter place, Chatsworth, one day when strangers are not to be admitted; but an inducement which always seemed as potent with an Englishman as an American, I got in, and then the gardener went far up above the stairs of stone and turned on the water. I saw it gleaming on the dry pavement, coming down from step to step, until it came so near I could hear the musical rush, and all over the high, broad stairs it came foaming flashing, roaring down, until sunlight and wave in gleesome wrestle tumbled at my feet. So it is with the church of God. Everything comes from above; pardon from above, joy from above, adoption from above, sanctification from above.

Hark! I hear the latch of the garden gate, and I see who is coming. I hear the voice of Christ: "I am come into my garden." I say, "Come in, O Jesus! we have been waiting for thee; walk all through the paths; look at the flowers, look at the fruit; pluck that which thou wilt for thyself." Jesus comes into the garden and up to that old man, and touches him and says: "Almost home, father; not many more aches for thee; I will never leave thee; take courage a little longer and I will steady thy tottering steps, and I will soothe thy troubles and give thee rest. Courage, old man." Then Christ goes up another garden path, and He comes to a soul in trouble, and says: "Peace! all is well. I have seen thy tears. I have heard thy prayer. The sun shall not smite thee by day nor the moon by night. The Lord shall preserve thee from evil; He will preserve thy soul. Courage, O troubled spirit!"

Then I see Jesus going up another garden path, and I see great excitement among the leaves, and I hasten up that garden path to see what Jesus is doing there, and lo! He is breaking off flowers, sharp and clean from the stem, and I say, "Stop, Jesus, don't kill those beautiful flowers." He turns to me and says, "I have come into my garden to gather lilies, and I mean to take these up to a higher terrace, for the garden around my palace, and there I will plant them; and in better soil and in better air they shall put forth brighter leaves and sweeter redolence, and no frost shall touch them forever." And I looked up into His face and said: "Well, it is His garden, and He has a right to do what He will with it. Thy will be done!" the hardest prayer ever man made.

It has seemed as if Jesus Christ took the best; from many of your households the best one is gone. You know that she was too good for this world; she was the gentlest in her ways, the deepest in her affections; and when at last the sickness came you had no faith in medicines. You knew that the hour of parting had come, and when, through the rich grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, you surrendered that treasure, you said: "Lord Jesus, take it—it is the best we have; take it. Thou art worthy!" The others in the household may have been of grosser mold. She was of the finest.

The heaven of your little ones will not be fairly begun until you get there. All the kindness shown them by immortals will not make them forget you. There they are, the radiant throngs that went out from your homes. I throw a kiss to the sweet darlings. They are all well now in the palace. The crippled child has a sound foot now. A little lame child says: "Ma, will I be lame in Heaven?" "No, my darling, you won't be lame in Heaven." A little sick child says: "Ma, will I be sick in Heaven?" "No, my dear, you won't be sick in Heaven." A little blind child says; "Ma, will I be blind in Heaven?" "No, my dear, you won't be blind in Heaven. They are all well there."

I notice that the fine gardens sometimes have high fences around them and you can not get in. It is so with a King's garden. The only glimpse you ever get of such a garden is when the king rides out in his splendid carriage. It is not so with this garden, this King's garden. I throw wide open the gate and tell you all to come in.

THE DO-NOTHING CONGRESS.

Trade and Industry Checked by the Stagnant Republicans.

The American Textile Journal has compiled the replies to 1,500 inquiries sent to manufacturers of wool. The replies show a few mills closed, a few working on short time, but a large majority open and running on full time. The statistics refute the calamity howl that has recently been raised about the woolen industry. There is no evidence of the cyclone that Senator Hawley said had struck the woolen industry, although the depression in the business is apparent. In the woolen cloth mills 11,508 out of 16,572 looms are in operation. In dress goods 1,933 out of 3,011 looms are in operation. In carpets, 1,802 out of 2,296 looms are going. In blankets and flannels 1,299 out of 1,462 looms are in operation.

In carpets and flannels the proportion of idle looms is less than the proportion in dress goods and cloth. It is worthy of attention that this condition of affairs has come about since the meeting of the republican congress. Prior to the assemblage of congress the woolen industry in this country was especially active. In the year 1895 over 200,000,000 pounds of imported wool was used in American mills, more than in the preceding year under the McKinley law. The first year of the Wilson law saw more wool consumed by the American mills than ever before. The unemployed were absorbed from the highways, and set to work in wealth-producing industry. More American goods were made by American workingmen than ever before. There had been many wage advances and the tendency was to higher rates.

The meeting of the republican congress checked this condition of prosperity. Business became dull. The threat of a ripping up of the tariff by the houses, and the threat of a free silver bill by the senate made the trade cautious and made capital extremely shy. The lack of demand for goods was felt by the manufacturers. Business suffers from the threats of disturbance. If looms are idle, and if there is a hand-to-mouth business done in woolens, the responsibility for it should not be misplaced. The people should not forget the part played by the blustering, wrangling, threatening congress. The longer congress is in session the more unfavorable are the business reports. Congress is a menace to business. It is incompetent to do good. Its capacity for doing harm is unlimited.—Utica Observer.

SOME STAKES FOR REPUBLICANS

Jobs That the Protection Barons Are Trying to Put Through.

The Republic's Washington correspondent indicates some of the big stakes in republican success this year for a few favored individuals.

The biggest stake, of course, will be swept in by the tariff barons, who are confidently expecting a return of the halcyon days of tariff robbery. They are prepared to make heavy investment in slush funds to be returned in protection fat.

But in addition to this general squeeze of the people, there are several special grabs in hand. C. P. Huntington is getting his Pacific railroad legislation in shape to throw the burdens of the roads on the people and to keep the plunder and the profits in the pockets of himself and his associates. Warner Miller is waiting for a republican administration that he may get $100,000,000 for his Nicaragua canal. Matt Quay is nursing a $300,000,000 canal job against the coming of a republican congress and president.

These are samples of the jobs the republican looters are preparing for a "wide open" republican administration. If the republicans can slip into full power on a democratic quarrel there will be fine fleecing of the people for the party's beneficiaries.—St. Louis Republic.

Cash and Popularity.

If McKinley be the popular idol that his friends claim he is, what is the need of spending so much money to secure a nomination which the people are anxious to give him? McKinley may be popular. We are inclined to think that his friends confuse the terms notoriety and popularity. Everyone knows McKinley and his bill, but few defend it or clamor for its reenactment. It is a little strange that McKinley's preliminary canvass for the presidential nomination should be the most expensive ever known unless his popularity is a myth. He may be popular, but he puts his trust in dollars just the same.—Utica Observer.

——Mr. Morton's boom is still on the inside of his barrel.—Chicago Record (Ind.).

NO DOUBLE DEALING.

Mr. Carlisle's Manly Example to the Dodging Republicans.

Mr. Carlisle refuses to make a contest for the nomination. In assuming this attitude he shows that respect for the presidency and for himself that ought to be characteristic of every man deemed worthy to be a presidential candidate, but which is now so foreign to our leading politicians that, because the secretary of the treasury refuses to announce that he is "in the fight, and in to stay," some newspapers at once interpret the letter to mean that he declines the nomination in advance. Mr Carlisle simply says that he will not contest for delegates, that he will remain at Washington and perform his public duties, and that he cannot approve of any platform that does not take sound positions on the money and the tariff questions. In other words, Mr. Carlisle will not accept a nomination on a platform containing an unsound or a double-dealing currency plank. He will stand on the record of his public services. If he is to be a candidate, his nomination must be an endorsement of those services, and the party must express that in its platform,

This is a declaration of principle that revives faith in the future of the republic, especially as it comes at a time when the leading candidates of the republican party do not dare to utter an opinion on the most important question that will be discussed in the coming campaign. Mr. Carlisle has rendered a real service to the country in insisting that his party shall declare for sound money if he is to be its candidate. No republican candidate except Mr. Morton would do this; at least no one of them has done it, unless it be Mr. Morton, speaking through the platform adopted at the republican state convention of New York. It is, however, not quite true that the man is of comparatively little importance. At this time both the man and the platform are of the greatest moment. — Harper's Weekly.

A POLITICAL FLOOD.

Gentlemen in the Water—"Go on with your darned old ark. This isn't going to be much of a shower anyway."—Chicago Journal.

THE WHEAT QUESTION.

Some Instructive Figures for Republican Oracles.

The department of agriculture has recently published some extremely interesting and valuable statistics of the whole world's wheat crops and those of the United States since 1891, which are as follows:

WHEAT PRODUCTION.

	Grand Total of World.	Total of United States.
1891	2,432,322,000	611,780,000
1892	2,481,805,000	515,949,000
1893	2,562,913,000	396,132,000
1894	2,672,341,000	460,267,000
1895	2,552,677,000	467,103,000

It will thus be seen that while the wheat production of the whole world, on the whole, increased 240,000,000 bushels from 1891 to 1894, the wheat crop of the United States decreased 215,000,000 from 1891 to 1893. In 1894 and 1895, respectively our wheat crop was 55,000,000 and 48,000,000 bushels less than in 1892 and 151,000,000 and 144,000,000 bushels less than in 1891.

The great increase in the world's aggregate supply during the last three years explains clearly why wheat has been so low.

But, according to the insinuations of some republican oracles, our farmers must attribute both their short crops and low prices to the wicked Wilson tariff. "The Wilson blight" is becoming a stock phrase which would fully explain any calamity from a great drought to a smash-up of the globe by collision with one of the planets. Doubtless this unhappy phrase will win the farmers' vote for the republican nominee.—N. Y. Herald.

Democratic History.

When all ifs and ands are laid aside, the still remarkable fact remains that the democrats have had the presidency for 56 years and all their opponents together only 44, while they have controlled both houses in 25 of the 54 congresses that have sat and held one branch or the other in 39, leaving their opponents in complete possession in congress during only 15, or much less than one-third of the legislative terms. This means, in other words, that the opponents of the democracy, federalists, whigs and republicans, all together, have been intrusted by the people with the complete control of both the legislative and executive branches of the government during only 21 of the 100 years since Washington's retirement, or much less than one-fourth of the whole time, while during 40 years the democrats have controlled both houses of congress and the presidency and been in full possession of the government.—Boston Globe.

——Some of the fellows are so confident of McKinley that they are hinting to him about cabinet portfolios.—Detroit Free Press.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

—According to a musical journal there are in London 244,000 women and girls who are learning music.

—A Coventry (England) firm is executing an order for 150 bicycles for the use of officers of the Salvation Army.

—The sum of $60,000 is annually paid by the gambling institution at Monte Carlo for the support of the clergy of Monaco.

—A Mohammedan congress is soon to be held in Cairo for the purpose of uniting Moslems all over the world to restore the "solidarity of Islam."

—Prof. Henry Jones, upon whom the University of Glascom has conferred the degree of LL. D., began life as a shoemaker in a small village in Denbighshire, England.

—The first prize in the freshman oratorical contest, some days ago, at Earlham college, Richmond, Ind., was won by a full-blooded Indian girl, Miss Gertrude Simmons, of Deadwood, S. D.

—The time-honored custom of holding a "shirt-tail" parade on St. Patrick's night was observed by Williams college students. The freshmen, clad in night robes, marched through the quiet streets of Williamstown and then around a huge bonfire indulged in such antics as only college men enjoy.

—Miss Sarah Dennis, a colored woman, occupied the pulpit of the First Methodist church in San Francisco, Cal., two Sundays ago and preached an excellent sermon. She prefaced her sermon by leading the congregation in singing a hymn. Her home is in Los Angeles, where she does mission work in the slums and prison.

—It is said that the new bonnet which Mrs. Ballington Booth has designed for the fair "American Volunteers" will make the girls look much prettier than did the poke bonnets of the Salvation Army. In thus selecting an attractive uniform for recruits Mrs. Booth shows how well she understands human nature.

—Prof. James Seth, of Brown university, who has been appointed professor of ethics in the Sage school of philosophy of Cornell university, was born in Edinburg in 1860. He was graduated at Edinburg university in 1881, carrying off all honors in philosophy, after which he won the Ferguson philosophical scholarship, which is open to graduates of all the Scottish universities.

WONDERS OF SKIAGRAPHY.

An Invisible Power That Can Work in the Dark.

Now that it is has been shown that it is possible to take photographs with "dark light," it is obvious that we must attach a deeper and a much wider meaning to the word light than has heretofore been ordinarily understood. The fact is, the eye is able to see very little. It can appreciate and turn to account in producing an impression upon the retina but a very limited portion, barely more than an octave of the waves or vibrations that may actuate the ether or medium which pervades all space. The ear is a more sensitive instrument for sound vibrations, since most people can appreciate the notes within the compass of a piano, but even here there must be a limit. Some persons cannot recognize the extreme top notes or rapid undulations until the tension of the strings is reduced, when the note is appreciated, having been brought down to the level of the ear's capacity and the vibrations reduced in frequency. In the same way the photographic plate has brought within our vision countless stars which the eye, even aided by the telescope, fails to see. The sensitive plate, in other words, records infinitely more than the eye, and this property is utilized to bring things within the range of human vision. So it is with the "X" or Roentgen rays, and doubtless there are other rays which have a greater penetrative power. Opacity is, indeed, a phenomenon existing merely for an eye like ours, which, if constructed a little differently, would enable us to see easily through walls. Perhaps it is a wise provision that it is not so.

The fact that photographs have been taken with no apparent source of light, appears to be due to the property of probably most things, of absorbing certain rays and giving them out again in the dark. Thus, if a transparent photograph proof has been freely exposed to the light and then taken into the dark room and placed over a sensitive plate for some time the plate on development will give a distinct negative image. The same thing is illustrated in a stronger manner in luminous paint, which absorbs light and gives it out again so that it is visible to the eye in the dark. We have heard some people assert that on reading a paper closely in a railway train which is just rapidly entering a railway tunnel they are enabled to read on for quite a few seconds or so in spite of the darkness. It is quite possible that it is due to the paper giving up the light which it has absorbed.—London Lancet.

Our Vanishing Birds.

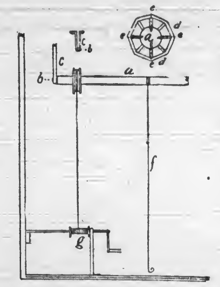
A leading American ornithologist says that some of our most desirable birds are threatened with extermination. The common quail and ruffled grouse are becoming very scarce Wrens and bluebirds are driven from their old haunts by sparrows. Terns are slaughtered by thousands for the millinery business, and Florida is similarly despoiled of its herons, ibis, pelicans, and smaller birds. The wild pigeon has disappeared. Fashion at present is the greatest enemy of bird life, but collectors of eggs are also responsible for great destruction. Protection of birds must come through the education of the people, especially the rising generation, and by protective legislation sustained by game wardens. Thus far no state legislature has given the subject the attention it deserves and must soon demand, if the present ravages continue.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS.

BUTCHERS' WINDLASS.

Plan of One Which Is Simple, Strong and Easily Constructed.

Conveniences for butchering should be in every community. A plan of one in common use in the east is given below. First, prepare a strong timber (a) six or eight inches in diameter and nearly as long as the width of the barn. Bore a three-quarter-inch hole at each end and drive in each end an iron (b), letting it extend about two inches. Then take two pieces of old iron (c), (I use a wagon tire) and bend in form of V, fastening each end to the beam above. The iron or roll (b) will fit in the point of the bent iron (c). With a two-inch augur bore two holes at right angles through the roll about a foot from the end; then take eight pieces of two-by-four material, four of them made to fit the augur holes. The other four should be three or four inches shorter and nailed in between. Then take some strips of half-inch stuff four inches wide (d d) and nail to the ends of the eight pieces of two by four. Nail strips on the edge of the two by four to keep a rope in place. If a large wheel can be secured and attached to beam (a) it will be unnecessary to make one. A half-inch rope will hang any beef. Wind it several times around the wheel. Fasten two ropes (one is shown at f) to the roll about six feet apart, long enough to reach the floor. Construct a three-inch roll 15 inches long (g) about three feet from the floor, with crank attached to wind the small rope on. Attach the rope taut and the windlass is complete. I can dress and hang a 1,000-pound beef alone and can take down a quarter or side and leave the rest hanging. It is a simple, strong and cheap windlass.—E. N. Fisher, in Farm and Home.



BUTCHERS' WINDLASS.

FACTS FOR FARMERS.

Do not plant corn too deep.

Most farmers ought to be fruit eaters.

Secure seed north rather than south of you.

Be careful not to overwork the young colts.

It is a good plan to mulch newly set trees.

To profit by mistakes is the beginning of systematic effort.

Time spent in looking after the comfort of the work teams is time well spent.

When the teams are allowed to rest in the fields pull the collars away from the shoulders.

A young animal should never be allowed to fall off in condition sufficient to retard its growth

To do the best work in keeping down the weeds the cultivation should be commenced before the weeds get well started.

When a horse has frequent fits of colic it indicates chronic indigestion, and care should be taken in feeding and watering.—Farmers' Union.

Ashes Are Good for Orchards.

The man who has even a small plot of ground to tend, and throws his ashes out into the street or highway, or anywhere else to get wasted, has surely a "crack in his hog-trough," and in his head, too. Ashes contain potash and phosphoric acid, two valuable plant foods. They also have excellent mechanical effect, making clammy ground friable when mixed therewith, and soil naturally too loose is made more compact by their application. Apply them liberally to fruit trees and plants, garden vegetables, and, in fact, anywhere a crop of any kind is to be raised, thoroughly mixing with the soil, and grand success will result.—Jefferson D. Cheely, in Farm and Fireside.

Sore Feet in a Cow.

The soreness between the claws of the hoof is to be treated in this way: Wash well with hot water and carbolic soap, and if there are scabs in the sores, break these by rubbing with something rough when they are softened by the hot water. Then apply this mixture: Take of pure vaseline four ounces, acetate of copper half an ounce, Venice turpentine one ounce, and common turpentine one ounce. Melt together all but the copper, then make an intimate mixture of all by rubbing them on a board with a dinner knife. After the washing apply this ointment to the sores and bind the foot, between the claws, and all around it, with a bandage.—Prairie Farmer.

Good Condition Helps Sale.

There is no question but what stock for sale can profitably be put in particularly good condition. This fact has been so clearly shown over and over again in the sales rings that it would seem now as though no one could really doubt it. The best-bred stock in America, if offered at auction in any market, when poor, thin and badly out of condition, will bring scarcely enough to pay the expenses of shipping and sale; while if only fairly well bred, but in particularly good condition and well trained, they now bring very fair prices.—Farmers' Review.

RATIONS FOR HORSES.

Skim Milk Is the Food Par Excellence for Young Animals.

To an inquiry for the best ration for mares in foal and for colts from one to three years old, the Country Gentleman replies that there is no better collection of foods for both the brood mares and the colts than roots, oats, wheat and bran and middlings, linseed meal and skim milk, though other materials, such as barley, corn to a limited extent, malt sprouts and other by-products may be used.

A grain mixture consisting of four parts ground oats, four parts wheat bran (or middlings, not the finest), and one part linseed meal, will do all that any mixture will in promoting the kind of growth that is desired.

In the case of the mares, the quantity of grain ration that should be fed depends so much upon conditions—such as size, the quantity of work, whether in gestation or suckling the foal—that we are sure it will be more sensible for a practical feeder to govern the ration by his personal observation than by any arbitrary rule which we might venture to suggest.

Skim milk would be a food par excellence for the colts, even for those three years old; and if a supply of this can be had for 20 cents or less per 100 pounds, no more economical food could be found for part of the ration. If the milk is fed, the linseed meal may be left out of the ration, and the bran and oats retained, in the proportion of one pound of the mixture to six pounds of the milk for the younger colts, the proportion of grain increasing as the animals grow older. The skim milk would also be a splendid food for mares while suckling their foal. In any case, especially if all other foods are dry, roots are exceedingly desirable as an occasional feed, and they may be fed daily to colts with excellent results.

AN EXCELLENT BARN.

Just the Thing for a General One-Hundred-Acre Farm.

The best barn I ever saw for a 100-acre farm is the one I built this summer. It is 32x60 feet with 16-foot posts on an 8-foot wall and has a self-supporting, octagon roof.

The basement plan is shown in Fig. 1. A cow stable, 16x28 feet; f, sheep space, 20x32 feet; c, space for stock hogs, 8x16 feet; d d d, box stalls; h, hall or feeding alley; s, stairs.

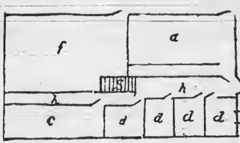


Fig 1

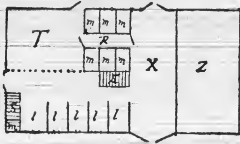

Fig 2

The ground floor is shown in Figure 2. Z is a bay 16x32 feet; X, threshing floor, 12x32; R, granary, 12x16; T, carriage space, 16x20; l l l l l, horse stalls; m m m m m m, grain bins; S, stairs. The hay is put down from the loft through chutes.

This is the most economical as well as the most convenient barn, for general farming, that can be built.—John C. Stafford, in Farm, Field and Fireside.

FANCY CREAM CHEESES.

They Are Very Appetizing and Easily Made at Home.

Dainty little cream cheeses are easily made at home. Mix a pint of fresh cream and with three cups of fresh milk add a scant half-teaspoonful of liquid rennet. Whip the mixture thoroughly for three minutes, then let it stand for three hours, or until it is thoroughly clotted and firm. Turn it out on a cloth spread over a sieve, to drain off the greater part of the whey. After this tie it up in the cloth and hang it in some cool place to drip like pot cheese or cottage cheese. When it has drained in this way for 12 hours line little cups holding about a gill each with sheer buttered muslin. If the cups are perforated it is so much the better. Season the cheese curds with salt, as you would cottage cheese, and fill the lined cups. Put a slight weight on each one, and in an hour they will be ready to serve.

For another cheese take equal quantities of milk and cream, and for every three pints of the mixture, stir in four drops only of liquid rennet. Beat the whole together until it is very frothy, and then set it away to stand for 12 hours. Drain it and tie it in a cloth to drip as before for 12 hours, then press it in cloth into a perforated mold large enough to hold it. After two hours take it out and rub it with salt top and bottom, and lay it on a clean board in a cool, well-aired place, turning it and sprinkling it with salt every 24 hours. At the end of two or three days the cheese will be ready for use.—N. Y. Tribune.

How to Prepare Tobacco Dip.

Speaking of tobacco dip, a writer says it will require for 100 sheep 100 gallons of water, and to make that strong enough to kill ticks and the scab it will require the addition of all the fluid that can be extracted from 25 pounds of tobacco. The tobacco should be thoroughly steeped and boiled so as to get all the strength out of it. To this mixture ten pounds of sulphur should be mixed separately in a pail of hot water, and after being thoroughly stirred should be added to the dip. If tobacco stems are used, at least three times the weight mentioned should be steeped.

PLEADING A CASE IN INDIA.

Unconscious Humor Found in a Nativ Attorney's Argument.

A native pleader in India assailed the court recently with the following array of native eloquence: "My learned friend, with mere wind from a teapot, thinks to browbeat me from my legs. But this is mere gorilla warfare. I stand under the shoes of my client and only seek to place my bone of contention clearly in your honor's eyes. My learned friend vainly runs amuck upon the sheet anchors of my case. Your honor will be pleased enough to observe that my client is a widow, a chap with one post-mortem son.

"A widow of this country, your honor will be pleased enough to observe, is not like a widow of your honor's country. A widow of this country is not able to eat more than one meal a day, or to wear clean clothes, or to look after a man. So my poor client had not such physic or mind as to be able to assault the lusty complainant. Yet she has been deprived of some of her more valuable leather, the leather of some of her nose. My learned friend has thrown only an argument ad hominy upon my teeth, that my client's witnesses are all her own relations. But they are not near relations. Their relationship is only homeopathic. So the misty arguments of my learned friend will not hold water. At least they will not hold good water. Then, my learned friend has said that there is on the side of his client a respectable witness—namely, a pleader—and since this witness is independent, so he should be believed. But your honor, with your honor's vast experience, is pleased enough to observe that truthfulness is not so plentiful as blackberries in this country. And I am sorry to say, though this witness is a man of my own feathers, that there are in my profession black sheep of every complexion, and some of them do not always speak Gospel truth. Until the witness explains what has become of my client's nose leather he cannot be believed. He cannot be allowed to raise a castle in the air by beating upon a bush. So, trusting to this administration of British justice on which the sun never sits, I close my case."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

ABOUT WOMEN'S FEET.

Does Intellect Govern the Size of Them?

A truly beautiful foot must be free of all blemishes, and in perfect proportion to the leg and stature. The instep should be high, or moderately high, and the portion under the instep hollow and well raised above the level of the sole; the toes regular and well developed, the heel narrow and non-projecting. The general outline of the perfect foot is long, slender and graceful. The toes of the beautiful foot (according to Flaxman) should follow each other imperceptibly in a graceful curve from the first to the fifth, and in a Greek foot, according to the most famous statues, the second toe was made longer than the great toe. The beauty of the longer second toe is disputed.

It is true that small feet are considered by many a mark of aristocracy, but they certainly do not indicate superiority of intellect, for many brainy women of supreme intelligence have had very large feet.

George Eliot, for example, and Mme. de Stael, the most brilliant woman, intellectually, of her day, had such large and ungainly feet that she was made miserable by the consciousness of their undue proportions. Mme. de Stael once ventured to assume the role of Greek statue in some tableaux vivants, and was grievously offended by the witty Tallyrand's bon mot, that he recognized the impersonator at once by the "pied de stael."

The high French heel is accountable not only for the distortions of the first joint of the great toe, but for innumerable feminine internal complaints, besides which it is utterly impossible for any woman alive to walk or dance gracefully in high French heels.

It is said that a fashionable French woman once asked a famous artist how to acquire a graceful carriage, and was told to take off her high-heeled shoes, place them on top of her head, and practice walking until she could do so without the little shoes showing the slightest quiver of motion.

"When you walk," he said, "with those shoes perfectly balanced, you will have the gait of a goddess, and for the first time since French heeled shoes were invented they will really have served to help and not to disfigure a woman."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Parent's Duty.

Parents cannot discharge their obligations vicariously. The Sunday-school teacher does a good work when done in the fear and love of God. But the Sunday-school teacher cannot undo the ruins that follow parental neglect. The preacher may do much for a child neglected at home, but he cannot give what has been denied the child by unfaithful parents. Parents only can do parents' duty. We need revival in home government; then we will grow a race of men and women capable of noble deeds. A boy neglected by father and mother and growing up in all willful ways will never be what he might have been had his father and mother been faithful to him. Even conversion does not make a boy what he would have been if taught obedience and drilled in the elementary virtues of childhood. And this not a few will deny, but it is the truth, as both the Bible and experience make plain.—Detroit Free Press.

A Remarkable Child.

"Come, little girl, tell me what is your name and how old you are?" asked an old bachelor, who was visiting the Yerger family.

The child holds back and refuses to talk.

Mother—That's the way she is. She never likes to talk to gentlemen.

"Humph! If she keeps that up, she will make a splendid wife some of these days."—Texas Sifter.

LINCOLN'S WIDE SYMPATHY.

Treated All People Alike in a Courteous Manner.

"Horace Greeley once said: 'I doubt whether man, woman or child, white or black, bound or free, virtuous or vicious, ever accosted or reached forth a hand to Abraham Lincoln and detected in his countenance or manner any repugnance or shrinking from the proffered contact, any assumption of superiority, or betrayal of disdain.'

"Frederick Douglas, the orator and patriot, is credited with saying: 'Mr. Lincoln is the only white man with whom I have ever talked, or in whose presence I have ever been, who did not consciously or unconsciously betray to me that he recognized my color.'

"George Bancroft, the historian, alluding to this characteristic, which was never so conspicuously manifested as during the darker days of the war, beautifully illustrates it in these memorable words: 'As a child, in a dark night, on a rugged way, catching hold of the hand of its father for guidance and support, Lincoln clung fast to the hand of the people and moved calmly through the gloom.'"

INDIGESTION.

As a Result of It, There Were Many Disorders.

The Disease Will Create the Symptoms of Heart Disease, Kidney Disease, Etc.

From the Standard-Union, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Few women have had a more miserable existence and lived to tell the tale than Mrs. Anna L. Smith of 311 Pulaski Avenue, Brooklyn. With all the comforts that money affords, with all the happiness that many loving friends can give, the joy of Mrs. Smith's life was blasted for years by the terrible ravages of sickness. The story is most interesting as told to a reporter:

"I was an invalid for years, suffering first with one complaint and then with another. My case was truly that of a complication of diseases, due to an accident which I received some years ago. The thing which caused me the most discomfort and made me offensive to my family was the worst case of indigestion imaginable. I made all around me miserable by my sufferings, and was most miserable myself. I had the best physician we could find, and occasionally his prescriptions relieved me temporarily. But the pains and misery would all soon return again. I became desperate, and started in to try remedies of which I read. Among them were the Pink Pills. Their appearance captivated me instantly, for I am a great believer in the beautiful. I took the pills and followed out the directions to the letter, and before many days I began to feel like a different woman. For six weeks I took the pills regularly, and I can truthfully add after that I was as well as any one in the family. This change for the better in my condition has caused my relatives and friends to take the pills. We buy them all from the drug store of John Duryea, at the corner of De Kalb and Summer Avenues.

"I assure you it was impossible for me to oversee my household for three years. Now I visit my kitchen every day, do my own marketing and shopping; in a word, look after everything connected with my home and family.

"Oh, yes, I still keep taking the pills. I take one daily after dinner. Prevention, you know, is better and cheaper than cure. I verily believe one half of the women who are suffering from the ills which our sex are heir to would be up and well if they could be induced to give the Pink Pills a fair trial. I certainly recommend them heartily and feel grateful to the physician who put them on the market."

Mrs. Smith is a woman of some means and standing in the community and, therefore, her testimony will be accepted without question by all thoughtful people.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., at 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50, and are never sold in bulk or by the dozen or hundred.

◆

Pupil—"What qualifies a man to be called a master of the fence?" "Well, monsieur, he may be very clever wiz ze foils or he may be what you call a mugwump."—Brooklyn Life.

◆

A Trinity of Evils.

Biliousness, sick headache and irregularity of the bowels accompany each other. To the removal of this trinity of evils Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is specially adapted. It also cures dyspepsia, rheumatism, malarial complaints, biliousness, nervousness and constipation. The most satisfactory results follow a fair trial. Use it daily.

◆

Poetry Fed.—She (sentimentally)—"What poetry there is in fire!" He (sadly)—"Yes; a great deal of my pretty poetry has gone there."—Harper's Bazar.

◆

Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free. Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

◆

The act of worship is among all creation indigenous and peculiar to man.—Melville.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, April 25.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	$ 2 50	@	3 00
Select butchers	3 60	@	3 90
HOGS—Common	3 10	@	3 25
Good packers	3 20	@	3 40
SHEEP—Choice	3 25	@	3 60
LAMBS—Spring	5 00	@	8 00
FLOUR—Winter family	2 75	@	3 05
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@	72
No. 3 red		@	71
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@	31
Oats—No. 2		@	21¼
Rye—No. 2		@	42½
HAY—Prime to choice	15 75	@	16 00
TOBACCO—Medium leaf	10 00	@	11 75
Good leaf	12 00	@	14 00
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@	9 37½
Lard—Prime steam		@	4 75
BUTTER—Choice dairy	9	@	10
Prime to choice creamery	16	@	17
APPLES—Per bbl	3 25	@	3 75
POTATOES—Per bush	30	@	35
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 90	@	4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 1 north'n		@	74⅝
No. 2 red		@	74¼
CORN—No. 2 mixed		@	39
OATS—Mixed		@	25¼
PORK—New mess	9 25	@	10 25
LARD—Western		@	5 17½
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patents	3 50	@	3 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	66½	@	67¾
No. 2 Chicago spring		@	63¼
CORN—No. 2	29⅝	@	29¾
OATS—No. 2		@	19¼
PORK—Mess	8 55	@	8 60
LARD—Steam	4 87½	@	4 90
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	3 50	@	3 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	70	@	70¼
Corn—Mixed	35¼	@	35⅜
Oats—Mixed	26	@	26¼
LARD—Refined		@	11 00
PORK—Mess		@	16 85
CATTLE—First quality	4 00	@	4 25
HOGS—Western	4 00	@	4 25
INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@	68
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@	28¾
Oats—No. 2 mixed		@	21
LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 50	@	3 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@	70
Corn—Mixed		@	29½
Oats—Mixed		@	22
PORK—Mess		@	9 75
LARD—Steam	5 75	@	6 75

Free Attendant Service—The North-Western Line.

A new departure has been inaugurated at the Chicago passenger station of the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western R'y) which will be found a great convenience to the traveling public. A corps of uniformed attendants has been provided to render both incoming and outgoing passengers all necessary attention, directing them to carriages, omnibuses and street cars, carrying hand baggage, assisting persons in feeble health, and making themselves useful in every way in their power. The attendants wear blue uniforms and bright red caps, and the service is entirely free. The North-Western Line is the through-car route between Chicago and St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth, Ashland, Council Bluffs, Omaha, Sioux City, Denver, Salt Lake, San Francisco, Portland and many other important cities of the west and northwest.

◆

"Mamma, why do they call it the weather bureau?" "Because the top drawer is generally in such a frightful mess, I suppose."—Chicago Record.

◆

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

◆

Parley and surrender mean the same thing where virtue is concerned.—Mme. de Maintenon.

◆

Piso's Cure cured me of a Throat and Lung trouble of three years' standing.—E. Cady, Huntington, Ind., Nov. 12, 1894.

◆

A victory is twice itself when the achiever brings home full numbers.—Shakespeare.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

Loss of opportunity is life's greatest loss. Think of suffering with NEURALGIA 5 Years 10 Years 15 Years
When the opportunity lies in a bottle of ST. JACOBS OIL. It cures.

How it looks,

to the women who wash with Pearline (use no soap), when they see a woman washing in the old-fashioned way with soap—rubbing the clothes to pieces, rubbing away her strength, wearing herself out over the washboard! To these Pearline women, fresh from easy washing, she seems to "wear a fool's cap unawares."

Everything's in favor of Pearline (use without soap)—easier work, quicker work, better work, safety, economy. There's not one thing against it. What's the use of washing in the hardest way, when it costs more money?

Millions NOW USE Pearline

"Pass Your Plate."

Battle Ax
A GREAT BIG PIECE FOR 10 CENTS
PLUG

Prices of all commodities have been reduced except tobacco. "Battle Ax" is up to date. Low Price; High Grade; Delicious Flavor. For 10 cents you get almost twice as much "Battle Ax" as of other high grade goods. The 5 cent piece is nearly as large as other 10 cent pieces of equal quality.

FIELD AND HOG FENCE WIRE.
26, 33, 42, 50, or 58 inches high. Quality and workmanship the best. Nothing on the market to compare with it. Write for full information.
UNION FENCE COMPANY, DE KALB, ILL.

OPIUM and WHISKY habits cured. Book sent FREE. Dr. B. M. WOOLLEY, ATLANTA, GA.
NAME THIS PAPER every time you write.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION
25 CTS

WE PAY cash WEEKLY and want men EVERYWHERE to sell GOLD ($3,000 00) PLUM and ALL other STARK Trees. Outfit, FREE. No Money to Invest. No Risk. STARK BRO'S, Louisiana, Mo., Rockport, Ills.

A. N. K.—E. 1602

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS PLEASE state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, April 29, 1896.

Advertising Rates:

One inch, one time........................$1.00
Each additional time........................ .25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50
☞ Announcement of candidates for office, cash when ordered........$5.00.

W. L. RIDDELL, - - Publisher.

Neighborhood News.

Gasburg.

The apple crop will be light. Peaches, plums and pears promise to be the largest for several years.

The acreage of melons will be unprecedented. W. T. Stott will have the largest acreage—15 acres.

Farming operations have been pushed with great energy, lately, and is more forward than usual at this season of the year.

No wool or lamb buyers have put in an appearance in this part of the county, yet, this season.

Jim Aylor and Tucker were exploring the bypaths around here, last Monday.

What has become of Hobo? It is about time he was throwing his horoscope on county politics and prospective candidates again.

Richwood.

Miss Lulu Wilhoit, of Key West, is visiting her uncle, J. J. Tanner.

Willie Wolfe entertained a number of his young friends, last Saturday evening

Lynn Adams moved to Frogtown, last week.

Miss Lizzie Robert's school closed last Thursday with an examination.

F. Carpenter had another operation performed on his eyes, last week.

Master Marion Lancaster, of Lexington, is visiting his grand-father, Wm. Lancaster.

A number of our local sportsmen have been catching some fine fish in Kensington lake.

Mr. Clark is improving after a severe spell of pneumonia.

Limaburg.

Ezra Popham planted 60 bushels of Irish potatoes.

Very few honey bees survived the winter.

The young peaches have begun shedding their jackets.

Some of our farmers are done planting corn. A large crop of Irish potatoes is also about planted.

Washington Utz, aged 70 years, 7 months and 29 days, died on the 24th. The funeral was preached by Rev. H. M. Lentz at the Hebron church. The deceased leaves a wife and four grown children.

Willis Clore is beautifying William Craven's residence with a coat of new paint.

Legrand Utz bought a fine horse from Clyde Berkshire, last week.

Mrs. William Cleavor, of Ludlow, is visiting Mrs. Adam Heist.

James R. Clutterbuck and daughter were visiting Harvey Tanner, at Kidville, Sunday.

Van Brown, of West Virginia, is visiting his brother, Joseph Brown, of this neighborhood.

Bellevue.

Farmers are about through breaking their corn ground.

James Rogers finished planting one field of corn last week, and will plant the remainder of his crop, this week, if the weather permits. Several others will plant this week.

J. S. Huey and daughter, Mary, of Locust Grove, were the guests of Robt. Clore and family, last Saturday.

Several ladies from Cincinnati are visiting Miss Julia Dinsmore.

Dr. Elijah Ryle, son of Perry Ryle, has located here, and is ready to relieve the suffering when called upon.

R. A. Brady and J. J. Lillard received about 500 bushels of corn from John McConnell, of East Bend, last week.

Robt. Sandford and his brother Tim, caught a nice lot of fish up at the island, last week.

We will be compelled to call on Gov. Bradley to send the troops down to quiet Pete Clore, he is more boisterous than the late legislature—its a girl.

Boys, look out! Uncle John Moody says he is going to beat the Democratic nominee for sheriff, he does not care who he is.

Verona.

Dr. Jas. McCormac says his father has corn up large enough to plow.

John Washer came to town, Saturday, with a load of fresh fish.

J. H. Marshall lost his mustache, one day last week.

Miss Nannie Hamilton will give an entertainment at the hall, Friday night, May 1, which will be the close of her college term.

A fishing club has been organized here, and will make their first trip on the 7th of May. We suggest that they take a little silver along to bait with.

Will DeJarnett, who had his arm broken, is getting along nicely.

R. O. Powers is having his house given a fresh coat of paint, adding greatly to the appearance.

Bro. Lafe Johnson will preach at New Bethel church, May 3d. It will probably be his last sermon for some time, as he anticipates going to Arizona about May 5th. We urge all of the members to be present.

The Recorder is a welcom visitor here each week.

Rain is badly needed here.

Corn planting will be in full blast this week.

Erlanger.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Graves are the guests of Mrs. Anna Price.

Mrs. Nancy Bedinger, who has been sojourning at Bloomington, Ill., for the last six weeks, has arrived home.

Capt. John Daniels and his wife, and Mrs. John Dickman, of Walnut Hills, were the guests of Mrs. Louis Morrelll.

The Erlanger Building Association sold one share last Monday night. Three new shares were subscribed.

There will be an election held at the school-house, Saturday, May 2, for the filling of such vacancies as may exist in offices of trustees in the school board. Election from 1 to 6 p. m.

A surprise birthday party was tendered to Mrs. J. A. Wyss, on Thursday evening. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Hy Meyers, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nusbaum, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Morelli and many others. A grand supper was served and all left after a pleasant evening, wishing her many more happy birthdays.

J. J. Weaver's assistant engineer, Mr. Young, has, at last, reached here with his second survey, coming from Ludlow to Crescent Springs, and from there to Erlanger, reaching Commonwealth Ave. to Lexington pike. After taking his observation at the pike, he took another survey from Commonwealth Ave., and Home St., to the Price residence on Lexington pike, thence along the pike past South Erlanger and Woodside. He will now take his levels.

Petersburg.

Mr. L. Setters, of Tennessee, was here several days ago in company with Mr. John Rucker They are partners in the ownership of a large tract of land near Nashville. While here Mr. Setters purchased five head of horses of Geo. Terrill and took them south.

A valuable cow belonging to Wm. Evans died last week.

Esquire Loder and son, Leon, will occupy the hotel and Joe Morrison will move to the Brendel house.

The dry weather has made farming a little slow on account of the difficulty of plowing in some places.

Ben Akin has twins at his house only a week or two old. There is an increase in John Knipfer's family, also

Just now our wharf presents an appearance of considerable activity. A coal barge at the flouring mill, a hay boat to unload almost every day, and the ordinary river work at the distillery.

Hathaway.

Jack frost came near calling on us last week and made the early gardeners wish for warm weather.

John Davis and Cage Stephens profess to be the most industrious men in our vicinity, as they were the first to finish planting corn.

Miss Essie Barker, of Coal city, is staying at her grandfather's and going to school at Beach Grove.

Mr. Milburn Souther, of the blue grass country, passed through here last week, and called on several of his old friends.

Robert Adams is a worker without a doubt, and swift one at that. He plowed about 5 acres of ground and it only took him two weeks. Who can beat that?

Mrs. Emma Presser has ordered on a new suply of goods. When in town give her a call and you will be well pleased.

Mrs. Nannie Turley is visiting her sister, Mrs. Allie Utz, of this place.

Mrs. Maggie Weldon is improving slowly.

Mr. Sleet Riley is an agent for a very interesting book and a person could not put his money to any better use than to buy one.

Raymond Smith can't be beaten in riding a mule, but getting it over a fence is another thing, and he would like some one to tell him how to do it.

Bullittsville.

Mrs. Bob Day has been seriously ill recently.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Feely died last Thursday night.

Mr. Leslie Harrison and Miss Pearl Moore were quietly married in Cincinnati, a few weeks ago.

Messrs. E. M. Gaines and Charlie Stephens have gone to Missouri to spend a year or more.

Mrs. Nannie Hedges and son, Clifford, are visiting Mr. Ben Clore and family.

We hear that there is going to be a wedding in the Petersburg neighborhood soon—perhaps in June.

Rev. Kirkland, of Fulton, Ky., occupied the pulpit at Mt. Pleasant, last Sunday.

Mrs. Thomas Grant and Mrs. Fannie Kirtley visited relatives in Covington, last Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Fannie Willis was the guest of Miss Lulie Watts, last Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. J. L. Riley and Miss Lizzie Stephens visited Miss Herndon, of Covington, several days last week.

In looking about us we see Dr. Hays taking his accustomed Sunday walk down the pike.—Most of the ladies cleaning house.—Owen Stephens driving down the North Bend road.—T. G. Graves enjoying life.—W. C. Watts going to Bullittsville.—Will Clore improving.—Business dull.—Chester Davis driving through.—Patent gates being put across the North Bend road.—The Bullittsville Sunday School progressing nicely.—Dr. Clore very busy.

Walton.

Mrs. Emma Lermond and her son, Charles, returned from Bedford, Ind., on Tuesday last, whither they had gone to attend the last sad rites of poor Warren, who met his death while standing on the fatal trestle vainly signaling the engineer to stop the train. The heroism of his deed is a meagre consolation to his sorrowing relatives.

Another sad accident, where a man was zealous in the performance of his duty happend on the C. N. O. & T. P., local freight, while conductor Waldrop was at the brake on the rear end of the train which had become uncoupled north of Bracht. As he raised up the back of his head struck the iron girder of the turnpike bridge just south of this place, causing him to turn a complete sommersault, and he fell as though he had only stretched out for a temporary rest. The tears falling from the eyes of every member of the crew attested the estimation in which he was held.

Wood Wilson will move into the house lately occupied by C. Y. Dyas and John Richards will occupy the one from which Mr. Wilson will move.

Mr. and Mrs. Ossie Rouse, of Zion Station are on a visit to relatives here.

Jas. Cross is very busy cleaning out cisterns with a new invention that withdraws all the blackish, trashy, sediment, leaves, brickbats, etc., leaving the water pure and sparkling.

The postoffice has been removed to the hardware store of Edwards, Kennedy & Co., and everybody is pleased.

Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Gaines have returned from Warsaw, where they had been summoned to the bedside of the lady's father, Mr. Taffe, who will be remembered as having created a favorable impression at an informal Democratic conclave a short time ago.

Mrs. Edith Wilson, nee Demolsey, is keeping house for her mother, Mrs. Ada E. Gorman, who has been for a few weeks at the hospital of Dr. Reamy on Walnut Hills, whither Dr. Jones had caused her to be taken to have an operation performed for cancer of the breast. Her friends will be glad to know that she is getting along remarkably well and will be home in a short time.

Taylorsport.

Thieves entered Tom Clore's house while the family was away from home Sunday afternoon, and stole a watch, a rifle and several other things. It was thought that the thieves came from a shanty boat lying opposite here. The boat was searched but none of the property was found.

Mrs. Lucy Taneous, of Riverside, was visiting her sister, Mrs. Dye, last week.

Hog jole and greens are now on our bill of fair.

Farmers are complaining of the dry weather.

Sorry to report that James Wilson is no better.

R. S. Hood, of Knightstown, Ind., is visiting his parents of this place.

The supervisors of roads in this county will handle about $6,000 of road money again this year. This is a considerable sum to expend, annually, on the roads, and if properly applied, it should keep the highways in good order. Roads should be worked where needed worse, and the work should be well done.

The river keeps up well, notwithstanding the dry weather.

The compulsory educational law will be in force this fall, and trustees should secure a copy and learn what it requires of them.

Next Monday is county court day.

The flower peddler was in town yesterday.

The straw hat brigade has been mustered in again.

This weather is warm enough for shearing sheep.

The giggers have been getting in their work down on the creek.

SOUTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION,
Chattanooga, Tenn., May 8-14, 96.

The short line—the finest passenger equipment—the quickest schedules, and the most interesting scenery are found on the Queen & Crescent Route. Two superb vestibuled limited trains daily, Cincinnati and Lexington to Chattanooga, without change. Rates for the convention, one fare for the round trip from Cincinnati. Ask agents for Queen & Crescent tickets.

W. C. Rinearson, G. P. A.,
Cincinnati, O.

Attention, Farmers!

We are handling the

Globe Fertilizer

and will sell it to you at

$26 Per Ton,

Money due September 1, 1896.

This is a high grade Fertilizer, the best on the market. Try it.

RIGGS BROS., Erlanger, Ky.

For Sale.

A new, double brick dwelling house in first-class order. With it are 7 acres of desirable land. All kinds of fruit.—Price, $5,000.

Mr. Mayer, Erlanger, Ky.

Eggs and Poultry

I am now taking orders for thoroughbred Poultry and Eggs. First come, first served.

A. M. ACRA,
Burlington, Ky.

Eggs for Sale.

Eggs for hatching—Barred Plymouth Rocks exclusively—pure bred, vigorous and healthy—strictly first-class. Stock in separate pens—No. 1, $1 per 13 eggs. No. 2, 50c per 15 eggs.

Mrs. R. O. Smith, Union, Ky.

NOTICE.

I hereby give notice that after thirty days I will apply to the Boone County Court to have my voting place changed from the Bellevue precinct to the Petersburg precinct, in Boone county.

BEN HENSLEY.

April 13, 1896.

BLACKSMITHI'G.

A. J. CLAYTON

—Does all kinds of—

Smithing.

Always on hand and anxious to give satisfaction to all customers,

Horse Shoeing A SPECIALTY.

BURLINGTON, - KY.

TABLER'S BUCK EYE PILE OINTMENT

CURES NOTHING BUT PILES.

A SURE and CERTAIN CURE known for 15 years as the BEST REMEDY for PILES.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by RICHARDSON MED CO., ST. LOUIS.

18 SPRING AND SUMMER 96

MILLINERY

☞ All the Latest Ideas in ☞ Spring and Summer

MILLINERY

Will always be found at our Store. Ladies', Misses' and Children's Patterns..............................

HATS & BONNETS of artistic designs and from our own work rooms—Stock up to date. Hats trimmed to order on short notice.

Prices Lower Than Ever.

You will find everything usually kept in a first-class

MILLINERY STORE.

Everything new in this season's goods. Our trimmers are of the best. Your patronage is solicited. ☞

Mrs. A. J. SWALLOW,
Main St., RISING SUN, IND.

☞ If you want Harness and Saddle qualities combined with speed breed to

SAM HARRIS,

No. 6520. Record, 2:29¼.

He will make the season of 1896, at my stable on the Dry Creek & Bullittsville pike, between Hebron and Constance, at $10 to insure a colt, the money due when the mare is known to be in foal or parted with after being bred.

Sam Harris' get always sells for fancy prices. Forty of his colts sold at an average of over $400—no other horse that ever stood in this county has made such a showing. If desired the names of those making above sales will be furnished.

Those desiring to breed mares can leave them with me and they will receive attention and be furnished pasturage at $2 per month. The excellent breeding qualities of Sam Harris are well known in this county.

J. L. RILEY.

THE SADDLE AND HARNESS
STALLION,

JIM CROW,

Will be found this season at Geo. E. Rouse's farm on the Florence and Burlington pike at $3.00 for a living colt.

For further information call on or address

J. E. ROUSE,
Limaburg, Boone Co., Ky.

WHAT!

The Great Enquirer

ONLY 50 CTS. A YEAR?

YES!

And any one sending two yearly subscribers at 50 cts. each, gets a

Free Copy One Year.

An 8-page paper and 9 long columns to a page, makes it the Largest in Size!

Cheapest in Price!

Always Most Reliable for Facts, Truth and Markets.

THE BEST

Family Newspaper in United States for News, Intelligence, Fashions, Household, General Miscellaneous Reading Matter, Stories, etc.

PAY TO AGENTS

Double that of other papers. An excellent opportunity for those out of employment to make money. Try it. Samples free. Address,

ENQUIRER COMPANY,
CINCINNATI, O.

Take your County Paper.

EVERYBODY'S INTEREST

It is to everybodys interest to go where the best Goods can be bought for the least money, this can always be done by calling on IRA AYLOR, Agent for the

"Quick Meal" Gasoline Stoves and Ranges,

Every Stove guaranteed as represented. Give us a trial and we will save you at least 10 per cent. on every stove. Please remember the places.

Branch Store—UNION, KY.

IRA AYLOR,
ERLANGER, KY.

STEPHENS & SCALES,

—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN—

Hardware, Cutlery, and Agricultural Implements,

Genuine Oliver Chilled & Steel Plows,
Bissell Chilled & Steel Hillside Plows,
Walking & Riding Cultivators,
Steel & Wood Gear Farm Wagons,
Champion Mower and Binders,
Ball Bearing Disk Harrows,

BARBED AND SMOOTH WIRE

AT THE LOWEST MARKET PRICE.

No. 26 Pike Street, - - - - Covington, Ky.

BEST GOODS! LIVING PRICES!

Hardware,
Farm Machinery,
Fine Vehicles,
Harness.

HARRIS FITCH, Corner HIGH AND SHORT STREETS,
LAWRENCEBURG, INDIANA.

A. C. HECKMAN,

Florist, Plants, Bulbs, Seeds, & Metal Designs.

Fresh Cut Flowers Daily. Artistic Floral Designs a Specialty.

734 Madison Avenue,

Covington, - - Kentucky.

25 Per Cent. Less than any Cincinnati House.

J. J. GEISEN,

Best and cheapest HAT STORE in the city.

Agency for WHITE STAR LAUNDRY.

615 Madison Ave., COVINGTON, KY.

METROPOLITAN COUPE AND LIVERY COMPANY.

62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,

E. H. BAKER, Proprietor

(o)

Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.

Telephone 580.

Go to JOHN L. KOCH,

FOR

HARNESS, BUGGIES and Road CARTS

He having secured the Agency of the James & Mayer Buggies, Manufactured at Lawrenceburg, can sell you a Buggy at factory prices.

LOOK HERE

Good Top Buggy $40 and up.
Machine-made Buggy Harness, $5 and up.
Hand-made Buggy Harness, $7.50 up.

BUGGIES REPAINTED AND REPAIRED.

JOHN L. KOCH, Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

FOR SALE.

Lumber Yard and Stock at Cost.

(o)

J. C. GARVEY, Erlanger, Ky.,

Is closing out his Entire Stock of Lumber at and below Cost for Cash. Those wishing to reap the benefits of these remarkable Low Prices and obtain first choice of goods must come early, as I do not intend to replace the stock, but, to quit the business. The closing out of the stock will begin

April 13th and Continue Sixty Days,

After which time I shall close the yard, rent or sell to any one desiring to reopen the business. I am at present about two-thirds stocked and can meet the demands of those who come early. Write or call on me for prices on the kinds of lumber you are in want of.

J. C. GARVEY, Erlanger, Ky.

Local News.

Snow ball winter is about due.

The picnic season is near at hand.

Oats have come up nicely, and need rain.

What will be done with all the fruit this year?

Two fish wagons in town last Friday morning.

The house cleaning season is drawing to a close

The first edition of the gardens has been planted.

Don't forget the entertainment at the court house next Saturday.

It is very seldom that dry weather prevails as it has done this spring.

For sale—Two fresh cows.
T. D Goodridge, Burlington, Ky.

Mr. Ben R. Gaines sent a drove of nice, fat hogs to market, one day last week.

Jerry Blyth caught some nice bass down on Gunpowder, one day last week.

The boys indulged in a noisy carnival on the court house portico Monday night.

The dry weather has about done up what little wheat come through the winter.

A gentle rain of about 48 hours duration is badly needed in this part of the country.

Many of the meadows will be entirely worthless this year, the grass having died out.

Owing to the scarcity of grass many of the farmers have been endeavoring to sell their sheep.

Owen county will have at least two good crops this year—fruit crop and crop of candidates.

If June, July and August are as hot in proportion to what April has been, they will be singers.

Some person sent in a communication from Walton, but failed to sign it. It was too hot, probably.

Rev. Fizer will begin a protracted meeting at the Methodist church here on the evening of May 12th.

Since the adjournment of circuit court the local attorneys have turned their attention to gardening.

President Rouse did a good job when he widened the fill on the Florence pike, near R. S. Crisler's shop.

Some of the anglers report the creeks full of very large bass, none of which have been caught yet, however.

The Odd-Fellows had a very interesting meeting last Saturday night. There was a good attendance of the members.

Sheep will begin to lose their fleeces, soon. The wool buyer is already abroad in the land, and the price he offers is low.

The ground got so hard last week that many of the farmers who were not done plowing, had to suspend operation.

The lovers of music will miss a rare treat if they fail to attead the entertainment at the court house next Saturday night.

Atty. P. E. Cason has been very busy since the adjournment of court, putting his dwelling and premises in repair.

Potato bugs are said to be very plentiful this spring, and as soon as a potato vine comes through the ground, the bugs attack it.

Some of the farmers near town are complaining of being very much annoyed by the town cows, that graze upon the public highway.

The jail has two inmates, each serving out a sentence for petty larceny. A rock-pile or whipping post is needed for the use of such gentry.

There was quite an animated discussion over on Union street, early last Saturday morning. Neither religion nor politics were involved.

Several depositions were taken here, last week, to be read upon the trial of Adams vs. Ryle in the United States Court at Covington in May.

Rev. Hiner, who has been sick for several weeks, died at his home in Carrollton, last Saturday. He was a very able Methodist divine, and had many acquaintances in this county.

The wheat crop in this county this year will be the shortest for a long time, and the owners of threshing machines will find but little demand for their services.

The treat of the season will be at the court house next Saturday night. Miss Schuster, the elocutionist, Mr. Jones, the violinist and Mr. Meek, a splendid singer, assisted by other musical talent will be the attraction. Don't fail to attend.

A gentleman in Nashua, N. H., has for several years past, been in the habit of taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla to tone up his system in the spring. The result is that he finds himself stronger, happier, and better than he had been for many years before.

Stanley Clutterbuck has gone to housekeeping in R. C. Rice's house; J. B. Berkshire will move in with John H. Ryle, having purchased a half interest in the house and lot, and B. W. Adams will move into the house vacated by Mr. Berkshire.

The Mission Board of the North Bend Association met in Burlington last Friday. A great many of the delegates from the churches failed to put in an appearance. The reports made showed a considerable falling off in the collections for mission purposes.

To our deaf subscribers we especially invite their attention to the blue cross at the head of the local column. If it is there you owe us, and we need the amount due us.—Owen News.

We noticed "the blue cross" on the paper received at this office. If Bro. Orr will render a bill we will remit at once.

The claims against the estate of A. S. [illegible] the assets that came to the hands of the administrator by about $1,100. and it will be [illegible] for those claimants who have been paid in full to refund 12 per cent. of the amount paid them. The administrator is now calling upon those creditors to pay back, and while it looks hard it is but equitable.

Queen & Crescent to the spring races at Lexington.—Round trip tickets on sale over the Queen and Crescent route daily April 27th to May 5th, incl., from all stations in Kentucky, at reduced rates for the Lexington Spring Races. Ask agents for particulars.
W. C. Rinearson, G. P. A.,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

Last Sunday as C. C. Roberts and family were coming from Walton, the horse attached to the vehicle got sick, and when near Mrs. Bailey's toll-gate, it came very near dying. Mr. R. got F. A. Utz's horse and brought his family home, and went back to conduct the funeral, but was surprised to find the horse up and eating He brought it home and it is now well.

BARGAINS! CLOSING OUT.

For the purpose of engaging in other business I am now selling my stock of goods below cost. If you want Bargains call early. The sales will continue from Saturday to Saturday until all the goods are sold. Having to go to the city every week I will continue to take orders for goods not in stock.
A. M. ACRA, [illegible]ngton, Ky.

The ball season was inaugurated here last Saturday afternoon between the following nines: Frank Maxwell, Ed Hawes, Edson Riddell, Mont Slayback, Homer Clutterbuck, James Houston, Henry Passons, Arthur Mitchell and Eddie Hogan; Wm. Hughes, Johnnie Hogan, Chas. Hughes, Roy Clutterbuck, W. C. Brown, Herbert Kirk, Jas. Slayback, Harry Roberts, Elbert Roberts. Score 7 to 5 in favor of the first named nine.

COUNTY COURT.

April 14.—C. R. Anderson granted license to peddle merchandise.

April 16.—John Hogan granted license to peddle merchandise.

April 20.—Herbert Kirkpatick allowed $4.05 for laying tiling, &c., in jail yard.

April 23.—W. H. Ryle qualified as notary public.

F. Riddell and S. W. Tolin appointed appraisers of Jeff Morris, deceased.

Prof. Meeks and Miss Shuster, assisted by Prof. Jones, Edward McKim and Mrs. Dr. Furnish, will give an entertainment at the court house in Burlington, on the evening of May 2d, consisting of vocal and instrumental music and select reading. Miss Shuster is well known as a gifted elocutionists in this county, as well as in the city. Prof. Jones, as a violinist, has few equals. All are invited to attend. Admission—adults, 25 cent; children under 12 old, 15 cents.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Court adjourned Wednesday afternoon.

The jurors were finally discharged Tuesday afternoon.

The suit of Ida Helm against Harrison Clore, for damages, was tried on Tuesday of last week. It was the hardest fought case tried. The jury was out but a few minutes when it returned a verdict for the defendant.. Tarvin and Peuce, of Covington, represented the plaintiff, and Gray, Clore and Lassing & Riddell, the defendant.

The social given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Bentham, of the Florence neighborhood, on the evening of the 25th, was a very pleasant affair. It was in honor of their daughter, Miss Effie, and among those present were Misses Sallie Stevens, of Florence, Katie Walton, Mollie Horton,——Lancaster, of Erlanger, Minta Glacken, of Cresent; and O. W. Rouse, of Limaburg; Kirb Tanner, of Crescent; Linden Sewell, Lane Riggs, Clayton Walton, of Erlanger. Miss Effie will soon leave for Cincinnati, where she will spend the summer.

Teachers' Primary Class.

Several Boone County teachers have suggested to me that I organize a class for work with reference to teachers' examination, at Union, Ky., to commence May 25th and continue eight weeks. I shall be glad to do so, provided a sufficient number of teachers or other persons notify me by May 18th, of their intention to attend; without such notice, I can not form the class.

Tuition for term, $8,00; board can be obtained in Union at extremely reasonable rates. Applicants will be notified by mail if class is formed.
H. NEWTON, Butler, Ky.

LAND AND A LIVING.

Are best and cheapest in the Great New South. The northern farmer, artisan, merchant, manufacturer, are all hurrying into this rapidly developing country as pioneers. The open climate the low price of land, and its steady increase in value; the positive assurance of crops, with but little effort to raise them, all combine to turn all eyes southward. To assist in this movement. low railroad rates have been inaugurated over the Queen & Crescent Route from northern towns and villages, both round-trip and one-way tickets being on sale at about half the usual rates. Round-trips selling on April 7th 21st, and May 5th; one-way tickets on the first Tuesday in each month. Now is the time for you to go and see. Much has been said and written about the fruit, grains and grasses along The Queen & Crescent Route and about its climate—no blizzards and no sun-strokes. Summer nights are cool. Grass grows green ten months in the year. Less wear and tear in living than you've known in the north. A million acres of land at $3 to $5 an acre, on easy terms. Now is the time to go and see for yourself. Write to W. C. Rinearson, G. P. A. Queen & Crescent Route, Cincinnati, O., for such information as you desire before starting.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. T. D. Goodridge is reported some better.

M. T. Garnett visited the city, last Thursday.

Harry Adams, of Hamilton, was in town yesterday.

L. W. Webb, of Home City, Ohio, was in town Saturday.

Atty. Tolin attended Circuit Court at [illegible]mouth, last Wednesday.

P. E. Cason and wife spent last Sunday with relatives at Gasburg

Hon. John S. Huey, of Locust Grove, was in town Monday morning.

H. C. White, of Williamstown, was in Burlington, last Wednesday.

Mrs. B. W. Adams is visiting in the Big Bone neighborhood, this week.

B. H. Snyder, of Gunpowder, was among the visitors in town Monday.

Atty. Lassing was in Walton and Verona, yesterday, on official business.

Mrs. C. C. Roberts was visiting her parents at Walton, several days last week.

Mrs. Clarissa Ashley, of Florence, was visiting in Burlington, one day last week.

Mr. M. S. Rice was surveying over in the Gunpowder neighborhood yesterday.

Sheriff Roberts has commenced making his calculations, preparatory to the collection of taxes.

Dr. Smith says notwithstanding the dry weather, he has been called to see six cases of rheumatism.

A. H. Quick and Johnnie Cloud, of the Hebron neighborhood, were in Burlington, last Thursday.

Mr. Samuel Cowen, whose condition has been very critical for some time, is improving very little if any.

Mr. Leslie Utz, of the Union neighborhood, was visiting O. J. Ryle's family, last Saturday and Sunday.

Hon. John S. Gaunt was the last visiting member of the bar to leave town. He left Thursday about noon.

William Slayback, who was burned out last week, has about got straightened out again and is housekeeping.

Col. Jack Sandford started in Monday morning to do a good week's work with his tape line. He reports progress.

Dr. L. H. Crisler, the Bullittsville veterinary, has had several patients in this neighborhood during the past few weeks.

Hon. W. W. Dickerson, of Williamstown, was in town one day last week, taking depositions in the case of Adams vs. Ryle.

Mrs. Julia Elstun, who has been visiting her sisters at this place, the past week, returned to her home at Hathaway, Sunday.

Miss Annie Garrison returned home last Saturday, after a pleasant visit of several weeks with relatives in the Union neighborhood.

Rev. A. S. Rachal, pastor of the Bethesda Presbyterian Church at Lynchburg, Va., sends us a copy of the Manuel of that church.

Archie Acra has been suffering greatly with a felon on his right thumb. It had to be split open four times, before it began getting better.

Jerome Wilson, of Rabbit Hash, was in town Friday. He said work had begun on the town hall which the citizens had decided to build.

R. S. Cowen went down to B. B. Allphin's, on Mudlick, last Wednesday, to adjust the loss occasioned by the burning of Mr. A's large barn.

Mrs. Geo. Piper and children returned to their home in Louisville, last Monday; after a week's visit here with Mrs. Piper's mother and sister.

Judge Green and wife left for home early last Thursday morning. They drove through in a buggy. They had good roads and delightful weather for the journey.

Mr. W. T. Smith says if those who are so much interested in the progress he is making planting corn, will come around this fall they will see the result of knowing when to plant.

Earl Sandford was called to Ludlow, last Saturday, as a witness against some parties who were being tried for robbing a railroad car. Earl had seen the men with some of the stolen property.

Prof. Collins left for Frogtown, early Saturday morning, equipped with a set of surveyor's instruments with which to do some work in that neighborhood. They do say that he would like to be County Surveyor next time.

Col. John M. Moody, of Bellevue, has been reelected ringmaster for the Lawrenceburg, (Ind.) fair again this year, and he would be glad to fill the same position at Florence this fall. He can furnish all the recommendation required, as the result of nearly half a century's service in that business.

John Corcoran, of Bullittsville, was in town Saturday. For several years past he and his brothers have cultivated large crops of tobacco, having averaged about ten acres per year; but this year they will not set a plant, the price they received for their last crop having thoroughly discouraged them. It averaged less than $3 per 100 pounds.

For sale—A fresh cow and her calf—price, $25. O. T. Porter.

Local politics was warming up considerably about a month ago, but the prospective candidates have quit electioneering and gone fishing.

Burlington Lodge, No. 109, K. of P., will confer the Knight Rank on three candidates Thursday night, April 30th. All neighboring lodges are invited.

A large spreading Adder was killed in the back yard at the Boone House, a few days ago. These ugly reptiles are becoming numerous in this county.

On the inside pages will be found the proceedings of the trial of Scott Jackson in Newport, charged with the murder of Pearl Bryan. The defense will begin its testimony to-day or to-morrow. It is a case that excites a national interest.

STATE CONVENTION.

Lexington, Ky., the Place and June 3d the Day.

County Conventions, May 30th, 1896.

The Democratic State Convention to select delegates to the Democratic National Convention will meet in Lexington, Ky., June 3d, 1896.

Each county and legislative district will be entitled to one delegate for each 200 votes cast at the last presidential election or gubernatorial election (the highest being taken as the basis) and one delegate for each fraction over 100 votes so cast.

For the purpose of selecting delegates to said State convention, mass meetings of the Democrats shall be held on the 30th day of May at 2 o'clock p. m., solar time, in each county at the county seats thereof, and in each legislative district in counties having more than one legislative district at such places therein as may be fixed by the respective chairman thereof; and at such mass meetings of the Democrats of each county and legislative district they shall choose the respective delegates that they are entitle to upon the above basis of representation to said State convention. The respective chairman of each County Democratic Executive Committee and of each legislative District Democratic Executive Committee shall issue due and proper notices for said mass meetings and respectively call said mass meetings to order when assembled, and see that said meetings are fairly and properly organized and that the delegates therefrom be fairly and properly chosen by the expressed will of the majority of Democrats attending said meetings, and also see that the duly chosen chairmen and secretaries of said meetings properly certify to the list of delegates so chosen, which certificates shall be approved and signed by the respective chairmen of the Democratic Executive Committees for each county and legislative district.

Painting & Repairing
Buggies AND Carriages
—REPAIRED AT THE MOST—
REASONABLE RATES.
GIVE ME A TRIAL.
I am also agent for the EMMERSON, FISHER BUGGY COMPANY.
C. ERNSTES, - - Hebron, Ky.

Election Notice.

The stockholders of the Burlington & Bellevue turnpike are hereby notified that an election will be held in the town of Burlington, Ky., Monday, May 4th, 1896, for the purpose of electing officers to serve the ensuing year.
S. P. BRADY, President.

Notice to Delinquent Tax-PAYERS.

The lists of Delinquents for 1895 have been placed in the hands of Collecting Officers in the different magisterial districts for the convenience of the taxpayers. See your collector and pay your tax, or you will be reported to the Road Supervisor in your district and proceeded against according to law.
FISCAL COURT BOONE CO.,
By J. M. Lassing, Co. Atty.

John Allison,
Undertaker
—AND—
Embalmer,
COR. PIKE & RUSSELL STS.,
COVINGTON, - KENTUCKY
Independent of Undertakers' Union.

Election Notice.

There will be an election held at Hebron, Ky., May 4th, 1896, by the stockholders of the Bullittsville & Dry Creek Turnpike Road Co., to elect a president and five directors to serve the ensuing year. J. C. CLORE, Sect'y.

THE QUEEN &
CRESCENT
ROUTE
Vestibuled Limited Trains to Southern Towns and Cities. A fine trip for summer outing through the Blue Grass region, the great Cumberland Plateau and to far famed Lookout Mountain.
The historic battlefields of
CHICKAMAUGA,
Mission Ridge and LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN.
Cool and invigorating air,
unequaled scenery,
good hotels.
Low reduced rates via the Queen & Crescent Route now on sale from cities and villages of the North.
Write to W. C. Rinearson, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, for illustrated and descriptive matter.

We call attention to our New and Attractive
Stock of
Spring Goods,
JUST RECEIVED.
DRESS GINGHAMS Latest styles.
STRAW HATS in abundance.
Large line of Fresh Groceries Always on hand.
We can and will save you money by trading with us.
Give us a call,
W. M. RACHAL & CO. Union, Ky.

BOEHMER, ROLF & CO.,
—DEALERS IN—
PAINTS, OILS AND GLASS,
—63 and 65 Pike Street,—
Covington, Telephone, 4212. Ky.

GEO. W. HILL & CO.,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
Flour, Tea, Tobacco AND FINE Cigars.
ALSO DEALERS IN WOOL AND COUNTRY PRODUCTS.
CALL SPECIAL ATTENTION TO OUR RETAIL DEPARTMENT.
27 and 29 PIKE ST. 26 and 28 W. SEVENTH ST.
Covington, - - Kentucky.

HARBICK & ROSE,
Undertakers AND Embalmers,
OFFICE AND STABLE, 637 and 639 SCOTT STREET,
COVINGTON, KY.
CARRIAGES FOR WEDDINGS AND PRIVATE HIRE.
Telephone, 4146. OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

GEO. G. RUSSELL,
WHOLESALE AND
RETAIL GROCER,
CRASS SEED,
Corner Pike & Washington Sts. Covington, Ky.
Tom Wilson, Salesman.

A. H. BRYANT. J. L. V. McDONALD.
REMOVED AND READY FOR BUSINESS.
31 Pike Street,
THE OLD RELIABLE STOVE COMPANY,
Successor to J. M. CLARKSON.
Stoves, Grates, Fine Tin and
HOLLOW-WARE.
Our friends of Boone County will be Welcome to Make OUR STORE Their Headquarters when in Town.
J. L. V. McDONALD. - - - Manager.
COVINGTON, KY.
MR. J. M. CLARKSON has his office with us.

SEEDS. SEEDS. SEEDS.
BUY YOUR
GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS
From W. J. RAMSEY & CO.,
We are the only House in Covington, handling a full Line of
GARDEN SEEDS.
708 Madison Avenue
COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.
Opposite Seventh Street Market House.

HANKINS, DAVIS & CO.,
GENERAL MERCHANTS,
HEBRON AND CONSTANCE, KY.
A good supply of Campbell's Creek Coal on hand at Constance at all times. A good supply of feed always in stock. Garden and Field Seeds.
UNDERTAKING.
is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.
Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : : KY.

CURRENT TOPICS.

VIENNA is [illegible] Washington.

FROM Washington to Batavia is 11.118 miles.

CHICAGO is 900 miles west of New York.

INDIANAPOLIS is 808 miles from New York.

BOSTON and New York are 217 miles apart.

THE cholera epidemic in Calcutta is spreading.

MONTREAL is only 471 miles north of Washington.

HALIFAX is 780 miles northeast of Washington.

FROM Washington. to Athens, Greece, is 5,005 miles.

LIMA, Peru, is 3,515 miles southwest of, Washington.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., is 3,250 miles west of New York.

FORTY million tacks a day is the output of a factory in Fall River.

THERE are in all 39 miles of book shelves, all filled, at the British museum.

OUT of every three companies registered in England two become insolvent.

FROM New York to the mouth of the Congo river the mail route requires 52 days.

THE distance between Cape Town, South Africa, and Washington is 6,684 miles.

THIRTY days are required for mail to travel betweeen New York and Calcutta.

FROM Shanghai, China, to Washington the distance by the nearest route is 8,600 miles.

SENATOR WOLCOTT, of Colorado, is regarded as the best amateur cyclist in Washington.

THE oldest national flag in the world is that of Denmark, which has been in use since the year 1219.

THERE are said to be 589 generals on the active list of the Spanish army with other officers in proportion.

THE Salvation army has opened a mission in Chinatown, San Francisco, and is meeting with success.

THREE HUNDRED miners are snowed in in the mountains of Alaska, near Cook's Inlet, and many of them will perish.

GEN. MACEO, leader of the Cuban insurgents, has captured 28 towns, 2,794 stands of arms and 314 rounds of ammunition.

RICHAN-YOUNG is the pleasing suggestive combination of the names of a couple married in Camden, Me., a few days ago.

THE output of gold from Alaska last year is estimated at $3,000,000, and of this $800,000 came from the Yukon placer mines.

THE St. Lonis directory for 1896, just issued, indicates that the population of the city is now 611,238, an increase of 145,059 since 1890.

IN conversing with one of the American athletes King George, of Greece, expressed the desire to visit this country in the near future.

IT is stated that two of the successful candidates in the recent municipal elections in Chicago expended $30,000 apiece and another one $10,000.

DESCARTES' tercentenary will be observed by the publication of a complete edition of his works by authority of the French government.

SEVEN colleges have conferred the degree of LL.D. on Gen. Francis A. Walker, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

AMSTERDAM is intersected by canals, which divide the city into about 90 islands. Communication with them is had by about 300 bridges.

CRIPPLE CREEK now has a population of 60,000. In 1892 it had 1,500. It is estimated that this year's output will reach 20,000,000 tons of ore.

EMANUEL HOFFMAN, of Jefferson county, Mo., has been fined $500 for plowing over a graveyard and which was on a farm he had bought.

MESSRS. ROTHSCHILD brothers have given the sum of 20,000 francs to the University of Paris for traveling scholarships for students of history.

THE Jewish colony in Haverhill is in trouble because some miscreant poured kerosene oil into the bread being made in a Jewish bakery the other day.

EX-UNITED STATES TREASURER NEBEKER says that by a continuous count of an expert it will require 20 hours to handle 100,000 standard silver dollars.

ARGENTINA received 58,000 immigrants last year, the largest number since the financial crash of 1890, in which year the immigrants were 78,000.

A BILL has been introduced in the New York legislature providing for the brewing of pure beer in that state, and imposing heavy penalties for its violation.

THERE are immense quantities of coal in British Columbia, but it can not be mined to advantage till the railroad facilities are better. It is claimed that valuable oil fields are to be found there.

A CAVE containing a large collection of ancient pottery, thought to have been made by the Aztecs, was discovered by a prospector at Twenty-nine Palms, Southern California, recently.

A MASTODON tooth twelve inches long, nine inches wide and three inches thick, was found in Oklahoma recently by A. V. Stewart, who was digging a well on his farm.

LADY LONDONDERRY has had a lugger built at Southampton of cedar and mahogany, 26 feet on the water line, with silver-plated aluminum fittings and silk sails. It is to be called the Metueada.

POLK COUNTY (Mo.) business people are booming their own favored locality by having printed on the envelopes they send through the mails the legend: "The land of the red-cheeked children."

FOR PEACE.

The International Arbitration Congress Opens in Washington—First Day's Session.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The international arbitration congress which began a two days' session in Metzerot hall in this city Wednesday was a distinguished gathering of prominent men from all parts of the country. Mr. Gardiner G. Hubbard called the convention to order and introduced Hon. John W. Foster, ex-secretary of state, as temporary chairman.

Ex-Senator Edmunds, of Vermont, was chosen permanent presiding officer. He made a brief speech in which he said that the United States had the least reason of any great nation, in a mere selfish sense, to wish for arbitration. It was strong enough in any but the most absurd cause to defend itself, to promote its policies and to carry on war, but its very strength impels it to be backward.

The convention had met to aid and promote the interests of the government to practice the principle of arbitration and finally all other nations might follow their example. The time must come when the armies of the world, like that of the United States would be a mere police body. The time would come when armies for aggressive purposes would be dissolved and the angel of peace would blow the trumpet over all the world.

A letter from Chief Justice Fuller, who was unable to attend, was read. He expressed his sympathy with the object of the meeting.

A letter was also read from Andrew Carnegie, of Pittsburgh, stating that he was unable to attend, but asking to have his name associated with those who favored arbitration and enclosing a check for $1,000 to be used for any purpose the convention saw fit.

On motion of Mr. Dodge, of New York, a committee of 15 was appointed on resolutions and a committee of five on the order of business.

WON'T QUIT.

Striking Glass Men Agree to Return to Work Without the Discharged Employe.

MUNCIE, Ind., April 23.—Thomas F. Hart, manager of the Western Window Glass Manufacturers' association, Wednesday night received information from Hartford City that the Hartford City strikers had agreed to resume work without the discharged man, who agrees to leave the city rather than be the cause of shutting down every factory in the country. The big plant will resume work within a few days, while all other factories in the country will continue to work until May 29, the time selected for the shut-down. The C. H. Over factory in this city, with forty-five pots, closed Wednesday, and are paying off the men with instructions that they will not be needed until next September. This caused great surprise, as it was believed that only a few pots would be cut off in each factory.

Commissioner Eva Booth.

ST. LOUIS, April 23.—Commissioner Eva Booth inspected the various barracks of the local Salvation army Wednesday and gave a farewell address to the warriors Wednesday afternoon. Wednesday night she left for New York on her way to England. She will return in a few weeks to assume her duties as commander of the army in British America and the provinces, with headquarters at Toronto.

Six Men Drowned.

QUEBEC, April 23.—Six young men were drowned while crossing Becancourt river at Lysander Falls, 40 miles from here. Their names are: John Cully, W. H. Cox., George Scott, J. Patterson, Charles Royes and J. Royes. The party had crossed the river to accompany James Miles, whose daughter was in a dying condition on the other side.

Pattison Indorsed for President.

ERIE, Pa., April 23.—The democratic county convention met Wednesday and indorsed Pattison for president; passed gold basis resolutions; indorsed the unit rule; named F. E. McLean, of Union City, for district national delegate; indorsed John S. Rilling, of Erie, for delegate-at-large, and elected Harrity delegates to the state convention.

Gov. Turney Suffering From Rheumatism.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 23.—Gov. Peter Turney is lying at his home in Winchester suffering from a violent attack of rheumatism. The governor, who was in Nashville when the attack came on, had to be assisted into his carriage at the capitol and placed on the train by his son and the secretary of state.

Heavy Cannonading Outside Havana.

KEY WEST, Fla., April 23.—Passengers by the steamer Mascottee Wednesday night reported heavy cannonading heard outside of Havana Wednesday and also that numerous bands of insurgents are coming from the eastern part of the island toward Pinar del Rio province.

Trouble in St. James Parish.

NEW ORLEANS, April 23.—There has been trouble reported in La Place, in St. James parish, where the Negroes had taken possession of the boxes. Battery B, Louisiana Field artillery, arrived there at 4 p. m., and everything is now quiet.

Dead at the Age of 88.

ALBION, Ind., April 23.—George W. Black, the oldest resident of this city, died Wednesday evening at the age of 88. He was found by his wife sitting in the chair dead.

Congressman Taylor Renominated.

CLEVELAND, O., April 23.—A special to the Press from Alliance, O., says: The republican convention of the Eighteenth district which was formerly represented by McKinley, met here Wednesday and was in session but one hour. Every mention of McKinley's name was cheered. Hon. R. W. Taylor, of Columbiana county, was renominated for congress without opposition. W. S. Smith, of Columbiana county, and Caleb B. Wick, of Mahoning, were selected delegates to the national convention, and W. K. Miller, of Stark county, as presidential elector.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED

Favoring Arbitration of International Disputes Between

The United States and Great Britain—Religion, Humanity and Justice Demand the Establishment of a Permanent System of Arbitration.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Chairman Edmunds called Thursday afternoon's session of the conference to order at three o'clock. The committee on resolutions presented the following report as a substitute for several propositions referred to them:

"This national conference of American citizens assembled at Washington, April 23, 1896, to promote international arbitration, profoundly convinced that experience has shown that war as a method of determining disputes between nations is oppressive in its operation, uncertain and unequal in its results and productive of immense evils, and that the spirit and humanity of the age as well as the precepts of religion, require the adoption of every practicable means for the establishment of reason and justice between nations, and considering that the people of the United States and the people of Great Britain, bound together by the ties of a common language and literature, of like political and legal institutions and of many mutual interests, and animated by a spirit of devotion to law and justice, have on many occasions, by recourse to peaceful and friendly arbitration manifested their just desire to substitute reason for force in the settlement of their differences and to establish a reign of peace among nations, that the common sense and enlightened public opinion of both nations is utterly averse to any further war between them; that the same good sense, reinforced by common principles of humanity, religion and justice, requires the adoption of a permanent method for the peaceful adjustment of international controversies, which method shall not only provide uniform application of principles of law and justice in the settlement of their differences, but shall also, by its example and results, promote the peace and progress of all peoples, does hereby adopt the following resolutions:

1. That in the judgment of this conference, religion, humanity and justice as well as the material interests of civilized society, demand the immediate establishment between the United States and Great Britain of a permanent system of arbitration.

2. That it is earnestly recommended to our government so soon as it is assured of corresponding disposition on the part of the British government to negotiate a treaty providing for the widest practicable application of the method of arbitration to international controversies.

3. That a committee of this conference be appointed to prepare and present to the president of the United States a memorial respectfully urging the taking of such steps on the part of the United States as will best conduce to the end in view.

THE JUARCO BATTLE.

Peaceful Citizens Shot Down by the Spanish Soldiers.

HAVANA, April 24.—Later news in regard to the engagement near Juarco, Havana province, indicates that the affair was similar to others in which "Pacificos," or peaceful citizens have been killed by Spanish troops. Fourteen of the dead are said to have been employes on estates and not insurgents. On the Spanish side none were killed and only three wounded, while the Cuban dead exceed 30. Juarco is only 15 miles from Havana on the Matanzas railroad. It was only a few miles from Juarco that Dr. Delgado, an American citizen, was shot down and left for dead, and seven of his farm hands massacred.

Jockey Morris Sent Up for Life.

CROWN POINT, Ind., April 24.—Emmanuel Morris, the colored jockey arrest for murder at the Roby race track last fall, was found guilty and was sentenced for life. Morris received the verdict without a murmur. During a dispute over a game of craps at Roby, Morris pulled a razor and frightfully slashed Judge, who died instantly. Morris has spent his whole life at Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Louis tracks. Six jurors said they were in favor of hanging. The verdict was a compromise.

Two Sets of Delegates.

MAXTON, N. C., April 24.—The republican convention of the Sixth congressional district was a howling mob. The Russell and Dockery factions divided, the Russellites nominated R. M. Norment, of Robeson, for congress, and the Dockery faction J. M. Smith, of Richmond. Both factions elected two delegates to the national republican convention, the Russellites for McKinley and the Dockery faction delegates for Allison.

Threw Inkstands at Each Other.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Representatives Hall (dem., Mo.) and Money (dem., Miss.) got into an altercation in the room of the house committee on naval affairs Thursday morning, which quickly resulted in the use of force. Both men threw inkstands at each other. Money was hit on the back of the head, sustaining an ugly gash from which the blood flowed copiously. He was removed to the barber shop and his wounds dressed.

For Free Silver.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 24.—At the Kent county democratic convention Thursday the great fight was upon the money question, and the following resolution was finally adopted: That our delegates elected by this convention to attend the state democratic convention to be held at Detroit April 29 are hereby instructed to vote for and support for delegates at such convention to attend the national democratic convention to be held at Chicago, only such persons as are in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1.

TRADE REVIEW.

Business Has Been Favored by Seasonable Weather—The Distribution of Products Has Made Very Fair Progress.

NEW YORK, April 25.—R. G. Dun & Co. says Saturday in their weekly review of trade:

Failures for the week have been 238 in the United States against 230 last year, and 44 in Canada against 37 last year.

Business has been favored by seasonable weather and the distribution of products has made fair progress; not yet reducing retail or wholesale stocks far enough, however, to materially improve the position of industries. Money markets have grown more favorable, as well as the state of foreign commerce, and until an apparently groundless revival of discussion about the Venezuela difficulty, there was a brighter prospect of European investments here. The belief that agitation for cheap money will be permanently laid at rest this year is gaining ground, and in financial quarters causes more confidence for the future. Prices of commodities are on the whole lower than ever before, having declined about two per cent. since April 1, and 17 per cent. since July, 1890, or October, 1892. The fall in manufactured products is a little less than it was April 1, but in farm products greater.

Speculation is swayed by trifling influences when markets are very narrow. The recent advance checked buying of wheat for export and Atlantic exports for the week were only 1,018,254 bushels, flour included, against 1,768,873 last year; while western receipts were 2,094,557 bushels, against 1,975,408 last year. With generally fair prospects as to winter wheat the price dropped about two cents, nearly half the rise based on gloomy receipts early Saturday morning. Corn receipts continue heavy and the price is a shade lower. A single enterprising buyer was able to push up the price of cotton an eighth, though the progress of planting gives promise of a large yield and the receipts continue as large as in 1893, though about 386,000 bales larger for the year thus far.

Cotton goods were bought less freely last week and the northern mills have taken scarcely any cotton this month. The feeling is more hopeful because retail trade is better. The situation in woolen goods does not improve.

Large orders taken for boots and shoes when prices were reduced to last year's lowest, more than a month ago, results in shipments nearly equal to last year's; in April thus far five per cent. less, but new orders are not now coming freely except for immediate delivery to fill out broken stocks. Leather is weaker, with heavy sales averaging about three per cent. lower for the week, although hides at Chicago are a shade stronger.

Neither pig iron nor manufactured goods have improved in demand as yet, though further combinations have raised prices of rods and of bar iron to 1.20, while steel bars sells at 1.15 and nails are to be 15 cents higher after May 1. Brokers at Pittsburgh are still selling steel billets 60 cents below the pool price, though it was formed more than three weeks ago, and Bessemer pig had declined there to $13 with gray forge stronger. Structural angles are a shade lower, though some good contracts are expected. Many consumers of copper are working part time and lake is offered at 10.65. Tin is dull but a shade higher at 13.4, and lead with large western sales at 1.07½. Makers of tin plate have agreed to maintain prices, $30.70 being still quoted for bessemer coke full weight.

LOVED THE SAME WOMAN.

Two Chicago Men Fight a Savage Duel on the Street With Stilettos.

CHICAGO, April 25.—Because they loved the same woman, Oscar Orland, aged 33 years, and Emanual Rugjak fought a savage duel at midnight with stilettos on the street in the vicinity of Orland's Canal street home. Orland is dying at the county hospital, and the police are searching for the other duelist, who was badly wounded. Two policemen found Orland huddled against a pile of debris bleeding from many gashes in his wrist, face and body. Some of the main arteries had been severed. Before becoming unconscious Orland told of the duel and said they stabbed and slashed at each other for nearly an hour.

Double Tragedy at Union City, Pa.

CLEVELAND, O., April 25.—A special to the Press from Union City, Pa., says: This town was the scene of a double tragedy Friday morning. Simon Hasselbach, aged 70, and his son William, aged 35, engaged in a quarrel. Both were drunk, and the young man seized an ax and attempted to kill his father. The old man drew a revolver and shot his son. Seeing what he had done the old man turned the weapon on himself and sent a bullet through his temple. Both will die.

The Bakeshop Bill a Law.

COLUMBUS, O., April 25.—The underground bakeshop bill was enacted into a law Friday morning by the senate. The new law places bakeries under the supervision of the state factory inspector and provides for two additional deputies to have charge of the inspection of bakeries. The factory inspector has the power to require that bakeshops be located in clean, airy rooms and no longer than ten hours per day is to be required of the employes.

Merchant and Family Murdered.

LA PLATA, Md., April 25.—A well-known merchant and family of Hill Top were most brutally murdered at a late hour Thursday night. Mrs. Cocking and sister, Miss Daisy Miller, are dead. Mr. Cocking was gagged and thrown in the cellar, and when found was unconscious. If the murderers are caught a lynching will take place.

A special dispatch from La Plata, Md., says: The suspicion is gaining ground that Joseph Cocking committed the double murder which threw the town into excitement Friday. His condition has not at any time been serious.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS

First Session.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—SENATE—Not in session Saturday.

HOUSE—The house committee on appropriations Saturday reported to the house the general deficiency bill, the last of the regular appropriation bills for this session. The total amount carried by the bill is $4,791,340. The house Saturday paid tribute to the memory of the late Representative Cogswell, of Massachusetts. Gen. Cogswell was one of the most popular members of the house. Catchings (dem., Miss.), Grosvenor (rep., O.), Henderson (rep., Ia.), and Dockery (dem., Mo.) were among those who laid their tributes on his bier. Mr Talbert (dem., S. C.), who had previously blocked private bills, objected to a pension bill presented by Mr. Cannon (rep., Ill.) in the house. Mr. Cannon made a personal appeal to Talbert. He said it was the first time in twenty years that he had asked for unanimous consent. He reviewed the pathetic history of the soldier who was a constituent of his, shot to pieces and almost totally blind. Mr. Talbert was plainly touched by the appeal, and withdrew his objection.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—SENATE—The question of appropriating money for sectarian schools came in for more lively debate in the senate Monday, when the Indian appropriation bill was considered. Mr. Peffer's amendment, directing the secretary of the interior to provide temporary schools for Indian children cut off from school facilities by the closing of the sectarian schools, was adopted. The joint resolution for the appointment of Gen. Franklin, Representative Steele, Gen. Beal and Gen. Henderson as members of the board of managers of the National Soldiers' home, was adopted without debate.

HOUSE—The general deficiency bill, the last of the regular appropriations, was taken up in committee of the whole and passed. The indemnity to the Englishman Frederick Dawson, his wife and daughter for injuries inflicted in Nebraska, was ordered paid. A favorable report to the house was made on Congressman Fenton's bill to grant an honorable discharge to John K. Dixon, of Portsmouth, O. The ways and means committee of the house favorably reported the bill to permit the entry free of duty on exhibits and laborers for the Nashville, Tenn., exposition, and also Mr. Adams' bill to permit the return to the United States, free of duty, of articles or live stock sent abroad for exhibit in foreign expositions.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—SENATE—The senate spent the day on the Indian appropriation bill, but did not complete it. The sectarian school question was taken up late in the day, Senators Gallinger, Thurston and Teller opposing, and Senators Gray and Pettigrew supporting the amendment offered by Mr. Cockrell, extending for two years the time for the entire abandonment of sectarian Indian schools.

HOUSE—The house Tuesday unseated James E. Cobb (dem.), representing the Fifth Alabama district, and voted—121 to 45—to seat Albert T. Goodwin (pop.), but the point of no quorum being made the house adjourned with the final vote still pending. An effort was made to fix Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week for debate on the bankruptcy bill, but it was unsuccessful. Mr. Pickler's general pension bill will be brought up Wednesday and the debate will probably run until Friday. Bills introduced: To pension Chas. S. Spring, Sixty-fourth Ohio, and Wm. S. Laney, First Ohio; to grant an honorable discharge to Geo. Simmonds, Ninety-sixth Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—SENATE—The senate Wednesday disposed of the sectarian school question by adopting a compromise framed by Senator Cockrell, of Missouri. The Indian bill, as it came from the house, provided that "no money herein appropriated shall be paid for education in sectarian schools" This provision is struck out by the Cockrell amendment as adopted, and it is declared to be the settled policy of the government to make no appropriations for sectarian schools after July 1, 1898, thus giving two years for the abandonment of sectarian schools, instead of an immediate abandonment. The amendment was adopted by the decisive vote of 38 to 24.

HOUSE—The house entered upon the consideration of the general pension bill, reported from the invalid pension committee. The bill amends existing laws in several respects. It makes presumption of death of an enlisted man exist if no tidings have been had of him for seven years; it provides that desertion or dishonorable dismissal shall not be a bar to a pension under the act of 1890 if the enlisted man had served ninety days subsequent to such discharge; it provides that pensions allowed shall date from their first application; it fixes the maximum income of a widow entitled to a pension under the act of 1890 at $500 per annum; it provides that no pension shall be reduced or discontinued except for fraud or recovery from disability, and that discontinued pensions, when reconsidered and reallowed, shall date from their discontinuance.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—SENATE—The Indian appropriation bill was taken up in the senate, the question being on Mr. Platt's amendment to terminate the tribal relations of the Indians and divide their lands in severalty. After an amendment by Mr. Walthall (dem., Miss.) had been ruled out of order the bill passed. The sundry civil appropriation bill was taken up with the agreement that it should not displace, except temporarily, the bond resolution. Messrs. Pettigrew, Teller and Cockrell were named as conferees on the Indian bill.

HOUSE—The house renewed consideration of the Pickler general pension bill. No other business was transacted. The house committee on territories Thursday decided by a vote of 6 to 2 to report favorably a bill to admit Oklahoma to statehood. Knox and Taft, republicans, alone opposed it. Representatives interested in legislation to reduce the quantity of immigration, are still making efforts to secure consideration of one of the two bills reported from the immigration committee.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—SENATE—The senate gave Friday to the sundry civil appropriation bill without completing it. Mr. Peffer proposed modifications in the bond to meet the criticisms in the recent speech of Mr. Hill. The resolution then went over by agreement. The item of the sundry civil bill was reached authorizing the Venezuelan commission to pay rent for its quarters out of $100,000 appropriated for its expenses. Bills introduced: To increase the pension of Capt. Theodore B. Harlan; to grant honorable discharge to Turner Rogers, of Frankfort, Ky.; to pension Gen. Theodore Jones.

HOUSE—The house spent the whole day discussing the Pickler pension bill. Mr. Layton (dem., O.) criticised the section of the bill which gives pensions to deserters. He replied at length to some of the remarks made Thursday, charging the democratic party with hostility toward the Union soldiers. Mr Connoly (rep., Ill.) criticised the provisions which would grant pensions to deserters from the confederate ranks. The house nonconcurred in the senate amendments to the Indian bill and agreed to a conference. At the night session 11 private pension bills were favorably passed upon, including bills giving to the widow of Maj. Gen. Spriggs Carroll a pension of $50 per month and Gen. W. A. Morris $75.

Ill Health the Cause.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 25.—James Talent, of Walden's Ridge, committed suicide Friday morning by blowing out his brains with a shotgun. Talent had long been despondent on account of ill health. The top of his head was blown almost entirely off.

Hon. W. J. Hendrick's Seriously Ill.

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 25.—Hon. W. J. Hendricks is seriously ill at his home near this city. He was taken sick several days ago, but his condition had not been regarded as serious till Thursday night, when symptoms of typhoid fever began to develop.

NO TASTE FOR FLESH.

How the Study of Animal Life Affected One Naturalist.

A man who has made a careful study of the habits of animals and birds, and who firmly believes that birds think and are controlled by brain action in a great measure—about, if not quite as much as human beings, and not by the "overrated instinct"—told a few nights ago of the odd effect natural history had on him.

"Do you know," said he, "that since I learned that birds and mammals think, I have had a sort of spleen against flesh? When I eat a partridge I think of the bird's wiles used in its endeavors to escape the hunter's merciless shot. It is the same with the ducks, turkeys, deer and beeves, and all other flesh, but not fish. I have the dread, or feeling, that I am eating a rational being. I think that if vegetarianism ever becomes universal, it will be when we understand the thoughts of birds and mammals and are able to converse with them. We are just now entering on a wonderful field of research. We have found the door to real natural history knowledge, and we are now groping for the keyhole."

An Indian Legend.

The red men of the west have many curious legends concerning nature's marvels; none more weird than that concerning Rock lake, Washington. Since time out of memory the Indians of that vicinity have believed the lake to be the abode of a sea monster, which never grows old, and whose chief diet is Indian flesh. According to the legend, no Indian ever entered its waters and returned alive, no matter whether the rash act was committed by approaching its margin for a drink, for a swim, or for a canoe ride. So thoroughly is this belief spread among the Indians of the northwest that each and every one would prefer death to touching its waters.

Dusky Politeness.

A story of the colored man's fondness for good words is furnished by the New York Tribune. It is well up to date, and is about a venerable Philadelphia butler:

He was helping a visitor to put on her walking jacket the other day, and seeing her struggling to push in her rebellious big sleeves, he said, in his most respectful manner:

"P'r'aps you will hab de goodness to allow me to suppress dem puffs, madam."

Nervous

People find just the help they so much need, in Hood's Sarsaparilla. It furnishes the desired strength by purifying, vitalizing and enriching the blood, and thus builds up the nerves, tones the stomach and regulates the whole system. Read this;

"I want to praise Hood's Sarsaparilla. My health run down, and I had the grip. After that, my heart and nervous system were badly affected, so that I could not do my own work. Our physician gave me some help, but did not cure. I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. Soon I could do all my own housework. I have taken Hood's Pills with Hood's Sarsaparilla, and they have done me much good. I will not be without them. I have taken 13 bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and through the blessing of God, it has cured me. I worked as hard as ever the past summer, and I am thankful to say 'I am well. Hood's Pills when taken with Hood's Sarsaparilla help very much." MRS. M. M. MESSENGER, Freehold, Penn.

Cured

This and many other cures prove that

Hood's

Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1.
Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills act easily, promptly and effectively. 25 cents.

A SHINING EXAMPLE of what may be accomplished by never varying devotion to a single purpose is seen in the history of the McCormick Harvesting Machine Co., Chicago. For 65 years they have simply been building grain and grass-cutting machinery, and while there are probably forty manufacturers in this line, it is safe to say that the McCormick Company builds one-third of all the binders, reapers and mowers used throughout the entire world.

For your Protection we positively state that this remedy does not contain mercury or any other injurious drug. Nasal Catarrh is a local disease and is the result of colds and sudden climatic changes.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

Opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Protects the Membrane from Colds, Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. The Balm is quickly absorbed and gives relief at once. Price 50 cents at Druggists or by mail.
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

There is just a little appetizing bite to HIRES Rootbeer; just a smack of life and good flavor done up in temperance style. Best by any test.

Made only by The Charles E. Hires Co., Philadelphia. A 25c. package makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere.

JACKSON'S TRIAL

Pearl Bryan, the Murdered Girl, Was Beheaded While Alive.

Some Knowledge of Surgery Possessed by the Murderer—Mrs. Stanley Identifies Her Sister's Clothing, Etc.—A Dummy in Pearl's Clothing Removed.

NEWPORT, Ky., April 22.—Scott Jackson is now on trial for his life, before Judge Helm, charged with the murder of Pearl Bryan. At noon Tuesday the state had exercised one preemptory challenge of the permitted five, and had accepted eleven jurors. The defense had challenged three of the permitted fifteen. Nine jurymen had been finally accepted by the attorneys on both sides.

The Kentucky law, under which Scott Jackson stands for trial, embraces three degrees of crime—murder, voluntary manslaughter, unintentional killing.

The law upon which the jury and judge must fix their decision is as follows:

Punishment for Murder.—If any person be guilty of willful murder he shall be punished with death or confinement in the penitentiary for life, in the discretion of the jury.

Punishment for Voluntary Manslaughter.—Whoever shall be guilty of voluntary manslaughter shall be confined in the penitentiary not less than two nor more than 21 years.

SCOTT JACKSON, THE PRISONER.

Punishment for Unintentional Killing.—Any person who shall willfully strike, stab, thrust or shoot another, not designing thereby to produce or cause his death, and which is not done in self-defense or in an attempt to keep and preserve the peace, or in the lawful arrest or attempt to arrest a person charged with felony or misdemeanor, or in doing any other legal act, so that the person struck, stabbed, thrust or shot shall die thereof within six months next thereafter, shall be confined in the penitentiary not less than one nor more than six years. But this section shall not be construed to change the law of malice in respect to any other offense.

At 3:45 p. m., the last of the twelve jurors were accepted. Following are the names of the jury: Murty Shea, William White, L. Shaestein, F. B. Maiter, John M. Ensyler, John Boehmer, William Motts, George P. Stegner, John T. Backeman, Fred Giakemeyer, Jacob Krant and Willard Carr.

After the jurors were selected it was agreed to go ahead with the case. The witnesses present were sworn in and instructed by Judge Helm not to talk among themselves or with other parties regarding the case, or to suffer themselves to be talked to about the case, and that if any person or persons persisted in talking to them on the subject, it was their sworn duty to report such person or persons to the court.

Attorney Lockhart then stated the case, and then John Huling, the first witness, was called. He testified to the finding of the headless body of Pearl Bryan on Mr. Locke's farm near Fort Thomas on the morning of February 1. He described the position of the body, how the dress was arranged, and the wet condition of the ground, it having rained the day previous. Testified to noticing blood on the ground where the neck was, probably about a pint. The defense did not cross-examine Huling.

Coroner W. S. Tingley was the next witness called. He testified to holding an inquest on the dead body found at Ft. Thomas. The coroner then described the position of the body when he arrived there. The body was lying on slight rise or terrace on the abandoned roadway. The feet were upon the terrace and the body below. It was lying prone, with the trunk on the roadway. She was clothed in combination underwear, shoes, stockings, tea gown, dark blue skirt and about two feet away was a corset. A little way off we found a glove. The clothing was up about the chest, and the upper part of the clothing was soaked with blood.

The blood had soaked in the clothing and clots of blood were on the terrace, one large clot on top of the terrace. The head was gone; I think it had been carried away. He saw leaves of the privet bushes on which was blood. I found a pair of rubbers on her feet. Soiled to an extent. Dirty in different parts. There was no thick clay on them, however, to indicate that they had been worn to walk on the ground where the body was found.

On viewing the stump of the neck I found an irregular cut on the back, and upon turning it over found a smooth cut. The incision was as though a clean disarticulation had been attempted. Also noticed cuts across the fingers of the left hand, also cuts across the palm diagonally. The wounds were of recent origin. The coroner testified that he thought the head was cut off at the place where the body was found and that the heart was still beating when the artery was severed. The head must have been severed by an expert, as shown by the clearness of the disarticulation. The fœtus was in a healthy condition, and from indications must have been alive up to the time of the woman's death. Witness was then cross-examined by Attorney Crawford, but nothing new was elicited. Adjourned until Wednesday.

NEWPORT, Ky., April 21.—The most damaging testimony offered Wednesday was that of Dr. Robert Carothers, who performed the postmortem examinations. His opinion was that the girl was beheaded while she was still alive.

The relatives of Pearl Bryan, led by the hoary father and the aged mother, had hardly taken their seats after being sworn, when Deputy Sheriff Hindman brought into court from the clerk's office and placed in front of the witness stand a lay figure dressed in the wrapper that Pearl Bryan wore at the time of her death.

The garment was a growsome sight, covered as it was in part with the stains of mud and blood. Especially was the bodice stained heavily. Hindman placed the figure erect under Attorney Lockhart's directions and retired. Attorney Crawford sprang to his feet. "I object," said he, "to such a display in this court."

"I think that the lay figure should be removed," said the judge. "It is too suggestive."

The figure was then removed and the dress thrown on a table.

Coroner Tingley was recalled. His examination occupied about ten minutes. He identified all the clothing that had in the meantime been placed on the table.

Mrs. Stanley, sister of Pearl Bryan, took the stand. She said: "She was my sister. She left Greencastle on Monday afternoon, January 27. I have never seen her since alive. I saw her body a week after the following Saturday in the morgue in Newport. We looked upon her in death. She was robed in homely white. I did recognize the body as my sister's. I feel I could have fully recognized her without any marks by her limbs, her arms, her bust, her figure. She had a wart on her thimble finger. She had often spoken of taking the wart off, because it hurt her when she used the thimble. The wart was taken off a couple of weeks before she left home. There was another wart on the inside of her left thumb. There was a scar from an old cut on her left hand, between the first and middle fingers.

"On the right foot, between the second and third toes, there was a slight growth of flesh. It was a deformity and could scarcely be called a deformity.

"I found the scar of a wart on the thimble finger of the corpse and another scar from a wart on the thumb of the left hand. I found on the hand the scar of a cut which I distinctly remembered my sister sustained."

The bloody dress, the stained underwear and the other [illegible] were spread in full view before the witness box. Mrs. Stanley leaned forward; and with wonderful composure, considering what she has suffered, she identified the blue skirt, the underwear and the green figured dress of Pearl Bryan.

The valise, shoes, hat, etc., of the murdered girl were also described and positively identified by the witness.

Mrs. Stanley testified she knew Scott Jackson from seeing him twice on the streets during the holidays. Jackson was then face to face with the witness.

"That is Scott Jackson," she said.

Mrs. Stanley was not cross-examined by the defense.

Druggist Joseph E. Peery, of Greencastle, who is only 18 years old, took the stand. He identified the pocketbook found in Scott Jackson's valise as one which he sold Pearl Bryan January 23. The cost mark on the pocketbook assisted him in making its identification complete. He had similar pocketbooks in his stock, but none have been sold.

Dr. Robert Carothers, who conducted the autopsies on the dead body, was placed on the stand, and testified that the body was that of a woman perfectly healthy till her death. He also testified to finding the unborn child. It was of about five months' gestation, and he thought it was quickened. It was a male. The stub of the neck indicated that decapitation was done cleanly, with a sharp instrument, except at one part of the neck, in front and to the right, which was ragged. The skin was contracted. The witness believed that the person who cut off the head had some knowledge of the art. It could be done with a dissecting knife about two inches long. He believed death took place after decapitation. The witness was severely cross-examined by the defense. The doctor said he judged that decapitation took place in life from the absence of blood in the body, from the abrasion of the skin, lack of post-mortem discoloration and absence of rigor mortis.

Attorney Crawford endeavored to make the doctor admit that a "retraction" of the wound in the hand would have taken place if it had been inflicted after death, but the doctor insisted that such would not be the case. He also answered "No" to a question as to whether the conditions of the body might not indicate that the girl was asphyxiated and then beheaded.

Dentist Gillespie, of Greencastle, Ind., was called. Dr. Gillespie identified several letters written to him by Scott Jackson. He testified to seeing Jackson with Pearl Bryan frequently in Greencastle. One day Jackson came to the witness and said he was in a great deal of trouble over Pearl and wanted to know what to do. Witness told him he had better marry her; he said he could never do that. That was about five days before Jackson returned to Cincinnati during the holidays.

Mayor Caldwell, of Cincinati, was then called and narrated the statements Jackson had made to him after his arrest, all of which has been published.

Dr. J. O. Jenkins was the next and last witness called for the day. He stated that he was a practicing physician and surgeon in Newport, Ky., where he had lived for 15 years, and that he assisted the coroner and other physicians in the post-mortem examination on the body of the woman found near Fort Thomas, being present as a spectator and investigator.

He recited at length the findings of the examination, stating the condition of the various parts of the body, in all of which he corroborated the facts brought out by the testimony of Dr. Tingley and Dr. Carothers.

NEWPORT, Ky., April 24.—Court opened at 9:32 Thursday morning. After the prisoner was brought into the courtroom, Health Officer J. O. Jenkins was cross examined by Attorney Crawford.

"The cuts on the hand would not indicate that the head was cut off during life—not strictly," the witness said. The cuts on Pearl Bryan's hands were found slightly open, and the prosecution, through Dr. Carothers and Coroner Tingley, assert that this condition proved the girl was alive when her head was severed. The object of Crawford's cross-examination was to disprove this.

PEARL BRYAN, THE MURDERED GIRL.

He said that rigor mortis had passed off in the case of Pearl Bryan's body before the autopsy, and if rigor mortis had passed away there could be a retraction of the skin. There are some circumstances, as poison action, excessive bodily heat or cold, watery condition of blood vessels, lack of oxygen, and there may be other conditions, that might cause suspension of coagulation of blood in the body after death. The drugs are chlorine and carbonic acid. It is an undecided question if chloroform would cause a suspension of coagulation. Chloroform kills by paralyzing the heart. It suspends the contraction of the smaller arteries and tissues. Dr. Jenkins said there was possibly two pounds of blood in the body when the autopsies were made. This showed that about eight pounds or pints had flowed out.

On redirect examination Dr. Jenkins said that in the autopsies no abnormal condition of any part of the body was found. No sign of any disease that might retard the coagulation of the blood was found. An incision in a dead body may cause the wound to gape, but not the skin, the latter being the case in the wounds on Pearl Bryan's neck and hand.

The doctor said that in the autopsy no sign of any drug was found in the body that would have a tendency to retard coagulation, but chloroform evaporates very quickly.

The prosecution said that Dr. F. W. Fishback would be the last physician they would put on the stand. He assisted in the autopsy on Pearl Bryan's body. The head had evidently been cut off by a knife, passing from left to right. It was a clean cut, but for evidence of hacking on the vertebræ. He said the blood clot in the pulmonary artery was four inches from the heart. The other doctor said one inch. Otherwise he corroborated the testimony of the previous experts.

He said if the head was cut off before the heart ceased to contract the blood would be drained from the body completely. If cut off five minutes after death the blood would leave only by gravitation.

Col. Nelson asked the witness what the blood spattered on the privet bushes would indicate. Crawford objected to the broad manner in which the question was asked.

Judge Helm put the question. Dr. Fishback said the spurting came from a live body. The cross-examination then began.

Dr. Fishback contradicted Jenkins on several technical points regarding the coagulation of blood.

A bunch of white wild flowers were on Judge Helm's bench when he opened court at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The judge consulted a law book several minutes and Commonwealth attorney Lockhart stepped forward and talked with the judge. Neither Attorney Crawford nor his client, Scott Jackson, had entered.

When Col. Crawford came he also had a private conversation with Judge Helm.

The court said: "I understand that the prosecution has decided not to present arguments."

"Yes, sir."

Speaking to the jurors, the court said:

"Judge Caldwell Wednesday said certain things that Alonzo Walling told in the presence of Scott Jackson. You are to determine by the evidence that will be offered whether Jackson by his conduct admitted on that occasion the truth of Walling's charges. That is all."

The points involved in this decision, as shown by Mayor Caldwell's testimony, are Walling's [illegible]: Jackson told him Pearl Bryan was in trouble, that he wanted to poison her, and that he would cut her body to pieces.

Edgar Schofield was the first witness called by the prosecution at the afternoon session of the court. He testified to being the agent by whom the stomach of Pearl Bryan and its contents were taken to Dr. W. H. Crane, in Cincinnati.

JUDGE HELM.

Dr. W. D. Litter, of near Leesburgh, Ky., followed Dr. Schofield. He knew Scott Jackson for six months prior to his arrest, and not very well. The acquaintance was begun at his room in Cincinnati, and he saw little of him. He was present at a conversation between Jackson and Walling about the effects of cocaine in the two prisoners' room. This was about ten days before the finding of the body. The witness was passing the room and Jackson called him in. Jackson said that he had claimed that one grain of cocaine in a gramme of water would have the same effect as the same amount in one-half gramme, and Walling claimed it would not, and they wanted the witness' opinion. The witness said that it was his opinion it would.

Mrs. Bryan, Pearl's mother, was the next examined.

She testified to the fact that Scott Jackson had been a frequent caller at her home in Greencastle and often took Pearl out riding in a buggy. She identified the clothing on exhibition as that of her daughter.

Dr. H. C. Uhlen, a Cincinnati druggist, testified to selling Jackson cocaine a few days before the finding of the body.

Mrs. Mary Morgan testified as to how and when she found the hat and handkerchief of Pearl Bryan. Undertaker White described the embalming of the body and its identification.

Fred Bryan, brother of the murdered girl, was then put on the stand and testified to his engaging Undertaker White to embalm the body of his sister. The remains were taken to Greencastle, identified by his father, mother and other members of the family, and then placed in a vault. He also testified to Scott Jackson calling on Pearl frequently. Witness identified the satchel that Pearl brought to Cincinnati as one he bought in Indianapolis five years ago. He drew from his pocket a bunch of keys, one of which he placed in the lock and turned, and having locked it handed it to Col. Nelson. The key was entered in evidence. The witness then pointed out Scott Jackson to the court.

Mr. Bryan was then cross-examined as to his acquaintance with Will Wood. The witness said that Wood was a frequent caller at the house, and was the one who introduced Jackson to his sister Pearl.

Allen Johnson, a colored porter, was the first witness examined Thursday. He testified to knowing both Jackson and Walling for some months. Jackson called at the saloon of Dave Wallingford, where witness worked, with a woman, and remained in the ladies room about fifteen minutes. Jackson borrowed two dollars from Wallingford. Walling was at the George [illegible] saloon. This was on Friday, January 31. Jackson and the girl drove away in a cab. Johnson identified Pearl's clothing spread before him as the ones the girl wore that night. Witness said that the woman with Jackson was not of the class that generally visited the saloon. On cross-examination by Col. Crawford the witness said he was not mistaken as to the date of Jackson's and the girl's visit to the saloon.

Allen Johnson, in his sworn statement, said that Attorney Shepherd, of the defense, had offered to make it pay him (Johnson) if he would not be a witness. Adjourned until Friday morning.

NEWPORT, Ky., April 25.—Friday morning the cross-examination of Allen Johnson continued. The defense failed to break down the testimony wherein the colored porter said that Pearl Bryan was at Wallingford's saloon with Jackson on the night before the murder.

Mrs. Bryan was recalled and spoke of Pearl's confiding nature and inexperience in the ways of the world.

The prosecution put L. D. Poock, the Newport shoe dealer, on the stand. Poock stated that he merely knew Scott Jackson when he saw him. "I was present in Col. Dietsch's office February 6 and heard Scott Jackson say, 'Shall I tell it in my own words?'"

"I object," exclaimed Col. Crawford. "I suppose we are now to hear a supposed confession. It must first be shown that such a confession was voluntary. I can show you the section in the first Greenleaf."

The book was sent for, and handed to Attorney Crawford. When he found section 219 he read in substance: "Evidence must be addressed to the judge to prove that confession in a third party's presence was made without fear."

The court ruled that the prosecution might go ahead with its questions, it being the presumption that the conditions under which the confession was made were proper.

Crawford filed an exception and the testimony proceeded.

"Scott Jackson was brought in and Chief Deitsch asked Mr. Kuegel if he knew who Jackson was. He said: 'Yes, that is the man who brought me a valise and asked me not to give it to any one. Jackson said he knew Kuegel, and admitted having left the valise in Kuegel's place.

"Kuegel identified the valise. Then Jackson was asked about it, and said: 'Yes, that is Pearl Bryan's valise. She brought it with her. She had her clothes in it.'

Deitsch put the valise on Jackson's knee. He told Jackson to open the valise and put his hand in it. Jackson hesitated, but he opened the valise and put his hand in it.

"'What are those stains?'

"'They look like bloodstains,' answered Jackson.

"'Are they bloodstains?' asked Deitsch.

"'Yes, they are,' he replied.

"'Was Pearl Bryan's head in that valise?' Deitsch asked.

"'Yes, it must have been, but I am not certain,' Jackson answered.

"'Did you leave the valise at the saloon?' asked Deitsch.

"'No, Walling did,' answered Jackson.

"'What became of her clothes?' asked Deitsch.

"'I made several trips to the river and disposed of them,' Jackson replied.

"'What became of the head?' Col. Deitsch asked.

"'Was cut up in pieces and then thrown away,' the prisoner answered.

"At that time," Poock continued, "I was called out of the office."

Poock then identified Pearl Bryan's valise as the one which was on Jackson's knee during this conversation. The bloody satchel was again handed to the jury for identification in this connection and passed from man to man.

Poock took up the famous clew of the little cloth-topped shoes. "I have been in the boot and shoe business since 1877," he began. "I formerly traveled for wholesalers, but have been in the retail business for three years for myself."

The dead girl's shoes were handed to the witness, and he continued: "I first saw these shoes in a room adjoining White's morgue, in Newport, with the other articles found with the body. These are the rubbers I saw there."

"We retailers sell very few of these shoes—so narrow and small. There is a French system of marks, and this shoe is stamped in that system 22-11. There is also a stock number, 62,458, in the shoes. There is also a re-[illegible] Louis & [illegible] Greencastle, Ind."

"Where were these shoes made?" asked Attorney Lockhart.

"At Portsmouth, O., by Drew, Selby & Co. The rubbers were made in Williamsport, Pa."

"Mr. Poock," asked Col. Crawford, in cross-examination, "how did you first come to go to Col. Deitsch's office?"

"Through interest. I have taken a deep interest in this case. I had gone to Portsmouth and found that the shoes were made there."

"Isn't it possible," asked Crawford, "that you may be mistaken as to what took place in Col. Deitsch's office?"

"No, I don't think I can ever forget that scene. It can never be wiped out of my memory."

"Aren't you anxious that Jackson be convicted?" Crawford asked quizzically.

"No. I went to Portsmouth at the instance of the county authorities. I have been to Greencastle once, but I had been to Lafayette to see my brother and dropped down that far."

Dr. W. H. Crane, of Cincinnati, then stood up and was sworn. He testified that the stomach of Pearl Bryan was brought to him for analysis. The doctor stated he made a number of tests which corroborated each other, and showed cocaine present in the stomach. He tasted the crystals, and his tongue was numbed. He tried it on the eye of a rabbit; the cornea was enlarged, and touched the cornea several times with a match without sensation. Ordinarily the cornea is extremely sensitive to the least touch.

"In the portion of the stomach I analyzed I found one and a half grains of cocaine. I think it entered the system through the mouth. The membrane of the stomach, however, sometimes gives off a little cocaine if given by a hypodermic injection. The arsenic and mercury came from the embalming fluid. I am sure. They could not have been taken in by the mouth. The cocaine could not have come from the embalming fluid. There were more than two grains of cocaine in the stomach. I recall only two instances in which cocaine was introduced to produce criminal operations. Both failed. They are the only ones I know of in medical records."

There was no trace of chloroform, the embalming fluid would destroy that, however.

Dr. William Dickore, the chemist who analyzed the mud stains on Jackson's trousers, testified that he found the mud to be identical in nature with that at the spot where the body was found.

At the afternoon session Dr. Dickore stated that he also analyzed the mud stains on the inside of the valise and found them likewise to be of the same character as the soil on the Locke farm.

Jackson's coat found in the sewer was then shown to the witness. Much to Jackson's delight Prof. Dickore said he found no traces of blood spots on it. Col. Nelson said he would show that the gases and refuse in the sewer would sweep away all blood stains, and asked the witness what the effect of sewer gases and refuse would have on the coat.

"It would dissolve the blood, the sewer water would wash out the blood, I think."

Will Wood, son of a Greencastle minister and a cousin of Pearl Bryan, was called Friday afternoon to the stand. Questioned by Col. Nelson he said that his relations were quite confidential with Jackson.

Wood told of Jackson's acquaintance with Pearl Bryan, and of his statement that he had sustained illicit relations with her. The witness said that after Jackson left Greencastle he wrote him, inclosing the prescription for a medicine intended to produce an abortion. Instead of having the prescription filled the witness merely gave it to Pearl. Witness admitted that he knew Pearl was going to Cincinnati to escape the consequences of her shame, leaving her parents with the idea that she was going to visit her brother in Indianapolis. Wood went on to tell of a letter from Jackson to him, received on the day after the murder, and another which was mailed to him on February 5, four days after the murder, but intercepted by the police. "The first letter," said the witness, began: "I've made a big mistake. I want you to stand by me,' and then, in the words of the witness, 'went on in a raving manner.'" This letter the witness said he destroyed. The second letter was offered in evidence. It certainly indicated that the relations between Wood and Jackson were quite confidential.

Four nights after the murder he got paper and envelope at the palace hotel and wrote a letter to the cousin of the girl, then in Crawfordsville, who knew that she was coming to Cincinnati to leave her fate in his hands. There was the desperation of still terror [illegible] beginning of that missive. "Write a letter home and tell Bird's folks that she has gone away to Chicago and that she has not been at I——," it said. "Tell them she's tired living at home or anything you want. Get the letter off without a second's delay. Be careful what you write me." Then, as though to reassure the man to whom this desperate duty was confided, the writer adds: "Glad to hear you're having a good time."

ATTORNEY LOCKHART.

This letter never reached Will Wood. While it was on the way detectives at Greencastle discovered that the dead woman wore Pearl Bryan's shoes. Scott Jackson and Alonzo Walling were arrested for the murder, and Will Wood was taken into custody as their accomplice. The letter was intercepted by the police at the post office in Greencastle. It was offered Thursday in evidence and read in court. Scott Jackson heard it read without a tremor. Will Wood then testified that his relations with Pearl Bryan had always been innocent.

Cross-examined by Mr. Crawford, Will Wood spent a half hour which he will probably remember for some time. The attorney was cool and deliberate. He referred frequently to sworn depositions which were on the table before him. He asked him if he had not admitted to William J. Groom, of Greencastle, that he had a girl in trouble. He asked him if he had not boasted of his relations with Pearl Bryan in a conversation with Edward Hunt in Indianapolis. He asked him if he had not told Homer Newhous, at Greencastle, that on one occasion, when the Bryans were away, he had found Pearl alone and in bed and had occupied the room with her. There were more questions of a similar import. To all of them Wood replied positively in the negative. Before Wood left the stand Mr. Crawford made a demand upon the prosecution to produce two letters written by Wood to Jackson and found in Jackson's possession. The letters were not forthcoming, and Mr. Crawford was given permission to recall Wood when the letters shall have been obtained. Mr. Crawford made a further examination of the witness, his questions being based upon the hypothesis that the case against Wood had been nollied in consideration of his appearance as a witness against Jackson.

John Bell, a cabman, was the next witness. He testified that he had driven Pearl Bryan from the station to the Palace hotel, and later to the medical college, in search of Jackson. He then took her to the Indiana house, and on the next morning carried a message from Jackson to her.

NEWPORT, Ky., April 27.—A large part of Saturday morning's testimony was taken up with a description of the scene where the body was found by Judge Bennett, D. W. Weaver, William Newell and W. S. Boyce. The damaging evidence brought out was that the blood on the privet bushes was wet when the body was found. A witness named Boyd found three knife cuts in the ground where the missing head should have been.

Mrs. Bryan was recalled and produced a lock of Pearl's [illegible] and her picture.

W. D. Pinkard testified to seeing a girl who looked like Pearl back of the Atlantic Garden with Jackson and Walling the afternoon before the murder.

The prosecution next turned its attention to the clews unearthed in Bellevue, Ky., and Druggist W. L. Foertmeyer was put on the stand.

"The first time I saw Scott Jackson was on Thursday or Friday before the murder. He was in company with a dark young man, whom I have since identified as Alonzo Walling, and a blonde young woman.

"I can not give a very good description of the young woman. I saw the left side of her face. The wind was blowing her cape about her. She was clutching at her hat, which had feathers on it. She was plump, and her fresh, clean appearance showed she was from the country.

She stood in front of my store, and Jackson and the dark young man came into my store. All my conversation was with the dark young man."

"I object to what was said," exclaimed Crawford, but he was overruled.

The witness then [illegible] that the dark-complexioned man inquired if there was a skiff ferry at the foot of Washington street, Bellevue.

"I said no. He bought a cigar and the two went out. They and the girl went east toward Dayton. The dark young man asked what was the most direct way to Walnut Hills. I said by the Dayton ferry."

"How are you able to fix the time?"

"It was about eleven o'clock Friday, possibly Thursday. The way I fix the day is because it's the rule in the store to clean the windows on Friday, and the boy had just cleaned the windows.

"I got a telephone message from Scott Jackson," Foertmeyer said. The objection of the defense stopped any further testimony along this line, disappointing a huge curiosity. Further questioning brought out the fact that the druggist saw the girl and her two companions going down the west side of Washington avenue a half hour after they left the store.

"Is there any doubt about Scott Jackson here being the man who came into your store?"

"There is none," the druggist replied, and his voice was determined.

After the prosecution ended its questions Attorney Crawford moved that all evidence whatever regarding the telephone message be stricken out.

"I am inclined to give the defendant the benefit of a doubt," the court said. "It will be stricken out."

"Have you seen Jackson or Walling since then?" asked Col. Crawford.

"Yes, sir."

"Where?"

"Once in the Hamilton county jail and once in the Newport jail."

"Did you ask to see them?"

"No, sir."

"What did you go to the Newport jail for?"

"At the request of the sheriff."

"What for?"

"To accompany Mrs. Holmes, one of the witnesses at Bellevue, who wanted to identify the prisoners."

Col. Nelson: "What was your best judgment of the day you saw Jackson and Walling and the woman were in Bellevue?"

"I think Friday morning."

Mrs. Kotie Holmes, of Bellevue, was the next witness. Col. Lockhart examined her. She said she had lived in Bellevue four years, on Washington avenue. She testified that she saw Scott Jackson on Washington avenue, I believe, but was not positive. He was with a dark complexioned man and a lady. The man was Walling. This was either on Thursday or Friday. The dark complexioned man talked to Mr. Foster, while the other man and the lady stood back a little bit. This was at the foot of Washington avenue. The witness was washing windows at the time. They stood there about fifteen minutes. Saw them go down Washington avenue and come back.

"Did you notice the lady with the men?"

"Yes, pretty closely. She was a country girl." Mrs. Holmes then described Pearl Bryan and the clothing she wore. She was then excused, and John Foster called. The defense did not question Mrs. Holmes.

Col. Lockhart examined Mr. Foster. Said he lived at No. 24 Washington avenue, Bellevue. Knew Jackson and pointed him out to the court. Saw Jackson in front of his house foot of Washington avenue, with a woman and a dark complexioned man, Thursday morning at 11 o'clock, January 30. The woman was a blonde, fair complexioned, and wore a black hat with black feathers and red on it.

"Did you notice anything particular about the woman?"

No, excepting that she was rather slovenly dressed and appeared countrified."

Witness was turned over to the defense, who did not want to examine him. He was then excused.

At the afternoon session ex-Sergeant of Police Stegner was called by the prosecution. He was not in readiness and the sheriff was asked to bring Joseph Kugel, the saloonkeeper at Ninth and Central avenue, Cincinnati.

His story on the stand was this: "I have known Scott Jackson and Alonzo Walling since December, 1895. They used to come into my place almost every night and would drink.

"The last time I saw Scott Jackson was Monday night between nine and ten o'clock, after the headless body of a woman was found at Ft. Thomas. He took a glass of beer and gave me that satchel there. He told me not to give it to anybody but himself. I did not open the satchel. I kept the satchel until Thursday morning. I read then that Jackson had been arrested, and went over to the police station and told them I had a satchel Jackson left with me.

"Fred Albion came several times to my place, always by himself."

"Did Scott Jackson or Alonzo Walling come to your place and inquire for the other?"

"Jackson came one night, and said if Walling came to tell him to wait until 11 o'clock. I don't remember what night it was. Jackson came back about 11 o'clock, but Walling was not there. It was a short time before the murder. It was in the same week."

Walling came in about 10.30 o'clock, but he did not wait. He was there only a few minutes."

Detective Herman J. Witte next stood in the witness box and was sworn. "I got a coat and vest from a catch basin at Richmond and John streets. It was about February 11."

Witte described the condition of the coat as wet and slimy. There were bloodstains, apparently, on the coat when it was taken out of the sewer, but the detective thought the stains had since faded.

Lieut. Renkert was not allowed to testify to the alleged confession of Jackson in Col. Deitsch's office, Judge Helm overruling his former decision, stating that after consultation of the New York legal authorities he had come to the conclusion that the prosecution would first have to present testimony to show that the alleged confession was made under circumstances that were entirely proper and that there was no duress.

Pat Kinney, watchman at the Grand Central depot, testified to seeing Pearl Bryan and Walling together on the afternoon of January 31. The lady was crying. They sat in the waiting room for two hours. Witness watched the couple and they did not take a train, but got up and walked out about 4.10.

Aloysius Stenzer, saloonkeeper, testified to Scott Jackson being in the habit of carrying a scalpel in his pocket.

Lieut. Renkert was recalled and testified to recovering a small valise, the one owned by Mrs. Stanley, from a barber shop. The valise was at the wash stand of Fred Albion. Walling told the witness where he could get it.

Detective Bulmer was then put on the stand and testified to the arrest of Jackson. When searched Jackson had in his possession three handkerchiefs, three or four tickets, one of which was a bridge ticket. The handkerchiefs were then identified, also the tickets.

The Santa Eulalia mines, 14 miles from Chihuahua, Mex., has caved in and 43 men are entombed. Seven have been taken out dead and 13 wounded. Some of the men will die.

HUMOROUS.

—"And will you love me eternally?" Lieutenant—"How can you ask such a question? I always love eternally."—Fliegende Blatter.

—Yeast—"Did the colonel draw his sword in defense of his country?" Crimsonbeak—"No; only a pension."—Yonkers Statesman.

—Mother—"And are you sure that he loves you?" Daughter—"Of course I am! Can't I see how he stares at me whenever I am not looking at him?"—Fliegende Blatter.

—Binks—"There really is some honor about thieves." Waglets—"How's that?" Binks—"A burglar tried to break into my house last night. I fired at him." Waglets—"Well?" Binks—"With a keen sense of the obligation I had conferred upon him he promptly returned the fire."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

—Inquiring Tourist (in an Oklahoma restaurant)—"This is a novel idea of yours, surely, calling your guest to dinner by firing off one barrel of your shotgun. But, pardon me, why do you discharge only one barrel?" Proprietor Early Bird Restaurant—"I keep the other bar'l to collect payment for the dinner with."—Harper's Bazar.

—Mr. Huggins and Miss Dimple had been discussing marriage in an impersonal manner, when the young lady announced her preference in this way: "The man I marry must be handsome, talented, amiable, courageous, and without a fault of any sort whatever." "This is very sudden," replied Mr. Huggins. "I thoroughly appreciate the honor you confer upon me, but you will give me a week to consider, I suppose."—Harper's Bazar.

—Not Up to Expectations.—City Nephew—"Suppose we try an omelet, Uncle Jerry. That's one of the specialties at this restaurant." Uncle Jerry (from Upcreek)—"All right. That'll suit me as well as anything." City Nephew (to the waiter)—"Bring us two omelets." Uncle Jerry (a few minutes later)—"I don't know what you've got, George, but they've brought me some baked custard 'thout any sugar in it."—Chicago Tribune.

WHY CRIME FLOURISHES.

It Is Regarded as Honorable in Certain Quarters.

I was going in the recorder's court the other afternoon when I met an old woman coming out, and as she had a happy look on her face I jumped to the conclusion that some prisoner in whom she was interested had been set at liberty.

"Say!" she whispered, as she laid a detaining hand on my arm, "did yees hear what the recorder had to say to me son Jimmy in there?"

"No, ma'am; I'm just going in."

"Ah! sir, it was something to make the folks in Cherry street who have been crowing over me take a back seat. He talked to me Jimmy fur at least five minutes."

"Is Jimmy your son?"

"He's nothing less, sir, and a bewtiful boy he is, too. He was arrested wid de gang fur robbin' a shoe store. The folks in Cherry street, who are jealous of me and Jimmy, you know, was tellin' around that he'd get off with 60 days at most, while the others would git at least three years apiece. I couldn't sleep last night fur fear they'd have something new to crow over."

"Has Jimmy been sentenced?"

"Indeed, he has, and not five minutes ago. He walked in as proud as you please and he never shifted a leg while his honor was talking to him. It was his first time, sir, but if he'd a-bin your brother you'd a-bin proud to own him."

"What was his sentence?"

"Five years, sir—five years at Sing Sing, and that was a year more than any of the rest got. They was from Cherry street and it took 'em aback more than I can tell ye."

"And you are rejoicing because your son has been sent to prison for five years!"

"Phist! It's proud and rejoicing I am to know that if he had to go his honor took him for the leader of the gang and made it five years instead of 60 days. That makes him a boy to be looked up to, and I'll hear no more from the Cherry street folks as was boasting that me Jimmy was only a kid and would be put to bed in the Tombs!"—Detroit Free Press.

The Obstacle to International Arbitration.

The real obstacle in the way of international arbitration is not so much a lack of efficacy in the method, as the lack of a disposition to try it. The system of arbitration necessarily presupposes that nations desire an amicable adjustment of their differences. Such an adjustment may be prevented either by a wilful opposition to it, or by the adoption of a style of controversy that renders argument impracticable. Against such obstacles it is difficult to contend, since their direct tendency and effect is to bring about a collision before an arbitrator can intervene. It is obvious that arbitration can no more afford an absolute safeguard against such contingencies than can a system of municipal law absolutely prevent men from attempting to settle their differences by fighting in the street, if they desire thus to revert to primal conditions. Yet severe penalties, strictly enforced, may reduce such chances to a minimum; and it is conceivable that a scheme of international action might be devised so comprehensive as to render a resort to war exceedingly difficult and hazardous.—Century.

A Delicious Beverage.

When grapes are plentiful a most delicate and delightful beverage may be obtained by pressing the juice from the grapes. Little presses are to be had for the purpose. But many grapes are necessary to make this delicious drink. Thus treated, the useless seeds, skins and pulp are prevented from burdening and taxing the digestive apparatus; and nothing can be nicer than this fresh, rich, grape juice.—Womankind.

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER.

Wednesday. April 29. 1896.

Rates of Subscription:

One year....................................	$1 50.
Six months..................................	75.
Three months..............................	40.

☞ Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER
SOLICITS YOUR Job Work,
NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS,
Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.
Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

James Oney, aged 115 years, died at Lexington Thursday.

Ludlow is erecting one of the finest new school buildings in the State.

The apple-bloom is light in consequence of the heavy strains on the trees last year.

Edward W. Cox, of Anderson county, is ninety-five years old and never rode on a railroad train in his life.

Miss Eliza Jones, died at Union City. She requested that her Bible be buried with her as a "passport to a better world."

Dr. W. Godfrey Hunter claims that if he had been elected Senator Governor Bradley would have had a solid delegation at St. Louis.

Wm. Bramel, a morphine fiend, committed suicide at Mt. Gilead. He was found sitting in a chair with his throat cut from ear to ear.

In Harrison county, James Daugherty shot a small bird which fell near an old tomato can. Strange to say, the can contained four gold watches, all running.

A human hand was found lying in the public road in Campbell county, one day last week. The cororner gave it as his opinion that it came out of a medical college.

At the Western Lunatic Asylum the female attendants threaten to leave in a body because a man and woman objectionable to them were hired.

The finding of the body of Mrs. Orpha Stanley's infant in a spring caused the mother's arrest for its murder, near Louisa. She was tried and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

Johnny Case, 7, of Murphyville, while riding on a fodder sled with his feet hanging over the sides, accidentally got his feet caught in a root and his leg was literally torn from his body.

The large saw-mill at Clay City that had not been operated since September has resumed. The log booms of the mill are filled to their utmost capacity, and the managers expect to run eight months.

J. C. Wood, a prisoner in the county jail, at Lexington, ate soap so as to make him just ill enough to have the guards relax their vigilancs over him and give him a chance to escape. He was found out.

Seiners and dynamiters should remember that it is unlawful to use a seine of any kind at any time in any stream or pond in Kentucky, excepting those bordering on other States. Grand juries will investigate all violations.

The woods and mountains southeast of Preston have been burning at different places nearly incessantly since last fall. The fires have been very conspicuous the past week and appear to be doing considerable damage.—Owingsville Outlook.

On Jennie's Creek, Johnson county Mrs. George N. Walter's clothing caught fire at a drying kiln. She ran by a barn containing 200 barrels of corn and it caught fire and burned down. She jumped into the creek and was taken out nearly dead. Her four-year-old daughter also caught fire and was badly burned.

Lieutenant Governor Worthington, in response to the resolutions of the Carlisle Club censuring him for not calling a special election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Weissinger, says that he had no sinister motive and postponed the call because requested to do so and because an extra session was unlikely.

The Murray Ledger tells of a long-standing lawsuit: "There is a suit still on in the courts here which began in 1867 in Marshall county. It first started about a saw mill, and lands also became involved. It is known as the Curd-Starks case. During the twenty-eight years it has been on the docket many lawyers connected with it have died, and the case bids fair to outlive many more. Anderson, Tice, Crossland, Weathers, Gilbert and others in their palmiest days tried to adjust the matter, but without decisive results. Litigation is a wonderful thing. It makes lawyers rich and clients poor. Yet nearly every fellow is ready to go to law upon the slightest provocation."

OUR NEIGHBORS

CARROLL COUNTY

[News]

The condition of Rev. Dr. Robert Hiner is about the same and there seems little chance for his recovery. His pulse was only 36 and it hardly seems possible to bring him through, although every attention is paid him by his devoted family and physician.

Col. T. B. Mathews was in town yesterday in the interest of the packet, Levi J. Workum, and she will extend her trip here next Saturday, to find out if it will pay her to continue.

At the sale of R. L. Vallandingham last Saturday a good crowd was in attendance and bidding was spirited. Auctioneer Morrow reports everything as selling well except horses.

Tobacco is a drag on the market and the knowing ones say that there is a combination among the buyers for the big manufacturers to keep prices down.

—§§—

GRANT COUNTY

[Courier]

The drouth has stimulated the tobacco market sufficiently to induce some of the local shippers to go to the country and try their hand at purchasing the weed.

Two representatives of the Salvation Army visited Williamstown last week, distributing tracts and holding religious services in the court house yard in the afternoon and at the M. E. church at night.

J. W. Chipman met with a painful accident last week. He passed into a stall occupied by one of his horses, and carrying upon his arm a basket of corn, he gently touched the horse in the side, the horse turned and grabbed his thumb between its teeth and nearly severed that member from the hand.

The petitions from every voting precinct in the county are now in the hands of Judge J. D. McMillan, and a special election will be called in June to determine the sense of the voters on the local option question.

The following committee will appear before the Board of Equalization on next Tuesday to plead for a reduction in the proposed raise of assessment of Grant county property: A. G. DeJarnette, J. H. Westover, U. Harrison, G. Y. Evans, and Judge J. D. McMillan. It is hoped the committee will succeed in getting the proposed raise reduced from 40 per cent. to 20 per cent. as the assessment of Grant county property is too high at the present time. The 40 per cent. if adhered to will make this county pay about $2,500 in taxes to the State more than last year.

—§§—

OWEN COUNTY

[News]

Many farmers have been watering their tobacco plants.

The peach growers in the Kentucky river bottoms are complaining of the trees dropping the bud.

Willis Farrow, living on J. B. Gibson's farm on the Sparta pike, had a horse stolen from his stable last Thursday night.

Harvey Branch, a prosperous farmer of Trimble county took rough on rats and was found dead near his residence.

William Snelson, son of Jailer Snelson died at the home of Tuck Lyons, at Sweet Owen, last Eriday after a protracted illness of some weeks.

Tobacco beds are fine so far, and if something unusual don't occur between now and then, there will be no dearth of plants.

The Board of State Supervisors have notified Judge Lee that Owen county will suffer a raise of 12 per cent on farm lands and 16 per cent on town property unless they can be convinced otherwise.

The prospects for cut worms this season are about as favorable as ever heretofore known, if other soil produces as a spot on the farm of A. M. Glass, near Cancy. Around one beet root he reports the capture of 261 worms.

Dr. W. E. Foster made a narrow escape from what might have proven a serious accident last Friday on the Sparta pike opposite the Mundy property. He was driving down the road and when at this place his horse became frightened at a pile of sod near the road side, whirled and ran over the high embankment. The doctor was able to get, or fall out of the buggy as it went over, and escaped injury. The horse ran up the embankment, tearing himself loose from the buggy and demolishing it before he did so. The doctor gathered himself up and found no bones were broke.

[Herald]

Such a fine prospect for peaches has not been known in this section for many years.

The fishing season has come and the sport is being engaged in along the Kentucky river from Dan to Beersheba.

Mr. W. B. Lindsay tells the Carrollton Democrat that the greatest late freeze known in this country was in 1834, May 18. It killed the apples, then almost as large as patridge eggs, and even killed the tops of oak trees. May 1, 1851, Judge Masterson says there was a severe freeze that killed all the fruit and did great damage.

—§§—

GALLATIN COUNTY

[Independent]

There never was a better prospect for fruit in this quarter than at present.

Judge J. S. Brown is announcde as a candidate for re-election to the office of County Judge.

An effort will be made to organize a Knights of Pythias lodge at Warsaw, next Tuesday evening.

Judge Ben S. Lindsay is announced as a Democratic candidate for County Supt. of the public schools.

Discouraging reports come from several quarters regarding the prospect for tobacco plants, many stating that the dry weather has cut them very short and some of the beds have very few plants in them.

Daniel Baker, a highly esteemed old citizen of the South Fork neighborhood, died at his home there last Saturday from the effects of an attack of lagrippe. He was in his 70th year and leaves a wife and nine children, three sons and six daughters.

The State Board of Equalization has increased the taxable rate of Gallatin county 16 per cent. on land and personal property, subject to equalization, and 10 per cent. on town lots. The county was listed at nearly $17 per acre last year, and the present assessment fell short somewhat, hence the general valuation was increased by the State Board.

W. F. Moore, school trustee of Cow Branch school district, No. 22, near South Fork, took the census of that district this week, and found a patron the like of which can hardly be found in the United States. The patron is J. P. Hopper, the blacksmith at Berkshire, who has 17 living children, and 30 living grand children. A total of 47 living descendants, and strange to say above all other things there has not been a death in the families, all of the children born being now living, and well and healthy.

Mr. Long, chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee, is of the opinion that under the rules adopted by the last State convention delegates who are not in attendance on the State and district conventions to be held on June 3, will not be allowed a vote, and that the vote cast on each ballot will represent the exact number of delegates present and voting. Mr. Long is of the opinion that the rule will stand unless the coming State Convention changes it, and thinks that it would be far the safer course for county and legistative district, to select alternates who may take the place of any delegates who may be unable to go to Lexington on the day of the convention. He says that under the new rules a delegation will not be able to vote the entire strength or the county of legislative district which they represent unless every delegate is present and votes. On this account and in order to give each county and district an opportunity to cast its full vote, he will recommend that alternates be elected, and that in all cases where a delegate is unable to come that his alternate be sent in his place.

In the next issue will appear an article on bimetallism. It was sent in for this issue but owing to the fact it did not reach the office before last Saturday its publication, is necessarily delayed.

McKinley will scoop the Illinois delegation to-day. He is proving to be very much of a scooper, and the Democrats hope he will be done scooping before next November.

The Rising Sun Democrats seem to be knocked "colderan a wedge, and are going to let the city election go by default.

The nominal amount of money in circulation in the United States is $21 per head, while the actual amount in circulation is less than $12 per head. Now, why is this; is a question that needs explaining.

Cripple Creek Col. declined offers of financial assistance on account of its million-dollar fire Saturday afternoon, declaring it is able to care for all of its unfortunates.

CROP AND STOCK.

They expect an immense peach crop in the Muldraugh Hill region.

Horses are lower in Kentucky than they have been for fifty years.

Less tobacco will be cultivated in Clark county this season than for years.

Great numbers of cut worms are being plowed up in Washington county.

In Madison county 24 persons dined off one mammoth sweet potato. Next.

Dr. H. C. Davis, a Mercer county farmer, will abandon the tobacco crop and put in seven acres of beans instead.

It is estimated that fully 85 per cent. of the fed Texas cattle have already gone to market and it is stated that by May 1, practically all the crop will have been marketed. The second crop this season is hardly worth considering.

The Sun says that more wheat is being plowed up in Woodford than was at first expected. It is believed that the acreage will not be more than two-thirds of what it usually is and that the yield will be only about half the average.

Most all of the peach-growing States report a favorable outlook for the crop, the trees coming out of winter in good condition and loaded with buds. Delaware expects the largest peach crop since 1875, and Georgia is confident that it will have an immense crop to market.

Thieves stole about 2,000 lbs. of leaf tobacco from the barn of J. T. Day, of Hazel Green. He remarked in a joke that as the thieves had got their part he wanted the honest people to get the rest. And they got it. Thirty-seven women were at the barn at one time, and among hands soon cleaned out the tobacco. Three women came on horseback from Breathitt county, but got in too late. The tobacco treat cost Mr. Day about $300.

The month of March was a deadener on the cattle trade, says the Breeders' Gazette. Especially was it discouraging compared with the high prices of a year ago. Some explanation of those buoyant values is found in the fact that although the receipts the past month were only 203,000 and much smaller than the ordinary run of that month, yet they were 35,000 in excess of the number received last year in March. Prices the past month were nearly $1 per hundred below the annual March average for 18 years. They were about as low on fat cattle as in 1894 and lower than in any other except 1889 during the past 19 years. while for duplicate prices on ripe heavy cattle at the close of the month one must go back for a quarter of a century. It was a rocky road for the cattle feeder to travel. Some little improvement characterizes the market this week, but a sag is feared under heavy runs of ripe cattle.

UNTOLD MISERY
FROM RHEUMATISM
C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by
Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur, in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months, my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith."

AYER'S
The Only World's Fair Sarsaparilla.
AYER'S PILLS cure Headache.

FARM FOR SALE.

A good farm of 76 acres, between Bellevue and Petersburg, near Woolper ford—good house, good barn and necessary outbuildings. The sale will be on easy terms. OWEN ALLEN.

G. H. HACKSTADT,
Ludlow, Ky.,
MANUF...
ALL KINDS OF VEHICLES.
Best Buggies on Earth
FOR THE
Price, $35 and UP
W. C. BROWN, Agent
BURLINGTON, KY.

☞ A good Investment. What does it mean? To secure a Good Value for your money. These Values are offered as long as they last.☜

Men's All-Wool Nicely Finished, Good Weight Sack Suits at -	$5.00
Same in Boys' Sizes, - - - - - - -	$4.50
Men's All-Wool Pants, - - - - - - -	$1.25

We have advertised ourselves as the RELIABLE CLOTHIERS—any statement we may make can be depended upon. When we say that these suits are Bargains at $4.50 and $5.00 we know it to be a fact. We will appreciate inspection whether you desire to purchase or not.

ROLFES & WACHS,
RELIABLE CLOTHIERS,
S, W. Cor Pike Street & Madison Ave., COVINGTON, KY

Do Not Read This.

Four Pound Schofield Blankets,............................	$3.00
Four and half pounds Schofield Blankets,............................	3.25
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 36 inches,............................	.80
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 38 inches,............................	.90
Schofield's all-wool Ready-Made Skirts,............................	1.15

Schofield Flannels at cost.
All Schofield Yarns 10 per cent. discount. Schofield Jeans at cost.
All Boots and Heavy Shoes at cost.
We have a few Suits of Mens' Underwear which we will sell at cost.

(o)

Also a full line of ☞ DRY GOODS ....
.... And a neat line of ☞ GROCERIES,
AT THE STORE OF THE
Burlington Mercantile Co.,
Burlington, Kentucky.

PURE BRED CHESTER WHITE HOGS.
La : Belle : Herd
—OF UP TO DATE—
CHESTER WHITE HOGS.
THE KEYSTONE DEHORNING CLIPPER
IS THE MOST HUMANE, RAPID AND DURABLE KNIFE ON THE MARKET FOR DEHORNING PURPOSES, AND IS MADE FOR THE USE OF FARMERS AND DAIRYMEN
SEND FOR CIRCULAR
A. C. BROSIUS, COCHRANVILLE, PA.
Also agent for Dehorner, and Dehorning done at reasonable rates.
ALSO AGENT FOR
AEROMETER
EVERY FARMER NEEDS ONE.
Best and Cheapest Wind-Mill Made.
COME AND SEE IT.
T. J. HUGHES, - - - BEAVER LICK, KY.

Read this and take Advantage of it.
FINE BUGGIES
Now is the time to have your
CARRIAGE WORK done at the lowest possible CASH PRICES.
REPAIRING a specialty. New work always on Hand. General Smithing of all kinds.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
Call and see our prices before purchasing.
KYLE & BENTLER,
Florence, Ky.

E. H. RIGGS,
—Dealer in—
HARDWATE, STOVES, LIME,
—CEMENT, ETC.—
TIN, IRON AND SLATE ROOFING.
FLY SCREENS NOW ON HAND.
Erlanger, : : : Ky.

MOST IN QUANTITY. BEST IN QUALITY.
WORMS!
WHITE'S CREAM
VERMIFUGE
FOR 20 YEARS
Has led all WORM Remedies.
EVERY BOTTLE GUARANTEED.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by
RICHARDSON MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS.

NOTICE.

All those indebted to me for taxes are hereby notified that I am compelled to close up my tax accounts and will proceed to enforce thier collection by law if not paid by March 1st, 1896. My books are in the hands of Lassing & Riddell, attorneys, Burlington, Ky. Call and settle with them and save costs.

D. BEALL, Ex-Sheriff
Boone County.

Subscribe for the RECORDER.

Scientific American Agency for PATENTS
CAVEATS,
TRADE MARKS,
DESIGN PATENTS,
COPYRIGHTS, etc.
For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the
Scientific American
Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address, MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

COME TO THIS OFFICE for
JOB WORK

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXI. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, MAY 6, 1896. NO. 28.

By virtue of an order of the Democratic State Executive Committee, a mass meeting of the Democrats of Boone will be held at Burlington, on the 30th day of May, at 2 p. m., solar time, for the purpose of choosing delegates to the District and State conventions called to meet at Lexington the 3d day of June, 1896, Boone county will be entitled to 10 delegates in said convention.

D. E. Castleman,
Chairman Executive Committee.
B. L. Rice, Secretary.

The State Board of Equalization has completed its work fixing the equalized value of the property of the State, after having made the greatest raises above the County Assessor's books, in the history of the board. The assessments in nearly every county have been raised, and still there will be a falling off in the revenue paid into the Treasury last year on this basis. The assessed value of property in 1895 was $558,901,803, and in 1896 $553,740,359, making a falling off of $2,164,444. As this board equalized in 1895, the figures were $573,206,078, and in 1896, $570,926,762; the falling off over last year is $2,280,216: The net increase in 1895 was $13,305,175, and in 1896 is $17,186,503, making the increase more than last year of $3,881,228. From the equalized value of $570,926,762 the State will derive a total revenue of $2,600,000.

The Auditor of Public Accounts has notified the Sheriffs that, in the collection of taxes, they must not take up and pay off any warrant that has been issued against the State treasury—that they must collect the money and pay the same over to the Auditor. This is a new ruling, and one that is unjust to the taxpayers to whom the State is indebted. If the State owes one of her citizens, and the indebtedness is evidenced by a warrant issued by the Auditor, he ought to be allowed a credit on his taxes, as has been the custom heretofore. What are taxes for if not to pay the State's debts. It looks very much like a very large class of the State's creditors is being discriminated against in favor of a few.

The silver element of the Michigan Democrats let the gold element get away with it in the State convention, and now the silver men are raising Cain about it. They would better go out behind the house and kick themselves for allowing the gold bugs to capture all the out-put of a convention in which they were very much in the minority, if the claims of the silverites are correct.

Wm. Eckstein and a party of bicyclists from this city discovered sixty-three dead snakes all coiled together in a drift pile on the White Water river road near Harrison on one of their recent runs. All of the party are temperate gentlemen.—Lawrenceburg Register.

It will require two or three affidavits to establish the last sentence in the above.

Chairman Long is providing himself a magnificent success in framing calls that will favor, immensely, in conventions the party faction which he desires shall triumph. In the call under which the county mass meetings are to be held on the 30th inst, he gave the silver men the hot end of the poker.

About fifteen single gold standard Democrats met in Louisville, one day last week, and decided to organize the State by counties and precincts and to send out gold literature to convince the voters of the error of their way.

The Winchester Fire Department is on a strike. The Chief, assistant and 50 members have quit work and the city is without fire protection. The trouble came about over the payment of a janitor.

The trial of Scott Jackson proves the utter worthlessness of expert testimony. Experts contradict each other flatly, declaring exactly opposite results under precisely the same circumstance.

Major McKinley has driven into the hole the Republican opposition to his nomination for the presidency, and his will be the only name presented to the St. Louis convention.

The silverites did not accomplish what they claimed they would in Michigan, and the gold bugs controlled the State convention.

Gov. Bradley keeps his pardon mill grinding.

BIMETALLISM.

[By G. M. C., of Walton.]

To the Editor of the Recorder:

At the request of a number of friends, who say that they are not able to obtain a satisfactory knowledge of bimetallism from the daily and weekly press of the country, as the papers friendly to the restoration of silver discuss the question only in its numerous phases, while the gold standard papers do not discuss it at all, and only endeavor to bury the principles in oblivion beneath a land slide of abusive terms and meaningless cant, I have determined, to the best of my humble ability, to endeavor to explain the question so that the reader may have a good general idea of its history and principles.

But, first I must acknowledge the lasting obligation due the National Bimetallist for the assistance derived from a careful study of its columns.

When any commodity is offered in exchange for money, the amount of money that can be got for it depends on how much money there is to be invested in that commodity. If 1,000 bushels of wheat is offered for sale and there are just $1,000 to invest in wheat, it would bring just $1 per bushel; but if there are only $500 to be used in that way it will only bring one half as much or fifty cents a bushel, and so with every other article offered in the market; therefore the amount of money any commodity will sell for is regulated by the law of supply and demand and it applies to money just the same as it does to any other article. If wheat is abundant it will be cheap, if it is scarce it will be dear; so with money, if plentiful it will be cheap, and if it is scarce it will be dear and less of it must be given in exchange for other things. This principle rests upon what is known as the "quantative theory of money."

The value of money depends on its quantity in proportion to other things. This principle, based on common sense, is recognized by all authorities all over the world, and in all ages of it.

These general principles being well understood, and remembering the question of quantity, let us take another step forward. In the early part of the year 1873 the total amount of gold and silver money in the world was about $7,000,000,000, about one half, $3,500,000,000 of each (without considering the amount of paper money in circulation in certain countries). Some of it had to be used in every sale that was made for cash, and in every sale that was made on credit the person trusted had to look forward to the time when he could get money to pay the debt.

But some countries such as Germany, Austria, Russia, India, China Mexico, etc., used silver as their principal money, gold not being a legal tender, was used, chiefly, for hoarding or for export, being more convenient for those purposes.

In England and Portugal, gold was the principal money, and silver was used in small transactions, being limited in legal tender, about $10 00 only.

A third class of countries used both metals as full legal tender. Coinage was free in those countries, except a seignorage was charged in some of them to cover the expense of minting, and they were called "bimetallic" as the two metals were a full legal tender and were not discriminated against in the matter of coinage.

The United States was, in the fullest sense, of the term a bimetallic country, the American people had a right, at all times, to the free coinage and full use of both metals as money. The amount of the coinage being immaterial as affecting the principle.

From 1803 to 1873 the French mint rate controlled the market prices of gold and silver. There is one thing that should be fully understood. The ratio of 15½ did not represent the relative value of gold and silver bullion at the French mint. That was the relative value of the coins. The charge for minting was a little higher on silver than it was on gold; because of its being bulkier the coinage was more expensive. In order to pay this and get the equivalent of an ounce of gold coin a person had to deposit at the French mint 15.62 of silver bullion; and 15.62 represents parity at the French coining rate.

"As long as the two metals were held together at a fixed ratio and could be converted into money at that rate the whole world was practically bimetallic."

This plain proposition needs very little discussion. England was nominally a gold standard country, but a debt could be paid there at approximately the French mint rate. If an English creditor had no use for the bullion, he could step into the bank and exchange it for gold coin or bank notes. Or the debtor could send the bullion to a broker, get the coin for it and thus pay the debt. In short there was an unlimited demand for silver bullion at about the French coining rate, and when it went to England it was the same thing as money.

From this circumstance springs another of very great importance. Gold and silver being thus tied together, as it were, the effect on business was just the same as if the entire mass had been all gold or all silver, and prices were the same as if each coin had consisted partly of one metal and partly of the other.

Of equal importance is the further fact that under such circumstances, in a country where both metals could be freely coined and were a full legal tender, it made no substantial difference which predominated in the currency. Whether it was mostly gold or mostly silver or consisted of equal parts of each, was not material for the one was as good as the other.

In France the proportions of gold and silver were constantly changing, but the business of the country went right on without any jar. Gold and silver took each others place alternately, but at all times the country had its share of the world's money. So with the United States sometimes gold and sometimes silver was most plentiful in the currency; but our people had full and free access to both and had their part of all that existed—just as it makes no difference to a man now whether he has all greenbacks, all Sherman notes, all national bank notes, or one third of each in his wallet.

Germany, in 1871, made a move towards adopting the gold standard by providing for a gold coinage and stopping the coinage of the larger silver pieces. The work was completed in July, 1873, by depriving the silver coins of their legal tender. The government called in, melted down and sold about 150,000,000 thalers (dollars). No satisfactory reasons have ever been given by Germany for changing her standard. No stop will be made to investigate the matter, as the action of our own country about this time concerns us far more deeply.

The scheme had been broached as early as 1867 of establishing a gold standard in the United States, and from that time on it was quietly talked about at the treasury department by a few senators and representatives, and, perhaps, in the highest banking circles. It was not publicly discussed and the people were never consulted with any reference to their wishes. The subject was handled as if there was a conspiracy forming to take away the rights of the people. If it was one, it was managed as cautiously as any conspiracy ever had been in the annals of the world and was successful.

In 1853 the weight of subsidiary silver coins had been reduced about 8½ per cent. their legal tender limited to $5; and coinage on private account discontinued. This was intended to prevent their shipment abroad, the effect of which had been to make the small coins scarce, causing inconvenience to those needing change.

The silver dollar remained a full legal tender and its coinage was unlimited, although a private individual could no longer have his bullion coined in halves, quarters and dimes.

On the 12th day of February, 1873, the mint law was revised and the standard silver dollar was dropped from the list of coins. A trade dollar 7½ grains heavier was substituted. There were but few standard silver dollars in the country and this amounted to the practical demonetization of silver. The trade dollar was not intended to be a legal tender, but in the general revision of the statutes early in 1874 the legal tender of all silver coins was fixed at $5, and the demonetization of silver was complete in the United States. Our immense debt, public and private, instead of being payable in "coin" of either metal, became payable in gold only.

The demonetization of silver in the United States has never been satisfactorily explained. It is now the generally accepted belief that it was done by an iniquitous fraud, but which has been repeatedly denied.

Three things, however, are perfectly plain. First, at the time the bill passed the Senate there was not a single word of debate on the demonetization of silver. The discussion was upon other features of the bill. Second, when the bill was returned to the house with the standard dollar left out, it was concurred in without debate. Third, the daily press of that period made no mention of silver being demonetized by the bill, and, fourth, Senator Sherman appears to be about the only prominent participant in the work who admits a knowledge that silver was being demonetized.

"It was never understood by either house of Congress. I say this with a full knowledge of the facts." (Senator Beck of Ky,. 10th Jany., 1878.)

"Though chairman of the committee on coinage, I was ignorant of the fact that it would demonetize the silver dollar." (Mr. Kelly of Penn. March 9th 1878). Again on May 10th; "In all the legislation in this country there is no mystery equal to the demonetization of the standard silver dollar."

"When the bill was pending in the Senate we thought it was simply a bill to reform the mint, etc., and there was not a single man in the Senate, I think, unless a member of the committee from which the bill came, who had the slightest idea that it was even a squint towards demonetization." (Senator Thurman, 1878).

As Governor Prince well says in his unanswerable speech, "perhaps there is no other example in history of any act so unjustifiable that no one would admit having any connection with it."

The silver dollar at that time was worth 3 cts. more than the gold dollar, and there were no sneering remarks about depreciated silver. In fact the only excuse ever offered for the act was that it was too valuable to be coined. Mr. Sherman gives that as a reason, saying that the silver dollar was then worth about 3 per cent. more than the gold one.

Mr. Carlisle says that the act was simply a recognition of a condition that had long existed. This he said after his almost miraculous conversion. Is it not strange that neither of the two honorable gentlemen mentioned the important fact that at the time of the demonetization, the coinage of silver was increasing rapidly?

It is boldly asserted that silver was demonetized because it was "superabundant and cheap." when in fact it was then the dearer metal. The demonetization has made it cheap—that is it has caused gold to become dearer. Silver is not cheap in relation to other things as will be seen further on. Nor was it superabundant for the production of gold in 1872 was $34,000,000 greater than that of silver.

We have seen how capricious were the tender laws of the colonial period. Virginia, for example, varied her practice in the following manner:

1633—Gold and silver the only legal tender.

1642—Tobacco the only legal tender.

1655—Tobacco, silver and wheat equally legal tender at fixed rates.

1666—Peas, Indian corn, barley, oats and wound silk added to the preceding articles as legal tender at fixed rates.

1727—Tobacco notes legal tender for tobacco debts within the warehouse district, but not elsewhere.

1730—Tobacco notes the sole legal tender for tobacco debts in the warehouse district.

1755—Silver legal tender for tobacco debts at a fixed rate. Maryland likewise had several varieties of legal tender, including this:

1753—Inspected tobacco legal tender for debts at one-fourth higher rates than uninspected.—Horace White in "Money and Banking..'

The results of the Democratic convention in Michigan is an eye-opener for the silver Democrats, and hereafter they will contend for supremacy until the convention adjourns. Over confidence cost them the Michigan delegation.

Up to Monday it was generally conceded that Scott Jackson was making a defense, but when evidence given on that day was read every one expressed himself as believing the jury would fix his punishment at death if a few more witnesses like Truste testified.

The Democrats of Boone county should ask the party in this Congressional district to choose from their number the district delegate to the Chicago convention; and in that connection the Recorder suggests Hon. N. S. Walton, of the Petersburg district as a suitable man for that position. Mr. Walton has not been consulted by the Recorder in regard to the matter, but it believes that the district can find no better man for the position, and that the Democrats of Boone would be glad to honor him with the position.

KENTUCKY MIDLAND RAILROAD.
[Via Georgetown.]

P. M.	A.M.			A.M.	P. M
d 4:50	20:13	Ar Walton	Lv	7:54	z
4:12	8.52	Ar Williamstown	Lv	8:32
3:48	8.28	Ar Corinth	Lv	8:55	5:48
3:30	8:13	Ar Sadieville	Lv	9:12	6:05
2:20	7:50	Ar Georgetown	Lv	9:40	6:33
1:00	6:55	Lv Frankfort	Ar	11:30	7:25

z Daily. d Except Sunday.

C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.

Miss Helen Merci Schuster
—)o(—
DRAMATIC READER
AND TEACHER OF
Elocution, Physical Culture and Delsarte,
811 Scott St. - COVINGTON, KY.
Class for young Ladies and Gentlemen at UNION, Ky., every Saturday—10 to 11 a. m. SEND FOR TERMS.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
—DRUGGIST,—
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
—o—
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

NO :: LONGER
—AT ERLANGER.—
DR. WALLACE GILLHAM,
—THE DENTIST,—
who has been coming to Erlanger on Tuesdays of each week, has discontinued his office there, but will continue to do
First Class Dental Work of
All kinds at his
COVINGTON - OFFICE,
1421 Madison Ave. (next door to the Children's Home),
He also has all the latest and best facilities for administering
Gas, Vitalized Air, or Local Anæsthetics for Extracting Teeth.
You are refered to the following reliable references of your own community:
Dr. C. R. Slater, Dr. C. W. McCullum, Mrs. Cal Riggs, Mrs. Mattie Hoover, Mrs. Rev. M. M. Hiner, Mrs. Rev. O. M. Huey, Mr. Ira Aylor, Erlanger; Miss Sallie Snyder, Miss Sallie Stephens, Florence.

Andy Scheben,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
WINES, LIQUORS
AND BRANDY,
Old Bourbon, $2.00 Per Gallon.
LEXINGTON PIKE,
ERLANGER, - - - KY,
Near Town Hall.

Prices Reduced!
—(o)—
1 gal. 4 year old Bourbon Whisky, reduced from $3.50 at $3.00
1 gal. 2 year old Bourbon Whisky reduced from $2.00 at $1.75
1 gal. 4 year old Rye Whisky at reduced from $3.50. $3.00
At KASTNER'S,
Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

For Sale or Rent.
96 acres of river bottom land, opposite Lawrenceburg, Ind., in good state of cultivation. J. C. REVILL, Burlington, Ky.

Attention, Farmers!
We are handling the
Globe Fertilizer
and will sell it to you at
$26 Per Ton.
Money due September 1, 1896.
This is a high grade Fertilizer, the best on the market. Try it.
RIGGS BROS., Erlanger, Ky.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
in keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
J. S. HUEY, President, Grant, Ky.
OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky,
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections.
Office—In residence near post-office.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY,
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

H. S. STEVENSON,
...... DENTIST, ...
Anæsthetics used for painless operating. Plates $8 and $10; other work accordingly. Satisfaction guaranteed in all cases.
MAIN OFFICE—South side Main St. Rising Sun, Indiana.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL.
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
—o—
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by maill promptly attended to.

G. G. HUGHES. D. E. CASTLEMAN.
HUGHES & CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to them.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 17,000
—)o(—
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations, Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates.

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN.................. $50,000
SURPLUS,.............................. $ 2,600
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

GENERAL
REPAIR SHOP,
At Hathaway, Ky.
WAGONS AND BUGGIES
A Specialty.
Plows and Harrows Made to Order. Satisfaction Guaranteed.
J. M. RICE.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : : KY.

MAY—1896.
Sun.	Mon.	Tue.	Wed.	Thur.	Fri.	Sat.
....	....	....	....	....	1	2
3	4	5	6	7	8	9
10	11	12	13	14	15	16
17	18	19	20	21	22	23
24	25	26	27	28	29	30
31	....	....	....	....	....	....

CURRENT TOPICS.

DELAWARE people are called "Muskrats."

THE people of Oregon are "Webfeet."

NEW YORK will get a new customhouse.

SOUTH CAROLINA is the "Palmetto State."

IT is estimated that there are 1,500,000 Irish in Australia.

DOMESTIC servants in India are paid $1 a week, with board.

COL. JOHN A. COCKERILL carried $50,000 insurance on his life.

MARYLANDERS are "Craw-thumpers." a slang name for the lobster.

NORTH CAROLINIANS are called "Tarheels," from a leading industry.

A CABLE line railroad has been planned to the crater of Popocatepetl.

CONNECTICUT has a village with the queer name of "Upper Isinglass."

NEVADA has two nicknames: the "Silver State" and the "Sage Brush State."

THE Stansill mine in North Georgia bids fair to prove a bonanza. At 34 feet the ore assays $58 gold and $1.50 of silver.

THE big rattlesnake at Greenwood garden, Peak's island, Me., has just completed an unbroken fast that lasted a year.

THOMAS HAGGERTY, 18 years old, of Peekskill, N. Y., swallowed a lump of chewing gum and now he is dying of appendicitis.

PRESIDENT KRUGER, of the Transvaal republic, has been offered a large sum to come to America to lecture on South African affairs.

A COMPANY with a capital of $3,000,000 has been formed for the purpose of building a railroad to the glaciers of Mount Tacoma.

A COUPLE of Middletown (Ct.) hunters recently had great luck. While out they found a litter of eight foxes, which are worth $24 in bounties.

THIEVES entered the stable of the executive mansion at Jackson, Miss., the other night and stole two horses belonging to Gov. McLaurin.

A DEPARTMENT of comparative pathology will be added to the Harvard medical school, a Boston merchant having endowed it with $100,000.

THOMAS MORAN, a New York policeman, died and left an estate of $75,000. which is now being contested for by an army of relatives and strangers.

TEN thousand people visited the South Kensington and Bethnal Green museums in London on the first Sunday on which they were thrown open.

THE most ancient lock of whose form and construction there is any certain knowledge is the Egyptian, which has been in use upward of 4,000 years.

A GERMAN journalist has invented an electric whip for the purpose of training wild animals. The sting of the new whip is said to be very effective.

THREE new industrial plants are being put up in Birmingham. Ala. They are bolt and nut works, a snuff and tobacco factory and a cotton seed oil mill.

F. H. HOVEY, the tennis champion of the United States, was married to Miss Sara Sanborn at Newton Center, Mass., by Rev. Dr. Alvah Hovey, on April 29.

DURING the last year 72,245,295 coins were struck at the Australian mint. the gold ones being valued at £2,592,625, the silver £1,196,168 and the bronze £40,995.

OXFORD and Cambridge have now rowed together a little more than 253 miles in races, Oxford being about a third of a mile to the good in the total distance.

THE discovery of a human skull in a good state of preservation by well diggers at a depth of 40 feet beneath a solid, four-foot vein of coal is attracting a good deal of attention at Dickinson, N. D.

THE quantity of bananas shipped from West Indian and adjacent ports into the United States now amounts to 13,000,000 or 14,000,000 bunches annually, valued at considerably over $20,000,000.

ONE of the candidates for office in Sumter county, S. C., has painted his buggy a silver hue to show his views on the financial question. One does not have to ask where he stands after seeing that team.

JOHN W. MACKAY has awarded a contract for a mausoleum to cost $235,000 to be erected over the remains of his son, who was killed in France by a fall from a horse. A Louisville firm secured the contract.

A NEW HAVEN young lady has a remarkable throat. She has a whistling larynx and can whistle without the use of her lips. Few cases of this kind are ever known.

J. DEBARTH SHORB, whose death is announced in Los Angeles, was one of the best known viticulturists in the world. He leaves among other property a vineyard of 1,300 acres, included in his big ranch of 10,000 acres.

A DOCTOR'S ulster has been designed. the lining of which is fitted with a maze of pockets adapted for the reception of the hundred and one surgical instruments and drugs with which a physician is obliged to be provided.

PULLMAN-LOWDEN.

Millionaire Pullman's Daughter Florence Marries Frank O. Lowden, a Prominent Young Lawyer.

CHICAGO, April 30.—Miss Florence Pullman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Pullman, was married Wednesday night to Frank Orren Lowden, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Lowden, of Hubbard, Ia., at the Prairie avenue mansion of the bride's parents. The function was the most brilliant society event of the year.

FRANK O. LOWDEN.

Two hundred relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony, which was performed in the main drawing room by Rev. James Pullman, of Lynn, Mass., assisted by Rev. Royal S. Pullman, of Baltimore, both uncles of the bride. The bridal party passed through an improvised aisle of white and gold enamelled posts wound in myrtle surrounded by wreaths of lillies of the valley and mognotte, and tied with white satin ribbons from post to post, extending the length of the building. The whole house was profusely decorated with orchids, roses and palms. A musical programme was rendered before and after the ceremony in the music room, where a superb organ was built for the occasion. The bride, a stately brunette, beautiful and accomplished, was attended by her sister, Miss Felicite Oglesby, daughter of ex-Gov. Oglesby; Miss Florence Alger, daughter of ex-Gov. Alger; Miss Bertha West of New York. Mr. Lowden's best man was Henry L. Dawes, of Pittsfield, Mass. A reception to 2,000 guests and a supper followed. The bridegroom is a lawyer of this city.

MISS FLORENCE PULLMAN.

BUSINESS PORTION

Of Cripple Creek, Col., Destroyed by Fire —Three Men Dead and Others Injured—Loss Nearly $2,000,000.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Col., April 30.—A second conflagration, accompanied by many of the horrors of the Chicago fire, swept the business part of this city into ashes Wednesday. At least three men lie dead as a result and 15 persons were burned and otherwise injured. Two of the dead were killed in an explosion of the Palace hotel boilers, and the other was a thief who was shot by a policeman under orders. Griffith is the name of the only identified dead man. One thousand persons were without shelter Wednesday night and the business men and property owners who have lost all with little or no insurance are almost in despair. They are in a fever of excited wrath against the incendiaries who are charged with starting this and Saturday's destruction. The fire burned itself out with the aid of dynamite. Mayor Steele has invited assistance from neighboring towns in the way of tents for the homeless, but the police department feel able to cope with the situation. All that is left of the camp is "Old Town," over to the east, Capitol Hill, the residence section northward, and scattering places about the Florence and Cripple Creek yards. West Cripple Creek, across the Freeman placers, was also spared. The loss can not fall short of $2,000,000, and the heaviest insurance loss comes by this second conflagration. All the substantial business houses, the leading hotels, office buildings and better class of retail shops all went up in smoke or lie in chaos as the result of the use of dynamite exploded to stay the flames. The conflagration ended only when the residence portion was reached and open spaces occurred, across which the flames could not reach.

The fire, which was of undoubted incendiary origin, started in the Portland hotel, on Second street, shortly after noon. A brisk breeze from the south was blowing at the time and the fire rapidly gained such headway, that even with a good water pressure, the fire department was unable to check the progress of the flames.

Congressman Patterson Indorsed.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 30.—Congressman Josiah Patterson received a strong indorsement from the democratic convention of this, his home county, Wednesday. President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle were also indorsed. It was not a congressional convention. The gold standard majority was obtained in this city, the interior districts being almost solidly for silver.

Holmes Refused a Respite.

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 30.—Gov. Hastings Wednesday afternoon refused the application of Murderer Holmes for a respite.

RELIEF WORK.

Hungry and Homeless Fire Victims at Cripple Creek.

A Determination to Rid the Camp of Undesirable Crooks and Tramps—Fifty Hoboes Lined Up and Drummed Out of Town by the Vigilants.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Col., May 1.—The burned district of Wednesday covered 17 blocks. The Masonic temple building was but partially destroyed and there the mass meeting of citizens was held Thursday to consider the grave situation. Committees were named to take charge of the relief work and headquarters were opened at the Midland terminal depot and at the two schoolhouses.

Men, women and children, cold, hungry and worn out with their hardships of the night flocked about the depot when the relief train from Denver and Colorado Springs arrived at six o'clock Thursday morning.

Their wants were soon satisfied, the tents were rapidly set up and by noon something like order prevailed. What provisions were saved from the fire commanded fancy prices, beef selling at $1 a pound and bread 25 cents a loaf.

The First national bank opened before nine o'clock in a warehouse and money was issued on demand. The Bimetallic bank will opened Friday morning. In the burned district of Saturday's fire the work of erecting temporary buildings was resumed and the piles of salvage from Wednesday's fire, which had been carried there, were put in something like order Thursday.

There is a determination plainly shown to rid the camp of undesirable crooks and tramps. At noon 50 hoboes were lined up and drummed out of town. All arrested suspects were later on sent to Colorado Springs. A vigilance committee has been formed and no mercy will be shown to violators of the law. This committee will work quietly and will not give out anything to the public. The result of this policy has been wholesome and few complaints of thieving have been made.

It is impossible to state Thursday night how many were burned in the fire Wednesday. All kinds of rumors are afloat and many persons are missing. Some have gone out of town and some are off on the hills with friends. At the improvised morgue are three dead bodies—that of Chas. Griffith, a miner; the unknown incendiary shot by Floyd Thompson, and an unidentified miner. The revised list of the injured aggregates 26.

A corps of 25 insurance adjusters is trying to figure out their losses. They roughly estimate the property loss at $1,250,000, not more that 20 per cent. of which is covered by insurance. The loss by the two fires will reach $2,000,000, and the total insurance loss about $400,000. The cause of Wednesday's fire is as yet a matter of speculation. A waitress in the Portland hotel was in the kitchen when the blaze first broke through the partition wall and she states that the fire originated in the Chicago restaurant adjoining the hotel. But the fire burst out simultaneously from so many places as to still leave the impression that arson was committed. Coal oil fumes were detected about the school house Thursday, and some women created a sensation by telling of seeing two men trying to set fire to a residence near the reservoir.

MRS. MAYBRICK.

The President Transmits to the House a Copy of the Correspondence Relating to Her Release.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—In response to a resolution of the house passed April 9, President Cleveland Thursday afternoon transmitted to the house a copy of the correspondence on file in the state department relating to the case of Mrs. Florence Maybrick, who is confined in an English prison under life sentence for the murder of her husband, a Liverpool merchant. There are 62 letters and telegrams in the budget and they recite the efforts at various times made by the secretary of state on behalf of the unfortunate woman to secure some measure of relief through the ambassador at London. Secretary Olney sends to Ambassador Bayard copies of strong letters from Countess Roque, mother of Mrs. Maybrick and H. A. Dodge, of Hamilton, Mass., brother of Gail Hamilton, in whose behalf he writes.

SHEARED HER SHEEP

And Did the Work Neatly, Though She Is 77 Years of Age.

RICHMOND, Ky., May 1.—In this section the field of woman's usefulness is widening, and the old notion that her place is in the kitchen is being dispelled. This county has a colored woman who is a brick and stonemason by trade and is an expert in that line. The county comes to the front again with another new woman. She is Mrs. Rhoda Cox, of the Penola section. A few days since she wanted her sheep sheared, and, finding no man who would do the work, went to the sheep sheds and performed the work herself. The job was neatly done and the 15 sheep were soon separated from their fleece. Mrs. Cox is 77 years old and active, hale and hearty.

McKinley Captures Illinois.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 1.—Wm. McKinley captured the delegates from the state of Illinois at the republican convention Thursday.

Miners and Operators Meet.

BRAZIL, Ind., May 1.—A committee meeting of block coal operators and miners was held in the Block Coal Co.'s office here Thursday to arrange a schedule for the coming year, beginning May 1. The operators offered to continue the payment of last year's scale, which was finally accepted by the miners after arguing for an advance for several hours.

Nomination Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The senate Thursday confirmed the following nomination: R. Hughes Long, of Alabama, United States consul at Nogales, Mex.

ASSASSINATED.

The Shah of Persia Shot at the Shrine of Abdul Azim—The Assassin Said to Be a Sayyid Mollah Reza.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Secretary Olney at 8 p. m. Friday received the following cable message from United States minister Alex. McDonald, at Teheran.

TEHERAN, Persia, May 1. To Olney, Secretary of State, Washington.

SHAH OF PERSIA.

The Shah, while visiting a shrine near the city Friday for devotion, on entering the inner sanctury, was shot by an assassin, disguised as a woman, the bullet entering the region of the heart. The shah expired in a few minutes. The regicide is a revolutionary fanatic. Great distress but the city quiet."

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Shortly after the receipt of the news of the assassination, Secretary Olney sent a cable message to Minister McDondald saying that the president directed that sincere condolences be tendered and abhorrence of the crime expressed to the government of Persia and the family of the shah.

LONDON, May 2.—The details that have reached here of the assassination of the shah Friday, are of the briefest character. As the shah was entering the inner court of the shrine of Shah Abdul Azim, the assassin, who is said to be a Sayyid from Kerman, named Mollah Reza, delivered the fatal shot.

The Shah was attended by his chief physician, Dr. Tolcosch and other physicians. The assassination caused much alarm. Prince Naib-Es-Saltanes, the third son of the Shah, retired to his palace at the request of the government.

The heir to the throne, Muzaher-Ed-Dine, is at Tabriz. He will leave for the capitol as soon as possible.

A possible reason for the crime is that there has been much discontent for some time owing to the dearness of provisions, partly caused by the issue of copper coins.

Nasr-ed-din, the late shah was born in 1837. He was the eldest son of Muhammed Shah and succeeded to the throne on the death of his father in 1848.

The form of government in Persia in its most important features is similar to that of Turkey. All the laws are based on the precepts of the Koran, and the power of the shah is absolute.

Teheran, the capital, has a population of 210,000.

The population of Persia is estimated at 9,000,000.

SCHOONER COMPETITOR

Was Captured on the High Seas and Not in Cuban Waters.

KEY WEST, May 2.—Information thought to be reliable has been received in this city to the effect that the schooner Competitor was captured on the high seas. On the morning of the day before the reported capture the schooner was sighted near Sand Key Light and the wind being light and ahead, it was impossible for the schooner to get into Cuban waters.

Great excitement exists in this city over the report that the crew of the ill-fated schooner were being executed Friday morning.

Alaska Delegates.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 2.—Deputy United States Marshal L. L. Williams, of Juneau, Alaska, who was a passenger on the steamer Mexico, which arrived from the north Friday, states that both republicans and democrats will hold territorial conventions in June or during the present month and elect delegates to their respective national conventions. Only sound money men, Mr. Williams asserts, will be chosen.

Bishop Williams.

DETROIT, Mich., May 2.—Rev. Gershom Mott Williams, D.D., was consecrated as the first bishop of the new diocese of Marquette, which comprises the upper peninsula of Michigan, at Grace Church here Friday. There was no excessive pomp in the long ceremony but there was enough of the formal observances of the Episcopal Church to give the consecration the effect befitting such an important occasion.

Wealthy Farmer Murdered and Robbed.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 2.—Nicholas Lienhardt, a wealthy farmer living 12 miles south of this city, was murdered and his body robbed of a large sum of money by Frank Henderson, a Negro farm hand. The Negro cut the telephone wire leading from Linhardt's house to this city and came here. He was arrested Friday. He had $400 when arrested.

Minister Willis Convalescing.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—Albert S. Willis, United States minister to Hawaii, who has been prostrated with pneumonia since his arrival from Honolulu on the 23d of April, is mending rapidly, and the attending physician pronounces him out of danger.

Demand Indemnity.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 2.—France and Italy, through their representative here have demanded of the porte an indemnity for the loss of life and destruction of property belonging to Catholic missions during the recent massacres in Anatolia.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS

First Session.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—SENATE—Bills introduced Saturday: To relieve Libbie Arnold; to grant an honorable discharge to James Burroes. Senator Lodge succeeded in getting a resolution through the senate asking the postmaster general to take steps for expediting the distribution of seeds through the post office. Consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill was resumed. An amendment directing that the printing of postage stamps at the bureau of engraving and printing be discontinued, and that the printing be done by contract after public competition, was ruled out on a point of order after heated discussion. The sundry civil bill then passed. It carries $37,000,000. When it passed the house the amount appropriated by it was $30,000,000.

HOUSE—Bills introduced: By Mr. Berry, Kentucky—To pension Lucy B. Bryson, widow of W. A. Bryson, first lieutenant, Eighteenth Kentucky. Another partial report on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill was adopted and the bill was sent back to conference. In connection with the report, Mr. Grosvenor (rep., Ohio,) called attention to the provision in the bill which would prevent the legislative assembly of Oklahoma from removing the capital of the territory from Guthrie. The Pickler general pension bill occupied the rest of the day and the night session.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—SENATE—The rivers and harbors bill was reported back to the senate from the committee on commerce late Monday evening. It was changed in many particulars, some of the [illegible] was increased and others reduced. There was one important addition, which relates to the Ohio river improvement. Senator Elkins introduced an amendment providing that $20,000 additional be appropriated for the purchase of sites for dams Nos. 3, 4 and 5. This will be accepted by the senate and house and the engineers can proceed with the improvement.

HOUSE—Consideration of the general pension bill, after three days' discussion, was concluded in the house Monday, and a vote upon its passage will be taken Tuesday immediately after the reading of the journal. By a special order reported from the committee on rules, further debate on the bill was limited to one hour and a half Monday. Senate amendments to the sundry civil appropriation bill were disagreed to and a conference ordered. At 4:40 o'clock the house adjourned until Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—SENATE—Senator Gorman and Senators Hale, Sherman and Chandler crossed swords on the financial question. Mr. Gorman opposed the large appropriation for battle ships, and denounced the secretary of the navy, Mr. Herbert. The appropriation for four battle ships, to cost $3,750,000 each; three 30-knot torpedo boats, at $800,000, and ten torpedo boats at $500,000, brought Mr. Gorman to his feet. The amendment was pending when the senate adjourned. Mr. Chandler's amendment to the naval appropriation bill, making it unlawful for retired naval officers to enter the service of contractors furnishing naval material to the government, was adopted.

HOUSE—The house Tuesday passed the Pickler pension bill by a vote of 187 to 54. The republicans and populists voted solidly for the measure, and the democrats, with six exceptions, voted against it. The bankruptcy bill was taken up under a special order providing for a vote Saturday at 4 p. m. The bill to authorize the president to retire John M. Quackenbush as a commander of the navy was passed by a vote of 161 to 49. The house also passed Mr. Watson's bill to grant an honorable discharge to Charles K. Jenree.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—SENATE.—Two notable speeches by Senator Teller and Senator Sherman—representing opposing elements on the financial question—were heard in the senate Wednesday. The annual appropriation bill is nominally before the senate, but is being thrust aside for the incidental tariff and financial debate. Mr. Hale, in charge of the bill, protested vigorously against the distracting debates, declaring that if it continued congress would remain in Washington until next fall. Senator White, of California, of the committee on commerce, Wednesday presented the minority report on the river and harbor bill appropriating $3,098,000 for a breakwater at Santa Monica, in Southern California.

HOUSE—The house spent the day in further discussion of the bankruptcy bill. Mr. Connolly (rep., Ill.) spoke in favor of the measure, and Mr. W. A. Stone (rep., Pa.), Mr. Newlands (silverite, Nev.); and Mr Broderick (rep., Kan.) in opposition to it. Before the bankruptcy bill was taken up there was some discussion of the treasury situation in connection with the appropriation for this session. The house adopted the report of elections committee No. 2 in favor of Bell in the contested election case of Pearce vs. Bell, from the Second Colorado district.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—SENATE—The senate spent the day discussing the appropriation for four battle ships, which Mr. Quay had amended to six and Mr. Gorman to two. Mr. Gorman made a point of order against the amendment offered by Mr. Quay, fixing the number of battle ships at six. The chair (Mr. Call presiding) sustained the point of order, and the Quay amendment went out. Mr. Chandler wanted 30 torpedo boats in place of two battle-ships. Mr. Hale said that he would endeavor to get a vote by six o'clock Friday night, otherwise he would seek to secure a night session.

HOUSE—The general debate on the bankruptcy bill was continued and concluded in the house Thursday. Friday the bill will be open to amendment under the five-minute rule, and the final vote will be taken at four o'clock on Saturday. Bills introduced: Providing that the terms of patent granted to Daniel E. Lawson, of Wellsville, O., April 27, 1880, for means of preventing explosions of steam boilers be extended 15 years; to grant an honorable discharge to Elias Geisinger, late of the One Hundred and Eighth Ohio, and Patrick Welsh, Forty-fourth Ohio; to pension Matilda H. Galey, widow of Benjamin Galey, who served in the Black Hawk war; to pension Lydia A. Jewell, stepmother of Jefferson M. Jewell, Eleventh Indiana, at $12 per month.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—SENATE—The session of the senate Friday was enlivened by two characteristic speeches—a fiery and impetuous one by Mr Tillman (S. C.), and a temperate and suggestive one by Mr. Hill (N. Y.). Before the speechmaking began, a vote was taken on Mr. Gorman's motion to reduce the number of battle ships provided for in the bill from four to two (a reduction of $7,500,000 in expenditure) and it was agreed to—yeas, 31; nays, 27. Another vote was taken on a motion by Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, to strike out the appropriation for these two battleships, but there were only 13 senators in favor of that proposition. An amendment was offered by Mr. Chandler, of New Hampshire, appropriating $4,000,000 for 20 torpedo boats and four torpedo boat destroyers, but a vote was not reached upon it.

HOUSE—The house again devoted the major part of the day to debate on the bankruptcy bill. Several amendments were offered, but none adopted. A bill to provide for a delegate in congress from the territory of Alaska was defeated—4 to 60. The contested election case of Wilson vs. McLaurin, from Sixth South Carolina district, was decided in favor of the sitting member. Pension bills occupied the night session. Bills introduced: To grant honorable discharge to John Dewitt, Fifty-second Indiana; to grant honorable discharge to Maj. Nathaniel L. Lightfoot, Twelfth Kentucky.

One Hundred Miners Entombed.

LONDON, May 1.—An explosion occurred in the Micklefield colliery, in Yorkshire Thursday, cutting off the escape of 100 men, who are now entombed in the mine. Searching parties are endeavoring to find and rescue them. The explosion is ascribed to the use of naked lights.

Another Carnegie Library Building.

PITTSBURGH, May 1.—Andrew Carnegie has purchased for $25,000 a plot of ground at Duquesne, on which he will erect two handsome buildings, one for a public library, the other for a gymnasium and natorium.

To Cleanse the System

Effectually yet gently, when costive or bilious, or when the blood is impure or sluggish, to permanently overcome habitual constipation, to awaken the kidneys and liver to a healthy activity, without irritating or weakening them, to dispel headaches, colds, or fevers, use Syrup of Figs.

"WHERE are all the wicked people buried?" asked a small boy who had been reading the inscriptions in a churchyard.

FITS stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free. Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

THE past and future are veiled; but the past wears the widow's veil, the future the virgin's.—Richter.

CURE your cough with Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar.
Pike's Toothache Drops Cure in one minute.

THE man who loves with his whole heart truth will love still more he who suffers for truth.—Lavater.

AFTER physicians had given me up, I was saved by Piso's Cure.—RALPH ERIEG, Williamsport, Pa., Nov. 22, 1893.

A MAN may feel happy in rags, but he doesn't look it.—Hartford Religious Herald.

That

Extreme tired feeling afflicts nearly everybody at this season. The hustlers cease to push, the tireless grow weary, the energetic become enervated. You know just what we mean. Some men and women endeavor temporarily to overcome that

Tired

Feeling by great force of will. But this is unsafe, as it pulls powerfully upon the nervous system, which will not long stand such strain. Too many people "work on their nerves," and the result is seen in unfortunate wrecks marked "nervous prostration," in every direction. That tired

Feel-

ing is a positive proof of thin, weak, impure blood; for if the blood is rich, red, vitalized and vigorous, it imparts life and energy to every nerve, organ and tissue of the body. The necessity of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for that tired feeling is, therefore, apparent to every one, and the good it will do you is equally beyond question. Remember that

Hood's

Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are easy to take, easy to operate. 25 cents.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR

W. L. DOUGLAS

$3. SHOE BEST IN THE WORLD.

If you pay $4 to $6 for shoes, examine the W. L. Douglas Shoe, and see what a good shoe you can buy for $3.

OVER 100 STYLES AND WIDTHS,

CONGRESS, BUTTON, and LACE, made in all kinds of the best selected leather by skilled workmen. We make and sell more $3 Shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

None genuine unless name and price is stamped on the bottom.

Ask your dealer for our $5, $4, $3.50, $2.50, $2.25 Shoes; $2.50, $2 and $1.75 for boys.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE. If your dealer cannot supply you, send to factory, enclosing price and 36 cents to pay carriage. State kind, style of toe (cap or plain), size and width. Our Custom Dept. will fill your order. Send for new Illustrated Catalogue to Box R.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

For your Protection we positively state that this remedy does not contain mercury or any other injurious drug. Nasal Catarrh is a local disease and is the result of colds and sudden climatic changes.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

Opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Protects the Membrane from Colds, Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. The Balm is quickly absorbed and gives relief at once. Price 50 cents at Druggists or by mail.
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

A SHINING EXAMPLE of what may be accomplished by never varying devotion to a single purpose is seen in the history of the McCormick Harvesting Machine Co., Chicago. For 65 years they have simply been building grain and grass-cutting machinery, and while there are probably forty manufacturers in this line, it is safe to say that the McCormick Company builds one-third of all the binders, reapers and mowers used throughout the entire world.

A Man in OHIO who had barely made expenses with a cheap Well Drilling Outfit took our advice and bought one of our modern and first-class.....

Well Machines,

and did $7,000 worth of drilling with it last year. There are men who refuse to take good advice when it is offered them on a silver platter! Circulars free. LOOMIS & NYMAN, - TIFFIN, OHIO.

OPIUM and WHISKY habits cured. Book sent FREE. Dr. B. M. WOOLLEY, ATLANTA, GA.
NAME THIS PAPER every time you write.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION.

JACKSON'S STORY.

On the Stand He Tells of His Life From the Cradle to the Cell.

Admits of His Visit [illegible] Wallingford's Saloon With Pearl Bryan, But Claims It Was on Thursday and Not on Friday Night That They Were There.

NEWPORT, April 29.—The prosecution in the Jackson trial presented some entirely new evidence Tuesday morning in the shape of several letters written by Scott Jackson to Pearl Bryan and one by Jackson to Dr. Gillespie.

These letters were handed to the court by Attorney Hayes, of Greencastle, who has been assisting in the prosecution. The ones written to Pearl were presumably furnished by the dead girl's relatives. They clearly show how Jackson could assume when the occasion required the air of a young man of a religious turn of mind. The letter to Dr. Gillespie is considered highly important from the fact that it was written on January 31 of this year, the day before the headless body was found. In it Jackson cautions Gillespie to stick by him.

George Jackson, coachman for Maj. Widdifield, of Mt. Auburn, was then placed on the stand and repeated his story, already published, to the effect that he drove Jackson, Walling and the girl to the Locke farm on the night before the body was discovered.

NEWPORT, Ky., April 30.—Wednesday morning the prosecution in the Jackson murder trial sprung a surprise in the testimony of Mrs. Sar[illegible] who lives on the Licking pike. She says that on the Thursday morning before the murder, while on her way to Newport, she met Jackson and Walling going south on the same road and they insulted her.

Wednesday morning Photographer Clarie testified that he has had 20 years' experience in his business. He made numerous photographs of Pearl Bryan's body and different portions of it as it lay in White's undertaking establishment in Newport. Those photographs of the body, headless and mutilated by the post-mortem operations, were handed to the jury. For several moments the twelve men studied them intently. A second collection of pictures of the girl's hands and feet were introduced. Judge Helm looked at them first before he overruled Crawford's objection, and handed them to the jury.

Dr. Edwin Freeman, professor of surgery in the Eclectic Medical college of Cincinnati, testified. In answer to a hypothetical question by Attorney Hays, as to the condition of the cuts on the body of the murdered girl when found, the doctor said: "The cuts must have been made during life. The veins would not have emptied by drainage from a dead body. The blood must have been thrown out by contraction of the heart. The heart does not contract after death. There is also no retraction of the skin after death, except just immediately. It ceases a few minutes after death. There is an irritability of the skin within a few minutes after death, but it quickly passes away, and in vigorous more quickly than in weak persons. It can be paralyzed a short time by electricity."

On cross-examination the witness admitted that the undertaker's work of three hours on that neck tying it up to prevent the flow of fluids might have caused the appearance as shown in the picture. "I don't think that the retraction of the skin could have been done carelessly after death, but only purposely. The arteries stand out in the soft tissues and not near the skin. It is not necessary to retract the skin to get hold of them and tie them. Of course, there might be some pushing back through awkwardness. In my first answer I did not take any such element into consideration."

NEWPORT, Ky., May 1.—The defense in the Jackson case opened Thursday morning by placing the prisoner, Scott Jackson, on the stand to testify in his own behalf. The decision to allow him to testify was reached by Attorney Crawford after a long consultation with the prisoner in the Newport jail before court was called. It is understood that Jackson was not only willing to tell his story to the court and jury, but even anxious.

Jackson took the stand amid excitement and testified that he was 27 years old last month; born in Miscasset, Me., in 1869; his father was a sea captain and died 13 years ago. The prisoner made seven round trips across the ocean with his father. After his father's death he became a messenger boy in Jersey City and after a year was promoted to an inside position carrying mail and copying letters in a freight office; after six months made way bills for freight. Was at this two years; then had charge of the department about three years, when he was discharged for being on intimate terms with the chief clerk. Jackson then said:

"When I was brought in from messenger boy I was put under charge of a man named Letts, who was lighterage clerk. He became assistant cashier and senior clerk and I took Letts' place. While not in his department, he had partial charge of me. I was very friendly with him, and we were seen together almost every night.

"On one of the statements made to Letts' general officer a discrepancy in the cash account was found. Letts immediately left the office. As I was his most intimate friend, they tried to locate him through me. He was found to be short $23,000. On some of the bills was found my signature, in a bold, plain hand, 'S. J.' Other clerks' names were also signed as mine. Other fraudulent freight bills, signed by Letts, were signed in a scrawl. Those signed by me were signed with my name, 'S. J.'"

"When they discovered these freight bills, amounting to $240, with my initials on them, they asked me where the bills were. I explained the matter satisfactorily. The detectives followed me for two weeks, attempting to locate Letts. Then came an order from the general office in New York to discharge every clerk who was a companion of Letts, or any clerk whom he had got into the office. Letts is now in the New Jersey prison at Trenton."

Letts received a three-year sentence.

Jackson then went to New York staying a year; worked in a gentleman's furnishing store; also, sold a corn remedy. After he left there he gave exhibitions in manufacturing birch beer and ginger ale for the manufacturer; this lasted two months; was then out of work for five months; stayed at No. 45 141st street. Then the prisoner went to Greencastle, Ind.; his mother lives there now, also, his sister, the wife of Prof. Edwin Post. Staid in Greencastle until September 11 or 12, 1894. Had no employment there. About the 11th or 12th went to the Indiana Dental college, Indianapolis, and stayed until the term was out March 27; studied chemistry, extraction of teeth, physiology and so forth.

The prisoner first met Pearl Bryan during the Christmas holidays of 1894; Will Wood introduced him; knew Wood since August 1894. Only saw her once or twice before the holidays; saw her passing the office. She lived half a mile south of Greencastle. Saw Pearl at home six or seven times during the summer of 1895; never saw her in Indianapolis; never had any arrangements to meet her there.

"Did Wood ever tell you about his intimacy with Pearl?"

"In September, 1895. He said: 'Why don't you call on Pearl Bryan?' I said: 'What for?' He answered, 'It's a good thing.' 'Pshaw,' I said, 'Why do you want to talk that way about your cousin?' 'All right,' he answered, 'you don't have to believe me.'

Jackson went to Cincinnati last fall and entered the Cincinnati Dental college; roomed at Carlisle and John streets until about Christmas. I took my meals at various places. I boarded at the Columbian, the Chef, the Palace hotel and sometimes patronized Gerdes' hotel. Attended college regularly. Spent last Christmas at Greencastle; went there December 23 and stayed till January 6. Stayed at his mother's house.

Jackson was then asked if he ever criminally knew Pearl Bryan, and he answered that he did and at her home on two occasions; had conversation with Dr. Gillespie about the matter during the holidays.

The witness said: "One day I was sitting in the office when Gillespie came in, and his face looked peculiar. I asked him what was the matter, and he said: 'Billy has just told me that Pearl is in trouble.' He wanted to know if I could help her out. I asked him if he was in trouble, and said I would be glad to help him out if he was. He said he was not. Just then some one came into the office, and that stopped the conversation."

Received numerous letters from Will Wood between the middle of October and the holidays on the subject. Witness said the letters were so [illegible] he destroyed them, but two. On being asked what reply he made to them Col. Nelson, of the prosecution, objected.

Col. Crawford stated that he intended to prove that Wood, not Jackson, betrayed Pearl Bryan by what Wood wrote to Jackson.

Col. Crawford stated further that Jackson had the statement from Will Wood that he (Wood) betrayed Pearl Bryan, but Judge Helm, after Col. Nelson objected, sustained the objection. It was held that the only letters properly under consideration were the two offered in evidence and read Saturday. Col. Crawford claimed that he had asked Wood of other letters written by him to Jackson and that Wood had admitted sending other letters. Col[illegible] thought Col. Crawford was mistaken and Stenographer Brown started to find the testimony, but Col. Crawford, rather than take the time of the court, let the matter go for the present and continued questioning the witness.

Jackson testified to sending a prescription to Greencastle November 10, at Will Wood's request. It consisted of Holland gin and cloves. Received an answer in sum and substance that the remedy had failed. Sent another prescription. The greater part of the medicine was ergot of rye. Received word from Wood that that also failed to work. When in Greencastle during the holidays witness talked with Wood about the matter. Wood said something must be done or he, Wood, would have to leave town.

Before Jackson left Greencastle Wood, according to the testimony, asked [illegible] to perform an operation, a criminal one, or have some one perform it.

Col. Nelson withdrew his objection to Jackson telling what Wood wrote him, and Col. Crawford took advantage of it by asking the prisoner what was in Wood's letter.

"He said for God's sake to send him some remedies to get Pearl Bryan out of trouble. I received four or five letters from Wood in the same strain before I went out to Greencastle Christmas. I sent him the remedies in response to these letters."

"Now tell what he generally said in the letters, the substance of them."

"In effect that he was desperate and was anxious to do anything that would relieve Miss Bryan and get her out of trouble."

"Did he ask you to see if you couldn't arrange to have Miss Bryan brought to Cincinnati?"

"Yes, sir. I had talked with a room-mate of mine named Alonzo M. Walling about the matter. I showed him all the letters and we talked about the case."

Jackson then wrote Wood that he had found a man who would do the job; mentioned Walling's name; Wood then wanted to know when to send Pearl down. Did not tell him, but she came. Jackson received a note from Pearl while at the college to meet her. Met her at the Indiana house at 11:30. Witness stayed in her room six or seven minutes, then went out taking her valise with him, the larger one; went to Heider's hotel, and met Walling. He said what made Wood send her down so soon before I could find a place for her? I said: 'Well, she's here,' and he said he would look for a room."

"When did you next see Miss Bryan?"

"About 1 o'clock that Tuesday at Fourth and Race streets. I told her Walling was busy and would see her later."

"Where did you and Pearl go?"

"We walked about town until about 4:30 o'clock, when I took her back to the Indiana house. I made arrangements to meet her again about 6 o'clock. I then went to my room, where I met Walling. He said he had hunted for a room, but couldn't find any. I then met Pearl about 6 o'clock, and we went together to Wallingford's saloon."

"What did you do?"

"Well, Walling had suggested that I bring her there, and Pearl went on back to the wine room. She drank beer and I also drank beer. I met Walling there and he said he had not gotten things ready and suggested that we take a walk. I borrowed $2 from Wallingford, and he gave me two silver dollars, and I paid him for the drinks. We then took a walk, and Walling left us and we took a street car ride on a Norwood car. We had supper at Heider's and then I took her back to the Indiana house. It was about 10:30 and I went to my boarding house and went to bed."

"What did you do Wednesday morning?"

"I met Miss Bryan about 11:30 in the morning at Fourth and Race. I made an appointment for her to meet Walling at the same place at one o'clock, and I then left her. This is the last time I saw her."

"Where did you go after you left Miss Bryan?"

"To Heider's for lunch. Then I went to my room, where I stayed until about four o'clock, when I went out."

"Where did you stay Wednesday night?"

"In my room."

"What hour did you leave your house Thursday morning?" "About 8:30 or 9 o'clock."

Witness said he was not on the Licking Pike that morning. Walling was in the boarding house Wednesday night, but didn't see him; never went to Bellevue, Ky., neither did Pearl Bryan to his knowledge; never was in Dayton, Ky., but he and Walling went to Ft. Thomas last October; bought bridge tickets and walked over into Newport. Then took a Fort Thomas car and went out there. Has not been in Fort Thomas or Newport since until brought here by the officers. Jackson then testified that he spent all of the night of Friday—the night of the murder—in his boarding-house on Ninth street.

The witness then told of his doings before retiring Friday night. Walling and Frank Albion came to his room about 9:30. They left soon after and the prisoner went to sleep. Walling came back some time during the night. His coming in partly aroused Jackson; didn't know the time of night. Saturday morning Jackson arose about 10 o'clock.

Saturday evening Jackson read the account about finding the headless body at Ft. Thomas, started to tell Walling about it. He said he didn't want to see anything about it. He wanted to go to the room at once.

"I said that I didn't propose to go before I had finished my supper.

"Then we went to the room, where he had a lot of bundles.

"I went back to the room and found Walling. He said, 'Throw these away, Jack.'

"'What for?' I asked.

"'Never mind,' he answered, 'about that time I was panic-stricken. 'Then take this valise,' Walling said, 'and the bundle and throw them in the river.' I did so. I walked out on the suspension bridge and there was a good many people there. The bundle became partly undone. I walked farther. Then when I got a chance I threw the bundle away. I did not see a chance to throw the valise away as I thought I took it back.

"It was after 6 o'clock when I went down to the bridge. When I got back to Legner's it was about 7 p. m. When the bundle came open I noticed lady's underwear in it."

"Well, when I bought a paper and saw about the finding of the body I said: 'Great Heavens! what is this Walling?' He said not to read it out loud; that he didn't want to hear about it there. I said: 'This can't be your work, is it?' He said: 'I don't know anything about it.' I asked more questions, and he said: 'I threw it overboard. There, will that do you?'

"Walling said if he did the work it would have to be on the street. I told him I guessed we could agree to that. He said he didn't want anyone to know where the girl's room was."

Monday afternoon Jackson says he went to his room to rest and to see Walling; saw a package on his trunk, a woman's skirt, etc., and went to the river and threw them in. While the witness was away Walling had come in. Saw Walling Tuesday afternoon in the room. He told Jackson to take the valise and a bundle to the depot. Put them under a seat on some train and then get out. Took them, while Walling took two other bundles; went to Richmond street, saw a sewer opening and threw the bundle in. Jackson then went to the Union depot with the valise, but could not get through the gates, because he had no ticket; came back and left it at Kugel's; went home and went to bed.

Wednesday morning he overslept himself; most of the day was spent with Miss Gans, and took her home to Cumminsville in the evening. In passing Lawrence's barber shop saw Walling. He came out. He asked: "What sort of fellow is this Wood, anyhow?" I said I didn't know. He said: "You'd better write a letter saying she has gone away." I said I didn't want to do that. He told me: "You'd better; they know you're here and if they find the girl is dead in this city they'll fasten suspicion on you." I was panic-stricken and complied.

Col. Nelson caused a surprise by refusing to cross-examine the witness.

[illegible], May 2.—The defense in the Jackson [illegible]day began an attack on the expert testimony offered by the prosecution. Drs. Clark, Jeancon and Davis testified as to the possibility of decapitation having taken place after death. The testimony of Dr. Heyl, of the United States army, read from a deposition, was to the same effect. Testimony was adduced to show that decapitation must have been performed by some one who was skilled in, or at least had some knowledge of, surgery.

W. E. Abbott was the first witness put on the stand. He is an embalmer and funeral director, and had been employed at Tippenhauer's. He was called to White's undertaking establishment to embalm Pearl Bryan's headless body. He incised the femoral artery. First he flushed the arteries and then pulled out the arteries of the neck to tie them. Flushing is clearing the arteries of blood. He flushed out nearly a quart. This statement was a great surprise, as the various physicians who made the autopsy testified that the blood vessels were entirely empty.

He saw where a hypodermic injection had been made just under the left breast. He has seen the scars left by hypodermic injections often. He could not be mistaken. A hypodermic syringe leaves a little red and blue scar. He called Dr. Clark's attention to the scar.

Dr. J. A. Jeancon, a practitioner for 42 years, next testified. Coagulation of blood, the witness said, depends more on the nervous system and condition of the patient at the time of death than on anything else. It is quite often the case that blood flows from a dead body. When a person dies suddenly from apoplexy, there may be a great hemorrhage of blood a day or two after death, the blood flowing as from a sponge. Asphyxiation by carbonic acid gas tends to early coagulation; by chloroform it tends to keep the blood in the liquid state.

The primary effect of cocaine, whether taken into the stomach or by a hypodermic injection, is to affect the spinal column; the next effect is to produce spasms. It is like strychnine and other spasmodic poisons. One-twelfth of a grain of cocaine may be a fatal dose for some people. Others have taken 13 or 15 grains by mistake for another medicine and have recovered. Asphyxiation sometimes occurs. Cocaine and chloroform together would kill. Muscular elasticity might remain six to eight hours in a dead body, but usually from one and one-half to two hours. While this contractibility remains a cut made on the body will assume the same appearance as made in life. The skin has its own vitality. In death one set of organs dies after another. The voluntary muscles keep their life some time. The heart may continue to beat a considerable time after death. The doctor said that the contractibility of the skin and muscles in a healthy young person's body is greater than in an older or diseased body. He said that wrinkles are the result of diminution of elasticity in the muscles. It is impossible, he said, to tell whether a retracted cut is made in life or after death before the contractibility of the muscles has ceased.

To cut a head off cleanly, to do a nice job, would take at least ten minutes, said the witness. A voluntary muscle would not lose its contractibility in less than one and one-half hours. Rigor mortis is a stiffening of the muscles of a body. That is why we call a dead body a "stiff."

The delay of rigor mortis, the witness said has little to do with coagulation of blood. The condition of the nervous system largely controls this, the doctor repeated.

"Doctor," said Attorney Crawford, "if a person were decapitated after death by asphyxiation and the trunk placed at an angle of 45 degrees, head downward, would the blood be drained out?"

Dr. J. A. Davis testified that the cuts on the hand of the headless body of Pearl Bryan seemed to be old ones. There was considerable retraction at the stump of the neck, the skin being retracted from one-sixteenth to one-quarter of an inch.

The deposition of Dr. Ashton B. Heyl, stationed at Ft. Thomas, followed Dr. Davis' testimony. The statement was made by Attorney Crawford that Dr. Heyl is captain and assistant surgeon in the United States army. He is 31 years old. He graduated from the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania in 1888. He has been in the United States army since 1890. He visited Locke's farm at the scene of the finding of the headless body at about ten a. m. It was lying at an angle of about forty-five degrees. There were no evidences of a struggle. He saw a small pool of blood, apparently exuded from the cut ends of the vessels. There was a clot of blood on the clothing. There was another spot said to be blood by some present. He did not recognize it as such. Near the body there seemed to him to be signs of sliding down the hill. He also saw a glove and a hat pin there. There were blood stains and bloody finger marks on the corset. The feet and hosiery were not soiled or discolored. The shoes and stockings were not muddy except at the point on the ground. They were unusually clean. The doctor's opinion was that the body had been dead ten or twelve hours.

He saw about a quart or a quart and one-half of blood at the neck. He was anxious to see how much blood was there. As the ground had thawed he probed with a stick. At two inches he reached the bottom point to which the blood had soaked. If the person had been decapitated at or near the spot it was not a copious hemorrhage. Blood is about one-thirteenth of the body's weight. The headless body weighed between 125 and 130 pounds. There would be about ten pounds of blood in the body. Six or eight pounds of blood would be the average hemorrhage from such a wound.

The wound was not noticed by him to be contracted. The hemorrhage was too old to distinguish from the blood clots whether they were venous or arterial.

This operation was very skillfully done. He thought that the body had been decapitated after death.

Henry Motz, a young farmer living four miles from Newport on the Licking pike, took the stand.

"I remember," he said, "when Sheriff Plummer, Mr. Renkert, some newspaper men and a colored man named Jackson went over the Three-mile road. It was one o'clock Sunday morning when the party reached the Three-mile road. Sheriff Plummer gave me $2 to show them across. It took about an hour or more to go across. We stopped several times; once the cab went into the creek. They were an hour going over the Three-mile road alone, the witness said.

NEWPORT, Ky., May 2.—The defense in the Jackson trial read several depositions Friday afternoon as to the whereabouts of Coachman Geo. Jackson Friday night January 31.

Crawford took up another document. It was the deposition of Oliver Lawrence, who said he lived in Cincinnati and was a barber. He knew Scott Jackson after Albion came to work at the Sixth street shop. He said Albion made fun of Jackson's whiskers Friday, January 31, and shaved them off. Frank Breaner was there.

Samuel E. Ewing's deposition was read. Knows Geo. H. Jackson. On Friday night, January 30, 1896, he was at Ewing's house from nine p. m. to between one and two a. m. It was nearer two than one o'clock. He came to my house and stayed until two. He was to court-martial, and did court-martial, James Smith. There was a man at my house who was playing the part of a sick man in the hospital corps. An officer came to qualify for the inspection for February 9, 1896, and that also served to impress the day on his mind. He is a member of the Caldwell Guards. They did not drill on Friday night, January 31, 1896. They drilled Saturday, February 1, at about 8:20 p. m. They left Smith Court and an inspection took place on Government square. It was a clear night.

Mrs. Ida Ewing's deposition was to the same effect. Joseph G. Curry's deposition bore out the two previous one.

The depositions of Jarvis Smith, Blair Stout, Edward R. Stanton, Sherman Lawson, John Lee, George Snothers corroborate the depositions of the Ewings.

Dr. N. I. Fraid, Carl Beckinth and Alice Beckinth's depositions, were to the effect that George H. [illegible] subject to fits.

NEWPORT, Ky., May 4.—In the Jackson murder trial Saturday David R. Locke gave further testimony as to the scene where the headless body of Pearl Bryan was found, which did not materially differ from that of the witnesses who preceded [illegible] depositions were read reflecting on the reputation of George H. Jackson, the colored coachman.

Mrs. Edwin Post, the sister of Scott Jackson, testified to the effect that the prisoner's reputation in Greencastle prior to his arrest was good.

Chief of Police Van Tassel, of Springfield, made a deposition, which was read. He said Jackson's reputation for truth was not great.

Van Tassel said Jackson claimed to have been robbed in Springfield by Wm. Melvin, a colored [illegible] Jackson was [illegible] the hospital. In a day or two he was released, and he was so apparently truthful in his statement to the chief of police that Van Tassel had Melvin arrested at Washington C. H.

Miss Rose McNevin, of the boarding-house where Jackson and Walling roomed, was the next witness.

She said that she had lived four years at 222 West Ninth street. The house has three floors and 14 rooms. She described the arrangement down stairs. On the second floor are four rooms and the bathroom. Knew Scott Jackson since January 6. Alonzo Walling rented the room for them January 4. They occupied the room over the dining-room on the second floor, and remained there until the time of their arrest.

Scott Jackson wore a beard until Friday night when he came down stairs to borrow some ink. It was January 30. She was sure at any rate that it was Friday night. She had heard in the morning that Jackson had been shaved. Saw Scott Jackson in the house Monday morning and again Monday evening about 6 o'clock.

Thursday morning she saw him going out, about nine o'clock. Thursday night she saw him go out about ten o'clock.

"I was sitting in the dining-room reading Thursday evening," she said. "Walling came in about 8:30 o'clock and gave the children some apples. He sat there awhile reading. At this time I heard some one up in Jackson's room. Then I heard the footsteps coming down the stairs and I thought Jackson was coming into the dining-room. Instead of coming into the dining-room, the person went to the front hall door. To be sure there was no mistake I got up and looked out into the hall. It was Mr. Jackson. He was going out. He was gone about five minutes. It was about ten o'clock."

"Did you see him Friday?"

"Yes, as he was going out, about nine o'clock in the morning, and again about eight o'clock Friday evening, when he came downstairs. I knew he was in his room before that because I heard him in his room."

"What did he say about the bottle of ink?"

"He just asked to borrow it. Before much was said about the ink we talked about Jackson's changed appearance. My sister was lying in the back parlor suffering with toothache. Walling had treated her. Jackson talked with her about 20 minutes. It must have been nine o'clock when he went upstairs. The witness said that footsteps in the house can be heard all over it. She remained in the dining-room until perhaps 10:30 o'clock. She was sitting where she could see the hall door. It was her custom to watch the front door in the evening to see who entered. Scott Jackson did not go out before 10:30. The witness went to her own room over Scott Jackson's and read until 12 o'clock. The door to her room was open and the house was quiet. Did not hear anyone leave the house during the time she sat reading; was sure she could have heard anyone leaving.

Saturday morning the witness went to Scott Jackson's room to make up the bed, but some one was there.

"How many people slept in the bed in Scott Jackson's room on Thursday night?"

"One."

"On Friday night?"

"Two."

Before Jackson's arrest at about 2 p. m. on the day of the arrest, two officers or detectives came to the house for Jackson. They were Detectives Crawford and Schmicks. Crawford came first and asked if Jackson was in. They were greatly alarmed. They asked what the officers wanted. The ladies thought that possibly the students had brought a machine to fill teeth from the college without permission. The officers said it was nothing connected with the college. Then Chief Deitsch and Officer Whittaker came in and Whittaker was ordered to remain till Jackson returned. One of the officers dropped a hint about Greencastle. Mrs. McNevin asked if it was anything about the murder. They replied that it was only for the purpose of finding out if they knew the Greencastle girls. Whittaker went to the room of Jackson and surveyed it. Later two other officers came. The officers waited in the parlor where they could see Jackson as soon as they came in. At about six p. m. she asked the detectives to go upstairs and look around.

She thought it was the proper thing. The officers asked if she knew which trunk in the room belonged to Jackson. She said the trunks were opened and lifted the lid of one of them. There was a bundle of letters. One was lifted by her or the officer, she was not certain. Then they heard the street door slam and she ran out not wanting to be caught in the room. It was Walling who came in. The detectives went down the other way. The officers then left and did not return till about 10 p. m., when they said that they had caught Mr. Jackson on the street.

"They went over to the station-house. In 15 or 20 minutes they all came back to the room. There were two or three detectives, and I can't tell how many newspaper reporters," said Miss McNevin.

On cross-examination Miss McNevin said she had been keeping the house for four years. Prior to that she had been saleslady. She was with C. M. Abbott's store five or six years, with Butt for one year, then with Abbott again, then with Rollman, lastly with Alms & Doepke. The month of January she had about ten roomers. She saw Dr. Littler on Monday morning. He left about 8 or 8:30 a. m. Tuesday morning he left about the same time.

She did not see all her roomers every hour, but every day, every morning, at noon nearly all and at night usually. She kept a close watch on her roomers "for reasons." She did not always keep watch on them when they returned at night. They had no relation to her kitchen or dining-room department.

The reason she kept so close a watch on the rooms was because the hall door was open and all the roomers placed their things in the charge of the boarding-house keeper. The reason the doors were kept open was because the students would mislay the keys, break them in the doors, and then call the people of the house at all hours. The object of leaving house door open all night was to let the roomers come and go just the same as if they had keys.

Miss McNevin was then asked to begin with January 20 and tell where Walling and Jackson were every hour of the week ensuing. She said she could not. She could not do this with regard to the other boarders. She could tell every hour they came in and went out, she said.

She could see them come in and go out in the hall from the dining-room, which door was open. The dining-room is used for a sitting-room. Not all the roomers had friends. Some of them did. She did not know any of her roomers any great length of time. Yet she said she knew whom they brought in with them.

She could tell what room they went to by the sound of the door. She could tell the sound of every door in the house, she said. It was her business to watch all comers and goers. There were some times when she was not on the watch and therefore was not able to see every one coming in and going out. She did not keep a diary or note-book. She claimed she could tell the movements of her roomers every day of the week of the arrest, because Chief Deitsch and others asked her to recall these facts. She told it from memory, she said.

She said she fixed the date of Jackson's borrowing the ink because a young lady who was going to a birthday party that night was in the dining-room at the time.

JUGGLING WITH STATISTICS.

Republican Organs Doctoring Facts to Suit Their Own Purposes.

We noted recently several instances of the confusing effect of McKinley worship on the mathematical faculties. In the case of the New York Tribune the same effect appears, coupled with an atrophy of that moral sense which abhors untruth or the semblance of it. Rebuking Gen. Clarkson for having said that McKinley is the champion of an extreme, ultra high protective tariff, it says that "it is an astonishing blunder for a republican to speak of that act (1890) as one of extreme protection." It then proceeds to show, in its own peculiar way, that all former republican tariffs were higher. It says that the McKinley act produced duties from 1892-5 that averaged 21.66 per cent., while the act of 1883, during its first three years, averaged 30.58 per cent., and the average under the law in force from 1869 to 1871 was 41.94 per cent.

Waiving the slight inaccuracies in these percentages, which appear on examination of the treasury reports—for no prudent person will accept the figures given by these arithmetical bunglers and tricksters without investigation—the trick that the Tribune is capable of descending to to score a point lies in its taking the average of the percentages of duty computed on all the imports, whether they are dutiable or on the free list. This is a very transparent fraud, this computation of duties on imports that pay no duty, in order to cast discredit on former republican tariffs and make a better showing for what it termed, when first enacted, "the best and bravest tariff ever enacted." The difference between this and the showing made by calculating the rate on the goods on which taxes were laid shows that Clarkson was right, and the Tribune is not only wrong, but is easily convicted of stupid evasion.

The real question is what was the average rate of taxes paid on the dutiable goods imported. Taking the same tables for the same period we find that the average for the years 1869-71 was 46.68 per cent., for 1884-6 44.34 per cent. and for 1892-4 (McKinley's) it was 49.12 per cent. What it would have been had it lasted longer its rate of progression gives some indication. The average was 48.71 per cent. in 1892, 49.58 per cent. in 1893, and 50.06 in its last year. This change came from the gradual change of policy as the republican party grew more and more radical. The first tariffs were laid for revenue as well as protective purpose. They covered articles not produced here as well as those that were. Hence in 1869-71 the imports paying no taxes were only about 6 per cent. of all. By the time the era of McKinleyism had arrived the party had reached the policy of putting on the free list everything not produced here, and taxing highly everything like that which was. This made the free imports, chiefly sugar, tea and coffee, in the McKinley period, 56 per cent. of all.

Here we have the solution of that steady decrease that cut the customs revenues from $226,540,037 in 1890, before McKinley's act went into effect, to $129,558,892 in its last year. Putting revenue producers, such as raw sugar, on the free list depleted the revenue, while the inordinate taxation of competing goods decreased their consumption and consequent importation, and thus reduced revenue. It is this policy that it is proposed to restore if a majority of the voters are silly enough to consent. But what shall be thought of a paper and a candidate of that paper, when such methods are used to bolster up his candidacy and his cause.—St. Paul Globe.

Futile Hopes.

A manufacturer of farm implements in an adjoining state, who is waiting for McKinleyism to bring the promised good times, mentioned his hopes and expectations to the editor of a journal devoted to his industry. In reply he received the following: "You have my sympathy, not on account of five-cent potatoes and 40-cent wheat, but because of your extreme credulity in thinking for a moment that the election of McKinley will make anything better than we have now. It is not necessary for you and me to quarrel about it; the chances are he will be elected. At all events, if money can buy him the place he will get it. Four years from now we will be just as much poorer than now as we are worse off now than 20 years ago. It's all right, though, it takes a good deal of sweating to make people see what is necessary, but in God's time it will come. I write you this so you will not be deceived and expect McKinley's election to help you pay any bills."—St. Paul Globe.

——McKinley stands for a doctrine whose beneficiaries can afford to pay well for the special privileges secured to them under the bill bearing his name. They can make no better investment than in buying enough official positions of the McKinley stripe to enable them to run the United States government. Once represented by their own pliant tools, they can secure such tariff legislation, such legislation in the interest of trusts, combines and pools as they may desire. One of the strongest features of the campaign thus far carried on is that the masses do not grasp this fact or are too apathetic to make the fight on behalf of good government that it suggests. McKinley cannot be for them and at the same time for the powerful representatives of syndicated capital that are behind his candidacy.—Detroit Free Press.

——A man to be president of the United States needs a good deal of a backbone of a superior order of stiffness. If he has been tried as governor of a state, and has been found out to be a kind-hearted "[illegible]mp, everybody's friend sort of a man, he is hardly to be nominated by wise republicans, is he? It is just as well to think of these things before it is too late. It will be easier now than in the midst of a hard campaign.—New Haven Palladium (Rep.).

IGNORANCE TRIUMPHANT.

The Legitimate Results of Republican Folly.

The threat and continued probability of McKinley's nomination awakens curious and conflicting emotions in eminent republican bosoms. A Washington correspondent reported the other day a conversation on the subject overheard in a group of republican senators. They were astounded at the success of the McKinley canvass. It was not wholly due to the unscrupulous and mercenary methods of his managers. There was an unmistakable and powerful demand for McKinley among the republican masses. But why should there be? The man was a fool—everybody at Washington knew that. Talk about his authorship of the McKinley bill! The men who really made that were Aldrich and Allison and Reed. McKinley knew no more about his own tariff than about four-dimensional geometry. The clerk of his committee gave him all his facts and figures, and for the rest, his parrot-like formula, brought out on all occasions, about the American fireside, had to suffice. Here was a man who had neither wit nor power of speech, no knowledge of public business, no force of character, no convictions, no courage, no salient qualities whatever except an extraordinary and wooden-headed self-complacency, and yet the masses of the party of intelligence were madly demanding that this bramble be king over them. It was all a strange and depressing puzzle to the superior senatorial mind.

But the mystery is not so profound or insoluble. Cause produces effect as inexorably in politics as in physics, and the whirlwind of tariff ignorance which the republican leaders now fear is but the legitimate reaping from the wind of folly which they have been sowing for many years past. They themselves, it is true, have been very cynical about it. They have winked to each other as they have talked about the foreigner paying the tax, about artificially high prices being a blessing, about doubling the price of wheat by a high duty, about making the tall chimneys smoke, as Thiers said, by legislation, and raising wages by taxation. Off the stump they spoke of these things with their tongues in their cheeks. Believe such things? That was not the point; there was another president in protection, just as there used to be one more in the bloody shirt, and that was sufficient justification. But if they were not serious, the farmers, the artisans, the ditchers, the bankrupts were. The gospel of wealth for all by taxation of all did not fall on their ears campaign after campaign without carrying conviction. They finally got it firmly in their heads that the prosperity of the country and of the individual depends upon a tariff. Grossly and palpably and fanatically ignorant as this conviction is, it is the inevitable result of the delusions and sophistries to which republican leaders, knowing better, have given currency for political effect. The ultimate political effect they now see, to their own amazement and consternation—the ignorance and fanaticism which they themselves have helped to create, rushing in a frenzy to make the personification of ignorance and fanaticism republican president.—N. Y. Post.

PROUD OVER LITTLE.

A Rotten Record Brings Pride to the Republicans.

Some of the republican organs are presenting the record of the house at Washington as "one to be proud of." They swell with gratification over the fact that all the appropriation bills have been passed!

There was never any trouble in getting appropriation bills passed by a republican congress. Under Reed's rule in the Fifty-first congress the house spent a billion dollars, and the speaker was very proud of it. But he was not so puffed up when the returns came in the next November and he saw his party buried under an avalanche.

Is it a thing to be proud of that the house has apropriated $20,000,000 or more in excess of the revenues and made but one effort, and that not an honest one, to supply the deficiency? Was the unconsidered indorsement of the president's Venezuela message—joint action which checked the business revival and cost the country millions of dollars—a matter to be proud of?

If a do-nothing, presidential-politics, jingoism and buncombe session is a thing to be proud of, it is the sort of pride which the good book says "goeth before a fall."—N.Y. World.

In a Nutshell.

The panic of '93 caused hard times. It was caused by bad monetary laws. Every business man knows that. Some republican politicians admit it. But the republicans saw in the hard times a chance to score a point and make capital. They charged it onto the democratic tariff. It was, with its slight reductions, the cause of the panic. Only a restoration of the discarded policy can restore prosperity. They preached this doctrine incessantly. They knew better: their intelligent business men know better, but they are overawed and silent. The mass believe what their speakers and papers tell them. McKinley is the embodiment, in their eyes, of McKinleyism. He alone is identified with that policy. "What more logical than that the people should cluster about the candidate who most directly promises to relieve them through a high tariff?" This puts the situation into a nutshell. Boston Herald (Ind.).

——The steel trust and all the other trusts depending on it ought to be indorsed in the St. Louis platform. They are not less logically the fruit of McKinleyism than the nominee of the convention will be.—N. Y. World.

——Hon. Mark Hanna has referred to Messrs. Platt and Quay as mere "political babies." Who is Mark Hanna running for president, anyhow, himself? or that other Ohio man?—Iowa State Register (Rep.).

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, May 6, 1896.

Advertising Rates:

One inch, one time……………………$1.00
Each additional time……………… .25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50
☞Announcement of candidates for office, cash when ordered……$5.00.

W. L. RIDDELL. - - Publisher.

Neighborhood News.

Petersburg.

The office at the distillery has been given a general cleaning up and a coat of fresh varnish and paint. The office is lighted with [illegible]icity, and is a neat office of which the superintendent is justly proud.

A great change has taken place in hotel circles [illegible] during the past few weeks. Joseph Morrison, formerly of the River Side Hotel, has had the Brendel House thoroughly cleaned, papered and painted, and has moved to same. It will henceforth be known as the Grand Central House. A Leon Loder has moved into the River Side Hotel, which is owned by his father, and will run a hotel. It will probably have its former name, the Loder House. May the hustling proprietor of each of the above hosteiries have success.

Chas. Schramm, Geo. Ruth, sr., and Andy Helms are having their residences painted.

The steamer Pauline's picture was taken the other day.

Miss Mabel Heaton, of Lawrenceburg, has been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Bowman, for several days.

The dance given by Everett Green aud Al Nixon, was attended by a large crowd. Everybody reports a splendid time.

Miss Alta Terrill was a visitor in Cincinnati, a few days since.

James Buchanan Tolin was in town several days last week hustling for the Circuit Clerkship.

A. A. Knoffel, the man who disappeared from the Burnet House in Cincinnati, on December 24, was found floating in the river at Addyston, last Wednesday. A reward of $500 was offered for his recovery, dead or alive

Five lady and four gentlemen bicyclists came down from Cincinnati last Sunday, and put up at the Phoenix Hotel. The costumes of the ladies caused considerable comment on the part of the ladies and young gentlemen of our burg.

Stanley Buchanan is engineer Lemon's cub on the Workum.

Pitching horse shoes is the order of the day down here.

Willie Feuton and George Weindell each lost a new hat the other day coming from the city on the Workum. It was only the wind—they are temperance boys.

B. J. Crisler, proprietor of Phoenix Hotel, cut his thumb very badly while carving a turkey the other day.

Owing to the numerous eating places there is no use for anyone leaving Petersburg,hungry whether he has money or not.

Steve Houze attended the Jackson trial in Newport, last Tuesday.

Mat Hardin, one of our tonsorial artists, has been on the sick list for several days.

Mrs. Tobitha Green, who has pneumonia, is not expected to recover.

Mr. Bacon, a Cincinnati drummer, and a fine gentleman, was calling on our merchants, one day last week.

Elijah Parker and Ennis Nixon, of Gasburg, were in town Thursday.

Talk of lighting our city by electricity has been revived again. Hope it will be done.

Morris McCright is on the Bostona learning to be an engineer.

A thing of the past—rain.

A Mr. Shutts, of Cincinnati, was in town to day, Thursday.

The children of the Christian Sunday School have begun practicing for Children's Day, the first Sunday in June.

The coopers are on a "slack-up" because of a scarcity of material. A lot will soon arrive from Lynchburg, O.

A new government man, with his wife, are registered at the Phoenix.

Thos. Haste has moved to A. Hoffman's house, on Front street, and Mr. Passons will occupy the house Tom vacat ed.

Rev. Hayes, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., will give two interesting lectures in the Christian church here the evenings of the 6th and 7th inst. His themes include events taken from the life and ministry of Christ, which are illustrated by large stereopticon views. The lectures are pronounced interesting and very instructive.

Hear that the work on Gordon Bros., new building will begin next month.

DEL VECHE.

Richwood.

On Wednesday evening, the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lee Gaines was the scene of one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season. To Mrs. Vosheil, with the kind assistance and extended hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Gaines, is due the praise of all present. An elegant string band was present and dancing was engaged in until a late hour, an elegant luncheon having been served.

Miss Maud Norman with her dainty smiles and graceful ways was beautifully attired in silk mull.

Miss Ella Norman wore white silk with flowers in her hair.

Miss Lucy Fields in cream colored crape marette was a perfect picture of loveliness.

Miss Mary Lassing in green silk with flowers in her hair was sweet, indeed.

Miss Lulu Williams wore white silk and looked as stately as a queen.

Miss Nannie Dickerson wore pink silk.

Others present were Misses Mary Hedges, Lottie Williams, Hattie Dickerson, Addie Norman, Fannie, Maud and Effie Cleek, Marette Riley, Sallie Hicks, Rose Stansifer, Sarah Gaines and Mrs. Vosheil, Hicks, Fields and Gaines.

The gentlemen present were Messrs. Matson Rachal, Ben Norman, C. C. Metcalfe, Hal Blanton, Marshall Hedges, Add Norman, Clarence Norman, Lucien and Volney Dickerson, Ben Terrill, Alvin Bruce, Add Rogers, Sam Hicks, Jno. Williams, Allyn Gaines and B. F. Metcalfe.

Florence.

Dan Aheran and family, of Cincinnati, were the guests of his mother, last Sunday.

Miss Lee White, of Erlanger, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Porter, here.

Miss Edmonia Porter has been on the sick list for the last few days.

Miss Della Grogan is at home after a pleasant visit with her sister, Mrs. Carroll at Banklick.

Mack Dulaney was in town Sunday.

Mrs. Hedges has returned home, after a pleasant visit with her mother at Bullittsville.

Limaburg.

Geo. Craven and family have moved to Springfield, Ohio.

The Harvest Home grounds have been cleaned off, aud quite a number of new seats made.

S. J. Rouse had a lot of fence stakes destroyed by fire, one day last week.

The dry weather stopped some of the farmers from plowing.

Lambs have been selling from $3 to $3.50. One man refused $3½ for his.

Cutworms and Colorado potato bugs are at work on the corn and potatoes.

Bullittsville.

T. G. Graves has returned from a flying visit to Nicholasville.

Mrs. Bob Day died at her home in Francisville, April 27th, after an illness of several weeks. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Curry the following day, after which the body was interred in the Bullittsburg cemetery. She leaves a husband and six children to mourn her death.

W. A. Gaines spent several days in Ludlow, last week.

R. C. Gaines and wife visited W. L. Gaines and wife, at Richwood, Saturday and Sunday.

Ves Gaines would liberally reward the finder for returning to him his hat crown, lost recently, on the streets of Burlington.

Thos. Grant has been quite ill for the past week, but is slowly recovering.

Miss Etta Graves has returned to school at Lebanon.

Miss Lizzie Stephens was the guest of Miss Lutie Watts, last Saturday night.

Erlanger.

The election of trustees resulted in the selection of Geo. J. Rost and R. J. White, who will be given their certificate and be sworn in before May 9.

Lafayette Lodge, K. of P. enjoyed their visit to Burlington Lodge, last Thursday night, where they enjoyed the conferring of the third or Knight Rank on three Esquires. The work was done to perfection.

A broken wheel caused a freight wreck just below Erlanger, Saturday morning, in which were 7 cars loaded with pig iron and cotton. A colored man was run over and badly injured.

The Erlanger and Florence base ball clubs played a very interesting game at Woodside, Sunday. Score 27 to 22 in favor of Florence.

One of the social events was a reception tendered Rev. O. M. Huey and wife, prior to their departure for their new home in Carrollton, at the residence of Dr. C. R. Slater.

Capt. Harry Baker presented Rev. Huey with a handsome mantle clock, in a neat speech. Among those present were Dr. and Mrs. McCullum, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Buckner, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Scott, Mrs. Walter Withrow, Mrs. Henry Myers, Mrs. Robt. Pearson, Mrs. John Tanner, Mrs. Harriet Kirtley, Mrs. Thos. Finnell; Misses Pauline Kirtley, Lucy Riggs, —— Hilker, Bessie and Nellie Crigler; Messrs. Squire Webb, Len and Hy Childress, Carl Price, Jas. Blanton, Roy Wilber, Hal Blanton and others.

Verona.

Mumps are quite prevalent here.

J. G. Hudson, who is agent for [illegible]zona land, will start for that place with a crowd of prominent people on the 5.

Robt. O. Power's little son met with a painful accident, one day last week. He was riding a horse which fell on him breaking his leg.

Rev. Myers, of Walton, filled Rev. L. Johnson's place in the pulpit here, last Sunday.

Mrs. Ben L. Johnson, of Walton, has located here in the millinery and dress making business.

Mrs. Ora. Spegal and Miss Kate Roberts are engaged in dressmaking at L. C. Roberts'.

The wheat crop will be very short in this vicinity.

Tobacco plants very scarce.

Rube Houston has purchased a new buggy. Look out, Mr Rube, this is leap year.

W. H. Adams has the mule fever.

The first annual entertainment was given by the League Institute, May 1. A large crowd was in attendance and all listened attentively to the well drilled and trained pupils. The exercises were considered a grand success in every particular. Miss Hamilton and Miss Pfeiffer deserve much credit for their excellency in teaching. At the close of the program the following gold medals were awarded:

To Miss Delia Roberts, of Verona, for brilliancy and expression in music, by Miss. M. Pfeiffer, teacher of music.

To Miss Bernice Johnson, of Verona, for general improvement awarded by Miss Pfeiffer.

To Hodge Hudson, of Gallatin, Tenn, for attendance, by Miss Hamilton.

To John McCoy, of Sherman, Ky., for penmanship, by J. G. Hudson.

To Kirby Vest, of Berkshire, for latin, by J. G. Hudson.

To Chas. Finnell, of Verona, for highest grade in scholarship, by Miss Hamilton.

To Miss Edna Ransom, of Verona, for model pupil.

Walton.

If the Walton contestants in the Nor. Ky. Inter-Academic Declamatory contest do not carry off the prizes on the 15th inst. at Independence and the 16th at this place, it will not be the fault of Prof. Chas. Pryor. As soon as school is dismissed at 4 p. m. he puts his pupils through a rigid drill, which is kept up until 9 o'clock. The Prof. is under a great mental strain, and if his scholars are defeated he will be the sufferer of heavy depression.

If the free silver and bimetallist majority of the Democracy do not stir themselves and organize speedily, they will find themselves in the schedule as among the "also rans" at the mass convention to be held at Burlington on the 30th inst. Their opponents are working tooth and nail, as it were, to get control of the convention, and the men who uphold the greatest crime in the history of the country, not even excepting that of Benedict Arnold, will hesitate at no means to accomplish the complete and final subjugation of the agricultural and laboring classes to the damnable greed of the money power. Be up, friends, and doing; organize yourselves into leagues and distrust all the sweet singing about harmony which will be dinned into your ears to beguile you to your temporal destruction. Remember that eternal vigilance and determined action is the only thing which can save you from everlasting financial damnation.

The Scott Jackson case is daily being tried before an improvised Walton jury under the balcony of the Opera House in the morning sessions and on Bert Coffman's porch in the afternoon. As the evidence is being brought out the minds of the jurymen are made up point by point. As they will not have to listen to the arguments of the attorneys, the verdict will simply be in accordance with the facts established, and is, therefore, more apt to be a righteous one than if they had been bored with the legal controversies and twisting of the facts by the lawyers. The public seems to enjoy it as a relief from the perpetual religious harangues that have distinguished the town for such a length of time that the "memory of man runneth not to the contrary."

Two of the town officials were before his honor, Judge Botts, last week for violation of the ordinance forbidding the running at large of stock. The members of the council was fined $4, and the town clerk, $2. These officials are not well up in the ways of those larger cities, where no fines would have been imposed.

It is given out that Mr. Plum Norman will remove to Covington and engage in the restaurant business. He has engaged the services of the popular Mrs. Henry Holder as an assistant, who will accompany him to the city.

Mrs. A. E. Gorman (nee Demoisy), who was operated on for cancer in Cincinnati, has returned home and is getting along nicely.

Last week we were threatened with a water famine. Ye gods and little fishes! a local option place in Kentucky and not even water to be had. What would become of us?

The funeral of Mrs. Edward Northcutt was preached, to-day, to a very large congregation by the Rev. Lafayette Johnson at the Baptist church, in his usual elegant and impressive style. There is not in all Kentucky a more convincing and forcible preacher than Mr. Johnson, and his funeral orations have always been something remarkable.

BARGAINS: CLOSING OUT.

For the purpose of engaging in other business I am now selling my stock of goods below cost. If you want Bargains call early. The sales will continue from Saturday to Saturday until all the goods are sold. Having to go to the city every week I will continue to take orders for goods not in stock.

A. M. ACRA, Burlington, Ky.

SOUTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION,
Chattanooga, Tenn., May 8-14, 96.

The short line—the finest passenger equipment—the quickest schedules, and the most interesting scenery are found on the Queen & Crescent Route. Two superb vestibuled limited trains daily, Cincinnati and Lexington to Chattanooga, without change. Rates for the convention, one fare for the round trip from Cincinnati. Ask agents for Queen & Crescent tickets.

W. C. Rinearson, G. P. A.,
Cincinnati, O.

JOE J.,

Will make the present season at my farm at $8 to insure a colt. Care will be taken to prevent accidents, but I will not be responsible should any occur.

J. W. WATTS,
Bullittsville, Ky.

For Sale.

A new, double brick dwelling house in first-class order. With it are 7 acres of desirable land. All kinds of fruit.—Price, $5,000.

MR. MAYER, Erlanger, KY.

Eggs and Poultry

I am now taking orders for thoroughbred Poultry and Eggs. First come, first served.

A. M. ACRA,
Burlington, Ky.

NOTICE.

I hereby give notice that after thirty days I will apply to the Boone County Court to have my voting place changed from the Bellevue precinct to the Petersburg precinct, in Boone county.

BEN HENSLEY,

April 13, 1896.

BLACKSMITHI'G.

A. J. CLAYTON
—Does all kinds of—
Smithing.
Always on hand and anxious to give satisfaction to all customers,
Horse Shoeing A SPECIALTY.
BURLINGTON, - KY.

TABLER'S BUCK EYE PILE OINTMENT
CURES NOTHING BUT PILES,
A SURE and CERTAIN CURE known for 15 years as the BEST REMEDY for PILES.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by RICHARDSON MED CO., ST. LOUIS.

18 SPRING AND SUMMER 96
MILLINERY
☞All the Latest Ideas in ☞Spring and Summer
MILLINERY
Will always be found at our Store.
Ladies', Misses' and Children's Patterns……
HATS & BONNETS of artistic designs and from our own work rooms—Stock up to date. Hats trimmed to order on short notice.
Prices Lower Than Ever.
You will find everything usually kept in a first-class
MILLINERY STORE.
Everything new in this season's goods.
Our trimmers are of the best.
Your patronage is solicited.☜
Mrs. A. J. SWALLOW,
Main St., RISING SUN, IND.

☞If you want Harness and Saddle qualities combined with speed breed to

SAM HARRIS,
No. 6520. Record, 2:29¼.

He will make the season of 1896, at my stable on the Dry Creek & Bullittsville pike, between Hebron and Constance, at $10 to insure a colt, the money due when the mare is known to be in foal or parted with after being bred.

SAM HARRIS' get always sells for fancy prices. Forty of his colts sold at an average of over $400—no other horse that ever stood in this county has made such a showing. If desired the names of those making above sales will be furnished.

Those desiring to breed mares can leave them with me and they will receive attention and be furnished pasturage at $2 per month. The excellent breeding qualities of Sam Harris are well known in this county.

J. L. RILEY.

THE SADDLE AND HARNESS STALLION,

JIM CROW,

Will be found this season at Geo. E. Rouse's farm on the Florence and Burlington pike at $3.00 for a living colt.

For further information call on or address

J. E. ROUSE,
Limaburg, Boone Co., Ky.

WHAT!
The Great Enquirer
ONLY 50 CTS. A YEAR?
YES!

And any one sending two yearly subscribers at 50 cts. each, gets a
Free Copy One Year.
An 8-page paper and 9 long columns to a page, makes it the Largest in Size!
Cheapest in Price!
Always Most Reliable for Facts, Truth and Markets.
THE BEST
Family Newspaper in United States for News, Intelligence, Fashions, Household, General Miscellaneous Reading Matter, Stories, etc.
PAY TO AGENTS
Double that of other papers. An excellent opportunity for those out of employment to make money. Try it. Samples free. Address,
ENQUIRER COMPANY,
CINCINNATI, O.

Take your County Paper.

EVERYBODY'S INTEREST

It is to everybodys interest to go where the best Goods can be bought for the least money, this can always be done by calling on IRA AYLOR, Agent for the
"Quick Meal" Gasoline Stoves and Ranges,
Every Stove guaranteed as represented. Give us a trial and we will save you at least 10 per cent. on every stove. Please remember the places.
IRA AYLOR,
Branch Store—UNION, KY. ERLANGER, KY.

STEPHENS & SCALES,
—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN—
Hardware, Cutlery, and Agricultural Implements,
Genuine Oliver Chilled & Steel Plows,
Bissell Chilled & Steel Hillside Plows,
Walking & Riding Cultivators,
Steel & Wood Gear Farm Wagons,
Champion Mower and Binders,
Ball Bearing Disk Harrows,
BARBED AND SMOOTH WIRE
AT THE LOWEST MARKET PRICE.
No. 26 Pike Street, - - - Covington, Ky.

BEST GOODS! LIVING PRICES!
Hardware,
Farm Machinery,
Fine Vehicles,
Harness.
HARRIS FITCH, Corner HIGH AND SHORT STREETS,
LAWRENCEBURG, INDIANA.

A. C. HECKMAN,
Florist, Plants, Bulbs, Seeds, & Metal Designs.
Fresh Cut Flowers Daily. Artistic Floral Designs a Specialty.
734 Madison Avenue,
Covington, - - Kentucky.
25 Per Cent. Less than any Cincinnati House.

J. J. GEISEN,
Best and cheapest HAT STORE in the city.
Agency for WHITE STAR LAUNDRY.
615 Madison Ave., COVINGTON, KY.

METROPOLITAN COUPE AND LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,
E. H. BAKER, Proprietor
(o)
Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.
Telephone 580.

Go to JOHN L. KOCH,
FOR
HARNESS, BUGGIES and Road CARTS

He having secured the Agency of the James & Mayer Buggies, Manufactured at Lawrenceburg, can sell you a Buggy at factory prices.
LOOK HERE
Good Top Buggy $40 and up.
Machine-made Buggy Harness, $5 and up.
Hand-made Buggy Harness, $7.50 up.
BUGGIES REPAINTED AND REPAIRED.
JOHN L. KOCH, Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

FOR SALE.
Lumber Yard and Stock at Cost.
(o)
J. C. GARVEY, Erlanger, Ky.,
Is closing out his Entire Stock of Lumber at and below Cost for CASH. Those wishing to reap the benefits of these remarkable Low Prices and obtain first choice of goods must come early, as I do not intend to replace the stock, but, to quit the business. The closing out of the stock will begin
April 13th and Continue Sixty Days,
After which time I shall close the yard, rent or sell to any one desiring to reopen the business. I am at present about two-thirds stocked and can meet the demands of those who come early. Write or call on me for prices on the kinds of lumber you are in want of.
J. C. GARVEY, Erlanger, Ky.

Local News.

It now looks like it may never rain.

J. E. Rouse, Limaburg, has a fresh Jersey cow for sale.

The larger portion of this county's corn crop is planted.

Some of the farmers have begun plowing their corn.

Mr. Clayton's family moved back to Bullittsville, last week.

Two of Boone's best citizens have died since our last issue.

The water is being rapidly exhausted in the creeks and branches.

The wool buyers were interviewing the farmers in town Monday.

Thousands of young maple trees have come up in Burlington this spring.

There was a fine rain in the Florence neighborhood, last Wednesday night.

The light showers that fell last week were of great assistance to vegetation.

James Clore took a load of passengers to the city Monday to see Buffalo Bill's show.

The oldest inhabitant can not tell you when there was a dryer April than the one just past.

Rev. Fizer will commence a protracted meeting at the Methodist church here, next Tuesday night.

A very small crowd in town last Monday, and everyone was complaining of hard times and dry weather.

The continued dry weather is becoming a serious matter with the farmers. It has curtailed the supply of grass very much.

Sheep are being sheared, and some of the flock owners are considering the advisability of holding their wool clip for a while.

One binder was on exhibition on the street Monday. The indications are that class of machinery will be but little in demand this season.

Last Monday was pension day, and several of the old soldiers, and widows of others, called at the clerk's office to have their vouchers prepared.

Some of the farmers had to suspend their corn planting operations last week, because the ground got so dry they could not put it in order.

Bills for only two stallions printed at this office this year. This is a tremendous falling off in this line of business compared with previous years.

Notice is hereby given that I have had my voting place changed from the Burlington to the Petersburg voting precinct. W. C. HENSLEY.

The Clerk is making a transcript of the record for the purpose of appeal in the case of the Commonwealth against the L. & N. Railroad tried at the last term of court, and which in the railroad was fined $100.

The sale of the personal property of Mrs. Clarissa Smith will take place next Saturday, at her late residence between Burlington and Bullittsville. Stock, farming implements and household and kitchen furniture will be sold.

As it is a well-established fact that catarrh is a blood-disease, medical men are quite generally prescribing Ayer's Sarsaparilla for this most loathsome and dangerous complaint. Where this treatment is perseveringly followed, a thorough cure is invariably the result.

The Aurora Bulletin says: "We this week announce Nicholas Oberting as a candidate for Sheriff before the Democratic primary election. Mr. Oberting is well known, having served as Marshal of Lawrenceburg, for many years. He is now circulating among the Democracy of Dearborn county where he enjoys a large and favorable acquaintance."

The Aurora, (Ind.) Bulletin thus mourns the loss of a once large business enterprise: "The old distillery buildings are a monument of past glory. Time was when a row of wagons a quarter of a mile long awaited their turn to unload corn or wheat into the immense bins. Day and night dense masses of black smoke rolled away from the tall chimney that is habited by a prosperous colony of swallows. The pens are silent and falling into decay where once the rich aroma of still-slop was inhaled by tourists on the passing trains and the squeal of the porker rent the midnight air."

There is another impostor abroad in the State and the good people are warned to be on their guard. This time it is a woman with a pathetic face, who is going around to the smaller towns and passing herself off as "General Jackson's niece," or a kinswoman of some Southern dignitary long gone to his rest. She usually puts up at a hotel, for a week or ten days, and then suddenly disappears without paying her bill.—Ex.

The same woman was through this part of the State a few years since, beating private individuals, hotels and masonic lodges. She had many newspaper clippings, and private letters of introduction to assist her in her beating tour.

COUNTY COURT.

W. A. Goodridge's will was probated and Holland Goodridge and William Goodridge qualified as executors. Geo. Hafer and Elza Harper were appointed appraisers.

W. C. Hensley's voting place changed from Burlington to Petersburg.

J. R. Craven appointed trustee of town of Walton in place of J. G. Tomlin, resigned.

The report of the division of Lucinda Kelly's land among her heirs, confirmed.

J. Z. Tanner's land division confirmed.

The railroad and also Mrs. King filed exceptions to report of commissioners condemning land for the Southern railroad.

May Musical Festival.

This great musical event will take place May 19th to 23rd, 1896, in the great new and renovated Cincinnati Music Hall. As usual, the program and artists are of the highest known class, and the Thomas Orchestra, a feature of well known excellence. Low round trip rates will be in effect over the Queen & Crescent Route, on sale daily, May 18th until the morning of May 23rd, from all points in Kentucky. Ask agts. for particulars. W. C. Rinearson,
G. P. A., Cincinnati, O.

Mr. A. Corbin, of Bellevue, sold old Tom, for many years his buggy horse, at public auction here last Monday. Montgomery Anderson, of Constance, becoming the purchaser at the price of of $6.75. Tom will be 25 years old the 24th day of this month, and is a pretty respectable looking piece of horse flesh. Mr. Corbin and Tom have been fast friends for the last 25 years, and Tom seemed to realize, Monday, that he and his life-long owner had separated for all time to come, and wore a down cast and unnatural look when his new master took charge of him and lead him away.

A TOWN'S TANGLE.

A wood agent of a certain New England town held the office one year, and gave the following statement of his accounts:

Cash received at the beginning of the year	$ 32.17
Wood rec'd at the same time	57.54
Cash received for wood during the year	102.97
Paid for wood bought during the year	59.91
Salary for agent	25.00
Wood on hand at close of year	31.37

The question is, how much does the town owe the agent, if anything, or how much does the agent owe the town?

Many different answers are given to the above problem, and of 75 school teachers to whom it was given only two or three found the true answer. Send in your answer and the RECORDER will print it, but not your solution.

DEATHS.

Hampton Adams, of the Big Bone neighborhood, died last Saturday morning after about 24 hours' illness of peritonitis. He was in his 55th year. Mr. Adams was a brother of county clerk B W. Adams, and a man whose friends was limited only by his acquaintances An immense crowd assembled at Big Bone church, last Sunday morning to pay the last, sad tribute of respect to one who, in life they honored and loved for his many excellent trials of character. The funeral was preached by Rev T. L. Utz, who spoke words of consolation to the bereaved family. No funeral ever occurred at Big Bone that cast a deeper gloom over the neighborhood, as Mr. Adams' faithfulness as a friend, and modest, kind disposition had endeared him to every member of the community of which he had lived from his childhood. The person who was entitled to Hamp Adams' friendship always found him a friend as true as steel, and one whose counsel was ever in line with the best citizenship. Mr. Adams was one of the young men of this county who espoused the cause of the South in the war of the States He enlisted early in the struggle and was among the last to lay down his gun. In those days when men were tried, he was never known to shirk a duty that devolved upon him as a soldier, and he was one of the most popular men in his command. As a soldier or as a private citizen Hamp Adams was wanting in none of the essentials to give him an exalted position in the hearts of all his associats.

* * *

The death of Mr. John Sam Huey, of the Locust Grove neighborhood, last Monday morning, was a great shock to his friends. He took sick Saturday night, and Dr. Furnish was called to see him. He left Mr. Huey Sunday morning, thinking that he had about recovered. Nothing to alarm the family occurred until about six o'clock Monday morning, when Mrs. Huey discovered a very great change had taken place, and a messenger was dispatched for the doctor, but the summons came before the physician arrived, and he passed peacefully away.

Mr. Huey was in his 63d year, and was one of the county's best citizens. He had long been a member of the Baptist church, and was honored and respected by the citizens of this county, with a majority of whom he was personally acquainted. He was one of those who wore the gray during the rebellion, and his noble traits of character, displayed under the most trying circumstances, gained for him the love of all his comrades in arms, and tears will moisten the eyes of many an old soldier when he hears that John Sam Huey has answered the last roll call.

The funeral was preached by Rev. T. L. Utz, at 3 p. m. yesterday at the Bellevue Baptist church, after which the remains were interred in the cemetery at that place.

The bereaved family has the sympathy of all in their deep affliction.

* * *

Mrs. Nannie Day, wife of Robt. Day, died Monday, April 27th, after a severe illness of six or seven weeks. Mrs. Day leaves a family of six children, the youngest of which is only fifteen months old.

Mrs. Day was, for several years a member of the Christian church and tried to follow in the footsteps of her Lord and Master, and we believe she is with Him in Paradise. She leaves behind her many sorrowing friends, who sympathize with the bereaved husband and family.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Curry, Wednesday morning at the home of the deceased. A large congregation listened to the sermon which was intended to restore hope to the bereaved family and friends.

The body was then interred in the cemetery at Bullittsburg, after which Rev. Curry again asked God to bless the family and relatives of the deceased sister. The congregation then departed, realizing that "God works in a mysterious way His wonders to porform."

* * *

Casper Kruze, who lived on the Collins farm just north of town, died last Saturday at his home on the Webb farm below Taylorsport. He had been in bad health for a long time. He was a German Lutheran, and his funeral was preached at Hebron, Monday, by Rev. H. M. Lentz, after which the body was placed in the vault.

PERSONAL MENTION.

J. W. Watts, of Bullittsville, was in town Thursday.

Mr. Samuel Cowen is better than he was at this time last week.

B. L. Rice, of Union, was in Burlington, last Friday morning.

Atty. D. E. Castleman spent a day or two in Warsaw, last week.

Mrs. John Sandford's sister was visiting her one day last [illegible]

Judge Stephens has a youthful look since he shaved off his whiskers.

W. E. Walton, of the Pt. Pleasant neighborhood, was in town Thursday.

Joe Reed is decorating the residence of J. J. Rucker in the Hebron neighborhood.

Clinton Smith who has bought wool in this county for several years, was in town Monday.

Johnson Rogers, who lives out on the East Bend road has been dangerously ill for several days.

James H. Aylor and Tucker were in town, one day last week. Both look like they were well kept during last winter.

Joseph Graves and wife, of Covington, were in town Monday. They had a very pleasant sojourn in the South last winter.

Messrs. A. J. Utz and Nathan Clements went home from court, Monday, in new buggies, bought of Hackstadt, of Bromley.

Lewis Terrill, who lives near Lawrenceburg ferry, was in town Friday. He has a large peach orchard and anticipates a large crop, but his pears are all falling off.

Mr. Sleet Riley, agent for King's Hand Book of the United States, is now delivering the books he has sold. It is a good book and well worth the price at which it is sold.

S. K. Dempsey landed the largest fish of the season down on Gunpowder, last Thursday. It was a channel cat. It is said that Steve had the buck ague before he got the fish strung.

John P. Duncan, son of Circuit Clerk J. W. Duncan, returned, last Thursday, from New York, where he had been to meet Henry R. C. Watson, who employed him for two years to take charge of his stable of thirty trotters in Vermont. Mr. Watson gives him a good lay and paid his expenses incurred going to and returning from New York, and will pay the expenses of Mr. Duncan's trip to Vermont. Johnnie has had considerable experience handling trotting horses, and he will render his employe valuable service. Mr. Watson is the owner of Oscar Williams, the trotting stallion formerly owned by D. T. Buffington, while a citizen of this county.

The entertainment given by Profs. Jones and Meeks, and Miss Schuster, last Saturday night, while not a financial success, was certainly a success in every other particular, as was attested by the encores each received. Prof. Jones was not long in convincing the audience that he was master of his art and that his equal had never been heard here. He responded to an encore with one of his own productions that charmed his hearers. Mr. Meeks sang beautifully, and with an ease that proved that he understands music thoroughly. He has a strong, sweet tenor voice which would be favorably noticed anywhere. Miss Schuster has well earned her fame as a gifted artist. She delighted her au dience, last Saturday evening by her fine elocutionary powers, lady-like and pleasing manuers. She responded, gracefully, to the many encores, and each time won more upon her hearers. Mr. McKim astonished his many friends, as very few of them were aware that he has such a sweet bass voice. He should cultivate it. Mrs. Furnish's accompaniments were excellent, and attested her skill as a performer on the piano. Those who failed to attend, and appreciate excellent music and splendid recitatsons, missed a treat.

? ? ? ?

LIMABURG, KY., May 2d, 1896.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

If the so called demonetizing of silver, by the act of 1873, sent gold to a premium of 100 per cent., then remonetizing of silver would bring gold back to par that is, to the value of silver. at the ratio of 16 to 1, that is, in the United States? If this process would reduce the value of gold in the United States by one-half, would not gold seek a Europenn market where its value would be 32 to 1 or double the price in the United States. This being true would not one-half of our metal money go abroad, and leave against enjoying silver monometalism and contraction of the currency? Then when does bimetalism and more money come in? But on the other hand, if gold is not a premium and remonetizing silver will raise silver to the gold standard, a dollar would have the same purchasing power that it has now and consequently the talk of higher prices would be nothing, and the farmer debtor would have to sell as much produce to pay off the mortgage on his farm then as he does now. But to assist us we must reduce the standard, which is reducing the value of a dollar, and as the value of a dollar is reduced the price of commodities will increase in the same proportion, would therefore be enabled to pay off our indebtedness with cheaper dollars than those we borrowed from our creditors. If we can't do that I fail to see in what manner a debtor is benefitted. FARMER.

Teachers' Primary Class.

Several Boone County teachers have suggested to me that I organize a class for work with reference to teachers' examination, at Union, Ky., to commence May 25th and continue eight weeks. I shall be glad to do so, provided a sufficient number of teachers or other persons notify me by May 18th, of their intention to attend; without such notice, I can not form the class.

Tuition for term, $8,00; board can be obtained in Union at extremely reasonable rates. Applicants will be notified by mail if class is formed.

H. NEWTON, Butler, Ky.

I will receive wool at Bullittsville, Wednesday, May 13, and at Burlington, Thursday, May 14th.

O. S. WATTS.

STATE CONVENTION.

Lexington, Ky., the Place and June 3d the Day.

County Conventions, May 30th, 1896.

The Democratic State Convention to select delegates to the Democratic [illegible] Convention will meet in Lexington, Ky, June 3d, 1896.

Each county and legislative district will be entitled to one delegate for each 200 votes cast at the last presidential election or gubernatorial election (the highest being taken as the basis) and one delegate for each fraction over 100 votes so cast.

For the purpose of selecting delegates to said State convention, mass meetings of the Democrats shall be held on the 30th day of May at 2 o'clock p. m., solar time, in each county at the county seats thereof, and in each legislative district in counties having more than one legislative district at such places therein as may be fixed by the respective chairman thereof; and at such mass meetings of the Democrats of each county and legislative district they shall choose the respective delegates that they are entitle to upon the above basis of representation to said State convention. The respective chairman of each County Democratic Executive Committee and of each legislative District Democratic Executive Committee shall issue due and proper notices for said mass meetings and respectively call said mass meetings to order when assembled, and see that said meetings are fairly and properly organized and that the delegates therefrom be fairly and properly chosen by the expressed will of the majority of Democrats attending said meetings, and also see that the duly chosen chairmen and secretaries of said meetings properly certify to the list of delegates so chosen, which certificates shall be approved and signed by the respective chairmen of the Democratic Executive Committees for each county and legislative district.

W. H. Barlow, Gunpowder, has 19 120 pound hogs for sale.

Notice, Taxpayers.

I hereby notify the taxpayers of this county that they must pay their taxes at once. The road money is now due, and the Supervisors are calling on me for the money due them, and I cannot pay it without you pay your taxes. I do not want to be compelled to advertise and sell your property, but I will surely do so if you do not pay up forthwith.

C. C. ROBERTS, S. B. C.

Painting & Repairing
Buggies AND Carriages
—REPAIRED AT THE MOST—
REASONABLE RATES.
GIVE ME A TRIAL.
I am also agent for the EMMERSON, FISHER BUGGY COMPANY.
C. ERNSTES, - - Hebron, Ky.

Notice to Delinquent Tax-PAYERS.

The lists of Delinquents for 1895 have been placed in the hands of Collecting Officers in the different magisterial districts for the convenience of the taxpayers. See your collector and pay your tax, or you will be reported to the Road Supervisor in your district and proceeded against according to law.

FISCAL COURT BOONE CO.,
By J. M. Lassing, Co. Atty.

John Allison,
Undertaker
—AND—
Embalmer,
COR. PIKE & RUSSELL STS.,
COVINGTON, - KENTUCKY
Independent of Undertakers' Union.

THE QUEEN & CRESCENT
ROUTE
Vestibuled Limited Trains to Southern Towns and Cities. A fine trip for summer outing through the Blue Grass region, the great Cumberland Plateau and to far famed Lookout Mountain.
The historic battlefields of CHICKAMAUGA, Mission Ridge and LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN.
Cool and invigorating air, unequaled scenery, good hotels.
Low reduced rates via the Queen & Crescent Route now on sale from cities and villages of the North.
Write to W. C. Rinearson, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, for illustrated and descriptive matter.

We call attention to our New and Attractive
Stock of
Spring Goods,
JUST RECEIVED.
DRESS [illegible] Latest styles.
STRAW HATS in abundance.
Large line of Fresh Groceries Always on hand.
We can and will save you money by trading with us.
Give us a call,
W. M. RACHAL & CO. Union, Ky.

BOEHMER, ROLF & CO.,
DEALERS IN
PAINTS, OILS AND GLASS,
63 and 65 Pike Street,
Covington, Telephone. 4212. Ky.

GEO. W. HILL & CO.,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
Flour, Tea, Tobacco AND FINE Cigars.
ALSO DEALERS IN WOOL AND COUNTRY PRODUCTS.
CALL SPECIAL ATTENTION TO OUR RETAIL DEPARTMENT.
27 and 29 PIKE ST., 26 and 28 W. SEVENTH ST.
Covington, - - Kentucky.

HARBICK & ROSE,
Undertakers AND Embalmers,
OFFICE AND STABLE, 637 and 639 SCOTT STREET,
COVINGTON, KY.
CARRIAGES FOR WEDDINGS AND PRIVATE HIRE.
Telephone, 4146. OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

GEO. G. RUSSELL,
WHOLESALE AND
RETAIL GROCER,
GRASS SEED,
Corner Pike & Washington Sts. Covington, Ky.
Tom Wilson, Salesman.

A. H. BRYANT. J. L. V. MCDONALD.
REMOVED AND READY FOR BUSINESS.
31 Pike Street,
THE OLD RELIABLE STOVE COMPANY,
Successor to J. M. CLARKSON.
Stoves, Grates, Fine Tin and
HOLLOW-WARE.
Our friends of Boone County will be Welcome to Make OUR STORE Their Headquarters when in Town.
J. L. V. McDONALD, - - - Manager.
COVINGTON, KY.
MR. J. M. CLARKSON has his office with us.

SEEDS. SEEDS. SEEDS.
BUY YOUR
GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS
From W. J. RAMSEY & CO.,
We are the only House in Covington,
handling a full Line of
GARDEN SEEDS.
708 Madison Avenue
COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.
Opposite Seventh Street Market House.

HANKINS, DAVIS & CO.,
GENERAL MERCHANTS,
HEBRON AND CONSTANCE, KY.
A good supply of Campbell's Creek Coal on hand at Constance at all times. A good supply of feed always in stock. Garden and Field Seeds.
UNDERTAKING.
is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.
Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : : KY.

TWO PERSONAL SONGS.

SYMPATHY.

If you but touch my hand, ever, ever so lightly!
Or speak a kindly word, or on me fondly smile,
Full lighter grows the burden that I bear of sorrow,
And in life's sunshine, happy, stand I a little while.

Some gift of yours—perhaps 'tis but a fragile flower—
Or your dear presence for a moment at my side,
Will make my dreary pathway bloom with sudden blossoms,
And the shut gates of Paradise open to me wide.

HOPE.

There's never a day so dark and drear
But that its close may shine
In rose, and gold, and amethyst,
And tints of ruby wine.

There's never a night so wrapt about
With mist and slanting rain,
But that the clouds may roll away
And stars shine out again.

—Grace Hibbard, in Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

MRS. SLOANE'S PARTY.

BY MARY JOSLYN SMITH.

It was on the morning of the 15th of August that there was a great chattering in the Somers' kitchen—all about the city folks that had taken the Burr place for the summer. The Somers' kitchen was a wonderful place. Mr. and Mrs. Somers always called each other pa and ma.

This particular morning pa did not feel very well, was threatened with ague and chills, and sat in the kitchen as near the stove as ma would let him, considering it was one of her bake days. They did their own work, but then there was a regular slew of women folks in the house.

Mrs. Somers made the fried cakes, for in that house they had fried cakes summer and winter. Then she made apple pies and Lawton blackberry pies that morning, getting the fruit all from their own place. Cousin Liza was making her summer visit there, and when she came she made soft ginger cake. They had her recipe written in a book, with all the particulars, but no one could make cake with just the tremble and the shake that Cousin Liza could. The recipe was plain:

Two eggs; butter the size of an egg; tablespoon of ginger; cloves; cinnamon; nutmeg to taste; a cup of dark molasses; a cup of brown sugar; a good bowl of sour milk, with dessertspoon of soda and flour to make a thin dough.

Cousin Liza said maybe the flour business made the trouble; some people put so much in that it made a stiff cake, or so little that it would fall flat as a pancake in the big dripping pan in which it was to be baked. Or it might be the oven, for it needed a good deal of judgment about the oven.

The pitcher of saltrising emptings was in a pail of warm water upon the high oven, and soon after dinner that would huff up and be made into loaves, and what white bread it was! Pa had dyspepsia, and thought he could eat no other bread.

Aunt Lois lived there, too, and she was a martyr to the dishwashing on those important days.

She started in promptly after breakfast to wash dishes, and there would be an additional pyramid from the baking department every now and then, until at half-past 11 she sometimes saw the thickest of them cleared away.

Mrs. Somers' daughter Jane was putting the house to rights, and after a little would come to iron with the baking fire, for firewood was never wasted in that house.

The three sons were up on the farm, a mile away, tending to the hay and mending the fence, and at noon would come down, hungry as sharks, in view of which a big kettle of boiled victuals was being prepared; but with all the work, there was a babel of talking. Cousin Liza did not know anything about the newcomers from the city, so everything had to be explained to her.

"Pa, how many calves did you say had to be killed by the butchers in the two villages when the Sloanes were getting ready for the tally-ho party from the city?" called out Mrs. Somers. "They must have had calves'-head jelly, you know, and, positively, they expect that cream flows almost in the streets here. It is all right to sell to them, but you can't sell what you want yourself, at least I'm not going to," rattled on Mrs. Somers, never waiting for any answer to questions.

"PA, HOW MANY CALVES HAD TO BE KILLED?'

Mr. Somers roused himself, and spoke up:

"What are you women always bothering your heads about these people for? Why don't you let them alone? What has started you now?"

"Why, pa, don't you know about our invitation? You must get over your ague before night if you want the honor of paying a visit."

"What now?" asked pa.

"Martha Shafer stopped here going to her work in the tailor shop, and said that she had been directed to ask all the neighbors to go to Mrs. Sloane's tonight; we should call round any time convenient; that we were to see Mrs. Sloane in bloomer dress."

Aunt Lois explained to Cousin Liza that Mrs. Sloane was a big, fleshy woman, and would look about as graceful as a cow in bloomers.

"Pity, isn't it, such people don't have some work to do, so they wouldn't make themselves so ridiculous getting up things!" was another of Ma Somers' wise sayings, as she added more and more to her store of baking.

In the afternoon the neighbors dropped in to Mrs. Somers' as a sort of headquarters, and talked over the whole question of dress, and of city people thinking country people did not know anything.

They decided they would not go near the house.

"Did you hear the joke on Mrs. Sloane?" asked one of the neighbors.

"No, what was it?" all exclaimed.

"Well, she was at the Corners, and asked if there was a library here. Joe Green, of course, was on hand, and he said yes, he believed there was, and that it was in charge of the cobbler, over the way."

Mr. Forbes, the cobbler, told the rest of the story the other day. He said she came and asked him, and he said he reckoned there were some books in the cellar. Seems the old library that was started and failed was moved around to get it out of the way, until it was put in the cellar there of the old house where he has his shop. He got a candle and told her to come on in the cellar and not fall over the old stairs, and then he put his hand into an old cheese safe and hauled out two musty books—the 'Life of Washington' and 'Life Among the Mormons.' And will you believe it! she took home 'Life Among the Mormons.' What did she want of that, do you think?"

Mrs. Somers suggested that Mrs. Sloane just wanted to see what they had there, and by and by would make out they were sort of heathen.

Pa Somers tried to quiet the jargon by saying that the city lady seemed very kind and nice to him.

But he was silenced by a volley of words from his wife, who said that Martha Shafer and pa seemed to be champions of the new people, and must be expected to pay for their trouble.

However, pa ventured once more to say that Mr. Sloane talked of buying the Burr place, and if he did that he would likely do something nice for their town if the women did not make it too uncomfortable for his family.

MRS. SLOAN'S NIGHT-BLOOMING CEREUS.

"What if we write an anonymous letter to Mrs. Sloane and tell her we have some sense and don't need to be invited to see her in bloomers?" said one of the afternoon visitors.

Grandma Somers, a lady of the old school, sat in her corner mending, and calm as a June day. Nobody remembered to have ever seen her stirred up. In the civil war days, when there were war meetings and people were excited, she would say: "Oh, this is nothing like the time of the great alarm!" Her memory went back to that time. She seldom joined in the conversation when the neighbors gathered in, but now she raised her head from her work and said:

"You better go to Mrs. Sloane's tonight, and decide afterward about your letters. Long ago as when I was a girl, an anonymous letter was considered a mark of ill-breeding. I don't know what people think about them nowadays; did not know but they were a lost art."

Evening came, and they did all go to Mrs. Sloane's, and she had a beautiful "night-blooming cereus" to show them.

It seemed that in the morning she felt sure that the plant would blossom that night, and she told her coachman to get word around to have anyone come to see it who wished to do so. The coachman saw Martha Shafer, and thought it would save him all the bother if he told her to tell the people.

Nobody could ever make out how "night-blooming cereus" could sound like "dressed in bloomers to-night;" but the party concluded to be friends with Mrs. Sloane, if she would let them, from that time forth.

Their Advantage.

There are some things in which our English cousins have the advantage of us. An American millionaire, accustomed to purchase anything he wanted, tried to obtain from an Oxford gardener the secret of the beautiful lawns which make the pride of England—or a portion of it. "Tell me, my good man, how you manage it," he said, condescendingly, putting his hand significantly into his pocket. "It is werry simple, sir," replied the gardener, quaintly. "You cuts it as close as ever you can cut, and you rolls it and cuts it for 600 years."—Youth's Companion.

—Lord Burleigh was a minister in parliament before he was 22.

DIVISION OF SPOILS.

Dividends Declared by Christ on the Net Earnings

On His Heavenly Company, According to the Investment of Every Man Here Below—Sermon by Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, D.D.

Dr. Talmage chose for his subject last Sunday: "The Division of Spoils," the text being Isaiah liii: 12: "He shall divide the spoil with the strong."

In the Coliseum at Rome, where persecutors used to let out half-starved lions to eat up Christians, there is now planted the figure of a cross. And I rejoice to know that the upright piece of wood nailed to a transverse piece has become the symbol not more of suffering than of victory. It is of Christ the Conquerer that my text speaks. As a kingly warrior, having subdued an empire, might divide the palaces and mansions and cities and valleys and mountains among his officers, so Christ is going to divide up all the earth and all the Heavens among his people, and you and I will have to take our share if we are strong in faith and strong in our Christian loyalty, for my text declares it: "He shall divide the spoil with the strong."

The capture of this round planet for Christ is not so much of a job as you might imagine, when the church takes off its coat and rolls up its sleeves for the work, as it will. There are 1,600,000,000 people now in the world, and 450,000,000 are Christians. Subtract 450,000,000 who are Christians from 1,600,000,000, and there are 1,150,000,000 left. Divide the 1,150,000,000 who are not Christians by the 450,000,000 who are Christians, and you will find that we shall have to average less than three souls each, brought by us into the kingdom of God to have the whole world redeemed. Certainly, with the church rising up to its full duty, no Christian will be willing to bring less than three souls into the kingdom of God. I hope and pray Almighty God, that I may bring more than three. I know evangelists who have already brought 50,000 each for the kingdom of God. There are 2,000,000 people whose only and absorbing business is to save souls. When you take these things into consideration, and that the Christian will have to average the bringing of only three souls each into the kingdom of our Lord, all impossibility vanishes from this omnipotent crusade. Why, I know a Sabbath school teacher who for many years has been engaged in training the young, and she has had five different classes, and they averaged seven to a class, and they were all converted, and five times seven are 35, so near as I can calculate. So that she brought her three into the kingdom of God and had 32 to spare. My grandmother prayed her children into the kingdom of Christ, and her grandchildren, and I hope all her great-grandchildren, for God remembers a prayer 75 years old as though it was only a minute old; and so she brought her three into the kingdom of God, and had more than one hundred to spare. Besides that, through the telephone and the telegraph, this whole world, within a few years, will be brought within compass of ten minutes. Besides that, omnipotence, omnipresence and omniscience are presiding in this matter of the world's betterment, and that takes the question of the world's salvation out of the impossibilities into the possibilities, and then out of the possibilities into the probabilities, and then out of the probabilities into the certainties. The building of the Union Pacific railroad from ocean to ocean was a greater undertaking than the girdling of the earth with the Gospel; for one enterprise depended upon the human arm, while the other depends upon almightiness.

Do I really mean all tho earth will surrender to Christ? Yes. How about the uninviting portions? Will Greenland be evangelized? The possibility is that after a few more hundred brave lives are dashed out among the icebergs that great refrigerator, the Polar Region, will be given up to the walrus and bear, and that the inhabitants will come down by invitation into tolerable climates, or those climates may soften; and, as it has been positively demonstrated that the Arctic Region was once a blooming garden and a fruitful field, those regions may change climate and again be a blooming garden and a fruitful field. It is proved beyond controversy by German and American scientists that the Arctic regions were the first portions of this world inhabitable; the world hot beyond human endurance, those regions were, of course, the first to be cool enough for human foot and human lung. It was positively proved that the Arctic Region was a tropical climate. Prof. Heer, of Zurich, says the remains of flowers have been found in the Arctic region, showing it was like Mexico for climate, and it is found that the Arctic was the mother region from which all the flowers descended. Prof. Wallace says the remains of all styles of animal life are found in the Arctic regions, including those animals that can live only in warm climates. Now that Arctic region, which has been demonstrated by flora and fauna and geological argument to have been as full of vegetation and life as our Florida, may be turned back to its original bloom and glory, or it will be shut up as a museum of crystals for curiosity seekers once in a while to visit. But Arctic and Antarctic, in some shape, will belong to the Redeemer's realm.

What about other unproductive or repulsive regions? All the deserts will be irrigated, the waters will be forced up to the great American desert between here and the Pacific by machinery now known or yet to be invented, and, as Great Salt Lake City has no rain and could not raise an apple or a bushel of wheat in 100 years without artificial help, but is now through such means one great garden, so all the unproductive parts of all the continents will be turned into harvest fields and orchards. A half dozen De Lesseps will furnish the world with all the canals needed, and will change the course of rivers and open new lakes, and the great Sahara desert will be cut up into farms with an astounding yield of bushels to the acre. The marsh will be drained of its waters and cured of its malaria. I saw what was for many years called the Black Swamp of Ohio, its chief crop chills and fever, but now, by the tiles put into the ground to carry off the surplus moisture, transformed into the richest and healthiest of regions. The God who wastes nothing, I think, means that this world, from pole to pole, has come to perfection of foliage and fruitage. For that reason he keeps the earth running through space, though so many fires are blazing down in its timbers and so many meteoric terrors have threatened to dash it to pieces. As soon as the earth is completed Christ will divide it up among the good. The reason he does not divide it now is because it is not done. A kind father will not divide the apple among his children until the apple is ripe. In fulfillment of the New Testament promise, "The meek shall inherit the earth," and the promise of the Old Testament, "He shall divide the spoil with the strong," the world will be apportioned to those worthy to possess it.

It is not so now. In this country, capable of holding, feeding, clothing and sheltering 12,000,000,000 people, and where we have only 60,000,000 inhabitants, we have 2,000,000 who can not get honest work, and with their families an aggregation of 5,000,000 that are on the verge of starvation. Something wrong, most certainly. In some way, there will be a new apportionment. Many of the millionaire estates will crack to pieces on the dissipations of grandchildren, and then dissolve into the possession of the masses who now have an insufficiency.

China and Africa, the two richest portions of the earth by reason of metals and rare woods, and inexhaustible productiveness, are not yet divided up among the good because they are not ready to be divided. Wait until all the doors that Livingstone opened in Africa shall be entered, and Bishop Taylor, with his band of self-supporting missionaries, have done their work, and the Asantis and Senegambians shall know Christ as well as you know Him, and there shall be on the banks of the Nile and the Niger a higher civilization than is now to be found on the banks of the Potomac or the Hudson, then Christ will divide up that continent among His friends. Wait until China, which is half as large as all Europe, shall have developed her capacities for rice and tea and sugar among edibles; and her amethyst and sapphire and topaz and opal and jasper and porphyry, among precious stones; and her rosewood and ebony and camphor and varnish trees, among precious woods; and turned up from her depths a half dozen Pennsylvanias of coal and iron, and 20 Nevadas of silver, and 50 Californias of gold, and her 500,000,000 of people shall be evangelized; then the Lord will divide it up among the good.

If my text be not a deception, but the eternal truth, then the time is coming when all the farms will be owned by Christian farmers, and all the commerce be controlled by Christian merchants, and all the authority held by Christian officials, and all the ships commanded by Christian captains, and all the universities under the instruction of Christian professors; Christian kings, Christian presidents, Christian governors, Christian mayors, Christian common councils. Yet, what a scouring out! What an upturning! What a demolition! What a resurrection must precede this new apportionment!

I do not underrate the enemy. Julius Cæsar got his greatest victories by fully estimating the vastness of his foe, and prepared his men for their greatest triumph by saying: "To-morrow King Juba will be here with 30,000 horses, 100,000 skirmishers and 300 elephants." I do not underrate the vast forces of Sin and Death, but do you know who commands us? Jehovah-jireh. And the reserve corps behind us are all the armies of Heaven and earth, with hurricane and thunderbolt. The good work of the world's redemption is going on every minute. Never so many splendid men and glorious women on the side of right as to-day. Never so many good people as now. Diogenes has been spoken of as a wise man because he went with a lantern at noon-day, saying he was looking for an honest man. If he had turned his lantern toward himself he might have discovered a crank. Honest men by the ten thousand! Through the international series of Sunday-school lessons the next generation all through Christendom are going to be wiser than any generation since the world stood. The kingdom is coming. God can do it. No housewife with a chamois cloth ever polished a silver teaspoon with more ease than Christ will rub off from this world the tarnish and brighten it up till it glows like Heaven. And then the glorious apportionment for my text is reinforced by a score of other texts, when it says of Christ: "He shall divide the spoil with the strong."

"But," you say, "this is pleasant to think of for others, but before that time I shall have passed up into another existence, and I shall get no advantage from the new apportionment." Ah, you have only driven me to the other more exciting and transporting consideration, and that is, that Christ is going to divide up Heaven in the same way. There are old estates in the celestial world that have been in the possession of the inhabitants for thousands of years, and they shall remain as they are. There are old family mansions in Heaven filled with whole generations of kindred, and they shall never be driven out. Many of the victors from earth have already got their palaces, and they are pointed out to those newly arrived. Soon after our getting there we will ask to be shown the Apostolic residences, and ask where does Paul live, and John; and shown the patriarchal residences, and shall say: "Where does Abraham live, or Jacob?" and shown the martyr residences and say: "Where does Jim Huss live, and Ridley?" We will want to see the boulevards where the chariots of conquerers roll. I will want to see the garden where the princes walk. We will want to see Music Row, where Handel and Hayden and Mozart and Charles Wesley and Thomas Hastings and Bradbury have their homes, out of their windows, ever and anon, rolling some snatch of an earthly oratorio or hymn transported with the composers. We will want to see Revival Terrace, where Whitefield and Nettleton and Payson and Rowland Hill and Charles Finney and other giants of soul-reaping are resting from their almost supernatural labors, their doors thronged with converts just arrived, coming to report themselves.

But brilliant as the sunset, and like the leaves for number, are the celestial homes yet to be awarded, when Christ to you, and millions of others, shall divide the spoil. What do you want there? You shall have it. An orchard? There it is: twelve manner of fruits, and fruit every month. Do you want river scenery? Take your choice on the banks of the river, in longer, wider, deeper roll than Danube or Amazon or Mississippi if mingled in one, and emptying into the sea of glass, mingled with fire. Do you want your kindred back again? Go out and meet your father and mother without the staff or the stoop, and your children in a dance of immortal glee. Do you want a throne? Select it from the million burnished elevations. Do you want a crown? Pick it out of that mountain of diamonded coronets. Do you want your old church friends of earth around you? Begin to hum an old revival tune and they will flock from all quarters to revel with you in sacred reminiscence. All the earth for those who are here on earth at the time of continental and planetary distribution, and all the heavens for those who are there.

That heavenly distribution of spoils will be a surprise to many. Here enters Heaven the soul of a man who took up a great deal of room in the church on earth but sacrificed little, and among his good works selfishness was evident. He just crowds through the shining gate, but it's a very tight squeeze, so that the doorkeeper has to pull hard to get him in; and this man expects half of Heaven for his share of trophies, and he would like a monopoly of all its splendor, and to purchase lots in the suburbs, so that he could get advantage of the growth of the city. Well, little by little he gets grace of heart, just enough to get him through, and to him is given a second-hand crown, which one of the saints wore at the start, but exchanged for a brighter one as he went on from glory to glory. And he is put in an old house once occupied by an angel who was hurled out of Heaven at the time of Satan's rebellion.

Right after comes a soul that makes a great stir among the celestials, and the angels rush to the scene, each bringing to her a dazzling coronet. Who is she? Over what realm on earth was she queen? In what great Dusseldorf festival was she the cantatrice? Neither. She was an invalid who never left her room for twenty years; but she was strong in prayer, and she prayed down revival after revival and pentecost after pentecost, upon the churches, and with her pale hands she knit many a mitten or tippet for the poor, and with her contrivances she added joy to many a holiday festival; and now with those thin hands so strong for supplication, she has won coronation and enthronement and jubilee. And Christ said to the angels who have brought each a crown for the glorified invalid: "No, not these; they are not good enough. But in the jeweled vase at the right-hand side of my throne there is one that I have been preparing for her many a year, and for her every pang I have set an amethyst, and for her every good deed I have set a pearl. Fetch it now and fulfill the promise I gave her long ago in the sick room: 'Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown.'"

But notice that there is only one Being in the universe who can and will distribue the trophies of earth and Heaven. It is the Divine Warrior, the Commander-in-Chief of the Centuries, the Champion of Ages, the Universal Conqueror, the Son of God, Jesus. You will take the spoils from His hand, or never take them at all. Have His friendship and you may defy all time and eternity, but without it you are a pauper, though you had a universe at your command. We are told in Revelation that Jacob's 12 sons were so honored as to have the 12 gates of Heaven named after them—over one gate of Heaven Naphtali, over another gate of Heaven Issacher, over another Dan, over another Gad, over another Zebulon, over another Judah, and so on. But Christ's name is written over all the gates, and on every panel of the gates; and have His help, His pardon, His intercession, His atonement, I must, or be a forlorn wretch forever. My Lord and my God! make me and all who hear me this day, and all to whom these words shall come, Thy repentant, believing, sworn, consecrated and ransomed followers forever.

What a day it will be! This entire assemblage would rise to its feet, if you could realize it, the day in which Christ shall, in fulfillment of my text, divide the spoil. It was a great day when Queen Victoria, in the midst of the Crimean war, distributed medals to the soldiers who had come home sick and wounded. At the Horse Guards, in presence of the royal family, the injured men were carried in or came on crutches—Col. Trowbridge, who lost both feet at Inkermann, and Capt. Saver, who had the ankle joint of his right leg shot off at Alma, and Capt. Curre, his disabled limb supported by a soldier, and others maimed and disfigured and exhausted—and with her own hand the queen gave each the Crimean medal.

RAILROAD construction is being pushed rapidly in India, the number of miles of new track built last year or planned for this year being 4,578, or one-fourth of the length of existing lines.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

—A law suit to recover pew rent was brought recently by a church in Saco, Me.

—It is interesting to note that among the Cambridge opponents to women's degrees is Dr. E. W. Hobson, who coached Miss Fawcett.

—Armenia is not a thoroughly Christian country, as is generally believed. Out of a population of 3,510,205 nearly five-sixths are Mohammedan, the exact number being 2,900,414, to only 609,791 Christians.

—The little Wallace children, the grandchildren of Chief Justice Fuller, the little daughter of Gen. and Mrs. Draper and the children of Private Secretary and Mrs. Thurber are among the pupils of the kindergarten at the white house.

—The Boston Pilot (Roman Catholic) quotes and indorses the following declaration recently made by a Catholic convert from the Episcopal church: "Whoever wants to stop the steady stream of conversions to Catholicity will have to close every Episcopal church in the country."

—Prof. Colvin Thomas, of the University of Michigan, has been appointed professor of German languages and literature at Columbia, to succeed the late Prof. Boyesen. Prof. Thomas is at present in Weimar, Germany, engaged on an edition of the second part of Faust.

—By the death of Mrs. Mary Gibson the Pennsylvania academy of fine arts will receive a collection of paintings valued at $300,000. The majority of them are by French artists belonging to the period which marked the revival of romanticism in that country, and this is just the period of which the academy has few examples.

WHITE AND BLACK CRAVATS.

In Former Times They Were Badges of the Wearer's Profession.

Years ago the white tie in this country was the characteristic wear of the reverend clergy, their monopoly. Thence it passed into general use and disputed popularity with the black. The black neckcloth was early in this century likewise a professional badge. Those who followed the profession of arms claimed the right to wear it as their monopoly and sometimes enforced that right. Cooper in "Wing-and-Wing" makes a very dramatic use of this custom. A French privateer captain in disguise has fallen into the hands of the English and is brought before a court-martial. So skillfully does he stick to his assumed character of a fisherman that his judges are puzzled until one of his accusers suddenly places around the prisoner's throat the black necktie which all officers wore. Then his true character blazes forth and he is condemned, but escapes execution to die, sword in hand. Cooper knew what he was writing about, for he, too, had been an officer.

Military and naval men wore black cravats when in plain clothes and civilians aped them until black became the only wear. Before the rise of the black cravat carelessly tied white lace, the Steenkirk, had been in vogue for neckwear. Its popularity likewise was a civilian tribute to military valor. At the battle of Steenkirk the French royal guards, the household troops, being suddenly called from their tents to meet the oncoming English, had no time to tie their rich lace cravats with their accustomed neatness and loosely knotted them about their throats. They were the dandies of Europe, the perfect pinks of military propriety, and were correspondingly brave. They did up the English in about one round and henceforward the Steenkirk cravat was the fashion, and the more carelessly it was knotted the more Steenkirky it was.

As white is now the color of peace may not the psychologists be justified in hailing snowy cravats as evidences of man's recognition that peace hath her victories not less fashionable than those of war and as worthy of being commemorated at the neck?—Boston Transcript.

Opinions of Great Generals on War.

Arbitration between nations signifies the same thing as the existence of the ordinary judicial courts. It means the substitution of reason for force as a means of decision. That its possibilities are great has already been demonstrated; that they will grow with the development of a disposition to peace is unquestionable. An indication of this tendency may be found in the abhorrence of war by great commanders. The sentiment of Wellington, "Nothing except a battle lost can be half so melancholy as a battle won," was expressed more bluntly by Gen. Sherman: "Do you know what war is? War is hell!" while Gen. Grant, speaking with direct pertinence to the subject of arbitration, said: "Though I have been trained as a soldier, and have participated in many battles, there never was a time when, in my opinion, some way could not have been found of preventing the drawing of the sword. I look forward to an epoch when a court, recognized by all nations, will settle international differences, instead of keeping large standing armies, as they do in Europe."—Century.

A Big Python Fooled.

The big python in the London zoo made up its mind some time ago that life was not worth living, for it refused to eat sufficient food to keep it alive. Its usual meal was four or five pigeons or ducks, but it became too languid to seize more than one of them when they were put into its cage. Its keeper in this emergency had recourse to a stratagem which has completely fooled the python. Before the pigeon had been swallowed the keeper pushed into its mouth a dead duck and before that had been disposed of the regulation number of birds followed the same way. Thus the python takes his usual quantity of food without knowing it.—N. Y. World.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS.

THE TAX THAT COUNTS.

Muddy Roads Mean an Annual Loss of Millions of Dollars.

Isaac B. Potter, chairman of the highway improvement committee, in his address before the last annual convention at Baltimore, February 10, said, among other things:

"Sixteen million dumb and patient horses stand to-day in the farm stables of America, waiting for the drying of the mud which was left as a legacy by recent freshets. I have said this much to justify, briefly, the wheelmen's work for better roads. Much more might be said, but it is unnecessary. People are beginning to look upon the wheel from a new, more correct, and more intelligent standpoint. Bicycles have come into common use. They are ridden by men and women of all classes of society, by officials in every grade of governmental employment in all parts of the world; by men engaged in the learned professions, and in all the various occupations in which human industry is directed.

"With 100 years of experience our American farmers are paralyzed by the presence of a simple mixture of dirt and water. Last year our railroads carried 1,000,000,000 tons of freight. Every year the amount increases. Every pound of this freight is carted and carried over our roads and streets before it gets to the railroads; millions of tons are hauled in wagons and sold in the country towns and consumed by the local buyer. Here is the farmers' end of it; hay, 54,000,000 tons—think of hauling 54,000,000 loads of hay to market on roads like that; 90,000,000 tons of cereals; 6,000,000 tons of potatoes; 2,000,000 tons of cotton; total, 152,000,000 tons, not counting the mud on the wagon wheels.

THE TAX THAT COUNTS.

"The road and the wagon are the twin handmaidens of agriculture that attend the farmer on every journey to market and they are forever at odds with each other. If the man who sold that wagon to the farmer had tried to sell that road to him, homicide would have become a virtue; 152,000,000 tons of produce; $500,000,000 paid for farm implements and machinery to harvest it with; $1,200,000,000 invested in farm horses and mules to drag it to market. Think of it! Think of being director in a corporation with that amount of business on hand, with countless millions of paid-up capital invested, and think of doing business in a mortar bed! Think of waiting for the mud to dry up! Sixteen million horses and mules idle in the stables; $4,000,000 a day for horse feed; $28,000,000 a week. Think of the loss of time and labor, the dwarfed and shrunken values of our farms, of the slack supply and good prices, when the roads are impassable. Think of the procession of farmers that rush to town and glut the market in the first days of dry weather, and think of the paltry prices they get when everybody is trying to sell to an overstocked market!"

TEXAS TO THE FRONT.

Great Road Convention to Be Held at Galveston, May 22.

There is one especially encouraging feature of the good-roads movement. It is the activity in that direction in regions remote from centers of population.

A convention of delegates representing the great state of Texas is to be held in Galveston, beginning on May 22. In Arkansas a state convention was held at Little Rock in February, in which a resolution was adopted recommending a constitutional amendment empowering county authorities to levy a special tax for carrying on a work of general highway improvement. Similar steps have been taken in several other states of the south and west.

Another encouraging feature of the movement is a general disposition to profit by the experience of other countries—notably of France, which has perhaps the finest wagon-roads of any country. Good roads are more easily made and kept in order there than in most countries, because of the scarcity of forest areas, which conserve moisture and render somewhat more difficult the keeping of highways in repair. But it is possible and well worth the while to have good roads and still preserve the desired areas of natural forest. The time is not distant when the neglect of either of these important interests will be a matter of general public regret, and will be viewed as a public misfortune.—Youth's Companion.

An Experiment with Peanuts.

Last year in corn planting time, a farmer says he left a plat of ground for peanuts. Marked the rows off just the same as for corn, so when he cultivated the corn he could cultivate the peanuts at the same time. Planted them about the 1st of May. They can be planted any time after the danger of killing frost. The seed should be very carefully selected at the time of planting; also carefully prepared so as not to break the skin of the kernel. He put the kernel in a pan, covered them with coal oil and let them stand over night. This was to keep the moles, etc., from eating the seed. Planted them in hills, two kernels in a hill, one foot apart in the row.—Farmers' Voice.

Do not plant a tree any deeper than it grew in the nursery row.

FOOD ADULTERATION.

Fruits and Vegetables in Which It Is Mainly Practiced.

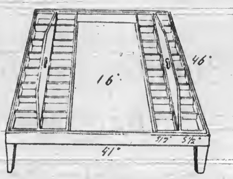
Recent investigations by the department of agriculture of the state of Pennsylvania on the amount of food adulteration lead to some interesting results. A conservative estimate places the value of the food consumed by the citizens of the state at $400,000,000, and if to this amount is added the average estimate of adulteration, it follows that there is lost through this means $20,000,000.

The examinations made by the department make it evident that the following items will mainly cover the worst forms of adulteration: The use of salicylic acid in the preparation of fruit jams, catsup, etc.; in such cases it is introduced for the purpose of preventing fermentation, and when eaten and it has entered the digestive organs, it prevents to an appreciative extent the proper functions of digestion. Of the samples of buckwheat flour tested, but two were found pure. Three-fifths of the samples of cheese selected for analysis proved to be "filled cheese"—the milk had been skimmed, the cream used for other purposes, and foreign fats, not butter, had been added with the intent of making up the deficiency. Of the samples of mustards, two-thirds were found to be adulterated. Ground spices, such as cinnamon, black pepper, ginger, etc., are seldom pure. Many fruit jams, especially those claiming to be strawberry and raspberry, were found to consist largely of starch paste, with only enough fruit, in some cases, to claim the name. All samples of so-called French peas were found to contain injurious amounts of metallic salts.—N. Y. Tribune.

FOR BERRY GROWERS.

One of the Best Basket Carriers for Collectors Ever Devised.

Now is the time to make trays for berry collections for use in berry fields during the height of the season. Several such trays are in use on an extensive Connecticut berry plantation. The carrier contains 32 baskets, eight on each side of each handle; the baskets are shown in the cut as set in place but without berries. The carrier should be made of strong but light material. The handles are of seven-eighths inch stuff, 12 inches high and with a hand hole. The four legs are six inches long. Sides of carrier are five-sixteenths inch and ends of one-half inch material, all two inches high. The carrier is 46 inches long and 41 inches wide. The 16-inch space in the center is for the collector to walk; the handles are grasped on each side. The 32 quarts berries and carrier will weigh from 25 to 30 pounds. Each handle should be nailed 5½ inches from the side piece and another piece set 5½ inches inside from the handle piece. It is one of the handiest carriers I know of for bringing berries from fields to assorting and crating sheds.—C. W. Eddy, in Farm and Home.



ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

The soil for the orchard cannot be too rich.

The object in pruning the grape is to lessen the quantity of fruit and improve its quality.

To prevent premature falling off of the fruit keep the tree healthy and free from insect pests.

There is no advantage in planting tender vegetables until after all danger of frost is past.

If there is a choice take plants of a short stocky growth rather than such as have luxuriant branches.

A moderate pruning in the spring will cause the fruit to fill less than on unpruned overburdened trees.

An apple tree may fail to bear because overbearing the previous year has overexhausted the vitality.

Whether the vines run horizontally or upright, they should be trained as near as possible in straight lines.

Now is a good time to set out raspberries and blackberries. Get the work done before the plants start to grow.

Plant for succession in the garden as well as in the orchard. It is an item to have a good supply of fruits and vegetables all the season.—St. Louis Republic.

Linseed Cake in the Dairy.

As a milk and butter producer, ground linseed cake has no equal. It not only increases the flow of milk, but adds greatly to its richness in cream. With a cow accustomed to corn meal, bran, shorts and the like, the increase will be from one to two quarts at each milking, within 24 hours after beginning with the ground linseed cake. A cow, to be able to give a full flow of milk, must have food richer in nitrogen than would be required for any other animal, since milk itself is composed largely of albuminoids, and this can only be supplied from food containing this substance. The first demand of a cow upon the nitrogen of food is to supply waste of tissue, and only the surplus will go to milk.—Coleman's Rural World.

Best Peas for the Table.

The wrinkled variety of peas are the best for the table, but are not preferred for canning. Any of the early dwarf peas may be used for the first crop. The dwarf kinds give only about one picking. It is the standard varieties which bear the heaviest crops, but they require supports that are later than the dwarf kinds. The champion of England is considered one of the best for quality, but is not as prolific as some others, and is also a late variety.

EDUCATING THE CHILDREN.

The High-Pressure Plan Is Full of Danger.

There are many people who seem to fancy that if children do not come home from school with their arms full of books, and with a careworn and thoughtful expression on their faces, they are not learning anything. Their gauge of progress seems to be built on a high-pressure plan, and they entertain very serious doubts about the possibility of any royal road to learning.

This being the case, it is not at all surprising that teachers and school boards should indulge in various cramming and crowding methods, and should make an effort to push the children forward as rapidly as possible. Indeed, they must do this to earn their money, so to speak. The injury done by this course is past computation; children are overtaxed and become worn out, fretful and irritable. They do not advance as fast as they ought to, indeed, it is impossible for them to do so. Then there is more fretting and worrying on the part of parents and teachers, and with the most disastrous results.

Children break down, become discouraged and inattentive; their minds are incapable of grasping the enormous amount of material that is put before them, and the inevitable reaction sets in. Instead of making learning interesting and engaging their attention and enthusiasm, they are made into mere machines and pushed to their utmost, even though, as is often the case, the teachers know it to be a hopeless struggle.

An experienced instructor has said that a child will learn about five times as much when the studies are made pleasant and agreeable, and this amount will be increased if anything like enthusiasm can be awakened. Admitting that this is true, it is the most wearisome and thankless of tasks to force upon young children such a comprehensive course of study as that laid down in some of our public schools. The drill and monotony of hard work are inevitable, but a judicious and well-selected teacher will enthuse the pupils either on the subject of their books or give an incentive in the way of promotions and preferences that is certain to have a most happy effect on the minds of little ones.

It is the height of absurdity to see children of 11 or 12 years studying philosophy and similar branches. There is time enough for this when they have reached the ages of 15 or 16. Fundamental physiological truths should be taught to every child while in its cradle, and should be followed by the few important facts necessary for it to know, until it has reached at least years of incipient discretion.—N. Y. Ledger.

HE COULD FIGHT.

One Blow Secured a School for the Pale, Thin Young Man.

In the mountains of the south the schools are still maintained upon the subscription plan. A traveling man just returned from that section gave the following account of an examination of an applicant for a school:

"I was stopping at a cabin all night," said he, "and a pale, slender young man came during the evening to talk with my host.

"'I am thinking of starting a school here,' he said, 'and I wanted to see if you would subscribe.'

"'Kin yo' read?'

"'Yes.'

"'Kin yo' write?'

"'Certainly.'

"'Kin yo' figger?'

"'Of course.'

"'Air yo' married?'

"'No.'

"'Wall, we did want a married man nex' time. The las' three teachers has run off with gals, an' thar ain't enuff gals in this hyar neighborhood now. But I don' s'pose none of 'em would want a lean feller like yo'. I don't reckon yo' not bein' married 'll make much diff'rence. Couldn't expect sich a po'ly feller ter be married. Then thar's one thing. Me an' Bill Simpkins an' Alf Toney is all gwine ter school an' larn ter read an' write. I done licked Bill an' he done licked Alf, so I reckon the only one ter settle with is me. We ain't gwine to 'ley no man we kin lick. Kin yo' fout?'

"'I studied boxing,' said the stranger.

"'Don't know nothin' 'bout thet. Does makin' boxes make muscle?'

"'Try one and see,' was the cool rejoinder.

"The big mountaineer hit at the little man, and when he regained consciousness had his head in the wood box and his feet sticking up in the air.

"Looking about him with a dazed expression, he said:

"'Young feller, shake. I'll go with yo' some day an' we'll git thet school. An', say, young feller, set me ter work on them boxes, will yo'?'" — Washington Star.

The Pin Basket.

One of the newest of new things this winter is the pin basket. To make a pretty one buy a small, shallow basket. It should be quite fresh and new. If possible secure one in which the edges are nicely finished off with basket lace work. Line it with silk of some pale shade—pink, blue, green or violet. Make the lining loose and puffy. Only the bottom of the basket is lined. Around the sides—inside, of course—are at least half a dozen minute pincushions made of the same silk as was used in lining. The cushions should be attached to the basket with baby ribbon of the required shade. One cushion is filled with ordinary pins, another with white-headed, another with black, and so on. A pretty idea is to gild the basket before trimming it.—St. Louis Republic.

Predictions Fulfilled.

Mr. Nuitt—This letter informs me that our former neighbor, Judge Stillwell, has just lost his wife at the advanced age of 74 years.

Mrs. Nuitt—At last! I always said they never could live together. — To Date.

GENEALOGICAL SEARCHERS.

They Spend Hours in the Libraries Tracing the Family Tree.

The attendance in the public libraries are kept busy these days by a horde of callers who have suddenly developed a mania for genealogical research. In fact, says the New York Herald, it seems to have become a fad to trace the family tree. The cause of it is not easily explainable. It is possible, however, that circulars calling for heirs to large fortunes, scattered broadcast by many lawyers throughout the country, may be responsible for this fad.

The seekers look carefully through the old books, records and histories, and every little clew found therein is coveted with avidity. There have been rare cases where some startling and important clew has been found, but they are few and far between.

One of the library attendants told me that many of the genealogical callers were young men, who think a good family tree may help them along in the world, as he expressed it. However that may be, the fad, if it is really a fad, is by no means flippant, as it opens the avenue to much interesting and useful information, and instructs the searcher, even if his own wish for family information is not gratified.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

MRS. SUBURB—"I thought you said it was the little boy next door who was making all the noise?" Little Johnnie—"So it was, ma. I was hitting him with a stick."—Tit-Bits.

YELLOWSTONE PARK & COLORADO

Personally Conducted Tours.

The Burlington Route will run five personally conducted tours during the summer to Colorado and Yellowstone Park. The dates are June 23, July 7, July 14, July 21 and July 28. Write for illustrated pamphlet of the Park and book of the tours.

L. W. WAKELEY, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Louis.

NO MATTER how happy and contented a man may look, if you give him a chance he will spend the day telling you his troubles.—Los Angeles Express.

The Rock of Gibraltar

Is not steadier than a system liberated from the shackles of chills and fever, bilious remittent or dumb ague by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a perfect antidote to malarial poison in air or water. It is also an unexampled remedy for bilious, rheumatic or kidney complaints, dyspepsia and nervousness. It improves appetite and sleep and hastens convalescence.

"NO," SAID Mr. Wickwire, "I haven't tried to get funny around the house since I told the hired girl to boil the ice—and she did."—Indianapolis Journal.

THE MARKETS.

	CINCINNATI	May 2.
LIVESTOCK—Cattle, common	$2 65	@ 3 15
Select butchers	3 75	@ 4 00
HOGS—Common	3 00	@ 3 15
Good packers	3 20	@ 3 30
SHEEP—Choice	3 25	@ 3 65
LAMBS—Spring	5 00	@ 6 75
FLOUR—Winter family	2 75	@ 3 05
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 69
No. 3 red		@ 69
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 31
Oats—No. 2		@ 20
Rye—No. 2		@ 42
HAY—Prime to choice		@ 15 25
TOBACCO—Medium leaf	10 00	@ 11 75
Good leaf	12 00	@ 14 00
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@ 9 00
Lard—Prime steam		@ 4 62½
BUTTER—Choice dairy	9	@ 10½
Prime to choice creamery		@ 16½
APPLES—Per bbl	3 00	@ 3 50
POTATOES—New, Per bush	1 00	@ 1 25
NEW YORK
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 90	@ 4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 1 north'n		@ [illegible]
No. 2 red		@ [illegible]
CORN—No. 2 mixed		@ 35¾
OATS—Mixed		@ 25
PORK—New mess	10 50	@ 11 00
LARD—Western		@ 5 05
CHICAGO
FLOUR—Winter patents	3 50	@ 3 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 61¾
No. 2 Chicago spring	60½	@ [illegible]
CORN—No. 2		@ 28¼
OATS—No. 2		@ 18
PORK—Mess	8 10	@ 8 15
LARD—Steam		@ 4 75
BALTIMORE
FLOUR—Family	3 50	@ 3 60
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ [illegible]
Corn—Mixed	[illegible]	@ 34¼
Oats—Mixed	25	@ [illegible]
LARD—Refined		@ [illegible]
PORK—Mess		@ [illegible]
CATTLE—First quality	4 00	@ 4 25
HOGS—Western	4 00	@ 4 25
INDIANAPOLIS
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 67
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 29
Oats—No. 2 mixed		@ 21½
LOUISVILLE
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 70	@ 3 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 70
Corn—Mixed		@ 31½
Oats—Mixed		@ 22
PORK—Mess		@ 9 75
LARD—Steam	5 50	@ 6 00

THE difference between a somnambulist and a messenger boy is trifling: One walks in his sleep, and the other sleeps in his walk.—Philadelphia Press.

"BIG words an' fine clothes," said Uncle Eben, "is berry frequently alike in not kibberin' much dat re'ly 'mounts ter anything."—Washington Star.

TEMPERANCE is corporeal piety; it is the preservation of divine order in the body.—Theodore Parker.

One of the health-giving elements of HIRES Rootbeer is sarsaparilla. It contains more sarsaparilla than many of the preparations called by that name. HIRES [illegible] any test.

Made only by The Charles E. Hires Co., Philadelphia. A 25c. package makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere.

ST. JACOBS OIL

Is a prize fighter and champion in every contest with

RHEUMATIC PAINS

It knocks out in every round, and on its belt is written "I CURE."

Real Cocoa

The test of 115 years proves the purity of Walter Baker & Co.'s Cocoa and Chocolate.

WALTER BAKER & CO., Limited, Dorchester, Mass.

Design from Portfolio No. 2, $1,000 and $1,500.

An artistic and comfortable dwelling costs no more than a poorly planned one.

And it is cheaper to pay interest on a mortgaged House, than to pay rent.

BEFORE BUILDING Look over our latest building designs, just published, in 10 portfolios (see list) some 300 designs in all, costing from $500 to $10,000. Gives large views, floor plans, full description and dimensions, all about painting, plastering, heating, and, in fact, every essential aid to the intending builder.

PRICE, $2 EACH. FULL SET (10), $10.

LIST.	SIZE OF PORTFOLIO 11x15 INCHES.
No. 1	contains	30	designs,	costing	$500 to $1,000
No. 2	"	30	"	"	1,000 to 1,500
No. 3	"	30	"	"	1,500 to 2,000
No. 4	"	30	"	"	2,000 to 2,500
No. 5	"	30	"	"	2,500 to 3,000
No. 6	"	30	"	"	3,000 to 3,500
No. 7	"	30	"	"	3,500 to 4,000
No. 8	"	30	"	"	4,000 to 6,000
No. 9	"	30	"	"	6,000 to 10,000
No. 10	"	stables and double houses, all costs.

To introduce quickly, on receipt of $3 will send any two sections you may select. Example, for $2,000 house send $3 for Nos. 3 and 4, etc., etc.

Returnable if not satisfactory.

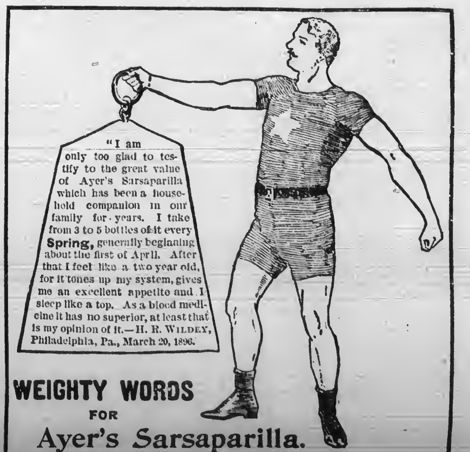
Address the

Co-operative Building Plan Ass'n, Architects,
106 & 108 Fulton St., New York City.

BIG AND GOOD.

Battle Ax PLUG

Sometimes quality is sacrificed in the effort to give big quantity for little money. No doubt about that. But once in a while it isn't. For instance, there's "BATTLE AX." The piece is bigger than you ever saw before for 5 cents. And the quality is, as many a man has said, "mighty good." There's no guess work in this statement. It is just a plain fact. You can prove it by investing 5 cents in "BATTLE AX."



"I am only too glad to testify to the great value of Ayer's Sarsaparilla which has been a household companion in our family for years. I take from 3 to 5 bottles of it every Spring, generally beginning about the first of April. After that I feel like a two year old, for it tones up my system, gives me an excellent appetite and I sleep like a top. As a blood medicine it has no superior, at least that is my opinion of it.—H. R. WILDEY, Philadelphia, Pa., March 20, 1896.

WEIGHTY WORDS FOR Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, of ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor.) He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS PLEASE state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER.

Wednesday, May 6, 1896.

Terms of Subscription:

One year	$1 50.
Six months	75.
Three months	40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER
SOLICITS YOUR Job Work,
NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS,
Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.
Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

Some of the colored women of Richmond have organized a base-ball club.

Mrs. Rhoda Cox, 77, of Madison county sheared her fifteen sheep without assistance.

Jos. A. Nichols, a farmer of Grayson county, was killed by lightning while plowing in a field.

Hon. Charles Bronston, of Lexington, is be to wedded to Miss Belle Wisdom, daughter of B. H. Wisdom.

Pneumonia is epidemic in portions of Letcher county. Over 100 persons are down with the disease.

Henry Mitchell Smith, who was to have been hung at Lexington last Friday, was respited until June 2d.

Chat is the name of a monthly paper to be published by the Young Men's Christian Association at Paducah.

Frank Stevenson, of Greenup, was seriously crushed by a wagon loaded with cross-ties overturning and falling upon him.

A curious metallic coffin containing the body of a woman in a good state of preservation has been unearthed at Henderson.

The total equalized assessment of Kentucky for this year will, it is predicted, be $10,000,000 less than the assessment last year.

There were sold in Paris last year 5,130 tons of horse flesh. It was dealt in by 186 shops, those not being allowed to sell other meats. The finest grades sold for 18 cents.

Ellis Brame, of Christian county, went to the stable to harness a team of horses. He was perfectly sane when he left the house, but in fifteen minutes he returned a raving maniac.

The body of Capt. J. S. Bull who was drowned at Jackson April 1st, while out boating, was found in the bed of the river about a mile below the town, where he was buried in the sand.

Bale, Democrat, defeated Dr. Walton, the expelled Republican Senator, in the special election to choose a successor to the latter. Dr. James, Republican, had only a Populist candidate as an opponent, and James was re-elected.

Mrs. Henry Anderson is the possessor of a chicken, living and enjoying all the pleasures of this life at this date, without a mother. The egg from which the chicken came was a nest egg and laid in the sun, which caused it to hatch. Mrs. Anderson saw the egg when it hatched and knows the above to be true.—Owen News.

The Boyle County grand jury returned two indictments for forgery against J. T. Holland, a leading citizen of Perryville. One was for signing the name of William Stegall to a note for $500, payable at the Citizens' Bank of Danville, and one for signing the name T. J. Caldwell to a note for $200, payable at the Boyle National Bank. Holland was the largest merchant at Perryville until he made an assignment about a year ago.

A curious case was on trial at Vanceburg, last week. Last summer Jas. Blankenship, a merchant, lost a pair of steers. Jack Logan, a wealthy farmer, was charged with having taken them to Portsmouth and selling them. Blankenship had Logan arrested. A compromise was made, Logan acknowledged taking the cattle and gave Blankenship his note for $100. Now Logan tries to defeat the note by claiming he was crazy when he executed it.

Douglas Johnson, of near Hazel, is deaf and dumb, and no doubt there are others, but few perhaps were deprived of these very essential senses in such a summary and peculiar manner as was he, says the Paducah Standard. A few days ago, while clearing a field, he chopped down a small bush, and when it fell a twig penetrated one of his ears, but, other than a momentary pain, it did not injure him, apparently. Three days afterward he suddenly lost the power of hearing and of speaking, and now is as deaf and dumb as a bronze statue. His misfortune is sadly deplored by his many friends, who hope that soon he may be restored.

The Court of Appeals last week decided the Hardin county local option case, holding that the law is inoperative so far the city of Elizabethtown is concerned, a majority of the voters in that city having voted "wet" at a recent election. The law as to the balance of the county is held to be still in force. The case of Georgetown in her local option contest is parallel to that of Elizabethtown, both cities having voted in favor of license, while the two counties gave majorities the other way. Since the above decision of the Court of Appeals Georgetown saloonists are confident of continuing the liquor traffic.—Midway Clipper.

CROP AND STOCK.

There is not the usual number of export cattle being fed in Madison county.

Woodford county lamb buyers are paying 4 cents for June and 3½ cents for July delivery.

At W. S. McBrayer's distillery in Anderson county, 250 out of 400 hogs have died of cholera.

L. N. Jordan, of Warren county, has a Berkshire boar that at six months old weighed 255 pounds.

It is said that if onions are set in cucumber hills bugs will not bother the vines. It won't be much trouble to try it.

Lee Hudson, of Danville, is selling a big lot of hemp seed at four dollars per bushel that he bought some time ago at $1,15.

The reports come from various portions of the mule-producing districts that the mules are nearly all picked up, and are scarce.

Boyle county farmers are asking sixty-five and seventy cents for the growing crop of wheat, but this is so much higher than buyers are willing to give that no offers are being made.

The Boyle county wheat prospect is said to be poor—good in spots, but generally discouraging. There is no trading in the growing crops. Growers ask 65 and 75 cents, but this is so much higher than the buyers are willing to give that they are making no offers at all.—Danville Advocate.

The News has been reliably informed for a week or two past that the prospect for plants were good, but an investigation among the most reliable farmers finds that the prospects for plants were never worse in Owen county. There are hundreds of beds in the county in which there is not fifty plants, and if the drouth continues their wont be any left.

The Harrodsburg Democrat says that Mr. W. W. Goddard will plant not exceeding 12 acres of tobacco this season. Heretofore he has raised from 18 to 20 acres. His idea is that every plant a man puts out more than he can properly attend to is suicidal, not only to himself but to other planters, from the fact that it costs as much to handle inferior tobacco as it does the very finest. Raise less and give it better attention; you will have less to handle and will get much better prices, which will more than make up the difference, is his motto.

POLITICAL.

Some of the exchanges have made the following political forecast for this Congressional district: "The approaching Presidential race is developing numerous candidates for Congressional nomination in both parties. Col. A. S. Berry, the present incubent, will have organized opposition in his own county—Campbell, Mr. John Hodge, Chairman of the District Committee, is already at work shaping affairs to down Berry. Col. R. W. Nelson, the celebrated criminal lawyer of Newport has also weighed in and promises a lively race. Hon. John Gaunt, of Carroll county, has his auricular appendage close to the telephone receiver, waiting for the dear people to call him for the race. Hon. W. W. Dickerson of Grant county, would not be adverse to serving another term if the voters desire to back him again. Judge Leslie Applegate, of Pendleton county, like Barkis, is "willin" and Col. J. Frank Frant, of Boone county, is in a receptive mood also. However, in Jack Chinn parlance Berry is an "even money favorite," and it is supposed that several of the short skates will scratch, as the entrance fee is very high.

Among the Republican candidates for Congress in this district are looming up rapidly. The Republicans of this district believe there is a splendid show to beat the Democratic nominee. So far, Col. Weden O'Neal of Covington, Hon. W. H. Lyons, of Newport, and T. B. Mathews have announced themselves for the Republican nomination.

OUR NEIGHBORS

GRANT COUNTY
[Courier]

Col. R. T. Dickerson is on the jump this week buying tobacco.

The jubilee meeting of the children of the Methodist church on last Sunday was a pleasant affair.

The District Conference, which convenes here June 2, 3, 4 and 5, will be made up of the very best material the Methodist church has.

The services of Centurion Lodge, I. O. O. F., on last Monday night in commemoration of the anniversary of the establishment of the order in the United States were beautiful, appropriate and impressive.

—§§—

GALLATIN COUNTY
[Independent]

Eugene Clements, Benj. Wilson and Smith Riggs, of Rabbit Hash, Boone County, three very clever gentlemen, were here Wednesday purchasing material with which to build a Knight of Pythias hall at that place, plans having been completed to institute a lodge there.

Tobacco growers from every quarter are complaing of the slim prospect of plants, and if all the reports are true there will not be enough plants to set one half of the acreage that has been contemplated.

There never was a poorer prospect for wheat crop than there is at present in this section. Many of the fields are so scant and weak that it is doubtful if they will be worth harvesting and threshing.

The soup at Sparta last Saturday for the benefit of the candidates was quite a breezy affair as there were about a half a dozen fights. No one was seriouly injured, but there were several sore heads.

—§§—

CARROLL COUNTY
[News]

Tobacco plants are reported very scarce in some localities.

A great many farmers are watering their tobacco plant beds to keep them alive, while others are still sowing.

Jim Duncan, a bachelor, living at Campbellsburg, committed suicide Monday evening by cutting his throat.

If the applications for water continue to pour in as is now the case, the water-works will soon be self-supporting.

There are a number of applicants, about 20, for the position of assistant lock-keeper at Lock No. 1, which will shortly be vacant.

There is no country in the world where a person can ride further on a steamboat for less money than on the Ohio river at this season of the year.

C. H. Ward, "Cap," who some time since attempted suicine by cutting his throat, was tried for lunacy before Judge Donalnson, and the jury found him of unsound mind and he was sent to the asylum. It appears that for some time his mind has been failing.

—§§—

OWEN COUNTY
[News]

The residence of Gus Willhoite, near Hesler, was consumed by fire last Friday morning at an early hour. Very little of the household goods were saved.

The colored people of Owenton, under the management of Rev. Dr. Davis, are making grand preparations to have an Emancipation Celebration to be held at the fair grounds June 5.

Arthur Lillard and Col. John Headly Ford came from the mountians early Monday morning with 18 head of cattle and 40 sheep, the results of twelve standard bred, Owen county Jockey bred horses taden to the mountains a few weeks ago.

A frightful accident occurred last Monday evening at the bridge across Eagle cree, near Sanders, in which two little daughters of Frank Jacobs, of Sanders, were badly injured and may die. His three little daughters, aged 14, 11 and 9 had been driven up to New Liberty by a boy and were returning home, when the boy stopped the carriage and got out to gather some flowers hill, which is a very sharp one, by the road side just at the foot of the New Liberty hill. He had scarcely left the carriage before the horse took fright and started off at a fearful rate of speed, one of the little girls falling out of the carriage in a short distance. He continued his mad run with the two innocent little girls for two miles, when he struck the top of the hill, above the bridge, which is about one-half mile long. The speed increased with each leap down the hill. In some miraculous manner the horse made the turn at the foot of the without overturning the carriage. A hundred feet beyond where the bridge is entered there was less fortune for the occupants, as the horse ran in the iron rail guarding the approach span, threw the buggy over the rait, to distance of 20 feet to the ground below, the horse extracting himself and running on through the bridge.

Parties ran at once to the assistance of the little sufferers and found them insensible among the ruins of the carriage. They were taken home and medical aid summoned, but their recovery is doubtful.

The New Fish Law.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

Section 1.—That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to catch or destroy fish in any of the running waters, lakes or yonds, other than private ponds, of this State, by means of a sein, net, other than a dip net, drag or trap, except streams forming the boundary line between this and other States. Any one thus offending shall, on conviction, be fined in a sum not less than $25 nor more than $50 for each offense, and cost of prosecution.

Sec. 2—That any person or persons who shall place, or cause to be placed, in any of the running waters designated in section one, any drag, injurious substance, medicated bait, or any dynamite or other explosive agent, with intent to injure, poison or catch fish, shall be guilty ol a misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than $50 nor more than $100 for each offense and cost of prosecution.

Sec. 3—That 60 per centum of all the fines collected for violation of the provisions of this act shall be paid into the treasury of the county in which such fines are imposition, the remaining 40 per centum to be paid to the civil officer securing the opprehension and conviction.

Sec. 4.—That the Circuit Courts of the respective counties of the State, wherein any of the offenses herein enumerated are committed, shall have exclusive jurisdiction to indict, try and punish such offenders.

Sec. 5—That it shall be the duty of the Judges in all Circuit Courts of the respective counties of this State to give this act specially in charge of each grand jury of said court.

Sec. 6.—That this act shall not be construed to prevent any person from using minnow seines less than ten feet in length and four feet in depth to catch minnows for bait, or trot lines, or pole and lines to catch fish.

Sec. 7—That acts or parts of acts heretofore passed, in conflict with this act, are hereby repealed.

Sec. 8.—Whereas, the fish in the streams of this State are being constantly killed by drugs, and by dynamite and other explosives, an emergency is declared to exist, and this act shall take effect when signed by the Governor.

TURNING GRAY
AND THREATENED
WITH BALDNESS
The Danger is Averted by Using
AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

"Nearly forty years ago, after some weeks of sickness, my hair turned gray and began falling out so rapidly that I was threatened with immediate baldness. Hearing Ayer's Hair Vigor highly spoken of, I commenced using this preparation, and was so well satisfied with the result that I have never tried any other kind of dressing. It stopped the hair from falling out, stimulated a new growth of hair, and kept the scalp free from dandruff. Only an occasional application is now needed to keep my hair of good, natural color. I never hesitate to recommend any of Ayer's medicines to my friends."—Mrs. H. M. Haight, Avoca, Neb.

Ayer's Hair Vigor
PREPARED BY
DR. J. C. AYER & CO., LOWELL, MASS., U. S. A.
Ayer's Sarsaparilla Removes Pimples.

FARM FOR SALE.

A good farm of 76 acres, between Bellevue and Petersburg, near Woolper ford—good house, good barn and necessary outbuildings. The sale will be on easy terms. OWEN ALLEN.

G. H. HACKSTADT,
Ludlow, Ky.,
MANUFACTURER OF
ALL KINDS OF VEHICLES.
Best Buggies on Earth
FOR THE
Price, $35 and UP
W. C. BROWN, Agent
BURLINGTON, KY.

☞A good Investment. What does it mean? To secure a Good Value for your money. These Values are offered as long as they last☜.

Men's All-Wool Nicely Finished, Good Weight Sack Suits at	$5.00
Same in Boys' Sizes,	$4.50
Men's All-Wool Pants,	$1.25

We have advertised ourselves as the RELIABLE CLOTHIERS—any statement we may make can be depended upon. When we say that these suits are Bargains at $4.50 and $5.00 we know it to be a fact. We will appreciate inspection whether you desire to purchase or not.

ROLFES & WACHS,
RELIABLE CLOTHIERS,
S, W. Cor Pike Street & Madison Ave., COVINGTON, KY

Do Not Read This.

Four Pound Schofield Blankets,	$3.00
Four and half pounds Schofield Blankets,	3.25
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 36 inches;	.80
Schofield's all-wool Skirts, 38 inches,	.90
Schofield's all-wool Ready-Made Skirts,	1.15

Schofield Flannels at cost.
All Schofield Yarns 10 per cent. discount. Schofield Jeans at cost.
All Boots and Heavy Shoes at cost.
We have a few Suits of Mens' Underwear which we will sell at cost.

(o)

Also a full line of☞ DRY GOODS ... And a neat line of☞ GROCERIES,
AT THE STORE OF THE
Burlington Mercantile Co.,
Burlington, Kentucky.

PURE BRED CHESTER WHITE HOGS.
La : Belle : Herd
—OF UP TO DATE—
CHESTER WHITE HOGS.
THE KEYSTONE DEHORNING CLIPPER IS THE MOST HUMANE, RAPID AND DURABLE KNIFE ON THE MARKET FOR DEHORNING PURPOSES, AND IS MADE FOR THE USE OF FARMERS AND DAIRYMEN. SEND FOR CIRCULAR A. C. BROSIUS, COCHRANVILLE, PA.
Also agent for Dehorner, and Dehorning done at reasonable rates.
ALSO AGENT FOR AEROMETER
EVERY FARMER NEEDS ONE.
Best and Cheapest Wind-Mill Made.
COME AND SEE IT.
T. J. HUGHES, - - - BEAVER LICK, KY.

Read this and take Advantage of it.
FINE BUGGIES
Now is the time to have your
CARRIAGE WORK done at the lowest possible CASH PRICES.
REPAIRING a specialty. New work always on Hand. General Smithing of all kinds.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
Call and see our prices before purchasing.
KYLE & BENTLER,
Florence, Ky.

E. H. RIGGS,
—Dealer in—
HARDWATE, STOVES, LIME,
—CEMENT, ETC.—
TIN, IRON AND SLATE ROOFING.
FLY SCREENS NOW ON HAND.
Erlanger, : : : Ky.

MOST IN QUANTITY. BEST IN QUALITY.
WORMS!
WHITE'S CREAM
VERMIFUGE
FOR 20 YEARS
Has led all WORM Remedies.
EVERY BOTTLE GUARANTEED.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by
RICHARDSON MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS.

NOTICE.

All those indebted to me for taxes are hereby notified that I am compelied to close up my tax accounts and will proceed to enforce thier collection by law if not paid by March 1st, 1896. My books are in the hands of Lassing & Riddell, attorneys, Burlington, Ky. Call and settle with them and save costs.

D. BEALL, Ex.-Sheriff
Boone County.

Subscribe for the RECORDER.

Scientific American Agency for
PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.
For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the
Scientific American
Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address, MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

COME TO THIS OFFICE for JOB WORK

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXI. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, MAY 13, 1896. NO. 29.

By virtue of an order of the Democratic State Executive Committee, a mass meeting of the Democrats of Boone will be held at Burlington, on the 30th day of May, at 2 p. m., solar time, for the purpose of choosing delegates to the District and State conventions called to meet at Lexington the 2d day of June, 1896, Boone county will be entitled to 10 delegates in said convention.

D. E. Castleman,
Chairman Executive Committee.
B. L. Rice, Secretary.

Judge Denny is credited with having given out the following interview while in St. Louis a few days since:

"The great mass of Kentucky Republicans are for McKinley, but Bradley's shrewd manipulation of the machine has prevented them in a measure, from giving direct expression of their sentiment. Bradley has inflicted such injuries upon the party that now we have very nearly lost all the advantages gained by the splendid fight we made last summer. I doubt if we can recover from the harm he has done us in time to be of any material benefit to the Republicans in the Electoral College this year."

Both the great political parties have fought shie of the money question in the past, each framing its platform on the question so as to be construed either for or against the free coinage of silver, but the time has come when only a clear and ringing declaration on the money question can give satisfaction. The people are in no temper to be trifled with any longer.

A writer in the Blue Grass section, says the indications are that there will be a very large increase in the acreage of tobacco planted in that part of the State this year. Those who have been cultivating tobacco for many years will have uncommonly large crops, while many who never planted in the past will pitch a large area.

All attempts to obtain from Major McKinley his views on the money question, have proven total failures. He wants to be in position to shout, "thems my views, too," as soon as the St. Louis convention adopts its platform, no matter what it declares on the money question.

The A. P. A. organization is having trouble in regard to the Republican candidates for the presidency. One faction thinks the other has been entirely too hasty in condemning McKinley, and considers him about the best material for President that the Republicans have offered.

Senator Gorman is of the opinion that the money question will cut no figure in the Presidential campaign this fall, that the national platforms will be, practically, the same on that question. He wants to make the fight on the the tariff of course.

The United States court convened in Covington, Monday. John L. Cleek, of Beaver, and J. W. Kennedy, of Union are on the jury. The damage suit of H. O. Adams against David Ryle, will be called for trial some time during this week.

They have commenced climbing into the McKinley band wagon in every section of the country, and among the delegates now in is an installment of down easters some, of Morton's and Reed's neighbors.

The Enquirer gives the silver men this piece of good advice: "What Michigan did should stimulate Silver Democrats of other States to send honest men to their conventions, and elect them early."

Major Hayes, a United States Army officer, will accompany Consul General Lee to Cuba, and assist him in forming an intelligent idea of the military situation on the Island.

The Democratic State convention will be held in Woodland Park Auditorium at Lexington. A very large attendance is expected.

A recent census shows that Massachusetts has 70,800 surplus females. Go east, young man, and get you a wife.

It is said that President Cleveland's financial manipulations have been so successful that he is now a millionaire.

The Spaniards continue whipping the Cubans, but the latter are holding their own, notwithstanding.

BIMETALLISM.

[By C. M. C., of Walton.]

To the Editor of the Recorder:

The gold standardists created the conditions adverse to silver, and they now have the brazon effrontery to urge these conditions as a reason why it should not be restored. The fact stands, silver was demonetized and its consequences teemed with injustice to the American people, and have been of incalculable injury to the country.

The effect of closing our mint to silver was not immediately felt. There had been no specie payment since 1862, and except on the Pacific coast there was neither gold nor silver in circulation. The people were not thinking of the coinage. It hardly attracted the attention of the silver miners until some time afterwards. The mints of France and the other states of the Latin Union were open to the coinage of silver until about the close of 1873, and the value of the metal was not depreciated.

For the full year of 1873 the value of the silver dollar averaged a small fraction over 100 cents. There might have been no decline at all, but the out-put of the mines, with what Germany was placing on the market crowded the mints of the Latin Union beyond their capacity, causing a delay in getting returns.

But the general limitation of coinage in those countries in 1874-5-6 caused silver to drop more rapidly. The bullion value of the dollar averaged 98.4 in 1874. In 1875 it averaged 96.4, while in 1876 it dropped much more rapidly going as low as 70 cents. and averaging for the year about 89. This heavy loss of value aroused those who were producing silver, but the sudden and extraordinary fall in the prices of staple commodities in those years, arrested the attention of all economists, writers and business men all over the civilized world, and it was accompanied by depression of business so widespread and of such long duration as had never before been witnessed.

During the 20 years preceding 1873 prices had risen 18 or 20 per cent, or about 1 per cent. a year. It was a time of great industrial activity, noted for its many new inventions, railroad building and greatly increased productions and was thought to be the most pros 20 years in this country's history. Suddenly everything changed. Prices went down more rapidly than they had risen.

It is quite common for our self-styled statemen and newspapers to assume that business was all right until the spring of 1893, when the panic struck the country. Republicans ascribed that panic to the threatened change in our tariff policy by the democracy coming into power. Gold standard democrats claimed that our silver legislation was the prime cause. And at this present time it is claimed by gold standardists generally, that "times would be good" if the "silver lunatics would stop their infernal agitation."

The reader will note the fact that business depression set in as far back as 1873, closely following the demonetization of silver. Then it was that prices began to fall, business enterprise was checked and for the first time in our history America was overrun with tramps. So unusual was the condition that it was regarded with anxiety on both sides of the Atlantic.

Bearing in mind what has been said with reference to the quantity of money, it is plainly seen why the demonetization of silver would cause a fall in prices. It was a specific limitation of the money supply. Before that time silver and gold had been freely coined in Europe and America. Suddenly the mints were closed to silver, nothing was coined but gold. So much of it was being used in the arts, that certainly not more than one-half, and probably not more than one-third of the actual product of the mines was put to a monetary use. In this way the money supply became limited, and the supply of other things kept on increasing.

The mints of Germany, the United States and the Latin Union being closed to silver nearly 200,000,000 more people began to put forth a demand for gold only that previously had been divided between the two metals. This caused a sharp rise in the value of gold, i. e. its purchasing power increased. It required more of other things to buy a stated quantity of gold. Prices of all other commodities fell.

The fall in prices affected the producers and debtors of America very keenly. The attention of the people was directed to the fact that silver had been demonetized and agitation began for its restoration. The Bland Bill for the free coinage of silver passed the House, but in the Senate the free coinage clause was struck out, and an amendment providing that the government should buy and coin not less than two million dollars worth nor more than $4,000,000 worth of silver bullion each month, and that the dollar thus coined should be full legal tender except where otherwise expressly stipulated in the contract. In this form the bill passed and was vetoed by the President, but passed again over his veto.

This law was treated as an unwise and dangerous measure by an unfriendly administration and its execution was limited to the coinage of only the smallest amount mentioned by law. Senator Sherman, then Secretary of the Treasury, gave his opinion that no more than 55,000,000 of silver dollars could be safely coined. The New York bankers combined against it and the silver dollar was excluded from the clearing house, as being a "dishonest, degraded, debased dollar," and in every possible way it was by them discredited.

It may not be amiss here to observe that nearly every Secretary of the Treasury, after entering upon the duties of his office, has obtained his knowledge of finance from New York bankers, and there is a very strong suspicion in the minds of many well informed people that some of them have even learned to know how to make individual profit at the expense of the government. There may or may not be grounds for these suspicions, but one thing is certain, some of them have become wealthy who have had no other visible means of support than a salary generally stigmatised as a mere pittance in an extravagant place like Washington.

But to resume, the money power and its subervient allies then, as they now do, denounced the friends of silver restoration as "cranks," lunatics and knaves, endeavoring to swindle people with cheap money. The idea that money can be made "too dear" never occurs to the gold standard champion.

But, dispite all the opposition, the coinage continued and the effect was beneficial. The years 1880-81-82 witnessed a very substantial reaction in business. But the measure was not of sufficient magnitude to give permanent relief. The purchases of silver being limited, left a surplus and the price of silver bullion continued to fall.

The Bland-Allison act did not restore silver as a standard money metal. The value of the bullion remained below the value of the coin, which was not available for export, and being generally rejected by the banks as a part of their specie reserve, it operated the same as so much paper money added to the currency.

About 1882 the National Banks began to contract their currency and it killed the effect of the Bland law. Prices began to drop and an unfavorable reaction set in. Depression overspread Europe and America. By 1886 it became so severe as to arouse the attention of the British government, and in 1886 a commission was appointed to investigate the business depression that existed throughout the United Kingdom. It fixed the beginning of the trouble in the year 1873, the date of the silver demonetization. It did not investigate the silver question itself, but advised the appointment of another commission for that express purpose. Accordingly in 1887, the Royal Gold and Silver Commission was created for the purpose of investigating the causes which had led to the divergence in the value of gold and silver. This commission found wide spread business stagnation-beginning about the year 1873, and that prices had fallen about 30 per cent. It reported that the main cause for the separation of the two metals was the demonetization of silver in that year. But the commission, consisted of half gold men and half silver men, and made no definite recommendations. Constituted as it was no valuable recommendations of policy were to be expected. But the testimony and reports were a mine of the most valuable information. They proved conclusively that up to the close of 1886 prices had fallen upon an average 30 per cent., and that silver measured in gold had falling at a rate almost exactly equal. Thus it appeared that the exchange value of silver had remained almost constant. Commodities had fallen 30 per cent. (from a gold base) and silver had done the same, it follows, as a mathematical conclusion, that silver and commodities had not changed in relation to each other. That is to say an ounce of silver would exchange for the same quantity of goods as formerly.

If Secretary Carlisle will answer some of the free silver speeches of Congressman Carlisle, the public would take great interest in reading the Secretary's answer.

The Bradley-Foraker scheme died a bornin.' The action of the Indiana Republicans was not what they anticipated, and the schemers and their coherts went into the soup.

The Indiana Republicans joined the McKinley procession, last Thursday, and it seems that there is no earthly chance for the opposition to knock the Ohio statesman down in the St. Louis convention.

It is amusing to see how the raving silverites and the ranting gold bugs in the Republican party are rallying around McKinley previous to his nomination. Each faction certainly believes he can be handled on the financial question.

The politicians are trying very hard to ascertain whether or not President Cleveland is a candidate for a fourth nomination, but they are about as successful in that direction as the Republicans are in their effort to find out Major McKinley's views on the money question.

There is no sense in the Democratic silverites in Michigan making so much fuss about their defeat in the State convention. It takes votes to win in a convention an if they are in the majority in that State, they should have demonstrated the fact by having a majority of the delegates in the convention.

Both the silver and the gold factions are organizing for the fight at the primaries in this State on the 30th inst., and some are wondering if the President will say to the government officeholders that they shall not participate in the political mill. Not much will he, for without their assistance the refusal to indorse the administration is a foregone conclusion.

The tobacco market was firm last week, sustaining the advance in prices gained the week before, and the sellers were better satisfied with the prices, consequently there were not so many rejections. The advance in the prices is attributed to the dry weather, which interrupted prizing and shipping from the country, and resulted in a benefit to those who had tobacco on the market.

Ex-Speaker Crisp lays down the following propositions for the consideration of the gold-bugs:

Now let me show you the inconsistency of a man who opposes free coinage of silver, and yet wants it brought about by an international agreement; and I want to call attention to that because it is the favorite hiding place of those gentlemen who want to hold to the single standard, and yet profess to be bimetallists. I want him to hear this reasoning, and if it strikes him as it strikes me, he will never pose again as an international bimetallist. The first and only international agreement that has ever existed in the world is what was known as the Latin Union, and it lasted only a few years.

Now if the demonetization of silver did no harm, why should that have an international agreement to remonetize it?

If the restoration of silver will do no good, why do we want an international agreement to restore it.

If there was never bimetallism in the United States why should we have it by internatianal agreement?

If it means the cowardly and dishonest attempt of the silver miner to get a dollar for fifty cents, why should his wicked purpose be gratified by international agreement?

If the half civilized condition of China and India is owing to the use of silver, why should we endanger our civilization by enlarging its use?

If England's greatness is owing to the gold standard, why should we turn back the wheels of progress by an international agreement?

If silver has fallen in price because the price of production has been reduced how can we increase the cost of production by international agreement?

If the value of gold is intrinsic, fixed, unchangeable, as you would have us believe, and independent of law, how can an international agreement affect its relation to silver?

When a man declares in favor of restoring silver by international agreement he surrenders his case upon any question of principle. He admits that its demonetization did harm, and that its remonetization will do good.

KENTUCKY MIDLAND RAILROAD.
[Via Georgetown.]

P. M.	A.M.		A.M.	P.M
d 4:50	z9:13	Ar Walton Lv	7:54	z
4:12	8:52	Ar Williamstown Lv	8:32
3:48	8:28	Ar Corinth Lv	8:55	5:48
3:30	8:13	Ar Sadieville Lv	9:12	6:05
2:20	7:50	Ar Georgetown Lv	9:40	6:33
1:00	6:55	Lv Frankfort Ar	11:30	7:25

z Daily. d Except Sunday.
C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.

Miss Helen Merci Schuster
DRAMATIC READER
AND TEACHER OF
Elocution, Physical Culture
and Delsarte,
811 Scott St. - - COVINGTON, KY.
Class for young Ladies and Gentlemen at UNION, KY., every Saturday—10 to 11 a. m. SEND FOR TERMS.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
—DRUGGIST,—
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

NO :: LONGER
—AT ERLANGER.—
DR. WALLACE GILLHAM,
—THE DENTIST,—
who has been coming to Erlanger on Tuesdays of each week, has discontinued his office there, but will continue to do
First Class Dental Work of
All kinds at his
COVINGTON - OFFICE.
1421 Madison Ave. (next door to the Children's Home),
He also has all the latest and best facilities for administering
Gas, Vitalized Air, or Local Anæsthetics for Extracting Teeth.
You are refered to the following reliable references of your own community:
Dr. C. R. Slater, Dr. C. W. McCullum, Mrs. Cal Riggs, Mrs. Mattie Hoover, Mrs. Rev. M. M. Hiner, Mrs. Rev. O. M. Huey, Mr. Ira Aylor, Erlanger; Miss Sallie Snyder, Miss Sallie Stephens, Florence.

Andy Scheben,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
WINES, LIQUORS
AND BRANDY,
Old Bourbon, $2.00 Per Gallon.
LEXINGTON PIKE,
ERLANGER, - - - KY.
Near Town Hall.

For Sale or Rent.
96 acres of river bottom land, opposite Lawrenceburg, Ind., in good state of cultivation. J. C. REVILL,
Burlington, Ky.

18 SPRING AND SUMMER 96
MILLINERY
All the Latest Ideas in
Spring and Summer
MILLINERY
Will always be found at our Store.
Ladies', Misses' and Children's Patterns
HATS & BONNETS of artistic designs and from our own work rooms—Stock up to date. Hats trimmed to order on short notice.
Prices Lower Than Ever.
You will find everything usually kept in a first-class
MILLINERY STORE.
Everything new in this season's goods. Our trimmers are of the best.
Your patronage is solicited.
Mrs. A. J. SWALLOW,
Main St., RISING SUN, IND.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
J. S. HUEY, President, Grant, Ky.
OSCAR GAINES, Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections.
Office—In residence near post-office.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY,
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

H. S. STEVENSON.
DENTIST,
Anæsthetics used for painless operating. Plates $8 and $10; other work accordingly. Satisfaction guaranteed in all cases.
MAIN OFFICE—South side Main St. Rising Sun, Indiana.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL.
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by maill promptly attended to.

G. G. HUGHES. D. E. CASTLEMAN.
HUGHES & CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to them.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 17,000
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates.

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN.................. $50,000
SURPLUS,............................ $ 2.600
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

Prices Reduced!
1 gal. 4 year old Bourbon Whisky, reduced from $3.50 at $3.00
1 gal. 2 year old Bourbon Whisky reduced from $2.00 at $1.75
1 gal. 4 year old Rye Whisky at reduced from $3.50. $3.00
At KASTNER'S,
Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : : KY.

MAY—1896.

Sun.	Mon.	Tue.	Wed.	Thur.	Fri.	Sat.
....	....	....	....	....	1	2
3	4	5	6	7	8	9
10	11	12	13	14	15	16
17	18	19	20	21	22	23
24	25	26	27	28	29	30
31	....	....	....	....	....	....

CURRENT TOPICS.

EIGHTY-FIVE per cent. of the people who are lame are affected on the left side.

ONE hundred and five miles of railroad have been built in Georgia this year.

MANY of the jewelry stores in Washington have added bicycles to their stock.

WHILE fishing in Codorus creek, R. J. Ford, of York, Pa., landed a 12-pound German carp.

DR. KITASATO, of Japan, is reported to have discovered a remedy for leprosy by inoculation.

MRS. CLEVELAND'S favorite pets are a pair of mocking birds, of which she is particularly proud.

"SNICKERDOODLES" is a new confection which has been sprung at Oklahoma church socials.

IT is said that the prince of Wales succeeded in borrowing $7,000,000 from the late Baron Hirsch.

THE Turkish government has strictly forbidden the cutting of timber in the forests near Jerusalem.

VICE PRESIDENT STEVENSON will deliver the commencement address at the University of Alabama.

GOV. OATES refused to allow the Alabama populists to hold their convention in the state capital.

IT is stated that 1,352 trains arrive at and leave Chicago daily, about one-fourth being freight trains.

PHILADELPHIA'S city hall cost $16,000,000, and stands second in expensiveness to the capitol at Albany.

CHARLESTON, S. C., has voted unanimously to exempt from taxation for five years any factories established there.

SENATOR CUTLER, of South Carolina, is the chief promoter of a new organization to collect South [illegible] historical ma-

PADEREWSKI never signs an agr[illegible]ment, and he has never failed to keep an engagement except through serious illness.

FIVE HUNDRED bushels of potatoes were sold at sheriff's sale in Kent county, Mich., recently for one cent a bushel.

THE English comic paper, Judy, is now to be edited by a woman, Miss Lilian Debenham, who is also the proprietor.

SCHOOL directors in the district of Luverne, Ia., have ordered a cyclone cave dug at each of the school houses in the district.

NAPOLEON III once said to Octave Fueillet: "To one returned from America everybody in Europe seems to be asleep."

A GERMAN statistician makes the assertion that there are in Bulgaria 3,883 centenarians, or one to every thousand inhabitants.

THE Schenectady (N. Y.) locomotive works proposes to shut down for want of orders. There are 1,800 men employed there.

DR. JAMES MARTINEAU, who has just entered on his 92d year, is reported to be well in body and keen and elert as ever in mind.

BERTHA RUST, aged nine, of New Virginia, Pa., frightened a horse attached to a buggy, was caught in the wheels and fatally injured.

THERE are indications of a strike of printers, pressmen, bookbinders and nearly all the large job and book offices in New York city.

THE Soar family of Ambaston, Derbyshire, Eng., have a curious heirloom in the shape of a loaf of bread which is now over 600 years old.

ALL of the corned been and pickled pork for European armies and navies goes by way of Canada, and crosses the border at Vanceboro, Me.

KING ALFONSO, of Spain, will be ten years old this month, and will then be handed over to his military tutors and begin to study in earnest.

PORTRAITS of Washington were distributed by the Society of Colonial Dames to 42 public elementary schools in Philadelphia the other day.

IT is reported from France that the fresh juice of the poppy plant applied to recent bee stings gives immediate relief and prevents inflammation.

WILLARD IVES, who died in Watertown, N. Y., recently, organized Syracuse University and the Thousand Island Camp Meeting association.

THE 13th annual reunion of the survivors of the Sultana explosion at Vicksburg was held near Knoxville the other day. Thirty-three were present.

A HUGE tank, filled with water, fell from the top of the Tamarack (Mich.) shaft to the bottom. Joseph Sibley, a miner, was caught under it and crushed to death.

ALFRED AUSTIN, poet-laureate of England, has been cautioning the authorities in charge of free libraries, against "the dangers of prose fiction," Artemus Ward would have been tickled with Austin.

MRS. LYDIA BRADLEY, one of the wealthiest residents of Peoria, Ill., has made known her intention of building a polytechnic institute, which, with the endowments, will amount to a gift of $1,000,000.

A DEFICIENCY

For the Revenue Customs Collection for the Year 1896.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The secretary of the treasury Wednesday afternoon sent to the senate a letter calling attention to an estimated deficiency of $1,150,000 for defraying the expenses of collecting the revenue from customs for 1896. The permanent appropriation for collecting the customs revenues is fixed by the act of 1871 at $5,500,000, not counting fines, penalties, and forfeitures that may be collected. The secretary calls attention to the fact that 25 years have elapsed since this permanent appropriation was made; but, he adds, "the appropriation to-day is smaller than it was in 1871, although the demands upon it have increased, owing to additional business and the creation of new customs districts and ports. The deficiency estimate of $1,150,000 submitted to the house was reduced in the general deficiency bill to $850,000. The total expense of collecting the revenue from customs during the fiscal year 1895 was $6,900,281, while the total receipts from that source for the same year were $152,158,617 and it is estimated that such receipts for the present fiscal year will aggregate $165,000,000. The secretary calls attention to the fact that while the entries have increased 9 per cent. the number of persons employed have increased but five per cent. A tabulated statement is furnished, showing the ports where increased expenses have been incurred. Much of this, especially at New York, is said to be due to the increased force of inspectors and the additional facilities established for landing passengers and baggage at New York. An increase in the salary of examiners—now $2,500—is urged. The other ports where the expenses have increased most are Boston and Philadelphia.

Secretary Carlisle, in conclusion, says that if the department is compelled to conduct the customs business during the remainder of the fiscal year with the $850,000 appropriated by the house of representatives, a reduction of $150,000 each month will have to be made. This can only be done by a horizontal reduction of salaries and by closing customs houses at ports of delivery where the receipts do not amount to $10,000 per annum. The monthly pay roll amounts to $540,000, and such reduction would mean a loss of 28 per cent. on all salaries for May and June. Salaries are fixed by law, and the recovery of this amount would undoubtedly, the secretary says, be secured through the courts, to say nothing of the hardships and great inconvenience that would result. He therefore urges the appropriation of $1,150,000, the estimated deficiency.

CHAIRMAN HARRITY

Says the Democratic Convention Will Not Be Removed From Chicago.

PHILADELPHIA, May 6.—Democratic National Chairman Harrity was seen Wednesday afternoon in relation to the story from Chicago that the democratic convention might not be held in that city because the financial pledges (which the convention was voted to Chicago have not been redeemed. Mr. Harrity said that the calling of a meeting of the subcommittee of the national committee in Chicago next Friday had nothing to do with any question of considering the advisability of removing the convention from Chicago to some other city, but that the meeting was called to discuss some details of the convention and is only one of the several which will be held. Mr. Harrity further said that he had no reason whatever for supposing that the convention would not be held in Chicago.

HAWAIIAN CABLE.

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Makes a Report on the Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The report of the senate committee on foreign relations on Hawaiian cable bill, states that the exigencies of commerce and public necessity of intercourse between the United States and the Hawaiian islands have prompted for ten years past various steps towards the establishment of a cable to Honolulu. The senate at its last session, by a decisive vote, adopted and the house by a large majority supported a joint resolution directing the immediate construction of such a line at the sole expense of the United States.

The report calls attention to the desire of the Hawaiian government to secure telegraphic communication and the probability of Canada getting the cable in the event of the United States withholding its assistance.

Civil Service Extended Bill Signed.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The long talked of extension of civil service rules, which takes in chief clerks and all the high grade department officials, so as to prevent their removal except for cause, was signed by the president Wednesday. It is estimated that about thirty thousand officials are included in its provisions. The new rules cover all employes except those requiring confirmation by the senate and mere workmen. Everything between these two extremes goes under civil service.

Congress to Adjourn May 18.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The committee on ways and means, through Mr. Dingley (rep. Me.) reported a concurrent resolution providing for the adjournment of congress on the 18th inst. The reading of the resolution was greeted with applause. Mr. Dingley asked immediate consideration of the resolution. The resolution was agreed to.

Insurgents Attack a Town.

HAVANA, May 7.—An attack has been made by insurgents upon the town of Esperanza, near Cienfuegos, and 14 houses have been burned. The Spanish garrison made a brave defense, driving off the rebels and preventing the entire destruction of the town. Col. Pareja, with a detachment of troops, pursued the rebels to the zone of Cienfuegos. The insurgents lost 19 men killed, and one of their number was taken prisoner. The Spaniards lost only one man killed.

The rainy season has set in, and heavy showers are reported from all parts of the island.

SPANISH OUTRAGES.

Eighteen Peacaable Citizens of Santo Domingo Seized and Shot.

The House Where an American Citizen Was Breakfasting, Burned—He Was Made a Prisoner and Shot—Scarcely a Day Passes Without Atrocities.

NEW YORK, May 7.—The following letter from the insurgent encampment of Maguarayas dated April 16 has been received by Thomas Estrada Palma:

"I have been operating within this zone during the last two months and I am satisfied of the success I have attained, although the Spaniards have given me few opportunities to meet them. They boast, however, that they are always after us, but that we avoid fighting, but I assure you that such is not the case. They hardly venture out and when they do they are very careful to remain within a short distance of a fortified place.

"But if they are unwilling to meet our soldiers, they are very active in committing all sorts of outrages against the country people they come across. Scarcely any one is left alive, for they proceed on the theory that every Cuban is a rebel, no matter what his attitude may have been.

"Among the atrocities lately committed by the Spaniards I will describe the following. They are a fair sample of the work they are doing: The column commanded by Gen. Luque on April 11, while passing Maguarayas, fired a house where Narciso Lopez, an American citizen, was breakfasting. They made him a prisoner, took him to the roadway, shot him and left the corpse unburied.

"The small column commanded by Lazo April 14, while passing Santo Domingo, seized 18 peaceable citizens and shot them all. The official report says that they had an encounter with Cuban forces which they routed, killing them.

"A day hardly passes without atrocities of the kind stated; and were I to attempt to give you an account of those who have come to my knowledge within the last three weeks, I would have to fill many pages. But how mistaken are the Spandiards if they suppose that such misdeeds will break the spirit of our people, for the reverse is the invariable result.

"I am your friend and servant,
(Signed) MARIANO TORRES, Brig.-Gen."

MURDERER HOLMES

Pays the Penalty at Philadelphia for His Many Crimes—He Made a Denial of Any Crimes Committed Except the Death of Two Women.

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—Murderer Howard W. Mudget, alias H. H. Holmes, was hanged Thursday morning in the county prison for the killing of Benjamin F. Peitzel.

The drop fell at 10:12 o'clock, and 20 minutes later he was pronounced dead by the prison officials, Dr. Sharp and Dr. Butcher.

The execution was in every way entirely devoid of any sensational features. To the last he was self possessed and cool even to the extent of giving a word of advice to Assistant Superintendent Richardson, as the latter was arranging the final details. He died as he had lived, unconcerned and thoughtless apparently of the future, even with the recollections still vividly before him of the recent confession in which he admitted the killing of a score of persons of both sexes and in all parts of the country. He refuted everything and almost his last words were a point blank denial of any crimes committed except the deaths of two women at his hands by malpractice. Of the murder of several members of the Pietzel family he denied all complicity, particularly of the father for whose death he stated he was suffering the death penalty. Then, with the prayer of the spiritual attendants still sounding in his ears, and with a few low spoken words to those about, the trap swung, and, beyond a few incidental post-mortem details, the execution, which culminated one of the worst criminal stories known to criminology, was ended.

His recent ingenuous "confession" wherein he claimed to have killed 27 persons was disproved, partly at least, by the appearance of several of the so-called victims; but Holmes' object in making the "confession" was realized—the obtaining of a sum said to be $7,500 and which amount is said to have been settled upon the criminal's 18-year-old son.

SEWARD EGGED.

Unknown Parties Assail Him With Over-Ripe Hen Fruit.

NEWPORT, Ky., May 8.—Capt. John Seward, the Somerset detective who figured recently in the Jackson murder case, does not seem to be in high favor among Newport people. He was made the victim of a practical joke Thursday night at about ten o'clock, for which he can give no reason. He had walked up York street to Sixth and stopped for a few minutes on the corner prior to going to his room, at Herman's hotel, on Sixth street, between York street and Central avenue. He had just stopped walking when he was greeted with a volley of rotten eggs from the opposite corner. He made a run for the hotel and was followed by another volley. He did not seem to know what was being thrown at him, and on reaching the waiting room was so badly scared that he could not tell what had happened to him.

Indiana A. P. A.'s Object.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 8.—Resolutions signed by D. McCallin, chairman of the A. P. A. executive committee of Indiana, have been given out to the effect that Indiana A. P. A. do not approve of the attack made on McKinley in the name of the order. The Indiana A. P. A.'s support McKinley.

Indiana Republicans Nominate Ticket.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 8.—The republican state convention Thursday indorsed ex-Gov. McKinley for president. Hon. James A. Mount was nominated for governor, and W. S. Haggard for lieutenant governor.

A MEASURE

Looking Toward the Establishment of Uniform Hours of Labor in the United States.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Representative W. E. Barrett, of Massachusetts, Friday introduced into the house a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution of the United States providing that congress shall have power, by appropriate legislation, to limit the time during which persons may be daily employed in manufactories of textile fabrics and other industries.

Mr. Barrett explains that this amendment is in response to a strong feeling in New England, and which also found expression in the Massachusetts legislature, that congress should have the power to make uniform hours of labor throughout the United States. He says the textile manufacturers of New England are especially feeling the competition from the south, where labor is employed anywhere from 60 to 72 hours a week, while in Massachusetts only 58 hours a week are allowed.

England has a uniform law, operative throughout Great Britain, and Mr. Barrett says nothing will be contented unless such step is had here. They will be obliged to lower wages, increase the hours of labor or see the southern competitors absorb their business.

MEDICAL MEN.

The American Association in Session at Atlanta, Elect Officers.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 9.—The American Medical association elected Dr. Nicholas Senn, of Illinois, president, Friday.

Secretary Atkinson was re-elected.

Other officers elected were: First Vice President, Dr. George M. Sternberg, Washington, D. C.; second vice president, Dr. J. Edmonds Souchew, of Louisiana, third vice president, Dr. D. J. Thomas, of Pennsylvania; fourth vice president, Dr. W. F. Westmoreland, of Georgia; treasurer, H. P. Newman; assistant secretary, Dr. L. F. Sneidman, of Pennsylvania; librarian, Dr. George W. Webster, of Illinois; chairman of the committee on arrangements, Dr. H. A. Hae, of Pennsylvania; trustee to fill vacancy, Dr. C. C. Savage, of Tennessee; trustees, Drs. F. E. Montgomery, Dr. J. M. Matthews, of Kentucky; Dr. A. L. Reed, of Ohio; judicial council, Dr. George W. Stone; U. S. marine hospital service, C. W. Foster, of Maine; Dr. J. McF. Gaston, of Georgia; Dr. I. N. Snimby, of New Jersey, Drs. H. Brown and X. C. Scott, of Ohio.

The convention adjourned to meet in Philadelphia in June, 1897.

SENATOR WOLCOTT.

A Bitter Warfare to Be Waged Against Him in His State.

DENVER, Col., May 9.—The fight between friends of Senator Wolcott and the silver republicans who want Senator Teller to lead the delegation to St. Louis is fast becoming intensely bitter. The hostility to Senator Wolcott, which heretofore has been latent, is rapidly becoming active. It is fully understood now that a resolution of censure will be offered in the Pueblo convention next week against the course pursued in Washington by Wolcott, and several strong speeches will be made upon this resolution unless the Wolcott following is strong enough to choke it down. Gov. McIntyre Friday said that while he is taking no part in the contest, he hopes that Teller will be indorsed by the state convention and that the delegates selected to go to the national convention will be pledged to follow his lead. He further stated that he hoped Wolcott would not be selected as a delegate, nor any supporter of his policy. Unless this is done, he believes that the republicans need not hope to carry their state ticket this fall.

A Sensational Suicide.

SPOKANE, Wash., May 9.—A. M. S. Hilgard, a prominent young attorney and society leader of this city, committed suicide Friday in a sensational manner. Climbing over the railing of the Post street bridge directly over the big falls, and in plain view of a large number of pedestrians, he fired a bullet through his brain and dropped into the Spokane river, 46 feet below. His body was swept over the falls and has not yet been recovered. Despondency over a love affair is stated to be the cause of his action. Hilgards was a nephew of Henry Villard. His parents reside in Ohio.

Missouri Prohibition Convention.

SEDALIA, Mo., May 9.—The prohibition convention adjourned Friday afternoon after having nominated the following ticket: Governor, H. P. Faris, Henry county; lieutenant governor, J. M. Richey, Newton county; secretary of state, E. E. McLellan, of Pettis; auditor, J. O. Roulfe, of St. Louis; treasurer, Rev. I. T. Hull, of Green; attorney general, J. C. Hughes, of Ray; supreme judge, Lewis Adams, of McDonald; railroad commissioner, W. E. Sullivan, of Buchanan.

Gov. Matthews a Presidential Candidate.

ST. LOUIS, May 9.—Col. Joseph K. Rickey, a member of the Bland executive committee, Friday received a letter from Hon. C. C. Matson, of Greencastle, Ind., announcing that Gov. Matthews, of Indiana, would be a candidate before the Chicago convention for the presidential nomination. Mr. Matson says Gov. Matthews is in sympathy with the silver branch of the party, and will carry the state, if nominated.

Insurgents Defeated.

MADRID, May 9.—A dispatch to the Imparcial from Havana says that Gen. Serranot has defeated Maceo's forces near Candelara after five hours' fighting, The Spaniards lost seven killed and 26 wounded. No other details are given. The dispatch adds that Col. Dejeto has defeated Jose Maceo in the province of Santiago de Cuba. The rebels suffered severe losses.

War Indemnity Fund Transferred.

LONDON, May 9.—The sum of $8,000,000 war indemnity from China to Japan was transferred to the latter's agents in London Friday.

RIOTOUS POLES.

Bishop Richter and Father Matkowski Badly Beaten.

The Bishop Kicked by an Enraged Pole, Not Seriously Hurt—Matkowski Struck Several Times and his Cassock and Surplice Torn to Shreds.

BAY CITY, Mich., May 11.—Bishop Richter, of Grand Rapids, and Father Matkowski, pastor of St. Stanislaus Polish church of this city, were pounced upon by the Father Turski faction of the congregation and badly used Sunday morning. Matkowski was struck several times and his cassock and surplice were torn to shreds. The bishop was kicked by an enraged pole but not seriously injured. His robes were also torn.

St. Stanislaus church was closed two weeks ago when the adherents of Father Turski, Father Matkowski's assistant, drove the senior priest from the parish. It was believed that the trouble had blown over and that the exposure of Turski's attempt to blackmail Father Matkowski had brought the Poles to their senses and caused them to desire the return of their old pastor, a man of great learning and high character. Bishop Richter and Father Matkowski opened the church Sunday morning and caused the sexton to toll the bell. The peals of the great bell brought hundreds of excited people to the church.

They set upon Bishop Richter and the priest and drove them from the building. A few of the Matkowski faction attempted to preserve the clergyman from indignity, but were overpowered. The police and sheriff's force were called out, but were unable to quiet the mob.

The church was locked and Bishop Richter and Father Matkowski were escorted to a place of safety. Bishop Richter stated Sunday night that he would open the church next Sunday. He has been assured of police protection by Mayor Weight. There was a great deal of inflammatory talking in the Polish quarters Sunday night, and it is feared that an attempt will be made to burn the church and convent before morning. Turski, the cause of all the trouble, is a young man, but was only recently ordained to the priesthood. Father Matkowski discharged a housekeeper of whom Turski was enamored. This caused Turski to blackmail the venerable priest out of $10,000. He did not get the money, but he spread stories reflecting on Father Matkowski's character, but they were disproved.

SOURCE OF THE MISSOURI.

It is 4,221 Miles From the Gulf of Mexico—The Upper Branch Does Not Flow Through the Lower Red Rock Lake.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 11.—Col. J. V. Brower, state geographer of Minnesota, has discovered that the source of the Missouri river is 4,221 miles from the gulf of Mexico. He finds that the largest upper branch of the Missouri does not flow through the lower Red Rock lake, in Montana, but comes from a hole in the mountains, volcanic in its true character, at the summit of the Rocky mountains, west of Henry's lake, Idaho, and at a point bordering the state boundary between that state and Montana. The miniature rivulet, at its commencement, striving to secure existence from the inner walls of the surrounding volcanic vents, near perpetual snow banks, has, by its capacity, cut its way out from the rugged and precipitous mountain uplifts of enormous size, until a solid mountain of rock has been severed in twain, a canyon formed, and assuming the proportions of a river, flowing into and through upper Red Rock lake, 20 miles, its source in the mountains, then westwardly, northerly and northeastwardly past Red Butte and Beaver Head Rock to the forks, thence to the Mississippi, and thence to the Gulf of Mexico, through and past thirteen states.

Mysterious Double Tragedy.

TRENTON, N. J., May 11.—Annie Anderson, a servant girl 28 years of age, employed by a dry goods merchant of this city was shot and killed Saturday morning in the dining room of his residence, No. 209 West State street. Her slayer, a man unknown to the family, shot himself at the same time and in a few moments he died also. The man fired three shots altogether. Physicians were sent for but before their arrival both the girl and her assailant were dead. Who he is is still a matter of conjecture.

Midnight Fire in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, May 11.—Fire destroyed the Metropolitan cafe at 1:30 o'clock Monday morning. Thos. Johnson and John Gardner, cooks, were badly burned. Firemen Dan Steele, Mike Kehoe and John Cronin were injured by a falling ladder. The loss is about $15,000 and fully insured. The flames caught in the kitchen.

A Colored Man Lynched.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 11.—A special to the Morning News from Waycross, Ga., says: Wm. Hardee, colored, was lynched Saturday night by a mob of citizens of Coffee county, five miles north of Nichols. Hardee cruelly mistreated a small white boy Saturday morning by beating him.

Father and Son Guilty.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 11.—A jury found O. C. Russell and his son Shaw Russell, of London county, guilty of the murder of J. B. Tipton.

Holmes' Dying Confession.

NEW YORK, May 11.—Attorney Geo. B. Chamberlain, of Chicago, who claims to have first exposed the late H. H. Holmes and driven him from that city, is at the Astor house. He says Holmes' dying confession will be received by Chief Badenoch, of the Chicago police, this week. In this he is supposed to dispose of $55,000, which he made in swindling operations.

The Cholera in Alexandria.

CAIRO, May 11.—There were 28 cases of cholera and 16 deaths from the disease reported in Alexandria Sunday. Three cases were reported in Cairo.

"CIVILIZED" WARFARE.

Some of the Things Which Modern Customs Do Not Allow.

The "laws of war" as at present formulated by civilized nations forbid the use of poison against the enemy; murder by treachery, such as assuming the uniform or displaying the flag of the foe; the murder of those who have surrendered, whether upon conditions or at discretion; declarations that no quarter will be given to an enemy; the use of such arms or projectiles as will cause unnecessary pain or suffering to an enemy; the abuse of a flag of truce to gain information concerning an enemy's position; all unnecessary destruction of property, whether public or private.

They also declare that only fortified places shall be besieged, open villages or cities not to be subject to siege or bombardment; that public buildings of whatever character, whether belonging to the church or state, shall be spared; that plundering by private soldiers or their officers shall be inadmissable; that prisoners shall be treated with common humanity; that the personal effects and private property of prisoners, excepting their arms and ammunition, shall be respected; that the population of an enemy's country shall be considered to be exempt from participation in the war unless by hostile acts they provoke the ill will of the enemy; that personal and family honor, and the religious convictions of an invaded people, shall be respected by the invaders, and that all pillage by regular troops or their followers shall be strictly forbidden.

OLD LIGHTHOUSE.

Was Built by the Romans and Is Still in Good Condition.

The oldest house existing in England is the Roman Pharos or lighthouse, which still forms so conspicuous an object on the cliffs within the precincts of Dover castle. The masonry of this interesting work is composed of tufa, cement and Roman bricks, or tiles, and is in the best style of Roman workmanship. History and tradition are alike silent as to the actual date of its erection, but, judging from the style of masonry, and bearing in mind that the erection of such a beacon would be a practical necessity when once the Romans had thoroughly established themselves in southern Britain, one may fairly ascribe it to a date not much later than the middle of the first century, A. D., following on the expedition of Claudius, and the succeeding conquests of Plautius, who brought most of the island south of the Thames under the Roman domination. To the upper part of this lighthouse was added in Tudor times an octagonal superstructure, still remaining, although in a sadly battered condition. The remains of lake dwellings, such as have been found at Burton Mere, in Suffolk, and near Glastonbury, in Somerset, are supposed by some to date back so far as 1200 B. C.; but, although these are built on piles, they hardly come within the meaning of the question.

Cripple

The iron grasp of scrofula has no mercy upon its victims. This demon of the blood is often not satisfied with causing dreadful sores, but racks the body with the pains of rheumatism until Hood's Sarsaparilla cures.

"Nearly four years ago I became afflicted with scrofula and rheumatism.

Made

Running sores broke out on my thighs. Pieces of bone came out and an operation was contemplated. I had rheumatism in my legs, drawn up out of shape. I lost appetite, could not sleep. I was a perfect wreck. I continued to grow worse and finally gave up the doctor's treatment to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Soon appetite came back; the sores commenced to heal. My limbs straightened out and I threw away my crutches. I am now stout and hearty and am farming, whereas four years ago I was a cripple. I gladly recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla." URBAN HAMMOND, Table Grove, Illinois.

Well

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills cure liver ills, easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

"BIG FOUR"

NEW LINE BETWEEN

CINCINNATI, TOLEDO and DETROIT

SOLID TRAINS
FAST TIME
EXCELLENT EQUIPMENT.

INAUGURATED MAY 17.

THE SCHEDULE.

Lv. Cincinnati	9.00 a. m.	9.15 p. m.
Ar. Toledo	3.25 p. m.	3.55 a. m.
Ar. Detroit	5.45 p. m.	6.15 a. m.

Through Coaches and Parlor Cars on Day Trains.

Through Coaches, Wagner Sleeping Cars Cincinnati to Toledo and Cincinnati to Detroit on Night Trains.

The New Service between Cincinnati, Toledo and Detroit is

AS GOOD AS OUR NEW YORK LINE!
AS GOOD AS OUR CHICAGO LINE!
AS GOOD AS OUR ST. LOUIS LINE!

Buy your tickets through via "Big Four."
For full information call on agents or address

E. O. McCORMICK, Pass. Traffic Mgr.
D. B. MARTIN, Gen'l Pass. & Tkt. Agent

NEARING THE END.

The Testimony in the Scott Jackson Murder Trial Closed.

Prosecution Introduces Rebuttal Evidence—The Truste Story Exploded—Truste Skips Out and Can Not Be Found—Seward Under Police Surveillance.

NEWPORT, Ky., May 5.—The defense in the Jackson murder trial Monday brought out the story that has so long been held in the background.

William R. Truste, of Urbana, Ill., testified that he took a dead body supposed to be that of Pearl Bryan from the house at No. 53 George street, Cincinnati, to near Ft. Thomas on the night of January 31.

To combat this testimony the prosecution presented letters from William Truste, the father of the witness, claiming that the story was all false and offering to prove that it had been concocted by Detective John Seward, who had been employed for that purpose.

NEWPORT, Ky., May 6.—Druggist Foertmeyer, of Bellevue, was put on the stand by the defense Tuesday morning and questioned as to his conversation with Hubbard Schwartz about having seen Jackson, Walling and Pearl Bryan in Bellevue. Witness said he did not tell Schwartz that the three people did not come into his store.

Schwartz was then called and testified that Foertmeyer told him that he did not recall their having been there.

More depositions from Greencastle people were read as to Jackson's good reputation while in Greencastle, and the bad reputation of Will Wood.

Thomas B. McEwan, a barber living at Fifth and Russell streets, Covington, made a deposition. He stated that he has known Allen Johnson for some time, and he does not consider the colored pugilist's reputation good. McEwan formerly worked in a barber shop where Johnson was employed as porter.

The deposition of Dr. G. E. Hunt, of Indianapolis, was next read. Dr. Hunt is secretary of the Indiana Dental college. He said he knew Scott Jackson and heard nothing detrimental to his reputation.

Dr. J. N. Hurty, city chemist of Indianapolis and a professor in the Indiana Dental college, deposed that he knew Jackson as a student in the college during the years 1894-95. Jackson recited to him. Nothing was ever brought to Hurty's notice derogatory to Jackson's character.

Watchman Brinkman, of the Newport bridge, was called. The story he told was a contradiction of Coachman George Jackson's narrative. From 12 o'clock until three Friday night, January 31, no conveyance from Cincinnati, with a colored driver crossed the bridge. Upon cross-examination the witness admitted the fact that passengers have crossed the bridge at night without paying fares, as Coachman Jackson says he did.

Charles Reidmatter, saloonist of Fort Thomas, testified that he keeps a saloon about four squares from John Locke's house. A strange man called at the saloon the morning of the murder about eight o'clock: was 28 or 32 years old, six feet high, dressed in a dark cutaway coat; had black hair and mustache; had gaiters on his feet; was neatly dressed: looked like a drummer or business man. His shoes and lower part of his pants were wet. Witness remembered him because he acted so funny. The man talked awhile, and the witness said: "There was a woman's headless body found down here a while ago." "That's too bad," was all the dark stranger said. The man's appearance indicated that he had been up the night before.

Col. Crawford read a deposition of E. E. Hackelman, a fellow student of Jackson and Walling. This closed the case for the defense.

In rebuttal the prosecution introduced John W. White, of Danville, Ky., and W. L. McCarthy, of Kingsville, Ky., who testified that Truste, sr., and Seward were brothers-in-law.

Ed Mosby, first sergeant of the now famous colored Caldwell guards, took the stand. The guards did drill Friday night, January 31, said Mosby, and George H. Jackson was there. The court martial at Ewing's was held Wednesday night. George Jackson attended.

Nelson then produced an affidavit by Mosby, which the defense offered a day or two ago, and the attorney began to question him as to the circumstances under which it was made. The witness said he did not sign the deposition.

"There is ill feeling between the Ewings and George Jackson because the coachman would not pay for supplies which the guards used at Ewing's house," the witness said.

Under cross-examination by Attorney Crawford, Mosby admitted he said in his deposition that he did not know where Geo. Jackson was Friday night January 31.

"Didn't Mr. Collins put you on your oath before you made the deposition?"

"He tol' me to hol' up my hand. He ain't no judge: he couldn't make me swear."

James Smith took the stand. Smith subscribed to a deposition for the defense, but he said that the court-martial at Ewing's house was held on Wednesday night before the murder.

Smith also said that he made his deposition before Attorney Collins in the Johnston building, Cincinnati. He was not sworn. He said: "Collins wrote down a whole lot he hadn't any business to." Smith claimed he did not sign the deposition which purports to be his.

A number of the Caldwell guards testified that they drilled on Friday night under the command of Capt. Geo. H. Jackson.

W. D. Collins, a barkeeper at Theobald's saloon on Fifth street, testified that Scott Jackson borrowed $1 from him during the last week in January and returned the money at 7 o'clock of the morning the headless body was found. Jackson's testimony was that he did not arise until 10 o'clock that day.

Seward and Truste were wandering about the courthouse grounds Tuesday morning before the trial. They did not dare to speak to each other contrary to the orders of the court, for every movement of theirs was carefully watched by detectives.

No formal warrant had been sworn out for their arrest. The arrangement between Sheriff Plummer, the detectives and the attorneys for the prosecution was that both men should be arrested if they attempted to leave Newport and the jurisdiction of the court.

If Seward had communicated with the women who were to have testified it was not known.

Attorney Lockhart said he would file information for Truste's arrest at the close of the trial.

NEWPORT, Ky., May 7.—William B. Truste, the erstwhile witness in the murder trial of Scott Jackson, the man from Illinois who swore that he hauled Pearl Bryan's body to Fort Thomas, is among the missing.

The last seen of Truste in Newport was on Tuesday night, between 10 and 11 o'clock, when he passed through the sitting-room of Herman's hotel.

The prosecution soon heard of the witness' disappearance, and Col. Nelson decided to call for him as a witness when court opened Wednesday morning. Sheriff Plummer announced that the witness could not be found.

An investigation was then made by the court, and it was found that Truste's recognizance had expired, and Attorney Crawford would not have to pay the $100 bond which he originally signed for Truste's appearance.

An attachment was issued for Truste, and Judge Helm ordered that he be brought in court if found.

Chas. Owens, student in the Cincinnati Barber college, was called and testified that he saw the Caldwell Guards drill between 10:30 and 11:00 o'clock on Fifth street, Friday night, January 31.

Carrie Evans testified that she never saw Truste until April 3. She came to Newport to testify in the Jackson case by arrangement of Detective Seward. It was the understanding on his side. The first time she saw Truste Seward was with him, the last time she saw Truste was Tuesday night and Seward was with him. Did not tell Truste she was in distress; did not see a man under an umbrella at George and Plum the night of January 31, neither did she see a cab drive up, Mr. Truste mount the seat and drive off.

Mrs. Lena Stoker, in whose room Seward said Pearl Bryan died, was called to the stand and testified. She denied all knowledge of the affair. She said no dead girl was carried out of the house on the night of January 31.

Myrtle Hudson, who lives in the George street house, was called and said no dead body could have been taken out of the house that night without her seeing it. Witness was up nursing a sick baby.

Mrs. Josephine Hamilton testified to seeing the Caldwell Guards drill Friday night, January [illegible]

[illegible] Foertmeyer, of Bellevue, was the first witness called at the afternoon session. He said that he had an acquaintance with Hubbard Schwartz; had a conversation with him. Attorney Crawford's objection was sustained by Judge Helm, and the State was not allowed through Foertmeyer to contradict Schwartz's testimony. Schwartz says Foertmeyer told him he could not be positive as to Pearl Bryan, Scott Jackson, and Alonzo Walling coming into the drug store in Bellevue.

Maj. Widdefield, Coachman Jackson's employer, testified that George Jackson's reputation for honesty, integrity and truthfulness was good. He has only known him since last November.

On the morning of February 1, when the coachman says he had returned from the night drive to Fort Thomas, Widdefield said he noticed nothing unusual about the coachman's appearance or his actions or his appetite.

"I have made no confession," stoutly denied Capt. John Seward, the Somerset (Ky.) detective who claimed he could clear Scott Jackson and Alonzo Walling. "I have not told the attorneys for the prosecution that I tried to coach Truste as to what he should swear."

"What did you say to Col. Nelson and Col. Lockhart?"

"I just told them the facts. Truste's father sent me a letter about what his son knew. That is the first I heard of the case. I went to Urbana and found out what he knew. I communicated with Walling's friends at once. As soon as I got off the train at Hamilton, O., I met a man named White. I think he is a relative of Walling's.

"He has paid me a regular salary of $3.50 a day and expenses ever since for my work in the case. Altogether, I have got between $300 and $400."

Seward said that he got Fred Albion to leave Cincinnati.

He also claimed that he spirited away a man whom he called Bob Gresham, and who saw Jackson and Walling on the Newport bridge, at 2:30 o'clock on the morning of the murder.

Gresham, he told a Post reporter, is at Strunk's Lane, Ky., and he is willing to produce him for the benefit of the prosecution.

Michael Doyle, municipal detective from Jersey City, N. J., took the stand and said that he had lived in that city for 40 years. Knew Scott Jackson since 1892 or 1893. He was then clerk in the Pennsylvania railroad office. Jackson was also in the saloon business. His reputation in Jersey City was bad. It was the town talk that he was a bad man. Several witnesses testified that the Caldwell Guards drilled Friday night, January 31.

NEWPORT, Ky., May 8.—The fifteenth day of the great trial was marked Thursday morning by the smallest crowd in the history of the trial. Five minutes before the time for beginning the morning session, and even after Jackson had been brought over from the jail, there were at most a hundred and fifty empty seats in the court-room and few people were coming in. The time has come when even Jackson is not anything of an attraction.

Comparing and averaging the statements of the attorneys for the prosecution and defense. Thursday morning, it is more than probable that the case of Scott Jackson will go to the jury Saturday evening, if not before that time.

The proceedings began with a grand love feast, in which Col. Crawford and Col. Nelson were the star actors. Col. Crawford arose and apologized to the court for making a threat in court on Saturday last in a heat of passion and he then formally withdrew the threat made against Col. Nelson. When Col. Crawford sat down Col. Nelson then apologized for making the statement he did Saturday and complimented Col. Crawford in a manner that delighted everyone. Col. Nelson said he never meant any reflection on Col. Crawford: that he held him in the highest esteem, and that he was only too happy to explain matters.

At the conclusion of the speech Col. Crawford walked over to Col. Nelson and grasped his hand. There were smiles all around.

The testimony Thursday was of an unexciting nature, witnesses being introduced by the prosecution to corroborate former testimony. Lieut. Renkert testified as to how George H. Jackson identified Jackson and Walling, also how he drove ove the route to Ft. Thomas. More evidence was introduced to show that the Caldwell guards drilled Friday night, January 31. Truste was again called but failed to appear.

Will Wood was recalled and testified that Pearl Bryan's reputation in Greencastle was of the best.

At the afternoon session Detective Crim, Mayor Caldwell, and Chief Deitsch were called by the prosecution, and testified as to the conversation between Jackson and Walling while in the city hall, Cincinnati, after their arrest.

Crim and Col. Deitsch both said that Jackson did not seem indignant when Walling charged him with Pearl Bryan's murder, but he denied the charge good-naturedly.

Mayor Caldwell, whom they call judge on the south side of the river, corroborated the chief of police and detectives as to Scott Jackson's demeanor.

NEWPORT, Ky., May 9.—Court opened at 10:00 Friday morning. Capt. S. S. Bassler, of the weather bureau, Cincinnati, was sworn and placed on the stand. He adjusted his eyeglasses and opened his record book in which as government forecast official at Cincinnati he has kept a faithful list of all sorts and conditions of weather.

He read from a book bound in red and black leather: "Friday, January 31, 1896. Rain began at 7 a. m. and ended at 9:30 a. m. Weather mild and springlike, threatening rain. Mist, changing into a fine, light rain, beginning at 1:30 p. m. and ceasing at 3:55 p. m. Weather dark and foggy. Misty rain, beginning at 5 o'clock and continuing into the night, growing heavier. Temperature from 43 to 53 degrees.

"I should explain that this is 75th meridian time, which is an hour faster than our local time," exclaimed Officer Bassler.

"Was there a full moon that night?" Judge Helm asked.

"We have no record on that point."

When Capt. Bassler finished his testimony the defense announced that it rested its case, and the famous trial, so far as evidence is concerned, was ended.

"Do you have any instructions to offer?" asked the court.

"We have concluded not to offer any instructions now," announced Mr. R. Lockhart, speaking for the prosecution. "I shall have some instructions, but I have had no time to prepare them. If your honor please I shall present them some time this afternoon.

"And now," he continued, "I want to ask the indulgence of the court. There is a tremendous mass of record in this trial. From 150 to 200 witnesses have been examined. All my time during the recess of the court has been fully occupied, and I have had no time to go over this matter carefully. I move that the argument in the case shall not begin until Saturday morning."

"The court will need half a day," Judge Helm answered, "in which to prepare the instructions to the jury. I shall grant your request."

After receiving the usual admonition from the judge to talk with no one concerning the trial, the jury retired.

Scott Jackson remained a moment longer, and then he was taken to his cell in the Newport jail.

Sheriff Plummer announced that the court would transact no more business until Saturday. As soon as the crowd had left the jury wheel was brought to Judge Helm by Clerk Reuscher, and a venire for Alonzo Walling's trial was drawn. The various attorneys interested have agreed to the trial being set for May 19.

There were not enough names in the jury wheel to complete the venire for the Walling trial, and Judge Helm issued an order calling the jury commissioners to meet Monday.

The Young Men's Republican club and McKinley club, of Chattanooga, Tenn., adopted resolutions unanimously indorsing H. Clay Evans for vice president on the republican ticket.

GENERAL CONFERENCE

Of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States.

The Woman Question a Cause of Much Debate—The Colored Members Want a [illegible] in the Constitution—Other Matters.

CLEVELAND, O., May 7.—The woman question of the M. E. general conference seems to be irrepressible. No sooner had the session opened Wednesday than a resolution which provided changes in the constitution of the Epworth league, so that women might become trustees of the league, was launched upon the conference. This resolution is interpreted to mean another fight on the woman question. The resolution will be made the order and business a week from Wednesday.

Bishop Warren was at the helm Wednesday morning. The conference began proceedings in a business-like way. It was decided to elect the bishops and other officers on May 18.

A resolution to increase the amount of the fund for the relief of the worn-out ministers and widows and children of deceased ministers by having the churches appealed to was adopted.

This was followed by a resolution which had a great deal of meaning to the church. In the preamble it said that Rev. Dr. Morris, fraternal delegate of the M. E. church south, in his address to the conference recommended that a commission consisting of three bishops, three ministers and three laymen, to act with a similar commission, already appointed by the Methodist church south, looking toward a confederation of the two churches, should be appointed. A motion was made to refer it to the committee, but it was demurred to. Several delegates thought it would be a good plan to act on the matter at once and not refer it to a committee. They were united in the opinion that the resolution should be decided on the floor and without a great deal of discussion in courtesy to the M. E. Church South.

The most important matter of the Methodist conference, irrespective of the admission of women delegates, transpired Wednesday night, when the 59 Negro delegates met and decided that they would insist on the elevation to a bishopric of J. W. E. Bowen, D.D., Ph. D., professor of theology at Gannon school at Atlanta. The matter will be brought to a crisis on May 18.

CLEVELAND, O., May 9.—The woman question came up again Friday in the conference. Mr. Morris Sharp, of Ohio, presented a resolution to excuse the women delegates, in that they have relinquished their seats, and that their expenses be paid to the date of their withdrawal. The resolution also called in their male reserves. Dr. Neely, of Philadelphia, presented a substitute, in which the women were invited to remain as honored guests of the conference and their expenses ordered paid. Dr. Cranston arose and asked for a ruling by the chair as to the present status of women in the conference.

Bishop Hurst decided it was not a point of order, but was a matter on interpretation for the body, and ruled that Dr. Neely had the floor. Just after Dr. Neely began speaking, Dr. Frysinger, of Pennsylvania, appealed from the decision of the chair and Dr. Cranston's point. Bishop Hurst put the question as being on the appeal of Dr. Cranston and great confusion existed.

Finally forced by the conference, Bishop Hurst said he ruled that both papers were before the house, and he would entertain the appeal.

The ruling of Bishop Hurst was sustained by a vote of 223 yeas and 204 nays. As soon as it was decided that the papers were before the house, Dr. Neely and Mr. Sharp both withdrew their papers, and the most violent struggle of the first week of the conference was over.

CLEVELAND, O., May 11.—At the Saturday session of the Methodist conference Rev. Mr. Lowthers, of Kansas, introduced a resolution asking that all Methodists be asked to abstain from using tobacco and that no Sunday-school teachers or Epworth league presidents or other officers be elected who used tobacco. Referred to committee on temperance.

A resolution and petition opposing the proposed amendment to the United States constitution putting God in the constitution was referred to the committee on church and state. It provided that the words "Trusting in Almighty God" should be inserted after the word "Posterity" in the preamble of the constitution.

A communication from the Methodist church, south, was read by Secretary Monroe, stating that a committee had been appointed to confer with the Methodist church looking to federation of the two churches. It was referred to the board of bishops.

The women are daily gaining supporters. Saturday a large number of lay delegates who had previously voted against the constitutional amendment giving the women admission to the conference changed their votes and voted yea. The change was greeted with applause.

To Coin Double Eagles.

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—The presses at the United States mint in this city, which have been stamping silver dollars and subsidiary coin for two months, will shortly also begin turning out double eagles.

OF PASSING INTEREST.

London, in monetary value, is worth two and a half times as much as Paris.

The London & Northwestern Railway company consumes 3,500 tons of coal a day.

The Indian Railway company has arranged to supply trains which leave on a long journey with aerated waters and ice.

New Yorkers are asking why they have to pay 70 cents a hundred pounds for ice, when the figure is only 35 cents in Savannah and 23 cents in Boston.

SPAIN WARNED.

An American, With Other Alleged Filibusters, to Be Put to Death.

A British Subject is Among the Condemned—The Proceeding in the Spanish Court [illegible] Result in Straining Our Relations.

HAVANA, May 71.—The court-martial trial of the men captured on board the schooner Competitor has ended in the approval of the death sentence in the case of Alfredo Laborde, of New Orleans, who is classed as the leader of a filibustering expedition; Dr. Elias Bedia, a Cuban; Owen Milton, of Kansas; William Gilder, said to be a British subject, and Theodore Maza, a Cuban.

Capt. Luiz acted as president of the court, which consisted of nine other military and naval officers. All the accused pleaded not guilty.

Several witnesses admitted that when the men were captured they were not armed and offered no resistance. Despite this fact, however, the prosecutor, Lieut. Suarez, asked the court-martial to convict the prisoners of filibustering and to impose the death sentence upon all of them.

Counsel for the defense made a long review of the evidence and demanded the acquittal of Maza. He argued eloquently against the others being sentenced to death, and declared that the evidence showed that mercy should be extended to them.

The schooner Competitor was on a filibustering expedition when overhauled and captured by a Spanish cruiser. An American newspaper man, who was also captured, was released.

The Kansas boy, Owen Milton, is but 20 years of age. He was graduated from a normal school in that state.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The proceedings of the Spanish court-martial in the case of the men captured on the schooner Competitor have been closely followed here, and there is ground for the fear that unless the matter is handled with great discretion it may result in straining the present friendly and amicable relations between the United States and Spain. Strong representations have been made to the State Department on the subject, and the department certainly will not fail to intervene instantly if it shall appear that at least the Americans among the captives under trial are not treated with all the privileges accorded by the rules of civilized warfare. An insistance on this point would oblige the department to refuse to sanction the execution of the Americans.

Secretary Olney had a long interview with the president on the subject Saturday morning, and on his return to the state department sent telegrams to Madrid and Havana.

WASHINGTON, May 11—When Secretary Olney was asked Sunday night if any news had been received during the day respecting the action of the Cuban or Spanish authorities upon the cases of the Americans condemned to death for participating in the Competitor filibustering expedition, he briefly responded none was.

The best opinion in Washington coincides with the statement telegraphed from Havana that the fate of the Americans will be decided by the Spanish cabinet at Madrid. The impression prevails that they will not be executed.

MADRID, May 11.—It is understood that the cabinet has decided to place the case of the men captured on the filibustering American schooner Competitor, before the supreme council of the army and navy for a revision of the proceedings of the court-martial held in Havana.

A dispatch from Havana says that Capt. Gen. Weyler is angry because of the attitude of the United States, and that he will resign unless the sentences are executed. The dispatch adds that the conduct of the American consul general is very irritating to loyal Spaniards. He shows himself everywhere and his talk is menacing.

AID FOR CUBA.

An Alleged Filibustering Expedition Sails From New York.

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—From information received here Sunday night it is likely that the alleged filibustering steamship Laurada took a cargo of arms and ammunition and a party of men aboard off Astoria, L. I. After outwitting the Spanish spies in New York bay Saturday night, the Laurada slipped up Long Island and hove to at Astoria. Here it is said that tugs put aboard the steamship early Sunday morning 500 tons of arms and 1,500 tons of ammunition. Besides these munitions of war, 60 men went aboard the Laurada. These men are under the leadership of Gen. S. Ruiz, a leader of the former Cuban war. After taking the cargo aboard the Laurada bore away in an easterly direction. Capt. Hughes commands the Laurada, having replaced Capt. Dickman.

Will Hold to the 20 Cent Rate.

NEW YORK, May 11.—It is the intention of the board of managers of the Joint Traffic association not to make a new and lower summer rate for grain. The 20 cent rate from Chicago to New York which prevailed all winter and which was cut before the joint traffic agreement went into effect was formerly the summer rate, while the winter rate was 25 cents. It is proposed now to hold to the 20 cent rate.

Unknown Woman Takes Poison.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., May 11.—A young woman named Mary Damon arrived Saturday night over the Louisville and Nashville road, and about midnight was discovered in the waiting room in an unconscious condition. She was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where it was discovered she had taken poison with suicidal intent. She was restored to consciousness for a short time Sunday morning, but again relapsed into unconsciousness and has not since came to. Nothing is known of her or from where she came. She is white and about 30 years of age, appearing to belong to the well to do middle class.

THE EXPLOSION.

The Five Story Brick Building on Walnut Street Razed to the Ground.

At Least a Dozen Persons Were Killed and That Many More Injured—In Less Than One Minute the Building Was One Mass of Ruins.

CINCINNATI, May 6.—In less than one minute a five-story brick building on Walnut street, near Fifth, was one mass of ruins, of tangled timber, brick, furniture and other debris, and an unknown number of lives were snapped out, and many persons more or less injured. About 8 o'clock Monday evening a gasoline explosion took place in the cellar of Adolph Drach's saloon at 430 Walnut street, and almost immediately opposite the Gibson house. Adjoining Drach's, on the north, was Louis Fey's saloon and these two resorts occupied the ground floor of the building. The upper floors were all living apartments.

Mingled with the report of the explosion was an awful crash. The building was torn to pieces. The destructive work was complete. Expert workmen could not have done better, so clean was the cut. The buildings on either side were left standing, with walls intact and apparently uninjured. The saloons of Fey and Drach were known as first-class resorts, patronized by politicians, clerks, professional and business men. Drach's saloon was crowded at the time, and there were several customers in Fey's. Women and children were on the floors above, and ten minutes after the explosion, when the smoke and dust had somewhat cleared, the complete wreck of the building presented itself to thousands of frantic people. Not a soul believed it possible for any person in the ruins to be alive.

The explosion broke hundreds of windows in the Gibson house, opposite, filled the hotel with smoke and created a panic among the guests. Electric cars were jarred and one overturned. Lady passengers by the dozen swooned away, several were dragged into the Gibson house and other near-by places. Scores of pedestrians were thrown from their feet and more or less bruised, plate-glass windows along the street on both sides were shattered, electric light and trolley wires torn down, producing instant darkness, and the greatest confusion prevailed. As soon as possible flash lights were thrown on the wreck and the firemen and police, reinforced by a gang of city laborers, began digging for the victims.

Firemen and others worked all night and Tuesday on the ruins taking out the dead and wounded. At three o'clock Tuesday afternoon the following dead had been recovered:

Rollin A. Davis, of the Columbia Carriage Co., Hamilton, O.; Adolph Drach, proprietor of the saloon; Felicia Drach, his five-year-old daughter; C. S. Wells, 46 Harrison street: Ella Singleton, of Zanesville, domestic for Drach; Mamie Kennedy, domestic in Fey's family.

The injured at the hospital are: Willard E. Cook, clerk water works department, contusion of elbow and lacerated brow; Emil Drach, aged three, of 430 Walnut street, compound compressed fracture of right arm and lacerated scalp; Olga Drach, Adolph's widow, 430 Walnut street, contusion of head and legs; H. E. Hunwick, bookkeeper, 15 East Seventh street, right shoulder dislocated; Peter burns, horse dealer, Gano alley, severe contusions of body. Chas. Spilley, teamster, 175 East Pearl street, contusion of head and arm. Sidney W. Johnson, barkeeper, Fifth and Culbertson streets, scalp lacerated. John McCarthy, clerk, 312 Channing street, contusions of head, legs and abdomen. Barbara Huddselmann, domestic for Louis Fey, eyes injured. Joseph Spriggs, porter, 19 Harrison street, face and arms burned. J. B. Ward, race-horse owner, Toledo, left knee lacerated.

The following persons were still missing at three o'clock: —— Lightfoot and an unknown man (Newport men said to have entered Drach's saloon): William Lauth, barkeeper for Drach; Barbara Steinkamp, Louis Fisdick, John McGarvey, C. F. Andress, president of the Andress-Meara Wall Paper company; John Beers, James Grant, of Newport, and William Carr.

John McCarthy, who was injured in the explosion at Drach's saloon, died at 5:30 Tuesday afternoon at the hospital.

It is almost certain that Mr. Will Roberts, of Louisville, and Mr. Gustav Seaman, Lexington, Ky., two well known showmen, are in the ruins. They arrived in town Monday morning, and took supper at a friend's house in Covington, with whom they returned to this city to visit Buffalo Bill's show. When the car arrived at Fourth and Walnut streets they excused themselves, and a few minutes later were seen by Mr. Salmar to enter Drach's saloon. They had only been in the place a few minutes when the explosion took place.

From the best of information obtainable, there are still nine bodies buried in the ruins. There may be more, but the police and firemen who have made investigations are positive nine bodies are in the wreck, the victims being: Fred Andress, Mamie Kennedy, George Meyers, Joseph H. Peters, William Louth, William Lowheide, John Beers. The man sitting at the second table at Fey's and the one sitting behind the ice box.

Governmental Control of Telegraphs.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The proposition for a governmental control of telegraphs was advocated Tuesday morning before the committee on post offices and post roads by S. H. Bell, secretary of a special committee of the International Typographical union, appointed for the purpose of bringing the matter to the attention of the committee.

Cholera Increasing in Alexandria.

CAIRO, May 6.—Cholera is increasing at Alexandria. Monday 17 new cases and 11 deaths from the disease were reported.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS

First Session.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—SENATE—The senate agreed to postpone the Dupont case till the river and harbor bill was passed, but Senator Peffer insisted on proceeding with his bond investigation resolution, the senate sustained him (29 to 28), thus displacing the river and harbor bill. Senator Perkins, of California, introduced with some modification, the bill presented in the house by Mr. Meiklejohn, of Nebraska, giving the president power to countervail discriminating duties, exactions, conditions, etc., by foreign countries against the products of the United States.

HOUSE—The first skirmish over the senate amendment to the naval appropriation bill, reducing the number of battleships provided for in that bill from four to two, occurred in the house Monday, when Mr. Boutelle, chairman of the naval committee, moved to non-concur in all the senate amendments, and request a conference of the senate.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—SENATE—Senator Hill added another day—the fifth—in opposition to the bond resolution in the senate Tuesday. Mr. Peffer, author of the resolution, announced that he would seek to force a vote Tuesday night by holding the senate in session until the resolution was disposed of. Senators were not disposed to submit to the hardships of a protracted session, and Mr. Peffer did not carry out his plans. He said, however, that the resolution would certainly pass Wednesday, which, however, is doubtful, in view of Mr. Hill's apparent ability to speak indefinitely.

HOUSE—The opponents of four battleships sustained an overwhelming defeat in the house Tuesday on the proposition to accept the senate amendment to the naval appropriation bill reducing the number to two. The vote stood 141 to 81. A special order was adopted to set aside May 6 and 13 for the consideration of private pension bills, ten minutes debate to be given to each bill. There are 405 private pension bills on the calendar. Bills introduced: To pension Mary Landfrit, widow of Adam Landfrit, late first lieutenant Fifth Ohio, at $17 per month; to grant an honorable discharge to Daniel Hettesheimer, Fifth Ohio: to transfer the name of Com. Wm. P. McCann, U. S. navy, from the retired list of commodores to the retired list of rear admirals.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—SENATE—The senate Wednesday passed a bill for the relief of Mrs. Sarah K. McLean, of Cincinnati, widow of Col. Nathaniel McLean. The bill gives to Mrs. McLean pay justly due Col. McLean, and which was never paid to him. The bill was introduced in the senate by Mr. Brice, but was called up by Mr. Turpie, of Indiana. The same bill is now before the house committee on military affairs, where it has been favorably reported on by the subcommittee to which it was referred. The senate committee on foreign relations agreed to a compromise bill for a cable to Hawaii and Japan.

HOUSE—The house Wednesday served notice on the senate that it had transacted its business and was ready for the final adjournment by passing, without division, a resolution for final adjournment Monday, May 18. The reading was received with an outburst of applause from members on both sides of the house. Mr. Wheeler (dem., Ala.) denounced the majority for proposing to desert their posts. The report on the contested election case of Thompson vs. Shaw from the Third North Carolina district, in favor of the sitting member, was adopted. In five and a half hours 72 private pension bills were favorably acted upon.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—SENATE.—By the decisive vote of 51 to 6 the senate Thursday inaugurated an investigation, to be conducted by senate committee on finance, into the facts and circumstances connected with the sale of United States bonds by the secretary of the treasury during the last three years. The six adverse votes were cast by Senators Caffery (La.), Faulkner (W. Va.), Gray (Del.), Hill (N. Y.), Mitchell (Wis.) and Palmer (Ill.), all democrats. The resolution asks for a report as to whether there was or was not money on hand to meet all obligations of the government at the time the bonds were sold.

The net result of a three-and-a-half hours' session of the house Thursday was the passage of a bill to amend the act creating the court of appeals so as to allow appeals from the supreme courts of the territories to the court of appeals. Mr. Pickler (rep., S. D.) took revenge for the defeat he suffered Wednesday night when the house refused to remain in session to pass private pension bills. He made the point of no quorum at every opportunity till the house adjourned. Mr. Pickler threatens to keep up his tactics until he receives further consideration for private pension bills.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—SENATE—The river and harbor bill was completed in the senate with the exception of the item for a deep-water sea harbor on the Pacific Coast. This has aroused keen opposition, the two California senators opposing the proposed contract appropriation of $3,098,000 for a harbor at Santa Monica Bay, on the ground that it is a project fostered by the Southern Pacific as against public sentiment, and the recommendations of two boards of army engineers. An amendment by Mr. Gray (dem., Del.) to permit retired army officers to engage in river and harbor work was adopted. A favorable committee report was made on Mr. Turpie's bill to grant Abel S. Chase, of Logansport, Ind., a pension of $30 per month.

HOUSE—The members of the house voted themselves $100 per month for clerk hire during the recesses of congress. The pension bills favorably acted upon at the last Friday night's session were taken up and passed. The evening session was devoted to the consideration of private pension bills. Twenty-two private pension bills were favorably acted upon at the night session of the house. Among them were bills to pension the widow of the late Maj. Gen. Thomas Ewing at the rate of $75 per month: the widow of the late Maj. Theodore W. Greig at the rate of $50 per month, and the widow of the late Maj. Gen. Joseph E. Carr at the rate of $75 per month.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—SENATE—The senate gave most of Saturday to passing the accumulation of bills on the calendar and succeeded in disposing of a large number of them. The paragraph of the river and harbor bill for a deep-water harbor at Santa Monica bay, California, is still uncompleted. Mr. White of California, finished his speech in opposition and will be followed on Monday by Chairman Frye, of the commerce committee, after which the final vote will be taken, and after that the river and harbor bill will be passed. Mr. Dubois (rep., Ida.) asked immediate consideration for a joint resolution providing that hereafter no bonds shall be issued by any officer until the president has communicated to congress the necessity for the bonds, the amount of the issue, and until congress shall authorize the payment of the bonds issued. Mr. Palmer (Dem. Ill.) reported the bill to pension the widow of Capt. Allabach, recently vetoed by the president, with a recommendation that it pass over the veto. The bill was passed for government participation in the Tennessee Centennial Exposition in 1897.

HOUSE—No business of importance transacted Saturday.

Asphyxiated by Gas.

TOLEDO, O., May 11.—Miss Ida Crumb, whose parents live in Detroit, was asphyxiated at the Superior hotel by escaping gas.

A $200,000 Fire at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—The Vulcan Iron Works, on Fremont street, Mission and Howard were destroyed by fire early Monday morning. The Reliance Machine Works adjoining were partially ruined by fire and water. Loss, $200,000; insurance, $56,000.

Bloody Sunday in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, May. 11.—Sunday will be rememberdd by the police as a bloody one. Cuttings and shootings were so numerous that an extra force of physicians was called to the city dispensary. Most of the assaults were among Negroes.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, May 13, 1896.

Advertising Rates:

One inch, one time.........................$1.00
Each additional time........................ .25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50
☞Announcement of candidates for office, cash when ordered........$5.00.

W. L. RIDDELL, - - Publisher.

Neighborhood News.

Richwood.

Ed Stephens has built an addition to his house.

Mrs. Guilday, of Milford, O., was visiting relatives here last week.

Senator Conner was kicked by a horse, last week, but not seriously injured.

News reached this place that Robert A. Cleek, son of Tom Cleek, who moved to Missouri, several years ago, was elected Prosecuting Attorney of Shelby county, Mo. Bob was quite a little boy when he left here, and many of his old playmates are glad to hear of his success.

Verona.

The type setter mistook, Kirby West for Kirby Vest in our college item last week. Chas. Finnell was awarded two medals. The one omitted was by Miss Hamilton, and for neatness in scholarship.

N. B. Hamilton has moved back to his residence east of town.

Frank Curley and Miss Carrie Herinton, of Walton, were calling on Mrs. Ben L. Johnson last Thursday.

A great many of our people are hauling water, owing to the scarcity of rain.

Corn is coming up nicely and the cut worms are playing havoc with it.

Sheep shearing is the order of the day.

Your "cor," visited the scene of the terrible explosion on Walnut st., last Thursday.

Erlanger.

The two newly elected school trustees have received their certificates and were sworn in to do their duties. We feel confident that Geo. J. Rost and R. J. White will be valuable additions to the board.

Fred Springmeire and wife and Mrs. John Morrelli have come to their summer residence on Lexington pike.

The Florence and Crescent Springs base ball clubs played a one sided game at Woodside, Sunday. Score 39 to 10 in favor of Florence.

Mrs. McKim, of this place, has gone to visit her folks, Mr. Theo. Chambers, at Walton.

Good Faith Lodge No. 95, F. & A. M. appointed a committee to request Bro. O. M. Huey to preach a Masonic sermon on next Sunday morning, this being his last sermon before moving to Carrollton.

Miss Ainit Hassell, of Meridian, Mississippi, is the guest of Mrs. B. C. McCormick, of this place.

Mr. Alonzo Victor, the genial contractor, is recovering from a severe spell of sickness. His host of friends will be glad to hear of his recovery.

Bellevue.

Charles Clore has been confined to his room for several days, but is convalescing.

Cal Jack and daughter, of Big Bone, were the guests of Col. J. M. Moody, on the 7th inst.

The osiers are about all peeled, and owing to the extreme hot weather, have peeled well.

Michael Clore has recently shipped 50 head of hogs to market and is feeding forty more.

Wm. Botts has cholera among his hogs and the pigs are dying at a rapid rate.

Jake Cook had a snake, not in his boots, but in his cellar. It frightened him so that he had to call his neighbors to kill it. It was of the Adder species.

Mrs. Josie Piatt, of Louisville, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. J. Huey.

Owing to the pressure of times, Supt. Voshell was compelled to rescind his order condemning the public school property at this place.

Jno. T. Marshall is using crutches, caused by a very badly sprained ankle.

Mrs. Audy Cook, of Patriot, Indiana, was the guest of Mrs. Birkle on the 8th.

Many of the farmers have to wait for rain, before planting. The ground that was plowed early and planted has sufficient moisture, and the crop is doing well.

There never was such a shower of potato bugs.

Quite an acreage of melons are being planted.

The budded fruit seems to be falling badly, while the seedlings are not.

Mrs. Jonas Clore is still very poorly.

Bullittsville.

Mrs. Owen Gaines is visiting relatives in Union.

Miss Bernice Duncan delightfully entertained a large number of her friends, last Sunday.

Quite a pleasant surprise party was given Mr C. A. Gaines and wife, last Monday evening. Among those present were Misses Fannie Willis, Eunie Duncan, Beulah and Annie Gaines, Bernice Duncan Mae Cropper, Lutie Watts and Mary Corn; Messrs. Hubert Walton, Willie Cropper, Will, Elmo, Jim, Ves and Felix Gaines, Dr. Clore, Owen Stephens and T. G. Graves.

Mrs. M. T. Graves entertained in her usual charming manner Misses Bertha Gaines and Lacy Kirtley, Messrs. Chester Davis and Edwin Gaines, last Saturday evening.

There will be an entertainment given by the pupils of Mrs. F. E. Kirtley's private school, next Friday evening. May 15th. Friends and patrons are cordially invited.

Miss Lutie Gaines was the guest of Miss Sadie Kirtley, last Saturday night.

James Blanton, of Erlanger, passed through town Sunday, on his wheel.

Did we see Dr. Hays and T G. Graves passing rapidly through town in the direction of Hebron, Sunday afternoon? Was it really them or their intentions?

Quite a number of our citizens went to see Buffalo Bill's show at Cummingsville, last Tuesday.

Walton.

A postal from Mr. L. B. Stephens to Mrs. B. L. Northcutt conveyed the sad intelligence that his daughter, Mrs. Kate Frazer, of Falmouth, died on the 7th inst., and that her funeral would be at 1 o'clock Sunday morning. The remains will be interred there immediately after it. Mr. Stephens has the sympathy of the entire community, and the many friends in this county, where she was raised, mourn the loss of a much loved companion of their life's earlier years.

The residence of Mr. W. W. Boland, at Kensington, two miles north of here was burnt to the ground on the 7th inst. Old citizens remember it as the residence of Dr. Early.

A small whirlwind took the canvass from Willie Holder's plant bed, the other day, and gracefully spread it over the top of a tall oak tree. Willie tried to go after it, but became dizzy after climbing about 50 feet. Maney Northcutt essayed to bring it down, but he could go no higher than Holder, who came down town beating for volunteers. John Wm. Sanders came to the rescue, went up easily and had the canvass down in a little while.

The Courier-Journal of the 9th inst., has such a nice way of getting over the rough places and obstructions in the way of the gold bugs. In reference to the Tennessee Convention, lately held, where there were some 400 or 500 free silver delegates to 20 of the money sharks its correspondent at Memphis calmly states that, relying upon the National Convention, the goldites were not much concerned about the free silver plank in their platform (most any one would say not with from twenty to twenty-five against one.) And the Knoxville, Chattanooga, and in fact, all their correspondents adopt the soothing syrup strain in their advices to the "Old Lady around the corner" as the C.-J. is familiarly designated in Louisville.

What a delicate sense of the fitness of things must permeate the breast of that great apostle of Civil Service Reform, who is meditating "where he will be at" when out of the White House. Members of the cabinet tramping over the country in favor of the rich man's money standard, holders of offices taking part in all the primary meetings and behaving generally as if they were the masters and not the servants of the people.

The grass and small grain crops give promise of being the most complete failure that has ever been known at this time of the year. There will be no need of mowers and harvesters as there will be nothing raised requiring their use.

The following is the honor roll of the Walton academy for the last two weeks, the pupils reaching as a class rank, 90 per cent: Edna Ransler, Louise Green, Mabel Bagby, Stella Wright, Effa Lermond, Lulu Edwards, Eleanor Walsh, Lydia Taylar, Lena Hedges, Maggie Burke, Fleming Hedges, Levie E. Prior, Robert Byland, Chas. Chambers, Ralph Edwards, Raymond Byland, Roy Stamler Harvey Diers.

Hathaway.

The weather continues dry, and there is no sign of rain at this writing.

About all the corn is planted.

The largest crowd that ever attended a funeral at Big Bone, was that at the funeral of Mr. Hampton Adams.

A great many from this neighborhood were at the funeral of J. S. Huey at Bellevue.

It is said that Duke Adams has no equal when it comes to eating fish or telling snake stories.

Mr. Johnson and wife and Mr. Robertson and wife of Grant county, were guests of B. D. Adams and wife last week.

Rev. T. L. Utz and wife were visiting his father's last week.

Mrs. Anna Crisler, of Gunpowder, was visiting friends and relatives here last week.

Ben Rue, who has been sick of ague, and Tobe Marshall, who has been laid up with a case of poison, we are glad to report are about well again

Sheep-shearing is the order of the day.

There is talk of having another big fish fry on Gunpowder near here at an early date.

The young people enjoyed a party given by W. S. White and wife on the 2d inst.

Petersburg.

The Misses McComas are visiting in Hamilton, Ohio.

John Evans, who has been visiting in Hamilton, O., was at home Sunday.

The Pauline is making much better time than the Mayflower ever did, and Capt. Alden is justly proud of her.

John Jones and Miss May Evans were visiting in Hamilton, Ohio, last week.

The Pauline took a crowd from here to the commencement at Lawrenceburg, last Thursday night.

James Thomasson is all smiles. Its a 10 pound boy.

Mr. Arnold and wife, of Central Kentucky, are registered at the Grand Central Hotel. Mr. A. is a life ins. agent.

Wm. Casey attended the Derby at Louisville, last week.

Rev. Hayes' lecture was quite interesting. The attendance was small.

A protracted meeting will begin at the Christian church at an early date.

The lecture at the M. E Church, last Tuesday evening was very interesting and the attendance large.

Work has begun on Gordon Bros.' new building.

Judge Roberts and Julius Hauk, of Aurora, were in town Thursday.

Mr. Brendel is improving the looks of the Grand Central Hotel by having it painted.

Potato bugs are very numerous in this section.

A lot of staves arrived from Arkansas Wednesday, and the coopers have gone to work again.

Berkshire & McWethy's store is being repapered.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Grant attended Mr. Huey's funeral at Bellevue, on Tuesday of last week.

Doc Wingate seems to have quite a pull for Sheriff.

James Tolin met with quite an accident as he was coming to town a few days since. He rode too close to a barbed wire fence, which tore one leg of his trousers off, and cut the side of his horse pretty badly.

The social at Miss Stella Fenton's, on Monday night of last week, was a delightful affair in every particular. A great many persons were present, and all enjoyed the evening. Among those present were Misses Olga and Seola, the two charming daughters of J. I. McWethy, of Gasburg. The following program was rendered: Song by Society—"Throw Out the Life Light; Prayer by Rev. Curry; Reading by Miss Eugene Gordon; Instrumental Solo by Miss Ella Krutz—"Evening Prayer." Reading by Miss Bessie Hurd; Recitation—Miss Ione Buchanan; Reading—Miss Nora Stott; Instrumental Solo—Mrs. Curry—"Old Kentucky Home;" Quotation Battle—Mr. and Mrs. Curry; Instrumental Solo—Miss Carrie Thomasson; Instrumental Solo—Miss Gracie Grant; Song by Society; Prayer by Rev. Curry.

Jack Howe, a government man is registered at the Central.

Eugene Berkshire has a very badly swollen jaw—toothache.

Union.

Rev. O. M. Huey and wife are the guests of Mrs. J. W. Kennedy.

Mrs. Lulu Quisenbery, after several weeks visit to her sister, Mrs. James Huey, left for her home at Hamilton, Ohio, last week.

Misses Nannie Burkett and Mary Hedges have returned home from a pleasant visit at Walton.

Miss Ella Norman has been quite ill with the measles.

The Presbyterian Ladies' Society met at Mrs. Conner's, last Saturday afternoon.

Jas. Kennedy, for the past week, has been in Arizona, seeing to his property.

Mrs. B. W. Adams, Mrs. Sallie Huey and Mrs. Gaines, of Bullittsville, were the pleasant guests of Mrs. Lizzie Huey last week.

Miss Lottie Fall, of Covington, spent last Saturday and Sunday with the Misses Riley.

Messrs. Squire Webb, Hal and James Blanton, spent Sunday in our town.

Miss Mattie Whitson's school closed, last week.

Boone Union Lodge, F. & A. M., No. 304, will celebrate the 24th of June this year with a reunion. All members of this lodge, in good standing, are invited to be present; all members who have been members of this lodge in the past, who are now members of other lodges, are invited to be present. All dimitted members of this lodge in good standing are invited to be present. We will meet at the hall in Union by 10 a. m., on that day. We expect to have an old fashion reunion-handshaking-good time. We will have lunch at 12 o'clock and after that a number of roaring good speeches. Let the boys come prepared to thoroughly enjoy themselves, to do and say something for the good of masonry.

M. J. CROUCH, Ch'n,
Com. on Reunion.

Florence.

The party given by Mr. and Mrs. Arch Corbin at their home. last Monday evening, was a brilliant affair. The evening was passed very pleasantly, and toward the close a most delicious luncheon was served. Among those present were Misses Ellylen and Ida Ryle, Fanny and Carrie Latham, Bessie Snyder, Carrie Clark, Katie Grogan, Ola Corbin, Bessie Need, Fanny Osborn, Francis Loweline, and Messrs. Harry Fisk, Form Ashcraft, Joe Clark, John Sells, Jake Middleton, Ben Osborn, Pat Normin.

Chester Souther has improved his looks considerably by wearing a mustache.

Mr. Fred Drodge and family, of Covington, were the pleasant guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rich, last Sunday.

Will Need and sister, of Covington, spent Sunday with their parents here.

Our Post Master, Mr. Castleman, has been very busy here of late, such a large amount of mail is received daily from Chicago.

The mistletoe euchre club was very charmingly entertained by Miss Ella Coleman at her home, last Wednesday evening, and a very pleasant time was had by all. Those present were Misses Katie Grogan, Josie Bentler, Jennie Myers, Ruy Dulaney, Alice Cloud, Bessie Snyder, Messrs Irving Kyle, Harry Fisk, John Bentham, Charley and Chester Souther.

Constance.

Wm. Myers was struck on the head with a bat, while playing ball, last Sunday, producing a painful and perhaps a dangerous wound.

Geo. Proble is building a fine residence.

Capt. Kotmyer is improving his place with a new fence.

Constance has a large Sunday school.

The Constance Building and Loan Association sold two shares last Saturday, at a good premium.

J. C. Hankins & Co. are unloading their second barge of coal. They expect to have a good supply of coal for the fall and winter demand.

Rev. J. C. Williams preached two eloquent sermons at the christian church last Sunday.

The new pilot house on Capt. Kotmyer's boat adds much to its appearance.

Rev. Franklin, of Cincinnati preached here last Sunday.

The Cincinnati Mission Society expects to erect a handsome church here.

A swell fishing club of Cincinnati, composed of some of the officials, was looking about here the other day for a location to camp.

B. F. Zimmer built the Jones Desicating company a fine pleasure boat.

The Constance bicycle club was out for a spin Sunday. Some of the members are fine riders.

Limaburg.

Roll of honor of Lizzie F. Gordon's school for the month ending May 8th. Grade 5.—Ora Ryle, 93 1-12; Edith Craven, 87¾; Ora Delph, 84¼; Jennie Craven, 87; Lloyd Aylor, 86¾. Grade 4.—Sadie Beemon, 93¼; Bessie Poston, 92¾; Irba Tanner, 91¼; Clarence Mitchell, 84¾. Grade 3.—Pearl Aylor, 94 6-7; Henry Dixon, 94; Carl Craven, 91¼; Grace Anderson, 90 1-7. Grade 2.—Eva Utz, 97 2-7; Charlie Rouse, 95 2-7; Howard Kelly, 90 6-7; Ray Craven, 93 6-7; Edith Heist, 93 2-7; Artie Tanner, 92 2-5; Elmer Heist, 89 6-7. Grade 1.—Mamie Dixon, 88 2-5; Sterling Rouse, 87.

Fibtown

It is very dry and the grass is short.

Col. H. R. Deen is in the saddle horse business.

L. L. Ruth, the champion mind reader passed through here Sunday.

Hon. N. S. Walton has a fine lot of cattle.

Capt. Joe Bachelor sold a fine horse last week.

Buford and Marshall Terrill made a trip to town last week, with horses for sale.

Gen. Grant Hensley has purchased a new buggy.

Elijah Grant and family were visiting in Lawrenceburg, Saturday.

A great many were trying their luck fishing, last week.

Gasburg.

Miss Lizzie Romine has returned from a protracted visit to relatives in North Bend, Ohio.

A couple of nice and respectable looking girls passed through this place, walking last Wednesday. They enquired the way to Owen [illegible] they said their relatives live. They were carrying no clothes, but those they wore. Persons who talked to them suppose they must have escaped from some charitable institution.

The dwelling house occupied by Arthur Davies in this place has completed one hundred years of its existence, having been built by Daniel Mosby, father of the late Robt. Mosby, in April, 1796. It is probably the oldest house in the county.

☞If you want Harness and Saddle qualities combined with speed breed to

SAM HARRIS,

No. 6520. Record, 2:29¼.

He will make the season of 1896, at my stable on the Dry Creek & Bullittsville pike, between Hebron and Constance, at $10 to insure a colt, the money due when the mare is known to be in foal or parted with after being bred.

SAM HARRIS' get always sells for fancy prices. Forty of his colts sold at an average of over $100—no other horse that ever stood in this county has made such a showing. If desired the names of those making above sales will be furnished.

Those desiring to breed mares can leave them with me and they will receive attention and be furnished pasturage at $2 per month. The excellent breeding qualities of Sam Harris are well known in this county.

J. L. RILEY.

THE SADDLE AND HARNESS STALLION,

JIM CROW,

Will be found this season at Geo. E. Rouse's farm on the Florence and Burlington pike at $8.00 for a living colt.

For further information call on or address

J. E. ROUSE,
Limaburg, Boone Co., Ky.

Painting & Repairing

Buggies and Carriages

—REPAIRED AT THE MOST—

REASONABLE RATES.

☞GIVE ME A TRIAL.☜

I am also agent for the EMMERSON, FISHER BUGGY COMPANY.

C. ERNSTES, - - Hebron, Ky.

BLACKSMITHI'G.

A. J. CLAYTON

—Does all kinds of—

Smithing.

Always on hand and anxious to give satisfaction to all customers,

Horse Shoeing A SPECIALTY.

BURLINGTON, - KY.

TABLER'S BUCK EYE PILE OINTMENT

CURES NOTHING BUT PILES.

A SURE and CERTAIN CURE known for 15 years as the BEST REMEDY for PILES.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Prepared by RICHARDSON MED CO., ST. LOUIS.

Take your County Paper.

EVERYBODY'S INTEREST

It is to everybodys interest to go where the best Goods can be bought for the least money, this can always be done by calling on IRA AYLOR, Agent for the

"Quick Meal" Gasoline Stoves and Ranges,

Every Stove guaranteed as represented. Give us a trial and we will save you at least 10 per cent. on every stove.

Please remember the places.

IRA AYLOR,
Branch Store—UNION, KY. ERLANGER, KY.

STEPHENS & SCALES,

—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN—

Hardware, Cutlery, and Agricultural Implements,

Genuine Oliver Chilled & Steel Plows,
Bissell Chilled & Steel Hillside Plows,
Walking & Riding Cultivators,
Steel & Wood Gear Farm Wagons,
Champion Mower and Binders,
Ball Bearing Disk Harrows.

BARBED AND SMOOTH WIRE
AT THE LOWEST MARKET PRICE.
No. 26 Pike Street, - - - Covington, Ky.

BEST GOODS! LIVING PRICES!

Hardware,
Farm Machinery,
Fine Vehicles,
Harness.

HARRIS FITCH, Corner HIGH AND SHORT STREETS,
LAWRENCEBURG, INDIANA.

A. C. HECKMAN,
Florist, Plants, Bulbs, Seeds, & Metal Designs.
Fresh Cut Flowers Daily. Artistic Floral Designs a Specialty.
734 Madison Avenue,
Covington, - - Kentucky.
25 Per Cent. Less than any Cincinnati House.

J. J. GEISEN,
Best and cheapest HAT STORE in the city.
Agency for WHITE STAR LAUNDRY.
615 Madison Ave., COVINGTON, KY.

METROPOLITAN COUPE AND LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,
E. H. BAKER, Proprietor
(o)
Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.
Telephone 580.

Go to JOHN L. KOCH,
FOR
HARNESS, BUGGIES and Road CARTS

He having secured the Agency of the James & Mayer Buggies, Manufactured at Lawrenceburg, can sell you a Buggy at factory prices.

LOOK HERE

Good Top Buggy $40 and up.
Machine-made Buggy Harness, $5 and up.
Hand-made Buggy Harness, $7.50 up.

BUGGIES REPAINTED AND REPAIRED.

JOHN L. KOCH, Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

FOR SALE.

Lumber Yard and Stock at Cost.

(o)

J. C. GARVEY, Erlanger, Ky.,

Is closing out his Entire Stock of Lumber at and below Cost for CASH. Those wishing to reap the benefits of these remarkable Low Prices and obtain first choice of goods must come early, as I do not intend to replace the stock, but, to quit the business. The closing out of the stock will begin

April 13th and Continue sixty Days,

After which time I shall close the yard, rent or sell to any one desiring to reopen the business. I am at present about two-thirds stocked and can meet the demands of those who come early. Write or call on me for prices on the kinds of lumber you are in want of.

J. C. GARVEY, Erlanger, Ky.

Local News.

Considerable corn to be planted yet.

Too much summer heat for so early in the season.

Potato bugs are giving the gardeners a great deal of trouble.

The mercury crowded the 100 mark closely in the shade, Sunday.

There will be a game of ball at the Burlington park next Saturday afternoon.

Vegetables in early gardens have grown slowly on account of the dry weather.

Revs. R. E. and J. A. Kirtley and O. M. Huey, assisted Rev. Utz in the funeral of Mr. J. S. Huey.

The snow ball bushes did not wait for snow ball winter this spring. They bloomed in warm weather.

A gentleman from the city was out looking at J. O. Huey's farm, one day last week. They did not trade.

Bear in mind that the Odd-Fellows' picnic on June 6th will be an all day affair, and the picnic of the season.

Supervisors Clore and Gaines commenced work on the public roads in their respective bailiwicks, last week.

The death of Mr. J. S. Huey created a vacancy in the office of president of the Boone County Insurance Company.

J. M. Barlow & Co., will receive wool at Jas. Acra's May 20th; at Burlington May 21st and at Ben Surface's May 22.

There was considerable wind Monday about noon, and the indications for rain were good, but the clouds went around.

Al Rogers' saddle and harness horse died of lung fever, last Friday. It was a valuable animal, and Al grieves over its death.

The Burlington ball team is thinking about asking the Louisvilles for a game on some open date at the latter part of the reason.

A brindle hound, supposed to have hydrophobia, passed through town last Sunday afternoon, and bit several of the town dogs.

In another column appears the time card of the Pauline, Capt. Alden's little steamer that plies between Aurora and Lawrenceburg.

W. M. Underhill, of the Beaver neighborhood, lost his house by fire a few days since. He had a policy of $500 in the Boone County Company.

The Odd-Fellows lodge at this place will give a picnic at the Harvest Home grounds between Limaburg and Hebron on the first Saturday in June.

Jeff Eddings and Oscar Ryle dug a well last week. Some distance down they struck a ledge of rock, and had to resort to blasting, and some pretty loud reports came from the direction of Bucktown Saturday morning.

The building in which the explosion occurred in Cincinnati, last week, and in which eight lives were lost, and several persons were injured more or less, was the very worst kind of shister. It stood on stilts, as it were, having no side walls, whatever.

Atty. Sid Gaines is an amateur instructor in the art of riding bicycles. He gave his first lesson, last Friday evening, his little boy being the pupil, and, judging from the rapidity with which he learned, Mr. G. is a very proficient instructor.

The members of the Hebron Democratic Club are requested to meet at the Hebron hall, Saturday, May 16th, as business of importance to the club will be transacted. Done by order of John Stephens, President.

O. S. WATTS, Secretary.

A band of female tramps passed through town Sunday morning. There were four women and three girls, one of the party was leading an old horse which carried a lot of bundles. They said they wanted to go to Louisville, and started out the East Bend road.

K. A. E. O., Louisville, Ky., May 12-14. Tickets via the Queen & Crescent Route at one fare round trip, May 10-12, on limited trains. Through Pullman Sleepers from Chattanooga without change. Ask agents for full particulars.

W. C. Rinearson, G. P. A.,
Cincinnati, O.

NOTICE—The delinquent tax collectors of this county are requested to call at my office on or before the 23d of this month, and pay over what delinquent taxes they have collected, and surrender the lists, that they may be placed in the hands of the road supervisors.

J. M. LASSING, County Attorney.

The Cincinnati Zoo will be more attractive this season than ever. All the attractions of last season will be repeated this year on a much larger scale. The Tuesday and Friday night fetes which have always been such a charming feature, will be maintained, and on other evenings of the week a varied successions of entertainments will be presented.

There was not a large attendance at the sale of the personal property of Mrs. Clarrissa Smith, last Saturday, and many articles sold for less than their value. A splendid dinner was set, and it was enjoyed by the crowd. Thirty-six sheep and 27 lambs, good stock, sold for $75, two old cows sold for $5 each; other cattle sold cheap; horses from $7 to $53; corn in the crib 50 cents per bushel; hogs, about 3c per pound.

Mrs. Mildred Calvert Perkins died, on the 5th inst., at the residence of her son, James N. Perkins, in Rising Sun. Mrs. Perkins was born and raised in Burlington where she married the late James Perkins, and lived until about 20 years ago, when she and her husband moved to Rising Sun. She was in her 82d year, and was the last member of a family of several brothers and sisters. Three sons, Richard, James and Homer, survive her.

We made a flying trip to Walton, last Friday, it being the first time we had looked in upon that thriving town for about a year.

A. R. Hance, who was doing the passenger business between the depot and the town, was the first to greet us. He was about the busiest man in town, but could find time in which to discuss the leading topics of the day, and make a visitor's sojourn in the burg pleasant.

Legrand Brooks was found at his old stand, looking after the comfort of the patrons of the Phoenix Hotel. He has been employed at that hostelry so long that he is an indispensable attache.

We met Records Johnson, who, until recently, was engaged in the mercantile business at Walton, but which he abandoned for the more lucrative and healthy pursuit of farming. It is amusing to hear him give the pedigrees of his Alderney horses and Holstine poultry. He is making a roaring success of agriculture.

T. F. Curley was behind the counter in his well equipped store, where he gladeneds the hearts of his patrons with prices in keeping with the times. He, like everybody else, was complaining of dull times, and slow sales.

Edwards & Kennedy were house cleaning, giving their stock of hardware a thorough overhauling. They carry a large stock and command a good trade. Mr. Edwards, the senior member of the firm has regained his health, and is robust and hearty. He is one of the best business men in his town.

A person can hardly realize that he has visited Walton unless he has called on Sam Hind, jr, and heard his "latest." Besides keeping on hand a large stock of drugs, Sam carries an excellent line of laugh producing, up to date jokes, which receive special attention. Sam was at his best Friday.

Dropping in at Dean & Richards, we only had time to say, "good morning," and then start for the train, accompanied by Mr. Dean, who was going to the city.

Among others we met was Dr. J. L. Adams. It was his day to be in his office at Verona, and he was on his way to the train. The Doctor is working up a good practice, and stands high both as a gentleman and a dentist. The Doctor is a worthy young man, whose success will be pleasing to his host of friends.

There is not a good piece of grass between Burlington and Walton. Many of the grain fields and pastures look absolutely bare.

The Frankfort Capital says a rather sensational suggestion for the school teachers of the State, is made by one of the State officials, who thinks the schools and teachers may have to stand the loss of about $175,000, the amount by which the schools' share of the past year's revenue is going to fall short of the amount estimated as available for schools at the beginning of the past school year. This official thinks this $175,000 will have to come off of the next and last $400,000 payment, and that it would not be just to the teachers of next year's schools to encroach this amount on the school's share of next year's revenue. If this policy is announced and should be followed, it will likely result in many of the school terms ending in May instead of June, and in many teachers losing at least one month's salary.

The several voting precincts in the county will receive road money as follows this year. Each supervisor is entitled to one-fourth of the amount his precinct receives:

Burlington	$939.13
Bullittsville	775.25
Petersburg	674.39
Bellevue	343.01
Carlton	476.69
Hamilton	400.28
Beaver	327.61
Union	619.68
Walton	740.62
Verona	454.85
Florence	1,036.72
Constance	452.20
Total	$7,240.43

Examinations for teachers' certificates will occur this year, for white teachers, on June 5th and 6th, 19th and 20th, July 17th and 18th, and August 21st and 22d; and for colored teachers, on Friday and Saturday following each of these dates. On consultation, the State Board of Examiners decided to send questions for the first examination of applicants for State Certificates along with the questions for the first examination in June. The old law, which required it, will be still in force at that time. Examination for graduation in the common school course will come at the usual time—the last Thursday in June, which this year falls on the 25th. L. H. VOSHELL, Supt.

Last Saturday, when Jailer Crisler entered the jail to give the two prisoners their dinner, he failed to close the door behind him, and Jack Horton slipped out unobserved. Before pursuit was begun Horton had got such a start that he made a success of his dash for liberty. Horton, it will be remembered was serving a six months' term in jail for robbing Mr. Abe Clore's huckster wagon last fall. He had about thirty days more to serve, and it is thought that he may now keep out of the county, as he knows he will be returned to jail if caught. He is a fellow whose presence is of no advantage to any community.

Teachers' Primary Class.

Several Boone County teachers have suggested to me that I organize a class for work with reference to teachers' examination, at Union, Ky., to commence May 25th and continue eight weeks. I shall be glad to do so, provided a sufficient number of teachers or other persons notify me by May 18th, of their intention to attend; without such notice, I can not form the class.

Tuition for term, $8,00; board can be obtained in Union at extremely reasonable rates. Applicants will be notified by mail if class is formed.

H. NEWTON, Butler, Ky.

Stanton Kirtley was arraigned before Judge Stephens, last Thursday, and fined $1 and cost for striking Jennie Dixon, a few days before. The parties are both colored. Stant had given Jennie his authority for some statements he had made in regard to some of the other colored people, and she accused him of lying, which so enraged him that he dealt her a blow with his fist.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Dr. R. C. Tilley, of Petersburg, called on the RECORDER last Friday. While here he exhibited a "white cap" notice which he received through the mail only a few days before. Several of the other good citizens of the town had received like notices. The Doctor is one of a number of Petersburg people at whom a band of law-breakers have a spite, and not long since stoned their residences, doing considerable damage. The Doctor is prepared to give them a warm reception should they again attempt their nefarious work.

J. M. Lassing and J. J. Rucker made a business trip to Nashville, Tennessee, last week. Mr. Lassing arrived home last Sunday, and gives a glowing account of the prosperity of the Boone county boys who are doing business there. William Setters is a leading politician in Nashville. He heard favorable reports from Dr. Bruce Sanders who resides in a beautiful country home near Nashville, and has a fine office in the city. He is doing a large practice.

Mr. and Mrs. Zeke Aylor, of Francesville, were guests of Elmer Beall and wife, Sunday. A few days ago Mrs. Aylor was attacked and badly bitten by a vicious dog belonging to a neighbor, and while here Sunday the Tanner mad-stone was applied to the wound, but it would not adhere.

Last county court day Mr. Elijah Parker exhibited to us a Constantinople newspaper, which was sent to him by his brother, J. D. Parker, who is making a tour of the East. It was a typographical curiosity, and its contents were as illegible as a lot of hen tracts in the mud.

Mr. Oscar Gaines, Secretary of the Boone County Insurance Company, sent to the policy holders in that company notices of their assessments on account of the Northcutt, Allphin and Underhill fires. The three fires amount to $1,200.

Dr. Smith Terrill and sister, of Covington, were in town a short time last Thursday morning. The Doctor ranks high in his profession, and is a young man who improves every moment.

Dr. W. B. Grubbs, of Taylorsport, was in town Saturday. The Doctor is a strong advocate of free silver, and an article from his pen will appear in these columns next week.

J. L. Frazier, the successful bachelor farmer of the Union "destrict," was in town Monday. He did not tarry long after securing the legal advice sought.

Sam Ackmirer and W. B. Watts were in town Monday morning, telling some miraculous fish stories. You know they are capable of that.

Dr. Sayer and Ab Quick, of Hebron, were in town Thursday morning. The Doctor has a vivid recollection of his boyhood days in Burlington.

Uncle Elijah Ryle, the oldest and best citizen in the Waterloo neighborhood, is in a very critical condition, we are sorry to learn.

Esq. James Cowen, of Gallatin county, came up last Saturday to visit his father, who has been very feeble for some time.

Chas. Westbay and Kirb Tanner took advantage of the base ball excursion, Sunday week, and visited the Falls City.

Mrs. B. W. Adams returned home [illegible] morning after several weeks' sojourn in the Big Bone neighborhood.

J. B. Berkshire was doing the carpenter act several days last week. He is a very handy man to have about.

Atty. Castleman, and David Ryle, of Hathaway, listened to Col. Nelson's speech in the Jackson trial Monday.

Johnnie Hogan, of Bullittsville, was in town Monday morning with his gasoline and coal oil wagon.

W. H. Dickerson and Scott Myers, two hustling business men of Verona, were in town Thursday.

Supt. Voshell was in town a few hours Monday. See his notice to teachers in another column.

Miss Clara Tupman, of Bakersfield, California, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. W. L. Riddell.

Mrs. Robert Huey, of the Locust Grove neighborhood, is the guest of Mrs. Virginia Huey.

J. M. Lassing and Stanley Clutterbuck spent a day or two last week in Louisville.

W. E. Vest was surveying in the Walton neighborhood, a day or two last week.

C. C. Roberts and Elmer Beall attended the Scott Jackson trial, last Saturday.

Miss Fannie Finch will attend Normal School at Williamstown, this summer.

Mrs. C. C. Roberts spent last week with her father's family at Walton.

Marshall and Homer Hudson, of Verona, were in town, Monday.

Mr. Dudley Rouse was on the sick list several days last week.

W. F. Kassebaum, of Aurora, was in town yesterday.

Elder Archie Brown will preach at the Mt. Pleasant Baptist church next Saturday evening and Sunday morning.

For sale—A No. 1 milch cow, 7 years old, sound and all right, and has a calf three weeks old.

J. E. HALL,
Burlington, Ky.

In some patches potatoes bugs are so thick that there are not enough vines on which to deposit their eggs, and many deposits of the bug producers are made on the sticks and clods.

While in Louisville last week J. M. Lassing called in to see the officers of the Commercial Building Trust, and found them in good spirits and reporting their business in a flourishing condition notwithstanding the hard times.

Don't wear false hair while it is possible to retain your own. Ayer's Hair Vigor, the best dressing, nourishes and invigorates the hairroots, cures scalp diseases, prevents the hair from coming out or turning gray, and promotes a new and luxuriant growth.

STATE CONVENTION.

Lexington, Ky., the Place and June 3d the Day.

County Conventions, May 30th, 1896.

The Democratic State Convention to select delegates to the Democratic National Convention will meet in Lexington, Ky, June 3d, 1896.

Each county and legislative district will be entitled to one delegate for each 200 votes cast at the last presidential election or gubernatorial election (the highest being taken as the basis) and one delegate for each fraction over 100 votes so cast.

For the purpose of selecting delegates to said State convention, mass meetings of the Democrats shall be held on the 30th day of May at 2 o'clock p. m., solar time, in each county at the county seats thereof, and in each legislative district in counties having more than one legislative district at such places therein as may be fixed by the respective chairman thereof; and at such mass meetings of the Democrats of each county and legislative district they shall choose the respective delegates that they are entitle to upon the above basis of representation to said State convention. The respective chairman of each County Democratic Executive Committee and of each legislative District Democratic Executive Committee shall issue due and proper notices for said mass meetings and respectively call said mass meetings to order when assembled, and see that said meetings are fairly and properly organized and that the delegates therefrom be fairly and properly chosen by the expressed will of the majority of Democrats attending said meetings, and also see that the duly chosen chairmen and secretaries of said meetings properly certify to the list of delegates so chosen, which certificates shall be approved and signed by the respective chairmen of the Democratic Executive Committees for each county and legislative district.

May Musical Festival.

This great musical event will take place May 19th to 23rd, 1896, in the great new and renovated Cincinnati Music Hall. As usual, the program and artists are of the highest known class, and the Thomas Orchestra, a feature of well known excellence. Low round trip rates will be in effect over the Queen & Crescent Route, on sale daily, May 18th until the morning of May 23rd, from all points in Kentucky. Ask agts. for particulars. W. C. Rinearson,
G. P. A., Cincinnati, O.

Protracted meeting in progress at the M. E. Church, all this week.

George Ossman brought in a load of B. W. Adams' furniture, yesterday.

As we go to press (Tuesday afternoon) the prospects for rain are good.

The Courier-Journal says that drouth of the spring of 1889 was worse than the present.

Sam Ackmyer delivered to the merchants here yesterday, 2,000 pounds of nice side meat at 6 cents per pound.

W. J. Rice commenced the work of repairing the court house portico yesterday. It is a particular and dangerous job.

I will receive wool at Bullittsville, Wednesday, May 13, and at Burlington, Thursday, May 14th.

O. S. WATTS.

F. A. Utz and J. H. Walton, jr., will receive wool at Bellevue, Thurday, May 21st, and at Rabbit Hash, Friday, May 22d. F. A. Utz will receive at his barn Monday, May 25th.

Queen & Crescent $1 excursion to Cincinnati, Sunday, May 17.—The attractions of a special character are a championship game of base ball between Brooklyn and Cincinnati teams; the great Zoo will be open in its best spring dress; the famous new resort, Chester Park, will be open, and in additional to the usual attractions, this new outing ground offers the "Tower Railway" over a mile long; a Bicycle Track, said to be the finest in the world; "The Ferris Miniature World's Fair" the much talked of "Moorish Palace," which was seen at the Chicago Exhibition. The round trip from Erlanger is only 30 cents.

In loving remembrance of my dear friend, Wade Hampton Tilley, who departed this life January 18th, 1896.

Four months have passed away
Since we placed him 'neath the sod,
In the narrow bed so low—
In the bosom of his God.

From his shining home on high
He is looking down,
And when one by one you die
He will meet you with a crown.

Are the tales so oft repeated
Now that Wade is gone;
And the promises truly spoken,
Are they ever left undone?

May they guide you, kind and loving
To his resting place each year,
There to place a wreath of flowers—
There to drop a loving tear.

—By his devoted companion and friend, Everett Helms.

TIME CARD OF THE STEAMER PAULINE.

Leave Petersburg for Lawrenceburg, 6:20 am; 9:00 am; 11:00 am; 1:30 pm; 4:00 pm.
Leave Law'burg for Pete and Aurora, 7:50 am; 9:30 am; 11:30 am; 2:50 pm; 4:30 pm.
Leave Aurora for Pete and Law'burg, 8:30 am; 10:30 am; 1:05 pm; 3:30 pm. Leave Aurora for Petersburg only, 5:15 pm.
Leave Petersburg for Aurora, 8:10 am; 10:00 am; 12:40 pm; 3:00 pm; 4:45 pm.

ELIHU ALDEN, Master.

Notice, Taxpayers.

I hereby notify the taxpayers of this county that they must pay their taxes at once. The road money is now due, and the Supervisors are calling on me for the money due them, and I cannot pay it without you pay your taxes. I do not want to be compelled to advertise and sell your property, but I will surely do so if you do not pay up forthwith.

C. C. ROBERTS, S. B. C.

We call attention to our New and Attractive Stock of

Spring Goods,

JUST RECEIVED.

DRESS GINGHAMS Latest styles.

STRAW HATS in abundance.

Large line of Fresh Groceries Always on hand.

We can and will save you money by trading with us.
Give us a call,

W. M. RACHAL & CO. Union, Ky.

BOEHMER, ROLF & CO.,

DEALERS IN

PAINTS, OILS AND GLASS,

63 and 65 Pike Street,

Covington, Telephone, 4212. Ky.

GEO. W. HILL & CO.,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

Flour, Tea, Tobacco AND FINE Cigars.

ALSO DEALERS IN WOOL AND COUNTRY PRODUCTS.

CALL SPECIAL ATTENTION TO OUR RETAIL DEPARTMENT.

27 and 29 PIKE ST. 26 and 28 W. SEVENTH ST.

Covington, - - Kentucky.

HARBICK & ROSE,

Undertakers AND Embalmers,

OFFICE AND STABLE, 637 and 639 SCOTT STREET,

COVINGTON, KY.

CARRIAGES FOR WEDDINGS AND PRIVATE HIRE.

Telephone, 4146. OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

GEO. G. RUSSELL,

WHOLESALE AND

RETAIL GROCER,

GRASS SEED,

Corner Pike & Washington Sts. Covington, Ky.

Tom Wilson, Salesman.

A. H. BRYANT. J. L. V. McDONALD.

REMOVED AND READY FOR BUSINESS.

31 Pike Street,

THE OLD RELIABLE STOVE COMPANY,

Successor to J. M. CLARKSON.

Stoves, Grates, Fine Tin and

HOLLOW-WARE.

Our friends of Boone County will be Welcome to Make OUR STORE Their Headquarters when in Town.

J. L. V. McDONALD, - - - - Manager.

COVINGTON, KY.

MR. J. M. CLARKSON has his office with us.

SEEDS. SEEDS. SEEDS.

BUY YOUR

GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS

From W. J. RAMSEY & CO.,

We are the only House in Covington, handling a full Line of

GARDEN SEEDS.

708 Madison Avenue

COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.

Opposite Seventh Street Market House.

HANKINS, DAVIS & CO.,

GENERAL MERCHANTS,

HEBRON AND CONSTANCE, KY.

A good supply of Campbell's Creek Coal on hand at Constance at all times. A good supply of feed always in stock. Garden and Field Seeds.

UNDERTAKING.

is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance.

BEFORE THEY ADJOURN.

Having Reference to the Early Dissolution of Congress.

Dr. Talmage's Voice Raised on Behalf of the Almighty—He Asks That Both Political Conventions Do Likewise—Recognize God in the Constitution.

The subject of Dr. Talmage Sunday was: "Before they Adjourn," having reference to the early dissolution of congress, and the text selected was: Psalms cv., 22, "And teach his Senators wisdom."

Senators in this text stand for law makers. Joseph was the lord treasurer of the Egyptian government, and among other great things which he did, according to my text, was to teach his senators wisdom; and if any men on earth ought to be endowed with wisdom, it is senators, whether they stand in congresses, parliaments, or reichstags, or assemblies, or legislatures. By their decisions nations go up or down. Lawmakers are sometimes so tempted by prejudices, by sectional preferences, by opportunity of personal advancement, and sometimes what is best to do is so doubtful that they ought to be prayed for and encouraged in every possible way, instead of severely criticised and blamed and excoriated, as is much of the time the case. Our public men are so often the target to be shot at, merely because they obtain eminence which other men wanted but could not reach, that more injustices are hurled at our national legislature than the people of the United States can possibly imagine. The wholesale belying of our public men is simply damnable. By residence in Washington I have come to find out that many of our public men are persistently misrepresented, and some of the best of them, the purest in their lives and most faithful in the discharge of their duties, are the worst defamed. Some day I want to preach a sermon from II. Peter: "They are not afraid to speak evil of dignities. Whereas angels, which are greater in power and might, bring not railing accusation against them before the Lord. But these, as natural brute beasts, made to be taken and destroyed, speak evil of the things that they understand not."

So constant and malignant is this work of depreciation and scandalization in regard to our public men that all over the land there are those who suppose that the city of Washington is the center of all corruption, while, what with its parks and its equestrian statuary and its wide streets, and its architectural symmetries, and its lovely homes, it is not only the most beautiful city under the sun, but has the highest style of citizenship. I have seen but one intoxicated man in the more than six months of my residence, and I do not think any man can give similar testimony of any other city on the American continent.

The gavels of our two houses of national legislature will soon fall and adjournment of two bodies of men as talented, as upright, and as patriotic as ever graced the capitol, will take place. The two or three unfortunate outbreaks which you have noticed only make more conspicuous the dignity, the fraternity, the eloquence, the fidelity which have charterized those two bodies during all the long months of important and anxious deliberation. We put a halo around great men of the past because they were so rare in their time. Our senate and house of representatives have five such men where once they had one. But it will not be until after they are dead that they will be appreciated. The world finds it safer to praise the dead than the living, because the departed, having a heavy pile of marble above them, may not rise to become rivals. But, before the gavels of adjournment drop and the doors of Capitol Hill shut, there are one or two things that ought to be done, and let us pray God that they may be accomplished. More forcibly than ever before, congress has been implored to acknowledge God in our constitution. The Methodist church, a church that is always doing glorious things, has in its recent Wilmington conference requested our congress to amend the immortal document, which has been the fondation and wall and dome of our United States government, by inserting the words: "Trusting in Almighty God." If that amendment is made, it will not only please all the good people of the country, but will please the heavens. It was only an oversight or a mental accident that the fathers who made the constitution did not insert a divinely worshipful sentence. They all, so far as they amounted to anything, believed in "God, the Father Almighty, the Maker of Heaven and earth, and in Jesus Christ, His only begotten Son." The constitution would have been a failure had it not been for the divine interference. The members of the convention could agree on nothing until, in response to Benjamin Franklin's request that the meetings be opened by prayer, the Lord God was called on to interfere and help, and then the way was cleared, and all the states signed the document; a historical fact that all the rat terriers of modern infidelity can not bark out of existence. I know that there was an exception to the fact that the prominent men of those times were good men. Tom Paine, a libertine and a sot, did not believe in anything good until he was dying, and then he shrieked out for God's mercy. And Ethan Allen, from one of whose descendants I have received within a few days a confirmation of the incident I mentioned in a recent sermon, as saying to his dying daughter that she had better take her mother's Christian religion than his own infidelity. The article sent me says: "The story has been denied by some of the Allen family, but the Bronsom family, some of whom were with the dying girl, affirm that is substantially true. In such a matter one confirmation is worth more than many denials." So says the article sent me. There is no doubt that Ethan Allen was the vulgarest sort of an infidel, for, sitting in a Presbyterian church, his admirers say he struck the pew in front of him swore out loud, so as to disturb the meeting, and no gentleman would do that. I do not wonder that some of his descendants are ashamed of him; but of course they could not help it, and are not to blame. But all the decent men of the revolution believed in God, and our American congess, now assembled, will only echo the sentiments of the Father when they enthrone the name of God in the constitution. We have no more reason for inserting that acknowledgment of Divinity than our fathers had. Since then the continent has been peopled and great cities from the Atlantic to the Pacific built, and all in peace, showing that there must have been supernal supervisal. Since then the war of 1812, and ours the victory! Since then great financial prostrations, out of which we came to greater prosperity than anything that preceded. Since then sanguinary 1862, 1863, 1864 and 1865, and notwithstanding the fact that all the foreign despotisms were planning for our demolition, we are a united people, and to-morrow you will find in both houses of congress the men who fought for the north and the south, now sitting side by side, armed with no weapon except the pen, with which they write home to their constituents who want to be appointed postmasters. The man who can not see God in our American history is as blind of soul as he would be blind of body if he could not at 12 o'clock of an unclouded noon see the sun in the heavens. As a matter of gratitude to Almighty God, gentlemen of the American congress, be pleased to insert the four words suggested by the Methodist conference. Not only because of the kindness of God to this nation in the past should a reverential insertion be made, but because of the fact that we are to want divine interposition still further in our national history. This gold and silver question will never be settled until God settles it. This question of tariff and free trade will never be settled until God settles it. The question between the East and West, which is getting hotter and hotter, and looks toward a republic of the Pacific, will not be settled until God settles it. We needed God in the 120 years of our past national life, and we will need him still more in the next 120 years. Lift up your heads, ye everlasting gates of our glorious constitution, and let the King of Glory come in! Make one line of that immortal document radiant with omnipotence! Spell at least one word with thrones! At the beginning, or at the close, or in the center, recognize him from whom as a nation we have received all the blessings of the past and upon whom we are dependent for the future. Print that word "God," or "Lord," or "Eternal Father," or "Ruler of Nations," somewhere between the first word and the last. The Great Expounder of the Constitution sleeps at Marshfield, Mass., the Atlantic ocean still humming near his pillow of dust its prolonged lullaby; but is there not some one now living who, in the white marble palace on yonder hill, not ten minutes away, will become the Irradiator of the constitution by causing to be added the most tremendous word of our English vocabulary, the name of that Being before whom all nations must bow or go into defeat and annihilation—"God?"

Again, before the approaching adjournment of our American congress, it ought to be decidedly and forever settled that no appropriations be made to sectarian schools, and that the courtship between church and state in this country be forever broken up. That question seems already temporarily settled. I wish it might be completely and forever settled. All schools and institutions, as well as all denominations, should stand on the same level before American law. Emperor Alexander, of Russia, at his Peterhof palace, asked me how many denominations of religion there were in America, I recited their names as well as I could. Then he asked me the difference between them, and there I broke down. But when I told him that no religious denominations in America had any previleges above the others he could hardly understand it. The Greek church first in Russia. The Lutheran church first in Germany. The Episcopal church first in England. The Catholic church first in Rome. The Mohammedanism first in Constantinople. The emperor wondered how it was that all the denominations in America could stand on the same platform. But so it is, and so let it ever be. Let there be no preference, no partiality, no attempt to help one sect an inch higher than another. Washington and Jefferson and all the early presidents and all the great statesmen of the past have lifted their voice against any such tendency. If a school or an institution can not stand without the prop of national appropriation, then let that school or institution go down. On the other side of the sea the world has had plenty of illustrations of church and state united. Let us have none of the hypocrisy and demoralization born of that relation on this side of the Atlantic. Let that denomination come out ahead that does the most for the cause of God and humanity. Men, institution and religions getting what they achieve by their own right arm of usefulness, and not by the favoritism of government. As you regard the welfare and perpetuity of our institutions, keep politics out of religion.

But now, that I am speaking of national affairs from a religious standpoint, I bethink myself of the fact that two other gavels will soon lift and fall, the one at St. Louis and the other at Chicago, and before those national conventions adjourn, I ask that they acknowledge God in the platforms. The men who construct those platforms are here this morning or will read these words. Let no political party think it can do its duty unless it acknowledges that God who built this continent, and revealed at the right time to the discover, and who has reared here a prosperity which has been given to no other people. "Oh!" says some one, "there are people in this country who do not believe in a God, and it would be an insult to them." Well, there are people in this country who do not believe in common decency or common honesty, or any kind of government, preferring anarchy. Your very platform is an insult to them. You ought not to regard a man who does not believe in God any more than you should regard a man who refuses to believe in common decency. Your pocketbook is not safe a moment in the presence of an atheist. God is the only source of good government. Why not, then, say so, and let the chairman of the committee on resolutions in your national conventions take a pen full of ink and with bold hand head the document with one significant "Whereas," acknowledging the goodness of God in the past, and begging His kindness and protection for the future. Why, my friends, this country belongs to God, and we ought in every possible way to acknowledge it. From the moment that, on an October morning in 1492, Columbus looked over the side of a ship and saw the carved staff which made him think he was near an inhabited country, and saw also a thorn and a cluster of berries (type of our history ever since, the piercing sorrows and cluster of national joys), until this hour our country has been bounded on the north, south, east and west by the goodness of God. The Huguenots took possession of the Carolinas in the name of God. William Penn settled Philadelphia in the name of God. The Hollanders took possession of New York in the name of God. The Pilgrim Fathers settled New England in the name of God. Preceding the first gun of Bunker Hill, at the voice of prayer all heads uncovered. In the war of 1812 an officer came to Gen. Andrew Jackson and said: There is an unusual noise in the camp; it ought to be stopped." Gen. Jackson said: "What is the noise?" The officer said: "It is the voice of prayer and praise." Then the general said, "God forbid that prayer and praise should be an unusual noise in the encampment. You had better go and join them." Prayer at Valley Forge. Prayer at Monmouth. Prayer at Atlanta. Prayer at South Mountain. Prayer at Gettysburg. "Oh!" says some infidel, "the northern people prayed on one side and the southern people prayed on the other side, and so it did not amount to anything." And I have heard good Christian people confounded with the infidel statement, when it is as plain to me as my right hand. Yes; the northern people prayed in one way, and the southern people prayed in another way, and God answered in his own way, giving to the North the reestablishment of the government, and giving to the South larger opportunities, larger than she had ever anticipated, the harnessing of her rivals in great manufacturing interests, until the Mobile and the Tallapoosa and the Chattahoochee are Southern Merrimacs, and the unrolling of great Southern mines of coal and iron, of which the world knew nothing, and opening before her opportunities of wealth which will give ninety-nine per cent more of affluence than she ever possessed; and instead of the black hands of American slaves, there are the more industrious black hands of the coal and iron miners of the South, which are achieving for her fabulous and unimagined wealth.

> "And there are domes of white blossoms > where spread the white tents,
> And there are plows in the track where the > war wagons went,
> And there are songs where they lifted up
> Rachel's lament."

Oh, you are a stupid man if you do not understand how God answered Abraham Lincoln's prayer in the white house, and Stonewall Jackson's prayer in the saddle, and answered all the prayers of all the cathedrals on both sides of Mason and Dixon's line. God's country all the way past; God's country now. Put his name in your pronunciamentos. Put his name on your ensigns. Put his name on your city and state and national enterprises. Put his name in your hearts. We can not sleep well the last sleep, until we are assured that the God of our American institutions in the past will be the God of our American institutions in the days that are to come. Oh, when all the rivers that empty into Atlantic and Pacific seas shall pull on factory bands; when all the great mines of gold and silver and iron and coal shall be laid bare for the nation; when the last swamp shall be reclaimed, and the last jungle cleared, and the last American desert Edenized, and from sea to sea the continent shall be occupied by more than twelve hundred million souls, may it be found that moral and religious influences were multiplied in more rapid ratio than the population. And then there shall be four doxologies coming from north and south and east and west, four doxologies rolling toward each other, and meeting mid-continent, with such dash of holy joy that they shall mount to the Throne—

> "And Heaven's high arch resound again
> With peace on earth, good will to men."

PERPETUAL sunshine occurs on the coast of Peru, where, although it may be misty occasionally, the blue sky is always visible through this whitish veil. Perpetual sunshine when the sun is above the horizon also exists in the Sahara, the great desert of Africa, and in the other rainless regions of the earth.

IT is reported that the petrified remains of a whale, eighty feet in length, have been found in the hills north of Lompoc, a dozen miles or so back from the sea in Santa Barbara county, California.

THE fire commissioners of New York city will send a team of firemen to England to represent that city at the coming tournament in London.

LOUIS LARSON, a window cleaner at the Old Colony building, in Chicago, forgot his safety jacket and fell fifteen stories to instant death.

ANTICIPATORY THEORIZING.

Tariff Results Which Republicans Did Not Expect.

If our high-tariff friends who have recently been complaining about the alleged effect of the present tariff upon business and the industries will pause for a moment and inquire as to their own utterances of ten months ago, they will learn something to their disadvantage. It was in last April and May that a very interesting and cheering upward movement in trade and industry began. The first increases of wages were made in the last days of March or the first week of April. The number of such increases grew from week to week until it was an easy matter to compile from the trade journals a list including several hundred large concerns in which, as prominent republican journals admitted, the daily earnings of more than 500,000 employes had been enlarged. This upward movement was ignored by the high-tariff organs for some time, because they had continually asserted that there could not be any increase of wages or any revival of industry so long as the democratic tariff should be in force.

But at last they were compelled to admit that a revival had come, although the democratic tariff had not been repealed. It was in the middle of May, for example, that the New York Tribune was constrained to speak of it as "the glad recovery" and to begin to point out that "advance in wages" which is very properly called "a blessing." Other republican journals followed our neighbor, and soon there was a full chorus of joyful republican comment upon this upward movement, which, the same journals had been saying, could not take place so long as the tariff duties enacted by the democratic party should remain undisturbed.

They consoled temselves, however, by an explanation to which we desire now to direct their attention. It was that all this recovery was due to a popular expectation that the McKinley tariff would be restored, because a republican victory in 1896 could easily be forseen, and the party, regaining power in 1897, would speedily reenact the old duties. The New York Tribune said on May 13:

> "This recovery is an anticipation. It is discounting the improvement which men have a right to expect where the coming congress brings republican experience and patriotism and common sense to bear upon the difficulties of the country."

We might cite republican opinions of ten or eleven months ago almost without number that the remarkable revival was due not only to expectation of benefits from the present congress, but also to an anticipation of republican success in the elections of this year and of a revision of the tariff on McKinley lines in 1897.

But there came a reaction, and it was to be seen just before the assembling of congress. It was not checked by the exhibition in congress of "republican experience and patriotism and common sense." Indeed, an impression prevails that it was caused in part by apprehension as to what congress might do and has been prolonged by what congress actually has done. For some time past the high-tariff newspapers have been commenting gloomily upon the condition of business and asserting that the democratic tariff is ruining the country.

What we should like to have them explain is why anticipation of republican success and of a McKinley revision of the tariff in 1897 should have a remarkably stimulating and reviving effect in the spring and summer of 1895 and have no such effect at the present time. They are as confident now of success as they were ten months ago, and they hold, of course, that the date of the McKinley revision is nearer now by ten months than it was in June, 1895. If it be true, as they say, that industries are suffering so severely now from depression caused by the present tariff, how was it that this tariff did not so affect them last summer? And if anticipation caused activity and "a glad recovery" then, why should it fail to do so now? There are men who think that "the glad recovery" would not have been interrupted if there had been no session of congress, with its attempt to unsettle business by the Dingley-McKinley tariff revision for this year and its promise of another general tariff act, with still higher duties, to be passed two years hence, and some other disturbing manifestations with which everybody is familiar, but this theory will have no weight with those who see no protection in a tariff the average ad valorem rate of which is 41.75 per cent., while 48.66 per cent. was the annual average under the McKinley act.—N. Y. Times.

Reed's Economy.

Speaker Reed has professed a desire to make a record for economy in the present session. When reminded in 1890 that the Fifty-first would be known as the billion-dollar congress, he blandly replied that this was a billion-dollar country. Reed's first attempt in the present session to juggle with figures was exposed by Mr. Sayers, of Texas, on the floor of the house. Reed's obedient servants had manipulated matters in a manner which made it appear that the appropriations for eight months provided for the expenses of the full year. Even for these eight months, however, the bills come to $600,000,000. There is every reason to believe that the sum for the second session will exceed this, for in the second session the desire for apparent economy will have been removed.—St. Louis Republic.

——Senator Sherman doesn't like the phrase "high tariff" as descriptive of the republican policy in case they shall elect a president and congress. But he says it will be high enough for protection purposes. And how high is that? The average rate under the original Morrill tariff was 32 per cent. Under the republican commission tariff (Arthur's) of 1884 it was 41.63 per cent. Last year, under the Wilson law, it was 41.75. Is not this high enough? Do the "infant industries" require higher protection the older they grow?—N. Y. World.

REED'S ROBBERS.

Reckless Financiering of the Piratical Plunderers.

When the Fifty-fourth congress met its speaker announced retrenchment, economy and reform to be its policy. The profligacy of the Fifty-first congress was to be offset with a frugality that would tie the knot in the purse strings tighter than any democratic house ever tied it. The appropriation bills of the Fifty-fourth congress have all been made up and sent over to the senate. That body is conscientiously augmenting them, and what they will be when they come out of conference no one dares guess. The doubling of the river and harbor bill gives some indication. But, whatever were Speaker Reed's good intentions at the beginning, he found that parties and their policies have their momentum that even a czar's fiat cannot overcome, and that the love of the "old flag and an appropriation," that made the Fifty-first the banner spendthrift of the family, was not a whit diminished by the chastening it got in 1890 and 1892.

The appropriations made by Reed's former congress, the Fifty-first, amounted to $511,505,568. It was the appropriations that were made "permanent" or "continuing," under which contracts were made that succeeding congresses had to make appropriations for, that swelled the actual appropriations of that congress to an amount that earned for it the title of "the billion-dollar congress." Joe Cannon, chairman of the appropriations committee, recently stated that "if Tom Reed had not set down hard, this congress would have spent from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 more than any former congress." In spite of the weight of the speaker's ponderous form squatted on his congress, the amount carried by the appropriation bills that have received the approval of the house is $505,000,746, including about $119,000,000 of "continuing" appropriations, provision for which subsequent congresses will have to make in their appropriation bills. The first session of the record-breaking Fifty-first congress appropriated only $287,722,489.

The first session of the Fifty-fourth surpasses its predecessors by the comfortable excess of $217,278,257; or omitting the "continuing" appropriations, of nearly $100,000,000. With the pressure of a presidential campaign for the nomination and the election taken off, with Tom Reed no longer sitting down hard on it, the short session may be safely trusted to take the banner from the Fifty-first and float it in triumph from its own standard, proclaiming it the unsurpassed and unsurpassable extorter of taxes and distributor of millions. But what a grim comment is this unequalled profligacy on the diatribes of the republicans about the deficit in the treasury. Hypocritically lamenting a "deficiency breeding tariff," unable to agree on any revenue measure, they go gaily on scattering the money about as if the treasury were as overflowing as it was when a democratic administration turned it over to their tender mercies in 1889.—St. Paul Globe.

WILDLY EXTRAVAGANT.

How the Republican Representatives Are Running Things.

"The condition of the treasury" is a puzzling thing. Looked at from the point of view of republican platforms and candidates and "emergency bills," it is little short of appalling; bankruptcy, deficits, criminal incompetency, gloom, no hope till the republicans come to their own. But if it is a question of money to spend for ships and armor and guns and dredging Salt river and building $750,000 courthouses in Oklahoma, there is cash in plenty. Senator Gorman opposed an addition to the naval bill the other day on the ground that "the condition of the treasury" did not warrant wild extravagance. But he was quickly answered that the treasury was actually running over with money—no less than $280,000,000 of cash balance. What senator would think of being economical with a balance like that to draw on? It was patriotism, not money, that was lacking. Anyhow, the democratic party came in for a good cursing whichever way you take it; it has bankrupted the treasury, and then stands by doggedly and refuses to vote a single one of the $280,000,000 it has needlessly taken from the people and heaped up in the vaults at Washington.—N. Y. Post.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

——Messrs. Quay and Platt insist on bringing to attention the fact that there are still a few of the un-McKinleyized.—Washington Star.

——No doubt Hon. William McKinley will soon consider himself quite safe in having some opinion on the money question.—N. Y. Sun.

——With money in this town to bet on McKinley, it looks very much as if Mark Hanna has resumed operations "right under the nose of Tom Platt."—N. Y. Journal.

——Senator Sherman has expressed himself as objecting to the term "high tariff." This looks like republican defection in the major's own state.—Detroit Free Press.

——Mr. Quay, as a presidential candidate, stands on the broad platform that somebody whose name isn't McKinley must be nominated by the St. Louis convention.—Chicago Record.

——Grosvenor and Hanna have McKinley within a dozen votes of the nomination, with a full three weeks yet to figure. Really, that convention seems quite superfluous.—Albany Argus.

——The strenuous efforts of the McKinley managers to fry more fat from the manufacturers is inconsistent with their assertion that McKinley needs only 12 votes to be nominated.—Kansas City Times.

——If McKinley will telegraph a "bar'l" here early this morning he can buy 'em back in bunches. But the trouble with the fellows is that they cannot be depended upon to stay bought.—Illinois State Register.

HUMOROUS.

—Conductor — "Softly, softly, Herr Muller. You are not expected to play first fiddle with your big drum!"—Fliegende Blaetter.

—Deacon Jones—"So John Carvel is among the converted?" Deacon Brown—"Yes, but Carvel is without a past; he won't cut any figure at praise meetings."—Boston Transcript.

—Teacher—"What does h-a-m-m-e-r spell?" Tommy—"Don't know, ma'am." Teacher—"What does your mother drive nails with, stupid?" Tommy—"A stove lifter."—San Francisco Wave.

—Alas," exclaimed the counterfeiter, "that I should have imbibed of the new art movement. If I had not attempted that poster effect, I should now be a free man."—Detroit Tribune.

—Mrs. De Stoile—"Did you enjoy the opera?" Mrs. Fashion—"Very much. We had a box, and the B'Joneses sat right opposite us in the circle. It was glorious!"—Philadelphia North American.

—Theater Manager—"Yours is the best minstrel show we have had here for ten years. Where did you get on to all those new jokes?" Interlocutor—"One of the end men got hold of a file of one of last year's English papers about a year ago."—Sommerville Journal.

—Indispensable.—"I don't think I want a cyclopaedia," said the woman of the house, "but if you have got any nice books for children—" "Great Scott, madam!" exclaimed the unblushing book agent. "We use this cyclopaedia for a children's book at our house altogether. They sit on it at the table."—Chicago Tribune.

—A Remarkable Child.—"Come, little girl, tell me what is your name and how old you are?" asked an old bachelor, who was visiting the Yerger family. The child holds back and refuses to talk. Mother—"That's the way she is. She never likes to talk to gentlemen." "Humph! If she keeps that up, she will make a splendid wife some of these days."—Texas Sifter.

PUTTING A MAN TO SLEEP.

Several Ways Described and No Two of Them Alike.

The man who has just taken gas and had a tooth pulled while under its persuasive influence was sitting in a chair and rubbing the side of his jaw. After the blood had stopped flowing, he unbosomed himself ad libitum to the circle of sympathetic friends.

"I have now been insensible three times from interesting causes," he began. "Once I was knocked out in a glove fight, once I was nearly drowned, and this time I have taken gas."

"What was the difference in the sensations?" asked the man with the yellow whiskers.

"Quite a good deal," answered the victim. "I remember that when I was knocked out in a fight that there was absolutely no accompanying phenomena except a sudden red flash in my eyes. A moment later I found myself sitting on the floor while they were pouring water on me. The back of my head was aching where I had hit the floor, and there was a scratch on my jaw, under the ear. The other fellow had uppercut me as I ducked a right-hander; his wrist had caught my jaw, and that was all there was to it. In ten minutes I was around as chipper as ever. The time I was nearly drowned I experienced nearly all the sensations, I fancy, that come to a man about to die amid the waters, and I want to say right now that all this rot of the novelists about sweet music sounding in the ears and the past life passing before one and the death being painless is an infernal lie. There's no death more terrible. The water rushes into nose and mouth, every breath is a cutting, aching wave of liquid agony, your chest seems bursting from the weight of your lungs and the feeling is one of oppression and suffering from the moment the first drop of water surges into the throat to the time you die or are rescued. This time I have taken gas, and the sensations are more like what the story writers say of drowning. I had a good time while insensible, and was just arguing over a bit of land with a neighbor when I came to and began to spit out chunks of tooth. The after effects? Well, I have a pain in my gums and feel sleepy and shaky on my pins. I think I will take a nap right now."

And the man who had just lost a tooth began a quiet slumber in his chair.—Chicago News.

A Locomotive's Queer Load.

One can never predict exactly what will be the result of a railroad collision. Sometimes the wrecked cars are piled up in an astonishing heap; sometimes they are telescoped; sometimes they are turned over and over, or twisted crosswise on the track, or stood up on end, as a baggageman loves to stand a trunk. But perhaps the queerest of all accidents of this kind occurred recently at Towanda, Pa., where a locomotive drawing a train at full speed ran into three box cars standing on the track. One of these cars was lifted bodily, and almost uninjured, on top of the locomotive, smashing the smokestack and part of the cab. There it remained firmly in place, and the locomotive carried it to the town of Waverly, near by, where a photograph was made, showing the car on its lofty perch.—Scientific American.

He Answered the Question.

The following amusing passage took place between counsel and witness in a disputed will case:

"Did your father give you no parting admonition?"

"He never gave much away at any time."

"I mean to say, what were his last words?"

"They don't concern you."

"They not only concern me, sir," remarked the barrister, severely, "but they concern the whole court."

"Oh, all right," was the reply. "Father said: 'Don't have no trouble when I'm gone, Jim, 'cos lawyers is the biggest thieves unhung.'"—Titbits.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS.

FIVE-DOLLAR HENHOUSE.

It Looks Neat and Tidy and Will Hold Ten to Twenty Hens.

The house outlined in the cut has the following proportions: Sills 3x4, 8 feet long; posts 2x3, 2 feet long; rafters 2x3, 6 feet long. The amount of lumber used was, for sills, 32 feet; posts, 8 feet; rafters, 24 feet; boards, 190 feet; in all, 224 feet. The house is eight feet square, and has a sand bottom.

COST OF HOUSE.

Lumber, 254 feet	$2.00
Building paper, 10 pounds at 2½ cents	.25
Shingles, 700 at $1.50 per M	1.05
Two bunches cheapest clapboards	1.00
Nails	.50
Cost of materials	$4.80

A manure platform two feet wide extends the entire length. There is one roost at the back side of the house. The nest is in the front left hand corner two feet from the floor. Two cheese boxes are used for nests. It is papered on the sides, back and roof, under the shingles and clapboards. It may do with just paper if one wish, and that will make it cheaper. I don't think that it pays, however.

Now let us see what we have. A tight, warm house that looks neat and tidy and will [illegible] 10 to 20 hens, according to the season and the care they have; an ideal place to put a dozen hens and a rooster, to get some eggs that will hatch. No better place to set hens, from one to six in a house, according to the care they have. Do you let biddy take care of her chicks when they are hatched? All right, don't carry them off somewhere; throw out the nests, etc., and put biddy and the chicks on the ground; they are safe, and you don't need to spend much time over that problem. With some poultry netting (small mesh) you can fix a little yard for the chicks outside, when it is time; this will be a good thing till they are big enough to have free range, also in wet weather. A brooder and 50 chicks will just fit one of these houses, too.

OUTLINE OF A CHEAP HENHOUSE.

When fall comes, if you have marketed the male birds, there will be pullets enough left to stock the house for the winter all wonted to their quarters, a point often overlooked by those who want early eggs and many of them. If you have sitters to break up, put them in one of these houses, put in a lively rooster (no nests) and the thing is soon done. No time is spent in making a place to break them up, and their health doesn't suffer during the process. If you wish eggs, you will get about as many from one of these houses, as from twice as big with twice as many hens in it! Did you ever hear a man say, in substance: "Last year I had 20 hens and they laid tiptop; this winter I have 50 hens and they don't lay worth a cent?" Don't put too many hens together.

This house will stand the weather all right for years. You can stand up straight in it. It is quickly cleaned. It is easy to catch a hen in it. A man with brains enough to make poultry pay can build it himself, and can change the size or shape a little. It can be built cheaper, if desired. The man from whom I got the idea had simply two planks, eight inches wide, for sides at the bottom, and the roof was boarded up and down—no rafters or cross pieces, except one at the top. He had no window, summer or winter, just a door covered with netting, not tight; but hens stay in there all winter, and lay, too. He had over 100 of these houses set in his orchard. He sold about 1,600 barrels of apples the year before I visited him. I do not think that anyone gains anything in the end by building too cheap to begin with; shingles and clapboards outlast paper.—Rural New Yorker.

Why Moses Prohibited Pork.

An institute worker says: With regard to the prohibition against the use of pork by Moses, there are differences of opinion. One writer supposes the law prohibited swine because of their filthiness and observes that it is well known with what care and precision the law forbids all filthiness and dirt, even in the fields and camp, as well as in the cities. Another states that the Jews abstained from it in consequence of a leprosy, from which they had severely suffered, and to which the hog, in those climates, is very subject; that throughout Palestine leprosy is an epidemic disease, and, the Israelites being overrun with it at the period of their quitting Egypt, Moses found it necessary to enact a variety of laws respecting it, and prohibiting the use of swine as an article of food was one of these.

Cost of Eggs and Meat.

The nutritive value of eggs and the cheapness of their production are scarcely realized by the public. It may seem rather improbable to state that when meat is 25 cents a pound, the food value of eggs is about 37½ cents a dozen, yet this seems to be the fact. A hen may be calculated to consume one bushel of corn yearly, and to lay 12 or 15 pounds of eggs. This is equivalent to saying that 3 1-10 pounds of corn will produce, when fed to this hen, 1 pound of eggs. A pound of pork, on the contrary, requires about 5 1-3 pounds of corn for its production. Judging from these facts, eggs must be economical, and especially fitted for the laboring man in replacing meat.—Scientific Farmer.

Whatever check in growth occurs, the animal must be stunted to a more or less extent.

GREEN FORAGE CROPS.

Planting Them Is a Good Way of Clearing Land of Weeds.

There are crops that can be grown to take the place of pasture grass and at the same time serve to clear the ground of weeds. It is not to be expected, however, where the land is compelled to produce two or more crops, that it can do so unaided, for that would be impossible, unless the soil was very rich; yet there is a way of growing a large amount of green food and feeding it at the barn while the pasture is being renewed. It is important to keep stock off the pasture land when the grass begins to fail; yet the cows must be provided for, and with green food, as they will not thrive during the summer if compelled to subsist on hay, fodder and grain entirely. Green and succulent foods are essential to the thrift of the animals, promoting digestion, preventing bowel diseases and increasing the flow of milk as well as protecting against the heat of summer.

For cows the broadcasting of oats and peas, to be moved as wanted, and fed to the cows in the barnyard, will provide an excellent substitute for pasture grass, such food being assisted by hay and grain. It will permit of resting the pasture land. Later in the season Hungarian grass may be sown on the same land. As it is a quick-growing crop, providing a cutting every four or five weeks and of a sufficient growth for hay, it will more readily provide green food that is wanted daily, and it will continue to produce green food until it goes to seed or is overtaken by frost. This mode of feeding is styled "soiling" and applies to the practice of growing green food and carrying it to the stock instead of turning the stock on the green food. It also gives a larger amount of food, as a new crop comes up on the space just cut, thus keeping up a continued supply, while the manure saved in the barnyard is an additional item. Labor, however, must not be overlooked, as more attention to stock will be necessary, but the land will provide for twice as many cattle as the same area in pasture.

Where crops are cut frequently the weeds are also mowed down at the same time, being thus destroyed, and, aside from this, any thickly sown crop that makes rapid growth crowds the weeds out. If a piece of land can be cleared of weeds [illegible] it will pay for the labor of soiling the stock.—Philadelphia Record.

COMBINATION HOUSE.

Various Farm Interests Represented Under One Roof.

It is cheaper to build one building having 1,000 square feet of floor space than two buildings having 500 square feet of floor space each. In the latter case the labor is vastly increased also in the amount of lumber required. It follows, then, that the most economical plan is to unite various farm interests under one roof. In pursuance of this idea, the accompanying cut is offered as a suggestion for bringing together under one roof hogs, fowls, a toolshed and a shop where repairs can be made. These interests can well be grouped, because they require for their housing empty floor space, without room above. In the illustration the further end of the building, with large doors, is devoted to the storage of tools and machines, the doors being large enough so that the latter can be driven in, the horses unhitched and led out of large doors on the opposite side of the building. The next two compartments are for fowls and swine, being placed in the center of the building for increased warmth in winter. In the nearer end is a workshop, fitted with bench and other appliances for repairing tools and doing any bit of woodwork that may be needed about the farm or farmhouse. The small space under the roof can be used for the storage of lumber and tools that can be thus piled away, in which case there should be a small gable window in each end of the building. Such a building could well be made a wing to a barn, if desired. If this is done, communication can be had between the barn and the wing. Then the fowls and the hogs should have their quarters next to the barn. Then would come the toolshed, and at the outer end the workshop, so that light can be had from windows in the end wall.—N. Y. Tribune.

COMBINATION FARM BUILDING.

Experiment in Feeding Lambs.

Bulletin 31, of Minnesota station, gives results of some experiments in feeding lambs and wethers. Corn fed with hay produced 20 cents per lamb more profit than barley fed with hay. By weight, corn proved to be worth 70 cents per ton more than barley, $2.65 more than wheat screenings, and $3.45 more than wild buckwheat. The fact that screenings contain weed seeds that are apt to be scattered in the manure, renders them very objectionable. Making one-tenth the ration linseed or cottonseed meal greatly increased profits. Cracked corn and cottonseed meal was the most profitable grain ration. The lambs gave a profit of $1.05 each; the wethers 40 cents each.

Preserving a Corn Crop.

The Vermont station tested four ways of preserving a corn crop for dairy feed; namely, 1, putting in silo, ears and all; 2, cribbing the ears and putting fodder in silo, feeding the two together after grinding the ears; 3, curing in shocks, then running through cutter, ears and all, at time of feeding; 4, curing in field, and husking and grinding ears, and running fodder through cutter at time of feeding. Of the four methods, putting into the silo, ears and all, cut in quarter inch lengths, gave the best results. This silage cost much less, handled much better, went farther and produced more milk than either of the other three feeds.

MEN WHO WEAR NO OVERCOATS.

Letter Carriers, Conductors and Other Classes Who Do Without Them.

"Man is a clothes-wearing animal," says Carlyle in his "Sartor Resartus," but his description of these garments would have been curtailed had a certain class of men, who never wear overcoats, come within the limits of his observation. There are hundreds of men in this city who do not wear overcoats at any time during the year.

Prominent among them are the letter carriers. They do not wear overcoats because it is against the rules of the post office department. A uniform of gray was designed for them, and they have to wear it the year round. Of course the summer uniform is of lighter weight than those they wear during the winter months. The only exception is the rubber coat, which is considered part of the uniform, and is allowed on rainy days. The writer asked a letter carrier if he did not feel the need of an overcoat.

"It would be a little more comfortable just for to-day," he said, "but this weather won't last, and so I'll get through all right without one. The first winter I was in the department it was terrible for me, and I thought I would freeze, but I've got used to being without one now, and don't mind the cold weather at all."

Another great class of workers seldom seen wearing overcoats are the messenger boys. No overcoat is included in their uniform either, but there are no rules prohibiting them from wearing these garments if they desire. At times one may see a messenger with a coat over his uniform, but he is usually a new boy or a delicate chap who cannot stand the cold, for the majority of the messengers do not care to wear coats.

Since the introduction of the new uniforms in the street cleaning department the absence of overcoats on street sweepers is much noticed. Prior to this change these men presented a motley sight during the winter months. On cold days they wrapped themselves in all sorts of ragged and tattered coats, and even tied bagging about their feet in order to keep warm. Although the uniform of white duck does not present a very comfortable aspect, the men keep warm by wearing heavy short coats and a pair or two of heavy trousers underneath, and if they stick to their work properly they will never feel the need of a bulky overcoat.

Elevated railroad guards, as a class, do not wear overcoats, although one is included in the uniform. They usually bundle up snugly underneath their short jacket, and, as they are allowed to pass their time between stations inside the cars, they do not find an overcoat at all necessary to their comfort. Few of them resort to an overcoat excepting in very stormy weather.

Sailors never wear overcoats, and, more than that, they never bundle up around their necks. It is rare to see a sailor with the collar of his pea-jacket turned up around his neck. As a rule they walk along in the fiercest breeze with nearly one-fourth of their chests bared, and, as a class, they are free from colds and diseases of the lungs.

Many health experts have argued about the use of overcoats, and the consensus of opinion is that people wrap up too much in winter time. Many men can afford overcoats who do not wear them except during zero weather. They claim that overcoat wearing is a habit, and not only unnecessary, but detrimental to health. A writer in this city has not worn an overcoat in five years, and he has not had a cold during that period.—N. Y. World.

PLAYING POKER FOR KEEPS.

This Was the Stiffest Game for Years on the Pacific Coast.

"The biggest game of poker I have heard of in the past few years," said one of the Californians at the capitol, "was played in San Francisco about two years ago between Lucky Baldwin and a California cattle man.

"The game was limited, but one by one the players dropped out until nobody was left in but Baldwin and the cattle man. They agreed to waive the limit, and the cattle man set the pace.

"He wanted to bet $10,000. Baldwin stayed and offered to go him $10,000 better. The cattle owner scratched his head, and said he didn't have that much to lose, but he would like to put up his cattle as collateral. Baldwin was agreeable, and the cattle were assessed at ten dollars a head.

"Then the cattleman raised Baldwin $10,000. That made Baldwin scratch his head and hem and haw a little. He said he was in the same predicament as his friend. He didn't have quite that much to lose.

"'But,' said Baldwin, 'you know my house on Market street,' giving the number of the property; 'well, I'll pit that against 750 of your cattle, making a total of $75,000.'

"The cattleman agreed, and then it came to a show down. The ruralist laid down four queens. Baldwin laid down four aces. It was the stiffest game of poker played on the Pacific coast for many long years."—Washington Post.

A Draw.

An Irishman and a Yankee were playing the forfeit game of questions.

"How does the little ground squirrel dig his hole and show no dirt at the entrance?" asked the Irishman.

"Give it up," said the Yankee, at last.

"Sure, you see, he begins at the other end of the hole," said Pat, triumphantly.

"But how does he get there?" queried the Yankee.

"Oh, that's your question, answer it yourself," said Pat.—Harper's Round Table.

Accounted For.

"Kitty," he said to his wife, "you're clever, but you can't touch my mother at making beaten biscuit."

"Of course not," she said; "the woman that brought you up had to have a good fist."—Chicago Record.

BOOK LOVER.

Witty Retort of a Priest to a Vulgar and Ostentatious Parishioner.

Concerning the celebrated Father Darcy, probably the greatest wit of that witty nation, Ireland, it is related, says the Milwaukee Journal, that he once visited the palatial mansion of a perfect specimen of the nouveaux riches who lived in the neighborhood of Dublin at the invitation of its pompous owner. He was shown all over the house, his host taking great pains, as is habitual in such cases, to keep the witty and observant priest well informed as to the cost of all the beautiful things he was shown. Finally, after making the complete tour of the chateau, the library was reached, its tremendous shelves groaning under the weight of thousands upon thousands of volumes, resplendent in the most magnificent bindings. Here they seated themselves, and the host said, with a sigh of snobbish exultation:

"Well, father, I have brought you here last because this is my favorite room. The other rooms maybe give pleasure to my wife and my daughters, but this is my place—right here among these books, who are my friends. And these here on the desk (pointing to a score of ultra-looking volumes), are what I may call my intimate friends."

Father Darcy got up and examined one of them, when a broad grin spread over his good-natured face, as he said:

"Well, it's glad I am to see that you never cut your intimate friends."

FOR COUNTRY'S SAKE.

An Indian Fighter Suffers Agonies from Disease.

He Was in the Battle with the Apaches When Geronimo Was Captured.

From the Press, New York City.

Worn with the exposure of army life on the frontier, and poisoned by the continual drinking of alkali water, Joseph Flegauf returned to Philadelphia eight years ago, broken down in health and unable to do any work.

He had served five years with the Ninth United States Infantry in many a desperate fight with the Indians in Arizona and other frontier States and had won an enviable record. In the fierce conflict when Geronimo, the famous chief of the Apaches, was captured, Mr. Flegauf was among the brave soldiers who, forgetful of everything but duty, charged upon the hostile Indians.

Life on the plains sent to an untimely death many soldiers who were never touched by a redskin's bullet or arrow, and Mr. Flegauf came near such a fate as that. A long time before his time was out he was taken seriously ill, but he stuck to his post until an honorable discharge was finally given to him.

When he reached Philadelphia, the Indian fighter was scarcely more than skin and bones, and for three weeks he lay desperately ill in a hospital. He felt dizzy, and his stomach felt as if it had dried up. These symptoms were accompanied by bloody dysentery, which no medicine seemed to relieve.

After two years of suffering, Mr. Flegauf came to New York and was treated by several physicians. These did not agree, some calling his disease catarrh of the stomach, and others chronic diarrhœa.

In speaking to a reporter about his illness Mr. Flegauf said the doctors helped him, but, with all the money he spent for advice and medicine, he was able to work only a small part of the time. Since moving to his present home, No. 517 West-Forty-second Street, in New York, about a year ago, Mr. Flegauf has been so ill that his voice and hearing almost left him.

Then all medicines failed, and the sick man had little hope of recovery. At this critical time Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People were recommended to Mr. Flegauf, and, almost as a last hope, he began taking them.

"The beneficial effect of the medicine was felt at once," Mr. Flegauf told the reporter, "and before I had taken a box I began to eat with relish. Three boxes made me so much better that I began work and have been able to keep at it since, for five months."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are not a patent medicine in the sense that name implies. They were first compounded as a prescription and used as such in general practice by an eminent physician. So great was their efficacy that it was deemed wise to place them within the reach of all. They are now manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold in boxes (never in loose form by the dozen or hundred, and the public are cautioned against numerous imitations sold in this shape) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company.

THE REASON OF IT.—"Is your daughter going into the country for her health?" "Oh, no. Purely for art. She wishes to become bronzed."—Detroit Free Press.

HEAT expands and cold contracts; but there are exceptions. Coal and gas bills are larger in winter than in summer.—Norristown Herald.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, May 11.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	$2 85	@ 3 40
Select butchers	4 00	@ 4 15
HOGS—Common	3 20	@ 3 45
Good packers	3 25	@ 3 35
SHEEP—Choice	3 25	@ 3 50
LAMBS—Spring	4 65	@ 4 75
FLOUR—Winter family	2 75	@ 3 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 68½
No. 3 red		@ 66
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 31
Oats—No. 2		@ 20½
Rye—No. 2		@ 41
HAY—Prime to choice	14 75	@15 25
TOBACCO—Medium leaf	10 00	@11 75
Good leaf	12 00	@14 00
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@ 8 75
Lard—Prime steam		@ 4 50
BUTTER—Choice dairy	9	@ 10
Prime to choice creamery		@ 17½
APPLES—Per bbl	3 00	@ 3 50
POTATOES—New, Per bbl	2 50	@ 4 00
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 60	@ 3 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 1 north'n	73½	@ 74¼
No. 2 red	69⅝	@ 70⅛
CORN—No. 2 mixed		@ 33⅜
OATS—Mixed	24¼	@ 25
PORK—New mess	10 25	@11 50
LARD—Western	4 80	@ 4 90
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patents	3 80	@ 3 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	66½	@ 67¼
No. 2 Chicago spring		@ 62½
CORN—No. 2	29	@ 29⅛
OATS—No. 2		@ 19
PORK—Mess	7 60	@ 7 65
LARD—Steam		@ 4 55
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	3 40	@ 3 70
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 70
Corn—Mixed	35	@ 35⅛
Oats—Mixed	25¾	@ 26
LARD—Refined		@11 00
PORK—Mess		@10 85
CATTLE—First quality	3 00	@ 3 87½
HOGS—Western	3 70	@ 3 90
INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 65
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 28½
OATS—No. 2 mixed		@ 20½
LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 30	@ 3 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 65
Corn—Mixed		@ 30
Oats—Mixed		@ 21
PORK—Mess		@ 9 75
LARD—Steam	5 50	@ 5 75

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

☞ Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills, 25 cents.

TRUE statesmanship is the art of changing a nation from what it is into what it ought to be.—W. R. Alger.

YELLOWSTONE PARK & COLORADO

Personally Conducted Tours.

The Burlington Route will run five personally conducted tours during the summer to Colorado and Yellowstone Park. The dates are June 23, July 7, July 14, July 21 and July 28. Write for illustrated pamphlet of the Park and book of the tours.

L. W. WAKELEY, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Louis.

TO HAVE a respect for ourselves guides our morals; and to have a deference for others governs our manners.—Sterne.

The Significance of a Coated Tongue

Upon the tongue, yellowness of the skin and eyeballs, nausea and uneasiness beneath the right ribs and shoulder blade, is that the victim of these discomforts is bilious. The "proper caper" under such circumstances is to take Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which also cures chills and fever, constipation, dyspepsia, rheumatic and kidney complaints and nervousness.

RICHES do not exhilarate us so much with their possession as they torment us with their loss.—Gregory.

FITS stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free. Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

A SENTENCE, well couched, takes both the sense and the understanding.—Feltham.

I AM entirely cured of hemorrhage of lungs by Piso's Cure for Consumption.—LOUISA LINDAMAN, Bethany, Mo., Jan. 8, '94.

VIRTUE itself offends when coupled with forbidding manners.—Bishop Middleton.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

The many imitations of HIRES Rootbeer simply point to its excellence—the genuine article proves it.

Made only by The Charles E. Hires Co., Philadelphia. A 25c. package makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere.

"No Foolin."

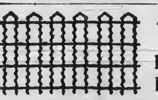
ST. JACOBS OIL DOES NOT "FOOL 'ROUND"; IT GOES [illegible] TO WORK ON PAIN AND DRIVES IT OUT AND "SHUTS IT OFF" FROM RETURNING. THAT'S BUSINESS.

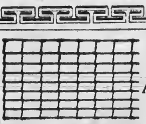
"It's a Good Thing. Push it Along."

Battle Ax PLUG

A GREAT BIG PIECE FOR 10 CENTS

Why buy a newspaper unless you can profit by the expense? For 5 cents you can get almost as much "BATTLE AX" as you can of other high grade brands for 10 cents. Here's news that will repay you for the cost of your newspaper to-day.





STEEL WEB PICKET FENCE.

CABLED FIELD AND HOG FENCE.

Also CABLED POULTRY, GARDEN AND RABBIT FENCE.

We manufacture a complete line of Smooth Wire Fencing and guarantee every article to be as represented. Ask your dealer to show you this Fence. ☞ CATALOGUE FREE.

DE KALB FENCE CO., 122 HIGH ST., DEKALB, ILL.

A SHINING EXAMPLE of what may be accomplished by never varying devotion to a single purpose is seen in the history of the McCormick Harvesting Machine Co., Chicago. For 65 years they have simply been building grain and grass-cutting machinery, and while there are probably forty manufacturers in this line, it is safe to say that the McCormick Company builds one-third of all the binders, reapers and mowers used throughout the entire world.

CUBA and her STRUGGLE for FREEDOM. Well-known Author. Fine Illustrations. AGENTS WANTED by S. S. SCRANTON & CO., Hartford, Conn.

OPIUM and WHISKY habits cured. Book sent FREE. Dr. B. M. WOOLLEY, ATLANTA, GA. NAME THIS PAPER every time you write.

A. N. K.—E. 1604

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS PLEASE state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER.

Wednesday, May 13, 1896.

Rates of Subscription:
One year.............................. $1 50.
Six months.............................. 75.
Three months.............................. 40.
☞ Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER

SOLICITS YOUR

Job Work,

NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS.

Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.

Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

The mountain forests swarm with squirrels.

Lexington is to have bucket shops and pool rooms.

The fourth oil well has been found on Beaver creek.

Nineteen fox hounds were sold at Winchester for $508.

It is calculated that the school per capita will be much smaller for this year.

William Rue, of Danville, had his hand amputated and died of blood poison.

Workmen repairing a house in Frankfort found a 50 year-old bottle of whisky.

Wm. Blair, of Wittsburg, took blood poison in a small scratch on the foot and died.

Frank Royse, a noted character of Metcalfe county, left this world via morphine route.

The German-American Title Co., of Louisville, assigned. Liabilities, $209,000; assets, $225,000.

Six heirs to an eighty million dollar fortune in England, have been found in Daviess county.

The report of the hanging of a wife beater at Elliston, Grant county, last week, was a fake pure and simple.

A Denver, Col., bank failure caught Shelbyville capitalists for $5,000, and they may have to pay an additional assessment.

The Court of Appeals has decided that a will may be probated at any time and not necessarily on court day, as is usually done.

A Graves county lady is evidently heeding the scriptural injunction to multiply the earth, as she has given birth to five bouncing boys at one time.

Mosquitoes are worse this year than for several years past. The bottom lands are alive with them, and they are making themselves perceptibly felt.

In the Scott county circuit court Joe Alexander, colored, was given two years in the penitentiary for shooting conductor Durham of the Q. & C. last December.

The Madisonville Hustler is authority for the statement that Mrs. L. M. Brown has a couple of black Spanish hens that for some time have been averaging four eggs each per day.

The Morgan County Messenger says large quantities of fish, many of them from eighteen inches to two feet long, are being killed in Licking river in that county by dynamiters.

It is said that within the past twelve years more than one hundred persons have been killed on the main street of the town of Jackson. Only one man has ever been hanged in the county.

Rhoda Hopson, an abnormally fat negro woman of Caldwell county, was shot fair in the abdomen by a neighbor boy, who used a shotgun, but the shot failed to penetrate the layer of fat and the woman suffered but temporary inconvenience.

The Hon. George Towery, of Dixon, is indeed an unfortunate man as far as matrimonial ventures are concerned, says the Madisonville Hustler. He married less than 2 months since and last Monday his wife died. During the past two years he has had the misfortune to lose, by death, three wives.

At Richmond, Wood Royston was convicted of housebreaking in the Circuit Court, and sentenced to the penitentiary for two years. The Judge, the jury, Commonwealth's Attorney, Sheriff and other prominent citizens signed a petition to the Governor asking for a pardon, saying the wrong man was convicted.

CROP AND STOCK.

Army worms have made their appearance in McCracken county. Cut-worms are also abundant and are injuring the young crops.

Owing to the drouth or the very excess of bloom a large proportion of the fruit have shriveled up, until there will be only a fair crop matured.

Tobacco plants are a failure with a great many, the seed having either failed to come up or else the young plants have been destroyed by insects.—Georgetown News.

The Western Tobacco Journal says of the tobacco crop: "The reports from the country are very favorable for a good setting this year, [illegible] at present it is ver[illegible] but if there are good rains the later part of this month, it will be very satisfactory to the grower."

This week Aaron Waller, a Union countian, of course, slipped up the Wabash and scooped in all the available corn in that section. The amount purchased was about 150,000 bushels, and the price paid was twenty-five cents on the bank.—Uniontown Telegram.

Mules are becoming a scarce article in Clark and Central Kentucky. Good mules are bringing big prices. Everything points to a still greater advance in prices, and predictions are made that good mules will command more money next season than at any time within fifteen years. There is a very encouraging feeling among our stock men and farmers in this regard, and probably more mares will be bred this season than ever before. There is a disposition also to breed to the best jacks, which is a still further encouraging sign, as a good mule costs no more to raise than a poor one, and will bring considerably more money.—Winchester Democrat.

◆

THE editors of the Williamstown Courier are divided on the money question, and on different pages of the paper they expound their respective views, and the subscribers pay their money and take their choice.

◆

ONLY a few years ago the leading gold bug Democrats of the present day were telling the people that the financial policy of this government was being dictated by the money sharks who hold forth on Wall Street, in the city of New York, and that the country would go to the demnition bow-wows if they were permitted to continue their influence at Washington. The influence complained of and denounced continues to prevail in the departments at Washington, and from the present financial distress the public can infer how near this country has approached the destination predicted for it by the men who are now aiding and abetting in intensifying the harrowing results of a policy which, from its inception until recently, they declared was laden with the direst of evils. Had they remained faithful to the cause they first espoused, they could now enjoy the distinction of prophets.

◆

The latest extra Legislative session talk here is that friends of the present administration have undertaken to negotiate an understanding or agreement between certain members of both Houses and both parties in the General Assembly, as now constituted. The proposition, so the rumor goes, is that five Democratic Senators agree with five Republican House members on the financial measures needed; agree that no senatorial election all be attempted, and that they will use their influence and balance of power in each house toward the prompt enactment of the urgency measures agreed upon. A politician who claims to know that such negotiations are going on, says that they are not attempted at the instance or even suggestion of the Governor, but are an honest effort made by some who know that he will refuse to be responsible for the calling of an extra session, unless he has some sort of assurance that it will not result in a long, useless, fruitless session devoted to a political and partisan contest.—Capital.

OUR NEIGHBORS

CARROLL COUNTY

[News]

Willis Dunn caught four fox squirrels, last week, one of which had a beautiful long white tail.

The condition of Dr. Hiner for the past few days is somewhat improved, which will be grateful news to his many friends.

The first invoice of wool of the season was delivered at the Carrollton Woolen Mills, last Saturday, which is several weeks earlier than usual. The prices paid was from 12 to 15 cents.

The dry weather has caused the demand for water to be great, and may workmen are employed in digging ditches, while taps are being made as fast as possible and the plumbing business is booming.

[Democrat.]

A few candidates are beginning to circulate. Too early, boys.

Drummers all say that Carrollton is the best town they strike in their travels.

Mrs. B. L. Gaines, who has been confined to her bed for a month past with sciatica is a shade better, though still quite helpless.

John S. Gaunt is engaged with the Hon. A. E. Wilson, of Louisville, in a big case pending in Henry county. They represent the Phoenix Life of Hartford, which is sued for $7000, under a policy that is strongly clouded with suspicion of fraud. It was taken out on the life of a man who was in the poor house, and who died of consumption the day after the policy issued. Indeed, it is believed by some that he died before the policy issued. His name was Frank Kelly, and he had long been sick with consumption. Of course, other persons furnished the money to pay the premium. Several are thought to be implicated, including the poor house physician. Able lawyers are on the other side.

—§§—

GRANT COUNTY

[Courier]

Mr. John A. Vest, one of Grant county's aged and respected citizens, died of cancer of the stomach on Friday, May 1.

The committee sent to Frankfort by Judge McMillan to go before the State Board of Equalization succeeded in saving the county about $2,000 in taxes.

Hon. A. G. DeJarnett has been very ill since Sunday. A very severe hemorrhage of the bowels on Sunday night prostrated him and he has been in a precarious condition since.

Hon. W. W. Dickerson, James A. and C. E. O'Hara, were in Georgetown Tuesday, making arrangements to try the damage suit of Mrs. Jane Glackin vs Jas. A. O'Hara for the killing of J. H. Glackin. Suit is for $10,000 damages.

—§§—

OWEN COUNTY

[News]

Dick Lee, while fishing in Eagle creek, last week, captured a leech that measured 6 inches in length.

The little children of Frank Jacobs, of Sanders, that were badly bruised in the runaway smash up are getting well.

The shower last week was too light to benefit the crops much. The prospects for tobacco plants are very poor.

The county officials, Judge Lee, W. P. Swope, Frank Thomas, J. G. Todd and Judge Green did a good days work with the State Board of Equalization, last Friday, by their little trip to Frankfort. The State Board had raised the assessment of Owen 16 per cent. on town lots and 12 per cent. on farm lands and chattles. The officers here made such convincing proof of the correctness of the Assessor's assessment that the board knocked off the raise on town property and reduced the 16 per cent. raise of real estate to 5 per cent. This is good work in view of the fact that Grant county with a strong lobby was unable to get the board to reduce the 33 per cent. raised in that county.

[Herald]

The drouth is indeed getting to be alarming.

The like of potato bugs was never known before.

The Owenton meat stores are now permitted to be kept open on Sunday morning until 8 o'clock.

—§§—

GALLATIN COUNTY.

[Independent]

The dry weather this spring has killed nearly all the clover sown this season, and the oats and wheat crops will be next to nothing from the same cause.

There is a very poor showing for a tobacco crop on account of the general scarcity of plants. The shortage of plants is reported from every quarter, and is attributed to the extremely dry season.

John J. Richards and family have moved from near Napoleon to Walton, Boone county, where he has bought a half interest in a merchandise store with his brother-in-law, Wede Dean. Mr. Richards is an excellent gentleman in every way, and his many friends hope he will be eminently successful and happy in his new home.

Reports from all of this section indicate a shortage in the apple crop this year. Nearly all reports state that where the trees bore heavily last year—and last season the crop was very extensive—the trees have no apples of consequence this year. The present indications are not for more than a half a crop, but it is generally believed that the fruit will be of a superior quality. Pears will be short, but all other fruit, especially peaches, cherries and grapes, promise an abundance.

Ex-Congressman Silas Adams died at his home at Liberty, Casey county, of pneumonia, last week.

POLITICAL.

The monthly statement of the condition of the State Treasury shows a deficit of $1,160,051.63. The outstanding unpaid warrants have increased during the month of April from $836,895,49 to $1,149,329.57.

There is no need of anybody getting excited over who may be a candidate for any place, and no necessity for any hard feelings in the matter. Conservatism and good nature is far better in such matters.

It is reported from Frankfort that the school per capita for next year is going to be much smaller than in past years. The annual census of school children is being taken in the school districts of the State. The news from all the census-takers shows a decided increase in the number of children of school age. This fact, together with the mistake of last year, which makes the school fund of the past year considerably short of the amount expected, and the additional fact that the revenue of this year will be short of the usual sum, will make the per capita below the water mark.—Louisville Post.

CANCER CURED

—AND A—

LIFE SAVED

By the Persistent Use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"I was troubled for years with a sore on my knee, which several physicians, who treated me, called a cancer, assuring me that nothing could be done to save my life. As a last resort, I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after taking a number of bottles, the sore began to disappear and my general health improve. I persisted in this treatment, until the sore was entirely healed. Since then, I use Ayer's Sarsaparilla occasionally as a tonic and blood-purifier, and, indeed, it seems as though I could not keep house without it."—Mrs. S. A. FIELDS, Bloomfield, Ia.

AYER'S

The Only World's Fair Sarsaparilla.

Ayer's Pills Regulate the Liver.

NOTICE.

The following persons are authorized to receive and to receipt for assessments made by the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company: John Stephens, Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, W. M. Rogers, F. A. Utz, C. C. Sleet, Harry Adams, Wilson & Riddell, C. S. Smith, J. J. Huey, J. W. Rouse, Hankins & Davis, R. Y. Randall, Will Surface, B. W. Adams.

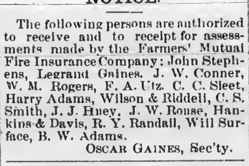
OSCAR GAINES, Sec'ty.

Special Election Notice.

The policy holders in the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Boone co., Ky., are hereby notified that a special election will be held in Burlington, at 10 a. m., Monday, June 1st, 1896, for the purpose of electing a president for said company, said office being rendered vacant by the death of John S. Huey. And at the same time and place a vote will be taken on the proposition to amend the by-laws of said company in reference to filling vacancies in the office of President. All policy holders are requested to be present as the presence of a majority of them is necessary before the amendment can be made.

OSCAR GAINES, Secretary.

John Allison,



Undertaker

—AND—

Embalmer,

COR. PIKE & RUSSELL STS.,

COVINGTON, - KENTUCKY

Independent of Undertakers' Union.

SEAL BIDS

For the refreshment stand at the Odd-Fellows' picnic at the Harvest Home Grounds on June 6th, 1896, will be received by the undersigned until 12 m. on the 23d inst. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

W. L. RIDDELL,
Ch'm'n. Com Arrangements.

G. H. HACKSTADT,

Ludlow, Ky.,

MANUFACTURER OF

ALL KINDS OF VEHICLES.

Best Buggies on Earth

FOR THE

Price, $35 and UP

W. C. BROWN, Agent
BURLINGTON, KY.

☞ A good Investment. What does it mean? To secure a Good Value for your money. These Values are offered as long as they last.

Men's All-Wool Nicely Finished, Good Weight Sack Suits at - $5.00
Same in Boys' Sizes, - - - - - - $4.50
Men's All-Wool Pants, - - - - - - $1.25

We have advertised ourselves as the RELIABLE CLOTHIERS—any statement we may make can be depended upon. When we say that these suits are Bargains at $4.50 and $5.00 we know it to be a fact. We will appreciate inspection whether you desire to purchase or not.

ROLFES & WACHS,

RELIABLE CLOTHIERS,

S, W. Cor Pike Street & Madison Ave., COVINGTON, KY.

PURE BRED CHESTER WHITE HOGS.

La : Belle : Herd

—OF UP TO DATE—

CHESTER WHITE HOGS.

THE KEYSTONE DEHORNING CLIPPER IS THE MOST HUMANE, RAPID AND DURABLE KNIFE ON THE MARKET FOR DEHORNING PURPOSES, AND IS MADE FOR THE USE OF FARMERS AND DAIRYMEN

SEND FOR CIRCULAR TO A.C. BROSIUS, COCHRANVILLE, PA.

Also agent for Dehorner, and Dehorning done at reasonable rates.

ALSO AGENT FOR

AEROMETER

EVERY FARMER NEEDS ONE.

Best and Cheapest Wind-Mill Made.

COME AND SEE IT.

T. J. HUGHES, - - - BEAVER LICK, KY.

Farm Implements.

E. F. HARMEYER,

534 Walnut St. CINCINNATI, O.

Chilled and Steel Plows, Spike Tooth and Disc Harrows, Corn Drills and Planters, One and Two-Horse Cultivators, &c.

Headquarters for the ☞ CELEBRATED "EUREKA MOWERS."

Read this and take Advantage of it.

FINE BUGGIES

Now is the time to have your

CARRIAGE WORK done at the lowest possible CASH PRICES.

REPAIRING a specialty. New work always on Hand. General Smithing of all kinds.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

Call and see our prices before purchasing.

KYLE & BENTLER,
Florence, Ky.

E. H. RIGGS,

—Dealer in—

HARDWATE, STOVES, LIME,

—CEMENT, ETC.—

TIN, IRON AND SLATE ROOFING.

FLY SCREENS NOW ON HAND.

Erlanger, : : : Ky.

Wm. F. GOETZE

Scientific Optician.

Headquarters at Hornberger's Jewelry Store,

LAWRENCEBURG, - - INDIANA.

Your eyes tested free of charge and correct glasses fitted at moderate prices.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

If your eyes are effected in the least, give me a call and don't run chances of ruining your vision by buying from peddlers or quacks.

MOST IN QUANTITY. BEST IN QUALITY.

WORMS!

WHITE'S CREAM VERMIFUGE

FOR 20 YEARS

Has led all WORM Remedies.

EVERY BOTTLE GUARANTEED.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Prepared by
RICHARDSON MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS.

FARM FOR SALE.

A good farm of 76 acres, between Bellevue and Petersburg, near Woolper ford—good house, good barn and necessary outbuildings. The sale will be on easy terms. OWEN ALLEN.

Scientific American Agency for

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.

For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the

Scientific American

Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address, MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

COME TO THIS OFFICE for JOB WORK

NOTICE.

All those indebted to me for taxes are hereby notified that I am compelled to close up my tax accounts and will proceed to enforce thier collection by law if not paid by March 1st, 1896. My books are in the hands of Lassing & Riddell, attorneys, Burlington, Ky. Call and settle with them and save costs.

D. BEALL, Ex.-Sheriff
Boone County.

Subscribe for the RECORDER.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXI. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, MAY 20, 1896. NO. 30.

By virtue of an order of the Democratic State Executive Committee, a mass meeting of the Democrats of Boone will be held at Burlington, on the 30th day of May, at 2 p. m., solar time, for the purpose of choosing delegates to the District and State conventions called to meet at Lexington the 3d day of June, 1896, Boone county will be entitled to 10 delegates in said convention.

D. E. Castleman,
Chairman Executive Committee.
B. L. Rice, Secretary.

Ex-Governor Campbell, of Ohio says on the financial question: "If Treasury officials had observed the law and paid coin—silver and gold—when the bond clique were depleting the gold reserve to force a bond issue for them to fatten on, we would have been saved the three issues of bonds made during this Administration, and the public debt would now be smaller by some $240,000,000. It was sticking to a gold standard and refusing to pay silver when it should have been paid under the law which made these bond issues imperative."

The Democrats of this county should bear in mind that they are called to meet in mass convention in Burlington, May 30th, to select delegates to represent the county in the State convention to be held in Lexington on June 3d. Let every Democrat in the county attend the mass meeting.

The verdict in the Scott Jackson case met the approbation of nearly everybody in this part of the country. But it is generally believed that the Court of Appeals will reverse the lower court, and that the fight will be kept up until Jackson is cleared or given a short term in the penitentiary.

The Courier Journal's continous scrapping with the Democratic party has turned Kentucky over to the Republicans if it has done anything. It first delivered its Congressional district to the enemey, and followed up its gift by handing over the entire State.

The most exciting State convention held this year was that held by the Missouri Republicans last week. Broken heads and discolored optics were very numerous when that deliberative body adjourned. Filley and his followers controlled the convention.

Gov. Bradley soon acquired a rep. for pardoning penitentiary convicts, and in a short time he was completely snowed under with petitions for pardons, and had he granted all the pardons sought, the penitentiary would now be about empty.

The name of the Banner Democrat has been changed to the Trimble Banner, and is now edited by W. L. Buchanan, who is not without experience on the tripod. Here is success to you, Bro. Buchanan.

The silver and the gold men are both publishing figures, showing how easily they will carry the Chicago convention. Each is claiming they will have a Majority of about one hundred delegates.

McKinley is feeling safe so far as his nomination for the Presidency is concerned. He nows has a large number of votes he could spare, and then beat the combined vote of his opponents.

Walling says Jackson is guilty of murdering Pearl Bryan, and ought to be hung for it. Walling ought to get it in the neck also, for the part he took in the murder.

So far as making the nomination is concerned the St. Louis convention will be a big ratification meeting. The fight over the platform will not amount to much.

The nearer the Chicago convention approaches the more the Democratic leaders come out for bimetallism. They believe the trend is in that direction.

It is claimed that it rained fish at Anderson, Indiana, one day last week. Some of the fish picked up were four inches long.

The new battle-ship, Oregon, has the best record for speed of any battle-ship launched by Uncle Sam.

The Democratic State convention which will meet in Lexington, Jnne 3, will be a sultry one.

Hon. J. D. Hiles, of compulsory educational fame, is a candidate for Congress in his district.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

As you continue to make the Recorder a medium for the exchange of thought, and so long as that exchange is conducted with the view of arriving at truth in finance, without intending to hurt the feelings of others, I feel like again addressing you.

The greater the amount of redemption money the better the price of production. A small am't of redemptiou money the less the price. This is axiomatict.

The use of anything creates a demand for, and enhances the value of, the thing used. I recollect when potatoes were not commonly used and necessarily were of little value. They are now on every table, creating a demand. Petatoes are now low because of the great supply; but the supply being the same would not potatoes be higher if there was more redemption meney, according to the above axiom?

Suppose the government would say that each family should only use one bushel per year, they would fall in price as soon as the one bushel was used. So with silver when she says no more shall be coined.

I have said that use enhances the value of the thing used. So the price of silver is increased because in use. I concede the point, but the increase passes over to gold because it is measure and redeemer of silver. enhancing the value of gold and lessening the value of production.

Mr. Bradley, in speaking of silver says: "Silver knows that its redeemer liveth," but neither he nor Hon. Mr. Carlisle tells the people that silver's redeemer is a borrowed gold dollar, for they know the people would consider them unsound teachers of fiscal economy.

But suppose we give to silver an unit of value. It would no longer be redeemable by gold, and the enhancement of value by its use would remain with silver and not necessarially enhance the value of gold. It would also increase the amount of redemption money and enhance production, enabling the producer to more easily pay his debts.

Production is sustaining the government fiat ratio of 16 to 1, when, commercially, it is 32 to 1. Let me illustrate. Liverpool is our wheat market and a gold market. We send wheat to the value of 32 to 1 and obtain the gold dollar. If we could obtain U. S. silver dollars at 32 to 1, we would lose nothing. But we can only obtain 16 to 1 in U. S. dollars, because that is its fiat, causing the producer to lose the difference between 32 and 16 to 1. I question whether unlimited coinage of silver redeemable whether we could sustain the parity of 16 to 1. But, by giving silver an unit value and redeemable, I think that the ratio of 16 to 1 would be maintained with unlimited coinage.

If the producer would immediately exchange his production for what he desires, he would lose nothing, no matter what might be the medium of exchange, i. e. if he received little he would have little to pay, or, if copper was the medium he would obtain as much of necessities as if gold be the medium.

But people deal greatly in credit, and that credit is expressed in dollars and cents and time, during which time the dollars and cents may have enhanced in value as compared with what he has to produce the dollars and cents, enabling the creditor to confiscate the difference. This has been the case since 1873, when redemption money was halved, placing upon the other half the burden which the two halves performed, doubling its value with lowering of everything measured by it.

Mr. Carlisle says it is certainly not wrong to pay in the money that we have. I answer, he is right if money remains of the same value and wrong if it does not so remain.

Mr. Carlisle's picture of the disastrous results if we give an unit to silver is based upon the idea that silver would still stay at 32 to 1. He does not contemplate the fact that by taking the unit value and redemption powers from silver it has been reduced from 32 to 16 to 1, and that restoration of these conditions would restore or tend to restore the 16 to 1. I do not believe it could be done forthwith, because the influence might be slow, but would possess the speed which the influence of this great country possesses.

When a crediter can obtain the money which has the most commercial value, he will always demand it, and by its use increase its value and increase the disparity of the two metals.

If a country wants to maintain a certain parity, she must pay with metal which is inclined to fall below statute parity, because use enhances the value of the thing used, especially when the thing used has an unit value and not redeemable. I, therefore, think that when the treasurer pays gold he is violating the law of parity.

The President is opposed to the endless chain which depletes the gold. Let me say that anything redeemable by gold will so deplete the the treasury. Greenbacks, treasury-notes, banknotes, silver certificates or silver itself can be used to take from the treasury its gold. I, therefore, conclude that the President is in favor of gold and bank currency, backed by the fiat of individuals or corporations, instead of currency backed by the fiat of the government.

We should restore silver to its old time powers, enabling us to sustain a paper currency, backed by both metals, with greater ease than when backed by one metal.

The whole argument of monometallism is based on intrinsic value gold would be worth when deprived of its money functions, only what the arts could use.

Many are in favor of international action. If international action could vary the value of silver or gold even to a small degree, the agreement for intrinsic value is clearly set aside. And if the intrinsic value agreement is good, then international agreement would be futile.

England being the creditor nation will not consent to any international arrangement that would force her from the gold standard.

It seems to me that any reasonable mind would conclude that the present plan of bond issues to keep up the gold standard will bleed the government of its credit. row from one to pay another, I will soon be in a condition that no one will give me a loan. And these loans will create a debt I fear our children can not pay, and then the result would be Irish tenancy.

Thomas Jefferson said that "the soil, with its products is the true source of all wealth, comfort and luxury. It is the grand exchequer of the world that honors all drafts however large. It is the source of life itself. I am not amongst those who fear the people. They and not the rich, are our dependence for continued freedom. And to preserve their independence we must not let our rulers load us with [illegible] debts."

John A. Logan, nearly 20 years ago said: "I can see, as a result of this legislation, our business operations crippled and wages for labor reduced to a mere pittance. I can see the beautiful prairies, which are blooming as gardens, with cheerful homes, rising as white towers along the pathway of improvement, again sinking back to idleness. I can see the people of the West groaning and burdened under taxation to pay debts of States, counties and cities, incurred when money was abundant and bright hopes of the future were held out to lead them on. I can see the people of the Western States, who are producers, reduced to the condition of serfs to pay interest on public and private debts to the sharks of Wall Street, and Thread Needle St., London, England."

Andrew Jackson: "No power on earth, so help me God, shall control the key to nation's fund but the United States itself."

Quotations from Abraham Lincoln, and Sir Francis Bacon could be cited, but I pass to contemplate another matter.

The Senate of the United States attached silver coinage to measures for revenue or tariff, which action has been frowned upon by many Democrats. This same idea was advocated in the lower house in 1878, when the Bland-Allison act was under discussion (I take this from a clipping) that a silver coinage advocate used the following extraordinary language: "Our power of legislation on this subject will not be exhausted by the passage of this measure, and we ought not to halt for a single moment in our efforts to complete the work of relief inaugurated by it.

The struggle now going on can cease and ought not to cease until all industrial interests of the country are fully and finally emancipated from the heartless domination of syndicates, stock exchanges and every great combination of money grabbers in this country and in Europe. Let us, if we can do no better pass bill after bill, embodying in each some one substantial provision for relief and send them to the executive for his approval. It he withholds his signature and we are unable to secure the necessary vote here or elsewhere to enact them into laws notwithstanding his veto, let us as a last resort, suspend the rules and put them into the general appropriation bills with the distinct understanding that if the people can get no relief the government can get no money."

I ask, do you know this man?

Let us make another quotation from the same speech: "According to my view of the subject, the conspiracy which seems to have been formed here and in Europe to destroy by legislation and otherwise, from three-sevenths to one-half of the metallic money of the world, is the most gigantic crime of this or anyother age."

If a majority of the Senate should at any time say, "unless the mints are open to the free coinage of silver let it be remembered that the proposition first came from the man who now presides in the treasury department under the benign administration of the great apostle of sound money."

W. B. Grubbs.

In 1894 the rainfall here was about 14.31 incher; in 1895, about 11.56 inches; and so far this year it has been about 8 inches. The annual rainfall in this locality should be 42 inches. These figures show that we are now short over 70 inches of rain since January 1, 1894, taking the reports of the Cincinnati Station as a basis. Such deficiencies bear down hard on the farmers, and the results are felt in every quarter.

It makes no difference what platform the Chicago convention adopts as regards the financial question, the Democrats of this country will be found in line at the November election. They believe in bowing to the will of the majority, and that is the only way by which a party organization can be sustained.

It seems that somebody doubted the sincerity of Esq. Hugh Montgomery, when he stated that if elected to the office of Judge of the Gallatin county court, he would not accept a salary greater than $116 per annum, and he makes and publishes an affidavit in support of his declaration.

The State Prohibition convention will meet in Covington, May 25th and 26th. Geo. W. Bain and John G. Woolley, will address a mass meeting, Monday evening the 25th. One and one-third far for the round trip will be given by all railroads leading to Covington, or Cincinnati.

Seven persons escaped from the Newport jail, last Saturday evening. Jackson and Walling claim that they could have gone had they so desired, but they are determined not to leave the bastile until they come out free men, under the orders of the court.

The A. P. A. organization is having some trouble in deciding upon a suitable person to support for President. It is claimed by some of its members that Major McKinley endorses the principles of the order, and is the proper candidate to support.

The farmers of this county have suffered considerable in the last four years from drouths, and the long, dry period this spring begins to shake their faith in this part of the country being any longer adapted to agricultural pursuits.

The Democratic primary for the selection of candidates to be elected to the county offices in 1897, will take place in Gallatin county one week from next Saturday.

Let all the Democrats turn out on the 30th inst. to the mass meeting. Don't stay at home and then grumble about the result of the meeting.

The Kentucky G. A. R. is in camp at Somerset.

The Hebron Democratic Club held an enthusiastic meeting in the Hebron town hall on the 16th inst., and the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

We, the members of the Hebron Democratic Club,

Resolve, That we view, with alarm, the financial distress now hovering over our country.

Resolved, That we believe that one of the remedies for the present evils to be the free coinage of silver at any ratio that may be adopted by the national convention.

We would respectfully recommend to the Democrats of Boone county, John Stephens and W. B. Grubbs as suitable men to represent the Bullittsville and Constance precincts in the State convention.

We indorse the Hon. N. S. Walton for District Delegate to the Chicago convention.

KENTUCKY MIDLAND RAILROAD.
[Via Georgetown.]

P. M.	A.M.			A.M.	P. M
d 4:50	z 10:13	Ar Walton	Lv	7:54	z
4:12	8.52	Ar Williamstown	Lv	8:32
3:48	8.28	Ar Corinth.	Lv	8:55	5:48
3:30	8:13	Ar Sadieville	Lv	9:12	6:05
2:20	7:50	Ar Georgetown	Lv	9:40	6:33
1:00	6:55	Lv Frankfort	Ar	11:30	7:25

z Daily. d Except Sunday.

C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.

Miss Helen Merci Schuster
DRAMATIC READER
AND TEACHER OF
Elocution, Physical Culture
and Delsarte,
811 Scott St. - - COVINGTON, KY.
Class for young Ladies and Gentlemen at Union, Ky., every Saturday—10 to 11 a. m. Send for Terms.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
—DRUGGIST,—
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

NO :: LONGER
—AT ERLANGER.—
DR. WALLACE GILLHAM,
—THE DENTIST,—
who has been coming to Erlanger on Tuesdays of each week, has discontinued his office there, but will continue to do
First Class Dental Work of
All kinds at his
COVINGTON - OFFICE,
1421 Madison Ave. (next door to the Children's Home),
He also has all the latest and best facilities for administering
Gas, Vitalized Air, or Local Anæsthetics for Extracting Teeth.
You are refered to the following reliable references of your own community:
Dr. C. R. Slater, Dr. C. W. McCullum, Mrs. Cal Riggs, Mrs. Mattie Hoover, Mrs. Rev. M. M. Hiner, Mrs. Rev. O. M. Huey, Mr. Ira Aylor, Erlanger; Miss Sallie Snyder, Miss Sallie Stephens, Florence.

Andy Scheben,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
WINES, LIQUORS
AND BRANDY,
Old Bourbon, $2.00 Per Gallon.
Lexington Pike,
ERLANGER, - - - KY.
Near Town Hall.

For Sale or Rent.
96 acres of river bottom land, opposite Lawrenceburg, Ind., in good state of cultivation. J. C. REVILL, Burlington, Ky.

18 SPRING AND SUMMER 96
MILLINERY
All the Latest Ideas in Spring and Summer
MILLINERY
Will always be found at our Store.
Ladies', Misses' and Children's Patterns..............................
HATS & BONNETS of artistic designs and from our own work rooms—Stock up to date. Hats trimmed to order on short notice.
Prices Lower Than Ever.
You will find everything usually kept in a first-class
MILLINERY STORE.
Everything new in this season's goods.
Our trimmers are of the best.
Your patronage is solicited.
Mrs. A. J. SWALLOW,
Main St., RISING SUN, IND.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY
should take a policy at once.
J. S. HUEY, President, Grant, Ky.
OSCAR GAINES, Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
Executive Board—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. Cowen, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. Rogers, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections.
Office—In residence near post-office.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY,
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

H. S. STEVENSON,
DENTIST,
Anæsthetics used for painless operating. Plates $8 and $10; other work accordingly. Satisfaction guaranteed in all cases.
Main Office—South side Main St.
Rising Sun, Indiana.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL.
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by maill promptly attended to.

G. G. Hughes. D. E. Castleman.
HUGHES & CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEYS - AT - LAW
Burlington, Ky.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to them.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

W. E. Vest. B. L. Rice.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
All communications addressed to W. E. Vest, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
Capital, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 17,000
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations, Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates.

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK
(Incorporated 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
Capital paid in.................. $50,000
Surplus,............................ $ 2,600
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

Prices Reduced!
1 gal. 4 year old Bourbon Whisky, reduced from $3.50 at $3.00
1 gal. 2 year old Bourbon Whisky reduced from $2.00 at $1.75
1 gal. 4 year old Rye Whisky at reduced from $3.50. $3.00
At KASTNER'S,
Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : : KY.

CURRENT TOPICS.

BOSTON has paid $13,309,240 for parks.

THE Alabama Negroes are registering in droves.

NEW YORK has an orchestra of left hand fiddlers.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., is to have a bicycle factory.

MRS. ANNIE BESANT is on her way home from India.

PENSACOLA, Fla., is to have an electric railway system.

A great auk's egg was sold in London April 21 for 160 guineas.

OWEN WISTER, the popular story writer, is a grandson of Fanny Kemble.

THE Minnesota farmers have over 50 different ways of spelling "chinch bug."

NEARLY 20,000 families in Paris have their house rent paid by the municipality.

MR. GLADSTONE is under pledge to his physicians never to make another speech.

SIR ELLIS ASHMEAD-BARTLETT, an ex-American, is watchdog of the British treasury.

A GRAND HAVEN grocer gives away a bushel of potatoes with each $2 order of groceries.

NINETY-FIVE PER CENT of the inhabitants of Cartersville, Ga., are members of the church.

BLACK servants are becoming quite fashionable as body servants in London society upper circles.

IT is reporsed that gold ore yielding $400 to the ton is being produced in Nacoochee county, Ga.

SINCE 1890 the late Baron Hirsch's expenditures for charity amounted to about $15,000,000 a year.

A BERLIN newspaper has published a long article warning Germans from emigrating to the United States.

THE suicide of Henry E. Champlin in Colchester, Ct., is the third suicide in a single family in that town within a year.

THE manufacture of India ink is a jealously and successfully guarded secret of the Chinese, who make it from burned camphor.

WEB LLOYD, of Richmond, Mo., has been sent to the penitentiary for one year and one day for passing one counterfeit silver dollar.

IN San Francisco a syndicate, capitalized at $1,000,000, [illegible] been formed to deal in torpedoes, ships, explosives and other concerns of war.

IN Northampton, Mass., the percentage of female to male population is 55.61. An old bachelor can go down there and find an elysium.

THERE is said to be a "hell's half acre" in Southern California 40 miles square, in which every rod has a boiling spring or a spouting geyser.

THE first wool sold at Sturgis, Mich., this season was a lot of 20,000 pounds held over from last year. It was sold at $10.60 per 100 pounds.

DURING last month 3,315 immigrants arrived at the river Platte and 3,000 more are expected to arrive. The total arrivals this year have been 18,500.

BISMARCK'S judgment of "Oom Paul" seems to be justified. Years ago he said that President Kruger was the greatest statesman he had ever met.

AN annual pass is the prize offered by the Pennsylvania railroad to the farmer on its route who is most successful in beautifying his grounds adjoining the line.

KENTUCKY has a colored new woman who is a bricklayer and a stone mason. There is also a white woman in that state who, though 77 years old, shears her own sheep.

WILLIAM LEE, who applied for admission to the Soldiers' home at Lincoln, Neb., has confessed to having drawn a pension for years by impersonating his brother.

COUNT TOLSTOI, who went among the bicyclists last year, aged 67 recently applied at Moscow for the permit which wheelmen need who wish to reside within the city lines.

LONDON is indulging in a craze for bicycle shares. The Dunlop Pneumatic Tire company has been organized with a capital of £4,000,000, and several dukes among its directors.

SKATES of glass have been invented and are expected to replace the old steel skates entirely. They are said to be better speed makers and to run almost as easily over rough as over smooth ice.

THOSE conversant with the seed oyster business in Connecticut say that the season which is now at its height is the best for the last five years. It is estimated that 1,000,000 of Connecticut seed oysters will be sold.

IT is said that Prince Helkoff, who is minister of ways and has charge of all the Russian imperial railroads, and who served an apprenticeship in a machine shop, at one time worked at boiler-making in Philadelphia.

Two moonshiners who are in jail at Macon, Ga., are anxious to plant their crops. They promise to return and serve out their sentences as soon as their work is finished. The federal judge is considering the matter.

IT is said that one-tenth of the population of England suffers from gout. Dr. Fehlauer, a Berlin physician, attributes this to the excessive consumption of meat, and recommends a more restricted or vegetarian diet.

THE Texas cotton acreage this year is 20.8 per cent. greater than it was last season. Of this it is possible that new land will reach three per cent., as much colonization has been going on in Texas since the last cotton crop was planted.

THE widow of Admiral Ting has committed suicide on the anniversary of her husband's death. It may be remembered that he killed himself after the surrender of his flagship at Wei Hai-Wei in February of last year, and his widow's suicide will be regarded in China as a very fitting and respectful way of showing attachment to his memory.

BIG BATTLESHIP

Oregon Given a Speed Trial at San Francisco, Cal.

The Vessel Made 17.34 Knots Per Hour for Two Miles on the Up Run—Weather Was Perfect, Scarcely a Ripple on the Channel Being Visible.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., May 15.—The new battleship Oregon, built by the Union iron works, of San Francisco, made her trial on Santa Barbara channel Thursday. The big ship made an average of 16.78 knots, beating all records. She made 17.34 knots for two miles on the up run, and her average west was 17.08 knots per hour. On the down run east 16.64 knots, the average for the round trip being 16.78. The weather was perfect, with scarcely a ripple on the channel. At 6:15 a. m. the big battleship got under way and headed for Point Goleta. The engines were gradually opened up and passing the Santa Barbara wharf, the Oregon was going like a deerhound and passing the scratch line, she was beating 16½ knots. Between the stake boats Unadilla and the Gedney there was a ten-mile cruise, and in covering that the big battleship increased instead of diminishing her speed. At times the patent log showed speed better than 17 knots. Passing the Gedney, Capt. Goodale steered the battleship closer to the kelp than ever he steered any of the cruisers and so escaped some of the remaining swell.

Eventually with one big burst of speed, the Oregon passed the McArthur on the western range near Point Conception. While the long turn was being made at full speed, the run was worked out and 17.8 knots an hour was announced.

From Gaviota Point to Point Conception the swell had been heavy, but when the Oregon was headed for the McArthur the second time it was at once seen that both wind and swell had increased, and in consequence sea after sea broke over her bows. It was a hard battle to Gaviota Point, and had it not been for that ten-mile stretch through a heavy swell, the Oregone would surely have beaten 17 knots. From that point to where the Unadilla was stationed the work was easy, but when the result was figured out it was found that the battleship had only averaged 16.49 knots.

THE EXHIBITS

At the Southern States Exposition to Be Held in Chicago.

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 15.—The organization of exhibits for the Southern states exposition at Chicago is proceeding rapidly. The following general exhibits have been decided upon, to show the products of the entire south:

Forest Products—In charge of Prof. B. E. Fernow, chief of division of forestry, United States agricultural department.

Mineral Products—In charge of Dr. David T. Day, United States geological survey.

Fibers—Probably in charge of C. R. Dodge, of United States agricultural department.

Each of the foregoing will occupy at least 10,000 square feet. A great feature will be made of cotton, cotton products and processes of manufacture which [illegible] require about 20,000 square feet. It will comprise the earliest and most improved machinery and every variety of cotton fabric. It is expected that this department will be under the direction of a widely known expert and prominent inventor of cotton machinery. The tobacco section will be planned under the advice of Dr. H. B. Battle, director of the United States experiment station, Raleigh, N. C., and Prof. C. F. Vanderford, secretary United States experiment station, Knoxville, Tenn., both of whom are eminent authorities on tobacco culture.

International Coins.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The house committee on coinage, weights and measures Thursday ordered a favorable report on the joint resolution of Mr. Charles W. Stone, of Pennsylvania, authorizing preliminary proceedings, looking to the adoption of international coins. The president is authorized to solicit an expression of opinion from the commercial nations of the world as to the feasibility of international coins of uniform value, and if the results are favorable to invite an international conference on the subject.

Of Importance to Grain Men.

CHICAGO, May 15.—The appellate court of the state Thursday handed down a decision in the suit brought by seven leading grain elevator men and corporations against the railroad and warehouse commission of the state which had revoked their license on the ground that they had violated the law as to public warehousing. The circuit court ordered the action cancelling the licenses quashed and the appellate court affirms that judgment.

A Horrible Death.

QUINCY, Ill., May 15.—Wm. Mansfeldt, aged 18, accidentally got his arm caught in a belt at the Electric wheel works Thursday. The wheel turned by the belt was making 250 revolutions a minute and the lad was carried with it fully a minute before the arm was torn from the body, which fell to the floor. At each revolution he struck the ceiling, knocking a hole through it. Mansfeldt died two hours later. Nearly every bone in his body was broken.

Fought It Out With Rifles.

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 15.—Thos. Ingram and John Pine, farmers living near Greenville, agreed to fight out a land title quarrel and met on the highway with rifles. They began firing at the same moment. Pine was shot four times and killed. Ingram was shot twice, one ball penetrating his body and inflicting a fatal wound.

Another Bicycle Record.

LONDON, May 15.—At Woodgreen Thursday, Chase, the bicyclist, rode 50 miles in one hour, 45 minutes, 38 3-5 seconds, the fastest recorded time for the distance.

BUSINESS REVIEW.

Increase in the Number of Business Failures—An Attempt to Manufacture Excitement in Cotton Out of Government Reports.

NEW YORK, May 16.—R. G. Dun & Co. says Saturday:

Failures for the week have been 224 in the United States, against 211 last year, and 33 in Canada, against 37 last year.

It is now the middle of May, too late for business to change materially until the prospects of coming crops are assured and definite shape has been given to the presidential contest by the conventions. Until the future is more clear there is a prudent disinclination to produce much beyond orders or so order beyond immediate and certain needs. If this waiting spirit prevails two months longer, it will crowd into the last half of the year an enormous business if the outlook then is good. For the present there is less business than a year ago, though in some branches more and the delay following months of depression is to many trying and causes numerous failures.

An attempt was made to manufacture [illegible] in cotton out of the government report, but the price closed exactly as it began, the week and the port receipts have been actually larger than last year. All current arguments based on the assumption that the quantity used in manufacture has been or is now at a maximum rate are disproved by the closing of many mills for want of demand, and the general effort to reduce wages which have caused some strikes.

The most fortunate of the chief industries at present is the boot and shoe manufacture, which is not only shipping to customers within six per cent. of the largest number of cases ever forwarded in the first half of May, but is getting many new orders, and there are many urgent requests to anticipate orders for June and July delivery indicating that distribution to consumers has outrun expectations. Prices are unchanged at the lowest average yet reached, but there is a rather rapid advance in hides at Chicago and leather begins to stiffen a little. The iron and steel industry on the other hand is pronounced as dull as it ever has been in its whole history at Pittsburgh, in part because of doubt about the maintenance of prices recently advanced and the demand is so small that in spite of such advance prices average 1.2 per cent. lower for the week.

Textile mills are not yet gaining. Enormous bargain sales of cotton dress goods and of ready-made woolen clothing have hindered orders at any price which the mills can afford to take, and must have partly supplied the needs of consumers. For some cotton goods a more active demand appears and low grade bleached are an eighth higher, but Lonsdale and Fruit of Loom 4 by 4 goods are cut to 6¼ and sold stocks of many kinds are heavy.

THE MEMPHIS SHOOT.

A Sensational Score Made by J. A. R. Elliott, of Kansas City, Mo.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 16.—Friday was final day of inanimate target shooting of the Memphis Gun club's tournament. The weather was perfect and high scores were made. Saturday the live bird handicap will conclude the shoot. Director Elmer E. Shaner disqualified J. P. Easton, of Monroeville, O., after the first event on the charge of dropping for third money, which Easton admitted. The sensational score was made by J. A. R. Elliott, of Kansas City, who broke 162 out of 165. Terry Woodward, of Massachusetts, again was a high man, breaking 160 out of 165. Rolla Heikes, of Dayton, O., continued the good form shown Thursday, and scored 157 out of 165. F. Parmelee, of Omaha, broke 161 out of 165, finishing next to Elliott. The other shooters finished with high averages.

CAISSON BREAKS.

The Rush of Water Swept Vessels in the Docks From Their Moorings—Damage Enormous.

HULL, May 16.—A caisson of the new extension of St. Andrew's fish dock here broke suddenly Friday, and the rush of water swept every vessel in the docks from their mooring and jammed them into a hopeless mass of wreckage.

The damage is estimated to amount to $500,000 and it is feared there has been serious loss of life.

Later in the day it was ascertained that no loss of life resulted from the breaking of the caisson and the wreckage of vessels which followed the accident.

The American Protective Association.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—At Friday morning's session of the A. P. A. the report of the committee on agitation and education was adopted. It expressed the committee's belief that agitation without education was dangerous and that a bureau ought to be established for disseminating information. It also recommended that the Junior A. P. A. be placed under the control of the Women's A. P. A., and presented an opinion that all property in the United States, except that owned by national, state and municipal governments, ought to be taxed.

Brakeman Crushed to Death.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., May 16.—M. L. Anderson, a freight brakeman on the Louisville and Nashville railroad, fell from his train near this city Friday morning and was crushed to death.

The Harry Wright Fund.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—A check received here Friday by the Harry Wright monument fund committee from John T. Brush for $309, the proceeds of the benefit game at Rockford, Ill., makes the total amount returned to date for the fund $3,171.

Dupont Unseated.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The senate voted—yeas 31, nays 30—that Mr. Dupont is not entitled to the vacant seat in the senate from the state of Delaware. All the populists voted with the democrats against Dupont except Jones (Nev.), and he was paired against him.

CROP REPORTS.

Chinch Bugs Damaging Wheat and Oats in Central Illinois.

Drought Injuring All Crops in Kentucky, Especially in Eastern and Central Counties—Indiana Tobacco in Bad Condition—Ohio Wheat Improving.

CHICAGO, May 13.—The reports as to the condition of the crops throughout the country, the general effect of the weather on the growth, cultivation and harvest of same were Tuesday made by the directors of the several crop sections. The reports received at Chicago were as follows:

The week has been generally favorable for farm work in the districts east of the Rocky mountains. Rain is needed to a more or less extent over the greater portion of the central and lower Mississippi and Ohio valleys. Winter wheat is in less promising condition than previously reported in Arkansas, Missouri, southern Illinois and Kentucky. In Indiana, Illinois and Kansas wheat is beginning to head but has made slow growth and needs [illegible] and sunshine.

Illinois—A dry, hot week, which, with chinch bugs increasing, was unfavorable for wheat and oats in the central section; few fields plowed up; more favorable in northern and southern sections. Wheat and rye are heading; the latter is fine in northern counties. Corn, mostly planted early, is coming up, slightly damaged by cut worms. Potatoes, gardens and grasses are generally good. Fruits are dropping badly.

Kentucky—Generally clear, excessively hot and dry. Drought injuring all crops, especially those in central and eastern counties. Wheat has retrograded and is heading out short. Oats, clover and grasses are drying up. Tobacco setting has retarded. Much complaint of damage from cut worms.

Indiana—Hot, sunny weather prevailed with few local showers in northern portion only. Tobacco beds in bad condition and crops in southern portion suffering. Wheat, barley, rye and blue grass heading. Crops in northern portion are in good condition.

Ohio—Dry, warm, sunny weather. Potatoes and corn are up, and some corn is being cultivated. Oats, grass, gardens and fruits are doing well. Corn-planting and oats-seeding well advanced. Wheat has improved, but on clay soil is thin and spotted.

TWO CYCLONES

Visits the Towns of Elkhorn and Bennington, Neb.—Communication Practically Shut Off.

OMAHA, Neb., May 13.—Two separate and distinctive cyclones visited the towns of Elkhorn and Bennington, in this county, late Tuesday afternoon; and, owing to the fact that communication is practically shut off, it is impossible to determine to what extent damage was done; but no loss of life has so far been reported. The funnel-shaped clouds appeared between the hours of three and five o'clock, following each other with only a short interval. The path of the tornadoes were only about six hundred feet in width, but were swept clean, the wind cutting through groves of large trees and tearing them up by the roots. Farm houses were demolished and loss of stock was heavy. B. A. Johnson, of Omaha, was driving a team and leading another team. The wind made kindling wood of his carriage and tore the harness off the horses and stripped him of most of his clothing. He escaped with severe bruises. Dispatches from Crete state that a small cyclone visited that section of the country and did great damage to buildings. In Omaha traffic was at a standstill for over two hours and the streets ran great rivers of water. Lightning struck Cudahy's packing house at South Omaha.

Terrible Tragedy at Columbus, Ga.

COLUMBUS, Ga., May 13.—A terrible tragedy was enacted on the streets here Tuesday afternoon, in which Walter Wright, a young man 21 years old, avenged an insult offered his sister by Dr. J. T. Blackwell. Blackwell, it is said, made improper propositions to Miss Wright a few days ago and Tuesday was the first time her brother had seen Blackwell since. Wright emptied the contents of a five-chambered 41 calibre Colt's revolver into Blackwell's body. The latter fell upon the sidewalk and died almost instantly.

Acquitted of the Charge.

CHICAGO, May 13.—County Commissioner T. J. McNichols was acquitted of the charge of receiving a bribe of $1,200 to prevent the indictment of a murderer in Judge Freeman's court Tuesday evening, the court taking the case from the jury before the state had concluded. The case created a sensation because Judge Payne made the charges in connection with a denunciation of the county board's method of getting grand and petit jurors.

Looking for the Laurada.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Instructions were sent by telegraph Tuesday to the several collectors of customs along the Atlantic seacoast to look out for the steamer Laurada, supposed to be engaged in a filibustering expedition to Cuba, and if she is found to be violating the neutrality laws to seize her. These instructions were sent out on information filed at the state department by the Spanish minister, Senor De Lome.

Silver Men in the Majority.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Mr. Morrill, chairman of the committee on finance appointed the following sub-committee to investigate the bond sales: Messrs. Harris (dem.) chairman; West and Walthall (dems.); Jones (Nev., pop.), and Platt (rep). The majority of the committee is democratic and four-fifths of it free silver. A favorable report was ordered on the filled cheese bill.

The Cholera in Alexandria.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, May 13.—There were 28 new cases of cholera in this city Monday and 23 deaths from the disease.

TERRIBLE CYCLONE.

Part of Sherman, Tex., Destroyed—Some Sixty Lives Lost and a Large Amount of Property Damaged.

DENISON, Tex., May 16.—The city of Sherman was visited by the worst cyclone in the history of northern Texas about five o'clock Friday evening. The path of the destroyer was 150 yards wide. It struck the city at the west end of Post Oak creek and swept in a westerly direction for several blocks and then spread and spent its force. The track of the cyclone is a gruesome sight, the devastation being complete, houses, trees, fences, in fact everything in its pathway destroyed. The loss of life will probably reach one hundred with as many more bruised and wounded. The city hall and a vacant store room have been turned into temporary hospitals and 13 bruised, mangled and mutilated bodies are awaiting identification. At these two places at this writing nearly every house in Fairview addition has been turned into a hospital.

SHERMAN, Tex., May 16.—A terrific cyclone struck this city at half past four Friday afternoon, killing many people and doing great damage to property. The number of people [illegible] is not known, but it is reported all the way from 15 to 75. There is much excitement and great confusion, and it will be morning before a list of the killed and injured can be obtained.

A game of ball between the San Antonio teams was in progress when the cyclone struck them. The grand stand was destroyed and it is believed several players on each team were killed, together with many spectators.

Later—The dead may number 70 or 80 and the injured 100 more. Death and desolation held sway Friday night over a country of happy homes and pleasant firesides on which the sun rose Friday morning. Every town and hamlet in the path of the whirling monster is in ruins, its buildings and their occupants torn to pieces and scattered over the wide plain.

At Howe, Tex., eight persons were killed and many injured. Four were killed at Denton, and five or six at Gribble Springs. At Justin 20 houses were blown down and W. I. Evans, of Kellar, Tex., killed. Seventeen were injured.

At 12:30 ten bodies were brought in from Wakefield farm, three miles southwest of the town, five of whom were named Pierce. One of the bodies not identified is that of a lady, who must have been blown a mile. One mile southwest of town a child was found in a tree. It is not known whence it came.

DENTON, Tex., May 16.—A cyclone struck the town of Gribble Springs, eight miles north of Denton, Friday afternoon. Four persons were killed and five others so badly injured they can not live. The property damage is great.

HOWE, Tex., May 16.—Friday's terrible cyclone struck this town. The path of the cyclone at this point was a quarter of a mile wide. Eight persons were killed outright and many injured.

A PROCLAMATION

Issued to the Farmers and Peasantry of Cuba by Capt. Gen. Weyler.

HAVANA, May 16.—Capt. Gen. Weyler has issued a proclamation ordering the farmers and peasantry during the next twenty days to transport to the towns in their vicinity all of the corn and other grains stored upon their farms. This order applies to the provinces of Pinar del Rio, Havana and Matanzas. The military quartermasters are authorized by this order to purchase the grain sent to the towns by the farmers at the current price and if the grain is not required by the government, it will be stored for the account of its owners. After the period of 20 days has elapsed, the proclamation declares, any grain found upon farms in the provinces mentioned will be regarded as contraband of war, and will be seized and the owners thereof subjected to criminal proceedings.

The rebel leader, Manuel Romero, was shot Friday morning at Cienfuegos.

Secretary Carlisle Makes Another Call.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Secretary Carlisle has made another call on the depository banks in New York to pay into the treasury about $4,000,000 held by them of the recent bond money. This amount is called to be paid in by June 1. This will leave of the money deposited in the banks designated on account of the bond issue still $4,000,000 and this will be called for by June 15, the date of the last payment due on the bond issue, so that the whole transaction as between the banks and the treasury may be closed by that time.

A Double Tragedy.

HOPKINS, Mo., May 16.—Charles Ulmer, whose wife is suing him for a divorce, had a conference with his wife and Bailey Dawes and Ulysses Suther, the two latter trying to arrange a peaceful separation. Ulmer, who was intoxicated, began shooting. Both Dawes and Suther were killed. Ulmer fled to his brother's house, and for three hours kept constables at bay, but finally surrendered.

Malignant Diphtheria.

BOWLING GREEN, O., May 16.—There is much excitement in the village of Luckey, this county, on account of diphtheria of a malignant type raging. Two deaths have resulted. The public schools are closed.

Nominated by the President.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The president Friday sent to the senate the following nominations: John Fowler, of Massachusetts, to be consul of the United States at Che Foo, China. Robert Lee Jenkins, of North Carolina, to be consul of the United States at Patras, Greece.

More Troops for Cuba in the Fall.

MADRID, May 16.—It was stated Friday that the military expedition that will be dispatched to Cuba in September will probably number 60,000 men instead of the 20,000 first decided upon.

Summer Homes.

In the Lake regions of Wisconsin, Northern Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa and Dakota, there are hundreds of charming localities pre-eminently fitted for summer homes. Nearly all are located on or near lakes which have not been fished out. These resorts are easily reached by railway and range in variety from the "full dress for dinner" to the flannel-shirt costume for every meal. Among the list are names familiar to many of our readers as the perfection of Northern summer resorts. Nearly all of the Wisconsin points of interest are within a short distance from Chicago or Milwaukee, and none of them are so far away from the "busy marts of civilization" that they cannot be reached in a few hours of travel, by frequent trains, over the finest road in the northwest—the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway. A description of the principal resorts, with list of summer hotels and boarding houses, and rates for board, will be sent free on application to GEO. H. HEAFFORD, General Passenger Agent, Chicago.

NOT IN RANGE.—"Is anything known of the prisoner or his habits?" Officer—"Nothing, your honor. He lives opposite the police station."—Judy.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

ROUGH winds do shake the darling buds of May.—Shakespeare.

A THING is never too often repeated which is never sufficiently learned.—Seneca.

Boils

It is often difficult to convince people their blood is impure, until dreadful carbuncles, abscesses, boils, scrofula or salt rheum, are painful proof of the fact. It is wisdom, now, or whenever there is any indication of blood, to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and prevent such eruptions and suffering.

Impure

"I had a dreadful carbuncle abscess, red, fiery, fierce and sore. The doctor attended me over seven weeks. When the abscess broke, the pains were terrible, and I thought I should not live through it. I heard and read so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I decided to take it, and my husband, who was suffering with boils, took it also. It soon purified our built me up and restored my health so that, although the doctor said I would not be able to work hard, I have since done the work for 20 people. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured my husband of the boils, and we regard it a wonderful medicine." MRS. ANNA PETERSON, Latimer, Kansas.

Blood

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1.

Hood's Pills cure liver ills, easy to take, easy to operate. 25 cents.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, of ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor.) He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

A SHINING EXAMPLE of what may be accomplished by never varying devotion to a single purpose is seen in the history of the McCormick Harvesting Machine Co., Chicago. For 65 years they have simply been building grain and grass-cutting machinery, and while there are probably forty manufacturers in this line, it is safe to say that the McCormick Company builds one-third of all the binders, reapers and mowers used throughout the entire world.

LATEST and BEST WELL DRILLING MACHINES

100 feet to 2000 ft.

LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

You are bound to succeed in making HIRES Rootbeer if you follow the simple directions. Easy to make, delightful to take.

Made only by The Charles E. Hires Co., Philadelphia. A 25c. package makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere.

FOUND GUILTY.

The Jury in the Scott Jackson Murder Case Returns a Verdict.

When the Result of Their Deliberations Were Made Known Jackson Never Changed a Muscle—Attorney Crawford Moves for a New Trial—Motion Will be Heard May 23.

NEWPORT, Ky., May 12.—Judge Helm's court opened at the usual hour Monday morning.

After the routine business was disposed of by the judge the fourth week of the murder trial began by Judge Helm ordering the jury brought into the courtroom. Judge Helm read the instructions to the jury, who wheeled about in their chairs and faced the court.

If the jury finds that Scott Jackson cut the throat of Pearl Bryan and she died from the result, they will bring in a verdict of murder. If they believe that Alonzo Walling did the [illegible] and the defendant was present and abetted in the crime, they will find Scott Jackson guilty of murder.

If the jury believe from the evidence that the defendant attempted, or aided, or abetted or counseled, or procured another to attempt the murder, but that she was not thereby killed, but believing her dead, for whatsoever purpose cut her throat, the jury shall find him guilty of murder; or if he attempted to kill and Alonzo Walling did the throat-cutting, they should find him guilty of murder. If Jackson conspired to produce an abortion, and believing the girl was thereby killed and her throat afterward cut, it was murder; or if the girl was killed by Jackson in sudden heat or passion, or sudden affray, it was murder; or Walling did the killing and Jackson abetted, it was murder.

If the jury believes that Scott Jackson willfully, but not with malice, administered, or aided or abetted, counseled, or procured another to administer a drug to produce an abortion, but were not necessarily dangerous to her life, and there was no intent on the part of Jackson to seriously injure the girl, but believing that said Pearl Bryan had been thereby killed, for whatever purpose, cut her throat with a knife or other sharp instrument so that she did then and there and because thereof die, they will find the said Scott Jackson guilty of voluntary manslaughter.

Or if he cut her throat, believing her to be dead, and did not do so, intending thereby to kill, but for the purpose of concealing her identity, they will find him guilty of involuntary manslaughter, unless they also believe from all the evidence that said Scott Jackson had attempted to or aided or abetted, counseled or procured another to kill her, or had himself administered, or aided, or abetted, counseled, or procured another to administer a drug or drugs to her for the purpose of procuring an abortion, and because thereof believed her to be dead, in which event they will find as elsewhere instructed.

If the jury find the defendant guilty of one or the other of the crimes to which they have been instructed, but entertain a reasonable doubt as to which one, they will find him guilty of the lesser crime.

If the jury entertain a reasonable doubt of the defendant having been proven guilty, they will acquit him.

If the jury find that the defendant, Scott Jackson, guilty of murder they will fix his punishment at death or confinement in the penitentiary for life, in their discretion, governed by the proof.

If the jury find the defendant Scott Jackson, guilty of voluntary manslaughter, they will fix his punishment at confinement in the penitentiary for not less than two nor more than 21 years, in their discretion, governed by the proof.

If the jury find the defendant, Scott Jackson, guilty of involuntary manslaughter, they will fix his punishment by a fine in any amount or imprisonment in the county jail for any length of time, either or both; in their discretion, governed by the proof.

Col. Nelson then arose and addressed the jury for the commonwealth. He gave the defendant a terrible scoring. There were no words too bitter for the gifted attorney to utter in court. "The dead girl looked upon him as a God but he proved to be a demon."

Col. Nelson said he had no personal animosity for the prisoner at the bar: he had never known him. "I offer here my sympathy for his sister and mother, but the murderer of Pearl Bryan must pay the penalty. We want punishment for a brute who not only murdered an unsuspecting girl, but butchered her and threw her body like a dog's on the public highway. I tell you I will not be satisfied, the commonwealth will not be satisfied, the civilized world that has watched this case will not be satisfied if you do not find this brute guilty of murder and sentence him to be hanged by the neck until dead, dead, dead!

NEWPORT, Ky., May 13.—Just before the time of opening court Tuesday morning Mrs. Jackson, mother of the prisoner, leaning on the arm of her daughter, Mrs. Post, came in and took an easy chair reserved for her. Mrs. Dr. Lewis was in the party and they all took seats about the prisoner's chair. Jackson was brought in a moment later and court was called to order. The jury filed in and there was a short delay caused by the non-appearance of Col. Crawford.

At 9:40 Col. Crawford entered the courtroom and at once began his argument. In substance he said:

"Gentlemen of the jury, I am here today, after listening to the evidence, to say what I can for this unhappy student, who is now entangled in the clutches of the law. When the police force of the city of Cincinnati judge a man guilty they make him out guilty. I tell you that Scott Jackson was adjudged guilty by Plummer, Crim and McDermott at Greencastle on the 5th of February.

"I do not question the testimony of Mayor Caldwell or Crim or McDermott or Plummer, they were telling the truth. I did not cross-examine the parents of the dead girl. I have the greatest respect and the greatest sympathy for them, my heart goes out to them in their sorrow, but, gentlemen of the jury, there are two sides to this question. We have here the mother and sister of this unfortunate man: this man who is a victim of a most dastardly persecution at the hands of a relentless police.

"I tell you the persecution this man was subjected to was outrageous. Think of the sweating process he was subjected to, of the long days and sleepless nights, without having a chance to remove his clothing. He was subjected to a steady fire of questions by police, newspaper men, and the hundreds of visitors. The Spanish inquisition pales into insignificance.

"They talk about Jackson's brazen manner, but have you seen any brazenness, any posing, any affectation, any impudence? No, sir, you have not. Where in the evidence of mental distress? Why, when he was being traduced and cursed and insulted and called a vile murderer, when the bloody evidence was thrown into his face, he sat there a dignified man, an unaffected gentleman. Could a guilty man do that? No, sir, it was a mind free from guilt that was not affected by that spectacular show. Why, that was the filling in this case: it was slop and nonsense. At the very beginning of this case I was willing to admit that the clothing in court was that of Pearl Bryan, but they dragged the heartbroken mother in and made her go over the ghastly clothing of her murdered daughter, they called the aged father and the sister to the stand, and the neighbors, too, to go through this spectacular scene. I was willing to spare them all this, but no, the desire of the prosecution for the spectacular, their desire for notoriety, their desire to play to the grand stand, made them resort to this rot. Then, in his argument, Col. Nelson says that this archfiend went to Greencastle and then ruined, then murdered then robbed Pearl Bryan.'

"Why, Scott Jackson came to Greencastle in the holidays of '94-'95, when he met Pearl Bryan. Did he go out there for the purpose of dissipation, did he go out there to loaf? No, sir, he went there to work and earn his living, and he worked in the office of Dr. Gillespie that spring and summer. And what was his reputation? Not a witness said it was bad: not one person came here and said his reputation was questionable, but many came and testified that his reputation was good; that it was good morally; that it was good in regard to veracity and truthfulness."

Col. Crawford then read one of the letters Jackson wrote Pearl Bryan.

"I want to say here that I don't blame the newspaper boys and the newspapers for printing the stories given them by the police and the prosecution. I tell you the prosecution's case was on dress parade. The defense could not give to the public what it intended to prove, what witnesses had to say. Why, if it had been given out these witnesses would have been pounced upon by the police and bullied into submission. The power of the police is unlimited. They go to a person and say, in all their power, 'You swear this and you swear that, you know that you know it.' What did they do? Why, they gave a lot of ignorant Negroes to understand that they must come over here and swear that the statements they had made to Mr. Collins as a notary public were false.

Col. Crawford then discussed the letters of Jackson to Pearl Bryan, pointing out vividly and eloquently that the communications were entirely free of any mention or suspicion of wrong-doing or even intimate friendly relations between Jackson and Miss Bryan before the Christmas holidays of '95-'96.

NEWPORT, Ky., May 14.—Attorney Crawford on Wednesday morning resumed his attack upon the state's evidence in the Scott Jackson murder trial. His voice was still hoarse from his Tuesday's six hours' speech. Col. Crawford finished a little before noon. He claims the murder of Pearl Bryan is still a mystery, and offers no explanation of the crime, except that his client is not guilty.

The speaker paid [illegible] compliments in a decidedly positive way to expert medical testimony. He read an extract of a lecture by Dr. Draper before the Harvard Medical school, in which expert testimony was characterized as ridiculous and a disgrace to the profession.

The attorney again scored the police of Cincinnati and said: "The police were not able to trace Pearl Bryan after she was seen alive Wednesday before the murder, until her dead body was found at Ft. Thomas," Crawford said. "The clerk of the Albion hotel, now the Princeton, saw the girl with a man, apparently a country merchant, at the hotel on Thursday. She spent the night there.

"But his story did not fit with the theory of the police after they adopted the story of the infernal Negro, Jackson," exclaimed Crawford, "and with every other circumstance that did not fit, it was laid upon the shelf."

Col. Crawford attempted to read from a law book on circumstantial evidence, but was promptly called down by Judge Helm. "You can read no law," said the judge, and the stenographer took down the adverse ruling.

Crawford reviewed the testimony of the different witnesses in his speech, and in conclusion again referred to circumstantial evidence.

"I shall not say anything on the subject," he said, with a look at the judge. "My money is about gone.

"My little boy has the right idea about circumstantial evidence. 'If I had two dogs and a chicken,' he said, 'and I found the chicken dead, I wouldn't know which dog to whip, or whether to whip either one. Something else might have killed the chicken.'"

Col. Crawford finished his plea for the prisoner at 11:47 o'clock. His final appeal was pathetic. "Let this boy go back and be the support to his mother in the declining years which she hoped he would be.

"She has prayed God that if her son is guilty she may die without finding it out. But she believes that she has been spared to hear you 12 men declare him innocent."

The mother of Scott Jackson lay for a moment in her chair as still as death. Her hands began to tremble and her face twitched with anguish. A woman sitting by her leaned forward to fan her.

The final argument in the verbal contest was made by Commonwealth's Attorney Lockhart, who was crowded out of the early part of the case by the examinations of Col. Nelson.

Before he began Mr. Lockhart received a big bouquet of roses from L. D. Poock and wife.

Those who saw the quiet Mr. Lockhart, as he sat day after day on the side of the prosecution, were surprised when they met him in action. There was as much vim in his speech as in that of Col. Nelson, the fiery orator.

He punctuated his speech with emphatic gestures.

"I shall not consume so much time as did the gentleman for the defense," promised Lockhart in beginning.

He discussed Attorney Crawford's abuse, as he called it, of the detectives. "I have never seen more magnificent work," the speaker said, "or work with more satisfactory results."

Col. Lockhart finished at 5:03 and Judge Helm said that on account of a hard day's work the jury would not be given the case until Thursday morning.

He ordered them not to talk about it or think about it any more than possible.

The attorneys were ordered to get all the evidence together, which is to be presented to the jury, and the court adjourned.

NEWPORT, Ky., May 15.—The case of Scott Jackson, charged with the murder of Pearl Bryan, was given to the jury Thursday forenoon.

It was two hours and eleven minutes after they had retired when the jury returned to their seats in the courtroom.

The first premonition of the fact was Sheriff Plummer's warning to every one in the courtroom to find seats. He rapped and spoke peremptorily. There was a scramble for the most available chairs and everybody was seated in half a minute. The sheriff was a shade paler than usual. Scott Jackson looked stolidly before him. The spectators' nerves were set on edge. They felt that the most remarkable criminal trial in history was about to be decided.

Judge Helm was across the street. He was sent for.

"Let no one in unless you have a seat for him," ordered the sheriff to the deputies.

A half-dozen officers of the law sat behind the prisoner. They were to guard him against possible harm.

In a few moments the judge returned. Then all grew intensely still. Everyone was eager to catch every syllable of the verdict. The Bryans, the father and brothers of the murdered girl, were in court. They waited eagerly for the verdict. When this verdict was announced the sheriff was speaking: "Everyone must remain in his seat till the court is adjourned."

Attorney Crawford was cool, but not more so than his client. The clock ticked the dreary moments away and the spectators began to seek relief in low whispers. The space occupied by the jury chairs were cleared.

"Bring the jury in," said the judge.

The jury filed in at 12:04. Murty Shea was foreman.

"Gentlemen of the jury, have you reached a verdict in this case?" asked the judge.

"We have," answered Shea.

The roll was called.

Then the judge said:

"One moment, Mr. Clerk. The spectators will remember that they may not give any sign of approval or disapproval. There are officers among you who will arrest you at the slightest sign.

"Mr. Clerk read the verdict."

It was done by Clerk Reuscher and proved to be as follows:

"We, the jury, find the defendant, Scott Jackson, guilty of the murder of Pearl Bryan and fix the punishment at death."

Despite the stringent instructions of the judge, there was a murmur of approval in the room, and a few even applauded by clapping their hands.

Scott Jackson did not let even an eyelid quiver. He looked just a shade older, but did not give a single sign of emotion.

The clerk then interrogated each of the jurymen: "Is this your verdict?"

To this question each of the 12 men answered: "It is."

"Gentlemen of the jury," Judge Helm said, "I feel it a part of my duty, without expressing an opinion on the justice of the verdict, for I may have to speak of that later, to thank you in the name of court and on behalf of the community for the patience, the uprightness and the honesty with which you have performed the onerous duty which your citizenship brought upon you.

"Again thanking you, I now direct you to retire."

As soon as the judge finished, Attorney Crawford, in a subdued voice, said: "Now, may it please your honor, the code says the jury may be interrogated as to whether it reached its verdict by lot."

Judge Helm asked for a law book.

Attorney Crawford continued: "If you please, it will be one of the grounds for a new trial if the verdict was reached in any other way except by expression of their own candid opinion."

"Gentlemen," the court asked, "was this verdict reached by any other means than deliberation? Was it determined by lot or chance?"

"No, sir, it was not," responded Juror Shea firmly.

The jury was then led back to its room.

Scott Jackson sat with his eyes fixed on a table before him, while his attorney was making his last struggle. There was a strange glitter in his eyes.

Attorney Crawford asked that he have one month in which to make his motion for a new trial.

"I think the motion should be filed within three days," rejoined Attorney Lockhart, for the commonwealth.

Judge Helm did not decide the question at once, but he announced that court would adjourn until two o'clock.

"The defendant will be removed," ordered the court.

Sheriff Plummer ordered the special officers to accompany the jailer with his prisoner, and Scott Jackson left the room, the center of a group of burly deputies who had been sworn in to prevent trouble.

When Jackson reached his cell he showed the first sign of weakening. His face was blanched and pinched and his voice husky. He talked with a lump in his throat. Asked what he thought about the verdict he said that he was very much disappointed and surprised and he said [illegible] a very unjust verdict and not borne out by the facts and the evidence. He claimed that he had established a complete alibi and there was not any single reason why he should be convicted. If the sentence of the jury is carried out he will be hanged in Newport in the rear of the courthouse.

Alonzo Walling on being informed of the verdict said he thought Jackson was guilty and ought to hang.

At the afternoon session Attorney Crawford moved that there be an arrest of judgment on the ground that the indictment did not state facts constituting an offense in that the distinction was not made as to whether Jackson was principal or accessory.

This the court refused to grant and Crawford then moved for a new trial. The motion will be heard on Saturday, May 23.

THE JACKSON TRIAL.

A Heavy Burden on Campbell County Tax Payers—Jackson Can Not Be Hanged Until Fall.

NEWPORT, Ky., May 16.—The cost of the Scott Jackson trial has been a heavy burden upon the tax-payers of Campbell county. The witness fees alone, which have been paid by the court clerk, amount to $610. The jury received $852 for their services, covering the 24 days of the trial. These are the only expenses which appear upon the clerk's books, but the balance of the cost is paid by the courthouse commissioners.

The official stenographer will receive more than $100 for taking the proceedings, besides what is paid for transcripts he may make. The commissioners allowed two extra doorkeepers and an usher at $2.50 a day apiece, costing $180. The money has not been drawn as yet for the other extra deputies.

Sheriff Plummer's personal expenses before the trial and during it are about $500; although nothing has been said, this amount will probably be allowed by the commissioners.

Including the salaries of Judge Helm and all the court officers, the cost of the trial will not fall far short of $4,000.

Scott Jackson can not be hanged until October at the earliest, although every move of his attorney is checkmated by the Kentucky courts. The process of appeal is a necessarily long one and it will insure Jackson a respite of several months, provided that death is the final penalty.

COL. INGERSOLL.

The Noted Unbeliever Agrees With Dr. Quayle That It is Idiotic to Pray for Him.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Col. Robert Ingersoll consented to talk concerning the assertion made by Dr. Quayle, in the Methodist conference at Cleveland, that it was idiotic to pray for him.

"I think Dr. Quayle was right," said he, "when he said that to pray for the conversion of Robert Ingersoll was idiotic. He seems to take the same view of prayer that I do, and to be consistent he ought to stop praying. He ought to tell all his Methodist brethren to stop advising and bothering God, and that over every Methodist pulpit should be painted in large letters, 'To pray for the redemption of anybody is idiotic.'

"Mr. Quayle seems to have the true spirit of his church."

"What do you think of the Methodist's plan for putting God in the constitution?"

"I think that if the fanatics get God in the constitution there will be no room left for man. Our fathers in 1787 retired all the gods from politics and established a secular government in which the power to govern does not come from God from the consent of the governed. Let us keep the aristocracy of the air from governing the land in which we live."

COCKERILL'S REMAINS.

Their Last Resting Place Will Be in St. Louis—Body Will Arrive in New York Saturday.

NEW YORK, May 15.—The body of John A. Cockerill, who died in Cairo recently, will arrive in New York on the steamship Campania, which is expected to reach her dock Saturday morning. On Monday there will be three services over the body, one by the Elks, another by the Masonic fraternity in Scottish Rite hall, and a third in Dr. Macarthy's church. In the afternoon the body will be taken in a special car to Kensico cemetery, and on Tuesday it will be taken from the receiving vault of the cemetery and conveyed in Chauncey M. Depew's private car to St. Louis, where the burial will take place.

Stonemasons Strike.

PITTSBURGH, May 15.—Seven hundred stonemasons in Pittsburgh went on strike Thursday for an advance in wages of from 30 to 38 cents per hour. The strike caused a suspension of work on a number of buildings now in course of erection.

Sues for $20,000.

MASSILLON, O., May 15. — Harry Whistler has sued the Massillon Bridge Co. for $20,000 for injuries sustained in the works on December 31, 1895.

VOTING FOR A BISHOP.

Eight Ballots Taken by the Methodist Conference Without Result.

Congress Requested to Pass a Law Prohibiting the Issuance of Liquor Licenses Where They Have a Prohibitory Law—Important Amendment to the Discipline.

CLEVELAND, O., May 12.—The Methodist general conference put itself on record again on the race question Monday morning by adopting a resolution introduced by Rev. Dr. H. A. Monroe, of Delaware, indorsing the treatment that Cleveland hotels have accorded to all delegates, regardless of color, and demanding that wherever it is decided to hold the conference in the future a guarantee be obtained of equal treatment.

A resolution was referred announcing that the Methodist church recognized no color or caste, and stating that if the conference elected a Negro bishop it was not to be considered class legislation. A request for the holding of the next general conference at Saratoga Springs was received.

Chairman D. H. Moore, of the southern education and freedmen's aid committee, reported a resolution stating that it was the sense of the conference that the name of the society be not changed.

After considerable debate the report was adopted.

The committee on fraternal union of the Methodist churches which was appointed four years ago was requested to report at once. The fact that the standing committees have not reported yet almost brought the conference to a stop. There was no business to be transacted, and a recess was taken. During the recess Rev. Dr. J. B. Graw, of New Jersey, and Rev. Dr. Lanahan, of Baltimore, hatched up a scheme to have the elections occur this week. Accordingly, Dr. Graw moved to reconsider the vote of last week by which May 18 was fixed as election day. Rev. Dr. M. Buckley, of New York, said he thought that next Sunday would be better spent by the delegates if the elections were held this week. He held that the delegates would electioneer on Sunday if the elections were held on Monday. It was decided to commence the elections on Thursday.

CLEVELAND, O., May 13.—Bishop Fowler, of Topeka, Kan., presided at the session of the Methodist general conference Tuesday morning. A resolution asking for the appointment of a constitutional committee to revise the constitution of the church was introduced. It provides for a committee to meet at Chicago, which is to formulate a constitution which will meet the world-wide scope of the church. Referred to the committee on constitution.

Amanda Smith, the famous colored revivalist of the church, was introduced, and was received with hearty applause. She sang "The Lord Will Provide," and being again called to the platform, Bishop Fowler said: "She has just sung for one of the candidates. She will now sing one for the rest of us," which she proceeded to do, though not till after the shouts of laughter caused by the bishop's remarks had died away.

There is relatively little change in the conference situation so far as the candidates for the episcopacy are concerned. The probability of the election of Dr. Hamilton and Dr. Jackson seems to grow apace, and there are many who would be willing to vote Rev. Dr. S. F. Upham, of the New England conference, into one of the chairs.

The anniversary of the Methodist board of church extension was held Tuesday night. Dr. W. A. Spencer, one of the secretaries of the board, told of the growth of the society since its foundation 32 years ago.

He said all debts had been paid off and over $5,550,000 have been raised and paid out for the purpose of church extension. More than 10,000 churches have been built and other thousands aided by the society.

CLEVELAND, O., May 14.—The Methodist conference was opened Wednesday with Bishop Vincent in the chair. The devotional services were conducted by Rev. R. E. Gillum, a colored minister from central Missouri.

The first resolution offered denounced in the strongest terms the Armenian outrages and massacres, and referred to the apathy of the Christian governments of Europe and America. It closed by calling on congress to pass a joint resolution authorizing the president to enter into negotiations with the European powers most directly interested, with the view of interfering and preventing further massacres. The resolution also provided that a copy of the resolutions be sent to both houses of congress. It was referred to the committee on state of the church without discussion.

The proposition to change the time of holding the general conference from May 1 to the first Wednesday in May aroused a discussion on the point of constitutionality of the action. Three-fourths of the annual conferences have approved it, and it was approved by more than two-thirds of the general conference. Dr. Leonard led the opposition, but he was literally buried, as the vote stood 397 yeas and 19 nays. The next general conference will therefore meet on the first Wednesday in Jay, 1900.

A proposition was presented by Rev. L. R. Fisk, of Detroit, to hold the general conference each six years. It was referred to the committee on state of the church.

CLEVELAND, O., May 15.—The general conference of the Methodist church met at 8:30 a. m. Thursday, with Bishop Mallalieu in the chair. It was decided that diplomas from Methodist schools be accepted in lieu of the conference course of study from candidates for the ministry.

The reports of the committee on Episcopacy were presented by Rev. Dr. Buckley.

Report No. 1 recommended the retirement of the senior bishop, Thomas W. Bowman, and of Bishop Randolph S. Foster on account of non-effectiveness. A most impressive scene followed the reading. Bishop Foster arose and amid the almost breathless silence, said that he wished to relieve the conference from any delicacy in acting as their judgments dictated. He asked permission to retire.

"Bishop Bowmen also asked to be retired, as "I have just learned," he said, "that I am non-effective."

Rev. George H. Bridgeman offered a substitute, which provided that Bishop Bowman and Bishop Foster be not retired and that the board of bishops be asked to give them light work. After an exciting debate the bishops were dropped.

Dr. Buckley read report No. 2 from committee on episcopacy. It said that in the selection of bishops there should be no discrimination on account of race and that the time has now come to elect a bishop of African descent.

Rev. Dr. Wilson, of Baltimore, offered the following as substitute for the report: "That in the selection of bishops the delegates should be untrammeled, and therefore the race or nationality of a bishop is not a proper subject for legislation."

The substitute was tabled.

Dr. Buckley read report No. 2 from the committee on episcopacy, which declared that there should be three more bishops selected.

The report was amended by making the number of bishops to be elected to be two instead of three. The report was then adopted.

CLEVELAND, O., May 16.—Bishop Jas. N. Fitzgerald, president of the Epworth league, presided at the session of the Methodist general conference Friday. Fraternal greetings were ordered sent from the conference to the general conference of the Methodist Protestant church, which met at Kansas City Friday.

The order of the day, the election of bishops, was taken up.

Dr. Buckley, of New York, asked unanimous consent that the presiding officer might appoint one of the bishops to offer up a brief prayer, or one of any length, he stammered desperately, as the delegates joined in a general laugh at his expense.

A ballot for bishop was taken. Two-thirds of all the vost cast are necessary to election. The first ballot resulted as follows:

Whole number of votes cast, 521; necessary to choice, 348. At least 50 candidates received votes. J. W. Hamilton received 107; Earl Cranston 115; C. C. McCabe, 141; J. W. E. Bowen, (colored), 147.

The result of the vote was received with great applause. Another ballot was taken. J. B. Grow moved to adjourn to 3 p. m. to receive the report of the tellers. In the midst of much confusion Dr. Buckley intimated that the tellers could not keep the ballot to themselves and moved to amend by making 2:30 p. m. the hour of meeting instead of 3 p. m. Rev. Dr. Leonard said it was disgraceful that the tellers could not be trusted to do their duty. They had been tested and the conference must place confidence in them. It was decided that the conference meet at 2:30 p. m. to receive the result of the last ballot.

The second ballot resulted as follows: C. C. McCabe, 218; J. W. E. Bowen, colored, 175; Earl Cranston, 167; A. W. Hammond, 161. Conceded that C. C. McCabe will be elected, with a struggle between others. Third ballot was taken and will be announced Saturday morning.

CLEVELAND, O., May 18.—The Methodist general conference was called to order Saturday morning by Bishop Joyce, of Chattanooga.

Secretary Monroe announced the result of the third ballot for Bishop as follows: C. C. McCabe, 252; J. W. E. Bowen, 165; Earl Cranston, 191; J. W. Hamilton, 138; H. A. Butts, 153; necessary to choice, 340. The ballot showed a gain for McCabe, Cranston and Butts and a loss for Bowen, the colored man, and J. W. Hamilton, the women's champion. Another ballot was ordered.

A telegram was received announcing the death of Rev. Dr. J. M. Reid, of New York, honorary corresponding secretary of the Methodist Missionary society. He was formerly editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate. Rev. Dr. Kynett said that he had been detained on important conference business, and he asked permission to cast his ballot for bishops.

Rev. Dr. Buckley opposed the request. He said that if there was anybody whom he would be willing to grant so unparalleled a request it was Dr. Kynett, but he would move that Dr. Kynett withdraw his request.

Dr. Kynett did not think his request was without precedent, but if it was he would gladly withdraw it. "It is withdrawn," said Bishop Joyce. Rev. W. J. Martindale, of Kansas, introduced a resolution asking congress to pass a law prohibiting the issuance of licenses for the sale of liquor in the state where they have a prohibitory law. Adopted.

The discipline was so amended that the persons who have been baptized in infancy may be rebaptized if they desire it.

Maj. McKinley visited the conference. He was received with great enthusiasm. The conference rose to its feet and with much waving of handkerchiefs and loud cheering welcomed him.

The fourth ballot for bishops resulted as follows: Whole number votes cast, 512; necessary to choice, 342; C. C. McCabe, 243; Earl Cranston, 214; J. W. E. Bowen, colored, 109; J. W. Hamilton, 141; H. A. Butts, 233; T. B. Neeley, 80.

The conference took the eighth ballot Saturday afternoon and adjourned until Monday. The eighth ballot resulted as follows: Butts, 280; McCabe, 270; Cranston, 263; Hamilton, 100; Bowen, 37.

Two Years in the Pen.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 18.—Dr. John Bailey, a prominent physician of this city, and R. A. Moore a stock dealer from Fayetteville, Tenn., have been given terms of two years each in the state prison for an attempt to perform an abortion on the person of Miss Susie Kate Ferguson, daughter of a merchant of Fayetteville. All the parties interested come from excellent families.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS

First Session.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—SENATE—The senate gave most of Saturday to passing the accumulation of bills on the calendar and succeeded in disposing of a large number of them. The paragraph of the river and harbor bill for a deep-water harbor at Santa Monica bay, California, is still uncompleted. Mr. White of California, finished his speech in opposition and will be followed on Monday by Chairman Frye, of the commerce committee, after which the final vote will be taken, and after that the river and harbor bill will be passed. Mr. Dubois (rep., Ida.) asked immediate consideration for a joint resolution providing that hereafter no bonds shall be issued by any officer until the president has communicated to congress the necessity for the bonds, the amount of the issue, and until congress shall authorize the payment of the bonds issued. Mr. Palmer (Dem., Ill.) reported the bill to pension the widow of Capt. Allabach, recently vetoed by the president, with a recommendation that it pass over the veto.

HOUSE—No business of importance transacted Saturday.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—SENATE—The senate had another copious dose of San Pedro and San Monica Monday. Three of the members of the committee on commerce who opposed the amendment offered by the chairman of the committee, Mr. Frye, designating Santa Monica as the place for a deep sea harbor in California—Senators Berry (Ark.), Vest (Mo.) and Caffrey (La.)—submitted remarks against the amendment, which Mr. Berry described as a most unjustifiable and inexcusable attempt to overrule public sentiment and to appropriate money in the interest of private greed and private gain.

HOUSE—Bills passed: Extending for two years the period within which the Denison & Northern Railroad Co. may build its line through Indian territory; authorizing the Denver, Cripple Creek & Southwestern Railroad Co., to construct its line through the South Platte and Plum Creek forest reservation in Colorado; granting right of way over public lands in Colorado and Wyoming, except Yellowstone Park, for oil pipe lines; authorizing the Flagstaff and Canoa Railroad company to build its line through Grand Canyon forest reservation in Arizona; authorizing the building of bridges over the Red river between Wisconsin and Minnesota, and over the Missouri river at Columbia, Mo., and authorizing the secretary of the treasury to issue and enforce regulations for the safety of passenger excursions at any regatta or yacht race on the navigable waters of the United States.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—SENATE—The animated contest which has proceeded for the last four days in the senate over a deep-water harbor on the southern coast of California was brought to a close Tuesday by a compromise between the conflicting interests. The issue has been between the points of Santa Monica, the terminus of the Southern Pacific, and San Pedro, the locality urged by the California senators. An amendment urged by Mr. Gorman, limiting the expenditure under the contract authorizations to $10,000,000 annually, led to lengthy debate. A motion by Mr. Vest to table the amendment failed—yeas 26, nays 31. An agreement was reached to dispose of the bill by three o'clock Wednesday.

HOUSE—Bills introduced: By Congressman McCreary (Ky.), to pension Mrs. Landram, of Lancaster, Ky., widow of William J. Landram, Nineteenth Kentucky, at $50 per month: to pension Sarah Montgomery, widow of John L. Montgomery, Second Kentucky, Mexican war, at $12 per month.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—SENATE—The rivers and harbors bill was passed Wednesday, leaving only three of the annual appropriation bills to be acted on. These are the District of Columbia bill, the fortifications and the deficiency bill, but before either of them is taken up, the Delaware senatorial election case will have to be disposed of, and to that case Thursday and Friday have been assigned. The amendment which had been offered to the rivers and harbors bill Tuesday by Mr. Gorman, of Maryland, limiting expenditures under the bill to $10,000,000 a year was Wednesday, after a long discussion, laid on the table by a vote of 40 to 23.

HOUSE—The house was mainly occupied Wednesday in the consideration of the Rinaker-Downing contested election case. Mr. Cook (rep., Ill.) resuming his argument in favor of Rinaker. The debate continued until night, though several motions to adjourn were interjected and defeated during the discussion. The debate was participated in by Mr. Lacy (rep., Ill.) in favor of Downing, and Dalzell (rep. Pa.) who gave reasons for not assenting to the report for unseating Mr. Downing. Messrs. Hepburn (rep., Ia.) and Connolly (rep., Ill.) strongly favored the seating of Mr. Rinaker. At 8:20 the house by a vote of 139 to 35, recommitted the case to the committee on elections No. 1, with instructions to recount such parts of the vote deemed proper.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—SENATE—The senate bill to restrict immigration by the application of the illiteracy test was Thursday the occasion of the delivery of two speeches, one against and one for the bill. The increase of bounties on sugar recently proposed in the German reichstag was noticed in the senate Thursday by Mr. Caffery, of Louisiana, in some remarks on a bill providing for an increase of United States duties in that and similar cases. The bill was referred to the committee on finance. Mr. Caffery argued that its passage was necessary in order to prevent the destruction of the sugar industry in the United States. Pension bills on the calendar were then taken up and sixty were passed.

